BRITISH PLUCK. TWO HUSBANDS.

Heroism of Jack Tars on the Sinking Cruiser. Scotch Woman in Trouble About Them in Toronto.

London, May 4.—Yesterday's mild though dismal weather greatly helped the salvage operations at the Gladiator. Divers reported seeing several bodies in the stranded ship, but are still unable to reach them.

A Toronto despatch: Charlotte York, a good-looking little Scotch woman, was in the police court this morning on a charge of bigamy.

"Give her a cheer, boys!" cried a drenched bluejacket who was sticking to the shining greasy hull of the Gladiator as it grounded.

"Look here," said the Magistrate, "you married her a month before your child was born, and you left her about a month afterwards."

"There is," says a German commentator, to-day, a large nobility that immortal question, "What will my Captain say?"

BABY SHOT TO DEATH. New Brunswick Infant Killed by Little Brother.

Sackville, N. B., May 4.—News has come here of a heart-sickening tragedy at Upper Rockport this afternoon, whereby the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tower had the top of her head blown off by the discharge of a gun in the hands of her six-year-old brother.

Tokio, May 4.—Admiral Yoshimatsu, commander of the training squadron, reports that an explosion occurred in the stock magazine of the cruiser Matsushima at 4.08 o'clock this morning while anchoring at Makung, a harbor on the Pescadore Islands.

Efforts at rescue by boats from the cruisers Hashidate and Itatsushima continued until 4 a. m., saving the lives of 141 men, including some officers.

MARKET REPORTS TORONTO MARKETS.

Receipts of live stock at the City Market for Wednesday and Thursday, as reported by the railways, were 78 car loads composed of 1248 cattle, 1860 hogs, 61 sheep and 155 calves.

The quality of cattle was about the same as has been coming, the bulk being in an unfinished condition.

Butchers.—We heard of four picked butchers, and there may have been others, weighing 1150 to 1200 lbs. each, that sold at $3.50 to $3.85; loads of good at $3.15 to $3.50; medium at $4.75 to $5; common, $3.75 to $4.50; cows, $4 to $4.75 for good and $3.50 to $3.80 for common; canners, $2 to $3 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.—Good steers, 1000 to 1100 lbs. each at 1.000 lbs. each, at $4.25 to $4.75; good steers, 800 to 900 lbs. each, at $3.90 to $4.25; good steers, 600 to 900 lbs. each, at $3.25 to $3.50; light stockers, 400 to 600 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.25.

Milkers and Springers.—A fair supply of milkers and forward springers sold at $30 to $35 each, the bulk of the best selling at $40 to $50.

Veal Calves.—A moderate run of calves sold at $3 to $5.50 per cwt., or an average of about $6 each; something choice, new milk-fed, would bring $6, or probably $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.—Export ewes sold at $5.50 to $5.20; rams, $4 to $4.50 per cwt.; yearling lambs from $6 to $7.50 per cwt.; spring lambs at $3 to $6 each.

Hogs.—1900 hogs from all sources were received at the market on Wednesday and Thursday, 1487 of which were bought by Mr. Harris, who reported prices unchanged at $6.40 for selects and $6.15 for lights.

Farmers' Market. The grain receipts to-day were small. One hundred bushels of barley sold at 51c and 100 bushels of oats at 51c per bushel.

Hay in moderate supply. With prices firm; 25 loads sold at $19 to $20 a ton. Straw is nominal in absence of offerings.

Bradstreet's Trade Review. Montreal—The tendency of trade continues to be towards improvement.

Business men here are satisfied that prospects favor a gradual resumption of trade activity in all lines.

Winnipeg reports say: Seeding is going along well in all parts of the country. In many districts the work is finished.

Quebec—Cold weather holds back trade and the volume of business of the past week shows no improvement over the preceding one.

Hamilton—Wholesale trade continues to show improvement and a good future business is looked forward to.

London—Trade here and in the surrounding country is more active, following upon the arrival of warmer weather.

Ontario—Retail business has taken on a better tone during the past week and there is now a better movement to sorting lines.

EXPLOSION ON JAP CRUISER; TWO HUNDRED MEN LOST.

Vessel Sank Almost Immediately—Sons of Notable Men Drowned.

If the cruiser had 300 men on board at the time of the accident, 159 men lost their lives.

The Matsushima took part in the Russo-Japanese war. She was instrumental in November, 1904, in sending Russian torpedo boats that were at the bottom.

Accidents in the Japanese navy have been rare. There was an explosion of powder on board the battleship Kashima last September, in which 27 men were killed, and in September, 1905, the battleship Mikasa, which was Admiral Togo's flagship in the Russo-Japanese war, was partially destroyed by fire and the explosion of her magazine at Sasebo.

The Matsushima is a protected cruiser. She was built in 1900. Her displacement is 4,237 tons, length 298 feet.

THE USURPER

Lady Marlow nodded and smiled at Sir Jordan and fixed him for a moment with her bright, sharp eyes.

"Very good of you to come," she said, as she made ready to receive the next guest. "You have had an exciting night, I hear, and your fame is going the round of the room."

Sir Jordan bowed and smiled with polite gratitude for the pleasant little speech and made his way into the crowd.

His entrance was noticed and men nodded and beautiful women smiled at him as he passed them, and many a girl's heart gave a little bound of ambitious longing, for Sir Jordan was a millionaire, the coming man of the day and his wife would be a great lady and a power.

Stopping now and again to exchange a nod with one and another, Sir Jordan made the circuit of the crowded room, and was returning to the door to take his departure when a young girl entered. He stopped, drew back a little and waited.

She was a very pretty girl—tall, fair, with dark brown eyes, bright and brimming with merriment, one moment, and melting the next. Her name was Audrey Hope; she was eighteen, just out of an heiress, and as the irreverent said, Lady Marlow's "last and best lot;" for she was an orphan and under the care of Lord and Lady Marlow, who were her guardians.

Before she had got many yards she was surrounded not only by men but by women, for Audrey was popular with both sexes, and there were some who would have loved her just as dearly if she had been penniless, instead of the owner of money in the funds, a plantation in Jamaica and a good estate in Devonshire.

She was beautifully-dressed, and yet with a simplicity which spoke of anything but wealth, and her eyes were bright with the pleasure of seeing so many friends round her; for she had been staying on the continent for some months and this was her first party since her return.

She was chatting away about Homberg, Mont Blanc and Rome and the rest of it to the admiring court when Sir Jordan came up with his bland smile and his serenely composed face, and she stopped suddenly, the brightness fled from her eyes and she became for the moment suddenly grave, and one would have been inclined to say almost sad. But it was only for a moment; the next she seemed to have recovered from the temporary restraint and held out her hand to him with a nod.

"How do you do, Sir Jordan?" she said, as she bent over his hand. "I did not expect to see you here! I thought you would be too busy."

"The House rose earlier than we expected," he said. "Have you enjoyed your trip?"

The others fell back to allow the two to talk, for Sir Jordan and beautiful Audrey Hope were old friends—ought to have been, for the estate which Audrey had inherited adjoined the Lynne property, and the Lynnes and the Hopes had been neighbors for generations.

"Oh, yes," she said, and she began to tell him of her travels, but somehow some of the brightness had gone out of her voice, and she looked down at the ground rather than at his face.

Sir Jordan offered her his arm after a minute or two, and she accepted it and allowed him to lead her out of the crowd to a seat in a recess, thereby causing vast discontent and envy in many a manly breast.

"That fellow Jordan seems to have it all his own way," murmured a young guardsmen to a chum. "Richest beggar in the room and all that, he might leave the Hope alone and give us poor devils a chance."

But Sir Jordan was perfectly indifferent to the murmurs and comments of the envious and sat beside the rich and lovely Miss Hope with his usual self-possession and sang-froid.

He talked about the weather and the persons who passed them, a great deal about her life on the continent, and she listened, a very little, about himself, for Sir Jordan was one of those clever persons who do not talk about themselves.

But all the while Audrey seemed to be listening absent-mindedly and quite suddenly she said:

"Have you heard anything of—of Neville, Sir Jordan?" and as she put the question her eyes drooped and the rich color came into her face, making it look lovelier than ever.

Sir Jordan shook his head and sighed.

"I'm sorry to say that I have not," he replied, in a sad and regretful tone, just the tone an affectionate, long-suffering man who had been sorry tried by a scraggy brother would use.

The color died slowly away from Audrey Hope's cheeks, and she stifled a sigh—a genuine one.

"When did you hear last?" she said, "and what? You know we were such old friends, your brother and I, Sir Jordan. We used to play together when we were little children, and even after he came home from Eton, and—well—I can never think of the Grange—this was the name of the great country house which belonged to this lucky young woman—without thinking of Neville."

Her eyes grew meditative and wistful, as if she were seeing, in her mind's eye, a vision of the old orchard beyond the house in which she and young dandy Neville Lynne used to play. Even then it was always getting into scraps, and he was she who not infrequently got her hand out of them, begged him off, and ishment, or out of her own pocket-money paid, on the sly, for some damage he had done.

"It is very natural that you should remember him," murmured Sir Jordan, sympathetically. "It would not be like your kind heart to forget an old playmate. Poor Neville!" and he sighed again.

She glanced at him with barely concealed alarm.

"Why do you say that?" she asked. "Was it bad news you heard last?"

"I'm sorry to say that it was," he replied, gravely, and with a regretfully sad and sympathetic voice. "Poor Neville has been disgracing himself, as usual."

The blood flew to her face again.

"Disgracing himself—Neville?" she interrupted. "I don't believe it—I mean

She stopped and bit her lips as if ashamed of the vehemence she had been hurried into.

Sir Jordan saw that he had gone rather too far.

"Perhaps the term was too strong," he said. "We will say that he had got into one of his usual scrapes, and he had left the place suddenly just before I got tidings of him; but for that I should have found him."

"Where was that?" asked Audrey.

"In America," replied Sir Jordan, without a moment's hesitation.

She sighed as she thought that America was rather a vague address.

"I suppose he doesn't know of his father's death?" she said, after a moment or two.

"No, I think not," said Jordan.

"Or—that?"

She hesitated.

"Or that my father did not mention him in his will?" said Jordan. "No, and I particularly wish that he should not hear of it excepting through me," because—

He paused.

Audrey looked at him quickly.

"Because—oh, do you mean that you are going to—?"

"How well you understand me!" he murmured, modestly. "Yes, I want to find poor Neville, and let him know that half I have is his. I shall not know a moment's peace or happiness until I have found him."

Audrey Hope's lips quivered and those beautiful brown eyes of hers grew soft and tender.

"That is very, very good and generous of you, Sir Jordan," she said, in a low voice. "But it is only what one might expect you to do, after all. You could not—no one could—be at ease and contented while his brother was penniless."

"No, no, of course not," assented Sir Jordan, promptly, but with his eyes hidden behind the thick, white lids. "I have advertised, am advertising constantly for him, and am in hopes that I shall hear tidings of him soon."

"Oh, I hope so," said Audrey fervently. "It is dreadful to think that a person one—oh, how much, is wandering about the world perhaps in poverty and—"

She stopped again, sympathetically, "and directly I hear I will send you word."

"Do, please!" she exclaimed.

"I suppose you will be going down to the Grange presently?" he said, changing the subject.

"Yes," she replied. "Lord and Lady Marlow are coming down with me to spend Christmas."

"I shall be at Lynne, too; I shall go down directly the House rises," he said. "So that we shall be near neighbors, shall we not?" glancing sideways at her.

"Yes," she assented, but without a particle of warmth, or more than the expression of pleasure which ordinary politeness demanded, and Sir Jordan's lips tightened. She had been warm and sympathetic enough while they had been talking about his scoundrel of a half-brother, Neville, but now she seemed as if she had lost all interest in their conversation. "I must go to poor Lady Marlow," she said. "She is tired out."

At this moment a gentleman approached them, a tall, dark-haired young man, with a handsome face and rather grave and serious eyes.

"Oh, Lord Lorraine!" she exclaimed. "Have you seen Lady Marlow lately?"

"I have just been sent in search of you by her," he replied.

"And he said out his arm, nodding rather coldly to Sir Jordan."

Audrey Hope took the proffered arm, and the two walked away.

"About?" asked Lord Lorraine, looking down at her with his dark, serious eyes.

"Oh, only—what right have you to ask such a question?" she said, with an affectation of resentment.

"The right that the fact of my loving you gives me, Miss Hope."

She made as if to draw her arm away, but he held it firmly.

"I thought you promised that you would not talk to me in that way again," she said, reproachfully.

"I did," he assented, "but when you ask me a direct question I am compelled to give you a direct and truthful answer."

"That's nothing to do with it; that's no reason at all," she retorted, with true feminine logic. "But how do you hate poor Sir Jordan?"

"I do hate poor Sir Jordan very much," he said grimly; "but I hate still more to see you talking to him."

"And pray what business is it of yours whom I talk with?" she said, smiling. "There—I've given you another opportunity; but I won't listen to you! Lord Lorraine, if I were a man I should be ashamed to go on—on—posturing a poor, helpless girl after she had told me that she didn't care for me."

"I beg your pardon," he said, still unruffled. "I haven't pestered you. Telling you that I love you isn't pestering you, it isn't even news to you."

"No, indeed! Or very stale news," she retorted.

"Exactly. Therefore it can't very much affect you. As to your loving me, I'm quite aware you don't, but that is not to say that you never will."

"And you mean to—to—?"

"Just so. I mean to go on trying to win your love till I'm dead, or you are engaged, or married, or you are cogged, or married, or you are cogged, or married."

She looked up into his handsome, serious face and laughed.

"Then—the best thing—in fact, the only thing—I can do is to get married!"

"If you marry the right man, yes," he assented. "But you see, I consider myself the right man."

"And—perhaps Sir Jordan considers himself the right man, or—or any one else," she said mischievously.

He looked down at her.

"No," he said as if he were considering the man quite impartially and judicially. "No, I don't think you would be so foolish as to marry Sir Jordan."

"Oh, indeed! And why not? He is young and rich, and will be famous. Is so already, isn't he?"

"He is young, yes, and rich, and famous," said Lord Lorraine; "but I don't think you would marry a man for being that—or those."

"That's pretty grammar," she remarked.

"I dare say; but it's good sense. You won't marry a man you don't love. You promised me that—"

"Oh, if you are going to rake up all the old things I promised," she retorted with a laugh. "But there, don't think we're quarrel enough for one night, Lord Lorraine?"

"We have not quarrelled," he said, gravely. "You couldn't quarrel with me if you tried."

"And I do try, goodness knows!" she exclaimed, "but that is the worst of it. If you would only consent to be offended, I should get rid of you, but you won't will you? Wouldn't you try just to please me?" And she looked up into his face coaxingly. "If you'd only believe, what is true, that I'm the most disagreeable and undesirable of girls; that I'm really not worth thinking about, then, oh, then we should be such good friends. Won't you try, Lord Lorraine?"

"I think not," he said. "It would be a waste of time, and it's wicked to waste time, so the parous say. You're just the best and sweetest and most beautiful woman in my eyes that ever lived or will live, and nothing will persuade me that you are anything else, and so—"

"And so here's Lady Marlow, and you may go," interrupted Audrey, half saucily, half sadly, for she was touched by her lover's persistent dog-like devotion.

"All right," he said, not a whit offended. "Good-night. Good-night, Lady Marlow."

Lady Marlow laughed as she gave him her hand.

"She's a tiresome, wicked girl, isn't she, Lord Lorraine?" she said.

She knew the whole state of the case between the two.

He smiled for about the first time, held Audrey's hand for a moment, and then took himself off.

"Poor Lord Lorraine!" said Lady Marlow.

"Oh, don't pity him. Pity me!" exclaimed Audrey, with a pout. "How would you like to be bothered by a man who won't take 'no'?"

"If I were in your place, my dear, I should like it very much," replied that frank lady. "Especially if the man were Lord Lorraine."

CHAPTER VII.

Sir Jordan remained for some few minutes where Lord Lorraine and Audrey had left him, apparently regarding the crowd with a pleasant and interested attention, but in reality scarcely conscious of their presence, so intent was he on his thoughts.

When asked whether he thought he should win a certain battle Napoleon replied:

"Yes, because I intend doing so."

Jordan Lynne intended marrying Audrey Hope. Not because he loved her, for though he admired her—and he would have been as inensible as a block of wood if he had not—he certainly did not love her.

There was only one individual in the world Sir Jordan loved, and that was Jordan Lynne, and the loved him with such an intense and absorbing love as to leave no room for caring for any one else.

Audrey was not only the most beautiful girl he knew, but one of the richest, and it was because she was rich, and the Grange estate ran parallel with Lynne, that he had decided to marry her.

The fact that he was over thirty and Audrey only nineteen did not frighten him in the least. Nor did the other undeniable fact that Audrey repelled his skilful advances discourage him. Years ago, when a tall, gawky youth, he looked at Audrey and Neville playing together he had made up his mind that she should be his, Jordan's wife, and not Neville's, and it was that determination which, joined with other reasons, had prompted him to raise a quarrel between Neville and his father and cause the latter's disinheritation.

Neville had disappeared as completely as if he were dead, but Jordan did not seem to make much progress with Audrey. Whenever he got into conversation with her, it was of Neville she wanted to talk, and insisted upon talking, as she had done this evening, and though her persistence in refusing to forget the scapegrace made Jordan hate his brother more than ever, he never allowed any signs of his fraternal feelings to reveal themselves.

Now, seeing that he was possessed of immense wealth, it was rather surprising that he should be so desirous of acquiring more by marrying Audrey Hope, the heiress; but Jordan had his own reasons for being particularly anxious in the matter, and that evening, notwithstanding Audrey's absence and preoccupation of mind, when they were talking of anything else but Neville, Jordan, instead of being discouraged, was more determined than ever to have his way.

He knew that Lord Lorraine loved her, and though she had refused him, her; but Jordan did not care for that; ever so many men loved her and wanted to marry her, and there is safety in numbers.

So he sat for half an hour, nursing one leg and talking to one and another of the many who were eager to be seen in converse with Sir Jordan Lynne in the pleasant manner, but watching Audrey covertly all the while; then he made his way to Lady Marlow, and good-night, and went down the stairs.

It was a beautiful night, or rather early morning, and Jordan stood and looked at the stars for a moment or two, and decided to walk home. He had not very far to go, for his rooms were in Audley street, and Lady Marlow's house was in Grosvenor Square, and it was scarcely worth taking a cab for so short a distance.

Most men would have lit a cigar, but Jordan did not smoke, and, as has been said, he had no small vices, so, with his hands folded behind him, he walked slowly along, looking at the pavement instead of the sky, and his head bent as usual in deep thought.

So deep, indeed, that he did not hear light footsteps behind him, or know that he was followed until he felt a hand touch his arm.

He started and turned, then fell back a step, staring at the pale face of the woman who had stopped him.

"It is well as a pale face," he said, with a smile, "with hollow eyes that speak of pain and misery, and lips that had grown wan and tremulous with sorrow and trouble, and yet, alas! it was the face of a woman who was still young and had once, and not long since, been beautiful."

She was poorly dressed, but decently, and the worn black shawl was held by one thin hand as if to partly conceal her face.

"Jordan!" she said, in a low, sad voice.

Sir Jordan drew his arm away, and looked at her under his lowered lids with the expression which the one who has injured always bears toward the one upon whom the injury has been inflicted.

"Rachel! What are you doing here—how did you come?" he asked, his voice growing harsher. "Why have you held me looked about him as if he feared they should be seen."

"You ask me that!" she replied, her dark eyes fixed on his face. "How did I come? By foot! I have walked all those weary miles, but you do not care how I came. Why have you made it necessary for me to come? Why—"

She stopped, and put her hand to her throat as if the agitation caused by the sight of him were overpowering her.

Sir Jordan glanced up and down the street apprehensively, and smothered an oath between his thin lips.

"This—is this absurd and—childish of you, Rachel," he said at last. "You got my letter?"

"Yes, I got your letter," she said, in the same low, despairing voice. "Truly the cruellest letter a man ever wrote to the woman he once loved! Jordan, have you—have you forgotten all that you promised me—your solemn promise? It is not so long ago—not so long! In the house where Baby's Own Tablets are used there is no worry. The Tablets allay the inflammation, soothe the irritation and bring the teeth through painlessly. Mrs. S. Williams, St. Joseph, Ont., says: 'My first baby suffered terribly when cutting her teeth and it was nothing for me to buy for her a box of Baby's Own Tablets and I got her so much good that I cannot say enough in their favor. You may be sure that I always keep the Tablets in the house now.' Sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail for $2.50 per box. From Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

On the Stage.

How fine our life would run along, Just like the music in a song Or like a train of Pullman cars, With only soft and pleasant jars, If things could happen every day The way they work out in a play!

There everything is life and light, The men are bold, the girls are bright, Things for an act or two go wrong, But in the end right comes out strong, The hero always wins the bride, With mirth and music on his side.

No one is bothered in the play About a small thing like his pay. One always has a roll of bills That easily a pocket fills, And if he ever should run shy A cheque book brings a new supply.

The bill collectors never knock To give the timid ones a shock. The only troubles on the mat Pertain to love and things like that. And even they have feeble powers. They come out right in half an hour.

Of course the villain does not fare So well, but why for him would care? He only serves to emphasize That virtue draws the certain prize, That the deserving wins the wife, Ah, would that it were so in life!

SOMETHING UNUSUAL.

Rounder—I am afraid my liver is getting out of order.

Rounder—What makes you think so?

Rounder—I was worrying about my debts this morning.

TO PREVENT A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when the First Symptoms Are Noticed and Save Yourself Much Suffering.

Are you troubled with pallor, loss of spirits, waves of heat passing over the body, shortness of breath after slight exertion, a peculiar skipping of the heart beat, poor digestion, cold hands or feet, or a feeling of weight and fullness that these are diseases in themselves, and be satisfied with relief for the time being.

This is the way that the nerves give warning that they are breaking down. It means that the blood has become impure and thin and cannot carry enough nourishment to the nerves to keep them healthy and able to do their work.

There is only one way to prevent the final breakdown of the nerves and the more serious diseases which follow. The blood must be made rich, red and pure, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine that can do this promptly and effectively. Every dose of this medicine helps make new blood and strengthens the weak or worn-out nerves.

Mrs. David J. Tapley, Fredericton, N. B., was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after suffering from nervous breakdown, which resulted in partial paralysis of the face. She says: "The trouble came on quite gradually, and at the outset I did not pay much attention to it. Then it grew more serious, and there was a general breakdown of the nerves, which was followed by partial paralysis of the face, one side being completely drawn out of shape. I was under a doctor's care for a couple of months, and one treatment after another was tried without benefit. By this time I was confined to my room, and the doctor told me he could not cure me. Almost in despair I was persuaded to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The improvement was slow, but the building up of a run-down nervous system naturally is slow. Slowly but surely the medicine did its work, and after a time I was able to again come down stairs. From that on the improvement was much more rapid, and now I am as well as ever I was in my life. My friends look upon my cure as almost miraculous. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me what the best medical treatment failed to do—they brought me back good health."

It is the blood building, nerve restoring power in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that enable them to cure such troubles as anemia, rheumatism, the after effects of the grippe, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, partial paralysis and the secret ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or $2.50 for six boxes. From Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOCOMOTIVES OLD AND NEW.

Dandy Engines Once the Pets of Their Engineers.

The electric motors on the New Haven Railroad, which now pull passenger trains between the Grand Central Station and the present terminus of the electric division at Port Chester, cost $3,000 each. Not so very long ago a first class passenger locomotive would have cost every bit as much, although the price is only about $12,000 nowadays.

The railroad companies in former days spared no expense when it came to the construction or ornamentation of their locomotives, which were not only the pride of the engineers, but also daily moving advertisements of the engineering skill of the twentieth century days of black, pooled locomotives whose masters change every trip, it seems a far cry back to the romantic days of railroading, when every train tried to outdo its rivals in the way of dandy engines, of which the engineers were the absolute masters.

No one but a certain specified engineer was allowed to run one of these engines under any circumstances, and when it became necessary to place the engine in the shop for a thorough overhauling the engineer quit work until the machinists had got through. Perhaps the best examples of all dandy engines were two bought by the New Haven road in the '60s.

These engines, which were monsters for those days, had driving wheels 5 feet 9 inches in diameter and cost about $33,000 each. The cab was made of solid walnut. Inside the roof of the cab was composed of narrow alternate strips of malogany and walnut. The side windows were made of stained glass.

Just as much expense was incurred to make the outside of the engine attractive. First, the frame was made of plane steel, highly polished. The drivers were all painted red, with a tiny black stripe.

From the cab to the sand box everything was covered with brass, even the jacket of the boiler, while from the sand box to the stack the boiler was covered with Russian iron. Around the dome and the sand box was a covering of brass and the cylinders and steam chests were enclosed with the same metal. Strips of brass were laid along the edge of the running boards and the hand rails were of brass piping, with large bells of brass angles or something made with solid lead.

On the side of the headlight of No. 28, whose engineer was Edward Chatterton, was painted the United States coat of arms, while the tender of No. 34 had the same device on the side. The tender was painted black and enamelled, while all the striping was made with gold leaf.

The engineer of No. 34, Maynard Smith, always wore white duck, as indeed did many of the other old time engineers, and he was very exacting. When he climbed into the cab of his engine just before starting on a trip he would take out his white handkerchief and wipe the different brass fittings in the cab to see if all had been properly cleaned.

Many of the engines in use in the early days were named instead of being numbered. On the New Haven and Hartford road, which connected the two cities before the consolidation, the engines bore such names as Andromeda, Venus, Orient and Adonis. Some engines had landscapes painted on the sides of the cab.

In those days the engineer was the aristocrat among railroad men. As soon as he reached the end of his run he would take off his overalls, turn over the engine to a hostler, wash his hands at the tender coot and step off right at the station, his work done until the return trip.

If any repairs were needed he did not consider that his duty had been fulfilled when a report had been turned in. He made it his particular business personally to see that the repairs were properly executed. Often an engineer would spend hours of his own time to get his machine into the very best condition. Under the present system the engineer gets away as soon as possible and doesn't show up again until ready to take out his run once more.

When an engine went into the shops for repair the machine was still under the control of the engineer. No addition, improvement or alteration could be made unless he desired it.

For instance, before the injector was invented water was forced into the boiler by means of a pump. When the injector made its appearance many engineers had little faith in it and refused to have the new fangled thing put on their engines. Now the same engine, wonder how they ever got along without the injector.

Numerous devices have been added to the locomotive until now an engineer of the old regime would be at a loss for a time if he were put in charge of an up-to-date engine. The throttle and the reverse bar are the same, but there are many little things that go toward making the duties of the engineer lighter.

An automatic bell ringer is one of these. Nowadays compressed air rings the bell. Whenever the engineer desires to ring the bell he simply turns on the air.

There is also an automatic sander. Instead of the laborious and slow method of drawing the sand lever back and forth to bring a flow of sand in front of the slipping drivers, the engineer has to turn a little wheel which controls an automatic feed and then can forget all about the sand.

Reverse bars have been arranged to work by steam, but somehow or other they have never met with favor, although reversing on some of the old engines was a most laborious task. Bracing the feet against a support in the cab, the old time engineer many times had to tug away for dear life to get the engine in the back motion.

And the fireman has not been forgotten in this march of improvements. The automatic stoker has been invented for his benefit, but not many of these are in operation.

His greatest boon has been the automatic door opener. Opening the furnace door is done very many times in the course of a long trip, and so a good Samaritan by the use of compressed air has evolved a scheme by which a fireman can open the door with little or no effort.

Standing in his usual position, when firing, with one foot toward the foot-board of the tender, the other near the furnace door, he presses his left foot upon a pedal as he brings the shovel of coal forward and the compressed air opens the door. As soon as the shovel has been sent into the fire the fireman raises his foot and the door closes again.

Holiday Coins Return to Bank.

"Nine out of every ten persons in that line here to get gold pieces to use as Christmas presents," said a savings bank man, pointing to a long line in front of the paying teller's window. "And the funny part of it is," he added, "about three-quarters of the gold we give them will be back here in this bank inside of two weeks."

The bank man said every year his bank pays out about $3,000 in gold in the day or two immediately preceding the holiday. Most of this money is given within the family circle, and the rule is that the members of the family soon come back to the bank with the identical gold pieces to be credited to their respective accounts.—Boston Herald.

Wanted Boy.

The farmer, noting the Indian's axe handle broken and the blade dull, gave him a new handle and sharpened the tool, the Indian turning the griststone. The red man still hung around. "The farmer" was a little amoyed, and called to an interpreter. "Ask the old fellow what he wants now," he directed.

After an exchange of grunts and gestures the interpreter announced, "He wants 25 cents."

"Twenty-five cents! What for?"

"For turning the griststone,"—Harper's.

A Circus Wish.

A potato I would wish to be. On one day of the year, And if you like I'll tell you why. For you must think it queer.

'Twould be on "Girous day," because No matter what my size, I could see everything there was— I'd have so many eyes.

The Worry Method.

After taking the anti-fat treatment for a week, an obese person received a bill.

"But, doctor," he protested, "I haven't lost an ounce. The bill is too big."

"The bill," the doctor informed him curtly, "is part of the treatment."—London Opinion.

ZAM-BUK SAVED THIS MAN'S FINGER!

Mr. William C. Edwards, Peter Street, Toronto (late steward Elks' Club), sustained a severe cut on the middle finger of the left hand. Blood poisoning ensued and the finger caused him excruciating agony. He says: "My hand was so swollen and painful that I had to carry it in a sling for several weeks. I was under the care of a well-known doctor in Toronto for several weeks. The wound got no better, and one day the arm, I consulted another medical man and was treated by him for some months. He then suggested that the finger be opened and the bone scraped. At this stage a friend advised me to try some Zam-Buk which I had bought for some time. I was able to discard the bandage. A little more persistence and Zam-Buk cured the wound completely."

ST. REGIS LUMBAGO CURE

Guaranteed to Cure Lame Back or money refunded!

An excellent remedy for Rheumatism, Lame Back, Etc., Etc.

Read the following testimonial from a man you all know:

Portland, Feb. 8, 1908
Mr. W. A. Singleton,
Crosby, Ont.
Dear Sir:—In the winter of 1905 I was laid up with La Grippe and unable to get relief from several other patent medicines. I was convinced by several of my neighbors to try St. Regis Lumbago Cure, and I can thankfully say it was the first thing that gave me immediate relief. Since that time I have never been without it in my house, and cannot speak too highly of it, especially for children, as it will break up a cold at once. I have also found it a sure cure for lame back. You are at liberty to use my name for reference if you wish to publish it for the benefit of others. I am yours truly,
C. A. VANKOUGHNET.

If your dealer does not keep this medicine kindly ask him to order same for you as any sized order will be filled promptly. First order, freight prepaid.

Yours truly,
W. A. SINGLETON

MANIFESTO

The following is taken from a mani festo issued on Wednesday last by the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance: The most important issue before the electors of the Province of Ontario at the present time is the great temper ance question. The widespread and terrible evils that inevitably result from the bar-room and the treating sys tem demand the earnest and serious consideration of all patriotic citizens. The problem with which the temper ance reform deals lies at the root of our national life and permeates the whole social organism. IT MUST BE DEALT WITH POLITICALLY. The present Legislature has not only failed to promote such legislation, but HAS TAKEN FROM THE PEOPLE THE RIGHT, SO LONG ENJOYED AND NEVER MIS-USED, TO ABOLISH BAR-ROOMS LOCAL LY BY A MAJORITY VOTE OF THE ELEC TORS. The result has been the en trenching more securely than ever, so far as legislation is concerned, of the bar-room system, with all its concomi tant evils. We recognize the value of some amendments that have been passed, particularly in regard to the making more effective the enforcement of the Liquor License Act, and there has been a tightening up of law enforcement generally, yet overlooking all is the standing injustice of the requirement which gives the liquor traffic a voting strength practically 50 per cent. more than that of those who desire to see the bar-room abolished. Believing this issue to be of para mount importance, and believing that the only method by which we can se cure the results we desire is the elec tion to the Legislature of representa tives who stand for the principles we advocate, we would call upon the elec tors of the Province to work and vote only for the nomination and election of such candidates as can be depended upon to do all in their power to secure at the earliest opportunity the enactment of effective legislation against the bar-room evil, and WHO WILL HOLD THEMSELVES ABSOLUTELY FREE FROM PARTY DICTATION IN RELATION TO SUCH LEGISLATION.

Weak Kidneys Dr. Shoop's Restorative "ALL DEALERS" Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak Kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well. If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is dark, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous Kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month— Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

Mr and Mrs Ed. Foster attended the funeral of the late Mrs John Flood at Ballycanoe on Monday. Messrs Eddie and Hanson Coyne were called to Gananogue on Saturday last, owing to the illness of their sister, Mrs J. Hunt. Master Knowlton Hanna, who has been very ill, is slightly better. Mr and Mrs Charlie Heffernan visited Harlem friends recently. Mrs John Reed, Sand Bay, was a recent guest at her father's, Mr Geo Bradley. Mr Joseph Morris lost a fine cow recently. Mrs John Frye and Misses Maysie and Zelda Frye, Soperton, visited friends here during the holidays. Our veteran sportsman and fisher man took a sudden cold bath in the creek this spring, but Allie does not mind little mishaps like that. Mrs Fairbairn and daughter, Miss Helen, Brockville, were Easter guests at Mr Johnson Morris's. Miss Irene and Master Moulton Morris, Maple Leaf Valley, were renewing old acquaintances here last week. Miss Edith Curtis, Maple Leaf Valley, visited Miss Mabel Morris on Sun day last. Three little ladies from Athens met with a slight misfortune in the Glen last week. While in search of flowers and sap, they tumbled into a brook and were forced to hurry home. We would blush to say that the bottles they carried had anything to do with this. Mr Jos. Morris has purchased a cream separator from Mr Nelson Earl.

Tired nerves, with that "no ambition" feeling that is commonly felt in spring or early summer, can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known as Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. One will absolutely note a changed feeling within 48 hours after beginning to take the Restorative. The bowels get sluggish in the winter-time, the circulation often slows up, the Kidneys are inactive, and even the Heart in many cases grows decidedly weaker. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is recognized every where as a genuine tonic to these vital organs. It sharpens the failing appetite, and universally aids digestion. It always quickly brings renewed strength, life, vigor, and ambition. Try it and be convinced. Sold by All Dealers.

Oregon Post Office Names

ed, they named their settlement, Sweet Home. But though thriving cities now dot the valleys far below it Sweet Home is yet a foothill village.

San Francisco capitalists founded a town near the mouth of the Siuslaw River and thinking they had an ideal location for a sawmill town, both in timber supply and shipping facilities, they named it Aeneas. It has never attained the dignity of a city.

Andien secured its name in an unusual way. When a post office was established in the Quartzville mining district in Linn County, Lawler, the London capitalist who owned the mines, wanted to name it for his friend Medina. But this name was so similar to Mehama which is only a few miles away, that the Post Office Department rejected it. Lawler reversed the letters and called the post office Andien.

Corvallis, county seat of Benton County, is Latin in origin, meaning the heart of the valley. It was originally named Maryville. About 1870 this town and Salem, the capital of Oregon, and Albany, the county seat of Linn County, desired names which were not so common. Maryville became Corvallis, Albany changed to Taknah and Salem became Chemeketa. The first town kept its new name, but the latter two soon changed back to the old names.

Billabug got its name thus: A few years ago only seven men lived there, all being miners or homesteaders. They met one evening to choose a name for their settlement, and it was then discovered that the first name of all seven of the men was William. That settled the discussion of a name and Billabug was at once adopted.

A SURGICAL OPERATION

If there is any one thing that a woman dreads more than another it is a surgical operation.

We can state without fear of a contradiction that there are hundreds, yes, thousands, of operations performed upon women in our hospitals which are entirely unnecessary and many have been avoided by LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

For proof of this statement read the following letter:

Mrs. Letitia Blair, Cannifton, Ont., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was sick for five years. One doctor told me it was cancer, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor and advised an operation. No one knows what I suffered, and the bearing down pains were terrible.

"I wrote to my sister about it, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"It has cured me of all my troubles, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me to pass safely through Change of Life."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and backache.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

The Very Latest.

"Let me see some of your black kid gloves," said a lady to a shopman.

"These are not the latest style, are they?" she asked, when the gloves were produced.

"Yes, madam," replied the shopman, "we have had them in stock only two days."

"I didn't think they were, because the fashion paper says black kids have tan stitches, and vice versa."

The shopman explained that vice versa was French for seven nations, so she bought three pairs. Detroit Free Press.

Just So.

Mr. Hockfuss: Perhaps you wouldn't mind telling me, Amanda, how much dough I will have to dig up when the bill comes in for that new spring bed of yours.

Mrs. Hockfuss: Not at all, Elmer. It will set you back about half as much as that new fishing rod of yours did.

ARE MEN MORE BRAVE?

George R. Syms, Playwright, Takes Both Sides.

In acts of physical bravery in which self-sacrifice is involved woman holds a magnificent record, though here she would be the last to claim superiority to man. In the bravery that gives its life to save, all her souls are on the same plane of perfection.

Alice Ayres the little servant girl who sacrificed her life for her master's children, perishing herself in the flames from which she had rescued them, and the seaward-bound Sticlis, who gave up her life to save a passenger, and remained to go down in the ship, are heroines in the green Valhalla of the City Garden, side by side with brave men who perished in an act of heroic self-sacrifice.

The acts of physical courage displayed by men and women are separated by strong emotion and great excitement. The bravery is the result of a noble impulse, but it is generally a swift and sudden impulse. The bravery in which women excel men is a bravery of self-conquest, a bravery which, with a full knowledge of perils, pains and penalties thought out and appreciated, endures and dares.

The bravery is the result of a noble impulse accomplished by timorous women, says George R. Syms. A brave woman, whose whole life-story was one of unflinching bravery in the face of calamities which would take the heart out of any ordinary man, was afraid to pass a cow in a country lane.

In the trials and tribulations of family life the woman is braver than the man; the good wife is braver in domestic stress than the good husband; the good mother often sets an example of the noblest form of bravery to the best of fathers.

In the homes of the poor the life of the woman who loves her husband and her children is sometimes an idyl of heroic self-sacrifice and brave endurance.

And yet in many things it may be contended that men are braver than women. Men are braver, far braver, than women in acknowledging error. A man will often though the confession carries a certain amount of humiliation with it, confess that he is mistaken.

A woman is rarely brave enough even to acknowledge to herself that she is in the wrong.

Men are braver than women in their code of honor. Men are braver than women in defying Mrs. Grundy. They are braver in resisting temptation to personal extravagance. They are braver in acknowledging their faults, their pecuniary position, their poor relations and their age.

The moral cowardice of a woman with regard to the flight of time is proverbial. In the presence of the clock, the ordinary woman over five and twenty is an object lesson in the lack of bravery.

The Best Way—

To keep maidenhair fern—Maidenhair fern can be kept fresh for a week, if when it is first picked the ends of the stalk are sealed with sealing wax, or else held in a flame until quite black.

To clean knives—Take a piece of felt and sprinkle with a drop or two of methylated spirit and fine bath-brick, roll round, and work the knife in and out while pressing on lightly with the other hand.

To clean bamboo furniture—Dirty bamboo furniture may be cleaned with a small brush dipped in warm water and salt. The salt prevents it from turning yellow, and the washing makes the bamboo look bright. Rub very dry with soft cloths.

To clean decanters—To clean discolored decanters whop some potato skins finely, and fill the bottle with them. Cork and leave for three days in warm place. When the skins have fermented, turn out, rinse well, and the decanters will be quite clean.

To restore gilt frames—Put enough flowers of sulphur into a pint of water to give it a golden tint, and in this boil four or five small bruised onions. Strain them, and when cold, paint the frames over with the mixture, using a soft camelhair brush.

To restore marble—If the marble is much stained and soiled, boil equal parts of soap and powdered whiting—about four ounces of each with one ounce of soda in a little water. When thoroughly blended, rub the mixture on while hot; let it remain a day or so. Wash off with clean water, and dry with a leather.

To polish new grates—First of all take a piece of old flannel dipped in sweet oil, and rub thoroughly over all the grate. Let it remain for a few days, then repeat the same a second time, letting it stand for another couple of days. Then take a pint of warm water, with a little extract of soap dissolved in it, and wash the oil all thoroughly off again. When dry, blacklead and polish.

RUSSIAN EMPRESS' ROMANCES.

Marriage of Princess Dagmar, of Denmark, and Grand Duke Alexander.

How many people are aware that the marriage of the Empress Marie Feodorovna of Russia, the Czar's mother who is at present in England, visiting her sister, Queen Alexandra, and who bore to make her name in England, provided one of the most pathetic love stories in the annals of royalty?

Before the Empress, who was Princess Dagmar of Denmark, married Alexander III, she was engaged to his elder brother, the Czarévitch. In 1865 at Nice the Grand Duke Nicholas fell from his horse and was so badly injured that his life was despaired of. His fiancée hastened to him and never left his side till he breathed his last. This anecdote led to the throne devolved on the Grand Duke Alexander.

He stood by the deathbed of the Czarévitch, who, in the presence of the Emperor and Empress, placed the hand of the weeping Princess into his, saying to her with almost the last words: "Marry my brother; he is as cruel, and I wish it."

Enforced by the most poignant reasons, this betrothal was law to the bereaved girl.

(Chicago Tribune.)

Mr. Makinbrakes was offering his sympathy to a neighbor whose house had been visited by the fire fiend.

"I know just what an inconvenience it must be to you, Mr. Markley," he said. "I've never been burnt out of my house and home, but some boys were playing in my back yard once, and they set my dog kennel on fire. Singed all the hair off a Scotch collie I owned. I remember now, though, that he was just a worthless cur. Still, you feel kind of sorry when such a thing happens, even if you don't lose anything worth mentioning. I'd be sorry even for a dog that had been burnt out—I don't mean anything personal, of course, but—er—I can sympathize with you, you know, just as if it had been you that—or, rather—if it had been any worthless dog that—what I mean to say, of course, is that—don't you think the women's hats this spring are the blindest looking things you ever saw, Mr. Markley?"

The Bell of the Angels.

It is said, somewhere, at twilight
A great bell softly swings,
And a man may listen and harken
To the wondrous music that rings.

If he put from his heart's inner chamber
All his sorrows, pain and strife,
Heartache, and weary longing,
That throbs in the pulses of life;

If he thrust from his soul all hatred,
All thoughts of wicked things,
How pure in the holy twilight
How the bell of the angels rings.

Let us look in our hearts, and question
Can purer thoughts enter in
To a soul if it be already
The dwelling of thoughts of sin?

So, then, let us ponder a little,
Let us look in our hearts, and see
If the twilight bell of angels
Can ring for you and me?

No Lie, Either.

Mrs. McSwat—Billinger, how did you like the decorations at the church this morning?

Mr. McSwat—All the decorations I could see, Lobelia, were worn by the young lady in front of me. I liked the grand sweep of the brim, the floral display, and the general arrangement of the ribbons, but I thought the dead bird looked out of place.

Applying the Final Test.

"Doctor," asked the patient, whose eyes had been undergoing treatment for a period of six months or more, "do you think they're all right now?"

"Yes," said the doctor; "I think I can assure you, Mr. Pinchnickel, that your eyes are cured. But there is one more test I should like to apply. See if you can read that at a distance of twelve or fourteen inches without blinking."

Whereupon he laid his bill before him.

Minard's Liniment Lumbermen's Friend.

With all the tubes and bridges which have been recently opened between New York and Brooklyn, the strain on the Brooklyn Bridge does not seem to be materially lessened. It is very evident that further relief must be offered in a short time, and steps have already been taken by the Department of Bridges of that city looking to the construction of a new bridge in the immediate vicinity of the old one. It is also agreed that some radical alterations and enlargements to the Brooklyn Bridge are necessary, and that the matter is also being given some attention by the same body.

An absolutely plain round gold locket is one of the most popular presents of the moment. It is not large; all personal odds and ends, such as chain trinkets, watches and chatelaines are noticeably smaller now than formerly.

Do not imagine, either, that there is a romantic element in the gift. It is not intended to carry a photograph or miniature, neither have our elegantes returned to the old-fashioned plan of wearing a lock of beloved hair in such an ornament.

Nothing more exalted than feminine vanity is to be gratified by this innocent-looking little trinket, which when opened will be found to contain the tiniest of powder puffs, a perfectly adequate affair, though so small, and a mirror of like limited but practical dimensions. The locket is worn dangling from the long neck-chain, or is fastened with a gold safety pin at the waist.

Instantly the long-handled implement shot out from the wings and Rienci, howling and protesting, was yanked from the stage.

Later, however, he secured leave to print, and his address, as every school-boy knows was given to the public in full.

HELP WANTED.

WANTED—STOVE MOUNTERS. GURNEY-TILDEN CO., Limited, Hamilton, Ontario.

Australian Accent.

We follow England very closely. We speak of "lifts" as an Englishman does, and not as "elevators," as the American, but we have "paddock" instead of "fields" and "creaky" instead of "streams," and "scrubs" instead of "woods," and "pannikins," and "quart pots" and "billy tea" at picnics and all sorts of lovely Australian things, which make one perfectly homesick to think about. All the same, I am never homesick for the crude Australian accent.—British Australian.

ENGLISH SPAVIN LINIMENT removes all hard, soft and calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, ringbone, swellings, stifles, sprains, sore and swollen throat, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful bleasish Cure ever known. Sold by druggists.

Mourning Canes.

"When I was in Rome recently," says a New Yorker, "I saw an accessory of dress that I never saw anywhere else. It was a walking stick, an ebony stick, simply and beautifully fashioned and with a plain gun-metal band near the handle.

"It was intended to go with mourning wear. There was a dull finish to the ebony that made the stick a fitting companion to other trappings of woe, but the cane itself could not have been carried without any suggestion of being in mourning.

"In fact, I never have seen anybody carry his mourning to the extent of a cane, and I imagine that most men would not care for it for that purpose."—New York Sun.

Promising Outlook.

"It's a curious fact," observed the doctor, "that the Japanese are trying to increase their stature. They find that their bodies are long enough and they are making a systematic effort now to increase the length of their legs."

"Yes," said the professor; "I see that the mikado is pulling their legs for a bigger navy."

Everything Lovely.

"What is it that all the politicians of your city?" asked the intelligent foreigner, who was investigating conditions in New York.

"Alls it? Nothing!" answered the Tammanyite, astonished at the question. "Alls it on top? By George, sir, we've got the dinky reformers right where we want them!"

Busy Fire Fighters.

An alarm of fire was given about 7 o'clock Monday morning. It was soon learned that the fire was at the home of Fred Manlove, in the First ward. There are no less than five Manlove families in town and all of them were visited in the confusion following the giving of the alarm.—Fairfield Republican.

fooling the Doctor.

(Lippincott's Magazine.)

An old Scotchman, not feeling very well, called upon a well known doctor, who gave him instructions as to diet and exercise and rest. Among other things he advised the patient to abstain from all forms of spirits. "Do as I say," he added, cheerfully, "and you'll soon feel better."

The Scotchman rose silently and was about to withdraw when the doctor detained him to mention the all-important topic of the fee. "My advice will cost you two dollars," he said.

"Aw, mebbe," said the old Scotchman, "but I'm nae gawin' to ask yer advice."

INTERESTING TO FRUIT GROWERS

We have for sale the Canadian patent for Smith's Fruit Gathering Apparatus, which has proven on test to be a valuable acquisition to any fruit farm. With it two men can do the work of twenty, do it better and with less injury to the fruit. Can be used in gathering various kinds of fruits and nuts. Will pay for itself in one day in saving wages.

Provincial rights for sale, which can be used in counties at good profits. For particulars apply to J. B. Rittenhouse, 70 Pearl St., Toronto.

No Lie, Either.

Mrs. McSwat—Billinger, how did you like the decorations at the church this morning?

Mr. McSwat—All the decorations I could see, Lobelia, were worn by the young lady in front of me. I liked the grand sweep of the brim, the floral display, and the general arrangement of the ribbons, but I thought the dead bird looked out of place.

Applying the Final Test.

"Doctor," asked the patient, whose eyes had been undergoing treatment for a period of six months or more, "do you think they're all right now?"

"Yes," said the doctor; "I think I can assure you, Mr. Pinchnickel, that your eyes are cured. But there is one more test I should like to apply. See if you can read that at a distance of twelve or fourteen inches without blinking."

Whereupon he laid his bill before him.

Minard's Liniment Lumbermen's Friend.

With all the tubes and bridges which have been recently opened between New York and Brooklyn, the strain on the Brooklyn Bridge does not seem to be materially lessened. It is very evident that further relief must be offered in a short time, and steps have already been taken by the Department of Bridges of that city looking to the construction of a new bridge in the immediate vicinity of the old one. It is also agreed that some radical alterations and enlargements to the Brooklyn Bridge are necessary, and that the matter is also being given some attention by the same body.

A Way They Have.

Mrs. Griggs—The way that friend Brown of yours hints for a drink of whiskey every time he calls here would provoke a saint.

Mr. Griggs—Never mind him, dear. He's only trying to provoke a saint.—From the May Bohemian.

"I have never loved before," he said.

"Well," she replied, "I am rot running a kindergarten.—From the May Bohemian."

THE BEAUTY AGE.

Romance Has No Visible Part in Milady's Latest Locket.

An absolutely plain round gold locket is one of the most popular presents of the moment. It is not large; all personal odds and ends, such as chain trinkets, watches and chatelaines are noticeably smaller now than formerly.

Do not imagine, either, that there is a romantic element in the gift. It is not intended to carry a photograph or miniature, neither have our elegantes returned to the old-fashioned plan of wearing a lock of beloved hair in such an ornament.

Nothing more exalted than feminine vanity is to be gratified by this innocent-looking little trinket, which when opened will be found to contain the tiniest of powder puffs, a perfectly adequate affair, though so small, and a mirror of like limited but practical dimensions. The locket is worn dangling from the long neck-chain, or is fastened with a gold safety pin at the waist.

Ask for Minard's and take no other.

Great.

"Yes," remarked the Japanese, "we regard ourselves as your friends, but yet, in case of an emergency we could throw half a million men into America within three months, and have them in Chicago in two more months. What do you think of that?"

"Splendid," replied the citizen of Chicago. "That would make a magnificent addition to our population."—Puck.

When Mother Starts to Clean House.

Literature's Narrow Escape.

With the fire of genius flashing in his eye, Rienci raised his voice, and his magnificent exordium rang out: "I come not here to talk—"

"The hook! The hook!" yelled the galleries. "He didn't come here to talk, and he's talking. Give him the hook!"

Instantly the long-handled implement shot out from the wings and Rienci, howling and protesting, was yanked from the stage.

Later, however, he secured leave to print, and his address, as every school-boy knows was given to the public in full.

TWO LEOPARDS BREAK LOOSE AND STAMPEDE BIG CROWD.

One of the Beasts Claw a Boy--Policeman Saves Crowd From Being Hurt--Animals Captured.

Baltimore, Md., May 4.—During the performance at the zoo last night two leopards jumped the barrier, landing among the audience. Louis Tong, a boy, was badly clawed about the face and neck and probably a serious stampede was avoided by the prompt action of a policeman in closing the exit door and allowing only one or two of the terrified people to descend the stairs at a time.

There were several hundred persons in the audience when seven leopards were sent into the arena which is surrounded by high steel bars, to go through their performance. Two of these were sulky and one is said to have been teased by Tong who was close to the top of the cage. This leopard jumped toward the boy and scrambled over the top of the cage and was immediately followed by another of the beasts. The first clawed the boy savagely. The people in the audience were terrified. One of the leopards dashed down the stairway to the office and the policeman slammed the door. Then the crowd rushed toward him, but he had them back until they were calm enough for a few at a time to be allowed to leave the building.

The leopards were captured one in the office of the zoo, and the other in one of the dressing rooms by trainers and returned to their cages.

THE RIOT ACT.

Brantford Police Magistrate Advises That It Be Read.

Buck Stove Company Appeals Against a $50 Fine.

Brantford, Ont., despatch: Jas. Naulty, B. Robbins, R. Malcolm, W. Lake, J. Hedgwick, Wm. Lewis, Wm. Wilson, J. Boggs, F. Puse, J. Duncan, Wm. Housburgh, Samuel Walker, appeared at the police court this morning, charged with besetting the Buck Stove Works. They elected to be tried by a jury and will make a test case of the charge against them. Crown Attorney Wilkes advised that in future the Chief of Police read the Riot Act in that vicinity and disperse the strikers from the street. That would end the matter, he thought. The hearing was adjourned until Monday.

Messrs. Stedman Bros., of this city, have acquired the stationery business of Mr. W. J. Mallagh, on Colborne street. Mr. Mallagh has purchased a large business in Kingston. The purchase price is said to have been $12,000.

Frank Mulaney, for 12 years in charge of the store of Dempster & Co., leaves tomorrow for Montreal, to accept a position with the Telegraph Printing Co. He was popular in local social and sporting circles.

The death occurred last night of Mrs. Johnson Jex, a very old and much respected resident of Brantford. She was born in Sussex, England, in 1824, and had resided in Brantford since 1836. A husband and family survive.

The Buck Company has filed a notice of appeal in the case in which Roy Farrer, strike breaker, was fined $50 yesterday by Magistrate Livingston for drawing a revolver on Geo. Battye, a union man.

1,000 ISLANDS.

High Water Does Immense Damage to Property There.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., May 4.—Damage to Thousand Island property by the present high water in the St. Lawrence River is estimated at from $200,000 to $500,000. Two architects of this city who have just returned from a trip of investigation on board a private yacht from Lake Ontario to the rapids below Ogdensburg, a distance of 65 miles, report that hardly a dock boat house or cottage built loose to the water's edge escaped damage, while many lighter structures have collapsed, being washed away or torn to pieces.

Many islands are under water, notably one belonging to G. F. Rafferty, of Pittsburg, Pa., and another owned by C. M. English, of Brooklyn. Beautiful gardens, grassy slopes and residences are wiped out. The shore for miles above Ogdensburg is strewn with wreckage.

SEES STOMACH

By Looking Through Tube With Electric Bulb.

Munich, May 4.—The problem of direct observation of the interior of the human stomach during life has been solved by Dr. Ribb, according to a medical weekly. The method which is employed includes the passing of a double tube through the oesophagus to the stomach, the inner tube being fitted with a small electric bulb. Water is passed by means of a subsidiary attachment through the outer tube, filling the stomach. The light is then turned on, permitting the medical paper says, the closest observation of the movements of the organ.

The paper regards this as an important advance, which will permit of a closer study of cancer, the stomach and other internal maladies.

AETNA ACTIVE.

Sicily's Volcano, After Fifteen Years' Silence, Blows Off Steam.

Catania, Sicily, May 4.—Mount Aetna is emitting huge columns of black smoke, accompanied by rumbling. Ashes have fallen in considerable quantity, damaging the crops in the surrounding country. Mount Aetna is completely covered with snow.

Prof. Ricco, director of the Mount Aetna Observatory, however, contends that the eruption is a blessing in disguise. The volcano has been almost inactive for fifteen years, and if it were bottled up much longer it is likely there would be an extremely violent and destructive eruption. The present one, he expects, will be comparatively innocuous and will relieve the pressure.

DUNDEE IRISHMEN

Advised to Vote For Churchill, Who Has Arrived There.

Dundee, May 4.—Winston Spencer Churchill, President of the Board of Trade, whose recent failure to be returned to Parliament from the North-west Division of Manchester has forced him to seek a "safe" seat, arrived here this morning, to contest the vacancy caused by the elevation to the peerage of Edmund Robertson. F. Sergeant, of the United Irish League, is urging the Irish voters to give their complete support to Mr. Churchill, on the ground that Premier Asquith has adopted Mr. Churchill's pledges at Manchester regarding Home Rule for Ireland as representing the policy of the Government.

SEIZED CONSUL.

High Handed Doings by Guatemalan's Foreign Minister.

City of Mexico, May 4.—It is rumored here that Juan Barrios, Guatemalan Minister of Foreign Affairs, at the head of a body of troops, late yesterday entered the Consul-General of Uruguay's residence and seized the Honduran Consul, General Mindelen, and his son, who had taken refuge there during the day. The Uruguayan Consul-General was absent from home when the house was surrounded by troops and the seizure made. As soon as he heard of the affair he fled to the American Legation, where he asked for protection, and he is now a refugee in the Legation of the United States. The capital of Guatemala is described as being the centre of turbulent scenes. Other rumors of an even more alarming nature are in circulation here, but none of them can be officially confirmed.

BROTHERLY LOVE.

BLIND MAN HEADS MCGILL LAW CLASS THROUGH DEVOTION.

Two Brothers, Thomas and Wm. Stewart, Graduated First and Second at McGill, and Won Scholarships—An Oculist's Error.

A Montreal despatch: An interesting story of brotherly love and courageous work under the affliction of total blindness was unveiled at McGill University today, when two brothers, Thomas S. and William Stewart, graduated in law, coming respectively first and second in their class, and winning two out of three scholarships. Thomas S. Stewart is totally blind, through the carelessness of an oculist. Nine years ago he injured one of his eyes with a knife, and an oculist declared that to save the sight of the other the bad eye must be removed. Mr. Stewart underwent the operation, but by some extraordinary piece of carelessness the operator took out the good eye, with the result that when the patient came out of the ether he was completely blind. Undismayed by this, he undertook to pursue his studies in law at McGill, and ever since then his brother has devoted himself to him, making his studies with him and accompanying him to college sports and through all the phases of university life—practically making himself a seeing medium for his blind brother.

As a result of this unusual devotion the blind Stewart came out at the head of his class, while his brother came second, and each won the Sir William Macdonald scholarship, which entitles them to a year's residence in Paris to perfect themselves in the French language and study law at the Montpellier Law School.

LED DOUBLE LIFE.

Married Young Society Girl and Charged With Burglary.

San Francisco, May 4.—Dr. W. W. Goelt, graduate of Columbia College, and traveller, who was married to a young society woman of Oakland four months ago, is in the Berkeley city prison, charged with the burglary of eight residences and apartment houses in Oakland and Berkeley. His name appeared on most of the hotels and apartment house registers as D. F. Wythe, an alias he acknowledged. The Berkeley police

TRAIN HELD UP.

Express Messenger on St. Louis Train Tightly Bound by Bandits.

They Stole Gold Bullion and Several Express Packages.

Columbus, O., May 4.—The St. Louis express on the Pennsylvania Railroad, which was held up last night ten miles west of Pittsburg, arrived at the Union Station here at 2.30 a. m., forty minutes late. The crew confirmed the story of the hold-up by two men at Walkers Mill, and say that the bandits escaped with four sealed bags containing mail. The crew states that a number of express packages and a quantity of gold bullion were taken, but they do not know the value of the property. The Adams Express people here refuse to make any statement.

DIAMONDS STOLEN.

Justice Riddell's Wife Loses $8,000 Worth of the Sparklers.

Toronto despatch: Diamonds valued at between five and eight thousand dollars were stolen from the residence of the Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell, 109 St. George street, by a sneak thief, between five and six o'clock last evening. The thief is a man about five feet eleven inches in height, dark, sallow complexion, clean shaven, with dark hair, wore a black Christy hat, no overcoat, a grey checked suit and grey gloves. He is between 25 and 30 years of age and has a smart, business-like appearance. He talks quickly, though indifferently. Ever since last Tuesday he has been seen loitering about the vicinity of the house, and on Tuesday afternoon he called at the side door of the residence and inquired for a person who did not live there.

Mrs. Riddell was out during the afternoon, and at six o'clock one of the maids went to her room for the purpose of arranging Mr. Justice Riddell's clothes, when she noticed that several of his gold studs and his watch were lying on the dresser. Thinking that he had left them there, the maid continued her work. At 6.30 Mrs. Riddell returned, and it was then that the robbery was discovered. All the jewelry which Mrs. Riddell had left on her dresser had disappeared.

Hanging on a rack beside the dresser were several rings and chateleines, one of which, of solid gold, had been broken from the chain and carried away. This chateleine contained a quantity of money and car tickets. Mrs. Riddell at once investigated further, and found that the following articles had been stolen from her dresser:

Large "R" of diamonds. Diamond snuffbox. Diamond necklace. Pearl and diamond belt. Several smaller diamond ornaments.

LOST LEFT HAND

And Lost His Hearing by Explosion of Infernal Machine.

Cincinnati, May 4.—A diabolical attempt was made shortly before midnight last night to destroy the palatial quarters of the fashionable Phoenix Club at Ninth and Race streets, by placing in the main entrance an infernal machine so constructed that it would explode at the time the door was opened. The plot was carried out to the extent that the bomb was fired, but beyond the permanent maiming of one man no great damage was done.

HOUSE DYNAMITED.

Inmates Hurlled Through the Air and Place Blown to Atoms.

Wardner, Idaho, May 4.—From their home, blown to atoms by dynamite, E. A. Carlson and wife have reached Kingston, eight miles below Wardner. The Carlsons had just completed a large house on their ranch on the Northfort River. Last night, just after retiring, a terrible explosion took place, completely demolishing the house and furniture, and throwing the inmates many feet through the air, injuring and stunning them. The hired man was found fifty feet from the house in a dazed condition. All the animals in the barn were killed or injured and the barn torn down. It is said some furs in the woods nearby have been making tracks against the settlers.

CRIMINAL IMMIGRANTS.

No Prisoners Ever Sent to Canada From Mansion House Court.

London, May 4.—Replying to Lord Strathcona, who had pointed out that Canada strongly resented the sending there of persons who had shown criminal tendencies, the Lord Mayor of London said that in the case mentioned by Lord Strathcona, that of a lad discharged on probation, there had been no understanding that he was to be sent to Canada, although it had been mentioned in court that his parents to give him a fresh start would send him to the Dominion. No prisoners had ever been sent to Canada from the Mansion House Court.

RAISE FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Must Do That to Pay Mission Grants in Full.

Toronto despatch: The receipts of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, as shown by the Treasurer's report, presented yesterday morning at the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Management, held in the Synod office, amount to $102,135, almost the same as last year. As additional grants totalling $5,000 were voted after the apportionments for the year were made and no provision had been made for extra men, the amount stated has to be raised if the grants are to be paid in full.

RIBS BROKEN BY BULL.

Welland Farmer Badly Injured—A Plucky Rescue.

Welland, Ont., despatch: Joseph Wellens, a well-known farmer, living three miles west of Welland, was yesterday afternoon attacked by a bull. While he was leading the animal along the road the beast knocked him down, breaking several ribs, and was only prevented from killing him by a man driving a wagon, who held off the bull until he could drag its victim through a wire fence.

FOUND BABY'S BODY

Little Child Strangled to Death With Umbrella Cover.

Was Murdered Before It Was Thrown Into the River.

Lockport, May 4.—A fiendish murder was brought to light this morning when the body of a baby boy was found in the 12-Mile Creek near the Clinton street bridge, death having been caused by strangulation, an umbrella cover being pulled tightly around its little throat.

Janitor Warren Welsh, of the Court House, was passing along Clinton street shortly after 8 o'clock when he happened to see an object caught among the weeds in the creek. At the time the water was low. Close investigation showed it to be the nude body of a boy with a piece of black cloth around the throat. It had apparently been in the water but a short time, for the flesh was pink and fresh.

Coroner Kittinger, on a hurried examination, stated that he believed the child had been strangled to death by the piece of cloth around its neck, as its head was black, due to the probable fact that circulation had been cut off. He stated that the child could not have been over twenty-four hours old. It weighed about eight pounds, although it looked to be much heavier. It was apparently of American birth. Drs. McNamara and Baker held an autopsy at noon. They found no water in the lungs, and evidence to show that death was produced by strangling. The umbrella case was tied so tightly about the child's throat that it was imbedded under the folds of the flesh. The police will prosecute the matter to the end. A thorough search through lower town failed to produce anything tangible for the police.

PERJURY CASE.

Charged Man With Shooting at Them, But Proved Alibi.

Sandwich, Ont., despatch: Roy McGregor, Aylesworth Calder and Arthur McKee, of Tilbury West, principals in a fight that has been in the courts for two years, were acquitted on a charge of perjury brought against them in connection with a suit in which they were prosecutors at a former court. They charged Oscar McCracken, a neighbor, with shooting at them one night as they were driving past his house, but McCracken proved an alibi, showing that he was away getting married that day, and Justice Riddell, before whom the case was heard, felt it his duty to order the three indicted on a perjury charge. In dismissing the charge Justice Anglin said the jury did right to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

SETS TYPE BY WIRELESS.

The Wonderful Invention of a Danish Scientist.

London, May 4.—That he has already perfected an invention by which he can set type on an ordinary inotype machine in Paris by wireless waves thrown across London was the surprising statement made at the Hotel Cecil by Hans Knudsen, the Danish inventor, famous for his achievements with liquid air, after giving the first public demonstration of long-distance wireless photography.

"I shall publicly demonstrate my new wireless typesetting invention within a few weeks," said Mr. Knudsen. "I have already had the first machine constructed, and it proved successful, setting 3,000 words an hour at a distance, just as if the operator were working the machine."

"The time is not far distant when, with my invention, the London correspondents of the New York newspapers will be able to send their news straight to the printing press through the Marconi operator."

In the course of his demonstration of long-distance wireless photography Mr. Knudsen to-night sent photographs of the King, Queen and Kaiser from one room in the hotel, through the wall into another, without wires, the pictures proving recognizable.

"I claim I can send pictures wherever Marconi can send messages," said Mr. Knudsen. "Within a short time I shall be sending pictures of criminals and finger prints from England to New York."

THREE HURT IN TUNNEL.

Foreman and Men Crushed Beneath Falling Clay.

A Toronto despatch: Injured yesterday afternoon by the falling in of portions of the roof of the new water tunnel under the bay, which Messrs. Haney & Miller are constructing for the city, three men are lying in the accident ward of St. Michael's Hospital. The most seriously injured is "Capt." Peter MacMahon, a foreman of several years' standing with the contracting firm. His injuries are all internal, and at a late hour last night Dr. Scott, who had him under his care, is still unable to determine their extent. The other two men, one a

PETITION SEVEN MILES LONG.

650,000 Signatures on Protest Against Licensing Bill.

London, May 4.—A mammoth London petition against the Licensing Bill, several miles long, and three-quarters of a ton in weight, with 650,000 signatures, will be presented on Monday to the House of Commons. The Wesleyan temperance petition, with 500,000 signatures, will not reach the House before the second reading of the Bill. The Protestant Alliance petition, with 700,000 signatures, asking for a Commission of Enquiry into the condition of conventual and monastic institutions, will be presented next week.

APPLE DEALERS' OFFENCE.

Two of Them Fined for Not Packing According to Marking.

Toronto despatch: A. A. Clark, Brighton, was charged with having packed apples not in accordance with the marking on the barrels before Magistrate Kingsford yesterday afternoon. He admitted his liability, and was fined $3.25, that being the limit of the revised code. The old code placed the fine for such cases at 25c a barrel to $1. There were 13 barrels.

TO PUNISH THE KURDS.

Persia Organizing Force of Ten Thousand Troops.

St. Petersburg, May 4.—A despatch received here from Tabriz states that orders have been received from Teheran to organize a force of 10,000 troops to punish the Kurds. Recently Kurdish tribes have been pillaging the villages around Urmiah, in Persian Armenia, and, according to reports, have massacred several hundred persons.

Fred Street of Kempsville has been appointed to the position of Public Prosecutor for the Eastern Dairymen's Association. Hereafter where the Inspectors find evidence of fraudulent practices on the part of patrons of cheese factories, instead of hunting up magistrates and laying the complaints themselves they will forward their information to the public prosecutor for the division and he will handle the case. Two prosecutors have been appointed for Eastern Ontario.

The League has prospered greatly during the past year, increasing from an average attendance of a little over 20 to over 60, a result that must be very pleasing to the president, Mrs. W. G. Towris, and her faithful, efficient assistants. On Monday evening the members were divided into two parts, led respectively by Mr. Alan Everts and Miss Winnie Wilton, and they are now contesting for a plurality of marks to be won by punctuality and regularity of attendance of the members wearing the distinguishing red or white badge.

Rev. A. J. Roudan, B. D., of Westport, is expected to be present and address the congregation.

Members of the Adult Bible Class, Methodist S. S., combined business and pleasure in a pleasing way at a meeting held on Tuesday evening. After the completion of the business of organization, a decidedly unique and altogether impromptu programme was presented and thoroughly enjoyed. This was followed with refreshments, and a social hour passed very pleasantly. The class has adopted as a name the word "Whatsoever."

Arthur Hawkins, the little son of Henry Hawkins, Main street met with a serious mishap on Saturday last. Mr. Hawkins is employed in the planing mill and the little fellow unnoticed went in where the machines were running and brought his right hand in contact with a saw, with the result that his third and fourth fingers were so badly cut that amputation will probably be necessary. An effort is now being made to save the fingers.

Toronto Globe has to say of the Barber of Seville, "a real comic at last" and from Toronto Mail, "a comic opera with real comedy." The Barber of Seville, Rossini's delightful Comic Opera, headed by Mme. Monti Baldini and assisted by chorus and ballet of 60 people, will be presented at Brockville Opera House on Wednesday, May 13th.

Undisputed Facts About Zutoo
Zutoo tablets are now recognized as being without doubt or question, the best and only safe remedy on the market for headaches and colds.

They have practically displaced all other cures, and are now the only one used to any extent.

The reason is doubtless found in this further fact. Zutoo tablets not only cure headache and colds but, unlike many other remedies, do not affect the heart, nerves or stomach.
