

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., DEC. 23, 1887.

Our Christmas Chat.

It seems but yesterday that we last wished our readers a Merry Christmas, and again the happy season with all its glad reunions and pleasant recollections is upon us.

How many times has this dear old salutation been uttered! Who can tell when it greeted the ear of the first recipient? Down through the ages of the Christian era it has been uttered again and again, bringing to mind all the joy and happiness of this pleasant season.

To us of this generation it is a familiar sound. It is associated with our earliest recollections of Christmas time, when we were boys and girls and used to hang up our stockings by the spacious fireplace for good old Santa Claus to fill.

And the glad old season is again almost here—the Christmas-tide! Bring in the evergreen, deck the mantle, and make ready for the joyful day! This year it comes on Sunday, and a cloud passes before the minds of the children in anticipation.

How long it takes us even when we cease to be children to learn how to commemorate the day in its full meaning! For the merry-making, Monday this year will be observed instead, so the children need not be anxious.

Christmas to the children is the happiest season of the year; a merry, more joyous event could not come within the range of their comprehension. As we grow older the charms proportionately grow less.

Remembering this, we should not fail to put forth our greatest efforts to make this day the gladdest and merriest that lies within our power to do.

Springhill Jottings.

(Correspondence to Acadian.)

Mr Editor,—There are frequent communications from Springhill Mines in the papers of late. No wonder it is growing like some town in the West we read of.

The best class of travellers are daily registering at the hotels. I notice here to-day our M. P. P. of King's Co., who has been consigning through the season quantities of his orchard fruit to this place, no doubt now to return with cash in full.

An enterprising young man of Hauts Co. recently brought in a carload of apples and a carload of Lunenburg cabbages. He is laughed at in his own county for his ventures; but he knows enough to roll the barrels close along to pocket a profit.

Young men, do not be so ashamed of a venture that on the outside may look queer. Dignity it by giving close and fixed attention to the purpose.

Yesterday, the Lord's Day, dawned in leaden clouds, with wind south-easterly, dropping rain in the afternoon and covering us with a pall of mist since the evening. The two or three inches of snow that fell on Friday is nicely settled for slippery footing.

The elevation of a thousand feet or more gives us a snow-cap. I hear that is not yet bestowed upon you in the apple valley. I selected the Episcopal church for morning worship—the Rev. W. C. Wilson, Rector. There were perhaps one hundred and fifty persons, mostly males present.

The responses were spiritedly voiced in every part of the auditorium. The preacher in his surplice stood out before the altar without manuscript and spoke freely and earnestly from the passage, "Forget not the assembling of yourselves together as is the manner of some."

He preached it as a plain command that we should draw with eager sight to the church as the body of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. He alluded to the innovations of some religionists who endeavor to make worshiping services an entertaining show.

Christmas.

BY LEE.

Another year in rapid flight has almost gone. Again has come to us our time of merry-making, when the children clap their hands as in ecstacy they skip about the Christmas-tree, or as not less boisterously they rejoice over the contents of their deeply-freighted stockings, crammed with presents by the mystic Santa Claus.

The elder folk with perhaps not less joy participate in the merriment with more subdued and gentle movements, their hearts glad with the gladness of the youngsters, and also glad in sweet thoughts of the great gift to the world by the Mighty Giver, in whose sacrifice they are partakers, the anniversary of which the Christian world now celebrates.

May it be that at this merry Christmas-tide all shall hear with the shepherds of old the far-off notes of angels—"Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good-will toward men," and may it be that the company of seekers after the Christ child, and the Christ-saviour, shall be multiplied to countless numbers, who may hear at this season what, in saving faith, they never heard before—"Him that cometh unto me, I will in no wise cast out."

The institution of Christmas, according to the best authorities, is attributed by the decretal letters to Pope Telesphorus, who died A. D. 138, and in all the subsequent history of the Church it has been one of the most noted of the Christian solemnities.

The result of an inquiry by the theologians of the 4th century, as to the exact day of the year of Christ's nativity was an agreement upon the 25th of December. In the Protestant districts of Germany and the north of Europe, Christmas is often called "Children's Festival," and Christmas-eve is devoted to the interchange of gifts, as it is with us, especially between parents and children, and brothers and sisters, by means of the Christmas-tree. After the joyful exclamations and congratulations are over a more sober occasion succeeds, for the mother takes this opportunity to say privately to the daughters, and the father to the sons, what has been observed most praiseworthy and what most faulty in their conduct.

Formerly, and still in some of the smaller villages in North Germany, the presents made by all the parents were sent to some one person, who in high buskins, a white robe, a mask, and an enormous flax wig, becoming the bug-bear of the children known as Knecht Ruprecht, goes from house to house, and bestows the intended gifts upon them according to the character which he hears from the parents, after severe inquiries.

Christmas has always been at once a religious, domestic, and merry-making festival in England, equally for every rank, and for every age. The common custom of decking the houses and churches with evergreens is derived from the ancient Druid practices. It was an old belief that sylvan spirits might flock to the evergreens, and remain unimpaired by frost till a milder season.

The holly, ivy, rosemary, bay, laurel, and mistletoe furnished the favorite trimmings, which were not removed till Candlemas (Feb. 2). Holly and ivy still remain in England the most esteemed Christmas evergreens, though at Cambridge and Oxford the windows of the college chapels are decked with laurel.

THE ACADIAN WOLFFVILLE, N. S., DEC. 23, 1887

Local and Provincial.

JUNIOR EXHIBITION.—The Rhetorical Exhibition of the Junior Class of Acadia College took place in Assembly Hall on Tuesday evening last. The essays were good and well delivered.

BRISK.—Our wharves have presented a busy appearance during the past week. Several vessels are loading potatoes and others are discharging coal and general cargo. On Monday the schooner Genoa, of St. John, arrived, and is being loaded with potatoes by Mr. Walton. The schooner Ethel, of St. John, arrived yesterday, and will also load potatoes.

St. John's Church.—Mr. C. H. Fullerton, of King's College, who has been conducting the services for some time, preached his last sermon here last Sunday evening. Services on Sunday next (Christmas Day) will be in the morning at 8 and in the afternoon at 3. Rev. J. J. Byles will conduct morning, and Mr. H. H. Pittman, of King's College, the afternoon services.

STAMMING AFFRAY.—Monday evening a Policeman Barry was conducting a drunken saddle belonging to the model village Wolfville to the lockup, where the fellow attempted several times to stab the officer with a harness knife, but only succeeded in cutting Barry's hand and uniform. Penalty $2.00 or 10 days.

A LIVE MERCHANT.—Mr. S. E. Hux, who recently commenced business in Kentville, seems to have met with a large amount of success. In another column will be found his advertisement, which we would advise our readers to note carefully. Mr. Hux is evidently understanding the art of using printers' ink effectually as well as how to please his customers, and we are glad to see that he is prospering.

MAINE ACCIDENT.—The schooner H. K. Richards, Capt. Macrahan, from St. John, N. B., to this port, encountered heavy weather on the 17th, and while en route to make a harbor at Margaree, she was struck by a heavy sea which drove her on the breaker at that place, and carried away her lower and midships. She arrived here on the 18th, with her cargo (which consisted of general merchandise) in a damaged condition.

LIGHT.—The past few Sunday evenings have been very dark, and had it not been for the public spirit of two of our townsmen, church-goers would have found it rather unpleasant. Messrs Bishop and Shaw certainly deserve the thanks of our people for keeping their lamps burning on Sunday evenings. We understand that more of our merchants are procuring lamps and hope it is true. Mr. Harris has just placed a lamp in front of the American House.

CHINA.—We are pleased to see that this "royal game" is steadily growing in favor. As an intellectual pastime it is unexcelled, and we believe no one would regret the time spent in mastering its principles. Two clubs for the study of this art have been formed in Kentville, one in the town and the other at the College. We understand there is considerable chess talent in our village, and we see no reason why a strong chess club should not be formed here, which should be able to compete with our neighboring towns.

THE CRELAN'S CABRIO.—A report has been circulated for the past two weeks that the apples shipped by the steamer Belair were landed in bad order in London. I to-day received a letter from my agent, dated London, 3d December. They write: "The writer has been twice on board the steamer Belair, and the cargo is turning out in splendid order, not a broken barrel; they look as if just come out of warehouse. Capt. Dunlop is deserving of consideration for the great care taken of this cargo." I trust that this statement of facts will effectively put a stop to the unfair attempt that has been made to damage my business and discourage the export of apples by the Annapolis line. THOS. S. WHIFMAN.

PREBYTERIAN CHURCH.—On Sabbath last Rev. R. D. Ross exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Bezz, of Kentville. Mr. Bezz preached excellent sermons, in the morning at Lower Horton and in the afternoon at Wolfville. Owing to the very unfavorable state of the weather the attendance in the afternoon was not so large as usual. For some weeks the church has been undergoing repairs, during which the services have been held in the basement. These have now been completed, and the services are held in the church as usual, at 11 a. m. The pastor of the church has been considerably improved. The walls have been newly plastered, and the wood-work has received a new dress of paint. The platform has also been raised. The church now presents a very nice appearance.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS ARE TO BE FOUND AT

Borden's In the shape of Silk Handkerchiefs, 40c to $1.75, Neck-ties, Wool Knit Gloves, Kid Gloves, Ladies' Kid Slippers in Operas and Sandals, Ladies' Felt Slippers of all descriptions, Gents' Harvard and Opera Slippers. We keep far the best assortment of these goods in Wolfville. C. H. BORDEN.

Berwick. F. A. Clarke & Sons have completed their new drying house near the steam mill, in place of the one recently destroyed by fire.

Several parties are loading potatoes here for shipment at 42c per bushel by weight, or 45c old measure. Stephen Hiley, Esq., has purchased the homestead farm of John L. Shaw, Esq., opposite his present residence, and anticipates retiring from business. By strict integrity and fair dealing Mr. Hiley has made his business a success, and has well earned the confidence and respect of the entire community, and a happy retirement from the bustle and anxiety of business life. We heartily wish him and Mrs. Hiley a "Merry Christmas" and a "green old age."

The young ladies of the Baptist church and congregation will hold a tea, social and fancy sale on the 23d inst, the proceeds to go into the new vestry fund. This is a very commendable enterprise. The vestry will supply a long felt want. Mr. Percy Raymond, of Acadia, is spending his vacation at Weston. Mr. H. S. Shaw, of class 1888, came from College last week on account of ill health. "No Surrender Lodge," I. O. G. T., at Waterville, under the leadership of the old temperance reformer, C. J. Wolf, is still in deadly array against the rum traffic. The rum vendor finds no quarter here.

Avonport. Mr. Brenton Borden has loaded a vessel and is now loading another with potatoes for Boston; price, 50 cents per bushel. Mr. Walton also has one here which we understand he is to load for New York. She carries about 7000 bushels.

Christmas Readables. See Rockwell's adv. 19 6lb good Tea for $1, at PORTER'S. Very choice Tea, in 3 and 4lb Tins, at 18 B. PRAT'S. A new lot of Xmas Cards to arrive Saturday, at ROCKWELL & CO'S. USEFUL

Thoughts in Season. See there an infant sleeps, Just where the mystic star Cooled from its wanderings Is quiet again— While thro' the tranquil air, Thrown by an angel's hand, Peace and good fellowship Falls into mine. "Peace and good fellowship" should usher in this day celebrated by the Christian world, the day which saw the beginning of that great light which was to illumine the world.

Christmas must be a year and day to the absent. No day of the year calls scattered families together like this, nor makes such pictures of joyful reunions. About the board every seat is filled. The same faces appear happy and home-like as before the duties and changes of life called them away. The old time dishes are laid, and though the mother's face may be a little older and the father's head a little more bent with the weight of life, it is the same home, the same dear and kindly remembered comfort. Yet far from the light of the cheerful blaze, under strange skies, strangers, met together by change and chance, but their thoughts homeward and sigh amid the loneliness of new faces.

Men have grown restless and wanderers. Travel is easy, and young spirits like to see beyond the circle that bounds home. The pale to too contracted, and the allurements of untired strength and unseemly lands call them away. How many of our sons-to-day walk in every clime! Our fathers were not wanderers. Once settled on the spots which by their unrequited exertions have grown to be beautiful homes, they were content to remain, enjoying the reward of their own labors and the rest of home. Nothing excites a man to any land so much as the feeling that by his own hand he has made an abiding place, and that his strength has made it his own and beloved. Side by side the father and son filled the forest and broadened the wheat field. Thus a nation grows. The farmers make a nation, and farmers' sons add to its increasing strength.

Gratitude will cause Christmas bells to peal loudly this season. A rich harvest has been reaped, and the storehouses are filled. Our apples smell sweetly in distant countries, and blush with the glow of a sunny clime. Even on to-day, as the cold winds sweep, ships go hurrying away from us and flying, the chill of our winds bearing the produce of our farms to southern lands. They seek a warmer port, and will probably spend Christmas on the water.

Many a hardy Nova Scotian will be on the sea on Christmas, doing duty as on any other day. For the sailor knows no holiday. One day is like another to him, nor are his weeks always without danger. Perhaps Christmas on the water will be his, honored by a little anchorage. Steward may make a plum pudding and a few extras for dinner. At night the North Star will shine on the back waters guiding him to a safe harbor, guiding him through the night like the Star of the West. A merry Christmas to our sailors—a Merry Christmas to our absent sons wandering over the earth. ROBERTS.

Lady Brassey's Last Hours. In correspondence to the Liverpool Post. It would seem that the party on the yacht consisted of Lord and Lady Brassey, the Hon. Mr. Brassey and the Misses Brassey (three). They had had a delightful cruise, and were homing away from Australia exceedingly pleasant reminiscences. Lady Brassey was continuing her book, and when the yacht left Port Darwin, West Australia, on the 7th of September, seemed in the best of health and spirits. The Sunbeam went for a short cruise along the northern coast, and it is ascertained that there her ladyship contracted some form of malarial fever which frequently prevails in that region. Great uncertainty, nevertheless prevailed as to the nature of the malady, and until the 11th of September no grave apprehensions were felt. On the following day, however, it became apparent that her condition was becoming critical, and her health was evincing the family. No surgeon was on board, and the exact nature of the malady could not be ascertained. On Monday the 12th of Sept., it became evident that recovery was hopeless, and that she was sinking. Next day the scene aboard the Sunbeam was an affecting one. Feeling that her end was nigh, Lady Brassey took a touching and affectionate farewell of her family, every member of which was on board. One of her last injunctions was that the book upon which she had devoted so much attention during the cruise should be published. Shortly afterwards she became unconscious, in which condition she remained until her death, about 11 o'clock on the morning of the 14th of Sept. The interment took place at sunset of that day, and was a melancholy and memorable ceremony. Lord Brassey read a portion of the service, and the other members of the family assisted in the last sad rites.

Choice Miscellany.

Cedar and Holly.

Come, Jean, with your cedar and holly;
Oh, the scent of the woods is sweet,
I'll tell you a bit of a story
As you sit on the rug at my feet;

Of the beautiful running pine,
And I'll tell you a bit of a story,
A story of Auld Lang Syne.

Sit here, if you please, my darling;
In the hearth fire's ruddy glow;
Yes, I like the gleam of the holly,
In wreath with the mistletoe;

Think of it, Jean, my darling;
Here it is Christmas eve,
And Robin is somewhere fretting,
And you are alone to grieve;

Think of it, Jean, my darling;
Here it is Christmas eve,
And Robin is somewhere fretting,
And you are alone to grieve;

Oh, dear! I loved my Jasper
And dearly had he loved me;
Perhaps that was why we quarrelled
For this is the mystery;

He was then on "waiting orders,"
They came on Christmas Day,
And the first I knew was that Jasper
Was gone for a year, and away;

Then the sound of the Christmas carols,
When the little children sing,
Will mind you, my love, of the seraphs,
And their praise of the Infant King;

A Lonely Christmas.
There was a pair of stockings to hang
Up at our house last Christmas, a pair
Of stockings with a hole worn in one little Foot and the heel worn thin in the other.

And after we had exhaled him into his Night clothes that night, and after we had Heard his little prayers with the final
"God bless papa and mamma," we put Him to bed and filled the two little blue

stockings so full and piled high the chair on which they hung. We could hardly sleep for thinking what he would do and say when the Christmas morning came.

They were having a Christmas tree for my neighbor's little boy in the house across the street. I could see the tree with the pretty boy dancing around it.

I knew and felt that he was safe in the arms of the One who carries the young lambs in his bosom, that greater love than mine was around him, a love that could forever shield him from all trials and sorrows, but I could not help crying out:

"My baby, my boy, I want you myself."
The curtain of our parlor was up a few inches, and I could see my wife on her knees, and what did she have in her hands, kissing them again and again with sobs and tears!

Painting a Pain!
A NEW PARISIAN ARTIST'S CANVAS STORY OF A "RHEUMATIC."
"Tell me, Mr. Wright," asked our reporter of the well-known art connoisseur of the Everett, New York, "is American art improving in character and excellence?"

"Very much so."
"Do Americans much patronize foreign art?"
"Yes. And as they pay the best prices, their private galleries contain gems of all the modern masters."

"Which are preferred, works of the modern or ancient masters?"
"The modern. Historical scenes, real and ideal landscapes, and decided characters in figure are the most popular.

"The last time I was in Paris I picked up a very strong bit of drawing, which depicted a middle-aged man bolstered up in a much-bespunged chair, his face and surroundings indicating intense agony.

"His table is crowded with many a physician's phials, abandoned bandages, and used-up blisters. Before him a tub of steaming water derivately sends its incense into his face, and the grate fire cheerily blazes in mockery of his unhappiness. His nurse is a type of dismay.

"I know how the old fellow feels! I myself was for twelve years a victim of inflammatory rheumatism. Every spring and winter perfect torture twisted me for two or three months, during which I was often unable to sleep for a week at a time; was tormented by continuous agony, and at one time was totally blind for a fortnight, the disease having settled in my eyes. I had the best medical skill used all the most approved scientific specifics, visited the famed mineral springs of America, of Carlsbad and Paris,
but every year the same mad fire literally burned me alive!

"I often laugh to myself as I think what an old bear! I too must have been, when suffering as that old fellow seems to be."
"Aren't you tempting fate by making sport of your old enemy?"
"Oh, no, I fear him no longer! My last tussle with him was over two years ago,
and all the agony of the years of remission settled on me then. My physicians gave me no hope of recovery. I had faith in myself, however."

"Well, how did it work?"
"The rheumatism was in my case, as in nearly all others, caused by a disease of the blood, probably produced by unsuspected inactivity of the kidneys, for I had never had any pain in them. Twenty bottles of Warner's safe cure, however, completely purified my blood, and I never enjoyed such robust health as now.
Hundreds of friends in Europe and America have, on my recommendation, used it for general debility, malaria, rheumatism, etc., and I have never heard an unsatisfactory report from them."

U. C. RICHARDS & Co.,
Gents.—My daughter had a severe cold and injured her spine so she could not walk, and suffered very much. I called in our family physician; he pronounced it inflammation of the spine and recommended Minard's Liniment to be used freely. Three bottles cured her. I have used your Minard's Liniment for a broken breast; it reduced the inflammation and cured me in ten days. I would recommend it to all ladies suffering from the same severe trouble.

Never put much confidence in such as put no confidence in others. A man prone to suspect evil is mostly looking in his neighbor for what he sees in himself.
Fenderson has made a discovery. The Latin language, he says, is mostly derived from the English. From our "amatory" they have "amo," and they build the word "lucius" from our word "lucid."

What am I to do?

The symptoms of Biliousness are un-happily but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhoea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate.
There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. They may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatu-lence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this, if not effect a cure, try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle, and thousands attest its efficacy.

his tip toes and pleads for a kiss, she stoops to concur.

lable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers;
there is no mistake about it. It cures Dysentery and Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs.
Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething, is pleasant to the taste, and is the
