The Trial Commenced at London Tester-day—The Courtship and Engagement— Defendant Still Professes Love.

London, Nov. 20 .- The suit for breach of promise brought by Miss Fortescue, actress, against Lord Garmoyle began to-day. Chas. Russell, for the plaintiff, said defendent admitted the promise to marry fendent admitted the promise to marry plaintiff and breaking off the promise without justifiable cause. Miss Fortescue was educated as a lady, but in consequence of her father's failure in business she adopted stage life that she might support her mother and sister. Her salary at the Savoy theatre was three guineas a week at first and later twice that. She made the acquaintance of Lord Garmoyle in society late in 1882. The acquaintance ripened rapidly into mutual regard and intimacy, and in July 1883, Garmoyle made a proposal of marriage. Miss Fortescue accepted the proposal and at once informed her mother. Earl Cairns gave expression to a cordial but guarded approval of his son's course, and wrote Miss Fortescue that his only desire in the matter was for his son's happiness. She replied, assuring him her one and only wish was to make Garmoyle happy. A little after this Garmoyle saw his father, and the latter, while saying he would not himself have made such a choice, gave his consent to the union, July 20, 1883.

The engagement was announced, and Miss Fortesoue became the recipient of kindly letters from other members of Garmoyle's family. In August he told his betrothed his family held very strong views regarding theatre and stage life. They thought the profession was not only full of peril, but ungodly and protane. Garmoyle assured her he did not share these views, but at his request Miss Fortesoue abandoned the stage, and her sister desisted from preparations for Such a life. Miss Fortesoue was afterwards invited to the Cairns house, where she received an affectionate greeting from Lord and Lady Cairns. Suddenly, and without the slightest previous hint, and without the slightest previous hint, Garmoyle in January, 1884, wrote a letter to Miss Fortescue breaking off the engagement. He still professed the deepest love and admiration for her, but said his friends

Attorney-General James admitted these circumstances, but justified Garmoyle's action. The defendant was willing, as be always had been, to grant compensation to the lady to the extent of £10,000. At the same time Garmoyle wished to state that not the slightest imputation rested on Miss Fortescue's character. She had throughout their intercember conducted herself as a highly modest and high-minded English lady.

PRELIMINARY HEARING OF THE THOENHILL ASSAULT CASE.

John Duncan and E. J. R. Hily Come Forward as Bondsmen. The grand jury room on the ground floor of the court house was filled at 1 o'clock presiding magistrates were J. M. Wing nald, J. C. Father Egan, and High Constable Jones presented himself as public presecutor. As is now known, Mr. McCuaig was toroibly ejected from the church at Thornhill last Sunday by Father Egan, because of his alleged retueal to contribute cerrain sums to the church funds. In the scuffle the old man's thigh was fractured.

The accused did not put in appearance, and the high constable asked that a bench warrant issue for his arrest. Mr. Bigelow asked the indulgence of the court, and said Father Egan would be on hand at 4 o'clock, and the court was adjourned to that hour. Father Egan put in appearance when the court reopened, and took a seat beside his coursel. The high constable had eight witnesses took a seat beside his coursel. The high constable had eight witnesses present, but only called two. These were Wm. Hipper and Mary McCuaig, daughter of the assaulted man, who accompanied him to church. The evidence of these two witnesses was very clear as to the assault. The high containing the things of the containing t ble submit d that enficient evidence had been elicited to commit for trial and the magistrates agreed with him. Mr. Bigelow contended that Father Egan thought he was acting under his legal right, and did not use any unnecessary violence. The magistrates decided to commit the accused for trial at the Docember aiting of the crimical court and fixed bail at $2000 the accused in $1000 and two at $2000, the accused in $1000 and two sureties in $500 each. John Dancan, a protestant farmer of Richmond Hill, and E J. Reilly of the Senate hotel, Church atreet, came for ward as the bindsmen.

It was noticeable that when the trial opened several prominent Riman Catholic citizens and five or six prests were present. When the evidence began to get s'rong against the accused they all with-drew from the court room. The trial con-cluded at 6 15.

Prof. "Paxy" Young came in with his nobe head, and after removing his coat sat upon the table, nor did he stir during the reading of the woeful statement. His philosophy and mathematics gave him the composure that he wore. When Mr. Yarker was reading his report George Washington Strathy, doctor of music, from behind his glasses an! with his hand up to his ear, advertised his deafness his hand up to his ear, advertised his dealness and his musical acumen by calling out, "In a higher pitch of voice, Mr. Yark r." Thereupon Mr. Yarker got upon a chair, and said, "I am going to pull the bank through, and will do anything.' Mr. Nordheimer had the most delicate work cut out for him, and he got through quite slick. But he perspired freely in the task. Tom Wood got on h s feet a haif a dozen times -just to explain. Mr. McKee, who wanted to adjourn the meeting came armed with the last report. He acquired the three shaves in his name and paid forty two dollars apiece for them since the break, and so did the other indignant shareholder who supported him. But what shall be said of the venerable Judge long, close-butto ed frock coat. His plenteous hair all standing on its end. The ever present e, e-glas-es dangling in front. But his polished sentences, his venerable appearance gain for him at once the ear of all.

The Federal Bank.

Elsewhere we publish a full report of the proceedings at the special meeting yesterday. The bank had $3,000,000 capital; half a million of this stock has come into the bands of the bank by reason of advances on it and will be cancelled, leaving two millions and a half which it was decided to ask parliament to reduce to onehalf, leaving the unimpared capital a million and a quarter, and other assets of over a quarter of a million. This reduction in the capital and the wiping out of the rest of the bank, were nesessit ted by losses that aggregated $2,900,000.

The proposal to adopt the reduction in great body of the shareholders met yestercapital and to wipe out the bad debts, was cay in the Synod board room, Merchants' carried almost unanimously. It was a sorry blunder at the best.

The trouble of the bank was due, as Mr. Yarker says, to over-trading, far too large credits, stock operations, and the want of a strong inspection department. The main losses were in the Michigan lumber account. and in the lock-up in Winnipeg.

But a future yet remains to the bank. It has a paid-up capital, and unimpaired, of a million and a quarter, it has further assets of a quarter of a million, it has machinery in good running order, it possesses the confidence of other banks, and the general manager has determined to conduct its business on sound banking principles. With these reductions the Federal bank ought to stand in a better position than some of our other financial institutions which have made heavy losses in the Northwest, and who will sooner or later have to wipe them out as the Federal has so courageously done.

Mr. Yarker may well feel proud that his report was adopted by the two hundred angry shareholders without asking him a question, a tribute of confidence paid to faw men.

It would be unprofitable and I shink irriating, and therefore impolitic, to go into the hands of bona ters in a passenger coach. The farmers thought well of the scheme, and it was argued by some that the saving of time and wear of animals, vehicles and drivers, besides the avoidance of damage to the produce, would make it a profitable under taking for themselves.

A plan of this kind, even if not requisite in Octario, would be of undoubted benefit in the Northwest territories along the line of the Canadian Pacific railway, not, of course, at present, but at no very future date. The Canadian Pacific railway, not, of course, at present, but at no very future date. The Canadian Pacific railway, not, of course, at present, but at no very future date. The Canadian Pacific railway authorities should bear in mind this innovation, and should it prove of practical advantage in the States, undertake a similar contrivance themselves.

The coronation, the duke of Wellington's funeral, the thanksgiving that I find the losses are unexpectedly tent events through which popular fermentation escaped. There are also yearly a few ! red letter days on which display is made, Bad debts ....... of November; but these are not of very much account. Wholesale revelry is gradually dying out: witness the decadence of Profit and Loss Accountry fairs, the keeping of Whitsuntide the festivities of boxing day, etc.

On this side of the Atlantic, however, the reverse seems to be the case, and no small proof of this is shown in the eager. ness with which the coming inauguration of the president-elect is looked forward to.

I notice it has been suggested that for some personal advantage hereafter, or other reason, there is a possibility of my over-esti-mating the losses. It is hardly necessary to say that the personal reason does not exist; but it is no weakness to admit that exist; but it is no weakness to admit that in estimating losses to such a large extent, over such a wide field, it is quite possible to err on the right side in my desire to make the Bank safe. As a rule a quick realizable first loss is the best; but Manitoba appear the speedy closing up of all bad and doubtful debts will be the rule where the other course shows too much uncertaint and takes too long time in winding up.
With regard to the Commercial Loan and Stock Company, I called in to my assistance eminent and disinterested counsel; from whom I was glad to learn that th company was at least legally competent to advance upon bank stocks. After much consideration the policy adopted was to take over all its assets, instead of selling out its Federal Bank stock, which would not have been advantaged. out its Federal Bank stock, which would not have been so advantageous; as, by taking the stock and afterwards cancelling it in full the sacrifice involved was much less for the Bank than it otherwise would have been. The liability of the shareholders of the Company on their unpaid stock I am dealing with now, under the advice of the same counsel; and I expect very shortly to complete the liquidation of the Company and forever terminate its existence.

I cannot, however, put an absolute of losses, as they are incident to ever business. The only promise I can make is that by confining our advances to proper within reasonable business enterprises, and within reasonabl limits, losses when made will show som justifiable proportion to the amount of our undertakings.

In the disarranged state of our affairs, the business of the Bank has of course greatly suffered; but I am encouraged to believe that we can now restore and re-model it to advantage, and resume our diviity, being our own property, it has no such force.

Third.—The debtors, principally the Commercial Loan and Stock Co., through whom the stock reverts, are insolvent; and thus the double liability clause in the Banking Act is in no way affected by the cancellation.

Fourth.—Its cancellation puts out of the Bank's hands an element of friction, danger and speculation, and enables us to divide a larger percentage among the outside bonafide shareholders, in a manner more satisfactory in every respect than any other plan, such as holding it as an asset, could do.

Fifth.—Cancellation will make room and lead the way for a fresh issue of stock, should it be found necessary and desirable hereafter in the prosecution of our business to increase the Capital to $1,500,000, which seems to be the amount most generally desired by the friends of the Bank.

I must not close this report without acknowledging my indebtedness to the Managers of the Bank, who loyally assisted me in my efforts and generally accorded with my conclusions. Mr. Strathy's store of information was very useful in assisting me to work out many difficulties; and under specially trying circumstances, his co-operation and ultimate agreement with the result of my inspection, were very gratifying.

It only remains now to ask you to pas such resolutions at the Shareholders' meet-ing as will enable us to get down to Parliament to re-construct our Capital, in accordance with such resolutions, and with a little delay as possible. I need hardly add that I find I have accepted a great and un-usual responsibility, and I pledge myself to remain firm and faithful to the trust and to work out the success of the Bank to the utmost of my ability. I am, Gentleman, Faithfully yours, George W. Yarker, Toronto, Nov. 1884. General Manager.

Mr. Nordheimer, the president, followed Mr. Yarker in the following speech :

note-holders and the appreciation of sound business people, it is reasonable to suppose that an issue of new stock to such a small extent would be taken up in a bona fide manner; and the Banking Act enables us to do this at any time.

I am bound, however, to state that I have had no personal feeling in the matter. I have simply performed my task, under unprecedented difficulties, to the best of my ability and with the single intention or doing precisely what I believed to be right to the both creditors and owners.

Mr. Nordheimer said:

Gertlemen, —In rising to address you to-day, I do so with feelings of more than ordinary regret, and I need hardly say—deeply sensible of the unfortunate circumstances which have necessitated the calling of this meeting. With your permission I will refer as briefly as possible to such events in the past as I consider mainly accountable for the present aspect of affairs, and that I think will go far toward enlightment to the control of the control of the unfortunate circumstances which have necessitated the calling of this meeting. With your permission I will refer as briefly as possible to such events in the past as I consider mainly accountable for the present aspect of affairs, and that I think will go far toward enlight. ening the shareholders as to the trouble we have experienced.

Nou are doubtless aware the Bank was want of a strong Inspection Department; added to which was the general depression and shrinkage all over the country during the past two or three years.

I think it, however, due to the share-like to make the many instances to issue bills of other Banks to customers, thereby losing one of the usual I think it, however, due to the share-holders to make some special reference to the three principal items of loss, namely—the Michigan Lumber Account, the loss and lock-up in Manitoba, and the loss by the Commercial Loan and Stock Company.

It would be unprofitable and I think irritating, and therefore impolitic, to go into the history of these matters in detail, and moreover it would take many hours to do so. The two first may be classed under the general heading of excessive credits, to which I have before referred; and seeing that the mischief was already done, and irreparable, the only wise course in my opinion was the definite and firm one which has been adopted.

> report was prepared they believed, and had every reason to believe, that the busihad every reason to believe, that the business was in a sound and satisfactory condition, that the capital and rest were intact, and that the provision for bad and doubtful debts then made was amply sufficient. The documentary evidence—to which any shareholder who wishes it can have ready access—will convince him or anyone, that the Directors had good reason for making the statement they did.

Although it was known that large sums were locked up in Manitoba and Michigan, they believed the Bank would suffer no loss and have no difficulty in supplying their ordinary wants until the locked up funds were realized. It is now evident that the

As further evidence of the probability of this result, I may here mention that in the written agreement made with Mr. Holland the only condition upon which he would undertake the management and winding up of the estate was, that he should receive half the surplus after the Bank's debt with interest was paid, and from my personal conversation I know he expected a large sum.

We were assured by Mr. Holland that We were assured by Mr. Holland that the earning power was such as to make a reduction of over a quarter of a million dollars annually until the debt was paid; but unfortunately, owing to the sudden depression in the lumber trade, and the Presidential contest in the United States, instead of these expectations being realized, the Bank found itself called upon to meet large balances unknown to us, due on valuable limits purchased previously to the estate being placed in the hands of Trustees, thus accounting for the extraordinary increase in our advances.

As I have already stated it is very clear that the locking up of so much money was that the locking up of so much money was a very serious error of judgment, but had it not been for the disastrous combination it not been for the disastrous combination of circumstances at the time, and had the bank been allowed to nurse the account, I am satisfied no loss would have been sus-am satisfied no loss would have been sustained.

The Manitoba losses and lock-up are mainly attributed, first, to the great reaction in values which has so seriously affected many people and institutions in the Dominion; and second, to the entire disregard of the General Manager's instructions. As soon as this came to the notice of the Board they had special investigations made by independent parties, who were believed to be thoroughly competent, so as to ascertain as nearly as possible the probable amount of loss. Indeed, a gentleman who was thought specially competent, and considered one of our ablest Ontario Managers, was twice sent to Winnipeg during the year, and both he and the new Manager at Winnipeg, appointed in Oct. '83, whose report dated 30th of Aprillast the Directors had before them when theirs was prepared, fully corroborated the statements of others to the effect that all bad and doubtful debts were written off, and where there was any doubt, secured or provided for.

As to the Emerson indebtedness, the Directorshad, at the time their report was made, reliable information that the money had been deposited in London, England, to take up the debentures and pay the Bank off: therefore had and notation factors are mainly as house institution again on its feet and to place it before the public again as a strong, reliable institution. The Federal was not the first bank in Canada that to reduce its capital. Mr. Yarker's statement he considered a good one. They would on adopting the report of the general manager have an unimpared capital of $1,250,000 and other assets to the extent of $270,000. If any of the extent of $270,000. If any of the wise course in June last; it would have been unfortunate for the whole country if they had put up their short spech. He took the course he did because he thought it was in the interest of all the shareholders. He had had a copy of Mr. Yarker's report some days ago and he had submitted it to Mr. Smitherally and other gentlemen of the highest financial standing, and t bo myself has resulted in a loss to me. The Bank has obtained from the Company all its assets and accumulated profits, the shareholders of the Company never having received anything out of it.

To enforce the collection of the loan and realize the securities held when the sudden and rapid, fall of the stock took place, would have been so unwise that your Directors deemed it advisable to assume the securities and wait in the expectation of a more opportune time to realize, a course other large holders have taken.

If the stock had remained tolerably steady the Bank would have been all right, because it was solvent beyond question and was doing a good business, and nothing but confidence, upon which all banking largely depends, was necessary to save the capital; but such a large percentage of the stock was held on margin that it could not be controlled when it began to waver. Having every faith in the report and estimates, I did what I could personally, and at inconvenience and sacrifice to myself, to prevent a ruinous decline; but the adverse influences and state of the money market were such as to prevent the stock getting into the hands of investors, and the consequence was—a panic, and it because influences and state of the money market were such as to prevent the stock getting into the hands of investors, and the consequence was—a panic, and it because influences and state of the money market were such as to prevent the stock getting into the hands of investors, and the consequence was—a panic, and it because influences and state of the money disasters to institutions both in Canada and the United S:ates.

Canada and the United States.

If I might venture to particularize any special course of anxiety to myself during that period, it was the great calamity that, to my mind, would have befallen the general banking interest and business community of Ontario, in the event of our failing to meet the sudden and large demands of our depositors and note holders.

I think I am correct in stating that our liquidation in such a momentous time by liquidation, in such a momentous time by the payment of over $5,000,000 within so short a period, is unprecedented in the annals of Canadian banking; and I cannot annals of Canadian banking; and I cannot but feel gratified, that what might otherwise have proved thus serious, has been successfully averted by the strenuous efforts of myself and co-Directors, combined with the General Manager.

Though not wishing to datain you, allow me to add that I can confidently say that, though we cannot deny, nor do we desire to do so, that great mistakes have been made, we have been actuated in everything we did by a sole regard for the interest of the Bank. With this assurance, Gentlemen, most conscientiously made, I

Gentlemen, most conscientiously made, I beg now to refer to the change thought ad-visable by the Board, of the General Man-ager, which position, after consultation with all the Banks in the city, was offered with all the Banks in the city, was offered to Mr. Yarker, and accepted by him. His long connection with the Bank of Montreal (the principal Institution of the Dominion) is, I think, sufficient guarantee that his report is entitled to be received with confidence, and that he is well qualified to fill the responsible position. Let me therefore express the earnest hope that his report will be accepted without hesitation, no matter how disappointing it may be. I urge its acceptance, not only as President, but as the largest shareholder of the Bank, feeling confident that the interests of every one connected with the Institution will be promoted by its adoption.

Ere closing these lengthy remarks, permit me to express my deep regret and sympathy for the late General Manager, Mr. Strathy, whose retirement was, under the unfortunate circumstances, considered a necessity. It is but justice to him to say that during his many years connection with the Bank, been made nor more anxious to repair them.

I do trust and sincerely believe that the losses as now shown may not turn out as great as for safety's sake we have been obliged to make them appear; because debts and securities we hold, and written off as VALUELESS for banking purposes, cannot be regarded as lost. With the revival of prosperity, especially in Manitoba, I hope that a considerable amount of our now written off assets may be realized.

It was thereupon moved by A. H. Campbell of Toronto, seconded by Thomas Workman of Montreal:

That the report of the General Manager now submitted be adopted. And that the Board of Directors be authorized and directed to apply for legislation at the ensuing session of the Parliament of Canada and take all other necessary stems for carrying out the suggestions.

Directors be authorized and directed to apply for legislation at the ensuing session of the Parliament of Ganada and take all ether necessary steps for carrying out the suggestions therein contained as nearly as possible, and generally to do any acts that may be necessary or proper for reducing the Capital Stock and reorganizing the Bank.

Mr. Campbell in moving the adoption of the report, said there was no use shutting their eyes to the fact that large losses had been made. But he was sure there was not one act of the officers or of the directors which could be brought against them which had not been done in their judgment in the interest of the shareholders. There was no mystery or secreey in the report or in the statement of the president. It was human to err and the directors had not been wanting in this common failing of humanity. Still there was every prospect of putting the institution again on its feet, and to place it before the public again as a strong, reliable institution. The Federal was not the first bank in Canada that had to reduce its capital. Mr. Yarker's statement he considered a good one. They would on adopting the report of the general manager have an unimpared capital of $1,250,000 and other assets to the extent of $270,000. If any of the doubtful accounts should turn out good they would have so much the more. The directors had taken the wisest course in June last; it would have been unfortunate for the whole country if they had put up their shutters then.

Mr. Workman moved the adoption of the report in a short speech. He took the course he did because he thought it was in made, reliable information that the money in had been deposited in London, England, to take up the debentures and pay the Bank off; therefore had undoubtedly good reason to believe no loss would be sustained there.

I deem it important, and my duty, to refer to one other account, about which there has been a good deal of misconception,—that of the Commercial Loan & Stock Company.

This was an incorporated Company duly constituted and authorized to loan money on the security of Bank stocks, and it was legal for us to lend money to the Company, as advised by eminent counsel.

The loans made to the Company by the Bank were made upon what we believed to be perfectly good security, and at the time of our report we had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the advances were fully secured—and let me had no doubt that the directors were either directly or indirectly connected to the full secured with, or ever held any stock in, or derived any personal advantage from the Company all its assets and accumulated profits, the shareholders of the Company never having a good one for the bank: they were starting with an unimpared capital of $1,250,000, the local profits and the full profi

Mr. McKee withdrew his motion as he saw it was against the wishes of the meeting.

The Chairman put the motion for adop tion of the report and it was carried unanimously.

Before the motion was carried T.R. Wood informed the meeting that a number of shareholders had met with him yesterday, and they have decided to support Mr. Yarker's report. He also brought before the present meeting a decision that had been arrived at the meeting he had referred to, namely that four at least of the present to, namely that four at least of the present directors ought to resign.

This latter was considered out of order, but Mr. Nordheimer announced that such a change would take place. One director had already resigned. The chairman suggested that Mr. Wood have an interview with Mr. Nordheimer.

After votes of thanks to the chairman and to Mr. Yarker, the meeting adjourned.

she hadn't a daughter, while Georgina went on to furnish a few more details. Raymond Benyon, in the summer, had been ordered from Brooklyn to Charlestown, near Boston, where, as Mrs. Portico perhaps knew, there was another navy-yard, in which there was a temporary press of work requiring more over-sight. He had remained there several months, during which he had written to her urgently to come to him, and during which, as well, he had received notice that he was to rejoin his ship a little later. Before doing so he came back to Brook-lyn for a few weeks to wind up his work there, and then she had seen him-well pretty often. That was the best time of all the year that had elapsed since their marriage. It was a wonder at home that nothing had been guessed, because she had really been reckless, and Benyon had even tried to force on a disclosure. But they were stupid, that was very certain. He had besought her again and again to put an end to their false position, but she didn't want it any more than she had wanted it be-fore. They had rather a bad parting; in fact, for a pair of lovers, it was a very queer parting, indeed. He didn't know, now, the thing she had come to tell Mrs. Portico. She had not written to him. He was on a very long cruise. It might be two years before he returned to the United States. "I don't care how long he stays away," Georgina said, very simply.

"You haven't mentioned why you married him. Perhaps you don't remember." Mrs. Portico broke out, with her masculine laugh. Oh, yes; I loved him!"

"And you have got over that?" Georgina hesitated a moment. "Why. no, Mrs. Portico, of course I haven't Raymond's a splendid fellow." Then why don't you live with him ?

You don't explain that."
"What would be the use when he's always away? How can one live with a man that spends half his life in the South Seas? If he wasn't in the navy it would be different. But to go through everything—I mean everything that making our marriage known would bring upon me—the scolding and the exposure, and the ridicule, the scenes at hometo go through it all, just for the idea, and yet be alone here, just as I was before, without my husband after all—with none of the good of him," and here Georgina looked at her hostess as if with the certitude that such an enumeration of inconveniences would touch her effectually. "Really, Mrs. Portico, I am bound to say I don't think that would be worth while. I haven't the courage

"I never thought you were a coward," "Well, I'm not-if you will give me time. I'm very patient."

"I never thought that, either." "Marrying changes one," said Geor-gina, still smiling. "It certainly seems to have had a very odd effect upon you. Why don't you make him leave the navy and arrange your life comfortably, like every one

"I wouldn't for the world interfere with his prospects—with his promotion. That is sure to come for him, and to come quickly, he has such talents. He is devoted to his profession; it would ruin him to leave it.

"My dear young woman, you are a strange creature," Mrs. Portico ex-claimed, looking at her companion as if she had been in a glass case. "So poor Raymond says," Georgina answered, smiling more n ever. "Certainly, I should been very sorry to marry a navy man; but if I had married him, I should stick to him in the face of all the scoldings in the "I don't know what your parents may have been; I know what mine are!" Georgina replied, with some dignity. "When he's a captain we shall come out of hiding."

"And what shall you do meanwhile?

What will you do with your children? Where will you hide them? What will Georgina rested her eyes on her lap for a minute; then, raising them, she met those of Mrs. Portico. "Somewhere in Europe," she said, in her sweet tone. 'Georgina Gressie, you're a monster!" the elder lady cried "I know what I'm about, and you will

"At Genoa—yes, you have got it all fixed! You say Mr. Benyon is so fond of the place. That's all very well; but how will he like his infant being deposited there?"

"He won't like it at all. You see I tell you the whole truth," said Georgina, gently.

"Much obliged; it's a pity you keep it all for me! It is in his power, then, mustn't judge her by yourself."

"What can she do to you? How can she hurt you? We are not living in pagan times," said Mrs. Portico, who was seldom so hysterical. "Besides, you have no reason to speak of your mother—to think of her, even—so! She would have liked you to marry a man of some pro-perty; but she has always been a good mother to you."

At this rebuke Georgina suddenly kindled again; she was, indeed, as Mrs. Portico had said, a queer mixture. Conscious, evidently, that she could not satisfactorily justify her present stiffness, she wheeled round upon a grievance which absolved her from selfstand being a man! He might have seen that I only did it to test him, to see if he wanted to take advantage of being left free himself. It is a proof that he doesn't love me, not as he ought to have done: and in such a case as that a woman isn't bound to make sacrifices!" Mrs. Portico was not a person of a nimble intellect; her mind moved vigorously, but heavily; yet she sometimes made happy guesses. Altogether, Mrs. Portico was shocked and dismayed at such a want of simplicity in the behaviour of a young person whom she had hitherto believed to be as candid as she was stylish, and her appreciation of this dis-covery expressed itself in the uncompromising remark: "You strike me as a very bad girl, my dear; you strike me as a very bad girl!' CHAPTER III.

It will doubtless seem to the reader very singular that, in spite of this re-flection, which appeared to sum up her judgment of the matter, Mrs. Portice should, in the course of a very few days. have consented to everything that Geor gina asked of her. I have thought it well to narrate at length the first conversation that took place between them but I shall not trace further the details of the girl's urgency, or the steps by which-in the face of a hundred robust and salutary convictions—the loud, kind, sharp, simple, skeptical, credulous woman took under her protection a damsel whose obstinacy she could not speak of without getting red with anger. It was the simple fact of Georgina's personal condition that moved her; this young lady's greatest eloquence was the seriousness of her predicament. She might be bad, and she had a splendid, careless, insolent, fair-faced way of admitting it, which at moments incoherently, inconsistently, and irresistibly resolved the harsh confession into tears of weakness; and Mrs. Portico had known her from her rosiest years. Mrs. Portico rose also, and, flushed with the agitation of unwonted knowledge—it was as if she had discovered a skeleton in her favorite cupboard—faced her young friend for a moment. Then her conflicting sentiments resolved themselves into an abrupt question, uttered—for Mrs. Portico—with much solemnity:
"Georgina Gressie, were you really in love with him?"

The question suddenly dissipated the "Threw Physic to the Dogs"

Her Husband Away All Hours With the Salvation Army.

Editor World: Allow me to answer the letter which appeared in yesterday's World with regard to myself and W. C. Butt. As I stated to your reporter, and which I say now, since he joined the salvation army there has been no peace. He was away all hours: never returned home until nearly midnight. As regards my sending for him first it is false. After he had left me some time he came around near vevery day to see me and wanted me to the up day to see me and wanted me to to be up house again and live with him. At the advice of friends, who told me to try him again, but against my own feelings, I consented, and then wrote him to get a house. Now as to him asking for the money, he came to the house and wanted $30 and said if I did' not get it for him he would get a broker and sell all the furniture—would knock down the stove and take all away. knock down the stove and take all away. He did bring home the money, but at the same time he was in debt all over, and it went to pay off what was owed, which left us very bare. As to contradicting the report for the sake of his family and his God, that he had better have left out, considering the language he used and the way he acted. I wish myself he never had come back; the fact is, he acted the way he did because I would not join the army with him. I had would not join the army with him. I had seen enough to keep me away. Again, he says my father and himself cursed one another from the time we were married until he left, that is false; my father said very little to him at any time; but letting alone all this, it is nothing to be compared to eloping with a strange woman—disgracing himself and his own family—and leaving me and my child, not caring what became of us. KATE BUTT. Running Street Cars on Sunday. Editor World: Will you kindly allow m to ask if Common Sense can honestly be sustained in defiant opposition to the revealed will of God in the old testament and so strongly supported by the Lord Jesus in His teachings in the new testament. Wherein do we come short in the manifestation of opposition, if it is not in the rejection of His commands? Christ strictly commands that the Sabbath day shall be kept holy, and God as firmly directed that man should not allow his man servant, or his maid servant, or his horse, or his ass to perform any labor on the Sabbath. If men are honestly desirous of worshipping that God, how can they possibly do it in the light of such declarations as the Saviour used when He said, "If ye love Me ye will keep My commandments."

Now, as true christians entertain this view, it is quite evident it is pure nonsense Jesus in His teachings in the new testa view, it is quite evident it is pure nonsense to advocate the running of cars on Sunday in their behalf; and they must honestly believe that all statements made in favor of them as a convenience for people under any other circumstances will fall far short of supporting our zealous citizen, Common Sense, when he is obliged to go into the presence of that Judge who will most unquestionably sustain His own commands. As a resident of Toronto for nearly fifty nine years, I feel deeply interested in every-thing that tends to elevate the tone of christian morals in our country, and I do trust the mantles of human ease and comfort may be lain aside when contemplating any changes affecting the sanctity of Sabbath or the laws of God.

Toronto, Nov. 20. JOHN McIntosh.

A Word for Midnight Musicians.

Editor World : No sound shall e'er disturb my rest, No noise at night wake or alarm me But I will do my very best To show, was the Salvation army, seems to be the motto of a great many Toronto. The peculiar propensity for making this people the target for every ill-worded joke is gaining ground. The Telegram contained an article to the effect that "a salvation army musician amuse himself playing the most nerve destroying airs down Queen street west, about 12 o'clock last night." I take this not as a single instance, but because I know the artist therein referred to, and in the fulness of that knowledge appreciate the awfulness of the insult.

The music may not have been classical the player may not have been an expert, but when the writer of that paragraph arose, attired in the airy garments of night and thrust his head out into the cool atmosphere of a November evening, he lost all right of opinion as to what effect that music had upon the nerves; but when will people learn to "live and let live?" When will spite and ignorance cease to go hand in hand? REPUBLICAN. Toronto, Nov. 19, 1884.

A Pavement Job squeiched. Editor World: The property owners o Wilton avenue have just burst a job for block pavement, which nobody wanted but the contractor expectant. The avenue is in excellent order, there was no petition for improvement and everybody was happy. Meanwhile blockpaving business was getting dul, contractors drove round looking for unimproved streets, and the Wilton avenue folks wake up one morning to find their street is to be paved at their expense as a local improvement. No by laws, no advertising or nasty publicity to the scheme; everything to be done quietly and snugly. The engineer was induced to recommend it, and we were to be reduced to paying for it. It was a matter of n moment to our intelligent official that there is no sewer on Wilton crescent. This is rather an advantage; next year a sewer goes down and a pavement comes up and the fun goes on. By accident the scheme leaked out, and within twenty-four hours a petition was signed by every property owner on the street, except two against the paving, which burst the scheme.

A Sufferer's Complaint. Editor World: Would you please in form me, through the columns of your valuable paper, if there is any way to have an sssignation house, that has existed for years at No 55 York street, suppressed, have drawn the attention of the police detectives, also Mr. Fenton, the crown at torney, to the place, but they seem not able to do anything in the matter. The police are all aware of the kind of a house it is, but for some reason don't move in the matter.

A SUFFERER.

[The World has also repeatedly drawn the attention of the police to this house, as the neighbors have so frequently com-plained about it. -- ED. World.

Editor World: Allow me through the medium of your valuable paper to say that I am not in favor of the running of the street cars on the Sabbath day. I was named at the last meeting of the city council as one of a committee to look into the whole subject; and least this might be misconstrued, I wish to make this state-W. MILLIEWAMP.

Y. M. C. A. by the Senate. The senate of the University of Toronto met last night; the members present being Messrs. Mulock (chairman), Wilson, Ross, Falconbridge, Kingsford, Loudon, McMurchy, Richardson, Moss, Foster, Caven, Galbraith, Houston, Vincent, Oldwright, King, Wright.

Mr. Loudon's motion to abolish seni matriculation in June was carried. Hereafter candidates will be compelled to take t as the first year examination in May.
Mr. McMurchy and Mr. Houston moved the first reading of a statute to provide the holding of matriculation examinations out-side Toronto. On motion of Mr. Kingsford a progress report of the committee on the consolidation of the statutes was

Dr. Wilson offered a resolution recommending that a site be granted to the University college Y. M. C. A. whereon to build a hall for the use of the association. Carried. The site will be fixed on the University of the use of the association. versity grounds in Queen's park.
On motion of Mr. Loudon it was resolved to use the sum heretofore granted for scholar-ships at senior matriculation for the same purpose as junior matriculation, the additional scholarships to be given in classics, mathematics and general proficiency. Dr. Oldwright presented a report of the board of studies on matriculation in medicine, which was adopted.

Mr. Houston moved to abolish scholarships and medals in the faculties of law and medicine, with the exception of the Starr medals in medicine. The motion was not seconded. Mr. Kingsford gave notice of motion to provide for the publication of official reports of the senate's proceeding in the 'Varsity. Mr. Houston gave notice to insert ancient history as an optional subject in pass work the first year.

The senate adjourned until Nov. 28.

Metropolitan Sacred Concert. The Metropolitan church contained large audience last night on the occasion of the sacred concert. The concert was a de ided success. The choir was present about eighty strong, and sang the various chorses with precision of attack and firmness, Much expression was given to Gounod's eautiful Ave Verum, while the chorus, "We Never Will Bow Down," from Judas laccabæus, was rendered with great boldess. Dr. Davies, organist of St. James' athedral, was well received. His principal solos, Bach's fugue in D nd the closing numbers, Wely's 'Offertoire" in G minor and "Fanfare" by Lemmens, were brilliant efforts and go to confirm the impression already made that he is an artist of high order. He gave as encores an andante cantabile of his own composition, played for the first time in public, and Bach's Organ fugue in C major. Miss Walker of New York was the soprano Soloist. She sang Gound's sacred song,
"The light from heaven," but her principal solo was "Hear ye Israel" from Elijah, and in this number she was most success. ful. Her voice is powerful, and of high range, and her tones are pro-iced with great sweetness and purity, her enunciation is defective. The fault is in giving the vowels a false pronounciation for the purpose of producing a roundness tone. Round tones are nice, but the words hould not be sacrificed. F. W. Jameson of New York, although his voice can scarcely be called a tenor, sang "In Native Worth" from the Creation and a beautiful to the Rambus "The Sett recitative and air by Barnby, "The Soft Southern Breezes." Mr. Jameson has a pleasing voice and his singing is careful and artistic. E. A. Stoddard also of New York was the basso. His solos were "I Is Enough" from Elijah, and "The Lord Is Enough" from Elijah, and "The Lord Worketh Wonders" from Judas Maccabeus. The former was infused with all the expression and feeling of which it is so susceptible, and in the latter more difficult and trying number, Mr. Stoddard's rich and melodious voice was used with good effect. His execution was careful and

The audience was thoroughly alive to the excellence of the performance and the soloists were frequently applauded. Mr. Torrington, who so ably conducted has been striving for some time to educat his addiences to be punctual in attendance, and to remain until the end of the performance, and he announced at the close of the first part that as so much disrespect was paid to the singing of "God Save the Queen" at the close of concerts he proposed to have it sung then, which was determined in the close of concerts he proposed to have it sung then, which was determined in the close of concerts he proposed to have it sung them, which was determined in the close of concerts he proposed to have it sung them, which was determined in the concerts he can be concerned to the concer lone. It is hoped the hint will be taken.
