

THE MEN DID CHEER. THE DID SHOUT. THE LADIES THEY ALL TURNED OUT. AND THEY ALL FELT GAY WHEN JOHN-NY CANUCK CAME HOME.

A pointer to Loyal Canadians—Tarte admits that he thinks the Government will be defeated, but vote right to make it a certainty to-morrow.

ALL TORONTO TOOK A HOLIDAY TO GIVE HER BRAVE SONS A CORDIAL RECEPTION ON THEIR RETURN

The Whole Population of the Loyal Queen City Turned Out to Do Their Best Honors for the Men Who Faced Boer Bullets to Uphold the British Empire.

It was a Day When Traitors Were Not Seen, as All Cheered and All Shouted as the Brave Volunteers Trailed a Procession Containing Over 12,000 Canadians, Composed of Men and School Boys—Decorations Everywhere—Scenes on the Streets and at the Armouries.

Toronto spoke in tones of thunder yesterday, and Tarte and his misdeeds are forever answered. Traitors, however high their rank, cannot mistake the significance of the demonstration from Halifax to Toronto.

Receptions unparalleled in the history of Canada greeted the soldiers of the Queen on their triumphal tour, culminating with the most magnificent demonstration at Toronto ever seen in this country.

The question of French domination raised by the Master of the Administration has been silenced forever.

Yesterday's demonstration was not only historic, but prophetic, and this is the interpretation thereof. It was the voice of the lion saying: "Thus far and no farther."

The subjects of Her Majesty in this country have arisen in their might and declared in a manner that none can mistake to whom their allegiance belongs.

Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Peterborough have all spoken, and it is the same prophetic language that he who runs may read.

Ancient Rome could produce nothing grander, more impressive or inspiring than the reception given to Canada's soldiers in their journey from the sea to the West.

Ferguson, James Somers, Assistant City Clerk; John Paterson, Assistant City Treasurer; Richard McArthur, City Messenger; William Evans, Assistant Street Commissioner; Mr. D. G. Lorsch, father of Sergt. Lorsch; Assistant Surgeon-General Tyerwood; Lieut. Wilkie, in charge of the detachment; Messrs. John Ewan and Fred Hamilton, war correspondents.

Arrival at Peterboro. When the train arrived at Peterboro there was no official reception at the station. Something had apparently gone wrong with the Peterboro works, and the soldiers, officials and soldiers, marched up to the park, where the only proceedings were a solo from the band of the 57th Regiment, which was in a hurry to embark on the train for Toronto.

Glad to greet Comrades. The soldiers, fresh from the front, heartily greeted their comrades who had been in the line of duty, and were possibly a little curious of the visit of all the soldiers to England, judging by some of their questions.

The citizens of Peterboro manifested immense interest in the khaki-clad soldiers. The town was splendidly decorated, and when the train bearing the warriors to Toronto steamed out at 10.30 a.m. an immense throng of cheering citizens were on the station platform.

Aid. Cox speaks at Peterboro. Aid. Cox spoke as follows at Peterboro: Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen and Members of the 1st Royal Canadian Regiment—As in the days of old, when a conqueror came home in triumph it was the custom to send forth a herald to greet the returning victor and to bring him on his way, so to-day we have been sent by the city of Toronto to meet in the pleasant and loyal city of Peterboro the heroic sons of Canada who have come back safe and victorious from their duty and sacrifice fighting the Empire's enemies in the Empire's cause. Captain Barker and his men with their sun-browned faces are to us the living memorials of the great and glorious "fruit of the bitter fight" that result from the close knitting together of the Empire. On behalf of the city of Toronto I welcome here in advance all the heroes who come to us to-day—once more to conquer, this time not the enemies of the

MEN OF PAARDEBERG.

By GEORGE WHITFIELD GROTE, TORONTO, NOV. 5, 1900.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year one thousand nine hundred, by George Whitfield Grote, at the Department of Agriculture.

I.
Men of Paardeberg! Welcome home! Thrice welcome, all!
Men of Paardeberg! Welcome to your native Land!
Hear, ye Heroes, who have heard your Country's call,
And obeyed your Queen and Nation's just Command!

CHORUS
Hear our voices! Hear our voices!
Know how loud this Land rejoices!
Hail to our Heroes! Hail to our Heroes!
Hail to the Men of Paardeberg!
Hail to our own Canadian Heroes!
Hail to the Men of Paardeberg!

II.
Men of Paardeberg! You have shown how you can fight!
Shown how our Canadian Homes are to be held,
Shown how England's Cause is Our Cause when it's right, Shown how Canada can help a Nation weld.

CHORUS
Men of Paardeberg, whose dead Comrades calmly sleep
Where they, fighting, fell with faces to the foe, Deep, forever, in your hearts their memory keep,
Hoping ever something of your love they'll know.

CHORUS
Keep this fight in constant mind and what 'twas for!
Stand for Britain's Banner! Stand for British laws!
Stand for HONEST LOYALTY in Peace or War!
Stand for GREATER BRITAIN and the Christian Cause!

CHORUS

Queen, but the hearts and affections of the Canadian people. In conveying this greeting it will be fitting also for me to express to you, Mr. Chairman, and the citizens of Peterboro, the thanks of the city of Toronto for your most enthusiastic welcome and the ready assistance you have rendered in giving the Toronto Company this splendid welcome of your own. I know that to-day the hearts of the two cities of Toronto and Peterboro are beating together in joy and happiness over the return of our noble young veterans, and in closing I think I cannot express better the feelings of us all than in the verses of a well-known author:

The day will seem brighter, when the boys come home,
And our hearts will be lighter when the boys come home;
Wives and sweethearts will press them in their arms and caress them,
And pray God to bless them, when the boys come home.
Our love shall go to meet them, when the boys come home,
To bless them and to greet them, when the boys come home;
And the fame of their endeavor, time and change shall not disserve,
From the nation's heart forever, when the boys come home.

New York, Nov. 5.—Johnny King got the better of W. F. Wahreberger in the 15-mile paced race which yesterday figured as the feature at Vailshure.

From the outset, gradually increased his advantage and won by over three-quarters of a mile. Time 2:08.30.

As the riders were coming around one of the turns, a spectator ran onto the track, and the rider who was leading at that time, John Guinane, was carried off unconscious.

FORESTERS HONORED HEROES

Temple Building Appropriately Decorated for the Occasion Regardless of Expense.

FOURTEEN MEMBERS CAME HOME

From the War in South Africa and They Were Banqueted by Oranhyateka, S.C.R.

Never before has Toronto borne such a large appearance as it has this couple of days. The passion of everyone has been to decorate the building with flags and inscriptions. The amount of labor expended on decorations must have been enormous.

After exhausting the supply of bunting, flags, etc., in the city, a telegram was sent to Hamilton, ordering a quantity of dollars worth of the patriotic material forwarded post haste.

The two pillars which support the verandahs on Bay and Richmond streets, were entwined with the emblems of the Order of Foresters, and on either side of each was a long cross, made in greenery stretching from the first to the fourth floor.

THE GREAT ENTHUSIASM OVER THE QUICK TRIP FROM MONTREAL

Donald McMaster, Q.C., and Prominent French-Canadian Politicians Addressed 12 Meetings and 12,000 Electors in a Single Day.

Every Town En Route Contributed Its Hundreds to Hear and Cheer the Speakers—The Greatest Enthusiasm Shown at Every Stopping Point—Will Return to Quebec To-day.

ed credit on them, and on them alone. It was, in short, an invasion of Ontario by Quebecers, in which Ontario was vanquished by a wealth of oratory and a display of strength, consisting seldom equalled in Canada.

The Message from Quebec. The orators from Quebec brought with them a message, and was that the older province would send 80 Conservative members to the next Parliament. The message was made with no imaginative flourish, but was given as the result of mature sifting of the situation.

At Belleville. At Belleville, the home of Harry Corby, a Conservative candidate, was a particularly attractive audience, for it seemed as if all the young men for miles around had come to town arranged in their best to receive the visitors.

At Corwall. At Corwall, the party was met by E. A. Pringle, Conservative candidate. Every body spoke. The strong speech was made by George P. W. Walker, who, in vigorous English, candidly exposed the fallacies of the present Administration.

At Morisburg. At Morisburg, Broder's constituency was entered, and he accordingly acted as chairman, and introduced the visiting politicians. Sir Mackenzie Bowell made an explanation. He declared that although he had been in the interests of Dr. Preeben and against Hon. John Haggart in South Lanark, yet he desired it to be distinctly understood that he would do nothing to throw a ball in the way of the success of the party.

At Brockville. At Brockville the big reception was not large, but the other receptions were not large, relatively speaking. John Culbert, the Conservative candidate, and J. R. Moore, the local Conservative orator, did the honors for the town.

At Thousand Island Junction. At Thousand Island Junction, a point in the St. Lawrence river, a general greeting was extended to the visitors. Mayor W. B. Carroll of Gananoque did the honors.

Miss Magee, an Aged Visitor in the City From Picton, Was Run Down and Killed at Gerrard and Jarvis-Streets.

It is Said to Have Been an Accident—Miss Ethel Threlkeld Believed to Have Been Fatally Injured by a Falling Plank—Other Bad Mishaps.

Yesterday, the day of rejoicing over the return of the soldiers to Toronto from South Africa, was marred by one fatal accident, and another, which will probably result in the death of a young woman. There were several other accidents of minor importance, and as a result the downtown hospital doctors were kept busy attending to the injured ones.

HEARTLESS DRIVERS.

The occupants of both vehicles drove on without even inquiring if the aged woman was hurt. Miss Magee was carried in an unconscious condition to Dr. Beeve's surgery, but the physician was not at home. Dr. McCollum was hastily summoned by telephone, but before he arrived at the home the woman was dead.

tion. "I wish I had a knife to cut off a button, or a pen-knife, or any such thing, and I could have used it on the men who were so disrespectful to the Queen. I wish I had a gun, and I could have shot them all down. I wish I had a bomb, and I could have blown them all up. I wish I had a sword, and I could have cut them all in two. I wish

I had a dagger, and I could have stabbed them all. I wish I had a poison, and I could have killed them all. I wish I had a noose, and I could have hanged them all. I wish I had a gallows, and I could have executed them all. I wish I had a guillotine, and I could have beheaded them all.

I wish I had a cross, and I could have crucified them all. I wish I had a block, and I could have beheaded them all. I wish I had a sword, and I could have cut them all in two.

I wish I had a dagger, and I could have stabbed them all. I wish I had a poison, and I could have killed them all. I wish I had a noose, and I could have hanged them all. I wish

I had a gallows, and I could have executed them all. I wish I had a guillotine, and I could have beheaded them all. I wish I had a cross, seemed insufficient and inadequate. He would invoke the past with all its glories to produce a record of valor on the battlefield, of brilliant charges, of heroic deeds, of high, tolling maces, and of glorious victories won, even in defeat, to surpass the achievements of the soldiers of the Empire in South Africa. They were proud that Canadians had participated so brilliantly. What prouder record was to be achieved than to be enrolled among a nation's heroes?

Captain Barker's speech.

In response to most and re-echoed calls for Captain Barker, that gallant officer at last stepped forward, amid the cheering and applause of all. Mr. Ald. Leslie, soldiers and citizens of Toronto—I do not wish to attempt anything like a speech. I can hardly speak now. I wish to thank you all from the bottom of my heart for the magnificent and most loyal and enthusiastic reception that you have given me and my company to-day. [Cheers.] It has surprised any possible ideas we ever had, and, compared to those we have ready gone thru, is as a cyclone compared to a seephy. I must say that the enthuiasm shown upon our homecoming has fully compensated myself and all the men for the hardships that we have gone thru during the past 13 months. I never want a better lot of friends than the men that came from this district. [Tremendous cheers from the contingent.] I never had more minutes' trouble with them from start to finish of the campaign—cheers—and I think I can safely say to-day that they are my friends. [Loud cheers.] I wish to thank you all. I am sorry that all have not returned, but, as Lord Roberts said after the surrender of Crotoy, "I regret exceedingly the loss of so many brave Canadians, but we cannot have war without losses, and I would not detain you longer. I know you are all anxious to get out of the crowd. [Loud cries of "Go ahead."] I wish only to thank you again and to repeat that I had such exceedingly good support from my men that my task was made comparatively easy throughout the campaign. I thank you once more, and shall excuse myself, as my throat is exceedingly sore and I am done up." [Great cheers.]

Attorney-General Gibson.

Chief Justice, the Attorney-General, on behalf of the Government and the Legislature of the Province, followed and said:

"Officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the South African contingent, heroes of Paardeberg—in the absence of the Premier of Ontario, who greatly regrets his inability to be here to-day, I offer you, in the name of the Government and Legislature of this Province, a warm welcome to your homes.

"I was present in the Armouries on the occasion of the departure of the first contingent, and the stirring and patriotic discourses then delivered are still fresh and distinct in my memories.

"Your commanding officer then assured us we need have no fear that you would not do your duty. You have nobly done your duty. Your fellow-Canadians have time to time heard with satisfaction and pride testimony coming from the highest authorities of your devotion to duty, your endurance of the hardships of campaigning, and your bravery on the field of battle. The words of praise spoken by Lord Roberts and other general officers of high rank respecting the conspicuous part taken by you at Paardeberg and the gallantry displayed by you on that occasion thrilled our hearts with patriotic pride and emotion and testified to the world that Canadians can fight side by side with the returning army of the Mother Country, and do their full share towards maintaining and upholding the glorious traditions of the British army.

"Some who left these Armouries a year ago will never return. Their life-blood has been shed in the service of their Queen and the Empire, and their graves on the field of South Africa shall be for all time testimony of Canada's devotion to the Mother Country in the hour of critical danger.

"You and your absent comrades, not only have our loyalty to the Queen been proved, but the future destiny of Canada as an important branch of the Empire—is no longer a mere colony—has been unequivocally pronounced.

"People of this Province on all hands tender you on your home-coming earnest words of welcome and praise. Had the Premier present his words would have been words of genuine and stirring eloquence;

but, as an old member of the Queen's Army in the early history of the Regiment, as a veteran of 1866, and as the active military officer, who has been commanding officer of some of you from the 13th, and has associated with nearly all of you on field day occasions here at home, you know how really and sincerely I join in a general expression of gladness and satisfaction on your return.

"In conclusion, I think the time may be considered, I feel confident it will come, and soon, when, in addition to words of welcome and eulogy, the people of Ontario, their representatives in the Government and Legislature, will offer you evidence of more substantial recognition of the services you have rendered to your country and

The effect is: the little one takes on strength; gets hungry; eats and is happy; gets fat—he ought to be fat—and gets healthy.
