J. W. Kedwell has resumed publication of the Atlas Craig Banner.

The annual convention of the Women's Institutes of Western Ontario is being held in London this week.

Fields Chittick, 16 years old, had one of his hands badly torn and lost one finger while operating a brake machine in the Alvinston flax factory.

The Los Angeles Times appeared with a page of news printed without type. Articles were typewritten, photographed and a zinc etching made therefrom.

The cost of labor on a $15 pair of ladies' shoes is 93 cents, according to evidence given by a buyer for the T. Eaton Co., before the Board of Commerce at Toronto.

Harmon E. Kitchen, a resident of Strathroy for the last fifty years, died a few days ago while on a visit to his son in Hamilton. He was in his 76th year. Hilliard Kitchen of Appin is a son.

Four old residents of Dunwich cast their ballots for the first time in their lives last week at Cowal. They are Mrs. Catharine McLachlin, 95; Mrs. Wm. Marshman, 89; Mrs. Hannah Milligan, 87, and Mrs. Barbara McCallum, 86.

While acting as a deputy returning officer in the recent elections Samuel Hodgins, one of the most prominent men of Biddulph township, died suddenly of heart failure. Mr. Hodgins was reeve of Biddulph for many years. He was 72 years of age.

Discovery of a method to restore life to the dead is the remarkable claim made by a Burmese woman doctor, according to a Central News despatch from Bombay. The treatment lasts for seven days, with applications of remedies both internally and externally. The doctor claims that the patient comes to life with a new mind and better features than possessed before death.

The criminal waste of fruits and vegetables in New York due to the longshoremen's strike is something appalling. Two million dollars' worth are rotting along the river docks and in the holds of vessels from South America and Southern European ports.

The emphatic confirmation of the Ontario Temperance Act removes the temperance question from the political field and allows an opportunity for other reforms to receive attention that is due them.

The liquor traffic has been a bone of contention in Ontario politics for at least a score of years. Now that it is settled, the road is cleared for other issues that should receive more consideration than they are getting.

That cheese factories will be a thing of the past in Oxford county within two years is the statement credited to Robert W. Johnston, cheesemaker.

"Since coming to Woodstock I have seen thirty factories go out of business in this immediate district," said Mr. Johnston, and he added that in the part of Western Ontario through which he travelled he knew of more than two hundred factories which have ceased manufacturing cheese.

"It will be five or six years before the automatic telephone system will be installed in Ontario," stated F. W. Dewar, manager of the Bell Telephone Co., Windsor. He declares that it would take four years to get the requisite machinery, and at least another year to install, but added that in not more than six years, the automatic system will be in use throughout the entire country. Plans are already under way, however, to install the new system as soon as possible.

THE PRINCE AT GLENCOE

Welcomed by Largest Crowd Ever Seen Here—His Royal Highness Pleased With Splendid Reception Given

Glencoe and vicinity took full advantage of the short visit of the Prince here on Thursday.

The royal train arrived at the G. T. R. depot at 2:30. The railway company had the station suitably decorated with flags and bunting. A portable platform was erected a short distance from the end of the station in a good position to allow the large crowd a splendid opportunity to see the Prince to advantage.

This platform was decorated with flags, bunting and mottoes of welcome. A carpet was stretched from the main track to the platform and on the platform.

The local veterans, under Capt. Dr. Freele, formed a guard of honor. The pupils of the high and public schools marched in a body and took a position near the platform, each with a small flag in hand. The I. O. D. E. also marched to a position near the platform and carried flags.

Excitement ran high as the royal train approached. Such cheering was never heard here before by so many people, each trying to get the first glimpse of the Prince. The moment the last coach of the train stopped opposite the platform, the Prince, dressed in his neat grey civic suit, stepped out and was received by Reeve Wright.

The Prince began shaking hands with all veterans, passing up one side and down the other. Reeve Wright then escorted the Prince and some members of the Royal staff to the platform, where J. N. Currie, chairman of the Soldiers' Aid, and Councillors McPherson, Hagerly and Lumley were presented to His Royal Highness.

Reeve Wright gave the civic address of welcome, expressing the pleasure it afforded the citizens to have the honor of a visit from His Royal Highness. Immediately following the civic address the school children, under the able instruction of Prof. Gordon, sang "O Canada," and later other patriotic songs.

The Prince, in his reply, said it was a great pleasure for him to visit the bright little town and to see so many out to greet him. He was particularly interested in meeting so many of his comrades who served in France and Flanders. He was pleased to see so many of the pupils of the schools out to greet him with their patriotic songs, and asked the reeve to proclaim a school holiday to commemorate his visit at Glencoe.

J. N. Currie, who as chairman of the Soldiers' Aid Commission was instrumental in arranging for the royal train to be stopped, spoke a few words of welcome on behalf of the Great War Veterans and Soldiers' Aid Commission. Following this the next of kin were presented. While waiting for the royal train to arrive the chairman of the Soldiers' Aid asked all parents and next of kin of fallen soldiers to take an important place directly at one end of the platform. Those who came forward were George Bechill, Mrs. Newport and Mrs. Moore from Glencoe, and Rev. Dr. Husser from Wardsville. The Prince spoke words of sympathy while shaking hands with each as they were presented.

Mrs. Peter Skill, for many years a respected citizen of Glencoe, came back to her native town to be presented to His Royal Highness, she being privileged to wear two silver medals, planned on her late husband's breast by Queen Victoria, he having served in the Crimean war.

The little Miller boys (twins), who lost their mother some years ago and their father killed in action, were then presented to the Prince. His Royal Highness shaking hands with each and acknowledging the military salute.

The train stopped over the allotted time, influenced no doubt by the splendid reception given, and as it slowly pulled out the Prince again expressed his delight at the fine welcome he received. Everybody joined in singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "God Save the King." Hats and flags waving brought to a close all too short a royal visit.

The Prince carries away an impression of patriotic, generous and courteous citizenship which we think he will not overlook when reflecting on the many places he visited. And the people of Glencoe and district in turn will not soon forget the charm of Prince Edward.

He has left with us a picture of manliness—boyish enough to be lovable—and the impression of a frank, honest and tactful young man, unspoiled under an experience that would have turned the head of many another. Thus his brief visit has bound still closer—if possible—our ties with Motherland and all parts of the Empire.

CHAPTER XVIII.

In thinking it over afterwards Burke Denby tried to place the specific thing that put into his mind that most astounding suggestion. He knew very well the precise moment of the inception of the idea—it had been on Christmas night as he sat before the fire in his gloomy library. But what had led to it? Of just what particular episode concerning his acquaintance with this girl had he been thinking when, like a blinding flash out of the dark, had leaped forth those startling words?

He had been particularly lonely that evening, perhaps because it was Christmas, and he could not help comparing his own silent solitude with the gay, laughter-filled, holly-trimmed homes all about him. Being Christmas, he had not even the diversion of his secretary's presence—companion-ship. Yes, it was companionship he decided. It could not be that when she brought so much love and enthusiasm to the work, as well as the truly remarkable skill and knowledge she displayed. And she was, too, such a charming girl, so bright and lovable. The house and not been the same since she came into it. He had not like to let her go—now. But if only she could be there all the time! It would be much easier for her—winter storms were coming on now, and as for him—his shoulders were aching.

Burke Denby plumed himself that he was doing his questioning most diplomatically when, the next morning, he began to carry out his plans. With almost superhuman patience he had waited until the morning letters were out of the way, and until he and his secretary were working together over setting the papers in a hitherto unopened drawer.

age, he should judge—his little girl would be eighteen—by now. Her name was Elizabeth; she had told him that, at the same time saying that she was always called "Betty." There was a mother—but he had never heard the girl mention her father. And they had dropped, as it were, right out of a clear sky into Dalton, and into his life. Could it be? Of course it really was too absurd; but yet—

With a sudden setting of his jaws the man determined to put his secretary through a course of questions, the answers to which would forever remove all doubt, one way or another. If at the onset of the questioning she gave suddenly evasive and confused, he would have his answer at once; she was his daughter and was attempting to keep the knowledge from him until such time as her mother should wish to let the secret out. On the other hand, even if she were not confused or evasive as to her answers, she still might be his daughter—and not know of the relationship. In which case his questions, of course, must be carried to the point where he himself would think no more about it; and, above all, he would keep his thoughts from dwelling on what it would be if—she were.

Having reached this wise decision, Burke Denby tossed his half-smoked cigar into the fire and attempted to tug as lightly the whole subject from his mind—in attempt which met with sorry success.

ing: "Well, she doesn't know, what ever it is. Aloud he rained: "And were you, too, ever here?"

"Why, yes; but I don't remember it. I was only a year or two old, another man's child."

The man almost leaped from his chair. Then, sternly, he forced himself to work one full minute without speaking. A dozen agitated questions were asked for utterance, but he knew better than to give them voice. With a cheery casualness of manner, that made him inordinately proud of himself, he said:

"Well, I certainly am glad you came now. I'm sure I don't know what I should have done, if you hadn't. But, by the way, how did you happen to come to me?" Again he held his breath.

But Betty was too absorbed to be frightened, or even merely self-conscious.

"Why, I don't know, but I don't think so—except my eyes. Everyone says my eyes are like hers."

Burke Denby got suddenly to his feet and walked quite across the room. Apparently he was examining a rare old Venetian glass Tear Vase, especially prized by him for its associations. In reality he was trying to master the tumult within him. He had now not one remaining doubt. This stupendous thing was really so. She was his Elizabeth; his—Betty. Yet there remained still one more test. He must ask about her—father. And for this he must specially brace himself; he could imagine what Helen must have thought her—of him.

Very slowly, the vase still unconsciously clutched in his hand, Burke Denby walked back to the table and sat down.

Good Table Manners.

Perhaps nowhere more than at the table does one's breeding show itself. Refinement of manners tells of careful upbringing and a home background in which worthy standards of conduct have a place. Coarseness or rudeness at the table tells just as plainly of the lack of training, the lack of standards and lax methods of thought.

Young people are not to blame if they are not taught what is permissible and what is taboo, and it is a great injustice to them to permit them to go out into the world unprepared to take their places with grace and dignity, for we cannot get away from the fact that people judge us by our appearance and manners. It is quite right they should, too, for these are the display windows in which we hang the good or bad qualities which we have to offer to the people about us.

It is exceedingly rude to mark on the tablecloth with a knife, fork or spoon for any purpose, whether to illustrate what is being said or just as a pastime. Any one who does this is sure to be suspected of not being accustomed to having a tablecloth as a usual thing or of knowing how to use it.

It is illbred and nerve-trying to others for any person at the table to make a plaything of napkin ring, knife, fork, spoon, salt or pepper shaker or anything else. Not only is the jingling and confusion disturbing, but the silliness of it attracts attention and is disturbing. The mealtime should be a time of repose and quiet enjoyment.

The attitude at the table should be one of comfortable alertness. No one needs to sit upright like a ramrod, nor is it polite to lounge as though lacking a spine. To rest the elbow upon the table and rest the head upon it, to place the forearms upon the table or to lop sideways in the chair is simply boorish. Anyone too weary to hold himself up should not foist himself upon others. Bed is the place for such a one until he can take his part in the everyday scheme of things without being an annoyance to others.

To tip the chair back or to sit in the rear posts, or to keep moving about in it to cause it to squeak and grate upon the floor, is illbred.

When a discussion comes up at the table as to a statement or date which can only be settled by looking at a book or a calendar, it is not allowable for any one to leave the table to look the matter up, for that spoils the mealtime for the rest and the decision will await until the next is over.

In the same way some folks who home table allow the habit to fasten itself upon them of jumping up and down to get this, that or the other. This is a mere habit and is a very disagreeable one. Even where no maid is kept a little thought will reduce the confusion of serving the table to a minimum, for it is possible to have a side table at hand or a tea wagon so as to change the course with little confusion.

The use of the napkin is a simple matter. At home it should be unfolded and laid across the lap, never tucked into the neck or vest like a bib. At a formal function or a public eating place the napkin is left unfolded. At home or where a guest expects to remain for another meal it is folded and laid at the right of the plate. Those who wall their napkins into an unsightly ball are open to the suspicion of not being accustomed to the use of a napkin.

The spoon should be left in the saucer, never in the cup, and the fork should always be used in place of the spoon whenever possible. Food is taken from the side of a spoon, never from the end, and it should always be taken noiselessly.

To take a second helping of anything at a formal affair is not good form, but this may be done upon other occasions. When accepting a second serving, lay the knife and fork on the plate, side by side. Never hold them in the hand, pose them in the air or lay them on the cloth.

To brush up the crumbs about one's place with the hands after finishing is very rude.

Those at the table await the signal of the hostess to arise, even as they have waited for her to give the signal when those about her board shall sit down.

Never introduce at table any subject for conversation which is gruesome or offensive in its suggestion. Avoid argument or fault finding, as this retards digestion. Remember that laughter and congenial conversation are the best sauces which can accompany any meal.

The Tank in Peace Time.

It is satisfactory to learn that the tank, upon which so much ingenuity and skill was expended in its construction, is not to be confined merely to military purposes. It has had napped out for it another career; it is to become a mountaineer. In the Haute Savoie, there is to be a race of tanks in order to test their practicability for traction use on mountain routes, says an English newspaper. A number of war tanks have been entered for this competition of storming the Alps, organized by the Touring Club of France and the Automobile Club. It will be a moment of no small excitement to the little people in the villages through which they pass when the first great monsters come ambling up the mountain side. But that, of course, will apply only to the places, if they still exist, where the cinematograph has not yet found its way.

Care of the Teeth.

It is a peculiar physiological fact that at birth the jaw contains the already calcified crowns of the temporary teeth and also that of the first molar of the permanent set. This fact alone is sufficient to direct attention to the care with which the mother should diet herself during the prenatal period.

The next interesting physiological fact is that, at the age of six years, the child has a greater number of teeth than at any other age, and there being then the milk set and all the permanent set except the wisdom teeth.

To ensure that both sets of teeth shall be normal and healthy it is essential that there be most careful feeding of the infant and child, for any condition causing malnutrition will interfere with the proper formation of the cap of dentine and permanent defects will result. Defective dentition causes the teeth quickly to become carious after being cut.

The health of the child requires that the temporary set should be sound, otherwise it cannot properly perform the process of mastication. The lowering of the vital functions of the child reacts on the permanent set of teeth and too often they reach the surface in a diseased condition.

It will not do to feed the baby on patent foods, cabbage, fried fish, etc., the same food that the parents eat, as it ruins the digestive apparatus and results in bad teeth. It is a fact that children's first teeth decay soon after they appear and, from growing behind the bad first teeth, the second set decay, too.

It is therefore essential that proper attention be given to the careful and systematic cleaning of the teeth night and morning. Indeed the mother should anticipate trouble by a careful wiping of the child's mouth before the teeth appear, using either a solution of boracic acid or of salt. With the appearance of the teeth a soft brush should be used in place of the clean linen wipe.

As all decay begins on the outside of the tooth and works inward, and no pain is complained of until the decay gets near to or actually reaches the live part of the centre of the tooth, parents should systematically examine their children's teeth and, thus, by early dental treatment, save the live part of the teeth, remembering that treatment is necessary although there may be no toothache with the decay.

As to the decay of teeth, matter forms and, in most instances, passes into the digestive tract. This poisons the system—in adult life a similar condition occurs in pyorrhea and, as a result, debilitating diseases follow. We should therefore resort to pre-

The Need of Potato Grading.

When the marketing of your perishable and semi-perishable farm products is compared with the marketing of other classes of commodities one notices a vast difference in the process. For instance, an inquiry addressed to a steel mill as to the price of rails is not likely to result in definite quotations until the kind and size of rails are specified, and a farmer asking his hardware dealer as to the price of rope will at once be asked as to the kind and size of rope desired. Few prospective purchasers would greet a merchant seriously with the question, "What are plows worth to-day?" If one did it is quite likely that he would receive a reply somewhat along the following lines: "We have a twelve-walking plow at one price and a sixteen-inch gang plow at a vastly different price." The same holds true of most classes of merchandise; size, kind and quality are so closely associated with value that they must be stated when designating the price.

It is at this point that the marketing of certain classes of farm products is different—unfortunately, quality and price are not so closely associated at least at the producer's end of the line. If the individual who inquired about plows were to ask his local grocer about what he was paying for potatoes, it would be unusual if he did not receive the prompt reply, "a dollar" or whatever the case may be. On most lines it is one price as far as the farmer is concerned.

To be sure, these commodities are usually graded before they reach the consumer, and it is this very item—grading—on route from producer to consumer which contributes to the "useful cost" of distributing farm products that most of us complain about.

It can hardly be said that any one class of individuals is to blame; however, the producer is as much at fault as anyone in this respect. It is he who most strenuously objects to grades and standards. Regardless of who is to blame, one thing is certain: As long as the producer sells his potatoes as potatoes, and as long as his farm products will never reach the same level of perfection in marketing as have other classes of merchandise, certainly there is just as much need for grades and standards by which to designate value—price—as there is for grades and standards in steel rails for designating price.

For will dispute the assertion that there is as much difference in value, relatively, between a five-ounce scabby potato and a twelve-ounce smooth, disease-free one as there is between fifty-pound and one hundred and ten-pound rails.

All unstandardized products must either be sold by inspection or upon the reputation of the seller—never by the merits of the goods before they are seen. Inspection only adds an extra handling charge, and causes a great deal of inconvenience.

The shipper may say he has a No. 1 potato, but what constitutes a No. 1 potato? If each of fifty growers and dealers were asked to sort a bushel of No. 1 tubers, there would be many different kinds of No. 1's sorted from the same pile, because of a lack of a common gauge by which to judge a No. 1 potato.

Marketing Via Ad., Telephone and Post-Cards.

One man I knew had a crop of excellent pie pumpkins, altogether too nice to feed to his cattle. He filled a wagon and peddled from house to house in the nearest town. He returned home with half the load and informed his wife: "Pumpkin pie isn't popular this year." He reduced his price from two cents to one and one-half cents a pound on a second trip, and still had pumpkins left. A third trip was necessary to sell all the crop.

Another man with pie pumpkins not a bit better, placed an advertisement in the local newspaper. It wasn't long before an expert would have written: nothing flowery; nothing calculated to create an appetite for pumpkin pie, except the mere mention of the word—which is enough. He quoted a price of two cents a pound delivered, one and one-half cents a pound at the farm. He also added: "Phone L34, or drop me a card," and gave his name and address.

This simple advertisement, costing only about $1 for several insertions, sold twice the number of pumpkins that a personal house-to-house canvass had sold for the other man. Pumpkins ordered delivered were taken to town where other reasons made a trip necessary. Farm sales in most cases were managed by the women folks.

A producer living near a fair-sized town can often turn a vegetable or fruit crop to excellent profit by the small ad., telephone, post-card route. The higher the retail store price, the better the opportunity for direct selling. The telephone in this trade is a priceless asset. When the phone number is mentioned in a small advertisement, the telephone brings orders from scores of housewives, accustomed to buying all provisions by phone. They could be reached in no other way.

When phone number alone is advertised, orders from those families without telephones, which are in the majority in some places, are certain to be reduced. Therefore, when inserting an advertisement, put after the farm phone number—"or drop a post card, Avondale Farm, Windsor." That little stroke of thoughtfulness automatically trebles the number of prospective customers. Post cards furnish a valuable service at a ridiculously low price and can be popularized as business getters for farmers. They are little used at present.

Don't Let Your Land Run Away.

There's an old saying that it's an ill wind that blows nobody any good. It might with equal propriety be said that it's a most unusual flood that doesn't carry somebody something of value. It is certainly true that hillside drainage waters may in some places be turned to good account, and be made indirectly a source of benefit. The writer is thinking of a farmer acquaintance whose land catches a large part of the wash from an adjoining farm of higher altitude. The previous owner of the lower farm was very indignant at the seeming unfairness of nature, and sought in every way to rid himself of his neighbor's drainage waters. His successor, however, thought otherwise. The floods from the uplands were encouraged to enter and spread out over his fields. The result was that twenty acres or more of his farm increased remarkably in fertility—increased to the extent that the yields were almost doubled. What the farmer had regarded as a nuisance, this more progressive one looks upon as a blessing.

Of course, the floods were not given unrestricted liberty. They were permitted to enter through a fan-like gap at the mouth of which there was a considerable area of grass. The scattering of the waters greatly decreased their tendency to erode, and the grass tended to entangle the coarser particles and restrain them from damaging the interior of the field. In this way the surface layer of the area above mentioned was deepened several inches with fine rich silt.

A critical examination of hillside wash reveals the fact that only the finer and lighter parts of the soil are carried any very great distance, the heavier parts accumulating along the immediate path of the drainage ditch. The lighter humus, naturally, is floated away quickly—an explanation of why the first flood waters are dark colored. Of about equal ease of removal are the soluble portions—the parts containing the most available plant food. Those parts that render the water muddy are insoluble constituents of varying degrees of fineness. The overturning, grinding, aeration, and mixing of these frequently form a soil excessively productive.

It is not always possible, of course, to trap the wash from the nearby uplands; but whenever it can be done the labor involved will bring large returns. Every farmer so situated should give this matter careful attention.

Elevators Save Backbone and Time.

Scoping corn into a crib is one of the hardest back-breaking jobs on the farm. With an elevator the hard work is done away with, and there is a saving of time in unloading ear corn and small grain. There is a great need for saving in both time and backbone nowadays, for there is no great abundance of either.

Many farmers have quit scoping corn into cribs; elevators do it more cheaply, especially where there is a large amount of corn to handle. Small grain is being handled in the same way. Elevators can be used either for filling cribs and granaries, or for emptying cribs and granaries into the wagons at marketing time.

There are different types of elevators on the market. Many of the new and up-to-date cribs have pit elevators installed in them. The grain is dumped from the wagons just the same as at a commercial grain elevator, and then elevated into the cribs, or into bins overhead. Outside elevators can be used on any kind of crib. Power for all elevators can be furnished by a gasoline engine. If there is electricity on the farm, the motor will furnish power.

Heads of cabbage which burst open can be used for making kraut.

THE ROYAL BANK.

An event of great financial importance transpired on the 18th inst. in the celebration by the Royal Bank of the fiftieth anniversary of its foundation. The history of the institution is one of the financial romances of Canada, a remarkable growth in a comparatively short period from humble beginnings to a great banking business, covering not only the Dominion, but extending to many foreign countries.

The expansion of its business in recent years has been remarkable. Four other institutions with established clienteles in many provinces were absorbed, an energetic policy was pursued, and to-day the Royal Bank well up among the big financial concerns of the Continent, its operations in Cuba and the West Indies, a leading place in those countries, with the result that it has now 615 branches, and 42 sub-branches, giving it premier place among Canadian banks in this respect. Capital has grown to upwards of $16,000,000, the reserve fund to $18,400,000, deposits to $381,307,000, and assets to $470,870,000.

An accomplishment of this kind is the highest tribute that can be given the vigorous and progressive character of the management and in that tribute the vice-president and managing director, Mr. E. L. Pense, has a large share, for it was he who thirty-two years ago blazed the trail of success. The Royal Bank has in its president, Sir Herbert Holt, and its General Manager, Mr. C. E. Neill, men of energy, capacity, and wide experience in business and banking affairs. The prosperity of the bank is a reflection of the prosperity and growing commerce of Canada, in which the institution has materially aided by encouraging domestic and promoting foreign trade.

The Hallmarks of a Greenhorn Mechanic.

Everywhere you see the hallmarks of the greenhorn mechanic—that fellow who knows little about machinery but thinks he knows it all.

He is the man who uses the wrong tool on every job; who is always able

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB.

A fine physician Nature is—
She'll cure most all our ills
With air and sun and exercise,
And won't send any bills.

to tear down but seldom able to put together; who rushes in where really good mechanics fear to tread; who is always able to give advice on any mechanical subject.

In short, he is the man who makes half the wheels of repairing machinery go round, because when he gets through "fixing" a machine real mechanics have a job.

You can always tell when he has been near a machine.

Nuts will have been loosened and tightened by the use of hammer and cold chisel.

Cotter pins will have been taken out and not replaced.

All lock washers will have been scattered to the winds.

Threads on bolts and nuts will have been battered and stripped.

Every part about the machine will be loose unless it has simply stayed tight of its own accord.

Gears will be chewed up until they are almost unrecognizable.

Bearings will have cried in vain for grease and adjustment.

Parts will be missing, paint scratched, and the whole machine dirty and unkempt.

The services of such a man are dear at any price—are dear even if they cost nothing.

Do not be a greenhorn mechanic. Be a mechanic at all rather than this. And do not hire one!

GOOD HOMES ATTRACT GOOD HIRED HELP

In a certain factory district, when the munition plants were paying high wages for labor, an enterprising farmer on the city's outskirts needed some permanent help. To get it he did what seemed to many a vain thing. Going to one of the biggest factories, where the unskilled worker received from two to three times as much as he was prepared to pay, the farmer had it announced that he wanted men. He stated the wages he expected to pay, described the living conditions on his farm, and offered quite liberal allowances of fuel, milk and vegetables. Then he let the men think the proposition over for a week.

A week later he returned to the factory. More than a dozen men anxious to hire out met him. They were not inexperienced men, but steady, skilled farmhands. From these applicants he was able to pick the very kind of men he wanted, and his hired help problem was solved in short order.

This incident was told by a member of an official housing commission which learned much about rural labor problems while mainly studying city conditions. A member of this commission says that the solution of the rural labor problem is entirely a question of suitable, attractive homes for farm hands; that the farmer who has a clean, neat, comfortable home for his help can obtain labor without much difficulty even in times of labor scarcity, and can also get that steady, reliable class of help farmers must have.

A former commissioner of agriculture, when he returned to his farm from college, immediately built a good home for the hired man and his family. He says he has never had any trouble about labor; his employees are highly ornamental, some very plain in appearance, some simple in interior arrangements and some decidedly complex. The exterior of a poultry building may properly reflect the owner's taste and the condition of his pocketbook. The outside appearance has nothing to do with the usefulness of the house. The inside arrangement, however, is more important and a building which is so arranged inside that the work cannot be done easily and that the fowls cannot make the best use of the floor space, is decidedly detrimental.

One of the simple plans and one of the best plans, for a small poultry building, is one from 14 to 16 feet wide and as long as is necessary, with a shed or double pitch roof. In the south side should be enough windows, each with two sashes, like those in a house, to thoroughly light the interior and permit the sun to reach every part of the floor at sometime during the day.

In the rear, against the inside of the north wall and high enough from the floor so that the fowls can exercise under it, should be a roost platform, and above this, sufficient roosts so that the fowls will not be crowded. The nests may be simple boxes hooked to the sides of the house, high enough so as not to obstruct the floor. If they are hooked instead of nailed they can more easily be taken out and cleaned, which should be done occasionally. Grit, shell and charcoal boxes may also be hung on the wall, and the water fount should be placed on a shelf high enough so that it will be out of the way of dirt and litter.

In a house more than 50 feet long and containing three or more pens or compartments an alley along the back of the house 3 or 4 feet wide makes the work of caring for the several flocks easier. Such an alley is to a certain extent expensive because the house must be built wider or the pens must be narrower. In such a building, the nests may be placed under the roost platform and have a horizontal door opening into the alley through which the eggs can be gathered. The water fount and mash trough can also be arranged so that watering and mash feeding may be very conveniently done from the alley.

and the worst is yet to come

Scarlet Fever.

The incubation—the hatching—period of scarlet fever is from two to four days. Then comes the invasion, suddenly and often at night, with vomiting, "red point" sore throat, and a high fever; and also in severe cases, and with very young children, with convulsions. There is the "beef" "cat's" or "strawberry" tongue. The eyes are generally not inflamed. Then the end of the first, or during the second, day—"one day to be seen and two to show"—comes the scarlet-colored eruption, first on the chest and neck; it is often pretty well spread out and made up of many red points underlying the general flush. This eruption disappears first where it appears first and in from three to five days. It peels off in shreds. As complications of scarlet fever, we have to fear inflammation of the middle ear, swollen glands in the neck, kidney disease, joint inflammations, pleurisy and pneumonia.

Scarlet fever is, like diphtheria and measles, caught by direct contact, also by breathing in the minute droplets coughed or sneezed out when one comes close to the patient. The air which the patient breathes is not in itself infectious. The disease is caught also from the towels, handkerchiefs, and dishes and so on which the patient has been using.

The peeling in scarlet fever is not nearly so catching as the discharges from the sore throat and nose in the beginning of the disease. All the same, children with scarlet fever must of course be isolated, quarantined, kept apart from other children, until the skin is ornamented with some variety from the nose and throat have stopped. There are mild forms of scarlet fever (scarlatina) as there are mild forms of measles or of diphtheria; but you can catch the disease severely from a mild case. Take no chances. A child with only a sore throat and a slight rash may be the means of spreading dangerous infections. The moral is, then: Never neglect a sore throat.

Questions and Answers.

Would symptoms of endocarditis (caused by rheumatic fever) disappear to any extent if I stopped smoking cigarettes? My trouble is continual throbbing when sitting or lying down. Is my ailment a leaking valve or something worse? I am 32 and single. I worry a lot over my trouble. What advice would you give regarding my marrying?

Answer—Endocarditis is valvular heart disease, in which a leaky valve exists. This is not necessarily a bar to length of days, and to living in comparative comfort, if one's family doctor is faithfully obeyed. I warn you that smoking may have, in your case, grave results; the rest is up to you and depends on whether you are determined upon being king of all that is under your own hat. I will not advise anybody regarding so serious a step in life as marriage; but I urge you to consult your family doctor as to this.

Do you think girls and young women who go thinly clad in the winter months, wearing very little more than during the summer, are injuring their health? Does this make the blood thin and induce a run-down condition? They apparently stand it; but what is your opinion of their future health?

Answer—I think so. Anemia (blood poverty) may thus result. Many "colds" are no doubt thus contracted. And the neglected cold, considering what may follow in its train, is one of the most serious of human maladies. Many cases of tuberculosis and pneumonia result from "nothing but a cold."

Poultry

There are different plans of poultry houses advocated by different authorities, and supposed-to-be authorities, some highly ornamental, some very plain in appearance, some simple in interior arrangements and some decidedly complex. The exterior of a poultry building may properly reflect the owner's taste and the condition of his pocketbook. The outside appearance has nothing to do with the usefulness of the house. The inside arrangement, however, is more important and a building which is so arranged inside that the work cannot be done easily and that the fowls cannot make the best use of the floor space, is decidedly detrimental.

One of the simple plans and one of the best plans, for a small poultry building, is one from 14 to 16 feet wide and as long as is necessary, with a shed or double pitch roof. The nests may be simple boxes hooked to the sides of the house, high enough so as not to obstruct the floor. If they are hooked instead of nailed they can more easily be taken out and cleaned, which should be done occasionally. Grit, shell and charcoal boxes may also be hung on the wall, and the water fount should be placed on a shelf high enough so that it will be out of the way of dirt and litter.

Pillow Hint.

When you are to make some new pillows, but as many yards of mosquito netting you do tacking. Make slips of this, the same size as slips made of ticking. Put the feathers into the netting, and slip into the pillow tick, slip out the pillow, and air the feathers, for they will be safely inclosed in the netting. The work pays.

If we enjoy our work, every day is a holiday.

GRANDMOTHERING

It was not surprising that Merton Reed was in low spirits. His father had received a note from the principal of the high school saying that Merton's work was unsatisfactory, and hinting that the root of the trouble was laziness. The interview that followed was not a cheering one. The atmosphere was so chilly at home that Merton decided to go to see his grandmother.

As he approached the house, a bent form rose from an onion bed in the garden, and Merton recognized his grandfather, whom he had not expected to find at home.

"Your grandmother has gone to make a call," said the old gentleman, after an interchange of greetings. Then, ignoring the disappointment in the boy's face, he added, "Isn't this a fine day? Makes a fellow glad to be alive, doesn't it?"

"Well, I don't know," replied Merton gloomily. "I guess my being alive isn't any great advantage to me or to anybody else."

That was the line which he had intended to take with grandmother; and although he had a different audience, he went on: "I'm no good. I don't amount to any more than that weed you just pulled up."

"That weed would have amounted to something if I had let it stay," remarked his grandfather.

"There's nothing to me," persisted Merton. "I shall never accomplish anything."

"Oh, yes, you will!" said grandfather. "You can at least do a lot of harm."

"Oh, I don't mean to do any harm," said Merton. "But I guess I shall never do any good, either. I shall be just a cipher."

"That's a hard stunt, my boy," said grandfather. "I never saw anyone succeed at it quite. A chap I once knew, Jeff Dutton by name, came about as near it as anyone could, but even he amounted to something, as I found to my cost. Jeff's mother had a summer cottage at Knapton's Cove; Jeff was four or five years older than I, a great flabby fellow. The time I speak of, Mrs. Dutton had asked me to take a lady visitor of hers over to the steamboat landing. It was a two-mile row, and I was to have fifty cents for the job."

"I was a little late in starting, and the wind was pretty fresh, so that it would have been quite a hard row anyway for a twelve-year-old boy. But I could have made it if Jeff at the last minute hadn't decided to add his weight to the expedition. That made difference enough to beat me. I rowed with all my might, with no assistance from Jeff, but the steamboat went off without my passenger. Jeff stood up and waved his hands for the captain to stop, but he only tipped over the boat."

"We got no more harm than a good ducking; but the lady hired the man who had come to our rescue to take her back, and in the excitement the fifty cents that was coming to me seemed to be forgotten. At any rate, I never got it."

"You couldn't say that Jeff hadn't amounted to anything that day. He had amounted to about a hundred and eighty pounds. I guess it was so with Jeff as long as he lived. He was always a dead weight in the community. Never could seem to push, but he always held back; and, of course, even in doing that he counted for something. I don't believe that you can be a cipher, either, even if, as you say, you haven't any brains to speak of."

"I don't know that I said just that, grandfather," interrupted Merton. "If I guess I have some brains."

"So much the better," said the old gentleman briskly. "Not going, are you? I expect your grandmother back soon."

"Yes, I must be getting home," said Merton. "I have some studying to do."

"Merton has just been here," said grandfather when his wife returned. "Oh, I'm so sorry that I was away," said she. "Did the dear boy want anything?"

"Well, as near as I could guess," said he, "he wanted a little grandmothering. I'm afraid I'm not much good at it," he added modestly, "but I did my best."

Hogs

Salt and charcoal should be provided to furnish mineral matter for hogs. They may be fed separately, but it is advisable to add salt to the charcoal, as it makes it more palatable and is especially good for hogs.

Salt should be available at all times. It is best to keep it in an open place where it can be protected from the weather. Charcoal is best fed from the popper of self-feeder to prevent needless waste.

A common practice is to burn coals until the cob is well charred, and then the fire is smothered and the hogs are given access to this. Some people char their cobs in a pit, and when the day has gained good headway the top of the pit is covered with a piece of sheet metal, and then covered with dirt.

In this way the charcoal may be used as needed. It is best fed with salt to make it more palatable.

Adopt some system of crop rotation and make it as short a one as labor will permit.

The Store With the Goods to Draw the Trade

The Transcript

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1919

THREE ESSENTIALS

"We must have courage, and determination, and must summon the necessary unanimity," said a distinguished British statesman the other day, in counselling his countrymen on the necessity of maintaining her trade. These words might just as well have been uttered by a Canadian statesman, for the qualities named are essential to this country at the present juncture. Canada is now offering the 1919 Victory Loan and it must be pushed through to success with courage, determination and absolute unanimity, if Canada is to prove worthy of her opportunity.

Great opportunities for trade lie within the grasp of Canada if her farmers, wage-earners, merchants and manufacturers have foresight enough to reach for them. On the maintenance of our great overseas trade built up during the war rests our ability to carry on. One of the great objects of the Loan apart from the rehabilitation of the returned soldier is the raising of the capital necessary to enable the Government of Canada to continue its system of credits to Great Britain, France, Belgium and other countries, and at the same time pay cash to the Canadian producer. On these credits our present and future trade depends, and all Canadians must unite to ensure an ample subscription to the 1919 Loan which alone will render them possible.

COMMITTED ON HOLD-UP CHARGE

Lawrence Flanagan and Ralph Gibson, two London youths, were arrested on Friday morning at London by Detective Harry Down in connection with the hold-up of Harry Harvey at Woodgreen last week. They were arraigned before Squire W. H. Chittick on Saturday morning in the county buildings and were subsequently committed for trial upon the charge of unlawfully assaulting the complainant with intent to steal and while armed with offensive weapons.

The young men, who are both about 18 years of age, are alleged to have stolen a motor car in Windsor and to have entered a bank at Tilbury, where they are said to have stolen the two revolvers which played a prominent part in the hold-up at Woodgreen and which were found in their possession when the arrest was made. Automobile tires and other accessories were also found in the possession of the boys.

NEW SERVICE GARAGE

In asking for a share of the public patronage they promise a square deal in all branches of the business. They are authorized agents for Ford parts. Phone 49.

DEATH OF PETER D. KEITH

For the second time within a week the community was saddened by unexpected news of death when word was received on Sunday night that Councillor Peter D. Keith had passed away following an operation at Victoria Hospital, London.

Mr. Keith had only been ill a few days and not many knew of the serious nature of his illness. On Saturday an operation was decided upon and early that morning he left for London. Later in the day the operation was performed and he had barely come out of the anesthetic when on Sunday evening about five o'clock he passed away.

Mr. Keith was one of those whole-hearted men whom everybody could claim as a friend. He was prominently identified with the church and public life of the town, being for many years an active worker with the Presbyterians, and was a member of the municipal council for several years, besides taking at all times a lively interest in sports and other public events.

He was born at Lakeport in 1864 and for some time lived with an uncle, the late Rev. Nell McKinnon of Kilmartin. Later he came to Gloucester and took a position in the store of the late James Young. Nineteen years ago he opened a general store which he conducted continuously since then.

Besides his wife, formerly Miss McBean of London, he is survived by one daughter, Florence, teacher of the public school at Walkers; one sister, Mrs. Christina McLellan of Toronto, and one brother, Rev. Neil D. Keith, principal of Westminster Ladies' College, Edmonton, Alberta.

The funeral which took place on Tuesday afternoon was very largely attended. Service was held in the Presbyterian church and interment was made at Oakland cemetery.

The bearers were Reeve A. J. Wright, Councillors Allan McPherson, P. E. Lumley and W. A. Hazerty and J. A. McLachlan and Wm. McCallum.

Friends from a distance were Miss Patterson of London, Mr. Warren of Toronto and Mr. McGillivray of London.

The flowers included a pillow from the family, a spray from Miss Patterson, a wreath from "The Boys of Gloucester," a spray from the council, a spray from Miss Jean McLachlan and a spray from Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Lethbridge.

DEATH OF MRS. WM. BURCHELL

On Thursday last Matilda, the wife of William Burchell, Jr., entered into rest a few hours after the birth of a little daughter, complications having set in. All that mortal skill and loving care could do was done but all was unavailing.

The funeral services were conducted by the rector at the house and also in St. John's church, Revs. Lloyd and Garbutt assisting. Never has there been a larger congregation inside the church. Everyone far and near desired to show their respect for one who was beloved by all who knew her. The floral tokens were numerous and costly.

The whole neighborhood has had a gloom cast over it by the death of this young matron. Born in Hamilton in 1892, she was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Mayhew, for some years residents of this village and formerly of Thamesville. She endeared herself to the hearts of all who knew her. Her life was inspired by love and showed everyday traces of that religious spirit which knows no slackness and expends itself in loving service to parents, husband and child, and to all with whom she came in contact.

When once she was known her true character was appreciated and nothing but fragrant exhalations perfume the grave of the beloved departed.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, two babes, parents, brother, grandparents and numerous relatives and friends, but none will feel her absence so acutely as the young husband and her mother. To them and to all the whole community offers its genuine sympathy.

Her body was committed to the grave in Oakland cemetery by the rector amid every sign of true sorrow on the part of a large gathering.

Oh, when those mystic barriers
Our loved ones pass, we dream
That in some fair elysium
Their trust has found the stream.

THE LATE MRS. HARRIS

The late Mrs. Harris, whose death occurred on the 13th of October, was formerly Miss Catharine Blue, daughter of the late Neil and Jane McArthur Blue, pioneer settlers of the Longwoods road, Ekfrid. Her parents died when she was but a girl and she then came to Gloucester to reside, being one of the earliest residents here. Her husband, the late James Harris, who died in 1916, was one of the prominent business men of Gloucester, having been for many years engaged in the carriage building and blacksmith trades.

Mrs. Harris, though through her illness for several years was unable to mingle actively among the people, was very highly esteemed by all. She was a faithful member of the Presbyterian church and throughout her long illness was always cheerful and patient.

The bereaved family are Dr. Wm. Harris of Toronto, Thomas Harris of Buffalo, Mrs. Colquhoun of Kewatin, and Misses Lizzie and Phemia at home.

Patriotism, profit and prosperity are linked up by an investment in Victory Bonds.

"PRINCE OF WALES DAY"

Conforming to a request by the Prince of Wales when here on Thursday Reeve A. J. Wright had Monday set apart as a holiday for the high and public schools to commemorate his visit. Although the schools have a half holiday on Thursday, the prince asked that they be granted a whole day in addition as a special privilege. So they had the "Prince of Wales Day" Monday.

The children, at first warmly attracted toward their Prince by his kindly manner and irresistible smile, now pronounce him the sweetest laddie ever was.

WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Cameron McPherson of Gloucester was the winner of the senior boys' championship in the annual field day sports of the Technical School at London last Friday. He took first in standing broad jump, second in high jump, step and jump, first in 100-yard dash, second in running high jump, first in running broad jump, and first in 220 yards race.

TONIGHT'S ENTERTAINMENT

The Morrison Girls, who give a concert here tonight in the opera house under the auspices of the Daughters of the Empire, were organized by the famous lyceum and chautauqua entertainer coach and teacher, Mrs. Bess Gearhart Morrison of Hammond, Oregon. With the program presented by this organization a new note in the music and entertainment field has been touched and the success of the company was instantaneous, the company having been organized three seasons ago. The program is made up largely of the songs and stories of long ago—those that your grandfather and grandmother were fond of. It is an evening of delightful vocal and instrumental music and readings, heart-satisfying through and through. Plan of hall at Lumley's drug store.

A few rush seats for children at 25 cents.

METCALFE COUNCIL

Metcalfe council met Oct. 6th, with members all present. Minutes were read and approved.

The usual number of orders were given.

The engineer's report of the Clark drain was adopted. A special meeting was called for Oct. 15 to appoint a collector. The township rate was struck at 4.5 mills on the dollar, making one township and county rate 10.63 mills. A. E. Field was appointed collector. It was decided to reopen the hall on Tuesday evening, Nov. 11, when some forty medals will be presented to returned men and relatives. The ladies are looking after the program and invitations will be sent to all residents of the township, as it is for Metcalfe residents only. It is impossible to have the tablet ready for the reopening. It will have to be placed later. C. M. R. Graham, ex-mayor of London, chairman.—H. THOMPSON, Clerk.

Potatoes have dropped practically $1 per bag in carload lots within the past few weeks. Where they were recently quoted at $2.75 per bag, they are now offered at from $1.75 to $1.90. The knowledge that the crop was almost a failure in southern Ontario was responsible for the high price maintained in a while on the market. The statement that in the northern part of the province the crop was good, coupled with the fact that there had been heavy shipments from Quebec and the Maritime provinces, has caused a slump.

A CORRECTION

In last week's issue of the Transcript there appeared an announcement taken from a St. Thomas paper of my having bought a business in that city. I have since that time, to my regret, learned that I have had several years' experience in the line. I may say that I know nothing of the article until I saw it reproduced in the Transcript, neither did I instruct anyone to make the statement. Mr. Kerr of St. Thomas may have given the item to the paper and may have intended to have the article in the Transcript. I have spent some time each year for the past few years at Toronto and Eckel's College, taking up the practical work, which I did, and have my certificates of qualifications in keeping the digest of organs in healthful action.

I make this explanation to show that I have no desire to misrepresent myself as the first care of the medical man is to see that the bowels are open and fully performing their functions. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so compounded that certain ingredients in them act on the bowels solely and they are the very best medicine available to produce healthy action of the bowels. Indeed, there is no other specific so serviceable in keeping the digestive organs in healthful action.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

Seeley, Famous in This Specialty, Called to London.

F. H. Seeley of Chicago and Philadelphia, the noted truss expert, will personally be at the Tecumseh House, and will remain in London this Tuesday only, Nov. 4th. Mr. Seeley says: "The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case, being a vast improvement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects, immediately appreciable and without standing any strain or position. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatment or prescriptions. Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D.C., for inspection. All charity cases without charge, or if any interested call, he will be glad to show same without charge or fit them if desired. Business demands prevent stopping at any other place in this section.

P. S.—Every statement in this notice has been verified by the Federal and State Courts.—F. H. Seeley.

OFFICIAL PROSPECTUS

"The Bridge from War to Peace"—The Prince of Wales.

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA offers for Public Subscription the

Victory Loan 1919

$300,000,000. 5½% Gold Bonds

Bearing interest from November 1st, 1919, and offered in two maturities, the choice of which is optional with the subscriber as follows:

5 year Bonds due November 1st, 1924
15 year Bonds due November 1st, 1934

Principal payable without charge at the Office of the Minister of Finance and Receiver General at Ottawa, or at the Office of the Assistant Receiver General at Halifax, St. John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Victoria.

Bonds may be registered as to principal or as to principal and interest, as hereinafter provided, at any of the above-mentioned offices.

Interest payable, without charge, half-yearly, May 1st and November 1st, at any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank.

Principal and Interest payable in Gold. Denominations: $50, $100, $500, and $1,000

Issue Price: 100 and Accrued Interest, Income Return 5½% per Annum

The proceeds of the Loan will be used to pay indebtedness incurred, and to meet expenditures to be made in connection with demobilization (including the authorized war service gratuity to our soldiers, land settlement loans, and other purposes connected with their re-establishment into civil life), for capital outlay upon shipbuilding, and other national undertakings forming part of Canada's industrial reconstruction programme, and for the establishment of any necessary credits for the purchase of grain, foodstuffs, timber and other products, and will be spent wholly in Canada.

Payment to be made as follows:

10% on application;	20% February 10th, 1920;	30% January 9th, 1920;
	20% December 9th, 1919;	31.21% March 9th, 1920.

The last payment of 31.21% covers 30% balance of principal and 1.21% representing accrued interest at 5½% from November 1st to due dates of the respective instalments.

A full half-year's interest will be paid on May 1st, 1920, making the cost of the bonds 100 and interest. Subscriptions may be paid in full at time of application at 100 without interest, or on any instalment due date thereafter, together with accrued interest at the rate of 5½% per annum.

This Loan is authorized under Act of the Parliament of Canada, and both principal and interest are a charge upon the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

The amount of this issue is $300,000,000, exclusive of the amount (if any) paid for by the surrender of bonds of previous issues. The Minister of Finance, however, reserves the right to allot the whole or any part of the amount subscribed in excess of $300,000,000.

Payments

All cheques, drafts, etc., covering instalments are to be made payable to the Credit of the Minister of Finance. Failure to pay any instalment when due will render previous payments liable to forfeiture, and the allotment to cancellation. Subscriptions other than those paid in full on application must be accompanied by a deposit of 10% of the amount subscribed. Official Canvassers will forward subscriptions or any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank will accept subscriptions and issue receipts.

Subscriptions may be paid in full at time of application at 100 without interest, or on any instalment due date thereafter, together with accrued interest to time of making payment in full. Under this provision, payment of subscriptions may be made as follows:

If paid in full on or before November 15th, 1919, par without interest or 100%.

If remaining instalments paid on Dec. 9th, 1919, balance of 90% and interest ($90.52 per $100).

If remaining instalments paid on Jan. 9th, 1920, balance of 70% and interest ($70.84 per $100).

If remaining instalments paid on Feb. 10th, 1920, balance of 50% and interest ($51.08 per $100).

If remaining instalment paid on Mar. 9th, 1920, balance of 30% and interest ($31.21 per $100).

Payment of instalments or payment in full after November 15th, 1919, can be made only on an instalment due date.

Denomination and Registration

Bearer bonds, with coupons, will be issued in denomination of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000, and may be registered as to principal. The first coupon attached to these bonds will be due on May 1st, 1920.

Fully registered bonds, the interest on which is paid direct to the owner by Government cheque, will be issued in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000, $50,000, $100,000, or any multiple of $100,000.

Payment of Interest

A full half-year's interest at the rate of 5½% per annum will be paid May 1st, 1920.

Form of Bond and Delivery

Subscribers must indicate on their applications the form of bond and the denominations required, and the securities so indicated will be delivered by the bank upon payment of subscriptions in full.

Bearer bonds of this issue will be available for delivery at the time of application to subscribers desirous of making payment in full. Bonds registered as to principal only, or fully registered as to principal and interest, will be delivered to subscribers making payment in full, as soon as the required registration can be made.

Payment of all instalments must be made at the bank originally named by the subscriber.

Non-negotiable receipts will be furnished to all subscribers who desire to pay by instalments. These receipts will be exchangeable at subscriber's bank for bonds on any instalment date when subscription is paid in full. All receipts must be exchanged before 1st June, 1920.

Form of Bonds Interchangeable

Subject to the payment of 25 cents for each new bond issued, holders of fully registered bonds without coupons will have the right to convert into bonds with coupons, and holders of bonds with coupons will have the right to convert into fully registered bonds without coupons, at any time, on application to the Minister of Finance or any Assistant Receiver General.

Forms of application may be obtained from all subscribers who have any Official Canvasser, from any Victory Loan Committee, or member thereof, or from any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank.

Subscription Lists will close on or before November 15th, 1919

—Mrs. R. M. McPherson will receive on Wednesday, November 5th, from 3 to 6, and afterwards on the first Friday in the month.
Rumor has it that several women will be in the running for school trustees in various sections next January. And why not? The mothers of the land surely should have a voice in the education of their children. Too often the fathers don't seem to care and leave the running of the schools to those who cannot appreciate what it is to be called "Daddy."

Flour and feed for sale at store corner of Main and McKellar streets.—J. D. McKellar. 2517

It was noticed in London and Glencoe that the Prince of Wales used his left member while shaking hands. The right hand of His Royal Highness is said to be suffering from Canadian "krip."

Rev. A. E. Jones of Blenheim will conduct anniversary services in Appin Methodist church Sunday afternoon and evening, November 9. An old-fashioned tea meeting will be held on the following evening.

Glencoe is in receipt of the county treasurer's cheque for $575, which is the county's proportion of the expenditure made this year for oil and gravel on our streets connecting up with the county roads system.

We were all so occupied with the Prince's visit and the elections that we quite forgot the proximity of Venus, which has stolen up to a point of only 26,000,000 miles from the earth, or practically no distance at all.

Arrangements are being made for a big concert by local talent in Glencoe on the evening of November 11th to celebrate the anniversary of Armistice Day. The proceeds will go to the funds of the Soldiers' Aid Commission. Neil McKellar has bought from Dan McEachren the residence on Victoria street which he owned when a resident of Glencoe some years ago. Mr. McEachren prefers the farm and is looking for a few acres near town where he can resume the pastoral life on a small scale.

Don't forget the Halloween party to be held in the Presbyterian church on Friday night under the auspices of the Ross Mission Band. Amusing games will be a part of the evening's program, and there will be songs and addresses. Come and enjoy yourself. Lunch will be served. Admission 15c.

The big potatoes are growing bigger. R. L. McAlpine of Shields is the latest, which tops all hitherto handed us for inspection and sampling this season. Weight, 2 pounds 6 ounces; circumference, 19 inches by 13 1/2; variety, Red Rose; flavor, superb. Who's next?

Our stock of shoes is more complete than ever and nearly all bought before the last big raise in price, so that we can save you dollars in shoes.—Charles George.

Owing to the increased pressure of the automobile business we have been forced to relinquish the Massey-Harris contract. We wish to thank the people of Glencoe and vicinity for the generous share of their patronage they have always given us in this deservedly popular line of farm machinery. We bespeak for our successors the same liberal patronage that we have received.—N. & A. M. Graham.

MODERN SHOE STORE, GLENCOE

H. R. H. COMPLETES TRIUMPHAL TOUR THROUGH WESTERN ONTARIO

A despatch from Windsor says:—Farwell to the Prince of Wales at noon on Friday was delightful in its informality. Hundreds of young women who had evaded squads of police and guard of soldiers and made their way to the platform pelted the departing guest with flowers of every description and hue until the floor of the rear platform was covered with them. Thousands had gathered at the station to swarm about the train so that it was only with the greatest of difficulty that the Prince and suite could make their way to their car. Jocular remarks passed between H.R.H. and his eager, happy audience as he stood on the platform of the observation car, each waiting for the train to move. When it did cheer after cheer rolled after it until it had passed out of sight around a bend.

The Prince had a busy morning. At 10 o'clock he reviewed a large body of returned men, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and members of the Naval Brigade, after which he proceeded to All Saints' Church, where he deposited the colors of the 99th Battalion. Leaving the church, he proceeded on a tour of the border towns of Sandwich, Ojibway, Walkerville and Ford. Although his time was very limited he spared sufficient to stop for a few minutes at a Hotel Dieu, outside of which a number of wounded soldiers were sitting to give him a greeting as he passed, and at the Assumption School, where he was noisily acclaimed by a body of school children. He paused sufficiently long to see for them a whole holiday on Monday. At the station, to which he drove after completing his tour of the surrounding towns, a funny incident occurred. As the Prince passed through the ranks of the returned men lined up along the platform one of the men stepped forward and said: "Hello, Eddie, have you got a shilling on you?" "I'm afraid I haven't," replied the Prince, smiling. "But you haven't been yet," protested the soldier. Whereupon the Prince plunged his hand into his pocket and drew forth a quarter, which he handed to the man, who was later seen exhibiting it with as much delight as if he had been made the present of a Victory bond.

At various stations which were passed en route to Galt many people were on hand to cheer him as he sped through, ovations which the Prince never found himself too busy to acknowledge from the platform of the observation car. At Chatham he took his lunch to chat a few minutes with people who had gathered on the platform there. At London he emptied his cigarette case for the benefit of the souvenir hunters, and then gave the one he was smoking to a young woman who took three puffs from it and handed it back, an incident which greatly amused his Royal Highness.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales completed his tour of Western Ontario when he paid a visit to Galt on Friday afternoon. In spite of the fact that the visit was for one hour only, in that short space of time he managed to make an automobile tour of the city, review veterans, lay a corner stone and attend a civic reception. Although his program was full and his duties onerous, he was fully repaid for his efforts by the warmth of the welcome he was given at every point where he made his appearance. It was particularly true of Main Street where hundreds of school children lining both sides of the street, each one of them armed with a flag and a strong pair of lungs, united in extending to him an ovation which for strength and sincerity of tone has been unsurpassed in any of the towns which he has honored by his presence.

PRINCE ENTERTAINS ONTARIO VILLAGERS

People of Oxford County District Especially Favored.

A despatch from Woodstock says:—The Prince of Wales is a royal entertainer. This fact was clearly demonstrated to the people of the little station of Creditville one night this week. The village had been decided upon as a stopover place for the night, and the Royal train was shunted in the siding where it was expected that Canada's Royal guest would have much-needed quiet. But it was not long until the people, old and young, of the village and surrounding country, which is about four miles east of Woodstock, were aware of the presence of the train bearing the heir to the British throne. Soon a crowd had gathered. The guards were prevailed upon to inform the Prince that the people of the countryside would like just one glance at his Royal Highness. Soon he appeared, and after answering the great cheer with a swing of his hat, he mingled with the people. "Do not be bashful because I am," he said, and then followed a general handshaking with the ladies and lassies. The Prince then treated all hands to either cigarettes or cigars. Following this, he continued as entertainer. Entering his car, he soon had his gramophone close up to the door, and then, while the machine roared off the popular

"Johnny's in Town," the Prince made himself popular by grabbing up a snare-drum and acting as accompanist. It made a great hit, and it is doubtful if the people of any other part of the Dominion have been favored as were the villagers in the small Oxford County hamlet.

98 Million Needed For Eastern Fleet

A despatch from Melbourne, Australia, says:—The report of Admiral Lord Jellicoe concerning the naval defense of the Far East has been laid upon the table of the Australian House of Representatives. Admiral Jellicoe, who has been making a tour of the British Dominions and dependencies to consider plans for their naval defense, says in the report that the naval interests of the British Empire will probably demand within the next five years a strong Eastern fleet, comprising vessels of the Royal Navy, the East Indian squadron and the Australian, Canadian and New Zealand navies. Admiral Jellicoe estimates the annual cost of the Far Eastern fleet at $98,750,000.

Issues Royal Decree From Los Angeles

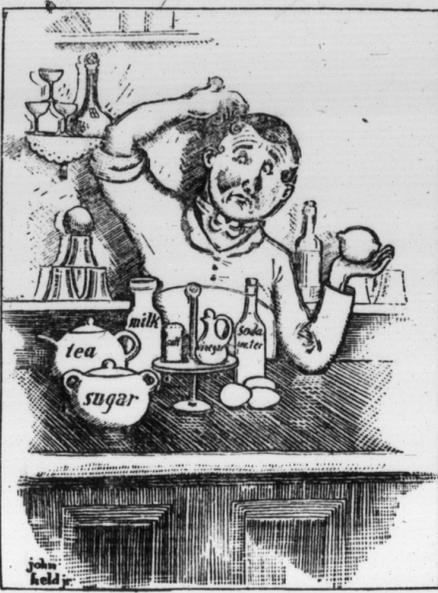

A despatch from Brussels says:—The Belgian Parliament has been dissolved by a Royal decree, which is dated Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 17. The Cabinet will resign immediately after elections are held.

HALF A MILLION COAL MINERS GO ON STRIKE IN UNITED STATES

Washington Conference Fails to Avert Trouble and Appeal of President Wilson Unavailing.

A despatch from Washington says:—The last Government effort to avert the coal strike set for November 1 failed utterly, and half a million miners quitted work on the very eve of winter, with the nation's bins running dangerously low. Even an appeal from President Wilson, sick in bed at the White House, was not enough to bring peace to a conference that was torn and on the breaking point half a dozen times during the day. Charges and countercharges flew thick and fast as the groups of operators and miners filed out of the meeting, which began somewhat hopefully four days ago. While the operators announced that they had accepted the President's offer to wipe the slate clean and negotiate a new wage agreement, the miners charged that the operators had bolted, without the consent of Secretary of Labor Wilson, the storm centre of an extraordinary fight to save the country untold distress and suffering.

The Bartender of the Future.

MINIMUM OBJECTIVE OF NEW VICTORY LOAN IS $300,000,000

The Choice of Maturity Five-Year or Fifteen-Year Bonds, Bearing Interest at 5 1/2 Per Cent., May Be Paid For In Full on Application or in Five Installments.

A despatch from Ottawa says:—Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, has made known the terms of the forthcoming Victory Loan. The prospectus asks for a minimum amount of $300,000,000 with the right to accept all or any part of subscriptions in excess of that sum. As in previous years, subscribers will be given a choice of maturity, five-year bonds, due Nov. 1, 1924, or 15-year bonds, due Nov. 1, 1934. The securities will carry interest at the rate of 5 1/2 per cent. per annum, payable May 1, and Nov. 1, and the issue price will be 100 and accrued interest for both maturities, making the income return 5 1/2 per cent. per annum. Purchasers may pay in full on application or in five installments, as follows:

Ten per cent. on application; 20 per cent. Dec. 9, 1919; 20 per cent. Jan. 9, 1920; 20 per cent. Feb. 10, 1920; 20 per cent. March 9, 1920. The last payment of $121 per cent. covers 30 per cent. balance of principal and 1.21 per cent. representing accrued interest at 5 1/2 per cent. from Nov. 1 to due dates of the respective installments. As a full half-year's interest will be paid on May 1, 1920, the cost of the bonds will be 100 and interest. If payment is made at time of application the price will be 100 flat. After the initial payment, subscribers have the privilege of paying in full on any due date thereafter, with accrued interest computed at the rate of 5 1/2 per cent. per annum.

Illiteracy in Canada Costs 75 Millions

A despatch from Winnipeg says:—Startling figures on the illiteracy of Canada as a whole were given by Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, at the session of the National Educational Conference, with the declaration that this illiteracy costs the country annually $75,000,000 in lowered production. Unified action by all the provinces in overcoming it was suggested, with a grant of a half million dollars toward the work from the Federal Government and a similar amount from the provinces. Dr. M. Fairchild of Washington, D. C., said there was grave danger in Canada and the United States of a populist uprising in sympathy with European Socialistic adjustments.

Fiume to Be Governed by President and Cabinet

A despatch from Fiume says:—The National Council of Fiume, organized Oct. 30, 1918, for the purpose of representing Italian annexation claims, has made public the method of its dissolution, which will occur automatically on the election of a Municipal Assembly by order of Gabriele D'Annunzio. The Council in a proclamation establishes the form of government for Fiume, consisting of an Assembly and a Cabinet, headed by a President who will be chosen by the members of the Assembly. The Cabinet will be divided into the Departments of the Interior, Treasury, Commerce, Transportation, Education and Justice.

United States Coal For Europe

A despatch from London says:—A despatch to the Evening News from Cardiff says that W. H. Gardner, a Swansea coal operator, on Wednesday in Paris completed an arrangement under which six million tons of gas, steam and ordinary coal are to be shipped from America to continental ports.

Earl Curzon Will Succeed Balfour as Foreign Secretary

A despatch from London says:—It is officially announced that Earl Curzon has been appointed Foreign Secretary in succession to Arthur J. Balfour. Mr. Balfour has been appointed Lord President of the Council to succeed Earl Curzon.

Roosevelt Estate Valued at $810,607

Mineola, N.Y., Oct. 28.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt left an estate valued at $810,607, according to affidavits filed here yesterday with Transfer Tax Appraiser Gehrig by executors of the will. After approximately $34,000 had been deducted for funeral expenses and counsel fees, the entire estate will go to the widow of the former President, in trust, to be distributed among their children in any proportion she may determine.

France Has Completed Army Demobilization

A despatch from Paris says:—The demobilization of the French Army, it is announced, is virtually completed. Officers to the number of 101,000 and 4,322,000 men have been mustered out. Borax slightly moistened, will remove chocolate stains. If left on the fabric for several hours the stains from white dresses and table linen will disappear.

Prince Delivers Personal Letter From Queen Mary

A despatch from Brantford says:—A letter of thanks from Queen Mary, delivered personally by his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, is in the proud possession of Miss Gilkinson, one of the most highly esteemed residents of Brantford, had previously been forwarded to the Queen by the local patriotic workers, and it was a great surprise when the Prince handed Miss Gilkinson the Queen's letter of appreciation on Monday last.

Austrian President Signs Treaty of Peace With Allies

A despatch from Vienna says:—President Karl Seitz, of the Austrian Republic, to-day signed the treaty of peace with the Allied and associated Governments. This completes the acceptance by Austria of the treaty of St. Germain.

PRESIDENT WILSON DECLARES COAL STRIKE ILLEGAL

Wilson Strikes Blow at Threat of Bituminous Coal Miners to Strike on Nov. 1.

Washington, Oct. 26.—President Wilson issued a formal statement tonight, with the approval of the full membership of his Cabinet, declaring the projected strike of bituminous coal miners under present circumstances "not only unjustifiable, it is unlawful." The statement called upon officers of local unions to recall orders for the strike on November 1, and added: "I can do nothing less than to say that the law will be enforced and means will be found to protect the interests of the nation in any emergency that may arise out of this unhappy business." The President declined to enter into the merits of the controversy between the miners and operators, but emphatically declared that the strike, characterized as the most far-reaching in the nation's history to restrict production and distribution of all necessities of life, had apparently been ordered without a vote of the miners concerned.

PRINCE VISITS LIMESTONE CITY

Receives Degree of LL.D.; Visits Military College; Kicks Off Football.

Kingston, Oct. 26.—The Prince of Wales was joyfully received in Kingston Saturday morning, business being at a standstill during the civic reception. Just as the train reached the station a royal salute of 21 guns were fired by the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, under command of Major Lafferty, at Macdonald Park.

Eighteen hundred school children sang patriotic songs, and the Prince was so pleased with their singing that he asked that one of the numbers be repeated.

After kicking off the football in a military league game, the Prince left the field, amid great cheering, and was conveyed to the Royal Military College, where he was received by the Commandant, Major-General Macdonnell, and the college staff. After inspection of the gentleman cadet battalion, the ceremony of presenting the colors was performed. The Dean of Ontario blessed the colors, and the Prince then presented them. After lunch with the Commandant and staff, his Royal Highness witnessed a gymnastic exhibition by the cadets.

At 6:30 o'clock the Prince attended a special convocation in Grant Hall, Queen's University, where two thousand persons had gathered for the ceremony. Principal Bruce Taylor presented the Prince for the degree of Doctor of Laws, and the degree was conferred upon the heir to the Throne by Chancellor E. W. Beatty.

The civic banquet to his Royal Highness took place in the City Hall at 8:30 p.m., and there were about one hundred guests.

On Sunday morning the Prince attended divine service in St. George's Cathedral, the preacher being the Bishop of Ontario. After the service, in company with W. F. Nickle, ex-M.P., and members of the Royal party the Prince visited Cataraugus Cemetery, where he placed a wreath of roses on the grave of the late Right Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald, Prime Minister of Canada. His Royal Highness dined with the officers of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery at their mess in the cote de Pont Barracks, and in the afternoon he paid a visit to Soldiers and Mowat Hospitals, where he conversed with invalided soldiers from overseas.

GOOD PRICES FOR ONTARIO TOBACCO

Crop in Essex and Kent Sold For Seven Million Dollars.

Leamington, Oct. 26.—For the past three days real Canadian money has been shovelled out to the tobacco growers of Essex and Kent Counties with a prodigality heretofore unknown. Hundreds of buyers, representing half a score of manufacturers, have scoured the country day and night buying everything in sight and much out of sight at all the way from 35 to 42 cents per pound. Many who went to sleep Thursday night at the usual hour were rudely awakened at 2, 3 or 4 o'clock Friday morning by some anxious buyer, who was willing to forego examination of the crop and give a contract for the entire season's growth at 40 cents, barn run.

When it is remembered that Burley tobacco runs anywhere from 1,500 to 2,000 pounds per acre, it is easy to figure the returns. Six to eight hundred dollars per acre is nothing unusual. Many who grew 10 to 20 acres were awakened to find themselves rich beyond their dreams.

Why Do I Turn White When Scared?

Simply because, when you are scared or frightened, the blood almost leaves your face entirely. Under normal conditions, the red blood which is flowing through the arteries of your face gives the face a rosy tinge, and your face becomes white when you are frightened, because then the blood leaves the face. It is quite singular, but when you are really frightened, whatever the cause may be, the hum system resolves such a shock that the heart just about stops beating altogether. When your heart stops beating of course the flow of the blood from the heart stops, and then there is no supply of fresh red blood coming through the arteries under the skin of your face. Therefore you look white—the color your face would be if no blood ever flowed through your arteries and veins. Some people have faces so white they look as though they were scared all the time. This is not because they have no blood flowing through the veins and arteries in their faces, but because their supply of blood is less than other people's and sometimes because the walls of their arteries and veins are so much thicker than the average that the color of the blood does not show through. There are also many people who have so much blood in their systems all the time, and the walls of whose arteries are so thin, that they look at all times as though they might be blushing.

At the Geneva Observatory every year a chronometer competition is held. In that of 1918, the report of which has just been issued, one chronometer was accurate to six one hundredths of a second per day.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Inventors of Perpetual Motion

Whenever an inventor of a perpetual motion contrivance seeks a patent, the Patent Office politely asks for a working model as a preliminary to its further consideration.

The working model is in due time presented. It fails to work. But, when this fact is shown, the inventor is by no means persuaded that his idea is not a good one. The machine merely needs some slight alteration in order to render it a practical success.

This sort of business is hard for the professional model maker. The perpetual motion man is confident that his idea represents a gigantic fortune. He is reluctant to trust the model maker with it, lest the latter be tempted to steal it. Sometimes he demands that the model maker shall take a solemn oath not to reveal the secret.

One of the least complex perpetual motion devices is that of a spring that winds up another spring while itself running down, and vice versa reciprocally without ceasing. When this idea has been reduced to really practical shape it will be possible to make clocks that will go forever without winding.

Another is a wheel pivoted on a point at its centre, with a metal ball running around its periphery. According to all reason and common sense, the ball, once started, ought to keep on running for a million years; but somehow, owing to a slight defect in the working model, it doesn't.

On a pivoted board a little car runs back and forth. When it reaches one end it releases a spring that tilts the board the opposite way, so that the car runs back to the end from which it started, where it has another spring that tilts the board the other way. It is sent back again and so on ad infinitum.

Here's another. Down an inclined plane six little cars run, furnishing energy whereby three little cars are hoisted to the same starting point. There are always six cars going up and only three going up, and it would seem as if the contrivance ought to keep the cars going until the wheels were out.

What most of the perpetual motion inventors try to do is to harness in one way or another the power of the earth's attraction, the force of gravity. Thus one genius has an arrangement by which water, pouring out of a tank, turns a wheel, thus driving a pump which in turn forces the water back into the tank.

Another is a wheel with hollow spokes, each of which contains a quantity of mercury. As it revolves, the quicksilver in each ascending spoke drops to the hub, thus making it easier for that spoke to rise, while the mercury in the descending spokes falls to the rim, assisting gravity. Accordingly, the wheel goes round forever; or it ought to.

An interesting device submitted to the Patent Office was composed of about 200 long sticks, each pivoted at the middle and an equal number of rubber bands connecting these together. It was merely necessary to start one stick revolving, the result being such a multiplication of energy by the action of this "original force" through the other sticks, which acted as levers, that the inventor refrained from putting in as many sticks as he might have done, fearing lest the apparatus fly to pieces and cause a terrific accident.

Imprisonment For Causing Fires.

Cooler weather demands the lighting of heaters and furnaces. Before this is done, however, chimneys, flues and stove-pipes should be thoroughly cleaned out and made safe. This is not a difficult matter, and is much preferable to being turned out of the house on a cold night by a fire caused by dirty pipes or chimneys.

Some surprise might be caused to the owner of a building damaged by fire from such a cause if the insurance company declined to pay the loss. This the company has a perfect right to do, as it is distinctly stated on all fire insurance policies that the company is not responsible for fires caused by negligence on the part of the assured.

The "Act to Amend the Criminal Code Respecting Prevention of Fire," passed at the last session of Parliament, distinctly states: "Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to two years' imprisonment who by negligence causes any fire which occasions loss of life, or loss of property."

With the possible loss of insurance and two years' imprisonment as a penalty, it is not wise for the household to neglect his stove-pipes and chimneys.

A Word of Caution.
"Let us forget" were the words of caution which went far and wide about a year ago when the epidemic of influenza cut a swath through Canada and brought suffering and distress and carried away tens of thousands of our loved ones. A timely word or two may not be out of place to health authorities and the public generally.

The benefits of fresh air, healthy living and the early medical attention to colds and catarrhs should not be forgotten as some of the preventive measures which should claim our personal attention.

Let each one of us, like a good scout, "be prepared" against what may happen and the worst may never materialize.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Prevention of Forest Fires.

Forest regions, in a new country, always present serious problems from the standpoint of fire prevention. The physical condition of the virgin forest with years of accumulated debris creates a serious fire hazard. Add to this natural condition the slash caused by timber, tie and pulp operators, and we find a fire hazard in some regions which is unsurpassed in magnitude.

Within the last decade enormous areas in northern Ontario have been opened up by new railway lines. These railways have passed through virgin forest regions, opening them to settlers, prospectors, and timber men, all carrying in their wake serious problems of forest fire prevention.

The protection of forest areas has made considerable advance in Canada during the past decade. Ontario now employs 1,000 rangers or patrol men during the maximum dry period.

Herbs should be dried quickly and immediately after gathering on open trays in a hot kitchen. As soon as crisp rub them down and store in corked bottles.

Of 90 varieties of sugar cane grown in Porto Rico, only one, a native of Japan, seems to be immune to a disease that threatens to ruin the industry.

It Works! Try It

Tells how to loosen a sore, tender corn so it lifts out without pain.

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing freezons, the ether discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers.

Ask at any pharmacy for a quarter ounce of freezone, which will cost very little, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the corn is so shriveled that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

A TONIC FOR THE NERVES

The Only Real Nerve Tonic is a Good Supply of Rich, Red Blood.

"If people would only attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist, "we doctors would not see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous wrecks. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The sort of thing which the specialist spoke of is the nervous run-down condition caused by overwork and the many anxieties of today. Sufferers find themselves tired, morose, low-spirited and unable to keep their minds on anything. Any sudden noise hurts like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, and do not sleep well at night. Headaches, neuritis and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from starved nerves.

Doctoring the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich, red blood. Therefore to cure nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills actually make new, rich blood, which strengthens the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirit, and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. If you are at all "out of sorts" you should begin curing yourself today by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

From News Boy to Hereford Breeder.

Frank Collicutt, in the Province of Alberta, rose from a newsboy to Canada's foremost Hereford breeder. His boyhood days were spent in an atmosphere common to all other boys who have to make a living in cities. His ambition to make money had to be gratified by selling newspapers on the street corners. When the first newsboy's route was established in Calgary he got it, and his ability as a newspaper salesman became generally recognized. He applied for the position of newsboy when the Canadian Pacific Railway was being completed from Calgary to Edmonton, and he sold papers, magazines and books on the first passenger train over that railroad.

This investment brought him in touch with many ranchers and farmers in Alberta. He was ambitious, and big men took a personal interest in him. Among these was "Pat" Burns, a packer and rancher, who has been one of Alberta's most prominent citizens since the cowboys owned the range. Mr. Burns wanted young Collicutt to herd cattle for him, and the monetary inducements and future prospects appealed to him sufficiently to take him from newspaper salesman to herder. He began the cattle business then, and the day he first sprang into the saddle marked a period of progress.

Mr. Collicutt saved his earnings and invested in grade cattle. He later became a buyer for Mr. Burns, and in these two enterprises, buying and investing, he was singularly successful.

After several years of experience, in handling a grade herd and feeding steers in the country, Mr. Collicutt had an ambition to own pure-breds. His opportunity came when the pure-bred Hereford stock of the Baxter-Reed Ranching Co. in Alberta, was offered for sale in 1908. This herd had been imported direct from Herefordshire, England, after having been selected by one of Britain's most competent Hereford breeders. In 1908 pure-bred cattle were not so expensive as they are today, and his investment for the 100 cows and young stock was not so formidable a consideration as it would be now. In the following year Mr. Collicutt bought the herd of Simon Downie & Sons, of Alberta, including the cow, Sally, and the bull, Beau Perfection 11th, both imported from the herd of Warren T. McCray in Indiana.

Like the Baxter-Reed people he did not fully appreciate the merit of imported English cows, and was backward in paying the price necessary to purchase a bull that would give best results on such high-class females. Importations were made from time to time from Mr. McCray's herd. Fairfax Perfection and Governor Hadley produced the best results in his herd up to the spring of 1916, when Mr. Collicutt bought Gay Lad 40th, by Gay Lad 6th, from O. Harris & Sons, for $11,900. This bull was only a yearling when brought to Canada, but he had been a junior champion in the United States the previous season. To-day he has justified his purchase price many times over through his progeny, which now ramble about in large numbers at Willow Springs Ranch. Mr. Collicutt's chief ranch, 30 miles north of Calgary, Gay Lad blood has proved such a happy mix with imported cows that Mr. Collicutt readily bought another Gay Lad, also by Gay Lad 6th, from the Glangarry Ranch, in Alberta, in 1918. The Glangarry Ranch purchased 30 Herefords at the 1917 sale of O. Harris & Sons and among these was Gay Lad 16th, which sold for $20,000. He was sold in 1918 to Mr. Collicutt, together with 30 females, and their increase at the same price, $20,000. Not only has Gay Lad 16th a lot of the finest calves for Mr. Collicutt, but he was champion of Canada in 1918, and stood third in a grand class at the 1918 International, in Chicago. The 1919 Canadian show circuit will see group after group of Gay Lad calves from Willow Springs Ranch. Anyone who is inclined to question the advisability of buying a bull of acknowledged superiority would no longer doubt if he were to see these calves. Their character, smoothness and uniformity are unusual.

A visit to this herd at Willow Springs Ranch reveals one of the most inspiring undertakings in Alberta's livestock industry. One would think that in locating a ranch Mr. Collicutt had sought in all Alberta for the ideal location, and had found it. Nestled in a great crevice are found the most modern barns and practical house imaginable. Up and down this crevice the breeding herd rambles in comfort winter and summer, night and day, with nothing but blue sky for a roof, and the wooded banks of the ravine for walls. In summer they wade in luxuriant grasses and drink at will from a stream of spring water that originates in the banks of the crevice. In winter they look at hay and eat out sheaves. The bulls and young things, together with the matrons sucking their babies, find shelter in the well-bedded boxstalls in the barns. All others welcome the freedom and unconventionalities of the outdoors. There is satisfaction in the uniformity of Hereford property bred and cared for.—Canadian, in Breeders' Gazette.

Toronto University Memorial.

A rally for the Blue and White as well as a test of the loyalty of the Alumni of the University of Toronto is the campaign for half a million dollars which is now being carried on by the Varsity Memorial Committee, the desire being to perpetuate in a Memorial Tower and Gateway and the establishment of scholarships the record set up in the Great War by nearly six thousand graduates and former students of the big Canadian institution. For the past two weeks a spirited canvass has been carried on in Toronto, and until the entire amount is raised the "drive" will continue throughout the entire world.

But the campaign has more ambitious motives than the creation even of scholarships for named heroes and the dependants of gallant Varsity boys. It is a test of the loyalty of the thousands of Alumni who have been got in touch with and ties binding them to the old school will be of a durability hitherto unthought of.

"The campaign to raise a half-million-dollar fund with which to perpetuate the memory of the graduates and students of the University of Toronto who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War will commend itself to all Alumni of this great educational institution," declares Mr. R. A. Cassidy, an old U. of T. graduate, who is in charge of the campaign, adding: "The amount is small in the light of the huge sum subscribed or asked for other leading universities in North America. Harvard is in the midst of a canvass of its graduates and friends for an endowment fund of fifteen and a half millions. Princeton is seeking fourteen millions from its Alumni and well-wishers. Cornell has launched a systematic solicitation for five millions. McGill secured a million and a half within a week, although the initial objective was but one million. The citizens of Halifax thought enough of Dalhousie University to over-subscribe a fund of four hundred thousand dollars within a week, and when Mount Allison, in New Brunswick, needed endowment, a quarter of a million was easily obtained from a small constituency.

"But in none of these sacred efforts," went on Mr. Cassidy, "was there the inspiration that should be in the sacred cause undertaken by the Alumni of the University of Toronto." The desire to honor the heroic dead here is spontaneous and general. It was at first but a matter of deciding how it should be done. Opinion throughout Canada was canvassed and the outcome was the decision to have the bulk of the fund raised by the University of Toronto students or their dependants and the erection of a Tower and Gateway between the east wing and Hart House, including a structure in which the names of those who fell are to be recorded.

A Memorial Committee, going still further into a review of the campaign, was appointed at a general meeting of Alumni last Spring and it was finally decided that local and special scholarships can be provided by any community or individual and be de-

"KILL-JOYS"

Constipation, Headache, Colds, Biliousness ended with "Cascarets"

Nothing takes the joy out of life faster than a disorder of the liver or waste-clogged bowels. Don't stay sick, bilious, headachy, constipated. Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, your breath bad and stomach sour. Why not spend a few cents for a box of Cascarets and enjoy the nicest, gentlest, laxative-cathartic you ever experienced? Cascarets never gripe, sicken or inconvenience one like Salts, Oil, Calomel or harsh pills. They work while you sleep.

voiced to specific purposes indicated by the donors. This, it was agreed, would permit wide latitude to the Alumni Associations scattered throughout the Dominion and provide ample opportunity to graduates of means to help returned soldiers of ability in their efforts to obtain a college training.

A partial canvass for subscriptions was carried on in Toronto last May, but local conditions compelled suspension until the Fall. Solicitation in the city during the past fortnight has been attended by success, and still the fight goes on to reach every graduate and former student throughout the world. Campaign committees, organized in counties throughout Ontario, in every large city in Canada outside of Ontario, in a number of centres in the United States, and in London for the British Isles, have done and are doing excellent work, and it is now practically assured that the larger objective of the drive—to lay the foundation for Alumni Associations wherever University of Toronto men and women are found in groups—will be attained.

"It is hoped," says Mr. Cassidy, "that the time will soon come when distance from Toronto will mean as little to U. of T. men and women as distance from Cambridge does to Harvardites. A Harvard graduate is a Harvard graduate wherever he is found and the same can be said of Yale, Princeton and other great Universities."

Nowadays.

After a courtship of some months the young man had mustered sufficient courage to tell the adored one of his great love.

"To-night," said he, "I am going to your father and ask for your hand in marriage."

"But it is very fine, Harry," the prettiest girl replied, "but not so old-fashioned."

"Old-fashioned?" returned the lover thoughtfully. "I don't quite understand."

"Don't ask him," was the prompt explanation of the girl. "Tell him!"

ONLY TABLETS MARKED "BAYER" ARE ASPIRIN

Not Aspirin at All without the "Bayer Cross"

The name "Bayer" identifies the only genuine Aspirin—the Aspirin Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neu- prescribed by physicians for over nine- years and now made in Canada. Always buy an unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" which cost a few cents. Larger "Bayer" packages. There is only one Aspirin—"Bayer"—You must say "Bayer!" Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Mono-acetyl-salicylic acid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

SITUATIONS VACANT

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR AN OPENING to prove your ability? Or, are you just drifting along on the principle that "everything comes to him who waits" without much thought of your efficiency? If you are in the latter class, be up and doing—train your mind and memory so as to be ready for opportunity when it comes your way. In other words, be prepared! If you know you have ability, why not use the waiting moments to improve your efficiency and incidentally acquire that Personality which means so much in seeking Success? Small towns, cities, or on the township side line, it matters not—the Pelman System is conducted by mail. "Mind and Memory" tells you about it. It is a book that's free and lays no obligation upon you to enroll, though you'll be surprised to find how moderate is the fee required. Write for the book and particulars (to-day) to the Pelman Institute, 745 Temple Building, Toronto, Canada.

EUPHEMIA

Look out for hallowe'en. The municipal election pot has been set to simmer. The much-predicted Hessian fly has failed to materialize, and fall wheat throughout the township is looking fine. Some of our young U. F. O. enthusiasts have been forced to order new vests since the election. We regret to note the resignation of our capable veteran clerk and predict a rough and thorny road for his successor. The expectations of potato growers is not being realized and in consequence home grown spuds will, generally speaking, stay at home. The war is over but the farmerette remains. Many are still to be seen "helping out" wherever the need be. Many of our "leisure boys" attended the plowing matches at Chatham. More of us, however, tended the plowing at home. The council board was raided again last session for sheep damages, yet still some fellows insist the dog tax is a rake-off. Talk about your progressive farmer! Since the price of eggs has advanced so handsomely one fellow we know is installing an electric lighting system in house and outbuildings and anticipates two eggs per hen every 24 hours. Don't Submit to Asthma—If you suffer without hope of breaking the chains which bind you, do not put off another day the purchase of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. A trial will drive away all doubt as to its efficiency. The sure relief that comes will convince you more than anything that can be written. When help is so sure, why suffer? This matchless remedy is sold by dealers everywhere.

WARDSVILLE

Mrs. Matheson, wife of the evangelist, spent a few days here and assisted her husband with his work. Miss Sutherland of Delaware visited her cousin, Mrs. Branton, last week. Erwin King of Detroit spent some time with his mother here last week. A number from here went to see the Prince at London or Glencoe. Miss Jennie Gordon, who has been confined to bed with a fractured limb, is able to be up again. Mrs. (Rev.) Collins and Pat of Windsor are visiting her sister, Mrs. J. Mulligan. Mr. and Miss Dykes and sister, Mrs. Wood, have gone to Bridgen for the winter. Sacramental services were held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday. There were three baptisms and two united with the church. Will Walker of Detroit visited his brother here last week. Mr. and Mrs. Love are spending a few holidays among friends.

NEWBURY

Personally we feel like moving a vote of thanks to the reverend and councillors and committee of Glencoe who made it possible for so many in this district to see the Prince of Wales at Glencoe on Thursday last. Everyone who was there will second our motion. So we present the motion as carried unanimously. The Prince of Wales is a real prince and won the hearts of all who saw him. And the arrangements were good, so none failed to see him. Mrs. Vanduzer is visiting in Parry Sound. Robert J. Haggith brought us a branch of his raspberry bush, which was heavily loaded with fruit. Some of the berries were exceptionally large and fully ripened. Mrs. Rush has closed her house for the winter and gone to the home of her niece, Mrs. J. O. Archer. Dr. J. P. and Mrs. McVicar and Reeve Holman were in London on Wednesday to see the Prince of Wales. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Weaver and friend, Roy Chamberlain, visited Mrs. Yates one day last week. On Wednesday, Nov. 5, at 2.30 p. m. an open meeting of the Newbury-Mosa Women's Institute will be held in the town hall. The district president, Mrs. Benj. Fisher of Glen Oak, will address the meeting. All ladies welcome. Roll call "Thanksgiving." A light lunch will be served. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Armstrong and daughter Dorothy visited Windsor and Detroit friends this week. G. L. Murdock spent the week-end at his home in Hamilton. Reginald Gordon of Detroit visited his uncle, Dr. Gordon, last week. Miss Chasely spent the week-end in West Lorne. Mrs. Forbes of Chatham, a returned missionary, will give an address in Knox church on Sunday afternoon next at the regular service. The thankoffering of the W. F. M. S. will be received. Jason Bell has returned from a pleasant visit with his son George in London, where he also attended the demonstration for the Prince of Wales. Miss Irene McVicar has returned home after a pleasant visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Yates, and aunts.

ALLIANCE

Coad Bros. are expecting to start operations with their ditching machine on the farm of D. S. McEachern in the near future. A very enjoyable time was held recently at the home of James McRae when a large dancing party was held to celebrate the election victory. All those of the district who worked so faithfully to insure the election of Mr. Lethbridge, the farmer candidate, were present.

MOSA

Mrs. Stuart Nisbet and little son, Gordon, have returned home after spending two weeks at Thos. Nisbet's, Wyoming. Mrs. Neil L. Leitch and Mrs. M. C. McLean attended the funeral at Wallaceburg of the latter's sister, Miss Esther Mitchell, daughter of the late Duncan I. Mitchell. The Misses McAlpine of Shields visited at A. B. McLachlan's last week. There will be a social hop in D. C. Graham's house on Nov. 4. A number of friends from here attended the shower given to Miss Nettie Dewar prior to her marriage. The many friends of the late P. D. Keith extend their heartfelt sympathy to his wife and daughter in their bereavement.

KILMARTIN

Misses Anna, Nettie and Edith Dewar are home from Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Jack McAlpine of Alliance spent Saturday at D. McGregor's. Miss Flora McLachlan and Mrs. Rebecca McAlpine spent a few days in London last week. Mrs. Lindsay of Inwood is visiting her brothers, Neil and A. L. Munroe, of this place. Miss Jessie McLachlan has returned from a trip to the West. Miss Nettie Dewar was the recipient of many pretty and useful gifts when the ladies of the neighborhood gave a shower on the eve of her approaching marriage. Mrs. Wilson of Windsor spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. McTavish.

NORTH EKFRID

A large crowd gathered at the home of George Klemm last Thursday evening with a wedding shower for Mr. and Mrs. J. McDonald. Last Sunday sacramental service was held in the Presbyterian church in the afternoon, and in the evening Miss Mitchell spoke on missionary work. Wm. Nichol's little son, Lloyd, had a serious accident when he fell with a lead pencil in his mouth. Two doctors had to be called and several stitches put in the roof of his mouth.

STRATHBURN

Mrs. D. A. McRae of California is visiting friends in the vicinity this week. Mrs. W. W. Gordon of Port Huron is spending this week with her brother, D. H. McRae, and Mrs. McRae. Wm. R. Dobie, who has been on the sick-list for some time, is getting better. Blank oil leases for sale at The Transcript office.

RHEUMATISM FOR OVER 16 YEARS

No Return Of The Trouble Since Taking "Fruit-a-tives"

108 CHEVYCH ST., MONTREAL.
"I was a great sufferer from Rheumatism for over 16 years. I consulted specialists; took medicine; used lotions; but nothing did me good. Then I began to use "Fruit-a-tives" and in 18 days the pain was easier and the Rheumatism much better. Gradually, "Fruit-a-tives" overcame my Rheumatism, and now, for five years, I have had no return of the trouble. I especially recommend this fruit medicine to all sufferers."

CAIRO

Mrs. D. L. McGugan is suffering from an attack of inflammatory rheumatism. Miss Mildred McGugan arrived home on Friday after visiting friends in Thamesville. Mrs. Osborne Gage is at her home again after a three weeks' visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas W. Cox. Miss Mary Siddall visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. John A. Wehmann, on Sunday. Anniversary services were held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday. Rev. Mr. Lloyd of Glencoe preached at 2.30 and at 7.30 p. m., and at each service the church was filled to its capacity and the audience listened attentively to inspiring and eloquent addresses. Our choir were assisted by Rev. A. E. Waghorne, tenor, and Manley Beattie, basso, and succeeded admirably. At the evening service a duet by Revs. Lloyd and Waghorne was highly appreciated. This was the forty-eighth anniversary and will long be remembered as a day of gladness by all present.

SHIELDS SIDING

Ferguson's Crossing Needle Club met at the home of Mrs. Hugh R. McAlpine last week. Mr. and Mrs. John Dewar and Mrs. Mac Purcell visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. Archie Purcell and family. Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Ferguson are receiving congratulations. Her many friends tendered a shower one night last week. Mr. and Mrs. McBride spent Thanksgiving with Willie McBride, Walkerville. Miss Drina McAlpine spent the week-end at her home here. Mrs. Ferguson and daughters left for their new home in Detroit this week. Mrs. R. H. Shields of New York is at Hugh A. McAlpine's. Mrs. McEachern of Flint, Mich., and Miss Black of Melbourne visited recently with Mrs. D. H. McLachlan. B. L. Ferguson, Summit, spent some time with his mother, Mrs. Nancy Ferguson. A. D. Munroe is finishing the threshing in the country for another year. Picking apples and digging potatoes and the fall plowing are now the order of the day. Archie Purcell has purchased a new Heintzman piano.

MELBOURNE

The anniversary services which were held in the Methodist church on Sunday last were a splendid success. Rev. Mr. McTavish of Muncey preached morning and evening. Special music was given by the choir, assisted by Miss Gladys Watson of St. Thomas and Gordon Knapp of London. Miss Watson is a post-graduate of Alma College and a pupil of George Currie. Her solo, "The Good Shepherd," which was rendered in her clear soprano voice, proved to all present that her name in the musical world will appear among the best artists. Mr. Knapp is a pupil of George Lethbridge. His solo, "Consider and Hear Me," showed him to be the possessor of an excellent baritone voice. We hope to have the opportunity of hearing them again in our village in the near future. Rev. W. R. Vance preached in Muncey Sunday last. Arthur Staples spent Sunday at Kimball. Miss Gladys Watson of St. Thomas spent the week-end here the guest of Miss Mather. Mr. Knapp of London was the guest of Miss Parr on Sunday last. Mr. Gumb of the Home Bank staff spent last Sunday at his home in Thorndale. Miss Annie Johnston of London spent the week-end at her home here. Miss Alice Wellman is visiting friends in London.

CASHMERE

Lloyd Saylor of Chatham spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Saylor. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Young of Cairo spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Dawson. Mrs. Jennie Willick and daughter, Miss Beccie, of Bothwell are spending a few days with the former's son, Ross. Harley Reade has returned after spending a few weeks in Chatham. We are glad to hear that Mrs. Wm. Smith is home from the hospital and is improving quite nicely. We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Howard Gardiner is on the sick-list again. Nearly everyone is busy working at sugar beets. Miss Jean Archer of London spent the week-end at her home here. A number from here are attending the revival meetings in the Methodist church, Wardsville. Mr. Matheson of the London City Mission has charge.
