EMPIRE DAY OBSERVED

Teachers and pupils of the high and public schools celebrated Empire Day here in the manner outlined by the Minister of Education. The forenoon was spent in studying matters relating to the history of our country.

In the afternoon (owing to the disagreeable weather), the public programme was carried out in the Town Hall.
The pupils of the various class-rooms, accompanied by the teachers, took their places in the hall, as did the cadets of the Public and High schools. Promptly at 2 o'clock, Mr. Riddell, chairman of the school-board, called for the saluting of the flag, after which "God Save the King" was sung.

The chairman, after a few opening remarks, introduced the programme, consisting of songs, speeches and recitations.
The songs were all of a patriotic nature,
and Rev. Mr. Newton deserves credit for the manner in which the selections were rendered by the pupils with such a short space of time as he had for preparation. Recitations were given by Misses Switzer and Sutherland, of the High School, and by Mary Phillips, Mary McNeely and Muriel Barber, of the Public School, all of which were much appreciated by the audience.

The first address was given by Mr. J.
S. L. McNeely, who spoke on the Life and Times of Sir John A. Macdonald;
the second speech was by Dr. Downing,
on the Life and Times of Hon. George Brown, and the third address was by Rev. Mr. Dobson, who spoke on "Canada, To-day and in Prospect." Greetings were brought by Rev. Mond and Henderson, from the churches they represented, and a very successful programme was brought to a close by singing "The Maple Leaf." The pianist for the day was Miss Mary Chisholm, of the public school.

Death of Mrs. S. G. Cram.

After a lengthy illness, borne with rare patience and resignation, Mrs. S.
G. Cram passed quietly to her reward
last Wednesday afternoon, her ailment an affection of the heart from which she had suffered more or less for years, sometimes better, then worse again. Her latter illness kept her confined for about seven weeks. The deceased lady was born in Perthshire, Scotland, sixty-six years ago, and came to Canada when a girl of but nine years of age. In April, 1884, she married the late Samuel G. Cram, who predeceased her by about eighteen months. In religion she was a Presbyterian, and a devoted member of Zion Church. The funeral took place Friday afternoon, from her late home
on Hawthorne Avenue, to St. Fillan's cemetery, and was largely attended.
The service at the house and at the grave was conducted by Rev. W. A.
Dobson. The pallbearers were Messrs.
A. F. Stewart, Thos. Stewart, John
Willis, D. Smythe, James McAllister,
Robert Dunlop, James Cram and F.
McRostie. Mrs. W. J. McDiarmid, of Toronto, and Mrs. C. F. R. Taylor, town, are step-daughters of deceased,
and Mrs. Denison, of Elgin, Ont., is a cousin.

Lanark Spring Assizes.

The Court of Assize for the County of Lanark was held in the court house
here on Tuesday, Hon. Justice Britton presiding. Mr. J. A. Stewart was counsel for the Crown, but his duties were light, as there was no criminal business on the docket and the jurors were notified not to attend. There was one civil case on the list for trial, in which Annie McKenzie sued her husband Alexander McKenzie, (coal merchant, of Smiths Falls,) for alimony. C. J. Foy appeared for the plaintiff and R. A. Pringle, K.
C., and B. E. Sparham, for defendant.
The pleadings state that the couple were married in 1911, and the plaintiff alleges that owing to her husband's misconduct
she found it impossible to live with him and left his home on March, 1917. On May 11th, 1917, a court order was made ordering the husband to pay the plaintiff arrears of interim alimony amounting to $15,000, together with interim costs $21.50, and $17.50 per week until the trial of the action—the order issuing on the undertaking of the plaintiff that the trial would take place at Perth this week. On the case being called Mr.
Foy asked for a postponement, on account of the serious illness of the plaintiff; he also asked that the order for payment of interim alimony be enforced
as well as for payment of fees required for plaintiff's witnesses, and for permission to amend her statement of claim by adding a further charge against the defendant. Mr. Pringle stoutly opposed the applications made on behalf of the plaintiff, and a lengthy argument resulted, at the close of which a compromise arrangement was made, the trial being adjourned till the Fall assizes, the defendant to pay arrears of interim alimony and costs in accordance with the order, and the weekly allowance to be reduced thereafter from $17.50 to $12.50. A mutual arrangement was also made as to examination of parties.
Court closed at 4.20.—Perth Expositor.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

MOTHER'S DAY.

Sunday, May 13, was "Mother's Day" in the United States. From ocean to ocean it was fittingly celebrated. As a matter of fact every day in the year should be "Mother's Day." Every day in the year we should show our mothers every mark of honor possible. These mothers have sacrificed much for us and given us their love and best thoughts. The debt we owe to them can never be paid.

Abraham Lincoln's mother died when he was ten years old. His father then married a widow. This step-mother and not his father recognized the natural ability of her step-son. Borrowed books for him to read and bought others out of her hard earned pennies. Every child has heard of Abraham Lincoln, but how few could tell the name of his step-mother, and yet only for the loving kindness of this step-mother Lincoln would probably never have been known outside of the county in which he lived. Her name was Mrs. Sally Pohtson, nee Bush.

Edison was educated at his mother's knee. A few years at a country school completed that education. Caesar was educated by his mother, Aurelia. The mother of Cardinal Gibbons was left in early life a widow, penniless and with six children to care for. Napoleon's father was a busy Italian farmer. His Corsican mother made him the conqueror of Europe. Henry Ford's father wanted him to be a farmer, but his loving mother detected his ability in mending broken tools and her influence made him a machinist. It is hard to find a man of any note, whose success cannot be traced to his mother, and yet these mothers are seldom mentioned by the public press. One wiser than we has said, "Show me a great man and I will show you a great mother."

The years roll on, mother dearest, that bring me nearer to you, but you have never seemed very far away.

The wheels of time have left their track on all about us, but your dear face remained just the same.

What you said to us and the memories of what you did for us come back to your children in the silent seasons of the night and the busy hours of the day, and never is there a sickness or trial nor a joy that you are not present in some form.

More than a thousand times since you have journeyed on we have said if only Mother were here as of old that we might say the word and do the thing we postponed or forgot.

JOHN WANAMAKER.

I cannot name any time, day or place when I was converted. It was my mother's steady and constant influence that led me gradually along, and I grew into a religious life under her potent training, and by the power of the Holy Spirit working through her agency. I feel now that the happy fifty-six years

LETTER FROM THE FRONT.

Hastings, England,

May 5/17.

Dear Father and Mother,—Once again I am writing to you trusting that it will find you all well. You will all be I feel sure, glad to know that I have been able to see Bill (a brother). The first time was a week ago to-day and again on Friday. I found him on both occasions enjoying the best of health in spite of his wound, which I am pleased to say is in no way serious, but which had it been of an inch higher on the head would have been fatal. Believe me we have much to be thankful for that he has been spared to us even though he is shot in the head. It has in no way affected him; he is the same old Bill; just as full of life as ever. You can tell anyone who enquires that he will recover O.K., his neck is stiff yet, but that will be all right when fully recovered. For myself, I am still living and doing fine. Will let you know of Bill as often as I can. I am hoping he will be sent here with me.

With love to all,

ERNE.

The above is a copy of part of a letter sent to me from Ernie who is not yet fully recovered from shell shock and gas poisoning, and his brother who was wounded at Vimy Ridge. A letter has also been received from their brother Percy, who is still at the Front, having earned a promotion and been made Lance Corporal.

JAMES REYNOLDS,

Profits on the Farm.

That fair profits can be secured in spite of unfavorable conditions, if the farm is managed efficiently, is shown by a farm management survey made in Fillmore county, Nebraska, for the crop year 1913. During that year the average farmer lacked $189 of making 5 per cent. on his investment, and secured for his labor only what the farm furnished toward his living. However, the 10 best farmers not only made interest, but averaged $775 additional, on farms averaging 162 acres each. Each farm had three main sources of income—wheat, hogs, and cattle; and nearly all sold oats, horses, and poultry. All rough feed was consumed on the farm, the stock showing a good net profit.

that I spent in the glorious ministry of the gospel of redemption is the direct outcome of that beloved mother's prayers, teaching, example, and holy influence.

THEODORE L. CUYLER.

My mother! It was she who put her arms around us when father died. It was she who made it possible for us to have even the small comforts of life, and when we were so poor that we scarcely had food to eat or fire to warm us it was she who protected us. All that is good in my life, I think, has come from her; and I have never come near Nothfield that I have not found myself walking nervously up and down the aisle of the car, anxious to reach home, that I might see my mother.

DWIGHT L. MOODY.

The simple gospel of the humble carpenter, preached by the twelve fishermen, has survived the centuries, and outlives all other philosophies of eighteen hundred years. I am not versed in the terminology of philosophies. I believe them to be of little use to reach the hearts and to influence the actions of simple men.

The simple faith of my mother is good enough for me. If we believe this faith, what harm? If we disbelieve it, thereby do wrong, what of our future? CHAUNCEY M. DEFEW.

Mother love * * * hath this uniqueness to any other love: Tender to the object, it can be infinitely tyrannical to itself, and thence all its power of self-sacrifice.

LEW WALLACE.

The woman's task is not easy—no task worth doing is easy—but in doing it, and when she has done it, there shall come to her the highest and holiest joy known to mankind; and having done it, she shall have the reward prophesied in Scripture; for her husband and her children, yes and all people who realize that her work lies at the very foundation of all national happiness and greatness, shall rise up and call her blessed.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

None so devotional as that of "Mother."

EDGAR ALLAN POE.

I remember my mother's prayers—and they have always followed me. They have clung to me all my life.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

My mother she's so good to me, if I was good as I could be, I couldn't be as good, no sir; can't any boy be good as her.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

CROSS, SICKLY BABIES

Sickly babies—those who are cross and fretful; whose little stomach and bowels are out of order; who suffer from constipation, indigestion, colds or any other of the minor ills of little ones—can be promptly cured by Baby's Own Tablets. Concerning them Mrs. Jean Paradis, St. Bruno, Que., writes: "My baby was very ill and vomited all his food. He was cross and cried night and day and nothing helped him till I began using Baby's Own Tablets. They soon set him right and now he is a fat, healthy boy." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Bean Scraps.

The bush or dwarf varieties of beans are grown for the production of ripened seed for human food.

Beans are a valuable crop in a rotation, leaving the soil in a very suitable condition for following crops.

In 1916, 76 per cent. of the beans produced in Canada were grown in the Province of Ontario.

Beans will grow on any well-drained and well-manured soil.

Thorough soil preparation is necessary for success.

Beans should be sown as soon as weather and soil conditions will permit, that is, when the soil has become warm and fairly dry.

Beans are usually planted in rows about 28 inches apart, the plants being thinned from four to six inches apart in the row.

Sow seed, free from disease, of strong vitality and of reliable varieties.

Cultivate as necessary to keep the surface soil stirred and free from weeds. Harvest the beans when dry and clean and with as little weathering as possible.

Thresh carefully, split or broken beans cannot be sold either for seed or food purposes.

Eight sections, so formed that they can be placed on top of a table of any shape, have been patented to make dining tables larger.

The meanest farmer I ever knew was one down in Jackson county, who sharpened all stumps on his farm so that the hired men couldn't sit down to rest.

Some Tips For the Real Home Seamstress.

Various Tricks That Clever Dressmakers Use to Renovate Old Clothes So They Look Positively Parisian—How to Clean Rumbled Finery and Lace.

A pair of shoes have served only half their usefulness when you take them to the cobbler to be resoled for the first time. With the new soles and a little care they will serve as long a term of usefulness as that which they have already served.

So with the frock that hangs abandoned in the back of your clothes closet. The last time you put it on you were ashamed of its ragged condition. The sleeves were frayed at the wrists, and a button was missing at the front, and there was—yes, there actually was—a spot in the front panel. So you determined that the dress was done for.

But unless one is rolling in wealth she will find it to her advantage to get out that old frock and take an inventory of what remains in good condition. Would she give $2 for a dress that would wear as long as that dress has already worn—perhaps without all the first freshness, but attractive enough for wear at home, at least? Well, surely for that amount and a few hours of patience the dress can be restored marvelously.

Of course, the dress is a little gone at the bottom. Begin there by ripping out the hem, brushing it carefully and if the edge is badly frayed in places cutting the hem off entirely at the line of the turning up. Next sew this piece on again in a neat narrow seam, press the seam open and turn it up again. It will be only a trifle shorter than the dress was last year, just the distance of the seam in the hem.

If the sleeves were long and if they were tight that is probably the next place that needs attention. But don't let that discourage you, for the sleeves may be removed entirely and in their place sleeves of georgette crepe or chiffon to match the main tones of the frock may be put in. These sleeves should be cut to fit the armholes exactly, but it is very attractive to let them hang in straight fullness from a place a little above the elbow. These sleeves should be turned up in a narrow hem, held in place by a line of French knots or featherstitching at the bottom. They should be long enough to extend well below the wrist. Now, from the old sleeves cut a neat strip about three-quarters of an inch wide and stitch this on both sides, arrange the fullness of the sleeves at the wrist in a few gathers at the back of the wrist, fasten it securely and finish the wrist with the strip of the stitched material, leaving the ends of the sleeves to form a dainty ruffle about the hand.

Before putting the sleeves into the frock see that it is as clean as possible. The best way to do this is to immerse the entire frock in gasoline, rub well the spots between the hands and put it out to dry without wringing the gasoline out. Air it well before trying to wear the gown.

And now comes the final renovation, which consists of cutting out the old collar and neck fixings, which are always sure to show the wear first, and finishing the neck line in a deep V. Now, with the repair money still in hand buy a fichu. Very pretty deep fichu with ends at the front can be had for 50 cents or a dollar made of sheer lawn, trimmed with lawn ruffles.

For the same outlay, of course, a finer fichu could be made at home, or if you have more to spend a fichu of georgette crepe could be bought. Extremely effective are fichus of double frilling made especially for this purpose in georgette crepe, net or fine lawn.

MONTREAL'S 275th BIRTHDAY

St. James' Catholic Cathedral, Montreal.

MONTREAL is proud to celebrate its 275th birthday this year. On May 18th, 1642, Paul de Chomedey, Sieur de Maisonneuve, brought his little flat-bottomed pinnace to anchor close to the site selected by Samuel de Champlain thirty-one years previously, and the new settlement was formally dedicated by Pere Vimont.

To-day Montreal is a city of wide streets and stately buildings, with wealth unaccountable and a population of nearly three-quarters of a million; headquarters of most of the great banking companies and of that world-wide enterprise, the Canadian Pacific Railway. But all this springs from the landing of Maisonneuve and his associates in May, 1642.

The island of Montreal was visited by Jacques Cartier in 1535, and nearly a hundred years passed before another white man came. On the 28th of May, 1611, Samuel de Champlain landed with another Frenchman and an Indian. He seems to have explored the shore line as far as the Rapids, but finally decided that the best place for a settlement was a little strip of meadowland, to which he gave the name of Place Royale. Incidentally, it was de Champlain who first advocated the cutting of what is now the Panama Canal, in 1600.

Thirty years later, plans were perfected for the founding of the settlement, which was called in advance, Ville-Marie de Montreal for Mount-Royal. De Maisonneuve was appointed leader of the little party, consisting of about a score of people. They set sail from France in a small pinnace, landing at Quebec on the 8th of May. Here they were warned by Montmagny of the danger of annihilation by the Iroquois.

"It is my duty and my honor to found a colony at Mount Royal," said de Maisonneuve, "and I would do it if every tree were an Iroquois."

The long buffeting across the Atlantic in his cockleshell of a boat had not daunted his courage or that of his companions, nor did the almost equally perilous passage up the uncharted St. Lawrence, which occupied them ten days. He and his associates had their duty to do and they went on and did it.

It was a beautiful afternoon when they first sighted the island, with the forest-clad mountain rising steeply against the sky. The pinnace fetched up by the side of a rivulet running into the St. Lawrence. There was a stretch of meadowland along the shore, with patches of flowers growing amid the grass and brightly colored birds darting to and fro. Beyond the meadowland lay the forest, with who knew what secrets hidden in its mysterious depths. De Champlain had told them of the pallsadd town of Hochelaga which stood opposite the present McGill University.

De Maisonneuve was the first to spring ashore, followed by Governor Montmagny from Quebec, Pere Vimont, Mdlle. Jean Mance, Madame de la Peltrie and her servant, Charlotte

POULTRY DISEASE INVESTIGATOR

(Experimental Farm Note)

It will be of interest to poultry keepers throughout Canada to know that there is now an expert who devotes all his time investigating the diseases of poultry. Dr. A. B. Wickware, Assistant Pathologist to the Health of Animals Branch has been assigned to that work by Dr. Torrance, Veterinary Director General.

Dr. Wickware is by no means a novice in poultry diseases. For several years, under Dr. Higgins, Dominion Pathologist, he has devoted some of his time to the diseases affecting poultry and has given special attention to Black Head. Realizing the importance of investigations in poultry diseases, Mr. J. H. Grisdale, Director of Experimental Farms and Dr. Torrance arranged for Dr. Wickware to take up this question exclusively. He is therefore now co-operating with the Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, where, since last fall, he has been conducting experiments along this much needed and very important line of work.

Continued attention is being given to Black Head in turkeys and many new investigations are being started. These relate to chick diseases as well as to general diseases of poultry, including parasites of all kinds.

The annual losses that occur from poultry diseases and parasites are tremendous. No person knows what the amount is but it is well into the millions of dollars each year. Dr. Wickware's work will no doubt, do something to eliminate part of this, but the co-operation of all poultrymen who have any disease in their flock will be appreciated.

As usual, communications to the Experimental Farm re diseases of poultry will be welcomed, and with Dr. Wickware now giving all his time to this matter, even more information will be available. Specimens of sick birds should be sent when practicable and may be expressed collect if addressed to Biological Laboratory, Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The Split Log Drag.

Good Roads conventions are excellent. Much information and many helpful suggestions are to be obtained from attending them. Unfortunately very few country path-masters attend them. We all hope that, eventually, good roads, with proper surface and under-drainage and foundation will become general. Meanwhile it would be well for us to exercise the proper care that should be given to many existing earth roads. While travelling through Dundas county the middle of April, it was distinctly noticeable that the road upon which the split log drag had been used were in decidedly better condition than the un-dragged roads. Do not wait until the road is to be reconstructed. Do something to keep it in good shape. If the split log drag is used in the spring, or, after rains, earth roads can be very much improved. Instead of having a road full of holes and ruts an earth road can be kept smooth and in much better condition than many of the un-dragged roads of the present day. The cost is small but improvement is great. —F.C.N.

Fixing the Nationality.

Not long ago a gentleman who enjoys some prominence in the theatrical business was called as witness in a damage suit growing out of a collision between an automobile and a street car at the corner of Fifth Street and Broadway. Having been sworn, he took the stand, and in answer to questions from the counsel for the plaintiff, described where he was standing when the smash came and what he saw and what was said and all the rest of it.

On cross-examination the attorney for the other side undertook to tangle him up.

"Isn't it a fact," demanded the lawyer, "that you couldn't see what really did occur because there was a kiosk between you and the spot where the accident happened?"

"A kiosk?" asked the witness.

"A kiosk—a subway kiosk?"

"No, sir!" stated the witness. "I didn't see any kiosk. There was only one fellow there that seemed to be working for the subway and he was either an Italian or a Greek, I couldn't tell which."

LANARK.

From the Krs. Mr. Floyd Fisher, junior clerk in the Bank of Ottawa, was transferred to Martintown and left to-day for that place.

Lieut. H. C. McIntyre arrived home from Kingston last Monday and will remain in this district for some time in the interests of recruiting for Forestry battalions.

Miss Lizzie Connors has joined the staff of the Bank of Ottawa here.

Pioneer Sergt. Thomas A. Mason is spending a few days here recruiting for the 230th Forestry Battalion.

The 240th Battalion, of which Lieut. Col. E. J. Watt of this village is officer commanding, has arrived safely in England.

Last Thursday Mr. C. M. Forbes received the following telegram from Mr. Robert McCulloch, Fort William: "Regret to inform you James Henry Deachman officially reported killed in action April 29th." The news came as a great shock and surprise to Lanark friends who thought Jim was with a construction Battalion. Only a short time ago he wrote a letter to his mother, and the general tone of this letter was very hopeful that he would be all right. He went to England about March 1st and was immediately sent to the front. While engaged in the hazardous work of constructing appliances near the front lines, he met death by a bomb from a hostile aeroplane. James H. Deachman was born on the homestead near Lanark, October 12th, 1874. He went to school in the village. He was apprenticed to the cabinet making trade with Mr. James Young and later worked at the same trade with Mr. J. W. Campbell. About fourteen years ago he left Lanark for Fort William and was married a year later to Miss Mary Kennedy of this village. Two children were born to them, both of whom are now with their mother at Fort William. His mother, Mrs. John Deachman, survives and lives on the old homestead with her stepson, Mr. John H. Deachman. Isaac Deachman of Tisdale, Sask., is a brother and Mrs. John Kerr, of Crystal City, Man., is a sister. Robert and Thomas Deachman of Carleton Place are half-brothers.

GROWING TURKEYS.

Abundance of Food and Room For Exercise Necessary to Success.

Every precaution should be taken in turkey raising to obtain strong, vigorous stock. Do not imagine that size is the main point of excellence, says a poultry expert. A medium sized golden weighing about twenty-five pounds will usually render more satisfactory results than an overheavy specimen. In all fowls remember that size is largely influenced by the female, and he color and distinguishing characteristics by the male. The hens should be well matured, weighing not less than fourteen pounds. Intelligent and tame, as distinguished from wild and unduly excited birds, and of pronounced constitutional vigor.

A safe rule for mating is to have a tom for every four to six hens. Good fertility is reported from matings of a male to every twelve females, but we are inclined to think this is unusual. On farms where the flocks are yarded it is customary to keep two cocks for every eight or ten hens and to alternate the males about twice a week, keeping one penned aloof while the other is with the flock. When turkeys are given unlimited range, which is the most successful method of raising them, they naturally divide into flocks. It is said that the real secret of success in rearing turkeys is exercise.

When preparing for a successful hatch of turkey eggs it is almost impossible to take too many precautions. Only when turkey hens are free range steal their nests can the best results be obtained by a policy of noninterference. Even under such circumstances it is usually well to take some precautionary measures. The nest should be found and, if necessary, protected from the weather by a A coop that has at one side an opening sufficiently large to allow the turkey hen to enter easily. Picture shows a turkey on a stolen nest.

They must have an abundance of food, and to maintain the necessary health to assimilate large quantities of food they must have an abundance of exercise. This idea is entirely logical. Turkeys are large birds, semiwild by nature, possessed of a roving disposition and fully capable of taking care of themselves. To confine them is to impose a feeling of constraint and worry, over which they never cease to fret. To do well turkeys must have range. Only a few should be attempted in a confined space, and even then they will require painstaking care.

Much of the so called "bad luck" in turkey raising, infertility, soft shelled eggs and impaired vigor, is due to improper feeding. Avoid having the breeding stock too fat. If they have become so during the winter season endeavor to reduce them to medium flesh before the mating season. Oats are one of the best feeds during the breeding months, with an occasional feeding of wheat, corn, barley and ground bone. Grit, oyster shells and charcoal should be kept within easy reach of the birds at all times and a plentiful supply of fresh drinking water.

Continued Selection For Corn.

Corn productiveness may be greatly increased through continued selection. For fourteen seasons this has been studied on a 3,000 acre farm in Ohio with ten acre plots of corn. On these small plots seed selected from department co-operative improvement have been contrasted with the farm yields of the same variety of corn less rigidly selected and grown under identical cultural conditions. During the first seven year period the fields planted with department seed yielded 13.3 bushels per acre more than the farm fields, while for the second seven years the increase averaged 21.8 bushels per acre.

Tips on Horticulture.

Frank B. Cross of the department of horticulture at Oklahoma A. and M. college, Stillwater, offers the following advice to farmers: Don't buy your fruits and vegetables. Raise 'em. Don't neglect insects and diseases. They are easily controlled by spraying. Don't forget to use fertilizers. They increase production wonderfully. Don't prune too much or too little. Use judgment. "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." Bring satisfaction and good cheer to the home and folks by planting flowers and shrubs about the house and lawn. Plan to live, not to die.

Conservation of Natural Resources.

One of the great movements of our time is the movement for the conservation of our natural resources. We have gone on as if the world were coming to an end when we were dead. Now we are getting a better perspective. The conservation movement, as natural, was at first most conspicuously identified with the conservation of our forests and our water power, but it must extend beyond the forests and water power. It must more immediately concern itself with the conservation of the soil, for even our brief history tells us that fertile fields may become abandoned farms through other causes than lack of rainfall.—Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois.

Weeds.

With the call for more production there may be a tendency to increase the acreage of high producing crops such as the root and hoe crops on the farm. In preparing for these crops this year it will be well to thoroughly bear in mind that no amount of cultivation after the crop is in can make up for a lack of cultivation before the crop is planted. If the ground is properly prepared for the seeding and planting, the battle is largely won. By thorough tillage of the soil before planting, thousands of tiny weeds will be killed which would otherwise cause trouble in the growing crop. By preventing the weeds from growing the crops are given a better opportunity to develop and produce the food which is required by Canadians in Canada and the Allies in Europe.—F.C.N.

And the Band Played Lohengrin.

A judge in one of our Southern cities was called upon to marry a Chinaman and a Mexican woman. Going to the hall where the service was to be held, the magistrate could find no interpreter. The room was filled with Mexicans and Chinese.

This did not disturb the magistrate. Placing the woman's hand in that of the Chinaman's he asked her:

"You wanna take this man?"
"Si, senor! Si, senor!" came the reply.
Turning to the Oriental, he asked:
"You kletchum this woman?"
"Ya! Me kletchum," the Chinaman blandly responded with pleased smiles.
"All right," returned the justice: "you are man and wife. Savvy?"
They savvied.

THE HERALD.

TUESDAY, MAY 29TH, 1917.

The British Minister of food has prohibited all speculation in food-stuffs.

Another loan of $75,000,000 was made to Great Britain by the United States, making the British total thus far $100,000,000.

The question of taking action to put a stop to price control exercised by manufacturers through agreements with retailers and jobbers will receive the consideration of the Government, and possibly legislation will be introduced this session. It is none too soon.

ONTARIO AFFAIRS.

Toronto, May 26.—After some months of almost but restricted efforts by the Ontario Organization of Resources Committee, that body enlarged and enriched by the addition of a number of prominent, private citizens from the ranks of agriculture, labor, finance and other interests, has now widened its scope and is performing even greater services for the province, particularly in its efforts to cope with the food situation.

It was in the legislature on March 28, 1916, that Mr. Rowell seconded by Mr. Prudden, moved a resolution accepted by the government, calling for the most thorough organization possible of the resources of the province for the successful prosecution of the war and the maintenance of our agricultural and industrial production, and recommending the appointment of a select committee to look into the matter, including not only the work of recruiting men for the Canadian Expeditionary Force, but also of ensuring a sufficient supply of labor for the agricultural interests and the necessary industrial operations of the province and of promoting thrift and economy among the people, thereby strengthening our financial position during the war and preparing for the period of subsequent reconstruction.

At the time, Mr. Rowell emphasized the importance of agricultural development and the need of handling vigorously the pressing problem of farm labor, which was becoming more and more urgent as recruiting continued. Mr. Rowell's resolution was adopted unanimously. A committee was appointed and as a result of their recommendation the Organization of Resources Committee was formed. At first only members of the legislature sat on the committee and it is to be regretted that outsiders who have proved such efficient helpers were not brought in earlier. In conference with the agricultural interests they have been doing a great deal of work last year in agricultural production and at any rate could have worked out at a sufficiently early time more detailed plans for the present year. Even as it is, however, the committee has done and is doing splendid work which reflects great credit on the Opposition and the Government which brought it into being.

IMPORTATION OF LIQUOR.

An extension of prohibition, even from the measures in force at present in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta is becoming a live subject of discussion. For some time Mr. Rowell has been contending that either the Dominion parliament should pass a measure of prohibition or as an alternative that they should enact a law which would allow any province to prohibit the manufacture and importation of liquor by a resolution from the legislature of that province or by a vote of the people of the province. Mr. Rowell emphasized the relation of liquor to the present critical food situation. "What justification is there," he asked, "to continue in this country the waste of food materials in the manufacture during war time of intoxicating liquor?"

Sam Carter, Liberal member for South Wellington, speaking recently at Parkdale, declared that not another bushel of grain should go into the making of liquor.

It is interesting to note that a similar campaign in Great Britain is being waged with the greatest vigor by the "Spectator"—one of the most Conservative journals in the British Isles.

Mr. B. B. Neely, Liberal member for Humboldt, in the House of Commons, has given notice of resolution to allow the provinces to prohibit the manufacture and importation of alcoholic liquors for beverage purposes. Rumor at Ottawa thinks that the Government may adopt some such proposal.

STOP GAMBLING!

Although the Woodbine race meet in Toronto and other meets throughout the province have been held this May as usual, with large attendances, there are indications that public opinion against war time race-track gambling is having an influence, and rumor says that the Dominion Government will stop all betting on race tracks for the period of the war after the first of July. During the recent session of the legislature, the Liberals carried on a vigorous campaign against race track gambling during the war. If it is cut off the province will lose, according to the estimate of the Toronto News, about $125,000 a year. Those who favor the suspension of racing, however, claim the province would be far better off even with the direct loss of revenue which would be involved. Directors of the Ontario Jockey Club are not enthusiastic about the proposal. One of them, George W. Beardsmore, said that if the Government stopped racing they should stop everything. He thought, for example, they should stop the Movies rather than the races.

THREATEN NEW HORROR

German Pirates Intend to Sink Hospital Ships.

Allies Have Been Notified That All Red Cross Boats in Barred Zone Will Be Sunk, as the Huns Are Going to Regard Them in Future as War Vessels.

LONDON, May 28.—The intention of the German Government to sink all Entente hospital ships in the "barred zone," with the exception of certain ships from Salonica to Gibraltar, is semi-officially announced in Berlin, according to a Reuters' despatch from Amsterdam. The German announcement was made in reference to British denials of the German allegations that the British misused hospital ships. It cited several instances which, it was asserted, proved the correctness of the German accusation. The semi-official announcement read in part:

"The German Government will in the future prevent all traffic by hospital ships in the entire barred zone and in the Mediterranean, including the road left open for Greece, and will regard hospital ships appearing therein as war vessels and attack them immediately."

Germany, the announcement adds, will allow the transport of the ill and wounded from Salonica on Greek railways to Kalamata harbor, and thence on hospital ships to Gibraltar on the following conditions:

"Firstly—These hospital ships on the road left open to Greek shipping must proceed at a rate of speed previously reported to the German Government."

"Secondly—That the name of the vessel and the time of arrival or departure be communicated to the German Government six weeks in advance."

"Thirdly—That a representative of the neutral Government representing Germany's interests in the particular country in question shall certify before the departure of the hospital ship that she carries only the ill, wounded, and nurses, and no goods other than materials for treating them."

WORKERS WANT VICTORY.

British Declare for War Until All Europe Is Set Free.

LONDON, May 28.—An impressive demonstration by many thousands of workmen, organized by the British Workers' League, was held in Hyde Park Sunday to express fraternal greetings to the peoples of allied countries and the determination of the workers to continue the war to a victorious conclusion.

These sentiments were voiced in stirring speeches from twelve platforms. David Lloyd George, the Prime Minister, in a letter which was read from all the platforms, expressed hearty appreciation for an address which the Workers' League had presented to the Ambassadors of Great Britain's allies. In his letter Mr. Lloyd George said:

"A lasting peace will come when all the peoples of Europe are free to determine their own fate for themselves."

At the conclusion of the demonstration the workers formed in procession and marched to the French Embassy, where all the allied Ambassadors had assembled. The Ambassadors received a deputation of workers, which presented their address to them. The French Ambassador read an appreciative letter from Premier Ribot, while the other Ambassadors made sympathetic replies to the address of the workers. Walter Hines Page, the American Ambassador, said that the preliminary American expeditionary force would soon land "on the sacred soil of France."

Russians Are Stronger.

PETROGRAD, May 28.—There is a healthier tone in Petrograd. Much good has been done by the visit of 200 sailors and workmen from the Black Sea fleet arsenals. Their intensely patriotic addresses and boldness in enchevering the red flag and displaying the naval ensign at their meetings have enormously impressed the public. If these demonstrations could be multiplied throughout Russia a great change would come over the country. The Black Sea delegates announce their departure for the front. They are going to accompany War Minister Kerensky. They have sworn to march at the head of regiments against the foe. Batkin, an ex-mutineer, who figures as leader of the delegation, has become next to Kerensky, the most popular figure in Russia. A congress of officers Saturday discussed the relations between the Government and the Committee of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates. The majority of the speakers expressed the opinion that the committee henceforth should avoid interference with the legislative and administrative functions of the Government, inasmuch as they are well represented in the Ministry.

Women Shot by Germans.

GENEVA, May 28.—La Suisse Sunday printed details of a case similar to that of Miss Edith Cavell, the English nurse, who was executed by the Germans in Brussels in October, 1915. The Germans, says the newspaper, recently arrested two women, Mme. Pfeister, and her daughter, aged 22, on the Swiss Alsatian frontier. They were charged with acting as spies.

The women promptly admitted at the trial that they had smuggled letters, without knowing their contents, from Alsatian families to relatives in Switzerland. This was done simply as a friendly act and without political or malicious purpose.

Both women, says La Suisse, were shot at Mulhausen. The mother was a horrified witness of the execution of her daughter before her turn came.

GAINS ARE INCREASED

Italians Advance Further on the Carso.

Cadorna's Right Wing Passes the Mouth of Timavo River—Nearly 25,000 Austrians Have Been Captured Since the Great Spring Offensive Was Launched Against Trieste.

LONDON, May 28.—The Italian army has been victorious again in its big offensive toward Trieste. Unwearied by previous efforts General Cadorna's infantry Friday stormed the sections of the Austrian second line of defence on the rocky hills of the Carso plateau, and to the north held firmly against most violent counter-attacks. All the captured ground on the Carso.

In this day of tremendous fighting the Italians took 3,500 fresh prisoners.

Following up their successes Friday, the Italians on Saturday smashed through the Austro-Hungarian positions between Jamiano and the Gulf of Trieste, passing the Monfalcone-Duino railway north-east of San Giovanni, and establishing themselves within a few hundred yards of the village of Medeazza. North of Piava the Italians carried the heights at the head of the Palliove valley, thus joining their Mont Guccio line with those on Hill 363. Eleven guns were captured, and more than 1,200 Austro-Hungarians were taken prisoner.

The surest testimony to the strength of the Italian offensive is that since the first attack on the Isonzo on May 14 these troops have captured 24,619 Austrians, of whom 487 are officers. This is a total of prisoners equal to that taken by either the British or French in their offensives, in a considerably longer space of time.

The Austrian general staff, too, bears witness to what a powerful machine the Italian army has now become, and what terrific blows it can deal. "Never in the two years of fighting just completed," says the Austrian official announcement, "has the heroic Isonzo army had to face greater efforts of the enemy."

On a six-mile front on the southern Carso, from the Gulf of Trieste to Castagnavizza, the Italian infantry renewed their attack Saturday afternoon and pushed forward everywhere. At some points the advance attained a depth of a mile, and this on a front of solid rock, honeycombed with caverns, studded with steel and concrete fortresses, and bristling with cannon and machine guns.

At the southern end of this front the Italians swept on to the plateau north of Duino, driving the Austrians from all the heights between the village of Plongar and Medeazza, which is straight north of Duino. This single success would be a splendid day's work, for the terrain is of tremendous difficulty. At the same time storming columns north and south of the plateau had also advanced, fighting through the trench systems at the mouth of the Timavo River, near Lokavac and San Giovanni, and also the Brestovca road, near Komarje.

Still further to the north, on the main mass of the Carso plateau, Italian stubbornness in attack won a notable victory. The Austrian trench labyrinth east of Boscomale, or Hudi Log, as terrible a position to assault as any German field fortress on the western front, was riddled by the Italian infantry with their bombs and bayonets. This enabled a column advancing from Versic to clamber to the summit of Hill 220, beside the Castagnavizza road and south-east of Boscomale. Trenches near Castagnavizza also were taken.

WILL STOP U-BOATS.

Submarine Menace is Said to Have Been Mastered.

LONDON, May 28.—The Westminster Gazette publishes a message from a correspondent who says the submarine menace is being mastered by a simple method, which he indicates is the invention of an American.

"It is giving away no secret," the correspondent writes, "to say that the method, which is reputed to be infallible, requires only a little time to come into full effect and wear the German submarines out. It is a simple matter of simplicity. The press has been liberal in its announcement of Marconi's device, but, while extending encouragement to Marconi, it must not be overlooked that the genius who perfected one of the most monumental advances in maritime navigation has devoted his unremitting consideration to the menace, and this resourceful American, too, has worked toward the device along independent lines."

Asserting that the British have better submarines than the Germans, the message continues: "Our pre-eminent inventive brains to outstrip the pirate professors, and by a method which is simplicity itself we already have the life of the U-boat campaign measured."

A New Atrocity.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, May 28.—A German submarine captain, angered at a Norwegian steward for his refusal to give information about one of the U-boat's victims, put the steward and his wife atop the submarine, closed the hatchway, and submerged. There was no mistaking the clear intent that the man and woman should drown. Both, however, were picked up.

Strikes in Finland.

PETROGRAD, May 28.—Strikes in all branches of industry throughout Finland are reported in a despatch from Helsinki. In some districts the strikes have been accompanied by acts of violence against the employers.

a good position for the summer in Gillies Bros. saw mill.

Mr. E. B. Dowdall, son of Mr. P. C.
Dowdall, was successful in passing his first year law school examinations. Mr.
Dowdall is spending his vacation at his home here.

On May 9th a message was received by Mrs. R. G. Giles, stating that her nephew, Pte. Stanley McKay Nesbitt, was missing since April 9th. A week later a message came saying that he had been killed in action.

Reese Scott very kindly took a motor load of the town golfers who have become members of the Carleton Place
golf club over to the links on Saturday afternoon, where they participated in a most enjoyable game. The links are located on the old Spiers property near Appleton, which is an ideal place for such purpose. The old stone house makes a splendid club house, overlooking, as it does, the Mississippi river.
The course is a "sporty" one just now,
the high water making no less than four water drives, and if a player is not "on to the game" there is surely trouble ahead. The Almonte members are looking forward to a good season's pleasure
with the Carleton Place golfers.

Last Thursday evening a very pleasing entertainment was given in the lecture hall of the Presbyterian church, under the auspices of the W.M.S., Mr. R. C.
Patterson, barrister, Carleton Place,
gave a series of lantern views of pictures,
bearing mostly on the war, with a short explanation of each. Rev. Mr. Newton, Baptist minister, of Carleton Place, gave several vocal selections, which were so pleasing that he had to respond to repeated encores. Mrs. Ramsey also delighted the audience with a vocal number.

Mr. Geo. Moran of Fort William, writes, under date of May 17th, saying that on that morning word had been received of the death of his brother, Fred Moran, who enlisted in the Cameronian Highlanders of Winnipeg, and was killed in action on May 6th. Fred Moran was an Almonte boy. He was born in Almonte, and lived here until grown to young manhood, when he left for Toronto. He was a lacrosse player of more than ordinary skill, and was a member of the Almonte team when that game
was at its zenith here.

Word was received yesterday by Mrs.
J. H. Conn of the death of her brother,
Mr. Harry Burns, at Detroit, Mich. No particulars are given, but the death
must have been very sudden, as no intimation of illness had been received.
The remains are being brought to Almonte for interment. Mr. Harry Burns was the second son of the late

Dr. Burns, and was born in Almonte.

From the Times.
The sad intelligence was received on Tuesday that Pte. John Holland, son of Mr. Geo. Holland, Union street, had died of wounds recently received in action in France. He enlisted here shortly after war was declared in 1914,
and went overseas with the first contin-gent.

The store in the Forge block, which is being renovated and improved for Mr. G. Okilman, of Carleton Place, who will occupy the premises as a dry goods store, will likely be finished in the course of a week's time. The plate glass windows were put in this week.

On Monday evening of last week a serious accident befell Mrs. Percy Wright (nee Miss Maud Gilmore) of Hamilton,
through being thrown from the side seat of a motorcycle which her husband was driving. As a result she received a fractured skull and collar bone when the machine skidded. An urgent message was received on Thursday morning
by her father, Mr. John A. Gilmore, and he immediately left for the city,
accompanied by his daughter, Miss Mary Gilmore. Word was received on Monday that Mrs. Wright was much improved, and that it was highly probable that she would recover.

WARSHIP FIGHTING TOPS.

They Are Now Mainly Used For Sentry
and Signaling Work.

Lord Nelson was killed by a musket ball fired from the cross-trees of his French antagonist. Because of this fighting tops came into existence and,
being developed to keep pace with other parts of naval construction, continue to be a traditional feature of the world's navies.

A century ago, when fighting men—
marines, boarding parties, gun crews—
crowded the upper decks of a warship,
a sharpshooter posted aloft picked off many a man. But a big battleship in action today shows not a mark to the man in the fighting top.

In the days when it still remained possible for boatloads of armed men to swarm up the sides and board a fighting ship plunging shots were dropped from the fighting top. But with great steel walls overhanging the waves and never an accommodation ladder swung out for their welcome it is impossible for uninvited guests to set foot on the modern deck.

The captain of the fighting top is usually in control of flag, semaphore and heliograph signaling, leaving the wireless to an invisible operator interned somewhere in the ship's vitals.
He is the sentry against small inquisitive craft and may enforce his orders
by the rattle of a light quick firer.

He has the outlook, reports and questions passing ships and has virtues as a detective against spies. His functions, however, are limited. He is not high enough placed to see the submarine creeping along a score of feet beneath the waterline, nor note its wake of broken water.

The fighting top is in big cruisers
quite a massive affair and no longer the tiny breastwork behind which the picked riflemen of the ancient knightly kept there and used to check off
the work of the experts in the fire control tower. There are light quick firers and machine guns, possibly also a high angle gun or two for use against air craft.—Pearson's.

An Outrage.
When Major General Sir John Mc-Neill, V.C., was badly wounded at Essalam in the Ashanti war he emerged from the bush exclaiming in angry and indignant tones as if some one had deeply insulted him, "An infernal scoundrel out there has shot me
through the arm!"

CHECKED TEUTON ADVANCE.

Paris Tried Fiercely, But in Vain, to Retake Ground.

PARIS, May 28.—German troops made another futile effort in the course of Saturday night to regain a footing on the Chemin-des-Dames, in the vicinity of the Moulin de Laf-faux, the loss of which they feel acutely. The French, however, bit into the position so hard that the Germans were unable to shake them off anywhere, despite the fury of their assaults.

All along from the Moulin de Laf-faux past Hurtebise Farm to Cra-
on, which are the three most prominent positions on the Chemin-des-Dames, the artillery in both camps
thundered throughout the night.
Everywhere the French occupy the military crest of the plateau, and continually make further small advances and maintain their pressure.
The amount of territory gained in these minor actions, which always are minutely prepared and generally fully successful, appears small when looking at the map, but the tactical strategic advantages cannot be estimated on that basis.

The definite results of the present fighting may first become apparent weeks afterward. What is known now is that the French can see and can effectively bombard the German big gun batteries in the valley and on the plateau beyond. The German position in this valley is precarious, although the Teutons still hold the western end, when they can engage the low-lying ground and render the task of the attackers difficult.

Caonne itself now is scarcely recognizable as a town. Nothing remains but a heap of stones and bricks, while front, on the sharp slopes toward the crest, the ground is as badly holed as that around Verdun. The capture of this place was a feat of the highest military daring in the face of strong positions armed with dozens of machine guns, but as one of the French commanders said: "Our men marched forward as though going to the theatre."

One hundred and fifty Frenchmen
captured the same number of prisoners, besides inflicting awful losses
on the German defenders. The sides of the plateau, which were assaulted and taken later by the French, were bored with tunnels leading to the other side of the hill. These tunnels now are so many graves, in which lie hundreds of German bodies. The ends of the tunnels have since been bricked up, making permanent sepulchres.

CHANGES IN CABINET.

Reconstruction or Coalition May Follow Latest Crisis.

OTTAWA, May 28.—Radical Cabinet reconstruction and a further pause for reflection and well-considered counsels before invoking conscription, are the week-end developments in the political crisis at the Capital.

Whether Cabinet reconstruction is to drift into coalition, through the exigencies of political uncertainties on both sides and a sense of the wisdom of united effort by both parties to meet the problems arising through the conscription proposal, or whether it is to be undertaken by Sir Robert Borden as a party and Governmental necessity, is still problematical.

There is a strong move on for coalition among members on both sides of the House. Whether the practical difficulties in the way of divergent party politics, affiliations, and personal diversity of views will prevent the carrying out of the coalition scheme is uncertain. Sir Robert Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier are keeping their own counsels on the subject, although there is reason to believe that there has been an exchange of views between the two leaders.

More Baby Killing.

LONDON, May 28.—Sixteen German aeroplanes raided England on Friday night. The report of Field-Marshal French merely locates the scene in south-east England, but, according to Berlin the cities attacked were Dover and Folkestone. The casualties were heavy, 76 being killed and nearly 200 injured. Nearly all of the victims were women and children. At the time of the raid the streets were thronged. The raiders were pursued and three of them were brought down in the English Channel and off the Belgian coast.

If it had not been for hazy weather
and cloud-flecked skies, most Britons believe their anti-aircraft defences
would have accounted for the air raiders on England and the damage would have been insignificant. As it was the bombs were dropped over a limited area, mostly in one town.

Not only were the 16 or so raiding aeroplanes turned back after this, with Royal Flying Corps men in hot pursuit, but naval planes of the Dunkirk station were instantly called into service and engaging the enemy on his return, shot down three machines. The raid occurred Saturday evening in broad daylight.

At one town were 14 women, seven children and six men were killed, the casualties were mostly of those who huddled in the streets,
gazing aloft and striving to pierce
the low-hanging clouds through which the deadly explosive bombs were dropped, and locate the aerial assassins above.

Japanese Rescued Troops.

TOKIO, May 28.—An announcement issued by the Admiralty Saturday says that the British troopship Transylvania, which was torpedoed
in the Mediterranean on May 4th,
was being escorted by Japanese destroyers. The destroyers engaged the submarine. The Japanese rescued 2,800 out of the 3,000 troops on the Transylvania, winning the praise of Japan's allies by their bravery.

Great American Citizen Who Worked for Allies And Admired the British

It has been often said that before the United States went to war against the Germans, the people of that country whose sentiment was pro-Ally, were pro-French rather than pro-British. Among the really great men of the United States this was not the fact. One of these men was Joseph Choate, who recently passed away in New York after a long and fortunate life. For two generations this man, "the leading citizen of New York," so the newspapers proclaim him, has given fruitful aid to every work of humanity and patriotism, and to every cause of better government where his influence could be exerted. His good fortune pertained to the end, even when seemed to withhold the shadow of his wing until this American was made happy and content by the course his country took in the most tremendous of earthly events. He had a wonderfully gallant old age, hopeful, useful, radiant, and unquenched. He might have wished perhaps to live long enough to see his ardent hopes concerning the outcome of the war brought to fruition, but at least the last public event in which he took part was one which must have given him great satisfaction. He bore an honored part in the welcome of the British Commissioners, and saw what he had always hoped to see, the great Anglo-Saxon democracies drawn more closely together. The union of France and England with his own country in a great common aim, wrought with the fabric of civilization, woke all his enthusiasm. For beyond the immediate struggles he saw the vision of a world at peace. Mr. Choate spoke up stoutly for the prosecution of the war to the end; but he was a lover of peace of justice secured by peaceful means. At the second Hague Conference he was the champion of every method of abolishing war. In one speech at The Hague he had an impassioned burst about the alternatives to settlement of international disputes by judicial process—a burst which almost has a prophetic air, in view of what has since occurred.

"Let us resume all the savage practices of ancient times. Let us sack cities and put their inhabitants to the sword. Let us bombard undefended towns. Let us cast to the winds the rights of security that have been accorded to neutrals. Let us make the sufferings of soldiers and sailors in and after battle as frightful as possible. Let us wipe out all that the Red Cross has accomplished at Geneva, and the whole record of the First Peace Conference at The Hague, and all the negotiations and lofty aspirations that have resulted in the summoning of the present conference."

If Mr. Choate the past two years showed that a kind of seva indignatio burned in his heart against Germany, it was mainly because his instincts as an international lawyer and a friend of peace had been so outraged by her reversion to barbarous warfare.

Diceless Dicing, Now.

It's pencilitis now. Automobile poker has had its fling and now comes pencilitis. Pencilitis is not a disease. It is found mostly in cigar stands around town. It takes more than one to have pencilitis.

The next time you step into a cigar store and see a customer standing against the case keeping a clerk busy rolling a pencil back and forth between them, look out for you will find out what it is.

It's diceless dice. Some wise clerk in one of the stores conceived the idea of taking an ordinary six-sided lead pencil and marking its six sides with numbers corresponding to those on dice. The pencil is rolled and the one who rolls the highest number wins a "horse," as they call a trick in Indian dice. Two tricks out of three win the game.

While not as handy as dice, the pencils are helping some. And there is not the risk of being arrested for having a gambling device, for lawyers say they have not found a case where a court held that a pencil could be placed in the same category as cards and dice.

Training Farmers.

France is teaching some of her wounded soldiers how to be up-to-date farmers in spite of their disabilities. At Cellard, in the Department of the Loire, an institution has been opened with a complete equipment of modern farm machinery for the cultivation and harvesting of crops, including a tractor for plowing and other purposes. The instruction is essentially practical, the staff consisting of a competent agriculturist and an expert mechanic versed in farm machinery.

New Russian Calendar Has Been Made Uniform With European Nations

THE calendar is one of those things which most people take for granted. It is regarded as a simple and necessary equipment of every well-regulated household or office, and few people, probably, pause to consider the wealth of history, stretching back to the remotest period, which lies behind it. In this respect, indeed, the calendar is a snare and a delusion, for, from the very first moment when one begins to make inquiry into its history, one is involved in many other studies. There are associated with it great political questions and great religious questions. There are mazes of the most abstruse mathematical calculations to be faced, whilst it involves, or may involve, a careful study of practically the whole field of astronomy. Then, if anyone imagines, when he first engages in this inquiry, that he has simply to trace through a single thread, which has one end in the beginnings of things and the other on his writing desk, he is doomed to disappointment. There are other calendars, still in use to-day, and many others were at one time in use, and they all have histories. However, the Julian calendar, to which Russia, by a special edict, has at last conformed, after holding out successfully against it for more than three hundred years, is now by far the most important of those at present in use, and the coming in of Russia places it in the position of a world calendar.

Russia, in the change she has just made, has performed an act beside which the national writings of an hour at the commencement of summer time is indeed a small matter. She has written off no less than thirteen days, and, in order to bring herself into line with the rest of the world, took a leap, from April 18 to May 1. This is a long controversy now practically settled. It had its beginnings more than three hundred years ago, and it came about in this way: In early times the Romans were wont to divide their year into ten months, but, later on, in the days of the kings, they adopted the lunar year of 355 days, divided into twelve months, with an occasional intercalary month to preserve the adjustment. In process of time, however, the priests who had charge of the matter, either through carelessness or ignorance, allowed confusion to creep in, and by the time of Julius Caesar the matter was crying out vociferously for drastic adjustment. Julius Caesar, accordingly, grappled with the question in B. C. 6. The year was divided into 365 days, and, every fourth year, one day was added, the length of the year being assumed to be 365 1/4 days. As a matter of fact, however, the year is less than 365 1/4 days, by eleven minutes and forty-eight seconds, and this fact was the source of all the trouble which followed, for some sixteen hundred years.

In those sixteen hundred years, the few minutes each year, grew into days, and by 1582 the discrepancy between the official date and the actual date amounted to ten days. This shifting of days had caused great disturbances by unfixing the times of the celebration of Easter, and likewise of all other movable feasts, and so, in the year already mentioned, Pope Gregory XIII. decided that a reformation was necessary. After carefully investigating the matter, with the help of the astronomer Clavius, he ordained that ten days should be deducted from the year 1582, and that, in the month of October in that year, the calendar should jump from the 4th to the 15th. In order that this displacement should not occur again, it was further ordained that every hundredth year should not be counted as leap year, excepting every fourth hundredth, beginning with 1600. In Spain, Portugal, part of Italy, France and the Roman Catholic Low Countries, the change was made, although not in every case on the same date; but in the Protestant countries the innovation was strenuously resisted, and the Lutherans of Germany, Switzerland, and the Protestant Low Countries did not agree to the change until the year 1700. England stood out for another half century, and it was not until 1751 that an Act was passed for equalizing the style, in Great Britain and Ireland, with that used in other western countries of Europe. By that time the ten days of Gregory's time had grown to be eleven, and so, when the change was made, the 2nd of September, 1751, became the 14th, and an incensed populace paraded the streets of London, calling upon the authorities: "Give us back our eleven days!" Russia and Greece still held to the old style, the discrepancy, of course, accumulating all the time. Now Russia has made the leap, and Greece alone is left to represent the old order.

Not a Copper.

In the French city of Toulouse, it seems, there are no more copper sous. Instead, there are sous of pasteboard. The one-sou piece is rectangular and of exactly the same size as the two-sou piece. Just how or why is not clear, but the disappearance of the copper coins from the whole region of Toulouse has been complete. Consequently, the necessity of replacing them by this paper, or rather cardboard, money. The paper two-sou notes bear this legend: "Good for one sou." For they are tramway tickets, nothing more, though they pass freely as currency. The one-sou note has printed in the middle of it a picture—a very bad picture, at that—of that rare, precious, marvellous, and no longer obtainable object, the copper sou.

No Excuse.

There's something there's no excuse for—scientists can't figure up any alibi for them. It seems they were just invented along with flibusters, mosquitoes, and many other like pests just to make existence miserable. There are five of 'em on each foot, situated on the end you push into the sock first. They are very quarrelsome and there's much friction amongst them and they raise more fuss than a bushel of Mexican revolutions. They are very ungrateful creatures. Toes really owe us a lot for letting them live. They're useless, and what do they do but harvest corns, encourage ingrown nails, freeze up on us and have a merry way of sneaking under somebody else's heel to be stepped on? Can you beat it for ingratitude? Ballet dancers have the right idea, getting even with the toes. They make their toes support them physically and financially.

Spanish Etiquette.

There is a curious story of how the Duke d'Aosta when king of Spain told a mulcteer to whom he was talking to cover himself, the sun being hot, for getting that by so doing he made the mulcteer a grandee. Marshal Prim, to prevent this catastrophe, knocked the man's hat out of his hand, and, according to some, the mulcteer had something to do with Prim's assassination that followed soon afterward.

Inside the Lines

By EARL DERR BIGGERS and ROBERT WELLS RITCHIE

Copyright, 1915, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Yes; a tap on the head—so?" Koch broke in, casting a quick glance toward where Captain Woodhouse had risen from his seat. A shrewd appraising glance it was, which was not lost on Woodhouse. He stepped forward to join the physician by the side of the figure on the operating chair.

"Our man, doctor?" he queried casually.

"Your name sponsor," Koch answered, with a satisfied chuckle; "the original Captain Woodhouse of his majesty's signal service, formerly stationed at Wady Halfa."

"Quite so," the other answered in English. Dr. Koch clapped him on the shoulder.

"Perfect, man! You do the Englishman from the book. It will fool them all."

Woodhouse shrugged his shoulders in deprecation. Koch cackled on as he began to lay out sponge and gauze bandages on the glass topped table by the operating chair.

"You see, I did not tell you of this because—well, that fellow Capper's coming last night looked bad. Even your explanation did not altogether convince. So I thought we'd have this little surprise for you. If you were an Englishman you'd show it in the face of this—you couldn't help it, eh?"

"Possibly not," the captain vouchsafed. "But what is your plan, doctor? What are you going to do with this Captain Woodhouse to insure his being out of the way while I am in Gibraltar? I hope no violence—unless necessary."

"Nothing more violent than a violent headache and some fever," Koch answered. He was busy fumbling in the unconscious man's pockets. From the breast pocket of the uniform jacket he withdrew a wallet, glanced at its contents and passed it to the captain.

"Your papers, captain—the papers of transfer from Wady Halfa to Gibraltar. Money too. I suppose we'll have to take that, also, to make appearances perfect—robbery following assault on the surgeon."

Woodhouse pocketed the military papers in the wallet and laid it down, the money untouched. The two white aids of Dr. Koch, who were standing by the folding doors, eyed the leather folder hungrily. Koch meanwhile had stripped off the jacket from the Englishman and was rolling up the right sleeve of his shirt. That done, he brought down from the top of the glass instrument case a wooden rack containing several test tubes, stoppered with cotton. One glass tube he lifted out of the rack and squinted at its clouded contents against the light.

"A very handy little thing—very handy," Koch was talking to himself as much as to Woodhouse. "A sweet little product of the Niam Niam country down in Belgian Congo. Natives think no more of it than they would of a water fly's bite, but the white man is—"

"A virus of some kind," the other guessed.

"Of my own isolation," Dr. Koch answered proudly. He scraped the skin on the victim's arm until the blood came, then dipped an ivory spatula into the tube of murky gelatin and transferred what it brought up to the raw place in the flesh.

"The action is very quick and may be violent," he continued. "Our friend here won't recover consciousness for three days, and he will be unable to stand on his feet for two weeks at least—dizziness, intermittent fever, clouded memory. He'll be pretty sick."

"But not too sick to communicate with others," Woodhouse suggested. "Surely!"

"Maybe not too sick, but unable to communicate with others," Dr. Koch interrupted, with a booming laugh. "This time tomorrow night our friend will be well out on the Libyan desert, with some ungentle Bedouins for company. He's bound for Fezzan, and it will be a long way home without money. Who knows? Maybe three months."

Very deftly Koch bound up the abrasion on the Englishman's arm with gauze, explaining as he worked that the man's desert guardians would have instructions to remove the bandages before he recovered his faculties. There would be nothing to tell the luckless prisoner more than that he had been kidnapped, robbed and carried away by tribesmen—a not uncommon occurrence in lower Egypt. Koch completed his work by directing his aids to strip off the rest of the unconscious man's uniform and clothe him in a nondescript civilian garb that Caesar brought into the consultation room from the mysterious upper regions of the house.

"Exit Captain Woodhouse of the signal service," the smiling doctor exclaimed when the last button of the misfit jacket had been flipped into its buttonhole, "and enter Captain Woodhouse of the Wilhelmstrasse." Turning, he bowed humorously to the lean faced man beside him. He nodded his head at Caesar. The latter dived into a cupboard at the far end of the room and brought out a squat flask and glasses, which he passed around. When the liquor had been poured Dr. Koch lifted his glass and squinted through it with the air of a gentle satyr.

"Gentlemen, we drink to what will happen soon on the rock of Gibraltar!" All downed the toast gravely. Then the master of the house jerked his head toward the unconscious man on the operating chair. Caesar and the two white men lifted the limp body and started with it to the door. Dr.

Koch preceding them to open doors. The muffled chug-chugging of the auto at the gate sounded almost at once.

The doctor and No. 1932 remained together in the consultation room for a few minutes, going over, in final review, the plans that the latter was to put into execution at the great English stronghold on the Rock. The captain looked at his watch, found the hour late and rose to depart. Dr. Koch accompanied him to the gate and stood with him for a minute under the strong light from the nearby arc.

"You go direct to the Princess Mary?" he asked.

"Direct to the Princess Mary," the other answered. "She is to sail at 5 o'clock."

"Then God guard you, my friend, on your great adventure." They clasped hands, and the gate closed behind the doctor.

A shadow skipped from the top of the wall about the major's house across the road. A shadow dogged the foot steps of the tall, well knit man who strode down the deserted Queen's terrace toward the tiled station by the tracks. A little more than an hour later the same shadow flitted up the gangplank of the Princess Mary at her berth. When the big P. and O. liner pulled out at dawn she carried among her saloon passengers one registered as "C. G. Woodhouse, Capt. Sig. Service," and in her second cabin a "William Capper."

CHAPTER VII.
The Hotel Splendide.

M R JOSEPH ALMER, proprietor of the Hotel Splendide, on Gibraltar's Waterport street, was alone in his office, busy over his books. The day was Aug. 5. The night before the cable had flashed word to General Sir George Cranall, governor general of the Rock, that England had hurled herself into the great war. But that was no concern of Mr. Joseph Almer except as it affected the hotel business. Admittedly it did bring complications there.

A sleek, well fed Swiss he was, one whose neutrality was publicly as impervious as the rocky barriers of his home land. A bland eye and a suave professional smile were the ever present advertisements of urbanity on Joseph Almer's chubby countenance. He spoke with an accent that might have got him into trouble with the English masters of the Rock had they not known that certain cantons in Switzerland are very close to the frontier of Germany, and Almer therefore was hardly to be blamed for an accident of birth.

It was 4 in the afternoon. The street outside steamed with heat, and the odors that make Gibraltar a lasting memory were at their prime of distillation. The proprietor of the Splendide was nodding over his books. A light footfall on the boards beyond the desk roused him. A girl with two cigar boxes under her arm slipped, like a shadow, up to the desk. She was dressed in the bright colors of Spain, claret colored skirt under a broad Romany sash, and with thin white waist, open at rounded throat. A cheap tortoise shell comb held her coils of chestnut hair high on her head—Louisa of the Wilhelmstrasse, but not the same Louisa, the sophisticated Louisa of the Cafe Riche and the Winter Garden. A timid little cigarmaker she was here in Gibraltar.

"Louisa!" Almer's head bobbed up on a suddenly stiffened neck as he whispered her name. She set her boxes of cigars on the desk, opened them, and as she made gestures to point the worthlessness of her wares she spoke swiftly and in a half whisper.

"All is as we hoped, Almer. He comes on the Princess Mary—a cablegram from Koch just got through today. I wanted—"

"You mean?" Almer thrust his head forward in his eagerness, and his eyes were bright beads.

"Captain Woodhouse—our Captain Woodhouse!" The girl's voice trembled in exultation. "And his number—his Wilhelmstrasse number—is—listen carefully—1932."

"Nineteen thirty-two," Almer repeated under his breath; then aloud, "On the Princess Mary, you say?"

"Haven't I been Joseph, the cigar girl?"

"Yes; she is already anchored in the strait. The tenders are coming ashore. He will come here, for such were his directions in Alexandria." Louisa started to move toward the street door.

"But you?" Almer stopped her. "The English are making a roundup of suspects on the Rock. They will ask questions—perhaps arrest—"

"Me? No, I think not. Just because I was away from Gibraltar for six weeks and have returned so recently is not enough—"

"Haven't I been Joseph, the cigar girl, to every Tommy in the garrison for nearly a year? No—no, senior; you are wrong. These are the purest cigars made south of Madrid. Indeed, senior."

The girl had suddenly changed her tone to one of professional wheedling, for she saw three entering the door. Almer lifted his voice angrily:

"Joseph, your mother is substituting with these cigars. Take them back and tell her if I catch her doing this again it means the cells for her."

The cigar girl bowed her head in simulated fright, sped past the incoming tourists and lost herself in the shifting crowd on the street. Almer permitted himself to mutter angrily as he turned back to his books.

"You see, mother? See that hotel keeper lose his temper and tongue lash that poor girl? Just what I tell you—these foreigners don't know how to be polite to ladies."

Her Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Indianapolis, Indiana. — "My health was so poor and my constitution so run down that I could not work. I was thin, pale and weak, weighed but 109 pounds and was in bed most of the time. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and five months later I weighed 133 pounds. I do all the housework and washing for eleven and I can truthfully say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a godsend to me for I would have been in my grave today but for it. I would tell all women suffering as I was to try your valuable remedy." — Mrs. Wm. Lesson X.—Second Quarter, For June 3, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John xviii, 1-18. Memory Verses, 10, 11—Golden Text, Isa. liii, 3—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

We certainly have today in many respects an impossible lesson, impossible for us to grasp or understand or in any measure enter into its real significance. But we can believe it and stand in awe and, bowing low, adore. The first sentence, "When Jesus had spoken these words," takes us back over His discourse and prayer in the upper room that last evening, giving us truth to be pondered every day and hour until we shall see Him face to face, and then to be understood and appreciated as never before. It seems a great pity not to have a lesson on His inimitable prayer in which He poured out His heart to His Father for Himself and for that little company and for us. Do not fail to notice in verse 5 that He was truly one with the Father before the world was; in verses 4, 6, 26, that His one aim on earth was to glorify the Father and manifest Him to others; in verses 11, 18, that is why we are here in the world in His stead. In verses 3, 21-23, He gives eternal life and the glory which the Father gave to Him, that the world may believe and know, and the secret of all is in the last three words of His prayer, "I in them." On that last evening, if I have counted correctly, He spoke of His Father or to His Father over fifty times, reminding us that He lived by the Father, the Living Father who had sent Him, and He would have us live thus by Him (John vi, 57). If redeemed by His precious blood we are given to Him by the Father and can look up and say "Our Father," and that should deliver us from all care and anxiety and lead us to say, as He did, "Even so, Father, for so it seemeth good in Thy sight" (Matt. vi, 25-33; xi, 26). Being made children of God and joint heirs with Jesus Christ, we must be content to suffer with Him this little while, according to Phil. i, 29; iii, 10, but always looking onward to the glory (Rom. viii, 18; II Cor. iv, 17, 18).

Turning to our lesson chapter, we see Him going forth from the upper room over the brook Cedron to the garden of Gethsemane because of the rebellion of His son Israel (Ex. iv, 22; Isa. i, 2), and we think of David crossing the same brook because of the rebellion of his son (II Sam. xvi, 23, 30). But David returned and reigned, and so will the Son of David in due time. David also has written of the betrayal by Judas in Ps. xli, 9, and in Acts i, 20, Peter says that Ps. lxxix, 25, referred to Judas. Notice in lesson verses 2-8 the power of the great name I AM, and see how just two words from Him sent the Roman soldiers to the ground, from which they never would have risen again but by His permission. See the greatness of that name in Ex. iii, 14, 15. Note the sword in the hand of Peter (verses 10, 11) and see his misuse of it, for swords are not for disciples, else two would not have been enough for twelve (Luke xxii, 38, 50, 51). How often we figuratively cut off people's ears, or, in other words, prevent them from hearing the voice of Jesus by our zeal or lack of zeal or bungling of some sort! We next see Peter with the servants, warming himself at their fire and then denying that he knew the Lord (verses 15-18, 25-27). This is the man who said, "Lord, I will lay down my life for Thy sake" (xxii, 37). He meant well, but did not know himself. He was boastful, unwisely, overzealous, followed afar off and got into bad company. And there are so many like him! If we warm ourselves at the warming places of the world we shall surely get into trouble. The only way is to follow fully and avoid all associations where the Lord Jesus is not honored, unless by going here and there we can magnify Him. What a comfort it is to us weak ones that the Lord loved Peter through it all, prayed for him, brought him true penitence by that loving, searching love, gave him a special personal interview on the resurrection day and later some special words by the sea of Galilee.

In verses 12 to 14 we see Jesus allowing the soldiers to take Him and bind Him and lead Him away because the time had come for Him to suffer. To see Him consenting to be led from one to the other and be so ill treated by Annas, and so patient before all, leaving us an example of how we should act as His representatives before His enemies and ours, is something that we should constantly consider (I Pet. ii, 19-24; Heb. xii, 3, 4). How grand was His reply to the high priest when asked concerning His teaching: "I spake openly to the world. . . . In secret have I said nothing. . . . Ask them which heard me what I have said unto them. Behold! They know what I said" (verses 19-21). Notice how they struck Him and called Him an evildoer, yet Pilate testified three times, "I find no fault in Him" (verses 22, 30, 38; xix, 4-6). His saying to Pilate, "My kingdom is not of this world; . . . now is My kingdom not from hence" (verse 36), has been taken to mean that He will never have a literal kingdom on this earth, but only in the hearts of His people. Let such as think so read and believe Dan. vii, 13, 14, 27; Isa. ix, 1-3; Matt. i, 1-3; Jer. xlii, 17; xxvii, 5, 6; Luke i, 31-33.

GUIDE YOUR BOY NOW.

Keep Him on the Road That Leads to the Highest Citizenship.

This is a good time to think of your boy. If you do not look after him in the right way some one will do it in the wrong way. Begin now.

Teach your boy to follow in the footsteps of his father, to respect the law, to obey his parents, to regard the rights of all men, to honor virtue, to respect womanhood and to depend upon no one but himself for his advancement.

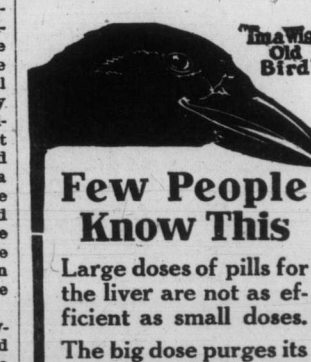

Teach him that the Golden Rule of life will be found in the Ten Commandments. They are short. They have survived the ages. They stand today unchanged and unchallenged.

They comprise the first great written law given by God to man. Before these few commandments all man made laws fade into insignificance. Teach them to your boy. There is danger ahead if you do not.

The universal drift of mankind is toward decadence. Heredity pays its premium and also exacts its discount. The son of a good father and an affectionate mother, brought up in an atmosphere of parental regard, never will disgrace the family.

The boys of today are to be the men of tomorrow. The destinies of the American people are to be in the hands of their sons. If the boys are taught respect for the law (both human and divine), obedience to authority, manly independence and the fear of God this great nation will be a noble monument to man's capacity for self government and self control at a time when all the world is a seething cauldron of unrest, unreason and disbelief.

Teach your boy to rule, but first to rule himself.—John A. Schleicher in Leslie's Weekly.

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Hydro Electric Discussed

An Engineer of the Commission Meets in Conference with Council and Board of Trade.

A joint meeting of the Town Council and the Board of Trade was held last Tuesday evening in the council chamber, in conference with Mr. G. F. Drewry, an engineer from the Hydro Electric Commission. There was a good attendance, and considerable interest was manifested in the proceedings.

On request Mr. Drewry was heard. He intimated that little had been done so far in this district by the Hydro Electric. Much preliminary work had been done, but that was all. The problem of power for the eastern part of the province is still unsolved. Last year a survey had been made of the municipalities to ascertain the power required in the several towns and villages. At that time a scheme was proposed to serve the east as far as Cornwall, and as far as Almonte, Lanark and Perth. The scheme would be feasible if the load was sufficiently large, but it is not and the proposition had to be abandoned. At the outside the load might reach 8,000 h.p., but the actual load would probably only be half that amount. So the eastern section has been divided, the northern power to serve Kemptonville, Smiths Falls, Perth, Lanark, Almonte and Carleton Place. The load is about 2,000 h.p., and might be considerably less. The Commission had finally concluded the powers on the Mississippi were sufficient for the needs of serving these municipalities, and the object of the visit was to explain matters and then have the Council pass a motion asking the Commission to submit prices on cost of power. If the figures were deemed favorable the question would then have to be submitted to the ratepayers for approval, as a money bylaw would have to be put through to purchase the existing plants. It was favorable the Commission would build the lines and the development station, bringing the power to the gates of the town. The corporation would have to look after the local distribution. As to the electric light plants, he would suggest purchasing them if possible, that the whole question of power and light might be operated at a minimum of expense by the municipality.

Messrs. Wm. Findlay, C. McIntosh, O. W. Bates, G. A. Burgess, W. Baird, J. M. Brown, R. Patterson, R. Thomson and others took part in the debate, asking questions and receiving information in reply from the engineer.

At the close of the debate the Council assembled, when the following resolution was passed:

Moved by Mr. Nichols, seconded by Mr. Pattie, that the Hydro Electric Power Commission be authorized to supply the Municipal Council of Carleton Place with estimates of cost per horse power for Hydro power, the amount of power required being left to the Hydro Electric Commission for consideration.—Carried.

Mr. Brown was asked if he was disposed to sell his plants. In reply he stated that the development of the electric power here had been his life work, and he couldn't reply to the question off-hand, it would depend very much upon circumstances.

The meeting then adjourned.

Marriage at Ashton Station.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Aitken, Ashton Station, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Victoria Day, May 24, when their daughter, Mr. Eile was united in marriage with Mr. Alfred Leonard Bullis, eldest son of Mr. Clarence Bullis. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. D. Fraser, in the presence of the immediate friends. The bride and groom entered the drawingroom through an aisle of white ribbons, held by two little girls, Misses Marjorie Bullis, sister of the groom, and Marguerite McRae, cousin of the bride.

Moved by R. O. Gardiner, seconded by S. G. Fanning, that this Council do now adjourn to meet on August 18th, 1917, at ten o'clock a.m.—Carried.

The Late James Cram, of Pilot Mound, Man.

The Sentinel of Pilot Mound, Man. of May 17th contains the following obituary: Mr. James Cram, one of the first settlers of this district, was taken to the McKellar Hospital, in Fort William, on Wednesday, April 25th, where he had his right foot amputated. He stood the operation remarkably well, and the wound was healing nicely, but the following Sunday pneumonia set in, and he passed peacefully away on Friday, May 4th, at 6 p.m. The late Mr. Cram was born at Carleton Place, Ontario, on May 20th, 1842. Towards the late seventies, the lure of the West called him, and in 1879 he came with scores of others that settled in Southern and Western Manitoba. Mr. Cram located a half section a short distance south of Pilot Mound town. At that time Emerson was the nearest railway station, and Mr. Cram had his share of the varied experiences on the long trek over the Boundary Commission trail. The streams were bridgeless in those days, and the mud in the sloughs was deep and tough. In his farming operations Mr. Cram was very successful. A few years ago he retired from the farm and moved into town, and a little over a year ago he and Mrs. Cram removed from the Mound to Fort William, Ontario. Mr. Cram was a man blessed with a strong and vigorous constitution. He always had a kindly word and friendly smile for his friends and neighbours, and will be remembered by his many acquaintances as a man of sterling character. In religion he was a Presbyterian, and in politics a Liberal. He leaves besides his widow, a daughter Mrs. Donald Lamb, of Fort William, and a son, James, out in Vancouver, to mourn his loss.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

A Well-Known Resident of Port Hawkesbury is Restored to Health and Strength.

One of the best known men in the town of Port Hawkesbury, N. S., is Mr. William Duff. He has been a member of the municipal council for 16 years, chairman of the school board, and held other responsible positions. Mr. Duff's words, therefore, can be taken as coming from a man who has the esteem and respect of his fellow townsmen. He makes no secret of the fact that he believes Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved his life, and they restored him to good health, after several medical men had failed to cure him. Mr. Duff tells of his illness and cure as follows: "About four years ago I was attacked with la grippe which left me in a condition difficult to describe. I was attacked with general weakness, and a constant dull pain in the stomach. I became so weak that I could not walk a hundred yards without sitting down to rest. The food I ate continually soured on my stomach. My nerves were all gone, and palpitation of the heart and a fluttering sensation all through my chest, especially at night was almost unbearable. I was finally compelled to go to bed, and called in a doctor, who said my heart was affected, and treated me for that trouble. After three months attendance, and feeling no better I called in another doctor. His treatment also failed to help me, and I tried a third doctor. This one said there was nothing wrong with my heart, that the trouble was due to my stomach. After treating me for a time he advised that I go to the hospital at Halifax. On a previous occasion when I had an attack of rheumatism I had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided that rather than go to a hospital I would again try this medicine. I got a supply of the pills and began taking them. In a few weeks I could feel my strength returning, my stomach was giving me less trouble, the palpitation of the heart disappeared, and after a further use of the pills I felt as well as ever I did in my life. I can truly say that I feel more thankful than words can express for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
