First Detachment of Doukho bortsi to Sail for Canada Shortly.

Austrian Premier's Speech Causes Bit terness at Berlin-Disastrous Storms Sweep the Coast of Italy.

London, Dec. 1 .- A cable from Athens says: It is reported that a marriage has been arranged between Prince Crete, and Princess Victoria of Wales, second daughter of the Prince of Wales. Such a marriage would unite two of the most interesting personalities in the younger generation of royalty in Europe. The event would be exceedingly popular in England.

THE DOUKHOBORTSI. The steamer Lake Huron left Liverpool yesterday for Batoum, to carry direct to Canada the first batch of those excellent settlers-many with moneythe Russian nonconformists, called the Doukhobortsi, of whom 7,000 are expected to settle in the Canadian Northwest next summer, largely through the instrumentality of their friends, the English Quakers. The Lake Huron leaves Batoum on Dec. 16 with 1,822, and sails for St. John, N. B. Thence the party proceeds to Winnipeg, where arrangements have been made for wintering them. Count Serge Tolstoi, son of the famous Tolstoi, is in charge of the party. A second party of about 2,000 leaves Batoum about ten days later by the steamer Lake Superior, also for St. John and Winnigard this as the most promising of all recent immigration movements. SHIP BUILDING BOOMING.

The returns of the Clyde ship building industry show the best record for ten years, both as regards launching and work in hand. During the past eleven months 246 vessels, representing 380,000 tons, have been launched, as compared with 222 vessels, aggregating 278,000 tons, last year. Fifty thousand tons of shipping have beeen booked for construction this month, and the naval work on hand is the greatest ever

ROUGH WEATHER.

The Swedish bark Lord Palmerston, Captain Johanassen, from St. Thomas, West Indies, Oct. 8, which arrived at Antwerp on Nov. 26, reports encountering gales of great severity on Oct. 15 and 16. during which part of her deck load was washed overboard. Throughout the passage the weather was bad. The whole Italian coast line has been swept by a terrific storm, which has caused the greatest damage everywhere, havoc having been wrought by both wind and sea. Spezzia, Genoa and Messina have suffered greatly, and most of the Sardinian fortifications been seriously damaged. Hundreds of vessels have been wrecked and many lives have been lost.

CAUSED BITTERNESS. Berlin, Dec. 1 .- Intense surprise and bitterness have been caused here by the speech of the Austrian premier, Count Von Thun-Hohenstein, in the reichsrath yesterday, when in reply to an interpellation on the subject of the expulsion of Austrians from Prussia. he said the Austrian foreign office had strongly protested, and would not hesitate energetically to protect the rights of Austrians, and to adopt retaliatory measures if necessary. Papers like the Vossiche Zeitung, which opposed the expulsion policy from the beginning, are nevertheless quick to resent in a patriotic outburst Count Von Tun's unseemly and ill-advised menace. Vienna, Dec.1.—The Neue Freie Presse says that Baron Banffy, the Hungarian premier, has agreed upon a provisional ausgleich, with a prolongation of the status quo. SENT TO THE SWAT VALLEY. Bombay, Dec. 1.-Two British brigades have been ordered to the Swat Valley, owing to the mad mullah's successes over the local tribesmen. The mad fakir, or mad mullah, continues to advance, and his following has increased. It is again reported that he has defeated the forces of the khan of Dir.

CABLE NOTES. The republic of Ecuador has proclaimed a state of siege. Emperor William, it is rumored, in-winter, at which the cinematograph will be used to illustrate Northwest life and farming. The Canadian high commissioner's staff is at present making a special study of the imports of the United Kingdom, with the object of preparing a series of reports to the government upon lines of trade which might be diverted to Canadian channels.

Gives the Spanish Authorities Great Concern.

Don Carlos Will Make a Strong Appeal to the Army.

George, recently appointed governor of | Spain Will Pay the Cuban and Philippine Debts if the United States So Insist-Bitter Feeling Between Norway and Sweden.

> London, Dec. 1 .- The Biarritz correspondent of the London Daily Mail says: "Senor Sagasta, who has hitherto been skeptical on the point, now admits that Carism is the greatest existing danger to Spain. The authorities are seriously alarmed at the indications of an imminent rising. The Carlist plans have been elaborately devised, even to the extent of appointing a governor of Madrid." The Madrid correspondent of the London Daily Mail says: "Lieutenant-General Correa, minister of war, declares that the government has 140,000 troops in readiness to take the field in the event of a Carlist rising, and will soon have 200,000 available. He says, however, he does not believe the Carlists intend to move yet. Four hundred guns which were being smuggled have been seized in a basque

WILL STIR UP THE ARMY. Don Carlos, in his forthcoming manifesto, will make a strong appeal to the army. The Carlists disagree among themselves as to the advisability of an immediate movement. The military element is impatient, but the civilians urge the uselessness of an attempt to rise until the Carlists are assured of the help of the army. THE CONVENTS WATCHED.

Advices from Bilbao, Spain, refer to the Irigorous anti-Carlist precautions taken in that district. The convents. it appears, are practically watched. Portraits of Don Carlos and Don Jaime, his son, have been widely distributed. A small band of Carlists have appeared near Alciela in the have appeared near Alciela in province of Castellon de Plana. It is province of Lastellon de Plana. It is raised, at the instance of Gen. Lord being pursued by gendarmes. It is asserted at Madrid that a marriage has been arranged between Don Jaime, son of the Spanish pretender, Don Car-los, and a Bavarian princess.

SPAIN WILL PAY CUBA'S DEBT. London, Dec. 1 .- The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail says: Senor Sagasta asserts Mat if the United States insists upon Spain paying the Cuban and Philippine debts, she will honor her signature to the extent of her resources, and that the government will not refuse to accept this burden. The Cologne Gazette says: International envy has prevented Europe from opposing the excessive demands of the United States upon Spain. Although they might have profited richly by the situation, the powers feared to make a bitter enemy of America, with the consequent closing of her markets, if they opposed the annexation of the Philippines. Other German papers argue that the United States would never have dared to impose such conditions had it not been for Britain's support.

SAGASTA FEELS EASIER NOW. Senor Sagasta showed much emotion on learning that the Spanish commissioners in Paris had formally agreed to sign the treaty of peace on the American conditions, but he assured his friends that he was convinced he had adopted the best course in the interests of the country and the monarchy, adding that the news had lifted a great weight from the minds of the people. The Bank of Spain has made a fresh advance to the government of 60,000,-000 pesetas, to cover the expenses of repatriating the Spanish troops in the mands a million and a half dollars for the release of the imprisoned friars. NORWAY AND SWEDEN. The tension between Norway and Sweden is increasing. Bitter feeling between the countries was caused by Norway's removal of the emblem of the Swedish union from her flag. She is now seeking openly to break the compact between the two countries. War is openly suggested by the newspapers, which print the comparative armaments of the two nations. There has been a notable increase of forts on both sides of the boundary. The Norwegians claim they must assert their independence.

BENEATH THE TIBER. A search of the vaults of the Corsini arrangements to blow up the antianarchist conference, which is meeting in the palace, led to an interesting archaeological discovery of a secret passage from the Corsini Palace beneath the River Tiber to the precincts of the Farnese Palace, where the French embasey is located.

Spaniards Make a Successful Sortie.

Filipos Say They Will Resist Annexation to the United States-Germany Wants an Island or Two.

Madrid, Dec. 1 .- An official dispatch from General Rios, the Spanish commander at Iloilo, Philippine Islands, says the Spanish troops have made a successful sortie against the enemy, inflicting heavy losses upon the insurgents. The insurrection, it is added, is spreading to the Vizayas, and It is asserted that the movement is not directed against the Spaniards, but against the Americans. The premier, Senor Sagasta, denies the report that Gen. Rios is negotiating with the insurgents for the surrender of Iloilo to them.

WANT REFORM. London, Dec. 1 .- A special dispatch from Madrid says a delegation from the Spanish chambers of commerce had an interview with the queen regent and presented to her majesty a petition in favor of reform. The delegation also asked the queen regent to intercede for the release of Spanish prisoners in the Philippine Islands, and to pardon the Filipinos who have been transported to

Spain. TALK OF TACKLING UNCLE SAM. Further advices from the Philippine Islands say the insurgents there have decided not to recognize the cession of the islands to the United States, and that they will resist to the last. It is also claimed that the United States will require 70,000 troops to put down the rebellion, and it is alleged that the insurgents hold 10,000 Spanish prisoners, whom they will force to serve against the Americans. GERMANY WIANTS THE CLARO-

LINES. The Berlin correspondent of the London Daily News says: Germany is negotiating at Washington for cognition of Germany's commercial pri-vileges in the Sulue. The negotiations are friendly, Germany desiring to act in perfect agreement with England and the United States. I believe it to be correct that Germany would give a reasonable price for the Carolines, but she does not desire to do anything .to prejudice her relations with either the United States or Great Britain.

▲ Feast of Scottish Sentiment-Col. Oulver on British-American Friendship-A Memorable Event.

Never before has the St. Andrew's dinner been so largely attended as last night, and never before has it been marked by such enthusiasm and general attractiveness. It is safe to say that a better programme was never presented on any of these memorable occasions in the past. The presence of the minister of education, Hon. Geo. W. Ross, lent eclat to the event. His speech, as usual, was a model of eloquence and propriety. The standard of local oratory was also above the average. The key-note was, of course, Scottish sentiment, but perhaps next to that the chord of Anglo-Saxon fraternity was sounded most.

The dinner was held, as usual, at the City Hotel. The decorations were most elaborate, but were expressive.
"Auld Scotia" was predominant in the mottoes, and in the center of the hall the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack were entwined. The menu was, as is always the case with Mine Host McMartin, first-class in every particular. The musical feature, too, was one of the pleasantest elements of the evening. Mr. Charles E. Wheeler kindly played the piano accompaniments, while Pipers Angus and Macconald handled the national instrupressed the great pleasure he felt to see such a large gathering. It was a sure indication that St. Andrew's Society did not lack the old-time vim and mettle. He called upon Secretary W. B. Laidlaw, who read letters of regret from the Earl of Minto, Canada's new governor-general, Sir Oliver Mowat, Thomas Beattle, M.P., and Rev. E. H. Sawers.

The president then handed over the badges of office to the officers-elect amid great applause. Mr. Wm. Wan-

The Toast List.

The toast to "The Queen" was duly honored. The health of "The Governor-General and Lieutenant-Governor" was then proposed, and the company sang "The Maple Leaf" with great gusto.

"The Army, Navy and Volunteers," coupled with the name of Col. Buchan, came next.
Col. Buchan made an excellent speech, introducing his subject with a humorous story. He said that it was well for us as Canadians to think, even in a time of peace, of how we would be able to defend the national flag if called upon so to do. Continuing with etriking oratorical ability, Col. Buchan counded the praises of the imperial and colonial military forces. Reference to the charge of Dargai and the achievements of the Cameron and other Scotch corps in the Egyptian campaign brought forth great applause. Major-General Hutton, he said, was a man of tremendous force and great ability. He sized things up when he came to London and set about a scheme to place the Seventh Fusiliers on a better basis. He said, the colonel pointed out, that the Seventh Fusiliers of London, England, held the first pocition among the volunteers of the old land, and he believed there was no reason why the Seventh Fusiliers of London, Canada, should not take a first position, just as the First Hussars, under Lieut.-Col. Gartshore, had done. (Applause.) Canada was the brightest jewel in Great Britain's with cheers, was introduced by the chairman, with a brief reference to the closer relations between Canada and United States which the past year had brought about.

COL. CULVER.

Col. Culver, the United States consul, was heartily greeted on rising. He referred to his introduction to London a year ago through the St. Andrew's banquet. The favorable impression he had received then of the people of London had been confirmed during the year. The high morality, the sense of justice and the hospitality of the community had greatly impressed him. Dealing more directly with his subject, the speaker said that since last year President McKinley had grown larger in the public eye. His statesmanlike conduct had been approved of by Great Britain and her coliAfter full discussion of the excellent onies—approval which the people of this continent, and find in the organimenu President Purdom arose and ex- the United States greatly appreciated. zation of Scottish institutions the germ

We are proud of Scotland, not were just what the United States said they were — to free an oppressed people. And when Cuba was able to govern itself, it would be independent. (Applause.) It was the sentiment of the civilized world that the United States should retain the Philippine Islands and let the Filipinos work their way out in the light of civil liberty. To have allowed them to revert to the black thraldom of Spain would have been a crime. Continuing, Col. Culver said: One result of the war, which he was much pleased to see, was the development of a more friendly feeling between Great Britain and the United States. The recent controversy had furnished an opportunity which had shown to the United States that they had a good friend in Great Britain, and it was the speaker's prayer and hope that this would continue to develop. (Prolonged applause.) Mr. W. H. Skinner sang "John Bull

Hon. George W. Ross.

The next toast was that of "The Day We Celebrate," coupled with the name of Hon. G. W. Ross. A chorus of rousing cheers greeted the minister of education. Mr. Ross, after the tumult had subsided, opened his address with some witty pleasantries. Scotchmen, he said, should have at least one night in the year to air themselves, without let or hindrance, and make the whole world believe, or themselves at least, that there was no place like Scotland and no race like the Scottish. Of course, this was all true. (Laughter.) Take Scotland from the world, and there would be little to read or think about. Scotchmen gave the signal of universal patriotism to the world. Breathes there a man with soul so dead,

Who never to himself has said: 'This is my own, my native land'?

These words of Scott, said Mr. Ross. were known to every man who loved his country, and had a soul to adhere to her institutions. Scotland led the way in the declaration of civil and religious liberty as the right of every man, woman and child. Take that out of the English, the Irish, the Scotch and the American races, and what were they? It had been the watchword of Scottish nationality since she became a nation. The battles of Scotland were battles for civil and religious liberty. "Wherever the Scottish race have gone," said Mr. Ross, "they have carried with them that love for religious liberty, for the liberty of conscience for well-ordered religious institutions which lie at the foundations of all national prosperity; which make nations strong and truly great, and without which this country, or the whole British Empire, or the United States, could not maintain their proud posi tions among the nations of the world. (Applause.) A most remarkable thing which we have noticed in this country is that in our educational institution the Scotch were the pioneers. Ald. Franklin has written to President Powers, of the Eastern League, asking for his permischanics alone that the world is making rapid progress. Not many years ago all physicians pronounced consumption an incurable disease. To-day a large proportion of people recognize that it is a distinctly curable disease. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures o8 per cent. of all cases of consumption. It has stood the test for thirty years. Thousands of people who were given up by their doctors, and had lost all hope owe their lives to this marvelous remedy. It acts directly on the lungs, driving out all im-purities and disease germs. It restores the appetite, corrects all disorders of the diges-tion, strengthens the week , strengthens the weak stomach, makes the assimilation of the life-giving elements of the food perfect, invigorates the liver, purifies the blood and tones the nerves. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It does not make flabby flesh like cod liver oil, but the firm, muscular tissue of absolute health. An honest dealer will not offer you an inferior substitute for the sake of a little added profit. Miss Mary Whitman, of East Dickinson, Franklin Co., N. Y., writes: "For nearly ten months I have had a bad cough, and instead of getting better, it grew worse. wide, universal, potential-but we are proud of her because of the foundation of that liberty of conscience and of that free education without which no nation can be progressive. (Applause.) "If you will look at the literature of Scotland, you will find how helpful, how nutritious it is for the hiper wants of the human mind; the po of Burns, so rich in notes of freedom, so comprehensive as to the domestic relations and the bonds of mankind; so sweet in its descriptions of all that is lovely in nature. I don't think that you can find anywhere distributed so many beautiful gems that bring the mind into contact with nature and thus elevate the human soul. Take that passage from 'Mary in Heaven':

Ayr. gurgling, kissed his pebbled shore, O'erhung with wild woods, thickening green; The fragrant birch, and hawthorn hoar. Twined am'rous round the raptured scene; The flowers sprang wanton to be prest,

The birds sang love on every spray-Till too, too soon the glowing west, Proclaimed the speed of winged day.

"I doubt if you can find anything more beautiful in all the literature of the world than those eight lines. (Applause.) You will find many such gems all through the poetry of the great master of Scottish dialect-the magician who played so wondrously on all the human sympathies. We pass to Sir Walter Scott, who laid the foundations of all that is strong, comprehensive and weird in modern fiction-who hewed the pathway for almost all the writers of fiction of the present time. None has reached a greater height in description of the legendary lore of his native land, and no writer of fiction has played more strongly on the huheart than he.

"We come to the sage of Chelsea, the great enemy of fraud, folly and modern frivolity—Thomas Carlyle. You have there another chapter in the world's history—unique, the personification of that strong, masculine literature which has done a great deal to strengthen the character, not only of the Scottish people, but of all who come in contact with it. (Applause.) No literary man spoke with the same voice, the same force of thought and will as contributions to the civilization and refinement of the nineteenth century, and will be in all the centuries to come." Mr. Ross pointed to Hugh Miller and Lord Kelvin as Scotland's contributions to science. They could rejoice that such a land produced such men, that these men were inspired with such lofty purposes and gave the best that they knew for the benefit of the whole world. (Aprider of Northern New York, killed him-self at Pamelia, N. Y., on Tuesday. | plause.) Canadians, though they were a mixed community, composed of many nationalities, each with its peculiarities and idiosyncracies, hoped that they would see reproduced in Canada some of the qualities of the noble race from which Scottish-Canadians were sprung. They hope to see introduced into the institutions of this country some of the native independence of the Scottish character. They wanted a sturdy manliness which would call things by their proper names, which would express its opinions fearlessly when proper so to do, and which would "hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may. (Applause.) There was a tendency in many to be merely echoes of the many. Canada wanted a community with opinions intelligently and conscientiously formed, so that these opinions would be operative in public affairs. Without such opinions we should become a prey to demagogues and be led hither and thither without any convictions as to public duty. Not so our Scottish forefathers. We wanted more of that energy of character which had given so much distinction to the Scot-

"Look at the possibilities of this country," continued Mr. Ross. have only one man and a half to every square mile, while the United States has 21 persons to the square mile, and England over 300. Here we are laying the foundations of empire. If Scotland with her few hundred thousand acres became so famous, and if her scanty population gave to the race a distinction that is recognized all over the world, surely we with our inexhaustible resources, our vast prairies and our boundless forests and fields, can, if we have the spirit of Scotchmen, make Canada more famous than Scotland ever was or ever can be. (Applause.) Scotchmen will be faithless to their history, traditions and character, unless they infuse into the life of Canada that tremendous energy which has brought them to the front, wherever they have gone." Mr. Ross said that Canada owed a great deal to Scotchmen. The great struggles for responsible government were mainly brought about by the Scotch race, not too wisely in some respects, perhaps, but with a pertinacity which achieved success. Mr. Ross referred in this connection to William Lyon Mackenzie. Canadian confederation was largely due to the distinguished foresight of two Scotchmen, Sir John A. Macdonald and Hon. George Brown. (Applause.) They laid aside their differences, clasped hands, and said: "Canada is greater than all our differences; greater than all the parties in it. We can bind these colonies together in one federal act and thus lay the foundation of a great dominion; we will lay these differences aside and see what can be done." In concluding, Mr. Ross had a cordial word for Anglo-American fraternity. 'We welcome a friendly understanding Dr. Pierce's Good temper is largely a matter of good health, and good health is largely a matter of healthy activity of the bowels. Mr. Ross made a poetic peroration, and on concluding received another magnificent round of applause.

Rev. W. J. Clark. Mr. Robert Reid proposed the toast "The Literature of Scotland" in well-chosen words, and called upon Rev. W.

J. Clark to respond. Rev. Mr. Clark was warmly greeted. After a complimentary reference to the incoming president, he spoke to the toast, and said Dean Stanley had defined literature as "those great words which rise above the common-place, and inspire a nation or an age." speaker defined it as so much of the soul of a people as could be bound in the fetters of speech. One might speak for ever and not exhaust the subject of Scottish literature. The songs of Scotland stood first. More than those of all other peoples, they swept the gamut of the human heart. They touched not only the love of youth—that blaze of sunlight on human life—but on the home life also. The fact that these songs were written in the vernacular had not shut them out from human interest wherever the English language was understood. They dealt nos only in pathos, but with the droll side of The speaker gave inimitable examples. In Burns' songs was the true sentiment of the lover expressed, he said, better even than in the Song of Solomon. Scott, he said, was not only great in description of Scottish character, but in description of English character. Scottish literature was great in other lines than poetry. The best theologians were Scotch. They were not a people, either, who dwelt simply in the past. They were up to date. They were in the front on the battlefield and in literature were also holding their own. Although there were some small-souled cynics who sneered at the kail-yard literature, it was that sort of literature that made a man think of motherwith heroines and heroes, who, though lowly in life were high in lineal kin with the eternal daughters and sons of God. In conclusion he hoped they might be found to be "a' John Tamson's bairns." (Prolonged applause.)
A song by Mr. John W. McIntosh

followed, and was heartily applaused.

Rev. Robert Johnston. "Canada, Our Home," was coupled with the name of Rev. Robert Johnston. In a humorous story the talented speaker referred to the subject of the previous speaker as dead, while his subject possessed the life of a young giant. While believing that Canada should be true to Great Britain, and while all honor should be given the thistle, rose and shamrock, in Canada the maple leaf should surmount them The day in which Canadians had not confidence in themselves had There was no reason which passed. any country had and which Canadians had not for being proud of their native land. Scots had good reason to be loyal to Scotland, but Canadians had even greater reason for being proud of Canada. The speaker then referred to Canada's thrilling history, great natural resources and entrancing beauty. Then, speaking of her destiny, he said it was often remarked in this day of Anglo-American alliance that as a result of the growing unity between Brit-Thomas Carlyle, he who has left his ain and the United States, Canada impress upon the literature of his own | would find in union with the republic country and of the world. These are the solution of the problem of her future. He believed, however, that Canada would never exchange the flag which has protected her, the flag for which she has bled and to which she has contributed not a little of its glory, for any other unless it be for one on which the maple leaf stands pre-eminent upon a background of the old beloved colors of red, white and blue (Applause). But we would not stand aloof and play the part of the sulky and ungracious brother now at home-coming of the prodigal after his than a century's wanderings. With all the great Anglo-Saxon family Canada would join in a round-theworld feast at the prodigal's return. Continuing Mr. Johnston spoke of our duty to our land. To every one was given a part in laying strong and sound the foundation of a great nation. As a factor in the building of this Canada owed much to Scotland. And for Canadians the speaker coveted still more strongly the Scotch characteristics of loyalty to native land and reverence for the Unseen, which more than aught else had placed Scotland in the fore-front of the nations.

London Advertiser. (ESTABLISHED BY JOHN CAMERON IN 1863.]

Managing Director John Cameron

London, Thursday, Dec. 1, 1898

The Trouble Down South.

An Arkansas reader, in a letter published in these columns yesterday, commented on a recent editorial in The Advertiser, relating to the race war in the South. He takes objection to The Advertiser's statement that "in some states, extraordinary legislation debars the blacks from voting." We used the word "extraordinary" in the literal sense of "special." Our correspondent cannot deny that the legislation alludeditorial in the New York Tribune, pro- are mainly responsible for this. testing against the disfranchisement of the negroes by the state laws to justice or injustice of such measures.

tions there, and as even the whites of | year's rate. the South are divided by political bias is difficult for outsiders to pronounce upon it with authority. Southern Democrats, like our correspondent, say the negro is not to be trusted with political power; that he is socially and morally inferior, and that, given the freedom of the ballot, he becomes the tool of Republican politicians, who, in return for the solid colored vote, appoint negroes to offices which they are not qualified to hold, and in which they become a menace to white society. Rev. A. J. McKelway, editor of the North Carolina Presbyterian, writing to the New York Independent, says it is not prejudice against the negro as such, but the knowledge of what the negro is in office that renders negro officeholding so obnoxious to Southern people. This minister of the gospel goes so far as to say that "the offices of a few negroes have an effect upon the many to render them abusive, insulting and offensive in every way. Every housekeeper can recognize the difference in the servants even, after a national election has gone Republican."

In the same journal the opposite view is set forth by Mr. R. R. Tolbert, 4 wealthy white Republican of South Carolina, who is a large employer of negro labor. "On the morning of Tuesday, Nov. 8," writes Mr. Tolbert, "I was a well-to-do cotton planter, with 2,800 acres of land under cultivation, a happy home, and, so far as I was aware, the respect and good-will of most of my neighbors. On the night of Thursday, Nov. 10, I was a refugee, fleeing from my native state, fortunate in escaping even with my life, and obliged to leave my wife and three little children to the merciful care of friends, who are taking great risks even in harboring these innocent persons." This calamity fell upon Mr. Tolbert because, in the interests of the Republican party, he urged negroes to assert cheir rights at the polls in the recent congressional elections. Mr. Tolbert was a candidate for office in the third district, and depended upon the colored vote to elect him. Negroes who had attempted to cast their ballots were hunted and killed by white mobs. Mr. Tolbert's father and brother were shot, but survived their injuries. Mr. Tolpert and his tenantry were besieged by whites, and were refused protection by the county sheriff. Finally every negro was driven from Tolbert's plantation, and a public meeting of whites declared that no more negroes would be permitted in the Tolbert tenantry. The writer concludes: "Why am I an outlaw in my own home? You may send the most intelligent committee of inquiry down there and they will report to you that they cannot find a blot on my record as a citizen. I have scrupulously paid my taxes and my private debts; I have harmed no man, white or black; I am the owner of taxable property worth $50,000 or $60,000, and therefore responsible. My whole offense consists in belonging to an unpopular political party, and to my preference for negroes, who work hard, and pay their way, and try to do right, over the shiftless white trash who are the curse of a Southern community. If this is a crime, I should like to be shown where it figures in the statute books of the state

It would seem that the race troubles of the South spring more from political Canada has found her colored citizens industrious and law-abiding, and there b no desire to curtail their liberties.

The Coming Elections.

The municipal elections are near enough to engage the attention of the ratepayers. It is desirable that citizens should look more carefully than usual to the choice of public servants for 1899. It would be well if the public discusin their views of the race question, it sion of municipal affairs at the ensuing election took a higher and broader tone. The average ward meeting must strike reflecting citizens as a condemnation of the ward system. The speeches are largely sectional. The man who is the most vehement in declaring that he will grab for his ward gets the honors of the evening. Sidewalks and roads are the chief topics. We suggest that the programme be enlarged this year by including a discussion of municipal reform. Let the proposals thrown out by the council be argued on their merits. The election of aldermen by the general vote, and the reduction of the number of aldermen-these are subjects that should be frankly met and debated. Let it be a campaign of education.

St. Andrew's Dinner.

At the London St. Andrew's dinner, last night, the retiring President, Mr. T. H. Purdom, had the pleasure of presiding over what must be acknowledged the most successful banquet yet given by the Society. It is very seldom, indeed, that one toast list includes three such admirable main speeches as those of Hon. George W. Ross, on "The Day We Celebrate," Rev. W. J. Clark on "Scottish Literature," and Rev. Robert Johnston on "Canada," to say nothing of incidental speeches such as that of the American mands as to the intellectual side of the programme. And the hint should not be lost on the Sister Societies, either. No merely physical feed will satisfy expectation; for, if the worst came to the worst, people could manage to get something good to eat at

We again congratulate all concerned on the success of last night's banquetparticularly the feast of reason and the flow of soul.

The Hamilton City Council has followed the London Council's example and rejected the proposal to submit to the people the questions of the abolition of wards and the reduction of aldermen. The Hamilton Spectator is going to give the people the opportunity of expressing their opinion, which the Council denied them. It will poll them on the newspaper coupon plan.

It is a burning shame to keep the people of the United States out of trade interchange with Canada that would add millions of dollars annually to their mered: "I will divide my congregation volume of business, just to give the lumber and fish trusts a monopoly of the trade in those articles. Its influences are entirely wholesome. A number of such clubs in the city would bring Liberals into closer personal contact and be more effective than a large centralized institution. We are sure the South London members would be happy to aid in the organization of kindred clubs.

Venice Drying Up. [London Chronicle.]

Venice without its waters would be a far less picturesque place than it actually is. And such a state of affairs, we are led to believe, may eventually come about. The regular increase in the delta of the Po has been studied by Professor Marinelli. Comparison of the Austrian map of about 1823 with the records of surveyors made in 1823 shows that the mean annual increase during those 70 years has been about threetenths of a square mile, and from all known data it appears that the total increase during six centuries has been about 198 square miles. The increase is continuing, and the Gulf of Venice is doomed in time to disappear. No immediate alarm need, however, excited, for Professor Marinelli calculates that between 100 and 120 centuries will elapse before the entire northern Adriatic will have become

LIGHTSHIP PICKED UP. Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 1.-The American Line steamship Switzerland, from Antwerp, for Philadelphia, had in tow the Pollock Rip lightship, which she picked up adrift yesterday. The lightship was located off the New England coast at the entrance to Nan-

Nothing has been learned by the Maritime Exchange here of the fate of barge Enos Soule, which parted from her tow, the Orion, on Sunday, or of the schooner City of Augusta, which parted her hawser and was blown to sea on Monday. The City of Augusta has a crew of eight men, and the Enos Soule had four men on board.

HOBSONIZED

Champion Trick Rider Millard Meets With a Warm Reception at Ingersoil.

Ingersoll, Dec. 1 .- Will Millard, the champion trick bicycle rider of the world, was Hobsonized here yesterday with a somewhat amusing complication. A bevy of pretty girls had been watching him admiringly, during an unusually daring performance, and when he dismounted, one young miss, more enthusiastic than the rest, or possibly wishing to emulate Miss Maud Harvey, of St. Louis, but lacking the necessary war hero, said, with charming naivete: "I'd like to kiss The debonnair Millard, nothing loth, fulfilled the wish almost as soon as it was uttered, and gallantly of fered to kiss the whole bunch. There were no other hero-worshippers present, and Millard rode away with a self-satisfied smile, which suddenly gave place to a look of chagrin, when a few minutes later he missed a valuable medal he had been wearing. was a handsome affair, consisting of a silver bar with a pendant miniature bicycle of solid gold, given by the Goold Bicycle Company for the fancy riding championship of Canada. Millard at once concluded he had been "touched," and reported the matter 10 loads of Canadian lambs; prices to Chief of Police Crawford. In his secret heart he felt that Ingersoll was a fair clearance; choice to extra kisses were expensive-very expensivewas a fair clearance; choice to extra were quotable at $5 25 to $5 35; good to choice, $5 to $5 25; common to fair, $4 50 to $5; sheep, choice to extra. $4 25 to $4 40; good to choice, $4 to $4 25; to $4 40; good to choice, $4 to $4 25; in, blushing furiously, and returned the missing medal, explaining that it had caught on the front of her dress. The chief looked relieved, Millard looked happy and the young lady looked ather boots. THERE is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify this danger with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil -a pulmonic of acknowledged efficacy. It cures soreness and lameness when applied externally, as well as swelled neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses must sub-stantial claim to public confidence.

International Commissioners Become Impatient of Delay.

May Sit Up at Nights-Social Engagements Interfere.

Washington, Dec. 1-(Globe Special.) -The president has not been able to give so much of his time to the reciprocity negotiations as he will after his message to Congress, which convenes on Monday, is in the printer's hands. Senator Farrbanks, however, is a daily caller at the White House, and yesterday half a dozen senators interested in the negotiations were reeived, as well as Congressman Tawney, the representative of the lumber-

PROGRESS OF THE NEGOTIATIONS Considerable progress is being made, and it is understood that on Tuesday next Mr. Dingley will be able to make some definite announcement as to the position of the senate on the question of free lumber. The joint high com-mission sat for only half an hour yesterday, and might as well have dispensed with the meeting altogether. The members of both sides are becoming impatient of delays. Yesterday the suggestion was made that the commissioners work in the evenings to hurry up the work, but no action was taken in that direction, because little progress can be made until the Americans are in a position to do business on the recipectty schedule.

MAY SIT TILL CHRISTMAS. The completion of the negotiations is no longer possible within the next two weeks, and social engagements are being made already that will keep the commissioners here till the middle of the month. Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador will give a recep-tion in honor of the commissioners on the 12th. The commissioners will think themselves lucky if they are able to eat their Christmas dinner at home. NOTES.

It is not likely that the bonding privilege accorded Canadian railways will be touched in any way.

The Canadians are firm in their de mand that a reasonable price be paid for the Bering Sea fleet. It is believed the Americans will increase their present offer. Lord Strathcona is at Washington consulting with Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He thinks Canada should have a fast Atlantic service.

[C. P. R. Special to Advertiser.] Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 1.-The revenue received at the customs department for the month of November was $1,933,993, compared with $1,648,351 for the same month last year-an increase of $285,-

At the last session of parliament $15,-000 was voted for a wagon road from Edmonton to the Yukon. The Northwest Government has built 240 miles of this road at a cost of $10,000. The Dominion Government has now passed an order in council, on the recommendation of Minister Tarte, for $10,000, to continue building the road.

LIFE SAVED.-Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

The Living Age for 1899.

The long-continued life of this venerable and valuable eclectic is another instance of the survival of the fittest, in that it, the best of all, has absorbed or survived every one of its numerous rivals or imitators. Its present vitality is evidenced by the announcement that The Eclectic Magazine, of New York, its oldest and most important competitor, will, with the issue of January, 1899, be consolidated with The Living Age, and be hereafter known as The Eclectic Magazine and Monthly Edition of The Living Age.

The magazine has never better fulfilled the purpose indicated by its title than during the past year, and with its increased facilities, the coming year bears promise of being the best in its history. One of the earliest numbers of the new year will contain an original translation of a striking lecture given recently by M. Ferdinand Brunetiere, the eminent French critic, on "Art and Morality," in which the modern tendencies toward excessive "realism" in art, and especially in fiction, are caustically rebuked. Arrangements are being made for strong serial stories from English, Italian and German sources, and the probability is that The Living Age will be as noteworthy for the best fiction in 1899 as it was in 1898, when it published Rene Bazin's "With All Her Heart," Neil Munro's "John Splendid." Pierre Loti's "Spanish Sketches," Paul Bourget's sketches and stories, and Mme. Blanc's "Constance." Issued weekly, and giving about three

Marie, do you hate me?" In low, choked tones the words he waited for came at last:

"No; I-I wish I could." She broke from his detaining hold, and flew upstairs, furious with herself for having been betrayed into this confession; and Aymer went back to the ballroom with a vison haunting him of a petite figure in a velvet bodice and gaily-striped skirts, and the loveliest of brunette faces, flushed and tearful, as for a moment it was uplifted to meet his gaze. The ball was so decidedly successful, and the dancers so well satisfied with their efforts, that Lady Esselyn was entreated to repeat it, and as she had been very much complimented on her own costume she consented.

Her ladyship was in an unusually placid and pleasant frame of m now. If Aymer was not actually paying his adresses to Cressida Smith, he was not distinguishing anyone else; while Vivien was quite civil to the marquis, especially when Sir Innis Hatherfield was within hearing of her gracious speeches to the shy peer.

And, somehow, that happened to be often; for, whether by chance or his own contrivance, Aymer's friend was rarely very far away. Vivien was sometimes much irritated, sometimes humbled, to note that, however much he might appear engrossed in conversation, or cards-he was patiently trying to teach Cressida besique-or over his book, she never said anything which she felt to be especially silly without seeing his quick glance of amusement rest momentarily upon her.

"He quizzes and studies me as if I were the most eccentric of women," she would tell herself, indignantly. "I cannot do or say a foolish thing but he knows it, and he must have all my bad qualities by heart. But have I no good ones? He looks at me frequently, but there is never any admiration in his eyes; and yet other men think me beautiful, and I have heard myself called witty and intellectual. I would give great deal to know what he really thinks of me!

"Don't put me off with such high-flown nonsense!" cried Vivien; "but answer me. Do you ever talk of—of me, for instance?"

"Well, yes, I daresay your name comes up ocasionally. I think Hatherfield mentioned it yesterday."

"Well?" queried Vivien. "And, well, dear," Aymer smilingly assured her, "there's nothing for you to be angry about. He only said that the hair of Mrs. Cameron, his cousin's bride, is a pale gold, like yours, but a brighter shade. He was describing her to me, you know; she is a favorite of his. He always admires such gentle, unassum-ing little dreatures." 'I beg Sir Innis' pardon," said Vivien sharply. "My hair is brighter, finer and more abundant than Mrs. Cameron's.'

"Is it?" remarked Aymer; "I'll tell him so, and he can apologize for the error he has fallen into, if you wish it." "If I wish it! Absurd! I prefer to see and hear as little of your clever friend as possible.

"Don't lose your temper, Viva, or I shall think that Hatherfield is right when he says that there isn't a woman in the house can equal poor Cressy in unselfish good-humor."

Vivien left him abruptly, and, as if to prove that Sir Innis was not mistaken, she displayed herself for several days to come in her most unamiable light. The invitations had been sent out for the ball, which was to close the festivities at Esselyn Manor, and, to accommodate the very large number of guests, additional rooms were to be thrown open, and one of them arranged as a cool and refreshing lounge for who found the heat and glare of the salon de danse too great, or wished to indulge in a quiet flirtation.

With the aid of plenty of shrubs, luxurious lounges, shaded lights, and draperies of green, Vivien, who superintended, had made this retreat a charming one; but at the last moment she decided that a statue of Hebe should be transported from its pedestal in the picture gallery and fixed on a bracket in a corner that looked incomplete. She was obeyed; but Sir Innis, who sat in the adjoining room touching up some sketches for Julia Estridge, heard a little demur over the arrangement, and presently Lord Mandeville came and sat down by him, and, after fidgeting with the colors and the brushes, said, abruptly: "I don't feel at all comfortable about that statue. One of the workmen declared the bracket was not strong enough to bear the weight of it, but Lady Vivien would not hear him." "Then make her hear you, my dear fellow.

The marquis hemmed and reddened: "I should not like to offend her; she seems a little excited as it is. I wish Esselyn was here; but it really ought to be seen to, for I'm sure it's not

"And you don't like to tell her ladyship this? Then I will, if I satisfy myself that you are correct in your opinion. Our limbs must not be endangered by a lady's caprice.'

And, laying down his pencil, Sir Innis walked straight into the room, where Vivien, whose brow clouded ominously when he appeared, was standing.

CHAPTER XXIV. Without appearing to see Lady Vivien's aggressive attitude, Sir Innis examined the bracket on which the statue had been posed; and then, quickly turnner ladysnip, "This figure will have to be taken down, or your festivities this evening marred by an accident."

"Shall I recall the workmen, Lady Vivien, or will you?" he asked, after a pause. "I should not propose to take such a liberty if Esselyn were here; but I know he will not return from his ride till it will be too late to effect the removal of the statue without causing some confusion.'

"I have dismissed the men, Sir Innis," she said coldly. "I have no further need of their services, therefore do not purpose recalling them."

"They have left the hall? Then you will, I hope, permit Mandeville and myself to remove it to a safer position. We will carry it quite as carefully as they would.

Vivien's lips slightly parted, and she seemed about to make an angry reply; but repressed it, and only said, coldly. "I must first be convinced there is a necessity for the alteration.' [To be Continued.]

By careful attention to business she has succeeded in building up a good trade, and is always anxious to satisfy the wants of her customers. "For over a year I have been afflicted with intense pain in my back, extending from the base of my spine up to my shoulders. I sometimes felt dizzy, and could scarcely venture upstairs without sitting down to rest. I ascertained that my distress was due in a great measure to the deranged action of the kidneys. My loins ached action of the kidneys. My folias ached continually, and I could scarcely bend my back. # Consumption Attacks the Weak Consumption is a cowardly disease. It attacks the weak. The very prevalent notion that Consumption is simply a disease of the lungs is not in accordance with known facts. The human body is out of order generally before the lungs are attacked at all. Sometimes this disorder of the body is so masked that it passes almost unnoticed; the person feels out of sorts and is not as strong as usual, but little importance is attached to it and no alarm is felt. This condition is generally attributed to biliousness, or malaria, or indigestion, or to taking cold. Never neglect such symptoms. Take no chances. The first step, when chill is felt, is to equalize the circulation, restore heat and open the pores by a hot mustard foot-bath. The next is to administer a medicine combining healing, tonic and expectorant powers, to soothe and tone up the inflamed air passages and stop the source of the cough. Shiloh's ATT Cough and Consumption Cure is such a medicine.

D. B. WHEELOCK, of Burlington, Vt., in a letter to the S. C. Wells Company, of Le Roy, N. Y., says: "Last January I took a severe cold, the worst I ever had. I tried every cough medicine, but my cough continued. I was finally induced to buy a bottle of Shiloh's Consumption Cure. After a few doses I was much relieved, and in twentyfour hours my cough was practically cured."

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold by all druggists with a guarantee that the purchase money will be returned in case of failure. 25c., 50c. and $1 a bottle in United States and Canada. In England 1s. 2d., 2s. 3d. and 4s. 6d.

AMUSEMENTS

"TWO LITTLE VAGRANTS." "Two Little Vagrants," produced at the Grand last evening, was one of those rich melodramas that teem with emotional scenes. The plot is a pathetic one, and the play was enacted by a most capable company. The boy character of Miss Mildred Holland was natural in every particular. Impelled by desperation, a husband, maddened by thoughts of the supposed infidelity of his wife, gives his child to a burglar to bring up. A lapse of nine years finds the child a thief and a burglar. Many affecting scenes bring the mother, father and child together again. The play was enriched by some excellent stage settings. Miss Holland was ably assisted by Miss Delphine Perrault as the other boy vagrant,

"A STRANGER IN A STRANGE LAND."

Mr. George W. Leslie, who plays the part of Fred Thorndyke in the new comedy, "A Stranger in a Strange Land," which will be seen at the Grand next Tuesday evening, was formerly leading comedian of the Pitou Stock Company, and has been identified with many of the metropolitan comedy successes. His part in "A Stranger in a Strange Land" calls for a great deal of prevarication, and he is constantly in hot water trying to smooth over a few of the rough places caused by his frequent requests for money to his aunt in England, to whom he writes various ghost stories, one of which is that he has a cattle ranch in the city of Buffalo, and needs the money to feed fifteen thousand head of cattle that are starving to death, because it hasn't rained for a long time, and the grass is all dry in the streets of Buf-

The officiating organization is the Royal Italian Grand Opera Company, of La Scala, Milan, who went to Mexico under contract with that government, and have since duplicated the success gained there in Sna Francisco, Chicago, and all the leading theaters of the west. Later their engagement at Wallack's Theater, New York city, last season proved one of the successes of the year. "Cavalleria Rusticana," and "I Pagliacci" will be given.

Toronto, Nov. 28 .- The vast majority of Torontonians know and esteem Mr. R. Morrow, the able and popular general agent for the Toronto Auer Light Company.

For this reason, the following statement, made in writing by Mr. Morrow, possesses unusual significance: Two years ago I was attacked by Lumbago and Urinary trouble which caused me intense suffering. I took several different remedies without any benefit. Then I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills and was completely cured by them."

Lumbago is unusually prevalent this all. All sufferers should know that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only cure for it. They never fail.

SETTLEMENT NEAR

City and County Representatives Approve the Disputed Clause in the Hospital Agreement.

A joint meeting of the county and city representatives was held yesterday to further the agreement that has for some time past been under consideration and had been approved by both parties with the exception of two or three clauses. The county representatives were Warden Elson, James Gilmour, M.P., C. C. Hogins, John Bradey, Henry Hardy, John Morgan, D. McLachlan, Thomas Duffin, James Murray and W. D. Stanley, while the city's interests were looked after by Mayor Wilson, Ald. Jolly, Ald. Hunt, Ald. Gerry and Ald. McPhillips.

One clause approved was that relating to the trust fund of $8,000, held jointly by the city and county, the interest on which was figured on maintenance account, and the county's share of such interest goes towards the maintenance of county patients.

The county wished the clause of the present agreement, referring to the trusts funds, to remain the same as in the agreement of 1874. The city council objected to the clause and thought it would simplify matters if it were struck out. It was, however, as-certained yesterday that it would probably require a special act of parliament to cancel the agreement made in 1874 and if any benefit were to be derived from its cancellation it would be to the interest of the county. A slight change was made in the clause respecting the government grant, the county committee agreeing to accept the city's amendment in reference to the drawal of all or any part of the said grant. This enables the city to break the compact on giving six months'

The expense of legislation and getting the agreement in shape will be borne by both city and county, and both parties are hopeful that the matter will soon be settled. The agreement has yet to be ratified by the county

SAD SUICIDE AT BARTONVILLE

A Son of Dr. E. A. Alway Takes His Own Life-Had Been a Great Sufferer.

Hamilton Times: "Six months of headaches more than I can stand." This message, written neatly and addressed to Dr. E. A. Alway, of Bartonville, was found in one of the pockets of Hillier Alway's coat yesterday afternoon, and gave the son which that young man had for ending his life. The dead body was found in some straw in the stable at Dr. Alway's place but a few minutes the deceased was last seen alive. Hillier Alway was 22 years old and was the eldest son of Dr. Alway. For the length of time indicated in his last writing, he had been constantly troubled with headaches and pains in his head. Yesterday, however, he seemed to be feeling well, and in the morning had a talk with his father about his future plans. The young man was eager to get a farm and settle down upon it, and Dr. Al-way had agreed to get him one as soon as a suitable property could be secured. In the meantime, he was to work on the farm of Mr. Wm. Martin, Binbrook, and had arranged to enter upon the work there on Dec. 1. . . A revolver with one chamber empty was found beside the body. Dr. Alway considered an inquest not necessary. The deceased young man was of a cheerful disposi-tion, in spite of his suffering, and his self-destruction was never thought of by family or friends. He was industrious, too, and well-liked.

It is reported in New York that combination of all the linseed oil interests in the country has been effected, with a capitalization of $30,000,000.
