Declare "King" Will Never Return to Benton Harbor.

Special to The Advertiser. St. Joseph, Mich., May 18.—Is "King" Benjamin Purnell, leader of the House of David at Benton Har-bor, Mich., in hiding in Western Ontario? Many people believe he is.

Brothers Thorpe, Tyler and Tucker, three of the seven "pillars" of the cult, were questioned at length today by The Advertiser reporter on the whereabouts of the missing "Seventh Messenger Angel," wanted by state authorities for alleged misconduct with young girls in the colony. Brother Tyler vouchsafed the information that he might be in Canada.

"Benjamin may be in Ontario, or may have gone to Australia. We do not know where he is," said Tyler. Thorpe and Tucker also maintained that the whereabouts of the much-searched-after high priest of the cult vere unknown to any of the members, even those closest to him dur ing the twenty years he ruled supreme in the cult.

"One thing you may be sure of is that he is not here in Berrian County, and has not been for many weeks," said one of the brethren. Credence is given to the belief that he is in On-tario, from the fact that he would probably flee the state, and the nearest point from which he could conduct affairs in secret would be the western part of the province. As each day passes without his capture, the belief is strengthened that the self-styled immortal man, "younger brother of Jesus." will never return to Benton he Bell Telephone in this district, disguise himself leads also to the belief that he will not be captured

Attorney-General To Remain In Office Until After Election.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 18 .- Although Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general of Ontario, returned to his office yesterday and attended a government council after a two weeks' holiday, he refused to state whether he would persist in his recent decision to re-sign. He will give his final answer to his constituents in East Wellington Saturday afternoon at the U.F.O. convention at Fergus.

Asked if his going to Fergus meant that he would run again, Mr. Raney said: "I do not know that I can say anything at present." He added that in any event he would remain in the cabinet until after election. "Could it be said that you will go to Fergus prepared to allow your name to ge before the convention?"

"I am afraid that I could not say so at present," was the reply.
Premier Drury said he had urged

Mr. Ferguson in Northern Ontario.

"My heart is wrapped up in the north country." That was one of the choice phrases that fell from the lips of Hon. Howard Ferguson at North Bay. It was a great piece of pie crust, no doubt, but it may stick to the dish if he depends on the flame of Conservative enthusiasm to do the baking for him.

Perhaps when Mr. Ferguson is up in that north country he might put on a pair of knee boots and ask some old-timer to go out and show him how a timber cruise is conducted. When Mr. Ferguson was minister of lands for Ontario he had a peculiar system of allowing timber surveys to be made. A timber cruise, properly made, is a scientific operation. The work is for experts. The usual practice is to count and record trees on strips four rods wide on every quarter-mile square, that is to say 40 acres. Trees are measured or estimated breast-high. The number of 16-foot logs is also considered. This gives a five per cent cruise, because one-twentieth of the timber area has been carefully gone over. A good timber cruiser has to know

Well, how was it done in Mr. Ferguson's time? Here is a bit of evidence showing the style. Allan Macdonald made a cruise of berths 45 and 49, being timber lands sold to political favorites of the govern-

Mr. Justice Logie questioned Macdonald to find out what he knew, because Macdonald had actually timber and its worth. The evidence:

Question by Mr. Justice Logie to Macdonald-"Had you ever cruised a timber limit before you made that report?"

Answer-"No. Question—"Have you ever cruised a timber limit since you made that report?"

Question—"Then I see in this letter that you place a value on this pine: 'We consider $8.50 per M a fair price on these three berths, this is including crown dues.' Had you ever valued a timber berth reports in which he stated that he had gone to the limits and made a report, giving quantities and prices. After reading the report, the judge questioned: "Did you make a cruise of that limit?"

Question-"Have you ever valued one since?"

Answer—"No, sir."
Question—"You did not make a cruise at all?" Answer—"No, sir."
Question—"Had you any knowledge yourself of the amount of pine on the limit? Answer—"No." Question—"Nor any knowledge yourself of how much was red pine and how much was white pine?"

Question—"Nor any knowledge of the quality Answer-"No."

That is the way that piece of business was carried on when Hon. Howard Ferguson was minister of lands, and when he was dealing with the timber limits of Northern Ontario.

And now, when election time is near, he hastens to that country and, beating upon his well-clothed breast, exclaims, "My heart is wrapped up in the north

The timber of the people is also wrapped up in the north country; the money that had to be reclaimed by the following government was also wrapped up in the north country. Mr. Ferguson should talk about the weather or the prospects of growing early potatoes on its first installment of taxes on the first day of that My old eyes are almost cryin' For a nibble at my line. record of administration there when he had his chance was neither sweet, wholesome nor honorable.

Go Ahead and Try Out Old 916. Mayor Wenige is prepared to go ahead and force a showdown with the London Street Railway.

The city will serve notice on the company that it Intends to pave Stanley street. According to the provisions of bylaw 916, the street railway is required to come along and pave its share of the track allowance, using the same material as is used in the street, and doing the job generally to the satisfaction of the city

If the company fails to perform, then the city comes along with its famous old bylaw No. 916. It is then that it will be found out whether or not the thing will hold water, or whether those trying its powers will get a test case. If bylaw 916 still has a spinal column in his road. It, let's find out. If it proves to be that such is the case, we'll go ahead and massage that spinal column and nourish its system generally, for verily we have a great club in our hands.

In wording it is plain enough. Section 10 provides that the company must do its paving when ordered by the city, and do it promptly and well. . If it fails, the city can do the work and collect from the company.

The season for calculating about 916 is gone and it's going to operate or call for a lifebelt.

we stand. The year is about half over, and we are just about where we were at the start of it. Let's get along.

The Late Joseph Sanders.

Full of years, over ninety, Joseph Sanders died a day or two ago. He lived a quiet life. He was a typical Englishman, an Englishman who carried the principles of his cricket through his whole life.

He is first remembered playing cricket on the old cricket field surrounded by the stumps, with the barracks to the north. He was a good bat. Mr. Sanders was a man it was a pleasure to know, and a casual meeting was always worth remembering. The cricketers of that day have nearly all gone-John J. Brown, Fred Hammond, Judge Street, Harry Becher, Dick Brough, Frank Cronyn, and others. Perhaps the only survivors are Charlie Hyman, George B. Harris and Dick Meredith. Charlie Shaw and Gib. McLean are also gone. but why should we forget Jack Gillean, the best bowler London ever produced, or the late Rev. R. W. Johnston, easily one of its best all-round cricketers and an A1 batter. His soul was in the game.

The best work of Mr. Sanders was in connection with the Thomas Alway Home for children. It was here his best life's work was done. It was here his natural disposition found its best expression. Hundreds and thousands have been blessed by his life. No money estimate can be placed on the good he did. His family have the sincere sympathy of all in their irreparable loss, but they have the comfort and assufance that Joseph Sanders was one of the best of men, and that for ages the good he did will live and increase. freight rates."

Offerings Desired-Not a Levy. The Synod of Huron has lost no time in straightening out the report that action was to be taken to force collection of amounts owing on the Forward Movement fund. This report has been in circulation for some time, and it is well that it was attended to promptly. The Anglicans have taken the proper view of the case when they make it plain that they still regard it as a free-will offering. The free-will offerings of the people must remain as the basis for financing any religious work.

Money secured in any other way is not a gift; it pecomes a levy, and in it there would be no joy or blessing for the giver.

Giving is a privilege and the person denying himself that privilege loses more than the object from which he withholds the gift.

Publishing The Civic Pay List.

London Public Utilities Commission has said its last word in the dispute with Mayor Wenige on the matter of publishing the pay list of employees of that commission. If the city council asks for the list it will be produced, but a rider will be attached stating that the utilities commission consider it highly inadvisable to publish the information.

This places the responsibility on the city council, and it will be dealt with at the next meeting. The protest of the utilities commission has every right to be given an attentive and reasonable consideration. That body is elected by the people and performs a very useful service, controlling a large volume of business without remuneration. If they claim the publication of the salary list of their employees will interfere with the made and signed reports giving an estimate of standing conduct of their department, that claim should, and no doubt will be, given every consideration by the coun-

The Advertiser asked several civic employees what they thought about the matter.

One answer, indicative of them all, sets forth this

"I do not think it is a fair or reasonable thing to publish what I make. I can assure you it is not a large amount. Men who work for other concerns in the city are not treated in this way. What a man makes in the way of wages is a matter generally known only to himself, his employer and his wife. I do not relish the Mr. Justice Logie then read one of the Macdonald idea at all of having my salary paraded before the public, and I can see no good purpose to be served by so doing."

That is the opinion of a civic employee outside the utilities commission. It seems reasonable, and would no doubt be indorsed by civic employees generally.

If any good purpose were to be served by publishing the list The Advertiser would advise immediate action. So far, there has been nothing brought forward to convince us that any good purpose is going to be accomplished by the publication of the salary list of civic

COAL RATES AND OTHER RATES.

(From the Toronto Star).

The Canadian National Railways haul fifty tons of iron and steel in freight cars. Taking the same load for coal, a car of coal coming from Alberta would cost $450. A load of 45 tons per car would be the minimum the rate for this being $405 a car.

Then, why does the Canadian National Railways quote lower rates from Vancouver, which is at least six or eight hundred miles farther from Ontario than the Alberta coal fields?

The rates from Vancouver as shown in the transcoptinental tariff No. 30-1 are:

Per car. rude rubber $300 ean oil 300 ago, tapioca 330 kins and hides 360 heep skins 375 umber 384 acking, burlap 360 hinaware 360 heep coffee 360 anned crab meat 375	Feathers Fibre—flax jute. In the face of this Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, says that the lowest rate which the railway owned by the people of Canada can charge for the coal so needed in Ontario is $9 a ton or over $400 a car for a distance six or eight hundred miles less. Why? The Star asked this conundrum on Friday last. Monday J. E. Dalrymple, vice-president of the C. N. R., issued a statement in Montreal, "owing to the complex character of the subject, he considered it impossible to discuss in the press the basis of the various kinds of

The Advertiser has had interviews with one of Art O'Brien's closest associates, who expressed the follow ing opinions: "The government's pro posal is audaciously unjust. sional work, which had been made, according to the plaintiff, in anticipation of events, which had not been realized when the present action was started, and which were not realized now, and which, it seemed, would never be realized, and which, in the opinion of the court, were therefore useless.

But I will wager the government has no evidence. Though Art O'Brien is being prosecuted, the majority of the deportees have been sent to their homes and no charge is being made against them. The government would not do this if it had any evidence of a conspiracy. Although Art O'Brien may be fined or sent to prison in the first division for three months, you will find there for three months, you will find there is no really serious action alleged against him. "London" is stretched across the chests, and the enthusiasts hope the same word will be smeared across the group standing when the schedule is played out. Saturday a big workout is billed after the pro game. Every available man is requested out for this affair, as it will be mostly a drill in signals, and the team needs it badly, in view of so many postponed workouts.

Jockey Six Days, Preacher Sunday

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, May 17.—Al Cormack, the well-known local jockey, has returned from France and announced today that he was through. Cormack, who has been riding for the last nineteen years, went to France in February, his third trip to the French race tracks. The local jockey has been riding this year for Veil Picard. Cormack was at the track and witnessed the accident that cost George Parefement, one of the best steeple-chase jockeys in the world, his life. One of the other horses in the race leaped upon Farefement and his mount, and the jockey was instantly killed. One of the most successful jockeys in France this year, Cormack says, is a parson, named Jack Jennings. On Sundays the parson preaches in a church, of which he is the regular clergyman, and on week-end he sports the silks, and with considerable success. Al' says the preacher-jockey always rides with a Bible in his pocket, and some of the other "jocks" regarded this practice as the reason for much of his success. Special to The Advertiser.

could produce a man who looks like a prospect for the heavyweight championship. Firpo is Spanish and Italian. It is not surprising that these two races should produce a fighter held fit to stand toe to toe with Jack Dempsey, generally recognized as one of the greatest ring fighters that ever lived.

Firpo, the Argentinian, is a throwback to two fighting races. It is interesting to speculate from which ancestor he drew the fighting instinct which he seems to possess.

Was it from some Spanish forefather who fought his way through Peru with Pizzaro? Or was this ancestor one of those who marched with Cortez through Mexico? The fighting men of Spain at one time were making their own paths through all parts of the Western Hemisphere, fighting and conquering all who resisted and moving on toward their goal, the end of the world. Once they started there was no turning back. There was no march too long, there were no odds of battle that would daunt them.

He has been in this country before and has made thousands of friends by his gentlemanly manner outside the ring and his fairness and gameness in it. He is getting along in years now, and it may be that he is coming on a disastrous mission. But he is game enough to come.

In his other appearance here Wilde fought bantams and had fair success against them. This time he will be meeting a man near his own true weight—112 pounds.

No matter what the outcome of these three battles every fan in the U. S. A. would like to have a seat near the ring at all three. Leeds, May 17.—I had a heart-breaking match today with T. Barber, who proved a tough customer. I beat him on the twenty-first hole. Sarazen won his match from M. Seymour handily by 5 and 3. We were both sorry Charlie Heffner failed to qualify.

Sarazen, Hoffner and myself entered the Yorkshire Evening News tournament here more for experience than with the idea of collecting the long end of the purse. Not turning down the chance to get British pounds and shillings, but the opportunity for practice has been sufficient recompense.

It is little Gene's first experience of tournament play on this side of the Atlantic. British golfers looked him over critically, and were satisfied he would do. Gene surprised them with his long hitting. He managed some remarkable tee shots, and followed with his ruly great iron club. He is hitting a long, low ball which is going to be useful at Troon, if he can keep it in working order. Low scores were by Arthur Havers and J. G. Wilson, two very good professionals. Havers has been considered for three years one of England's best and most favored. He may step into the shoes of Vardon. Braid or Taylor. He is built something like Wethered, tall and rangy, but stouter. He can hit a fine tee shot, and appears to have plenty of nerve. He has beaten Mitchell in match play, a big feather in his cap, and put out Kinch, whose defeat of Kirkwood, the Australian, was a sensation.

The scene is constantly shifting on this side in open tournament play. Vardon, Taylor and Braid do not appear to be in, the hunt any longer. The big triumvirate, all past 50 years, are not so keen for the game as they used to be. Sandy Herd is still going strong, but I do not rate him for a chance to win at Troon next month, the fertilizer issues and other farm supply stocks like International Harvester, Montgomery, Ward, and Sears-Roebuck, all of whom were driven down sharply.

All Army and Navy players eligible to take part in this game are requested to be at the Springbank Park dressing-room at 2:30 p.m.

At the low prices feached by the fertilizer and cotton oil securities there was a strong suggestion that recent rumors about a financial reconstruction for certain of these companies have some foundation. But the unfavorable conditions in these two industries have long been known, but it is realized that they are the one conspicuous exception in the general return to good times.

Falling off in the buying power of the farm disrticts has been alleged as a Pan-American A Falling off in the buying power of the farm disrticts has been alleged as a reason why companies dealing with the farmers should not be doing well. But as a matter of fact such reliable tests as the mail order business and the general volume of distribution trade do no bear out any such supposition.

The copper metal recovered sharply both in London and New York. Here is another instance where, as with stocks and cotton, speculation for the decline has rather plainly been overdone. The drop from the year's high of 17½ cents a pound to the recent low close of 15 cents has not been due to any overproduction. There is still no any overproduction. There is still no proof that, despite the slackness of European demand since the French occupation of the Ruhr, output at the mines has run ahead of current constitutions.

New York, May 17 .- The raw sugar market was dull early today, and, as were nominal, at 6c for Cubas. cost and freight, equal to 7.73 for centrifugal.

The continued activity in both the raw and refined markets, and the statement by the department of agriculture from the continued activity in both the raw and refined markets, and the statement by the department of agriculture from the continued States and Cuba this year will be larger than the recent estimates, led to renewed new selling pressure in raw sugar futures this morning, and prices at one time showed declines of 8 to 10 points. Toward midday a little steadier feeling prevailed, and prices railied several points from the lowest, with noon prices 3 to 6 points net lower. The market for refined sugar was unchanged, at $9.50 to $9.90 for fine granulated, with the demand still light.

Refined futures were nominal.

RAILWAY EARNINGS

ity in Public Utility

Reported for The Advertiser by Johnston & Ward.

Montreal, May 18.—The general tone of the market shows considerable improvement over the last few days, but the activity is mostly confined to the public utility issues under the leadership of Montreal Power. Some 1,200 shares of Power changed hands in the first two hours, and the price scored an advance of 1½ points.

Second in activity came Shawinigan Water and Power with about 650 shares. This issue climbed to 117¼.

Quebec Railway changed hands in considerable volume, and the activity was accompanied by a further advance in the price.

Recent developments in this group, more especially the Shawinigan-Queber there were the second of the purpose.

more especially the Shawinigan-Que-bec Railway deal, occasioned a number of rumors on the street, the latest one being that Shawinigan is likely to take over Southern Canada Power. In re-sponsible quarters, however, this rumor is characterized as "the joke of the year."

rumor is characterized as "the joke of the year."

British Empire second preferred continued its sensational performance, changing hands in large blocks and reaching the new high on the movement, touching 26½. At this price the stock is only one-half point down from the top of the year. Most of the stock is for London account.

Pulp and papers, with the only exception of Abitibi, which displayed good activity and a firmer tone, were dull. Announcement was made that the directors of Brompton had made another payment of two per cent on account of arrears on the preferred stock. A strong spot in this group was St. Maurice Paper. The Belgo-Paper Company is reported to have been acquired by St. Maurice Paper interests.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE. · Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, May 18.—Moderately heavy trading and a broader market featured this morning's session on the local stock exchange. Sentiment was mixed. Dome and McIntyre Mines were the most active on the list, with the former losing 50c at 38.50, and the latter 10c lower at 4915. General Electric was off 1½ at 102. Brazilian, opening unchanged, advanced ½ to 66. Banks were quiet, with Hamilton 1 higher at 168.

STANDARD MINING EXCHANGE. Canadian Press Despatch. Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, May 8.—Trading was widespread, but not as heavy as yesterday on the Standard Exchange this morning, and the market was strong. Heavy selling advanced Teck-Hughes 4 points to 144. Argonaut gained 4 points at 86, Lake Shore 5, McIntyre 5 at 19.10, and Dome and New Ray unchanged. In the silver issues. Castle Trethewey, Nipissing, McKinley-Darragh and Crown being also a ½ higher at 40.

ANOTHER TWO PER CENT ON BROMPTON ARREARS

Special to The Advertiser. Montreal. May 18.—Brompton direct-ors have declared another 2 per cent ors have declared anothey 2 per cent on the arrears of the 8 per cent pre-ferred stock for the quarter ended April 30, 1922. With the 2 per cent paid last month for the quarter ended Janu-ary 31, 1922, this makes a total of 4 per cent that has been paid on the arrears this year. This leaves an exact year's dividends of 8 per cent in ar-rears.

Grain Markets

Winnipeg. May 17.—Reports of crop damage in winter wheat areas and decreased acreage in the American Northwest resulted in higher value, on the wheat market here today, but, outside of some technical trading, there was little feature to the trade. All futures opened higher, advanced slightly during the session, and closed from %c to %c above yesterday.

Coarse grain traders followed the wheat market, there being little new business reported while prices were firm to fractionally lower. The cash wheat market displayed a better tone, with exporters reporting an excellent inquiry for wheat in mearby positions at lower lake ports. A fair volume of trade was worked by shipping interest during the day.

Over Two Thousand Head Leave Canadian Port in 24 Hours.

Montreal, May 18.—While Canadian store cattle have been moving to England steadily since the removal of the British embargo on April last, the shipment of 2,142 head from Mon-treal in the space of 24 hours has set a new record for the local port. This number was carried by three steamers, 818 being taken by the White Star Dominion freighter Oxat 5 p.m. on Wednesday: 474 by the Anchor-Donaldson steamer Concor-cia, which left at 1:30 p.m. yesterday for Glasgow, and 850 by the White Star Dominion steamer Welshman, which sailed for Birkenhead five hours after the Concordia.

Of the cattle shipped on the Welshman, 550 were in the care of their owner, Mr. Hills-Forster, an English stock breeder, who has been in this country for the past few weeks buy-ing steer cattle for fattening pur-poses in England, where he will place them on his extensive farms in Norfolk. Mr. Hills-Forster's shipment consisted of 36 Aberdeen-Angus steers, 46 Herefords, and the balance a good type of Forthorn. Also inuded in the s at were two prize be exhibited on arrival in England.

Brokers Unearth Duplication of Trick Played on Wall Street.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 17.—A flood of "fake" buying orders invaded the mining market today, presumably by some bright spirits, who thought they could duplicate the Wall street performance, says a Toronto paper. The orders, however, were not accompanied by checks, and the majority came in by telephone, apparently from sources which would not be questioned.

Work is again under way on the property of the Ostrom-Catherine Development Company. Twenty-two veins have been discovered at outcrop, and with spectacular showings of gold in three, and good pannings in two others. Some of the veins range from 4 to 11 feet in width, occurring in close proximity to contacts between basalt and porphyry formations. Coarse gold is visible in the quartz, while picked specimens contain gold leafs which range in size up to that of a five-cent piece.

Several of these orders were filled shortly after the opening, and the llling brokers immediately advised alleged clients of the purchase They found out that no authority had been given, and nothing whatever was known of them. In other cases names and addresses given were found to be fictitious. #### MINING NEWS

With the next objective at 1,000 to 1,200 feet, the work on the Goldale mine is proceeding at a rapid rate below the 500-foot level, with the object in view of reaching 1,000 feet before the end of August. The company is making arrangements to secure hydro-electric energy to supplement the power now being developed with steam equipment on the property. Good ore was developed at the 500-foot level, and the geology encourages the belief that big deposits of ore will be found at depth.

The new Polar-Deisel engine on the Blue Quartz Gold Mines will be ready Blue Quartz Gold Mines will be ready for operation at an early date. The engine was shipped from Sweden, and represents the highest achievement in this method of power development. The engine has three cylinders, capable of developing 150-horsepower, and operating two eight-hour shifts on approximately 60 gallons of fuel oil, the fuel costing about 14 cents a gallon laid down at Matheson. A director of the manufacturing firm has been sent over from Sweden and will demonstrate the new engine.

General mining operations will com-mence this week on the Berry-Hollin-ger Gold Mines at Boston Creek. Ar-rangements were made some time ago to PORT HOPE SANITARY surface and at the 200-foot level width as on the 300. Too early for assays, but the cross-cut. according to the Northern Miner, yielded visible gold the first time seen in this vein. The masterial is very good looking, and assays should be very satisfactory. Work at the 550 level pretty definitely establishes that the Crown Reserve has large bodies of medium grade ore. The decision the directors must now reach is whether to prepare immediately for milling or go down to the 1,000-foot horizon. If they decide on the latter and the results are satisfactory, the original milling idea of 500 tons daily may be enlarged.

Mining interests outside Canada found t hard at first to believe that the god-ore deposits of Northern Ontario averore deposits of Northern Ontario averaged in the developed mines better than $10 to the ton. This was proved to them when competent engineers were sent to Canada to investigate on their behalf. The characteristic features of the gold zones that pleased them most, however, were the extent of the deposits and the fact that Outario was a deep however, were the extent of the deposits and the fact that Ontario was a deepmining area. The sheared zones that carry the gold-bearing ores were found to be near the perpendicular in every important property. The engineers drew from this the conclusion that, given well-located properties in relation to the sheared zones, of considerable size, mining of average high-grade ores on a large scale could be carried on for an indefinite period. They reported these striking features to their principals, and urged that capitalists should act quickly if they wanted a fair share in what was potentially a second Rand. Their case was put so forcibly and the urgency of the situation was so emphasized that British and American capitalists began without delay to buy selected properties in Porcupine, Kirkland Lake, Matachewan and adjoining areas.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 18 .- "Know ye not that there is a prince, a great man, fallen today, in Israel?" said Rev. Dr. Gandier, principal of Knox College, in opening his address at the funeral of Rev. J. A. Macdonald, former editor of the Toronto Globe, this afternoon. Distinguished representatives of he ministry and of the educational and public life of the community attended the services. Rev. Dr. George C. Pidgeon, minister of the church, and moderator of the Toronto Presbytery, was in charge of the ser-

The chief mourners were the two ons of the deceased, Gordon and Donald Macdonald.

Principal Gandier referred to Dr. Macdonald as a "world citizen." "He had his limitations. He loathed examinations. He was not a plodder. He had not patience for the ordinary everyday duties of the "He was a man of big ministry. themes and world vision," said Dr. Gandier.

Then the Knox College head related how Dr. Macdonald had over-come, by patient persistence, his de-fect of speech and turned a handicap into a help.
"He was able to thrill and sway an audience of 10,000 or even 20,000 with his burning eloquence," said the speaker. "He was among the greatest orators of his day. I have listened to Parker and Campbell, and Spurgeon and Jowett among preachers, and to Gladstone, and Lloyd George and Asquith, but, at his best and on a great occasion, I have never heard a greater orator than J. A. MacDonald," he declared.

Dr. Gandier was candid enough to say that Dr. MacDonald had certain years he was apt to be quick and even harsh in his judgments. He had no patience with men and wamen whom he regarded as pious weaklings. He had no use for half men and half-way measures." But his judgments of men and events had been tempered with the passing

POINCARE EXPLAINS

Declares Occupation Not To Make French Secure But To Coerce Berlin.

Associated Press Despatch. Paris, May 18 .- The military occupation of the Ruhr by French troops is not necessary to the security of France, Premier Poincare informed the members of the finance and foreign affairs commissions in the French Chamber yesterday. The occupation of the Ruhr, he added, is essentially an operation designed to coerce Germany into paying reparations. He reiterated that the Ruhr would be gradually evacuated in proportion to the payment of German reparations. The occupation of the left bank of the Rhine was considered by the government as sufficient military security. Incidentally M. Poincare is reviewing the four months' occupation and asking the commissions to approve credits for continuation of the operation, informing the deputies that the receipts from the Ruhr since January 11 had covered the strictly military expenses which the occupation en-tailed. The cost of the Ruhr troops o the treasury, after deducting the amount which it would have been necessary to provide for these soldiers, had they remained in France, amounted to 61,000,000 francs, and the expenditures for civilians 2,650,-000 francs. The receipts from customs, licenses, forests and fines amounted to 36,000,000 francs, and receipts from seizures of coal and coke to 36,680,000 francs, thus creating an approximate equilibrium between expenses and receipts.

WANT AD TIPS

Ever Swap a Horse or a Catapult?

Jimmie and Puddin Head Duffy, the "Regular Fellars," have the swap habit. They limit their swaps to broken knives, marbles and baseball mitts. Your choice is unlimited. They swap among themselves. You can swap with somebody many miles away, your field is unlimited. A Swap Ad will carry your swap message into many thousand homes at very little cost. What have you in your house which you no longer require? A man had a radio set and wanted a bicycle. A small Swap Ad resulted in a deal to the satisfaction of both parties. A lady wished a white lilac bush. She got it through the Swap Ads, by swapping some iris roots which she did not require. Many other people have used Swap Ads to get articles they desired. Have a look around your home today and check up the things you have no further use for. Write a Swap Ad today and bring the things you want your way.

Senior cadets to the number of 1,200 from all parts of the district have already signified their intention of attending this camp, which will have many added features over previous camps of this nature. The sports program, which will be an extensive one, will be in the hands of members of the Ontario athletic commission. Mess arrangements will be looked after by caterer, which system will be an improvement on the past.

The majority of the cadet corps throughout the district have shown up exceptionally well at their annual inspections this spring, and the various competitions to be held in con-nection with the camp will, no doubt, e keenly contested. Arrangements are being formuated to have one afternoon towards

As I finished speaking, my attorney was on his feet entering an objection to the question, which objection was quickly sustained. At that point court was adjourned till the following day.

As I remember it there were 14 witnesses for the prosecution, and onemyself-for the defence. All the testimony was in by the time of adjournment of court on Tuesday afternoon, September 26. And when court was convened at 10 o'clock the following morning, the district attorney began his address to the jury. No Appeal To Emotions.

Unlike the man who had prosecuted at the first trial, the district attorney was precise in all his statements, taking care not to bring in anything that had not been touched ipon by the evidence. The former prosecutor took an attitude clearly, ndicating a desire to appeal to the passion of the jury. He drew word pictures for them about matters collateral to the case and the evidence, but in no way a part of it. The prosecutor at the second trial, however, kept himself free from any imassioned style of argument and apparently appealed to nothing but the easoning power of the jury coupled with their duty as jurors. His first ddress lasted scarcely an hour.

Counsel for the defence had nothng to stand upon but the ground, as formerly taken, that despite any construction that might be placed upon the statute, my crime, according to all the evidence, was not one that ought to be classed with coldblooded and deliberate murder. Pointing out those things that would support his contention, one of my attorneys told in detail of the very execution at the state prison spoken of previously in this narrative, he having planned to witness that one in order that he might, either in a second trial or in a plea before a ardon board, be able to describe the transaction in urging that I be spared

The case went to the jury at 2:30 that afternoon; and the clock showed it to be one minute after four when they filed back into the courtroom and took their seats again in the jury the clerk. I had watched the judge's face closely as he read the words written on that paper, but was unable to decide what he had seen there. The clerk's hands shook slightly, yet he unfolded the small, sheet of paper, and in a clear tone read: "We, the jury, find the defendant John W. Kane, guilty, as charged in the information. And we recommend that his punishment be fixed at life imprisonment at hard labor in the state penitentiary."

As in the first trial, my attorneys had the jury polled-and each one, when his name was called, answered that that was his verdict. Then, upon notion of the district attorney that he court set a date for passing of entence, it was ordered that appear for sentence at 10 a.m. or riday the 29th.

Rain fell throughout the greater part of Thursday night, and when at he appointed hour I reached the ourtroom and found it packed with all manner of persons, I was surprised. My belief was that all perons expected the court to follow the ury's recommendation and sentence e to life imprisonment, but in that was mistaken; some of the street operatives had circulated a petiion Wednesday evening and Thursday, and practically all of the several hundred carmen and a number of ther persons had signed it-which petition was to be presented to the court, asking that the jury's recomnendation be ignored and that I be entenced to death.

The Judge's Oath. The district attorney addressed the ourt first. He did not refer to the etition, but urged that the judge pass the death sentence rather than that recommended by the jury.

Both my attorneys pleaded that the recommendation of the jury be heed-

"The jury followed all instruction carefully," he concluded his remarks. "and the recommendation they have made will be followed with a like care by this court. Mr. Kane may stand up.

"Have you any reason to offer wh entence should not be passed upon you at this time?" he asked me rapidly.

"The sentence of the court is," he vent on, seemingly anxious to have it over with, "that you, John W. Kane. be confined in the state prison for the rest of your natural life."

murmured his companion. "One assumes so," said Good-enough. It was curious how the man's mind harped on riches. The rat-like face of the Spaniard seemed to grow sharper still.

"I hope they will—hang the woman who give the poison!" he said, as if speaking to the sea. Goodenough made no reply, but looked at him through narrowed eyes. "Did you ever hear of this mother

The grip came upon the Spaniard's shoulder, it steadied him, but the thin alpaca coat and cotton shirt be-neath it tore like paper, exposing nearly a foot of the man's upper arm and breast. A ragged white scar showed plain upon the olive skin. Goodenough's eye flashed slightly as he observed it. "Accept my apologies," he said, "I

BOXER AND WOOF WOOF

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. The Great World calls each to his place

All the conceit was gone from Boxer. Jimmy Skunk had taken the yery last from him. He no longer felt bodstful. In fact, Boxer wanted, above all things, to keep out of sight PLAN SPECIAL LECTURES of everybody. You see, Jimmy Skunk with him all the time, but never uses excepting for his own protection. And Boxer couldn't get rid of it. Do what he would, he couldn't get rid of it. Everyone kept out of Boxer's way. enjoy anything. Oh, how, he did wish that he had left Jimmy Skunk alone! "I'll never bother him again. No, sir, I'll never bother him again. When I meet Jimmy Skunk he can have the path," said Boxer over and over to himself.

Even Woof Woof, Boxer's twin sister, would have nothing to do with him. She wouldn't let him come anywhere near her. She told him very plainly that he had been served just right, and that she hoped it would and that she hoped that now he would remember some of the things Mother Bear had told them when they were little. Then she said good-bye.
"Where are you going?" whined

FLOWERS FOR JIM. By JANE OSBORN.

Ever since Jim had arrived at the hospital, weather-beaten, tanned and much in need of a shave, and incidentally with a wrenched knee that had to go in plaster cast and d dis-located shoulder, he had been the favorite of the men's ward. If he had been a little boy instead of six foot of rugged, honest manhood, he would

Right from the first "Jim" had become a favorite, and the men's ward eemed to be a brighter place because

"It will seem queer, when he's all better and up and dressed," said a nurse to one of her companions sitting at the desk where she had been making up charts. "We've all treated him like a nice big boy—and that's just what he seems to be. Perhaps we've petted him a bit too much. bringing him funny papers and puz-zles just as if he was a child--"

So Dr. Martha Yates went to Jim's narrow cot and no one in the ward seemed to feel, the least bit jealous or slighted when she put the whole glorious dozen on his table. For Jim was as popular with the other patients as with the nurses and of rugged, honest manhood, he would have gone in the children's ward and been known as "nurse's pet."

No one knew much about "Jim." Obviously a man who earned his living with his muscle, he had been brought in one night in forlorn condition by Dr. Robinson, who had said that the man had no friends in town and might not be able to pay his bills and might not be able to pay his hills that betrayed the recent suffering for-several weeks. Dr. Martha Yates had gone away in confusion that she had with dif-ficulty concealed. Suddenly it seemed as if Jim, who had seemed only a fine overgrown boy, had been transformed into a man, strong and virile in spite of his present prostration. She was half sorry that she had taken him the flowers—perhaps it had been very unprofessional. But the nurses had not seemed to think it in the contract of the contract it inappropriate. To them Jim was still plain Jim. Perhaps they had not seen the look, so strong and clear, beneath those tired eyelids. "One often does get a jolt when a patient recovers and stands up all dressed," said the second nurse. "It's funny about Jim. It isn't that he funny about to be jolly. ARABIAN BUT-

London, May 17.—Some of the Arabian designs being worn here to-day are reminiscent of the American flag. Stars and stripes adorn them in about equal proportions, with an intermingling of such strange Arabian shrubs and trees as never were WEARS VIOLET SHOES.

New York, May 17.—An actress who is noted for her good taste in clothes has set her seal upon the correct wear of colored shoes. A blonde wears much violet and orchid. The only colored shoes in her ward-robe are a dark violet, and she wears them with gray hosiery to heighten the effectiveness of a gray gown lightly embroidered in violet. Her hat, of course, is violet also.

COLLARED AND CUFFED. New York, May 17 .- Collars and suffs for tailored suits and for sports suits are decidedly with us. Usually hey have knife-pleated ruffles. Sometimes they are made of gay ribbons and often of colored organdy.

SECRET OF HIS SUCCESS

One of the most noted, successful and richest men of this country, in a recent article, said: "Whatever I am and whatever success I have attained in this world I owe ft all to my wife. From the day I first knew her she has been an inspiration, and 'the greatest helpmate of my life." Health is the first essential of every woman who wants to be a successful wife, and to hold the love and admiration of the rhusband. If a woman finds her energies flagging and dark circles appearing under her eyes, she has backache, headaches, nervousness and "the blues." She should take Lydia E. ### FOUND WONDERFUL RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

BY USING Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills

Constipation is one of the most prevalent troubles the human race is subject to, and is the greatest cause of many of our ailments, for if the bowels cease to perform their proper functions all the other organs will become deranged.

Keep your bowels working gently and naturally by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and thus do away with the constipation and all other troubles caused by it.

COL. M'KENDRICK SAYS NEXT WAR IMMINENT IN 1928

Toronto Speaker at Kiwanis Luncheon Prophecies New Conflict.

TAKES BIBLE AS BASE

"As sure as the history which lies behind us, the next war will commence about the end of May, 1928, and Great Britain, entering into, need not sacrifice the life blood of her soldiers, if the laws of Moses are obeyed.'

Astounding as this prophecy is considered to be, in the light of present day events, Col. W. G. McKendrick, of Toronto, president of the Warren Bituminuous Paving Company, who made it at the regular noon meeting of the Kiwanis Club today, bases it on Biblical pre

Club today, bases it on Biblical prepresent day events, Col. W. G. Mcdictions, and supports it with the statement that the people of the British empire are without question the children of Israel, and that every event in British history has not been an affair of chance, but the fulfill-ment of the prophecies of the Lord, laid down in the books of the Old Testament. The present King, Col. McKendrick states, is the direct lineal descendant of David, a fact which he says is born out by the College of Heraldry.

History Follows Bible.

"For forty years I have watched history turn Bible prophecy into reality," the colonel commenced, crediting to this fact his intense in-terest in the reclamation of Jeru-salem by the British.

"We are not to give up Egypt, because that portion of it, wherein the canal is situated, is the promised land, belonging to Israel. Great Britain is Israel, and that is why we are going to hang onto it. God promised this land to Israel as long as the sun, moon and stars existed and gentlemen, are they not still do-

Possesses Every Promise.

"Our God-given commonwealth is over Jerusalem as General Allenby in possession of every promise God took it. The Lord said also, 'Before made to Abraham, Isaiah and David, they ask I shall answer,' and the Those of us who are Anglicans say patriarch was already on his way every Sunday that we are the chil-with the keys of the city as Allenby dren of Israel, according to our and his men knelt down, on the adprayer book, but there are few of us vice of their own King, to ask the

"In all the turmoil of today there which they should advance on Jeruis one thing you can bank on, and that is the promise of God. McIntosh, King Street Church, as chief speaker, responded to the toast, "Canadian Girls," pro-posed by Miss Marjorie McLarty. She took as her text the C. G. I. T. motto, "Cherish health, seek truth, know good, and serve others."

Mrs. W. Leslie Armitage presented greetings from the St. James (Anglican) Clover Leafs, and Rev. T. A. Symington, minister of Knox Church, also said a few words.

A neighborly spirit was revealed by Wortley Road Baptist Church, in opening the Sunday School room last evening for the mothers' and daughters' banquet held by the C. G. I. T. groups of Knox Presbyterian Church, just around the corner. The school building of the latter church was undergoing such repairs a social function was out of the question there.

Mrs. A. Fitzsimons was toast mistress, the list including "The King," "our Motto," proposed by Miss Helen Millen, president of the junior C. G. I. T., and responded to by Mrs. S. North Waterloo Member Intimates Changes May Come In Tariff.

WOODS CRITICIZES

Refers To Fielding's Proposals As a Rich Man's Budget.

parties joined yesterday in further house debate on budget. The Progressive amendment, said Hon. S. F. Tolfrom the fact that Progressives had taken planks from the Liberal plat-form of 1919 to amend a Liberal budget of 1923. Dr. Tolmie when first he heard of the amendment thought there might be excitement at But on reading its terms, he ad come to the conclusion-so he told a laughing house—that the di-vision would be as exciting as waving a red flag at a dead bull.

Expressing a personal view, W. D.

Euler, Liberal of North Waterloo, told the house he had "very little confidence in platforms anyway." He did not think that a government should necessarily be asked to accept what might be the "ill-digested planks" in any platform. For himself, he could say frankly that the 1919 platform "should not in the public interests be permitted to shackle the government responsible to all the people, whether it be the tariff or anything else." He did not however, believe that in his budget speech, Mr. Fielding had intended to convey the impression that the tariff was as ur changeable as the laws of the Medes and Persians. For the Progressives, R. J. Woods. of Dufferin, Ontario, criticized the budget as a rich man's budget. He urged that the United States, with its high tariff had taken care of farmers. Farm implements entered the United States free. Why then should the Canadian government not do the same thing in Canada?

W. J. Lovie of MacDonald, Manitoba, observed that farmers were get-ting a good deal of advice nowadays about the advantage of mixed farming. But experiments in his community had shown that mixed farming was not a panacea for all ills. Before adjournment, Joseph Archambauit, Liberal of Chambly-Vercheres, had some suggested amendments to the income tax. He would increase the exemption for children from $300 each to $500, and totally exempt the head of a family of five. Further, he would place a higher tax on unearned than on earned incomes.

Palmolive Findlay Makes Threat. J. W. Findlay, (Progressive, South Bruce) observed that he had been buoyed up with the hope of getting something in the way of tariff reductions from this "so-called Liberal Government." The time might well come, he added amid Liberal cries of 'oh-oh," when we may be prompted > join our forces with the Conservative group from which we have no hopes of getting anything."

> Debate on the budget and the Forke amendment was resumed in the house by R. K. Anderson (Conservative, Halton) who said that the present budget appeared to be drafted, not so much for the purpose of dealing with the exigencies of the present financial situation, as for political effect. It was colorless and featureless. The financial minister, who in opposition had been a free trader or a tariff-for-revenue advocate, had become a protectionist now that he was in power. Dr. Anderson asked why this change had taken

perhaps from a spirit of revenge to

Dr. Anderson said that instead of reducing duties the Liberals had increased them on an average. Also in making a statement in the course of his speech that there would be no further reductions, the finance minister had practically accepted the principle of protection. It was true that Mr. Fielding had changed the name of the tariff from "high protective" to "moderate tariff for revenue," but that did not alter its nature. There were other converts to protection on the government side, including the prime minister and the minister of agriculture.

Dr. Anderson thought that the sales tax, judiciously applied at the source, was all right. When it was pyramided from one trader to another, it was a serious burden to the He asserted that he was not high protectionist. He believed the automobile industry in Canada needed less protection. The minister of finance might very well have left off 10 per cent on the imported article, and brought the protection ticle, and brought the protection down to 25 per cent. In regard to tariff "finality," Dr. Anderson tariff "finality," thought there was some doubt regarding to finance the minister's statement whether the limit of tariff reduction had been reached. Dr. Anderson believed, however, that the industrial people of Canada would regard his speech as an encouragement o feel safe in going ahead in extending their plants and increasing their manufacturing output.

Dr. Anderson expressed himself as convinced that the time had come when the yearly budget should be balanced and a sinking fund started with which to reduce the national debt. Every effort should be made by the country to meet her responsibilities. The minister of finance had, however, taken no step in this direc-tion. Mr. Fielding preached a good doctrine at times, said Dr. Anderson, but he did not practise. He should attempt to make his budget balance.

Refers To Reciprocity. The offer of reciprocity was something which the people of Canada had turned against in 1911. If reci-procity were brought about it would necessitate changing the whole trans-portation system of the Dominion. Referring to immigration, Dr. Anderson said he would not admit people from Russia until that country had recovered its sanity, otherwise there would be serious trouble from the teaching of Bolshevism in Canada.

In conclusion, he couldn't vote for the amendment because of the reci-procity idea in it; neither could he vote for the budget; he would, therefore, vote against both.
thought it was impossible for this or government to find a panacea all the ills of the present time, he blamed the government for iling to reduce the tariff. Rural hople at any rate were also strongly favor of reciprocity, and he commended the government's action in high tariff, had nevertheless taken care of the farmers, said Mr. Woods.

W. D. Euler (Liberal, Waterloo North) felt that the budget, while not perfect ought to meet with general approved. In view of the constant of the co eral approval. In view of the con-flicting interests of Canada's different sections it behooved everyone to yield something, for the common good.

Euler Defends Program. Mr. Euler said he had little confidence in the making of platforms. He did not believe that responsible government should necessarily be asked to accept ill-digested planks, imposed upon them by people in various parts of the country, whose suggestions mitted to shackle the government in the matter of tariff or anything else. That the Progressives had not mie, minister of agriculture, in the really anticipated any great change former government was interesting in the tariff and would have been from the fact that Progressives had finance had not made the statement with regard to tariff stability, was However, he did not believe that Mr. Fielding intended to convey the impression that the tariff was unchangeable as the law of the Medes and Persians.

Mr. Euler declared that manufacturers of the east had in many cases found it very difficult to get along during recent years. There was necessity for seeing "the other fellow's In theory many men were free traders, but they admitted that free trade at present was impossible. The tariff was a protection no matter where or how it was graded. Mr. Forke had criticized the budget in that it did not carry out the 1919 Liberal platform. ner (Progressive, Edmonton) that both old parties took orders from the "big interests." Mr. Euler declared be interests." Mr. Euler declared he would not support any government which he thought was taking orders from any big interests.

Reverting to the tariff, Mr. Euler said he believed in a tariff which would allow industries to build up without allowing them to become nonopolies or combines. At present farmers and manufacturers were under a common difficulty in lack of markets. He opposed opening Tariff Magnified.

The tariff was magnified out of all proportion, said Mr. Euler. He took the ground that the government could not pay attention to the de-mands of a single occupational group at the expense of all other classes He thought the budget was the best compromise which could be obtain-ed and therefore would support it. compromise which count of the working out of "a logical, reasonable method of taxation." He had never believed in the tax on checks, receipts, and many of the irritating excise taxes. The hald that there were three sources of money each year were being lost by marketing scrub cattle. ment the platform of the Progressives which called for free trade with reviving this matter. Like other governments, the present one had a dual policy, one while in opposition and another while in office.

Mr. Woods said that the reduction of the maximum tax on checks to $1 marked the budget in that respect as a rich man's budget. Wealthy men issuing large checks were favored by the change, whereas the great body of people issuing smaller checks received no benefit. The U. S. with its high tariff, had nevertheless taken care of the farmers, said Mr. Woods.

W. D. Euler (Liberal, Waterloo tional Railways. When this was done he would charge the system only with fixed charges pertaining to such a system. When the system was paying operating expenses and these fixed charges, whatever profits were left should be applied to decreasing rates. The present system should not be loaded down with all the obligations of the roads prior to the obligations of the roads prior to their being taken over.

The budget debate was continued in the evening by Hon. S. F. Tolmie, (Conservative, Victoria City). It was satisfactory, Mr. Tolmie said, that the opinion was gaining ground that Canada must have a certain amount Canadian Press Despatch.

Findlay's Criticism.

Mr. Archambault declared that many wealthy individuals receiving large incomes did not pay tax be-cause their incomes were derived from dividends of corporations. The tax was collected from the corpora-tion. If a company made sufficient dends should be taxed.

J. W. Findlay (Progressive, South Bruce) said that he was most disappointed in the budget coming from so-called Liberal government. He had always claimed to be a Liberal in the true sense of the word, but he was far from being able to support this budget. Even the supporters of the government seemed to find difficulty in expressing strong approval of the budget in their speeches. He had hoped for some substantial tariff reductions from a government charged with charged in conse-and unlawful assemblage in conse-quence of his activities on behalf of 600 striking longshoremen, who have tariff reductions from a government which had been elected on the tariff platform of the 1919 Liberal conthe people would again have an opfor, but never had been enforced.

Curzon and Krassin Hold a Secret Conference in London.

LABORITES WORRIED

Ask Assurance That Parliament Will Be Consulted.

Associated Press Despatch. London, May 18 .- Leonid Krassin Russian Soviet commisar for foreign trade, had a two-hour conference with Marquis Curzon at the foreign office yesterday concerning the recent exchange of notes by the two govrnments Both sides agreed to reveal nothing publicly regarding the nature of the discussion, and it is apparent from the extreme secrecy observed in other governmental departments that Lord Curzon is determined nothing shall be announced regarding the decisions taken until the conversations are concluded. The Russian trade delegaion was equally uncommunicative. It is understood, however, that the whole subject of Russo-British relations was reviewed in the light of the allegations contained in Great Britain's recent ultimatum to Moscow. The British foreign secretary extended the time limit given in the origina? ultimatum to enable M. Krassin to communicate with Moscow, but at the same time it is understood he made clear to Krassin that nothing short of full compliance with all the British demands would be at-

As soon as M. Krassin has communicated Lord Curzon's views to the Soviet government and received a reply he will have another conference with the foreign secretary. Optimism is expressed in official quarters that the negotiations with Krassin, who possesses plenary powers, will result n an amicable solution. Discussion arose in the House of Commons today between the government spokesmen and the Laborites as to the actual significance of the lengthy meeting between Foreign Secretary Curzon and M. Krassin, the Soviet commisar for foreign trade. The Laborites made evident their fear that during the Whitsuntide recess the government might take some step against Russia without parliamentary

Replying to the debate, the under secretary for foreign affairs, Ronald McNeill, contended that the British ultimatum to Moscow still stood, and all that had been done was to give time to M. Krassin in which to com-municate with his government. J. Ramady MacDonald, Laborite leader and head of his majesty's op-position, insisted that the House interpreted last Tuesday's debate as implying that the ultimatum was held in abeyance. He expressed dis-satisfaction with Mr. McNeill's statement, which he took to intimate that no further note would be received from the Soviet unless it was in the form of an acceptance of the Britisi

NOTED ART EXPERT SUES DUVEEN FOR $500,000

Associated Press Despatch. New York, May 18. — George Joseph De Mott, art expert, of New York and Paris, has sued Sir Joseph Duveen, head of the Duveen Art Gal-leries, for $500,000, alleging Sir Joseph had damaged him by characterizing as spurious an 11th century Champleve enamel figure of Nirgin and Child, which he sold Michael Dreicer of this city in 1921 for 350,000 francs. Mr. De Mott asked $100,000 for each of five alleged slanderous statements concerning the figure.
