EFFORT TO PATENT LIVER EXTRACT BLOCKED Sunday Sport Opposed As "Thin Edge of the Wedge"

May Invoke Courts or Arbitrate

Applications For Liver Extract
Patents Made by Lawyers
For Two Claimants.

OTTAWA IS CONFUSED

Governors of Western University Confident They Can Win the Case.

The claim of the two young London doctors, Dr. A. A. James and Dr. N.
B. Laughton, to credit for the discovery of the liver extract for the relief of high blood pressure, is so strengthened by statements forthcoming today that their priority in the discovery now seems to be unassailable.

As early as last June, it seems, the medical committee of the University of Western Ontario took the necessary legal steps to insure that no attempt would be made by Dr. Macdonald or anyone else to patent the discovery and sell it.

A despatch this morning said it was understood in Toronto that as soon as the new extract is perfected it will be patented both in Canada and the United States, and the patents turned over to the University of Toronto, as was done in the case of Dr. Banting's insulin.

Action Not Possible.

Phillip Pocock, chairman of the medical school committee of the board of governors, stated this morning that no action on the part of Dr. Macdonald would be possible, as the board took the necessary legal steps last June
to prevent it, by entering a formal protest to the patent office.

"Professional ethics prevented us from making any noise about it at the time," Mr. Pocock said, "but we foresaw what might happen, and instructed our solicitors, Messrs. Gurne & Murphy, to take the necessary steps to head off any attempt to patent the discovery. This they did by entering a formal protest to the patent office, in which all the facts now under dispute were set forth."

"We have all the facts in black and white, ever since Dr. Macdonald came into the controversy. They are on record in the shape of letters which passed between Dr. Macdonald and Dr.
Paul McKibben of the medical school.
The only reason we did not make it public sooner was because the University of Toronto had become involved,
and we were anxious that there should be no bad feeling between the two universities. We did not want to be in the position of washing any dirty linen in public."

Intent On Protection.

"Now that the facts are out we intend to stand up for our rights as a matter of common justice. Personally
I feel that Dr. Macdonald has treated these two young men, Dr. James and Dr. Laughton, very badly, and we intend to see that they are protected. There is another aspect to the case, and that is that the Rockefeller Foundation takes an interest in the discovery of this kind, and it is quite within the bounds
of possibility that this body may develop a half million dollars to the development and production of the new extract. We feel that it is only right that this money should be spent in London rather than in Toronto."

By a most curious coincidence copies of the proceedings of the tax convention of the Citizens Research Institute, held in the local university last September
before the committee of the London chamber of commerce, this morning. In perusing them Secretary W. H. Wood came across the following interesting paragraph bearing upon the liver extract controversy: Dr. H. T. Nelson

FEAR FOR LIVES OF 45 MEN TRAPPED IN FIERY TUNNEL

A. M. BELDING.

MARITIMES HAVE NEW TRADE SPIRIT

A. M. Belding on Visit to London Tells of Enterprise
in East.

PORTS ARE BUSIER

"We have now in the maritimes a very much better feeling and a much greater spirit of enterprise. We know now that we have the sympathy of the rest of Canada in the difficulties under which we have been laboring ever since Confederation, and we're going to display more determined enterprise than ever before."

Such was the summing up of the present situation in the maritime provinces by A. M. Belding of St. John, N.B., editor of the St. John Telegraph and Evening Times-Star, who arrived in London last night to spend a short time in London, and who is on his way back to his mission to the central provinces,
which briefly stated is "Canadian goods
through Canadian ports."

Interwoven at the chamber of commerce offices this morning, Mr. Belding expressed himself as very well pleased with the sympathy and understanding displayed by the business men of the various cities he has visited in a trip
lasting nearly three months.

The mission he has undertaken is
to secure more steamship services,
with which he is connected, but he has also the official backing of the St. John board of trade and other public institutions in the maritimes.

His trip has taken him to Winnipeg,
Montreal, Ottawa, Sherbrooke, Oshawa, Windsor and London and on the return journey he will spend some time in Hamilton and Quebec city.

Works For Ports.

Mr. Belding told the Advertiser that the year ending last July 31st, 1924-25,
in Canadian products were shipped through American ports, and this is the condition which he is endeavoring to change. The maritimes came into the confederation on the understanding that railway traffic in the dominion would run east and west, and that Canadian exports and imports would enter and leave through Canadian ports.

This ideal has not been realized, due largely to the close proximity of such huge American ports as New York and Boston with their vast resources in shipping facilities. As an example of this is happening here, where over a hundred and forty million bushels of Canadian grain left Port William and Port Arthur by the end of November
this year, every bushel of which was shipped through American ports.

He realizes that to capture and hold this trade the maritime ports will have
to secure more steamship services.
They lack at the present time adequate services to South America, the Mediterranean, the far east, and certain ports in Africa. Facilities for shipment to Dundee and Aberdeen, where much Canadian flour and grain is sent, are also somewhat inadequate. But for now steamship lines have been added to the port of St. John this year and the citizens are pressing hard for more warfare facilities to handle the expected increase in tonnage.

Boats Not Equipped.

The Canadian merchant marine is doing all it can to help matters, but they are at a disadvantage because their boats are not equipped with re-frigerating apparatus to handle packing house products, which form a large part of the present traffic. If the Canadian packer is to compete with Denmark and other countries in the markets of the United Kingdom, he must be assured of a fast and frequent steamship service to convey his products, and this will have to be provided.

Heavy Smoke Prevents Un-equipped Rescue Workers From Reaching Miners.

MORE HELP IS CALLED

Officials Believe Men Have Been Suffocated or Are Unconscious.

Associated Press Despatch.

Boulder, Colorado, Dec. 4.—Between 40 and 45 men were imprisoned in the Cardinal tunnel, a property worked by the Fairview Mining Company, by a fire that broke out in the workings early today.

The mine is ten miles west of here.
Appeals for help were received shortly after 8 o'clock and immediately six rescue crews left for the scene.

Mine officials reported over the telephone that heavy smoke was pouring from the mouth of the tunnel and that rescue workers, none of whom were equipped with masks, had been prevented from entering. They believed that every one of the trapped men had been suffocated by the smoke and gas.

As far as it is known the outbreak of the fire was not accompanied by any explosion. The cause is unknown.

MAYOR MAKES MANY SPEECHES IN ONE DAY

Winds Up Municipal Campaign
by Addressing Half Dozen Audiences Daily.

Mayor Wenige is concluding his campaign for re-election to the mayor's chair with a whirlwind campaign in all parts of the city.

His worship addressed half a dozen meetings yesterday and expects to address the same number today. Yesterday he spoke at McClary's downtown
plant, Beatty Bros., the Steel Sash Company. Last night he spoke at Empress and Riverview schools, and later in the evening at St. Martin's hall.

Tonight the mayor will wind up the campaign by addressing a meeting at the city hall, where he promises to be the largest meeting of the series.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND, BUFFALO FEARS CLUBBER

Mysterious Telephone Message Leads Guard to Body—Victim's Name Unknown.

Associated Press Despatch.

Buffalo, Dec. 3.—The body of a woman, nude, and with the head crushed,
was taken from the Goodyear slip near Lackawanna this afternoon. Coming on the heels of numerous attacks on women here and at Lasalle and Niagara Falls, the police believe the dead woman may have been the victim of a man called "The Clubber," who recently committed similar crimes in Toledo.

The body of the woman was taken from the slip by Capt. J. J. Daly of the coastguard, after he had received a mysterious telephone message from a man who refused to give his name. The man indicated the part of the slip where
the body would be found.

All articles of identification, including the clothes, had been removed.

conducting the Peace river recount,
were whiped out this afternoon, and the injunction proceedings will proceed be-

FAMOUS PADRE IS VISITOR TO LONDON

Dinner Being Arranged by War Veterans For Major
Davidson of Peterboro.

Major Davidson of Peterboro, famous throughout a large section of the Canadian corps for his services in France
as a chaplain during the great war, is a visitor to London today, and efforts are being made by former members of
No. 3 Canadian stationary hospital, to which unit he belonged, to arrange a dinner in his honor at the Blue Dragon
tea room on Saturday evening.

There are many London ex-soldiers who have an affectionate memory of the venerable padre, who despite his advancing years took a most active part in the war. His energy was proverbial, and it was not uncommon for him to be out of his quarters at 2 and 3 o'clock
in the morning to minister to the needs of wounded men brought in after a battle.

All members of the Canadian expeditionary force who knew Major Davidson are cordially invited to attend the dinner on Saturday evening at 6:15.
Members of No. 3 Canadian stationary hospital are particularly invited, said
Lieut.-Col. C. H. Reason, D.S.O., O.B.E., the commanding officer of the unit, today.

Major Davidson will occupy the pulpit of St. James' Anglican church next Sunday.

FENG TO GIVE ALL LEADERS SHARE OF CHINESE RULE

Associated Press Despatch.

Peking, Dec. 4.—Feng Tu-Hsiang,
who controls the situation in Peking, intends to summon a conference of the Chinese military leaders to meet at Peking to discuss military affairs and the apportionment of territory among the various commanders. The "Christian" general made this known in an interview published here yesterday.

The Christian general said he also proposes to form a coalition cabinet representing all the various leaders.

PREPARATIONS UNDER WAY FOR CLOSING HOLY DOOR

Rome, Dec. 4.—The pope's decision was announced yesterday to hold the public consistory, which is set for Dec.
17, in the basilica of St. Peter's, to enable the largest possible number of holy year pilgrims to attend the solemn function. St. Peter's is large enough to hold 65,000 persons.

Preparations are being made already at St. Peter's for closing the holy door or porta sacra, which is opened only during holy year, that is, every 25th year.

BRITAIN PAYS MORE.

London, Dec. 4.—Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, replying to questions in the house of commons yesterday, said that if Great Britain's debt to the United States had been funded on the same terms as Italy's the amount which the British government would pay this year would be approximately $11,000,000 instead of $150,000,000.

COOLIDGE IS ATTACKED ON PROHIBITION ATTITUDE

Associated Press Despatch.
Washington, Dec. 3.—The results obtained in prohibition enforcement by the present administration were declared to have made the eighteenth amendment a "joke" and "chasing by-word among otherwise well-disposed citizens," in an expression of views mailed to the White House today by the united committee for prohibition enforcement, it was said, had been defeated by "unfit and unfavorable appointments by those making the appointment."

The president has done some fine
normalizing on the general enforcement of the law, but he never yet has definitely and unreservedly committed his administration to the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment," Chairman Howard said.

No New Industries Unless Power Famine Is Averted

Development of St. Lawrence Should Be Proceeded With, Says Buchanan.

POWER LOAD GROWS

Industrial and Domestic Heating Would Be First To Feel Restriction.

Development of the St. Lawrence river for power purposes, according to E. V. Buchanan, manager of the public utilities commission, should be proceeded with immediately, if the shortage of power in Ontario is as imminent as it is said to be.

Mr. Buchanan thus strongly approves of the action of C. A. McGrath, chairman of the H.E.P.C. of Ontario, together with the provincial government,
in using every effort to impress upon the dominion government the urgency of proceeding with this great work in the not-distant future.

While not in a position to predict just how imminent is a power shortage, Mr. Buchanan expressed quite plainly his preference for the development of electricity through water power rather than through auxiliary steam plants.

"Our power load in London is growing," declared Mr. Buchanan, "in spite of the fact that industry is not bright.
The factories are holding their own,
while the domestic load is growing rapidly, due chiefly to the use of water heaters, electric ranges, and other electrical appliances."

The War Shortage.

"A shortage of power is a serious matter," pointed out the manager.
"We first met a power shortage during the war, years before the Chippawa plant at Niagara was completed, and because of the heavy demand for power for the manufacture of munitions.
At that time London manufacturers were asked by the commission for their co-operation in shutting down their plants for an hour each day, and by having the factories shut down at different hours of the day, the load was relieved evenly throughout the whole day."

"But that was in a time of national emergency when people were prepared for any sacrifice but, should a shortage occur in the near future, it would be impossible to secure this same co-operation, at least to such an extent in the matter of restrictions."

"The priority of claim on available

Mayor Wenige is still receiving com-centennial next August a huge success.

This morning the mayor received a letter from Erik Anderson, president of

"Thanks for the invitation, and if pos-

NO PERMIT FOR BUS OVERLOAD

Police Will Prosecute If the License Capacity Exceeded, Says Chief.

Although city bus drivers declare that Mayor Wenige and seven city aldermen yesterday gave permission for them to carry a 50 per cent passenger overload, Chief of Police Robert Birrell stated this morning that city by-law prohibiting bus overloading would be enforced by the police department,
and a violation of bus licenses, which limit the number of passengers on board to twenty, would in all probability result in a court conviction.

Chief Birrell declared he had received no information that his department was to countenance bus overloading,
and until otherwise notified his
bylaw is officially passed on Tuesday.
The mayor and seven aldermen, including R. J. Carswell, Thomas Clift,
Dr. Douglass, Frank McKay, James Mc-Cormick and Homer Newby, were interviewed yesterday by bus drivers,
who say that the passing of an amendment to the bylaw is assured for Tuesday night's council meeting. In the meantime, they said, it would be legal for them to carry twenty seated passengers, and ten standing passengers,
or a 50 per cent overload, as the promised amendment will provide for.

Confident that the councilmen's attitude on the question will tide them over until the amendment to the bus
bylaw is officially passed on Tuesday,
the drivers state that in the interim
they will drive capacity loads of thirty passengers.

"All the city council can do is to recommmend to the police commission that the buses be allowed to carry a certain number of passengers in excess of the seating capacity," said city clerk
Sam Baker today. The whole question of bus-overloading will be thrashed out by the council next Tuesday night.

"If Mr. Kamm, president of the bus company allows his drivers to load a bus with a capacity for 20 passengers with 30 people, then he is breaking the bylaw and liable to another court appearance."

Mayor Wenige stated he had nothing to say on the matter at present, as he was coming before the council next week.

SCHOOLS MAY BE SOLD TO PAY DISTRICT'S DEBTS

Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, Dec. 3.—The district of West Kildonan, a municipality adjoining Winnipeg, is faced with a threat of sale
of its school building, under a judgment
obtained two weeks ago by the Credit Anglais-Francaise, Limited, of Quebec
city, holders of the school debentures.

The municipality has called an emergency meeting with a view to a settlement.

ing.

Tommy Church Asks For Probe Of Toronto University Teaching

Associated Press Despatch.

Toronto, Dec. 3.—On the grounds that it was retaining professors who were teaching free trade and sym-pathized with communism, T. L. Church,
M.P., in addressing the war five Conservative association tonight, demanded an investigation of the University of Toronto. Besides the views of some of its professors, Mr. Church brought against the university the alleged movement to have the crests of German colleges placed in Hart House.
"It is time to decide if the university is to be British or a university of European fads," declared Mr. Church.

No Games On Sunday Desired

Sabbath Violation Event For Amateur Sport Opposed by City Officials.

RAP WILSON PLAN

Administrator Wheable Sees Member's Proposal as Thin
Edge of Wedge.

Administrator G. A. Wheable, B.A., is strongly opposed, for a variety of reasons, to the proposal of Frank W.
Wilson, M.L.A., Windsor, to introduce in the legislature next session a bill to legalize amateur sport games on the Sabbath day.

Terming Mr. Wilson's suggested move
as "the thin edge of the wedge," Mr.
Wheable, head of London's school system, cited the bad influence such a practice would have on the young boys and girls of the country if the legislature should fall in line, in giving them a distorted view of the proper proportion of the things of life.

"One of the things we are proud of
in Canada, and one of the things to be admitted about this country," declared Mr. Wheable, "is our reverence for the Lord's Day. Of course, we all know that lots of things take place on Sunday that should not, but then the great majority of these are carried on against the law and such a situation is far removed from having them and other activities carried on with the full permission and endorsement of the law."
"Mr. Wilson's proposal," he said, "is certainly by the time one goes to church twice and to Sunday school in the afternoon, either as a scholar or a teacher, there is not much time left not taken up."

Sees Passing of Hat.

"To have a game of baseball only 18
boys or men would participate and then the rest would be standing around and there would soon be a large group of spectators with resulting noise and disturbance. And then it would not be long before the games would become professionalized, and the amateur promoters would early seize the opening presented by the work in their hands on Sunday. And then the theatres and all the other places of amusement would demand that they too have the privilege of working on the Sabbath,
and the result would be an open Sunday."

"The Sabbath was made for man as a day of rest, and it cannot be that if everything is wide open in the way of pleasure as on the other days of the week and there would not be any rest,
only a day of active pleasures not work, but certainly not tending to the securing of rest for tired bodies and tired minds from work the other six days of the week."

"Besides there are few towns and cities in Ontario today that have not a weekly half-holiday, either on Wednesday or Saturday, and almost everybody
is able to have at least that much time
off for pleasure."

"Parliaments and governments should call all this a day of rest, and should close Sabbath, and almost everybody
is able to have at least that much time
off for pleasure."

"Mr. Wheable agrees that the right line on Mr. Wilson's suggestion," declared Rev. Wm. Beattie, D.D., C.M.G., First United church and president of the London United church misterial association. "What impresses me about suggestions of this kind is that they always come from people who profess to be profoundly interested in a class of people who do not desire
this sort of thing. The greatest violators of the Sabbath today are the people with the most time on their hands."

"I have the utmost confidence in the people of Ontario," concluded Dr.
Beattie, "to believe that they will not show any desire to do anything whatever to weaken the observance of the Sabbath as a day of quietness or a day
of rest from labor as we have it today."

SHOOT'S DOWN TAXI DRIVER IN QUARREL OVER ROUTE

Associated Press Despatch.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 3.—After shooting down a taxi driver early this morning and wounding him so seriously that he may die, in what was said to be a dispute over the route to be followed, Elmore Reynolds, 29, who declared he "was originally from New Mexico," today was captured.

During a long grilling by Rochester
police, Reynolds tonight told an amazing story of daring holdups, burglaries and safe robberies in many eastern cities of Canada and the United States, chiefly in Washington, D. C.

Grows Warmer 100 Miles Up New Russian Invention Shows

Revelations Will Be Made Through the "Astrophotometer," Moscow Professor Says—Twilight and Dawn Are Seen
On Mars and Machine May Show Inhabitants.

By JUNIUS B. WOOD.
Special Cable to The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright.
Moscow, Dec. 4.—The astral void,
hundreds of miles above the earth's surface, has been brought into communication with man through the latest demonstrations of an "astrophotometer," invented by Professor Vasilii Fesenkov, director of the government astronomical physical institute, according to a statement of the professor
today.

Professor Fesenkov hopes that further development of his apparatus will determine that the moon and Mars are inhabited. Already, he says, there are indications that twilight and dawn rotate on both.

The "astrophotometer," he says, sub-stantiates the deductions of English

scientists from fallen meteors that the temperature ten miles above the earth's surface is freezing, but grows warmer higher up.
The apparatus further shows that at a height 100 miles above the earth's surface the cold is not so terrific as hitherto supposed.

The apparatus constructed under Professor Fesenkov's direction in Paris, consists of several bisected disk instruments, half showing artificial light, the other half showing natural light.

"At the twilight hour," Professor Fesenkov says, "the apparatus can determine the altitude reached by means of a comparison of the intensity of the lights on the disks. The mechanism of the atmosphere and the temperature at that height."

Previously, the highest level reached in atmospheric demonstrations was by balloons, which ascended fifteen miles.

TO DISPLAY WORK OF CITY ARTISTS

Oils and Water Colors of J. B.
Hunt at Library Monday
—Others Later.

MAY BUY SCHOOL

The possibility of acquiring the old Quebec street school from the local board of education, to be used as an additional branch library came up for discussion at the regular monthly meeting of the library board last night.
Although given a thorough consideration, no definite decision was reached as several of the members were of the opinion that the price asked by the board was altogether too high. The matter was laid over for another month.

The board also confirmed the policy
of holding a series of art exhibits
during the winter months, at which the work of local artists will be placed at the disposal of the citizens as a feature of the library's educational program.
It is hoped that these exhibits, which will each extend over a period of two weeks, will foster a greater interest among local art connoisseurs, and at the same time make known to the citizens as a whole the works of well-known London artists.

The first exhibit will open at the public library next Monday, when some fifty oils and watercolors of J. B. Hunt's will be offered to the public. The exhibit, which is free, will continue until the new year, when the works of
Ed. Glen, A. Templar, Miss Bradshaw and other artists of this city will appear at the library.

The circulation of books loaned for the month of November amounted to 36,012, an increase of 700 over the corresponding month of last year. There were 293 cards cancelled, and at the end of last month it was estimated that over 27,000 cards were in circulation
throughout the city.

A splendid attendance greeted the opening of the story-telling hours which are being conducted at the main branch and in the branches under the direction of Miss R. Loveless, the children's librarian.

SPRINGBANK WELLS PROVIDE MOST WATER

City Served Almost Entirely From Them During Week,
Buchanan Says.

London is being served almost entirely by water from the Springbank
wells, according to the information given by Manager E. V. Buchanan to the public utilities commission at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon.

"Our method for the past three or four weeks," explained Mr. Buchanan,
"has been to use water from Spring-
bank throughout the week, and on Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday
to pump water from wells in the city
as well, to make up the three feet in our reservoirs, or about 1,500,000 gallons, that has dropped as the overplus demand to what we pump from the Springbank wells. This situation strikingly illustrates the truth of the statement of an engineer in 1915 to the effect that, with a metered system, the Springbank wells could supply sufficient water, approximately 3,000,000 gallons per day, for the city until the population grew to 50,000 people."

The commission decided to allow a rebate of one-half the bill in each instance to three water consumers where,
after meters were installed, large leak-
ages were discovered in the services, though not before a considerable amount of water was wasted. Mr. Buchanan explained that the utilities staff, when meters have been installed, recently, particularly in the case of outside meters, have been making a check-up within a few days and, after discovering leaks, had warned the consumers so that they could have the necessary repairs made, thereby saving both water and money. He said that the city was permitted to go undiscovered until such time as the regular bi-monthly bill was rendered.

The commission decided to send J. W.
Pearce, engineer, to Pittsburgh to examine the new supervisory control system being worked out there by the Westinghouse Electric Company, the idea being to install the system in the new Carling street sub-station here.

The sale of the commission's abandoned sub-station, known as the King street sub-station, for factory purposes,
was referred to a sub-committee consisting of Commissioners T. W. McFarland and R. J. Webster, and the managing committee.

It was pointed out that the installation of electric ovens and electric furnaces in factories
in the east end of the city had necessitated a rearrangement of the electrical equipment in that particular section, resulting in the establishment of a new sub-station near the McCormick factory and the desertion of the small station which was built in 1915 on King street.

The manager reported having received a further communication from the Canadian National Railways relative to its demand upon the commission for damages amounting to its embankment
bursting of the Springbank water main near the Cove bridge. This particular communication intimated that the C. N. R. does not believe the commission to be serious in refusing to pay the damages, despite the fact that the size of the embankment was materially increased, to such an extent, indeed, that the breaking of the pipe; but the letter was laid over for the incoming commission to consider at a later date.

A bill rendered by Dr. J. C. Wilson for attendance upon a child injured by being struck by a swing on the Simcoe street playground was laid over for the views regarding the reduction of the city council from 12 to 8 members.

WEST ONTARIO MEN

The representative debating team of the University of Western Ontario was last night at the end of the Arts 27-28 debate series. The team was chosen to meet the Oxford debating team
when they come to London during their Canadian tour, and includes the following: James R. Allen, Arts 27, a student of Huron College; Walter E.
Bagnall, of the same year and college;
Guy G. Hauch, Meds. 31, and Frank
D. Turville, Arts 28.

None of these debaters are London
men, but all are residents of Western Ontario. Mr. Allen comes from Wing-ham, Mr. Bagnall is of Irish birth, having come from that country about six years ago and since living in this province. Mr. Bagnall holds the important position of speaker of the legislature of the "U. C. T.," who is president of his class, comes from Waterloo, and Mr. Turville, who is a member of the team, is a student of the law at the University of Western Ontario.

It is of interest to note that two of the four debaters are freshmen, in their first year, Mr. Hauch and Mr.
Turville.

Very few of the men are very prominent in literary circles at the University, having splendid deliveries, good speaking voices, and stage appearances.

These debaters will meet a number of local teams before the imperial debate. A week from Saturday they will debate with a team from the Kiwanis club at the Central auditorium, and after that they will meet other teams.
All these debates will be on the same subject, "Resolved that Western civilization is becoming a degenerating influence."

In the last of the inter-year debates
the team from which the representative team was chosen, last night, Arts 27, represented by James R. Allen, P.
J. McGinnis, and Arts 28, including Lyle A. Meredith, R. D. O'Brien, and Mayer Lerner.

Stuart Brownlee occupied the chair
during the debate, and Prof. Tamblin proved an excellent critic for the judges.

With Lawson & Jones.
Mr. Gidley has been connected with the lithographing and advertising business for the past 25 years,
and at the present time is the representative of the Lawson & Jones
company. He has been a valued member of this firm for more than nine years, and previous to that was associated with the London Printing Company for some fifteen years.

Mr. Gidley relates the story of the old lady who inquired of the vicar
"How did you begin to be a vicar?"
His answer was "I started at the bottom and worked up."

"And so it was with myself, and so it is with every travelling salesman, he is obliged to start at the bottom and work up," remarked Mr. Gidley.

"He puts in his early days in the shop of hard knocks, and he gets somewhere. He is somewhat like the iceman, who gets the cold shoulder everywhere he calls."

He has a great many hardships to contend with, but he faces them cheerfully, and, rain or shine, is invariably on the job.

"The United Commercial Travellers Association has filled a great need among the travellers of London, by bringing them together fraternally and socially. In the very near future our local organization is going to prove a valuable asset to the city. It has always been a charitable and philanthropic enterprise, and has strongly supported the O. C. T. A. in London's annual welfare drive."

"Our greatly increased membership has made it imperative that we secure more spacious and up-to-date quarters.
Consequently we have launched a building fund campaign, through which we are going to build a travellers' home in the city, and will not be satisfied until our objective has been reached."

The regular monthly meeting of the U. C. T. A. will be held in their rooms tomorrow afternoon. Senior Secy.
Fred S. Oakden will occupy the chair.

The travellers' advance roll opened at the city hall yesterday evening. A few more were cast, but the number of votes is expected to be swelled during today and tomorrow.

The ladies auxiliary of the U. C. T. A.
is holding its first anniversary tomorrow night, which is to take the form of a birthday banquet. Supper commencing at 6:30 o'clock, at the rooms in the Alma block, will be followed by a splendid musical program. Mrs. Angus Morrison is convener of the social committee, while the program committee consists of Mrs. Percy Blackmore, Mrs.
Elizabeth King, Mrs. Fred Hess, Mrs.
Reeill and Mrs. McCallum. The hostesses of the evening.

A course in salesmanship and marketing, open to all commercial travellers and young men wishing to better their present positions was opened last week
under the auspices of the Ontario Commercial Travellers Association. Lectures
by Professor E. H. Morrow of Western University are held in the association rooms every Friday night.

In commenting on the success of the O. C. T. A., which has a membership of 900 in London, Secretary George T. Hair has the following to offer: "This association has every hope that the future will provide many opportunities for the continuance of its usefulness, not alone
to its members, but to the large army
of commercial travellers of Canada.
Many reforms are still possible. As conditions change our outlook must be ever broader. It is our duty to be more progressive, looking forward to being of even more service to both the traveller and his firm."

WRIT FOR $310.
A writ has been issued in county court by Winnet, Moorehead and Neely on behalf of B. S. Merridell against Robert and MacLod of Port Stanley.
The claim of the plaintiffs, $310, is for balance due on a boat purchased from
Mr. Merridell by the defendants.

CHARACTER ANALYSIS IS EXPLAINED TO LIONS

"Character analysis is one of the greatest factors in successful salesmanship," declared R. C. Oagenais last evening when he addressed the Lions at their weekly dinner meeting at the Tennishouse house. "Character science begins with primitive man, and has continued throughout the ages until now
it is a recognized science."

Dr. H. A. Stevenson and Carlton
Wells gave an impromptu talk. Dr.
Stevenson outlined the possibilities of a great summer playground in the vicinity of James Bay and the wealth lying in northern Ontario, and has contributed a sum of between $50
and $75 to be used for charitable purposes at Christmas.

The Lions club instrumental pursued the evening's music.
A vote of thanks was moved by Cub Thomas and tendered to the speaker
by Cub Parsons, who was aided in the absence of President Gil-landers.

Team Captains Report Big Donations to Beck Memorial

Workers Turn In $200 From London Kiwanis Club and $300
From Red Cross Society—Canvass For Funds Still Goes On.

Generous donations, totaling more than $500, were received yesterday by team captains of the Beck memorial club contributed $200, and $300 was received from Mrs. Ronald Harris on behalf of the Red Cross society.

The workers met yesterday afternoon
at the chamber of commerce and reported satisfactory progress in canvassing all parts of the city. No stone will be left unturned by those actively engaged in the campaign to have London reach its full objective of $75,000.
The card list for prospective subscribers was thoroughly gone over at last night's meeting. All who have not yet subscribed will be personally canvassed. A total of more than $1,500 has been received through the medium of cards recently sent out to all hydro-consumers in the city, although the response to this form of subscription has not been as great as expected.

Three chapters of the Independent Order of the Daughters of the Empire are conducting canvasses among their members, promising a large donation.
The campaign work will be continued
throughout the week, the team captains having volunteered to give freely of their time and energy to insure the memorial endowment of Queen Alexandra sanatorium.

ORCHESTRA SERVICE AT EGERTON ST. PLANNED

Sunday School's Musical Organization Is Counted One of the Best in City.

Next Sunday evening is set aside by the Egerton street Baptist church as Orchestra Sunday. The usual evening services will have as an added attraction the music of the Sunday school orchestra directed by Paul Saché.

The Egerton street Sunday school orchestra is one of the leading organizations of the kind in the city, both from the standpoint of Sunday school services, and from the entertainment afforded the public of the vicinity in their splendid musical programs.

In 1919 the first attempt was made to organize this orchestra. It was found that there were a number of pupils in the school who were musically inclined and who would make a very good orchestra if properly trained. Since then the school, especially as a leader in the services of the church, has been growing school, which now averages 400 pupils a week.

The following program will be presented next Sunday evening by the regular orchestra: Festival march, by
J. S. Zamecnik; Ora pro Nobis, by M.
Puccinelli; melody in F, by Rubenstein; the Palms by Fauré; Intermzzo
steim; the Cavaliera Rusticana by Mascagni; Calvary by Rodney, and the Priests' march from Athalia by Men-delsohn.

GRENFELL CLUB SUPPER.
The members of the Grenfell club of Metropolitan United church entertained
the teachers and officers of the Sunday school last night at the supper hour.
Bruce Hunter, the pastor, presiding.
Activities of the Sunday school were discussed and Mrs. Cartwright gave an interesting report of the Sunday school convention held recently in Hamilton.

POSTOFFICE STAFF
APPEALS TO PUBLIC

Much Assistance Can Be Given
by Mailing Parcels Now and Tying Them Securely

Now that Christmas is approaching the staff of the local postoffice is preparing for the annual clash that ranks
in their minds with the turmoil of a dominion championship football game.

The public, sitting in the stands, are likely to criticize the postoffice team if they make a fumble at this critical period. But co-operation, not criticism, is what the boys in blue need just now.

And if the public will do their part the postoffice team will surely come through. The postoffice offers good advice.

First, do your Christmas mailing now.
Today's the day. Two parcels mailed now are more easily handled than one a couple of weeks hence. Mark your stuff
"Not to be opened until Christmas" and shoot it through.

Overseas money orders must be overseen to be of any use. Mail steamers
do not cross the Atlantic every day.
And when the money order gets there
it must go through the exchange office.
Hence the need for prompt action now

Audience Shivers As Candidates Talk in Empress Avenue School.

SMITH IS HECKLED Forced To Sit Down When Audience Refuses To Listen
Any Longer.

Inspired probably by a real stage in the auditorium of Empress Avenue school, candidates for municipal office treated a fair-sized audience to some fluent oratory at a meeting held there last night.

There were 33 speakers, not counting the hecklers, and the flow of oratory lasted from 7:30 until nearly 11, by which time the audience had dwindled to six, including the reporters. In defence of the audience it must be related that there was an entire absence of heat in the building, and even the heated remarks of some of the speakers in that connection could not modify the zero atmosphere. Jared Vining, candidate for re-election to the public utilities commission stated that whoever was responsible for the lack of heat was deserving of the severest re-bure. "To ask an audience to sit here with absolutely no heat in the radiators on a cold winter night is a

SIR JOHN WILLISON, of Toronto, who declares Canada is to see its greatest expansion and production during the next 25 years.

Attentive Hearing.

Despite adverse conditions, the meeting was an interesting one. Both candidates for mayor got an attentive hearing. The mayor was subjected to some heckling, but the intending heckler failed to make his voice heard distinctly, and was finally shouted down by the audience when it developed that whatever he was complaining of took place in 1922, when the mayor was not in office.

The liveliest passages of the evening were reserved for Jared Vining, who was subjected to a crossfire of questions on water rates, and especially the service charge.

He had remarked that the utilities commission was not a tax-paying body, but on the contrary helped to keep the tax rate down by turning over to the council every year a surplus from their operations. Last year the commission had a deficit of $16,000, he said, because the revenue under the new water system had not proven sufficient to meet operating expenses.

Mention of meters brought hecklers into the arena. The speaker was asked why the service charge was put, to which he answered, "We had to get the money. That's the answer. Our duty is to charge for water what it costs to produce and distribute it, and it doesn't matter whether you call it a service charge or not. You're not paying any more for your water with the service charge than you would be if the rates were raised to meet the costs."

Save Much Water.

One result from the meter system already apparent, he said, was the saving of 1,000,000 gallons a day formerly thrown away. Thousands of consumers are not using a third as much water as they formerly did, and the careful consumer is no longer helping to pay for the waste of his prodigal neighbor.

Philip Pocock, candidate for re-election to the commission, dealt chiefly with hydro, although he touched briefly upon the water problem. He was not interrupted.

When hydro first came to London there were only 2,700 homes in the city that could afford electric light, and it cost them ten cents per kilowatt hour. Now 17,500 homes have not only electric light but labor-saving appliances of all kinds at a cost of one and a half cents per kilowatt hour. Buffalo, twelve miles from Niagara, pays seven cents per kilowatt hour. No other city in Ontario gets cheaper power either for light or power purposes than London, he declared. He thought the utilities commission had done well for the citizens.

C. R. Smith, the following speaker, thought differently on the subject. The utilities commission, according to his version, was a "plutocratic affair run by men of great wealth," while the children of the workingmen are going without bread and butter in order that their parents may pay the service charge on their water supply. "They say they are the friends of the workman, but I want to tell you that they recently bought a dishing machine which will put fifty of you men out of a job," he said.

Smith Sits Down.
He went on to relate that the commission had spent thousands in the drilling of a certain well, but got not one ounce of water, but Jared Vining pointed out that the well was delivering water.

ing 350,000 gallons of water per day into the city mains. Further remarks by the speaker were unintelligible as the audience, tiring of the performance, besought him to be seated.

Board of education candidates, as usual, fared badly by having to wait until the end of the lengthy program before getting a chance to speak. Trustee Rev. R. D. Moss said it was no wonder the board had refused to pay their share of the cost of the meetings, since they never had a share in the meetings. An abominable system, he termed it. Other board of education candidates who spoke briefly included Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, Mrs. John Rose, George F. Copeland, Gordon H. Tennant and F. H. Curran.

The nurses' home bylaw was ably presented by Dr. C. C. Clegg of Victoria hospital, and Miss McIntosh made an effective plea for the bylaw authorizing extensions to Victoria home and Aged People's home.

Bottrill Speaks.

Ald. Bottrill, speaking in his own behalf for the first time in this campaign, received an ovation when he referred to the "Ridout street bridge which I closed." "She should be closed, and closed tight," he added when the applause subsided.

Other aldermanic candidates, who spoke included Ald. John Ashton, J. A. E. Braden, Ald. Carswell, Ald. Tom Clift, John A. Croden, Ald. Paul Doig, Dickson F. Glass, Frank Gray, George Hayman, Ald. F. B. Kilbourne, W. J. Kilpatrick, Ald. Linnell, W. C. Morrison, W. L. Sandrett, Ald. Ed. Smith, Tom Terry, F. J. Timbrell, Allan Towle, Harry R. K. Tozer were an efficient chairman at the meeting.

Bull Pays Price of Popularity

King of the Fairies From Wales' Ranch Sells For $1,050.

Associated Press Dispatch.
Chicago, Dec. 3.—"Champion short-horn bull owned by H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, and also grand champion at the Royal Winter show in Toronto this year, is now the property of Frank C. Baker, Kansas City, Mo. This famous bull, King of the Fairies, was sold for the astonishingly low price of $1,050 at the auction sale of short-horn cattle at the exposition this afternoon.

The announcement that King of the Fairies was to be sold this afternoon attracted a capacity crowd to the sales building. The price of popularity was the principal cause for the low price, for since its arrival from Toronto last week thousands have inspected the animal, causing it to stand up continuously, and therefore, when it entered the sales ring today the bull limped and showed every sign of exhaustion.

Special to The Advertiser by Staff Correspondent.

Forest, Dec. 3.—A parcel containing a skunk's skin was recently thrown off a mail car here because the mail clerks are not issued with gas masks and could not stand the high pressure odor. It was innocently brought from the depot platform with the mail bags to the postoffice. The warmth of the postoffice soon brought out all the perfumes of Araby and the staff vacated the place until the parcel was located and taken out. It was mailed back to the sending office next day.

COLD SCHOOLS SUBJECT OF PROBE

Reason For Frigid Temperature at Campaign Meeting Investigated.

Trustee B. N. Campbell has not yet completed the investigation which he promised the audience of ratepayers at the Empress avenue school meeting last night concerning the absence of heat in the auditorium.

"I went down to the boiler-room at the school," remarked Mr. Campbell this morning, "and I found a heavy head of steam on, but the radiators in the auditorium itself were nearly all cold. The janitor of the school advised me that he has difficulty in heating that one room in the school, but I have promised the electors that the room will be thoroughly heated for the polling on election day. I intend to have an investigation made into the whole situation and, if there is anything wrong with the heating system, to have the board correct it."

Questioned about the possibility of difficulty in heating the auditorium, Mr. Campbell, superintendent of buildings and repairs for the board of education, stated that some changes in his original plans were made by the board, eliminating approximately $2,000 of equipment or arrangements called for by his plans for the heating and ventilating of the auditorium. Mr. Campbell stated that the auditorium radiators are on a separate main from the remainder of the rooms of the school and explained that the board had arranged the heating system for school and gymnasium purposes, not for community hall purposes, adding, however, that the radiators in the school hall could be installed at any time to bring about the desired results.

ADVANCE VOTES TOTAL 32

Advance poll votes in the municipal election for railroadmen and travellers, being held at the city hall numbered 31 at 2 o'clock this afternoon. John C. MacCallum, D.D., stated. Yesterday's total was 21, and but 10 votes were cast this morning.

Last year 300 votes were cast at the advance poll, and it is expected that there will be a big rush of travellers tomorrow.

Indigestion

When chronic, is best relieved by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

In most cases, indigestion results from torpid liver and sluggish bowel action. Tablets for the stomach and aids to digestion fail in this chronic form of indigestion. You must get the filtering and excretory organs right before you can expect permanent relief and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Chronic indigestion is a very common condition. On this account many suffer for years not realizing that relief is at hand in the form of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Headaches, biliousness, spells of constipation and diarrhoea are among the accompanying ailments. What a relief it would be to be free of this condition which makes one feel so miserable and it is so easy by using this well-known regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

British Government Refuses To Aid Discredited Doctors

Refuses To Believe Medical Council Went Beyond Their Rights in Expelling Specialists Who Wrote Articles—Actions of Practitioners Condemned by Royal Society of Arts.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Dec. 4.—The government has announced that there is no reason to believe that the general medical council acted capriciously or unreasonably in striking off its registry some nose and throat specialists who had written newspaper articles and therefore that the further legislation for reinstatement of these specialists is unnecessary. The criticism of the council, which was given fresh impetus by its latest action, still continues, however.

The Royal Society of Arts, at a meeting last evening, condemned the oft-repeated contention of the British Medical Association that practitioners sending patients to opticians for eye tests are guilty of malpractice and professional misconduct. It was pointed out at the meeting that many doctors have admitted their inferior ability compared to qualified opticians.

The ministry of health declines to receive a deputation of opticians on the matter, although the latter's request for a hearing has been supported by Lloyd George and Arthur Henderson among others.

MAY INVOKE COURTS OR ARBITRATE CLAIMS

of this city welcomed the delegates to the convention on behalf of the board of governors of the university of which he is a member. The shorthand record of his remarks on that occasion follows:

Known in September.
"The faculty of medicine, since it moved into the new medical school building four years ago, has added materially to its reputation. The medical course is now six years. We have two very bright young men, Dr. James and Dr. Laughton, who are working on what we call liver extract, for the lessening of what the public call high blood pressure. Last Friday they were trying out this extract in Victoria hospital and in the case of one woman brought the blood pressure down from 235 to 225, which lasted for five hours, and then, of course, other steps had to be taken."

"Those of you who know anything about medical matters will realize that we are working along safe lines, and hope to get somewhere. These young men are working under Professor McCallum, who is a son of A. B. McCallum of Toronto, and a nephew of Dr. Hugh McCallum, who passed away here a short time ago. We are in great hopes we will get somewhere to benefit humanity."

Dr. Reason, interviewed by The Advertiser this morning, was reluctant to add anything to the statement quoted. "Of course I have my ideas on the subject," he said, "but I would prefer that any statement should come from Mr. Philip Pocock, chairman of the medical committee of the board of governors."

Dr. Reason's remarks, made on Sept. 29 of this year, indicate clearly that the board of governors of the local university were under no illusions as to the importance of the discovery made in the laboratories of the local medical school, and as Mr. Pocock intimated that they will do everything possible to insure that justice is done the two young discoverers.

TWO CLAIMS FILED.

Special To The Advertiser.

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—In the event of conflict being declared between the applications to the federal patents branch for patents of liver extracts, filed recently, the applicants may have recourse either to arbitration or to the exchequer court of Canada.

In the meantime, by reason of a provision of the patent act, no information respecting the applications is available. That provision stipulates that "all specifications, drawings, models, disclaimers, judgments and other papers except caveat and except those filed in connection with applications for patents which are still pending shall be open to the inspection of the public."

Application for a patent of "the extract obtainable from the liver of vertebrata with anti-pressure qualities, and the process of preparing the same," has been filed by Ridout and Mayhew, 155 Yonge street, Toronto, on behalf of Dr. W. J. MacCallum.

May Go To Arbitration.

The act provides that "in case of conflicting applications for any patent the same shall be submitted to the arbitration of three or five persons, two of whom shall be chosen by the applicants one by each and the third of whom shall be chosen by the commissioner or the decision or award of such arbitrators or any two of them delivered to the commissioner in writing and subscribed by them or any concerns the granting of the patent. If, however, prior to such time as may be fixed by the commissioner for the appointment of arbitrators or allowed by him to enable the conflicting applicants to unite in appointing arbitrators, any one of the conflicting applicants takes proceedings in the exchequer court for the determination of the conflict, no further proceedings shall be taken thereon under this section and the said court shall have jurisdiction in the premises, but no such proceedings shall be taken in the exchequer court after the expiration of such time."

PREMIER INTERESTED.

Special To The Advertiser.

Toronto, Dec. 4.—With reference to the dispute as to the priority of the discovery of the liver extract treatment for high blood pressure, the Western University (London) authorities claim that Dr. W. J. MacCallum of St. Catharines first learned of the extract when he became associated with Dr. A. James and Dr. W. B. Laughton at Western University. Premier Ferguson was asked today whether he would appoint a commission to settle the matter. He replied: "It has not come to me officially. I know nothing except what I read in the newspapers, and I do not propose to get entangled in the controversy."

WRIT FOR $304.

A writ was issued in county court by Wm. H. Moorehead & Neely on behalf of P. E. Garver, grocer, of this city, against Ernest Rice, also of London.

Plaintiff claims $304.97 for groceries sold and delivered to the defendant between Aug. 17 and Nov. 27.

"power," pursued Mr. Buchanan, "naturally will come up in the event of a shortage. When the commission is asked to provide a house or factory there is practically no control over the increase of power in that service. It is impossible for the commission to say to a man he is using more power than a year ago for instance, and that he must use less. Then there are new customers to be considered, because when a man has built a house or a factory, it would be very difficult, if not impossible, for the commission to refuse power after the house or factory has been completed."

"Still another thing is that our city council and our chamber of commerce are always endeavoring to bring new industries to the city, and how can we hope to secure these if there is always the spectre of a power shortage looming in the future? The industries would be more likely to go to Quebec, where there is abundant power, than to come, though the rates there, particularly for domestic consumers, are from three to four times higher than those in Ontario."

Light Most Important.

"When Mr. Magrath visited London recently, he asked my opinion as to the classes of power should first be restricted in the event of a shortage. In answering the chairman of the provincial commission, I grouped the uses of power in order of priority, as follows: first—lighting of all kinds; second—turning of wheels, embracing the wheels of industry, transportation and household machinery; third—household cooking in water heating, and in industrial heating, embracing electric furnaces for smelting of metal and electrical ovens for cooking of manufactured goods; fourth—lighting in public schools, buildings, concerning which the school board has expressed a word of nothing but the highest praise for our work."

"Last winter our firm built three houses on Huron street and spent $45,000 to provide employment when there was none to be had. We have a playground on Regent street, with two tennis courts and softball diamond for everybody to come and go on as they like, and it has never cost a cent. I have always done my best for the city of London and its laboring class, and then we have these labor who see me into having nothing else to do but to stand up and criticize me and find fault and say mean and malicious things against a man's reputation. I should just like to ask Mr. Hessel, Mr. Tice, Mr. Thorne and what they have done for humanity, or what they have done in comparison with what I have done for London labor?"

MOORE WELL RECEIVED AT FACTORY MEETINGS

Mayoralty Candidate Addresses Employees of McCormick and Kellogg Plants.

John M. Moore, mayoralty candidate in the civic elections Monday, addressed three meetings at noon today, two at the McCormick Manufacturing Company and one at the Kellogg Toasted Cornflakes plant. Mr. Moore was well received at all three meetings.

At McCormick's, the candidate outlined his past municipal experience and declared that if elected he was prepared to give practically all his time to London and the best interests of the city.

Speaking at the Kellogg plant, Mr. Moore stated that he had been interested in the plant since its inception and helped to organize the London company and keep it in this city. He said he was proud to be in the city and that he would do all in his power to give the city the attention it deserved. He appealed to every voter to use his or her franchise on Monday.

WAGES HIGHER HERE THAN OTHER CITIES

School Trustee and Local Contractor Quote Figures Refuting Low Pay Charges.

Neither Trustee W. J. Murray nor John Putterbaugh, general contractor for the new Black collegiate institute in East London, intend allowing the trades and labor council to get away with a thing detrimental to London's reputation as a center for paying good building wages, or to Mr. Putterbaugh's own reputation as a fair and honest contractor.

Mr. Murray yesterday differed with R. H. Hessel, president of the local carpenters' union that London has the reputation for paying the lowest wages in the building trades in the province. Today Mr. Murray gives figures for the wages paid in London, comparing them with wages paid in Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver. He states that contractors in London are paying stone-masons, stone-cutters, tile setters, bricklayers and plasterers, all at the rate of $1.00 per hour; plumbers at 80c per hour; carpenters 70c to 90c per hour; common laborers, 50c to 60c per hour; and skilled laborers, 65c to 70c per hour. These figures Mr. Murray shows, in comparison with the figures published by the Contract Record and Engineering Review, are considerably higher in most instances than are being paid in other cities at the present time.

Mr. Putterbaugh, declaring that he has always endeavored to do what is fair, warmly denies the charges that have been made by members of the labor council concerning his treatment of his employees. Mr. Putterbaugh did the same thing on the Empire building job, when he paid his men from their work and showed his full pay sheet to prove it, that he is paying his common laborers 50 cents per hour on the collegiate job, and 60 cents on the other jobs. He says he has never paid less than 20 cents an hour as hinted and inferred at the last trades and labor council meeting.

Mr. Putterbaugh, who has been on the job for 60 cents per hour has had his papers for nearly five years, while the man, a cripple, formerly in the employ of the London street railway, engaged in running the electric hoisting machine, was London street railway's engineer. Mr. Putterbaugh is paying his boss carpenter 95 cents per hour, and his carpenters from 50 to 90 cents per hour.

"I could have gotten all the common laborers I wanted on this job for 40 cents an hour," he said, "but I would have paid them 50 cents an hour. Our firm always pays the highest wages, and we did the same on the Empire building, where we paid the public school building, concerning which the school board has expressed a word of nothing but the highest praise for our work."

"Last winter our firm built three houses on Huron street and spent $45,000 to provide employment when there was none to be had. We have a playground on Regent street, with two tennis courts and softball diamond for everybody to come and go on as they like, and it has never cost a cent. DR. REAMAN TELLS OF BOWMANVILLE SCHOOL

Kiwanians Hear Address on Work Among Underprivileged Boys.

"The Care of Under-Privileged Boys" was the subject of Dr. G. L. Reaman, S.A. B.P., D.P., superintendent of the Boys Training school at Bowmanville, at the Kiwanis luncheon today.

Dr. Reaman discussed the plans, projects and achievements of the school at some length. The Kiwanians are particularly interested in this school for much of their time and money goes to further its growth.

The speaker particularly emphasized the fact that the school was not an industrial school, but was a reformatory for delinquents. It is a residential school for underprivileged, and in some cases over-privileged, boys, who needed adjusting into their proper line of life.

"Many of these boys are victims of environment and family life," declared Dr. Reaman, "and the school is a place where they can be reformed, and not on the boy when he sins." Dr. Reaman went on to outline the work of the school, placing special emphasis on the fact that the boys were not treated as criminals, but as students. "The most essential part of our work is the education of these boys. We realize they have no love of books, so we teach them to do things rather than to theorize. We have machine shops and workshops of different kinds to keep him interested, and to send him into the world a citizen that will prove a credit to his community."

SEEKING TO SAVE ARM OF ACCIDENT VICTIM

Condition of Wilfred Laing Shows Improvement—Was Injured Yesterday.

Wilfred Laing, who was severely injured at the London garment plant at 333 Dundas street yesterday afternoon while attempting to clean out a drying machine, and was removed to Victoria hospital, is improving. It was found unnecessary to amputate his arm, which had been terribly mangled in the machine.

The accident occurred when Laing, a driver for the Garment Care, was working on a large drying machine. He wrapped a towel around his arm and was endeavoring to clean the machine. The towel became caught and his arm was drawn in. It was terribly mangled and the bone fractured in two places above the elbow.

At the time of the affair the bone protruded four inches through his torn clothing. Employees at the plant rendered first aid to him till the doctor had him removed to the hospital.

Dr. C. H. Reason and Edwin Seaborn attended the injured man at a late hour last night in an attempt to save his arm.

"MONEY OR FREEDOM," RULE AT POLICE COURT

Londoner Fined on Traffic Charge Confused When He Hears of Jail.

A Londoner, fined $10 and costs in police court this morning on a highway traffic act charge, extracted all his money from his pockets to settle for the fine, and found to his consternation he was short by several dollars.

It is a cash and carry business that police court does. There are no easy payment terms. Checks are not acceptable. Even the wealthiest receive no credit from a mercenary court. The police business slogan might be "pay or go to jail."

"Will you take a check?" the man inquired of the court.

"No."

"May I pay tomorrow, then?"

"No."

"Well, what will I do?" he asked. "I have the money in the bank, and most of it here in cash, but how am I going to get the rest of it?"

"You'll have to put in jail until such time as one of your friends could come and pay the fine, or pay the remainder of your fine," Chief Birrell informed, and with this declaration a constable stepped forward to place the bewildered man behind the cell bars.

But as he was led away, Chief Birrell took compassion, and laughingly asked one of his officers to take the check to the man's bank, that the man might gain instant freedom.

"You should come here prepared," the chief chuckled. "We conduct business on a business basis here, your money or your freedom."

We have machine shops and workshops of different kinds to keep him interested, and to send him into the world a citizen that will prove a credit to his community."

Russ Wright was the booster for the day, and the prizes were won by Ed. Hays, Ed. Shuttleworth and "Bill" Beattie.

A. M. Belding of the Times-Journal, St. John N. B., was among the visitors, and made a short address on the exports and imports of Canada, especially appealing to the exporters to use Canadian ports for their trade.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT INVADING STORES

Seasonable Window Displays Making Appearance Earlier Than Usual This Year.

The spirit of Christmas is spreading rapidly in down-town stores. During the early part of this week, Smallman & Ingram, erected a beautiful 15-foot wreath in front of their store. This huge symbol of Christmas is well lighted by two powerful searchlights from either side, while scattered through the cedar are many colored lights.

The City Gas Company has a real Christmas window. On the east side a wonderful live turkey struts about the window. A sign in the corner bears these words: "One of my brothers given with every Calumet gas range." The center window bears a gorgeously decorated Christmas tree, while the entrances on either side are decked with holly wreaths.

Every year, most stores suffer from a grand rush at the last minute, but when stores come to the front early in December with decorations of this kind the Christmas spirit proves contagious, which tends to carry out the old suggestion of shopping early.

ARTS AT WESTERN NOW HAVE SAY IN ATHLETICS

Two Representatives to Directorate Named to End Difficult Position.

At a meeting of the student body of the University of Western Ontario at noon today, Hector Stewart and Miss Gertrude Moore were unanimously appointed representatives of the arts college to the athletic directorate.

The meeting was a solution to the unpleasant situation in which arts students found themselves in the beginning of the term in not having any legal representative to the athletic directorate.

Cecil Synder, prefect, on behalf of the student body, asked for an explanation why the arts representatives, who had been appointed by the assembly, had been overlooked at the last meeting.

Dr. L. W. Fritchett, new president of the directorate, stated that he was extremely sorry the arts college representatives could not be given a vote in that meeting, but said that according to the constitution they could not vote because they had been appointed in an irregular manner. Chief Birrell took compassion, and laughingly asked one of his officers to take the check to the man's bank, that the man might gain instant freedom.

"You should come here prepared," the chief chuckled. "We conduct business on a business basis here, your money or your freedom."

CANADIAN ARRESTED IN U.S. AS CZAR OF RUM RUNNERS

"Bill" Dyer, Montreal Sportsman, Held as Prize Spoil of Gigantic New York Raid—Eighteen Ocean-Going Vessels Involved—Dry Workers Think Rum Row Broken.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Dec. 3.—Half a hundred prohibition agents, deputy United States marshals and special patrolmen swooped down today on the offices of a rum ring, which, prohibition agents said, was the largest in the history of prohibition, and was "the backbone of rum row."

A syndicate which controlled 18 ocean steamers in the rum trade, bribed coastguard officers by the wholesale, and maintained a secret service of its own for watching the movements of federal officers, was said to have been broken up by the raiders, whose first round-up of the day netted 20 men, and whose principal captive was "Bill" Dyer, alleged head of the syndicate. The ring's activities were said to be responsible for the bringing in of millions of dollars' worth of liquor into this country annually. Dyer, arraigned before Judge Goddard on a specific charge of conspiracy last July to bring 4,038 cases of liquor into the country hidden in the bunkers of the S.S. Augusta, was held in $40,000 bail, although

Assistant United States Attorney Stichman asked it be set at $75,000. United States Attorney Buckner said he had been informed that Dyer was part owner of the Mount Royal race track in Montreal and the Coney Island race track at Cincinnati.

Immediately after the raid, Major Walton A. Green, chief assistant of General Lincoln C. Andrews, despatched the following message to his chief: "Beg to report capture of Dyer and his principal assistants. Forty-one warrants out, and biggest round-up in history of prohibition enforcement still in progress. Splendid help by Foster."

Foster is in charge of the local enforcement officers. Indicating Dyer, Mr. Stichman said, "This man is the leading figure against which the energies of the prohibition department in this case have been directed. By him various coastguard officials have been bribed. In the Augusta case his agents did the bribing, and the vessel was allowed to proceed up the river to Yonkers. For more than two years coast-guard boats have been in the pay of this defendant."

Settle This Controversy.

It is unfortunate that a discovery so important as effective treatment for high blood pressure should, at its very inception, become involved in controversy regarding its discoverer. Dr. W. J. Macdonald of St. Catharines, in a paper read before the Academy of Medicine in Toronto, told of experiments he carried on in this line, and the inference is that he is the discoverer of the treatment employed.

Against this is the statement of the dean and members of the faculty of the medical school of the University of Western Ontario that the extracts forming the basis of this treatment resulted from the research work of Dr. A. A. James and Dr. N. B. Laughton carried on in the laboratories of the school in this city. It is claimed that Dr. Macdonald secured his first samples of the extract from London.

If the discovery turns out to be as important in the field of curative medical practice as reports so far secured indicate, it is essential in the interests of medical history as well as in order that justice may be done to individuals that the question of priority of discovery be definitely established. The time to do this is now, while the salient points in the controversy are fresh in the minds of those who can give the necessary testimony, and while there is a public interest in the discovery that will sanction impartial inquiry.

It is quite evident that no conclusion that will carry with it the seal of finality can be reached by a continuance of the present controversy. Efforts through the Ontario Medical Association executive, and by articles in the Medical Association's Journal setting forth the priority claims of each side to the controversy, have failed to bring a settlement.

One way is open. Have the premier of Ontario, as minister of education, appoint a commission which would have full powers to take evidence, examine witnesses and reach conclusions which would be impartial and accepted for all time as authoritative. It is certain that the medical school of the University of Western Ontario would welcome such an investigation. It is not asking anything more than simple justice for the school here and for Dr. James and Dr. Laughton.

What Does The Free Press Think?

The London Free Press maintains an ominous silence regarding the campaign being waged by Hon. Arthur Meighen in Quebec. Beyond pointing in its news columns to the fact "Bagot welcomes Arthur Meighen" it has no opinion.

So far it has nothing to say for or against Mr. Meighen's Quebec policy that calls for a general election before Canada decides on what stand it shall take in future wars. It has not reminded Mr. Meighen that his statement in Toronto on September 23, 1922, is very much at variance with his address at Acton Vale, Quebec, on December 1, 1925.

The Free Press did have very decided views on the matter in September, 1922, when the inquiry from Mr. Churchill and Mr. Lloyd George was sent to Premier King asking if Canada desired to send a contingent to the Near East. While the prime minister was calling his cabinet and securing by cable the opinions of those who were abroad, the Free Press was advising the course of action he should take. On September 18, 1922, it said:

"While the Dominion is the most pacific country in the world and asks today for nothing but continued peace and prosperity, yet Canadians will be prepared to show in substantial form if there is to be trouble that they are back of the motherland in suppressing the one great anti-human specimen of humanity." To quote Gladstone again, Hon. Mackenzie King, as prime minister, need have no hesitation in informing the authorities overseas to this effect. "There will be no politics in Ontario if the necessity is such that hostilities must be started."

The Free Press urged that the prime minister send his answer. There would be no politics about it. The next day, September 19, the Free Press was even more urgent in its advice, and said:

"In the opinion of the Free Press there is no doubt what should be the answer of Hon. Mackenzie King—it should be the complete and wholehearted assurance to Great Britain that Canada stands behind her in the present crisis and is ready to forward help if the situation is such that aid is required. Any other answer or any procrastination would not represent the spirit of the great mass of patriotic people who so loyally stood fast during the long, dark and trying days of the great war."

That is a very plain, forceful statement. There is in it no suggestion about consulting cabinet ministers, calling parliament or holding an election. It was the duty of the prime minister to take it on his own responsibility to speak for the Dominion of Canada.

On September 20 the Free Press went farther in developing this idea of the premier sending word at once on his own initiative. It said: "Sir Robert Borden took this position in 1914. Before war was actually declared he had informed the British government that Canada would support her in case of hostilities. Sir Robert took the responsibility and then called parliament to endorse his action and to decide upon the size and character of the expedition. Mr. King should follow his example."

After Hon. Arthur Meighen delivered his address in Toronto on September 23, 1922, the Free Press approved of his position entirely, and stated he was right in his opinion that: "When Britain's message came then Canada should have said 'Ready, aye ready, we stand by you.'"

What does a paper which had such outspoken views in 1922 think today when Mr. Meighen in his Quebec campaign says these views were all wrong? What does it think of Mr. Meighen's political somersault, whereby he has now as his Quebec policy, as printed on the front page of the Free Press on December 2:

"However, if a crisis should arise in this country in which our liberty might be menaced I declare that so long as I shall be in power in this country no troops shall be sent out of the country without the people being consulted."

The Free Press had a voice in 1922 when it was urging Premier King to commit the country to military action without consulting cabinet or parliament; it had a voice to approve of Mr. Meighen's criticism of Mr. King because he did not take such action. Today it is silent while Mr. Meighen wows Quebec by promise of a course of action which both Mr. Meighen and the Free Press denounced in 1922.

Crowding the Buses.

Bus operators in London have been warned that they must not crowd their conveyances, and four of them have been fined because they did so.

It is not such an easy matter to enforce a similar rule on the street railway, which comes, according to local authorities under the railway board.

There is a clause in bylaw 916, the agreement which gives the street railway its right to operate in London, which says:

"Cars shall not be crowded (a comfortable number of passengers for each class of car shall from time to time be determined by the city engineer and approved by council), and no greater number of passengers shall be carried upon or permitted to be in any car than the number so authorized, if any passenger on board the car objects and calls the attention of the conductor to the crowding."

It will be a long time before there is a complaint about overcrowding under that ruling. When cars are crowded it is because people want to get home. Can you imagine a passenger in the car going to the conductor and telling him there are too many passengers on board? What would the conductor do? Where would he make a start in his weeding-out process?

In view of this, why all the commotion about a few extra passengers on a bus? Let's get home.

Making Communists.

Communist members of the German Reichstag are prepared to fight the arrangement whereby the ex-kaiser and his relatives come into possession of estates and moneys valued at three billion gold marks.

There is neither sense nor reason for making such distribution, and it is just such instances of handing over gold and treasure in such heaps to those who are already too well provided for that makes dissatisfied men turn to communism or any other ism that will voice their protest.

Worrying About the Weather.

A correspondent wants to know if this paper has heard the report, or seen it, that this is going to be the coldest winter in the history of Canada. We have both heard it and seen it.

This is the fourth day of December and the elstern that stands at the back door has not been frozen yet. So far as we've noticed, the comb on the speckled hen hasn't been touched with frost yet, and she's roosted on a low branch of the apple tree most of the time. Four weeks from today will be the first of January. Then February is a short month, and only once in the last 20 years has the coldest day of the year come in March.

No doubt it will be cold, but it's been cold here before. In 1912 it went down to 24 below zero on January 13, and two years later on the day after Christmas it was 22 below. Worse still, in 1915, on the 30th day of January, it was 27 down. We can't guarantee that this record will not be repeated—in fact, we don't know anything about it, and we have a lingering suspicion that the majority of people are in the same fix.

But for all that there's nothing to worry about. The generations that have lived on this very well-regulated world have always had weather prophets, and the generations to come will be bothered with them, too.

If our correspondent believes that this winter's going to be colder than any other winter, then let him set his house in order. Even yet it is possible to dig in the ground and bank up the kitchen. He can stuff old rags in all the cracks around the windows and fashion a piece of cork to fit in the keyhole at night. Then in the spring, if he's kept fairly warm all winter and the beconia and the potted geranium have not perished, he'll know for certain that he has a good house which the public will be keen to buy at his own figure.

Note and Comment.

Young Angus came to me today and showed me how his boots had went, you wouldn't offer for those wrecks not half of one new shiny cent.

For they were shot clean through and through, for Angus is a husky child, he kicks most everything he sees and races in a way that's wild. The toes were worn and turned up too, the heels went slantin' to the west, the shoestings had been tied in knots, yet of the boots they were the best.

Says I to Angus "Look here, son, how come you bust your boots like that, it looks as though you kicked tin cans and booted at each stray brickbat."

Which set me thinkin' of the days when I was just wee Angus' size, when things were full of fun each day, when sun shone bright in childish skies.

I used to have a pair of boots that lasted for a year or so, and they were made of cowhide too with copper trimmin' on the toe. Why boots like them they'd last a boy as long as feet will last a hen, the only thing we had to get was leather laces now and then.

I bet that Angus if he could would like a pair of boots like them, for they were built to stand the gaff and riveted from stern to stem. It ain't no use in taking him to look for such things in the store, alas that copper-toed design is not bein' turned out any more. (Copyright)

The Once-Over

URGES NEW POLICE STATION.

Either waves from a rare atmosphere were called into play last night by Hoax N. Spoofus, popular candidate for mayor, when he broadcast by radio another of his ideas for municipal efficiency and economy. "I am entirely in favor of putting the new police station in the building now occupied by the chamber of commerce," he stated between bursts of static. "There's room for both there. I would place a large electric sign over the entrance reading 'Welcome' for the benefit of tourists. It would be the first place they would call on reaching the city, and the chamber officials, after showing them the police cells, could hand each a neat card with the message, 'Drive slowly and see our city. Drive fast and see our jail.'"

TWO STANDARDS.

THE HON. JUSTICE OF THE PEACE, J. R. OSHAWA, magistrate has just imposed the heavy penalty of four years in Kingston penitentiary on a young man of no means and without friends who admitted his guilt for forging a small check. The attorney-general is being appealed to to reduce the sentence. It does seem that in this country there is a double standard of justice, one for the poor and influential and another for the rich and influential.

AN EDITOR'S WOES.

From the Boston Transcript.
PROFESSOR PHELPS relates that when he was a boy he used to set type on a religious journal which became noted for its typographical errors and misplaced paragraphs. One day in the column "Ministers and Churches" there appeared in the proof "Lillian Russell will wear tights this winter." How it got there no one knew. The editor in disgust crossed out the line and wrote "such is life" on the margin. When the paper appeared it contained among news of the clergy the item about Miss Russell, followed by the editorial comment, "such is life!"

A Great Play

Brush Up the Spellers

By "SODBUSTER."

WILTON GROVE, Dec. 3.—We were talking over the good old times and the bad old times at supper time tonight, and while it is a nice thing to think that a good deal of the hoodlumism has passed away, there are some things that it might be a good thing if they were revived.

I don't know if it was common in all parts of the country, but at least in one section in Wilton Grove a custom prevailed until some twenty-five years ago, namely, looking out the teacher whenever the calendar year brought a school day on Dec. 21, supposedly the shortest day of the year. It had been a custom long before my day at school, but the first teacher that I remember helping to look out didn't resent it at all.

When she found the door was locked she walked away, and before she got to the road the door was thrown open.

She started back, but the door closed, and next time it opened she merely waved her hand to us and went on home. However, the next time we tried it we had a different teacher, who had no notion of submitting to any such indignity. She came and tried the door, and then looked in the window, and discovered that the boys were all down in the furnace room. She then ordered the janitor, who was one of the big boys, to come up and open the door, but when he tried to go the rest of the crowd held him.

The next move we discovered was an appeal to one of the trustees, and when we discovered that the teacher was likely to win out in the end, we opened the door and were all busy playing football when she came back.

SCHOOL was called to order, and naturally the teacher told us of the error of our ways, which at the time did not impress us very much; but the thing that did bring us to time was on the afternoon of the same day, when we were allowed to put our books away and the teacher stood treat for the whole school with candies and oranges.

I don't know whether it was the influence of our school or the heads that brought a change of heart, or whether it was a fear of missing a treat, but anyway, that is the last time I remember hearing of that special hoodlumism.

There is another and perhaps a far greater side to the "spelling downs" if they ever become popular and general in our school sections—the inspiration and help we would receive from just meeting our neighbors in the school section and swapping ideas and pulling ourselves out of a rut we have all got into, caused partly by the use of the telephone and other conveniences that have made it easy to stay at home.

The Wilton Grove United Farm Women of Ontario held a spelling match last winter, and it remained for a mere man to spell all the women down. A class in First United Church, Westmin-ster, has already held a "spelling down" this winter, and while we're thankful for small mercies, I feel it would reach the greater number if it were made a regular thing to do up and include everybody.

ada will not likely receive its destined solution until next year, and even then our craven Canadianhood, now tinkering with commercial and political power.

Glutted with prodigality and ease from our profits, we now starve and even tax the maimed underlings who we brought in our whimpering fear we brought to save us from German aggression.

Canada's lusty young strength is manacled by us pardoned, pious leeches now in control of every business, and who long ago forgot our wartime promises and wartime needs.

Yet today is the day of greatest war need Canada has ever known. It is the seedling time whose harvest will be announced after fatal gas and germs drop from the sky to obliterate Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary and Edmonton.

In this seed-time of war our one great need is to nourish fighters and thinkers. The greater number of our capable of fighting now nourished by Canada, the less likelihood of another war.

Most sincerely,
J. R. ELSON,

Imperial Representation.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—Our self-respect is attacked by the power of the Canadian government to make any gesture that would let the empire's enemies know, promptly and unmistakably, that it is an empire, not merely an isle, they threaten.

we died here in France to give you each a higher vote, the only vote, the only chance of effort towards future peace or control of future war."

Too tired, too lazy, too muddled-headed, alas, we have been, to insist, each of us, that the taxation for war, which now manacles Canada's growth, must be paid by each Canadian only as each has the right to vote, where future peace and future wars are now being made by a provincial parliament at Westminster, a parliament which occasionally dabbles in imperial affairs, only to rubber-stamp occasional procedure of that star chamber, whose secret treaties too often have made were inevitable generations before Canadians must rush abroad to pull their share of the chestnuts out of the fire.

Until each Canadian votes his periodic representation in an imperial parliament, all invitations like Viscount Jellicoe's should be declined.

JOHN COTTAM.

Canada First.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—I would like to see the following printed in your valuable paper of which I am a daily reader:

Glencoe, Dec. 3. INTERESTED.
Not merely in breadth of expanse and wealth of resources, but in things of the spirit.

Not merely in natural beauty, but also in ideals, principles and character; not merely in national prosperity, but in the happiness and contentment of citizens.

Not merely in the assertion of rights, but in the willing assumption of duties; not in splendid isolation, but in courageous co-operation.

Not in arrogance and disdain of other people, but in sympathy, love and understanding.

Not in treasuring along the old, worn, bloodstained pathway which ends inevitably in chaos and disaster, but in blazing a new trail along which other nations will follow, where wars shall be no more.

Some day one nation will be honored above others for blazing such a trail. That honor I covet for my beloved Canada.

And so, in that spirit and with these hopes, I say with all my heart and soul—

"CANADA FIRST."

Barriers in Education.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—I have seen it urged several times that the school curriculum in the colleges is not flexible enough to give the students a chance to fit themselves for what they want to do, and I have just heard of another case which seems to illustrate the point.

There is a pupil at school who knows definitely what she wants to do, and is anxious to do it, but for a course in design, and for this she has a talent that is being encouraged. Before she is able to attend the advanced school for this work she must have her matriculation standing, and in order to get that must secure her standing in all the subjects on that course.

She has no liking for arithmetic and allied subjects, such as algebra, and although she makes every possible effort she cannot secure her standing in these. In the line she intends to follow for her life work it will not make any difference whether she knows algebra or not, and yet she is held up on that one subject.

There are always those who know what course they want to follow, and it seems to me there is something wrong with the regulations that make it necessary for pupil to obtain pass standings in subjects that they are not going to use, and which will not be of any use to them.

Pupils are not all constituted the same; they have various talents, and the encouragement and development of these peculiar talents is what makes a worth-while education, for it leads the pupil to the field for which their natural gifts are fitted them. Anything that stands in the road of that kind of development is a hindrance, and is not in keeping with the development of recent years, which is toward specialization.

MAKING HAY.

Frenchman: Madame, you charge ver mooch too big price for zat room.

Frenchman (indignantly): Be gar, madame, you sell nevare make ze hay of men. You must not sink zat when all flesh is grass zat you can make hay of me.

SLIGHTLY DAZED.

Speaking of white mule, two rustic sports were uncertainly flivvering their way home from the county seat.

"Bill," said Henry, "I wonder to be very careful. First thing y'know you'll have us in a ditch."

"Me," said Bill in astonishment. "Why, I thought you was driving."

there were seats for.

Now let me tell you what took place last night and before I knew anything about the fine, I was waiting on the corner to get a ride home. I work in a warehouse downtown, and it is hard enough to get home, but I got back to where the car is, which is generally about 6 o'clock.

A bus came along, but by the time I got to it it was full, and the driver wouldn't let any more passengers get in, so I had to wait. I went around the corner to do a couple of errands that I had in mind. When I got back I caught a street car and it was full and people were standing, and they were not turning them back because there were not seats for them all.

It seems to me that there is something of a snag between the law that governs these two ways of getting home. If it's not legal for the buses to crowd them in and let them stand, then why should it be legal for the street cars to do the same? I know I'm not up on law, but I've always tried to make myself believe that I had a certain amount of common sense.

The law may be right according to the letter of the law, but it's not very strong on common sense.

London, Dec. 3. ONE WHO WAITED

"Miracle" Wheat.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—Last week while reading my daily Advertiser, I noticed a report concerning the discovery of "Miracle Wheat." Please allow me space to correct that statement by giving you some real information on the subject.

The original plant of "Miracle" wheat was discovered and named by Mr. K. B. Stoner of Fincastle, Virginia.

In the year 1904, Mr. K. B. Stoner noticed growing in his garden advanced usual plant, which at first he mistook for a kind of grass, but which upon further observation proved to be wheat.

The plant had 42 spikes, each stalk bearing a head of fully matured wheat. The unusual yield from this single plant prompted him to save the grain, which he continued to produce for several seasons, and in 1906, about two years after discovering it, because of its remarkable producing qualities, he named it "Miracle" wheat.

MOORE'S ADMINISTRATIVE ABILITY PROVEN!

ECONOMY

Moore's public life has been instrumental in rendering to London a real service in the interests of economy—He has shown keen foresight in meeting the immediate and future demands of the city with an actual saving in dollars and cents to the taxpayers. A vote for Moore is a vote for an administration which is able to meet the problems of the city in a business way, advantageous to the citizens.

EFFICIENCY

Efficiency in the city government is one of the greatest needs of London today, and the same business ability which gave London its present paving and street-cleaning systems is offered in the election of Moore as mayor for 1926—Moore can bring in to practice the efficiency in the various civic departments that is realized to be a necessity in the best interests of the citizens and city as a whole.

GREAT SAVING IN PAVING SYSTEM

THROUGH THE EFFORTS OF JOHN M. MOORE IN INAUGURATING AN ECONOMIC PAVING SYSTEM FOR LONDON, THE CITY HAS SAVED OVER $250,000 IN THE PAST TEN YEARS. THE PRESENT SYSTEM OF DAY LABOR IN THE CITY PAVING ACTIVITIES WAS INTRODUCED WHEN MOORE WAS CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF WORKS, AND HAS BEEN ONE OF THE MOST ECONOMICAL MOVES IN THIS BRANCH OF THE CITY ACTIVITIES. THE SAME SYSTEM GAVE TO LONDON ITS MUNICIPAL PAVING PLANT, AND FURTHER, GREAT SAVINGS HAVE BEEN EFFECTED THROUGH THE BETTER PAVEMENT WHICH HAS RESULTED.

JOHN M. MOORE WAS INSTRUMENTAL IN BANNING THE OLD EXPENSIVE 'HOSE' SYSTEM OF CLEANING THE CITY STREETS, AND REPLACING IT WITH THE MORE MODERN, ECONOMIC SYSTEM. THE CITIZENS OF LONDON ARE MONEY IN POCKET THROUGH THIS MANIFESTATION OF HIS BUSINESS ABILITY.

JOHN M. MOORE HAS SAVED THE CITIZENS OF LONDON THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS. HE IS WILLING TO BEND HIS EFFORTS IN THE INTERESTS OF DECREASED CITY EXPENDITURES AGAIN.

BEETHOVEN STRING QUARTET IS INTERESTING ENSEMBLE

Was Organized a Year Ago by Mrs. Chas. Ivey and Dr. Balogh.

ADVERTISES LONDON Makes First Appearances at Music Club and in St. Thomas.

The London Beethoven String Quartet is but now entering its second season, and yet as a musical organization it has won an established place in the community. Last year it made its initial appearance in a small chamber recital, given in Dr. Balogh's studio. The audience came by invitation. It was a critical assembly before which to play and yet the quartet immediately won distinction for itself. Later a similar recital was given at the home of Mrs. Charles Ivey, St. James street, and was likewise an artistic success.

The quartet makes its first public appearance this season in London before the women's music club on Monday night. Last night with Paul de Marky, the quartet played in recital in St. Thomas, again winning laurels.

On Monday night the quartet will play a Mendelssohn quartet and a quintet Oomphny, with Mrs. Howard Petherstone at the piano.

The quartet was organized here last year largely through the efforts of Mrs. Charles Ivey, the first violin. Mrs. Ivey has studied in England, in Chicago and in New York, and has always been interested in quartet work. She worked along this line when she lived in Montreal and in the Canadian west before her marriage.

Last year when she began to think of a string quartet for London she found a kindred spirit in Dr. Balogh, organist at St. Peter's cathedral, who has played the viola with quartets in Russia and in his native Hungary. Henry Boock, of the R. C. R. orchestra, was also interested, having done orchestra work in England and Canada. He plays the cello. The second violin was taken by Mrs. Ernest Bluthner, who has also studied abroad and was interested in the scheme.

This year Mrs. Bluthner has been unable to continue her work with the quartet, and her place as second violin is being ably filled by Miss Edith James, a talented pupil of Mrs. Ivey. The quartet is working industriously with rehearsals three times a week at Dr. Balogh's studio or at Mrs. Ivey's home. Its aim is to become one of the finest ensembles in this country, and it shows promise of becoming so.

WEDDINGS

VASIOFF-CLAYTON.

At the Church of the Resurrection on Saturday a very pretty wedding took place at 3:30 o'clock, when Lillian May Clayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton of this city, became the bride of Stanley George Vasioff, also of London. The Rev. Dr. Anderson performed the ceremony. Mrs. Clayton at the organ played the wedding music for a fully half an hour.

On the altar and chancel steps were stately palms and yellow and white mums. The bride looked charming in a white canton crepe gown and hat to match. She carried a shower of Sunset roses and valley lilies. Miss Elsie Hawthorne and Miss Winnifred Clayton, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaids. Miss Hawthorne wearing peach georgette crepe and carrying white mums, Miss Clayton in white crepe de chine and carrying white mums. The groom was attended by Mr. Gordon Hannet. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Vasioff will be at home to their friends at 50 Stirling street.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaids were birthstone rings, and to the best man a tiepin.

The Christmas season is good for what ails us. All the rest of the year we are quite likely to be dashing ahead furiously and in this hurry we get thinking pretty much of ourselves. And then along comes Christmas, and we begin to think of others and for others. Many kind thoughts for others find expression in a box of candy, especially about Christmas time. It means so much in the gladness of Christmas to be making others feel the thrill of goodwill and kindness. A box of candy is always welcome, but fancy the charm of it when it becomes magically transformed into a gift of kindness and Christmas goodwill by the wand of snow-white tissue and holly-berry red ribbon. And it is such a pleasure to share candy with one's friends and to tell of the unexpected pleasure in receiving it. Your local candy dealers realize and appreciate the spirit of Christmas that should accompany each box—the candy must be very good—nicely boxed and daintily wrapped. Your local candy dealer serves you faithfully the year round—he helps circulate the money in London that keeps folks busy and happy. He plans and works to make the old year ring out on success and happiness as a fellow-worker in your community. See that he gets your business in Christmas candy. Don't forget him because a peddler comes to your door to sell Christmas candy. You will buy better candy at less money from your local candy dealer, and you'll keep your money circulating right here in London making more work, wages and Christmas cheer.

NEW IRISH TREATY RELIEVES FREE STATE OF WAR TAXES

Agreement Signed in London Yesterday Cancels Debt Liability and Nullifies New Boundary Pact, Leaving Old Line Intact—Proves Acceptable to North and South.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Dec. 3.—The new Irish boundary agreement amending the terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty was signed in the prime minister's room in the house of commons at 8 o'clock this evening and embodies settlement of the boundary question with the full assent of all parties concerned.
The agreement was signed in behalf of the British government by Stanley Baldwin, Winston Churchill, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Lord Birkenhead and Lieut.-Col. L. C. M. Amery; in behalf of the Free State by William T. Cosgrave, Kevin O'Higgins, Ernest Blythe and Peter O'Hara, all members of the Irish cabinet, and in behalf of Northern Ireland by Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, and Secretary Blackmore, of the Ulster cabinet.
It was decided that the boundary commission's award is not to be published.
The new agreement revokes article 12 of the Anglo-Irish treaty, which provided for the boundary commission, and releases the Free State from obligation under article 5 to pay a portion of the British war debts, while the Free State undertakes to shoulder the whole costs of compensation for damage to property since January 1, 1919.
Clerical has the advantage of retaining the existing boundary.
In his statement to the commons, Premier Baldwin expressed the hope that the necessary legislation authorizing the new agreement would be passed before the house rises for the Christmas recess.
In British government circles emphasis is laid on the comprehensive nature of this triple agreement on a boundary problem, which prevented a settlement at the Buckingham palace conference before the war and nearly wrecked the Irish treaty four years ago.

LONDON GIRL PROVES BURLESQUE SUCCESS

Miss Beulah Munro, at Grand, Sang in Several Church Choirs Here.

Miss Beulah Munro, a pretty London girl, who has more than made good on the stage, returned to her old home town yesterday as one of the stars in "Smiles and Kisses," the burlesque offering at the Grand for the balance of the week.

Miss Munro was mighty glad to get back to Canada and London, and said so.

"It's three years since I have been home," said Miss Munro, interviewed at the theatre yesterday. "I lived in London 14 years with my grandmother, Mrs. Wesley Crossman, and the first thing I did when I got here was to hunt up all my relatives."

"I got my start in amateur theatricals here, and I also sang in several church choirs. There were a lot of my old friends at the opening performances, and they gave me a wonderful reception."

Burlesque Star To Wed Sunday

Wedding bells will ring for Miss Pauline Russell, pretty prima donna, with Smiles and Kisses, playing at the Grand, on Sunday, at the termination of her engagement here.

Miss Russell will hurry to Detroit, where she will marry Al Fitzgerald, returning to Toronto, where the show plays Monday.

Dan Cupid makes the world a wonderful place, but he can't hold up theatrical performances while actors and actresses go on honeymoons. Therefore, Miss Russell will count the days until the end of the season, when she will be able to return to Detroit.

Miss Doris Kaler, a member of the Smiles and Kisses Company, will act as bridesmaid for Miss Russell.

MEIGHEN'S POSE IS HIT BY POULIN

Scores "I Will Forget" Attitude On Issues of Great War.

Canadian Press Despatch.
St. Helena De Bagot, Que., Dec. 3.—Heated accusations of appealing to the lowest and meanest of prejudices passed swiftly across the platform this afternoon, where rival candidates in the federal by-election of Bagot met once again. Day after day, since they entered the field, the two candidates—D. Morin, Liberal, and Hon. Andre Fauteux, Conservative—have travelled from parish to parish with their supporting speakers, stating their views on a time limit, the chairman presiding watch in hand.

what they thought of a man who, "with the record of Mr. Meighen, has the hardihood to pose as a new Christ in Quebec, and paraphrasing the words of the Saviour, exclaimed: 'I forgive you for you knew not what you did.'"

P. G. Coffin, a Conservative speaker from Montreal, charged that Premier Meighen was taking into his cabinet a man who had crucified and torn down the schools of Manitoba. Mr. Coffin charged that Liberals had called Mr. Meighen an assassin and a thief. Mr. Poulin denied that Liberals had made such a charge.

"What we do say," Mr. Poulin added, "is that in his administration there was waste which almost amounted to theft. There were acts which almost amounted to murder."

Hon. Lucien Cannon, solicitor-general, took Mr. Meighen's announcement (that before sending troops overseas in the next war he would consult the people), and asked what faith there was to be placed in Mr. Meighen's words.

"The Borden-Meighen government decided you twice," he went on. "They promised that faith there was to be placed in Mr. Meighen's words. They promised that farmers' sons would be exempted from war service, but they did not get exemption. Now this man who deceived you then comes and says, 'I'll all over, I will forget.'"

AT THE THEATRES

CAPITOL THEATRE.

The Ancient Highway.

James Oliver Curwood's The Ancient Highway, starring Jack Holt, appearing at the Capitol the remainder of the week, is a gripping and thrilling picture of Quebec, with its oldtime romantic atmosphere and the beautiful picturesque woods. Holt is ably supported on the screen by Billie Dove and Montague Love.

The picture is full of excitement, romance and danger, and the scenic effect of the Canadian forest gives a wonderful background for the picture, which presents a splendid conception of outdoor life.

Holt, as Clifton Brant, after adventurous wanderings all over the world, comes back to Canada to settle an account with a man who has ruined and killed his father. He discovers that a beautiful girl (Billie Dove), is also the enemy of this man, and he falls in love with the girl.

Brant enlists his help and the climax of the struggle comes during the great spring log drive, where the enemy jams the logs and threatens to ruin the girl. The dynamic blast freeing the logs, the thrilling rescue during the explosion, the battle between the lumberjacks, and the crashing of a giant tree over the camp, brings the pitch of excitement to its highest point.

A Charleston competition was also staged last night, with Miss Dora Mitchell and Wm. Farquharson winning first prize, Miss Vera Owen second, and Miss Pith and Mr. Josephus third. Ernie Gray delighted the audience with imitations of the various birds.

A comedy, Dangerous Curves Behind, Pathe news and a musical program by the Capitol Symphony orchestra completed the bill.

LOEW'S THEATRE

Lights of Old Broadway.

A touch of old New York is brought to London in Lights of Old Broadway, playing at Loew's today and Saturday. Broadway in the time of ermines and modest maidens is the scene of Marion Davies' latest screen success.

Lights of Old Broadway is a story woven around the history of the installation of the lighting system in New York. Miss Davies takes two parts in the picture, that of Anne de Rhondo and Fely O'Tandy, twin orphans, who are adopted by families in decidedly different circumstances.

Her wonderful delineation of both characters shows the wide range of her versatility, and her ability to act, and again proves her to be one of the leading screen stars. Miss Davies is supported by Conrad Nagel and a cast of remarkable ability.

Lights of Old Broadway is taken from the play Merry Wives of Windsor, by Laurence Eyre.

The Primrose Minstrels, led by Mrs. George Primrose, wife of the late George M. Primrose, one-time bell-top in this city, and later the greatest of the black-faced comedians, heads the vaudeville.

It is one of the good old-fashioned minstrel shows played by talented artists, and supplies one of the best acts of the year. Howard Mickle, and Williams and Sterling are both acts of merit as well.

Loew's premier comedy, Fair But Foolish, a decidedly funny picture, starring Jimmie Adams, and the usual Loew's revue of events, complete an exceedingly attractive evening's entertainment.

Salmon-Carrier Is Role Played By Once-Proud German Raider

Special To The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News, Copyright.

Seattle, Dec. 3.—Like some notorious person who has slipped into oblivion and donned a disguise of mean appearance, the once proud and haughty liner Prince Eitel Friedrich, which sank the first American boat during the world war, is today carrying salmon between Seattle and Alaska.

She has been entirely repainted, and even her name has been changed. Otego is the simple word adorning her prow. Japanese and Chinese roustabouts occupy the royal suite whose thelvet canopied bed once guarded the slumbers of a prince. Barefoot sailors shoot dice on decks whose once polished surface rang to the click of an emperor's heels.

It was the William P. Frye, a boat from Seattle, loaded with wheat for England, which was sunk by the Eitel in 1914. When the United States entered the war the liner was seized and interned on the eastern coast. The shipping board sold her to Libby, McNeil and Libby, and she is now in operation between here and Alaska, taking workers up in the spring for the salmon canneries, bringing them back in the fall, and carrying thousands of cases of canned salmon.

HAYES IS IMPROVED.

A report from St. Joseph's Hospital, received late last night, is to the effect that Cyril Hayes, injured in the St. George street level crossing fatality on Monday afternoon, is showing a continued improvement. Although suffering from no internal injuries, his condition will require him to remain in the hospital for an indefinite period.

THREE ESCAPE INJURY.

Special To The Advertiser.
Melbourne, Dec. 3.—While motoring into London Miss Ina Carruthers, accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Norman Carruthers, and Miss Miller, had a narrow escape from injury when the car skidded on the icy pavement and was hit by an approaching motor. The ladies escaped unhurt, but the car was badly damaged.

SARNIA HAS EXTRA NAVIGATION WEEK

Huronic Will Not End Last Trip Until Dec. 12—Official Closing Dec. 5.

Special To The Advertiser.

Sarnia, Dec. 3.—Marine insurance underwriters have ruled that navigation will officially close at noon Dec. 5, but the local season will not close until Dec. 12, when the S.S. Huronic returns from her last trip.

All regular insurance policies on vessels and cargoes expire Dec. 5. The higher protection plan will probably end two weeks later, when the winter storms come.

Changes Made In Group Dates

Jan. 25—Stratford at Preston (new date).

CHAMONIX IS PLANNING BIG WINTER PROGRAM

Chamonix, France, Dec. 3.—A Canadian hockey team is to be seen in action here in the near future. Usually early snowfalls in the alps, where a thick layer of white already covers the districts of Haute-Vallee, Montroc and Argentiere, make the outlook for winter sports this year extremely promising.

Ski-ing and skating already have begun.

An international ice hockey tournament in which Canadians living in Paris, the British "Lion" team, and Swiss, Belgian and Italian teams have been invited to compete, will start the season officially Jan. 20.

A bob-sled contest on Feb. 1 is likely to prove interesting, as the entries will be confined to well-known air pilots and racing automobile drivers.

MEIGHEN DETERMINED TO WIN BAGOT SEAT

New War Policy Is Calculated To Placate Quebec.

Special To The Advertiser
St. Pie, Que., Dec. 3.—Mr. Meighen's two days' visit to Bagot has certainly livened up matters in the federal by-election, which is being held here. The Liberals have followed close on his heels, for an hour or two after the Conservative leader had left St. Pie yesterday, Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, minister of marine, was on the scene with a reply and Bernard Rinfret, one of the Montreal members, also took issue with the recent speeches of the Conservative chief.

The Conservatives are extremely enthusiastic about the part Mr. Meighen has taken. His changed attitude in regard to future wars, no matter how it mayirk some Tories in Ontario, is believed by the Conservatives of Quebec to be good political business.

PROGRESSIVES ANGRY
Criticize Saskatchewan Ministers for Part in Federal Campaign.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Regina, Sask., Dec. 3.—After expressing resentment at the action of the members of the Saskatchewan cabinet in taking an active part in the recent federal election, the conference of Saskatchewan Progressives last night unanimously adopted a resolution stating that "the conditions in this province are such as to justify the demand that the federal Progressives organization should give active support to a provincial organization advocating Progressive principles."

It was decided to recommend to the federal Progressive Executive in Saskatchewan the appointment of an organizer to tour the province and coordinate Progressive activities and conduct a campaign of education in Progressive principles.

GET $50,000 IN SILK.
Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Dec. 3.—Five men entered the Majestic garage in Brooklyn today, bound the watchman and drove off with two trucks containing silk valued at $50,000. Police believed the band was the same as stole a truck containing $20,000 worth of rubber yesterday.

'ROUNDING THRO' by Hugh A. Jennings

THE MCGRAW-KEELER HIT-AND-RUN DUO.

When I joined the Baltimore team, the man who impressed me most was John McGraw. The first time I ever saw him he appeared a man rather than a short and slight in build. He was extremely aggressive and he had, to all appearances, unbounded confidence in his own ability and faith in himself. He was one of the best lead-off men the game ever had—a good waiter at bat, a good hitter and a first-class baserunner. He gave signs of leadership even at that time. While not captain of the Baltimore, an honor that fell to Wilbert Robinson, McGraw had the knack of leadership. He was the most aggressive in an aggressive group, and later on the qualities that he had even at that time lifted him to top place among managers. Robinson became his assistant in New York, serving as coach of the Giants' battery and later on Robinson became head of the Brooklyn team.

McGraw was always strong for team play. He and Willie Keeler perfected the hit and run play. I have seen many good hit-and-run combinations, but never have I seen another quite so good as the McGraw-Keeler duo.

McGraw had nerve, and this stood him in good stead. He could not be bluff, although he frequently ran a bluff on the other fellow. I remember at one time we were playing in Washington. It was a tight battle, with the teams, Baltimore and Washington, that famous Win Mercer pitching for Washington and having a good afternoon. Late in the game McGraw came to bat with second and third occupied, two men retired and two runs needed to win. Mercer pitched three bad balls in a row to McGraw. Before he pitched another McGraw called for time, and got down on the ground, pretending to tie his shoe laces. What he really wanted was an opportunity to talk to Mercer. This he did. As soon as he got Mercer's attention he told him: "Well, I got you where I want you. If you give me another bad ball I'll walk and fill bases, and the little fellow that follows me (Keeler) will drive in two and win for us. If you give me a good one I'll hit it myself and drive in. You're gone whatever you do. Now, go ahead and pitch."

shows McGraw's ability as a baserunner. He was on first with Keeler at bat. Keeler gave the hit and run sign. McGraw was off with the pitch. Keeler singled to left-center. The left fielder got the ball, looked up and saw that McGraw was too near third to make a play possible, so he whipped the ball to second to prevent Keeler from taking an extra base. McGraw was watching the left fielder and as he pulled back his arm to throw to second McGraw put on extra speed. Touching third on the inside, he kept right on going. The short stop took the left fielder's throw at second, but before he could make the catch and relay the ball to the catcher, McGraw had scored. It was an excellent piece of judgment and nerve.

In later chapters I shall go into greater detail about the playing virtues of McGraw, Brodie, Keeler, Kelly and others. Also, I shall dwell on some of their peculiarities. The man who first imbedded himself in my memory was McGraw, and I observed him more carefully than the others. At that time I was merely a substitute and spent nearly all of my time on the bench and had plenty of opportunity for observation. That was the one thing I was supposed to do—look on and learn.

Bad luck hit the club in the training season of 1894 during a series of exhibition games. Rennie Reitz sprained an ankle in one of these exhibitions, and Manager Hanlon told me to take his place at second. I played there when the regular season opened.

Soon after we were playing in Philadelphia. It rained one afternoon and they had to call off the game. Bonner, our shortstop, who we obtained from Wilkesbarre, asked permission to go home for that evening and this privilege was granted him. When it came time for the start of the game next day, Bonner had not returned. Reitz had recovered sufficiently from his

Sarnia C. I. Set For Final Here

One of the best grid games of the season is billed for the Western University upper campus tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 when Dolly Gray's Sarnia C. I. squad, "Wossa" senior title-holders, clash with U. T. S. O. R. F. U. champions in a sudden-death battle for the Canadian inter-collegiate crown.

Both teams have been through a hard season, the Toronto students gaining their laurels by trimming the Hamilton Central squad, while the boy-derites arrived at the pinnacle of the Western Ontario play-downs by crushing the strong Guelph C. I. twelve in the final. On the strength of their season's record, the teams should be pretty well matched while, on the other hand, it will be interesting to note how the heavy Sarnians will go against the fiercer Torontonians.

Sarnia Observer.

With a two-week rest following their strenuous games with Guelph, the blue and white are in perfect condition for their final game of the season, and their chances of downing the powerful U. T. S. team, which has been piling up ten-heavy scores all season, are considered very bright.

Scores of Sarnians will follow the team to London Saturday to see their last football game of the season.

Canadian Press Despatch, Sydney, N.S., Dec. 4.—The royal commission investigating the coal industry of Nova Scotia will conclude its Sydney sessions by tomorrow, according to an announcement made by the chairman, Sir Andrew Rae Duncan. He added that hereafter the headquarters of the commission would be Halifax. A visit will be made to Montreal to investigate the markets and to examine the books of the corporation.

The findings of the commission should be available before the end of the year. At the opening of this morning's session, Vice-President J. E. McLurg was examined by Major Cronyn, on behalf of the commission.

Major Cronyn drew from witness the statement that owing to the policy introduced last year by the witness of spending nothing on repairs to houses, the annual loss sustained by the corporation in the operation of its houses had been wiped out.

Major Cronyn—I must confess, Mr. McLurg, that we visited houses that I can only describe as being in a shocking state of repair.

The witness—The rents are very low. Major Cronyn—Low rents or no low rents, do you not think it is incumbent upon the company to keep its houses in a habitable condition?

The witness suggested that the commissioner was referring to the shacks which had been built for construction purposes.

Major Cronyn—I am not referring to the shacks.

The witness testified that he thought the company should go out of the house-renting business, and admitted it would pay the company to dispose of the houses at 25 per cent of their appraised value instead of the 40 to 50 per cent named by the superintendent of industrial relations, a previous witness.

M'EWEN AWARDED HONORS FOR SHEEP

London Sheep Breeder New Canada's Leading Scorer at Big Chicago Show.

Associated Press Despatch. Chicago, Ill., Dec. 3.—Further honors in the international stock show were captured by Canada in the early judging in the sheep department here today. In the sheep department, carcass division, Robert McEwen of London, Ont., won the reserve championship with a Shropshire lamb. First prize went to the University of Wisconsin with a Southdown lamb.

In the fourth class of the carcass division, McEwen took second place with a Shropshire entry, first and third places in this class again going to the University of Wisconsin on Southdowns. The winning of these prizes puts McEwen in the lead as Canada's most consistent scorer during the present exposition.

In the Alston clover class Robert Houser of Canboro, Ont., took second place and Ed. Kennedy, Unionville, Ont., took third place in the same class. Fourth and fifth places in the Alston clover class also went to Ontario entrants, William Roth of Fisherville, Ont., taking fourth and S. L. McPherson of Port Dover, Ont., was fifth. In the sweet clover class, fifth, sixth and seventh places went to entrants from the Dominion. The only entrants from Canada to place in the red clover class today was J. S. Corner of Orkney, Ont., who won fifteenth place in that division of the lay and grain show.

INTERIOR VIEW OF THE NEW LOBLAW STORE, 260 DUNDAS STREET.

Robert McEwen sold his championship carload of 51 sheep, averaging 58 pounds, to Armour & Company of Chicago $20 per hundred pounds. The carload weighed 4,550 pounds.

The Loblaw Store Will Open Here

Citizens of London and Middlesex county will learn with unusual interest that the Loblaw Groceries Co., Limited, is about to open one of their standard stores in this city. The Loblaw company, at present, are operating 36 stores throughout Ontario, 22 of these being in Toronto.

The London store will be located at 260 Dundas street, and a large force of workmen are now engaged in erecting on these premises one of the standard stores that have made the Loblaw Company popular, wherever they have gone.

Although it is little more than five years since the company came into existence, the growth, both in volume and turnover, has been little short of phenomenal.

The Loblaw method of merchandising groceries is a radical departure from any method heretofore in operation. The system lends itself to the efficient and economical handling of food products. As a means of reducing the spread between producer and consumer, the company claims that their self-serve, cash and carry system is unrivaled. Interest and pleasure are afforded the shopper through their ability to select their own goods as their choice suggests, without interference or suggestion from store help, unless this is so requested.

The president of the company T. P. Loblaw, is a Canadian by birth, and has spent a lifetime in the grocery business. The system under which the Loblaw Company operates is the result of a study on his part for some years of meeting the enormous increase that has taken place during recent years in the cost of living.

The London store will be equipped with all the distinctive features of the Standard Loblaw Stores. The London store will open about the middle of December, but the exact date will be announced in The Advertiser in the near future.

According to a report received from the attending physician last night he is all but out of danger.

CHARGE THREE MEN WITH SERIOUS CRIME

Offences Against Two Young Girls Charged in City Police Court.

Three men, one of them 70 years of age, charged with serious offences under the criminal code upon information given Major G. N. Bradshaw of the juvenile court by two girls, both under the age of 14 years, appeared in police court this morning and were remanded for arraignment next week.

The men are Claude Fisher, Vernon Morse and Charles Medley. One is a deaf mute, and when the case comes for trial an interpreter will have to be secured by the court.

The case was first brought to the attention of juvenile court authorities and warrants for the arrest of the men were sworn out by Judge G. Q. Warner. When the seriousness of the charge was learned Judge Warner ordered the case transferred to police court to be heard before Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon.

Today's remand was given upon the absence of Crown Attorney A. M. Judd, Frank Curran, acting crown attorney, was also unable to proceed owing to the fact that he had been retained as counsel for one of the prisoners.

The pallbearers were Frank Blackwell, Charles Foulkes, Howard Bryant, Stewart Cawston, Ross Sharpe, and Gordon McDermott. The services were conducted by Rev. T. S. Roy. Interment was made in Woodland cemetery.

Wingham, Dec. 3.—While driving a horse and cutter owned by William Fields of this town, two small boys escaped injury when the animal ran away. On reaching the Dominion bank the horse fell to the sidewalk, breaking its jaw and having several teeth knocked out. The cutter was slightly damaged but the animal may have been shot.

MAYOR STILL GOING STRONG; HAS STORAGE TANK RESERVE

Lively Meeting at Riverview School—Hecklers Get Ready Answers From His Worship—Solicitor's Salary Arouses Warm Discussion.

Electors showed commendable interest in civic affairs at last night's Riverview school meeting, but the amount of heckling prevented it from being the "good orderly meeting" for which some of the candidates hoped. Interest centered in the two aspirants for the mayoralty. G. A. Wenige was given a "fifty-fifty" reception with John M. Moore.

The mayor concluded a recital of his efforts on behalf of the citizens during the last three years with the remark that he hadn't used up all his energies, and still had a "storage tank not used."

"The mayor said last year he would have a showdown with the London street railway. He has changed his attitude. Why?" asked ex-Ald. Sam Manness.

The matter was brought up in the council five or six times, and the question of a vote was turned down each time by the council," replied the mayor.

"I don't want to buy the L. S. R. Remember, I'm only one of 13 on the council."

"Last night at Ealing you said the city solicitor got from $5,000 to $10,000 a year," declared another man. "I made inquiry at the city hall today and found out that in 1923 Mr. Meredith got $2,906; in 1924 he got $2,550, and so far this year $2,500. Where does the $10,000 come in?"

"He also gets money from the public utilities and board of education," replied the mayor. "Don't forget that."

"Yes, I know he does," came back the citizen. "I asked about that and find it brings his salary up to $3,500."

"Haven't you got your knife into the city solicitor?" the citizen asked.

"It doesn't make any difference as to the price. You are paying him," replied the mayor.

"The mayor has just told us he is sympathetic with the workmen," said Mr. Manness. "Let him tell us why he takes $12,500 of the workmen's money for his expenses?"

"When a city of 55,000 population is not going to pay the legitimate expenses of its mayor, then you'll have to elect a mayor who is a wealthy man, and he will cater only to wealth," retorted the mayor, amid plaudits.

His worship stated his job wasn't the sweetest on earth, and invited anyone to follow him round on the job. It took up most of a man's time to carry out the work connected with the office.

John M. Moore, who followed the mayor was given an equally warm reception, but was not the subject of any heckling. Mr. Moore expressed pleasure at seeing such a large crowd present and asked for their co-operation, influence and vote on Monday next.

Mr. Moore reviewed his long municipal record and pointed out that in addition to seventeen years with the water-works department he had served three years in the board of control and had been chairman of the board of works.

Is Workman's Friend.

"It has been circulated around that if I'm elected I'm going to cut down the wages of the workmen," said Mr. Moore. "I've carried on a lot of work in this city and I will ask any workman if I ever suggested cutting down his wages. I'll leave it to them to say whether or not they can trust me. I am prepared to carry on the work of the city in an efficient and economical manner and I appeal to you all to use your franchise, whether you vote for me or not."

"Three minutes for each aldermanic candidate. We just want to see them," shouted one of the audience, when Chairman Captain Tom Robson started on the long list of 22 candidates.

Despite the chairman's best efforts, the candidates overran their time limit, and the clock was pointing to 10:30 when the last of the aldermanic experts was through. The crowd by this time was growing weary and two-thirds left the building at this period of the meeting and started for home.

All the candidates made a good impression and handled their speeches in a capable manner.

Aldermanic candidates who spoke were: W. J. Ashton, Harry Bottrill, J. A. E. Braden, Tom Clift, J. A. Croden, Paul Dalg, Dixon Glass, Frank Gray, Geo. Hayman, F. B. Kilbourne, W. J. Kilpatrick, Charles Linnell, W. C. Morrison, W. L. Scandrett, Ed. Smith, Tom Terry, F. J. Timbrell and Allan Towse.

Commissioners Philip Pocock and Jared Vining explained the activities of the public utilities commission to the satisfaction of the crowd and were given a splendid reception. Board of education candidates and supporters of the bylaws were given good receptions.

PAPER AGAIN PUBLISHED. Canadian Press Despatch. Edmonton, Dec. 3.—The Edmonton Bulletin resumed publication this afternoon under the ownership and management of Charles E. Campbell of Vancouver, after suspension of five and one-half months.

OSCAR WILLIAMS DIES IN HIS FIFTIETH YEAR

Came To London From England More Than Twenty Years Ago.

The death occurred yesterday of Oscar Williams, aged 50 years, at his late residence, 40 Regina street. Death was due to pneumonia, the deceased having been ill but one week.

Born in Fildham, Kent county, England, in 1875, the late Mr. Williams came to Canada more than twenty years ago. Since that time he had been a continuous resident of this city, and for the past five years had conducted a shoe business on Adelaide street.

Mr. Williams enlisted with the 2nd Stationary Hospital soon after the outbreak of the war and went overseas with the same unit in September, 1915. He served in France and in the Dardanelles zone for over three years, during which time he was wounded and severely gassed. On his return to civilian life he again took up his residence in London.

Besides his widow he is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Mandille Latung of Detroit, and one son, Gerald, also of Detroit. The deceased also leaves his mother and two sisters in the old country.

Arrangements for the funeral, which will be of a military nature, have not yet been made.

SEE STRIKE END. Philadelphia, Dec. 3.—Activities of those who have been working for peace in the anthracite industry, including Governor Pinchot, brought a revival of hope tonight for an early settlement of the prolonged suspension.

STANDARDIZED TESTS SPEED UP WORK OF EDUCATION IN CITY

Corbin A. Brown Tells of Special Educational Survey Among Pupils of Alexandra School—Strictly Impersonal Measure of Child's Ability.

Corbin A. Brown, B.A., principal of Alexandra public school, is making a special educational survey among the pupils of that school this year.

Principal Brown's paper before the London teachers' institute at its meeting in central college institute last week, explaining the methods of the survey and the results already indicated, proved so interesting and opened up such a big field of endeavor for the London school system that, with the kindness of Mr. Brown, the paper is given in full below.

I should like to make it clear that the standardized test does not measure the best work of a pupil who is extremely nervous, or who is extremely slow, or who has unusual language difficulties, any more than the ordinary examination does. It is in cases such as these that the teacher's intimate knowledge of the pupil is especially useful. And now, having attempted to point out what the tests will not do, let me explain what they will do.

What is a standardized test, whether mental or educational? It is a test that has been given in exactly the same form, in exactly the same way, to hundreds, and in many cases, to thousands of school children of normal intelligence and of normal school standing, in all parts of the country. In all cases the test has been scored in exactly the same way. Thus, if, on a certain test, your pupil makes the same score as several hundred normal children who are just ready to enter grade seven, on the particular subject. On tests in various subjects, the answers and scores which these hundreds of normal children have made, are now standardized, and your pupil is expected to give these answers or to make these scores, if he is normal for that particular age and grade.

These tests are prepared in booklet form, and are accompanied by full directions to the examiner, as well as by a scoring sheet and a table showing the age and grade which is normal for each score.

Thus, on the Thorndike-McCall reading scale, if a pupil make a score of 25, he knows from the tables that his ability in silent reading is equal to that of hundreds of normal children who are ready to enter grade seven.

An Impersonal Measure. The special value of the standardized test may already have occurred to you. While the teacher's knowledge of the child is of great value, there are times when it is of great importance to have a strictly impersonal measure of the child. This, the standardized test gives. Sometimes one feels that exams have been too easy or too hard, that marking has been too hard or too easy, or that the examiner has not covered the whole course in his tests. The standardized tests give at all times, dependable, uniform marking, and since they are made up of true-false, multiple choice, completion, and other forms of questions of which you are already heard today, it will readily be seen that they are very comprehensive in their nature. Besides being of value to the individual child, the use of a survey such as this, may be of great value to the principal or to the inspector. You know, some of us teachers complain a great deal about the poor quality of our classes while others of us, perhaps do not complain enough. The survey shows in an impersonal way whether a class really is a poor one or a good one.

The educational survey was made at Alexandra, purely as an experiment, to see if it had any practical value for the London schools. It was made to make it, through the kindness of Mr. Wheable, in the first instance, the co-operation of the Alexandra staff, and the actual assistance of Mr. Dewar, who gave some of the tests. I believe I can truthfully state that, up to the present no member of the staff has been asked point blank for an opinion on the value of the tests. However, in practically every case of pupils who have been with us at least a year, the teachers concerned were agreed that the test results compared very favorably with the estimate which they already had of the child's ability and knowledge. Strengthened by this fact, we are in dealing with newcomers on the basis of test results.

The tests used were the national intelligence group tests, the Thorndike-McCall reading scale, which is really a test of the pupil's power of concentration in silent reading, Stone's reasoning test in arithmetic, Woody-McCall mixed fundamentals in arithmetic, and McCall's spelling scale. The predominance of Dr. McCall's tests is due wholly to the fact that I studied under him and learned to handle his tables. On account of my limited experience, I have no opinions as to which of the many tests available are the best. While all subjects were not tested, we did test give a very fair idea of the extent of any pupil's educational achievements, I believe.

I can most easily illustrate the uses of test results by referring you to this results of some of our grade six pupils. Pupil A has tested a grade 8.4 in intelligence, which means that his intelligence is that of pupils who have finished the fourth month in grade eight. His educational results show that in reading he is grade 8.3; in reasoning arithmetic, a grade 7.8, and in spelling, a grade 8.6. You will notice that when we average his educational grades, some subjects raise or lower the standing; just as they do in ordinary examinations.

Here we have a pupil with an intelligence apparently capable of doing grade eight work easily, the first week in September, while his educational standing is grade 7.4. What should be done with him?

A Great Advantage. This brings us to one of the great advantages of a survey such as this, over the use of intelligence tests alone. No London teacher, I believe, now doubts the value of the group intelligence testing, and no school has more reason to proclaim the accuracy of the tests used than has Alexandra, but in the use of the intelligence tests alone, there lies this danger.

There have been a few cases where pupils, apparently able to do the work of the next grade, have failed to make good. Sometimes this is due to laziness, but more often to the fact that the pupils have not sufficient educational background to carry on the work of the new grade. Perhaps the new teacher has not the time to give extra coaching. Discouragement and failure follow. Now, if by a survey such as this, a pupil's educational achievements are shown to fall short of his mental ability, such failure might be avoided by not promoting him till he had a better grasp of the work of the grade he is in.

But to return to pupil A, who serves as an example of one of the uses of the results of the survey. Pupil A was re-timed in grade 6 last June, not because we did not know he had ability, but he had been so careless and so lazy for the last two years, that he was not able to pass the promotion examinations. The three of us were interested in his case, had decided that another year in grade six was what he needed and deserved. However, when he made scores like these, better than many of the grade seven pupils, there seemed to be nothing to do but to allow the results of the survey to overrule the judgments of boy a chance in grade seven, where, rescued from the jaws of death he is, of course, making good. Needless to say, pupil A is a strong supporter of standardized tests.

Throughout the school, six pupils were immediately promoted to a higher grade as a result of the survey, because they were found to stand so much higher than their classmates. Of the six, three were outsiders who came to us in September with no special recommendations, but were found to be much better than our own pupils in the same grades. Of the six, it seems probable that at least five will make their year. At present prices, this alone means a saving to the board of education of $200, to say nothing of what it means to their parents, and to the children themselves.

Not All Promoted.

However, not all the children who tested high both mentally and educationally, were promoted. At least one was retained because of ill health, and another because of laziness. For, while the tests show how much actual knowledge happens to be in the head of the pupil, they do not guarantee to make him use it all in his daily work.

A further study of this tabulation will show that the survey may be of value in helping to group the pupils within a single grade. The pupils whose records are used here, plainly fall into two groups. The higher ones happen to be those who are repeating the grade in most cases, while the lower ones are the poor little creatures who tried to handle the work of both grades four and five, last year.

This other tabulation shows a further use which we have made of the results. The first showed the standing of pupils by grades, without taking into account their ages. This latter is very necessary if we are to judge the work of the individual pupil.

The brightness score, which estimates the value of the pupil's work with respect to his age, is found by means of a brightness correction for age. The normal brightness score for each subject is 50, and corresponds roughly, very roughly to an I. Q. or a reading quotient, or a spelling quotient of 100.

Thus, while a 16-year-old pupil may make a score of grade 8.2 in every subject, his brightness score on each subject will be very low.

One more thing have Dr. McCall and his students, notably Franzen, given to the world. How often have we as teachers said, about a child, "I know he is not doing the work he is capable of." And how hard we have found it to prove this statement to the pupil or anyone else. Theoretically at least, this survey shows up the boy or girl who is not making full use of the intelligence which has been given him.

The F score, or effort score, is found for each subject by comparing the brightness in what subject with the brightness in intelligence. If a pupil's brightness in arithmetic is equal to his brightness in intelligence, whatever that may be, he is doing all that can be expected of him, and should be treated accordingly.

Pupil X has a brightness of intelligence of only 33 instead of 50, his brightness in reading is only 20, or three points below his brightness in intelligence. His effort or F score in reading, instead of being 50 which is normal, is three less or 47. But in the other subjects pupil X has a brightness score which is higher than his brightness in intelligence. When his brightness in the various subjects are averaged, he is found to be two points higher than his brightness in intelligence, getting a total F score of 52. How comforting it is to be able to tell the parent in that case that his pupil is working hard and doing the best he can, and to know that it is the truth.

Pupil Y is an exceptionally brilliant pupil who is seen to have educational equipment equal to his mental equipment. It is interesting to note though, that this ten-year-old lad, who by several tests is high fair to lead the grade eight class mentally and educationally, is so immature generally that it is doubtful whether he will be able to put down the answers required on the final papers.

Pupil Z is an example of the fairly intelligent pupil who is not working up to his limit.

8 will be told his initial score in reading, that is, the score he made at the first of September. For the senior pupils, the term reading quotient may be used. In any case the pupil will be shown his initial score in its relation to the score he should have made at that time. Then he will be told the score he will be expected to make at the end of March.

Considerable practice will be given with a view to definitely increasing the powers of concentration and retention during silent reading. Paragraphs of equal difficulty will be selected in reader, geography or history text book. Daily practice will consist of finding how many true-false questions the pupil can answer correctly after reading a paragraph, or how many thoughts he can remember after reading another paragraph. When the time comes for the final test, which will consist of another form of the Thorndike-McCall reading scale, I am sure that the majority of our pupils will be up to their eyes in standard.

If we are able only to increase the efficiency of silent reading during this year, the use of the tests will have been justified.

In June, I hope to make the whole survey again, and so great is my faith in the results of this one, that any pupil who has not made nine or ten months' progress and who does not measure up to the standard of the next grade, will have a hard time passing the regular promotion examinations.

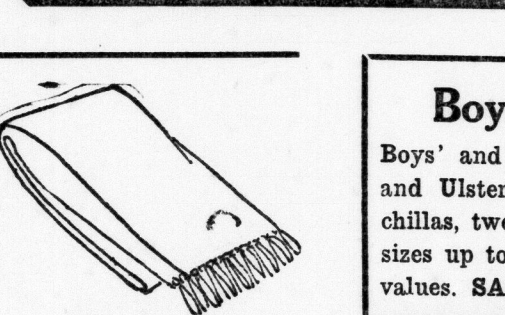

By giving the tests in June, when all the pupils are working their best, we hope to start out in September with Amateur Games On Sabbath Mooted By Windsor M.L.A.

Frank Wilson Will Ask Queen's Park To Rule On Sports.

HITS OLD STATUTE Says Regulation Dates Back Before Confederation—Writes Nickle.

Canadian Press Despatch. Windsor, Dec. 3.—When the Ontario legislature meets again, Frank W. Wilson, M.L.A., for Windsor, will introduce a bill to make amateur games legal on Sundays, provided this can be done by the Toronto house.

"I have often thought," said Mr. Wilson, "that it would be much better for young men to engage in healthful and decent sport on Sunday than to hang around with nothing to do and perhaps end up by getting into mischief. There are a lot of our young people who have to work Saturday afternoons. For them, therefore, Sunday is the only opportunity to play baseball, football, hockey or whatever particular brand of sport they fancy. Upon making inquiries I find that the law prohibiting sports on Sunday is an old statute of Upper Canada. For that reason I am not sure whether the Ontario legislature has power to make the change or whether action would have to be taken by the dominion parliament. "I have written to the attorney-general at Toronto asking that he have point, and if I find it is within the powers of the legislature I will introduce the necessary bill at the session of 1926.

STILL SOME COAL.
The stock of anthracite coal in the city is not entirely depleted, a survey of the yards reveals. One dealer has about 800 tons of anthracite, of varying sizes, and some of the other dealers have lesser amounts. Many dealers, however, have not a pound of anthracite for sale. It begins to appear as though soft Alberta coal will have to take the place of anthracite in many homes in the city.

GRAND BURLESQUE HAS PEPPY CHORUS

Smiles and Kisses Is Good Comedy—Competent Principals.

Smiles and Kisses, a giggling, laughing, rollicking, peppery burlesque, in which the fun is honest-to-goodness home-made comedy and the chorus girls were pretty and shapely, came to London yesterday, and those who saw it at the Grand declared that it was just about the best-balanced, most entertaining burlesque that has been seen here this season. Matinee and evening performances will be given today and on Saturday.

Audiences were large and appreciative, and many were the encores the artists had to grant to satisfy the fun palate of London burlesque fans. An attractive feature of the performance was the Charleston dancing of Ted White and Violet Gilmore, the talented London couple who won the contest at the Grand last week. The exhibition of this famous southern dance given by Ted and Violet made an unusual hit with the audience, and it was only after they had returned to two encores that the applause died down. Mr. White and Miss Gilmore will dance at each performance for the remainder of the week.

Without a good comedian a burlesque show is likely to be a dull affair. In Smiles and Kisses Charles Goldie stamps himself as a natural funmaker, and his comedy was indeed well received at yesterday's performances. Supporting Goldie is Tommy O'Neil, a joker of no mean order either. Between the two of them they more than care for the laugh necessities of the show.

Then, of course, there is Pat Kearney, one of the most jovial leading men on burlesque circuits today. Pat is always there with that little extra touch to give the act just the right flavor. Bert Barry is especially good in the character sketches and his acting is deserving of high praise.

As for the girls—all of them are comely, and the majority of them are really pretty. The chorus is the best-trained seen here this year. In the leading parts are: Iorcia Kater, Olga Bernard, Pauline Russell, Vic Spahr, Beulah Monroe, Josephine Flint, Iva Fowler, Leona Barry, Ruth Dearing and Etta Roberts.

Fresh and dainty costumes and scenery that was new added to the general success of the show. Life is a See-Saw, a gorgeous electrical display which closed the first act, is among the leading scenic effects to be offered by a burlesque in this city.

SECOND O.T.A. BREAK BRINGS HEAVIER FINE

Samuel Soskin Pays Fine of $200 and Costs in Police Court.

A previous fine under the O. T. A. of $1,000, paid by Samuel Soskin six months ago, was instrumental in him gaining little consideration from Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon in police court on Thursday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of having liquor in a public place.

He had a wagon load of liquor last time, Chief Birrell told Mr. Graydon, but Wednesday only one bottle was found in his possession. The court imposed a fine of $200 and costs.

"The police think you are peddling liquor," Mr. Graydon informed Soskin. "In view of your last conviction you can be imprisoned now."

Soskin declared he was in the act of taking the bottle to a friend's house where a party had been arranged.

Chief Birrell ordered that Soskin be taken to the cells until his fine was paid.
