Chief Justice Sums It Up. Chief Justice Sums It Up.

In discussing the charge, Chief Justice Moss said: We cannot agree with Mr. Blackstock that the charge is proved. We think it has failed on the evidence. Farrow has not presented himself to the court in favorable colors. By his own admission he is a person guilty of acts that discredit him on more tham one occasion. His account of his doings on election day was not satisfactory. He was unable to say in what hour of the day the occurrence was. We would suppose that in a matter of this kind it would be difficult to be mistaken as to the time. He said he could not remember whether it was in the morning or afternoon; afterwards he rather came down to the statement that it was in the morning, about himself to the court in favorable colrather came down to the statement that it was in the morning, about 10 o'clock. He ought to have been able to recall the circumstance with more certainty. It is also not to be overlooked that he admits having taken the oath, which oath is a distinct repudiation of having had any inducements held out to him. In that way, to a certain extent, he discretify himself. If MacMurchy's stateway, to a certain extent, he discredits himself. If MacMurchy's statement is to be accepted in full, Farrow's statement is entirely untrue. MacMurchy says he never paid Farrow money, and where a charge is so grave it ought to be supported by evidence more reliable.

Mr. Justice Street said: I quite agree. It was one oath against another, and Farrow discredited himself by the fact that he took the oath swearing that no money had been paid.

Nelson's Story.

Nelson's Story.

James T. Nelson said that he lived at Buffalo. He knew Capt. John Sullivan, who at that time lived at the Walker House, Toronto. He saw Sullivan in December, 1902, about the 5th of the month, at Buffalo. He was brought down to his house by J. J. McCarty, a saloonkeeper and relative of Sullivan's. Sullivan said that he was representing the Liberal Government of Ontario. They were going to have three byelections and he said that he (witness) had been recommended to him for assistance. An hour later he met Sullivan at McCarty's saloon. He said that they depended on these constituencies to sustain the Government. Nelson replied that he would assist if there was money enough in the Loter on the 17th or 18th, he ment. Nelson replied that he would assist if there was money enough in it. Later, on the 17th or 18th, he met Sullivan again. He told Nelson to get eight men besides myself, two for North Norfolk and the balance for North Perth and North Grey. He said that he preferred William Bain, Michael Crosby, John Freeman, a young man by the name of Gallagher, William Schley and John McCarty. He named those parties himself. At this meeting he arranged to give the witness $5 a day, $2 for hotel bill and expenses, and $1 for each of the men. He specified these men because he said he knew them. He went away and said he would meet the witness on the 26th or 27th.

In the meantime he got his men ecuring John Haskitt and Leon In the meantime he got his hear, securing John Haskitt and Leon J. Mulloy as well as the others named. He received $25 at that time. Sullivan and Nelson made an arrangement and met on the 27th at the Daly House with Haskitt on Sunday. The witness received $20. At 3 o'clock Sullivan introduced him to Messrs. Smith and Massey. He met Smith afterwards and found out that his right name was Vance. Mr. Sullivan said: "This is the gentleman that will tell you what to do in North Perth." He told him to go to the Cabinet Hotel at Stratford. He was to engage board for a month. He claimed that they were suspicious of every stranger and that it would be difficult to get in unless he did this. He got in without the monthly engagement, however. He monthly engagement, however. J. J. McCarty, John Freeman, Gallagher, Schley and Leon Mulloy came to North Grey. In Perth the witness was known by his own name. He was supposed to be a traveler, but was supposed to be a traveler, but did not take any orders away with him. To the North Grey men he gave Sullivan's instructions. McOarty and Mulloy. were te register at the Pacific Hotel. McCarty was to register as Marshall. The other three were to go to the Grand Central. Schley was to be sent to Shallow Lake and Mulloy to Wiarton. He was te see a Dr. Huff or Hough at Wiarton. McCarty had charge of the North Grey men. He was to get money at the hotel, but could not recall who it was from then. Mulloy at Wiarton was to represent an Indian Medicine Company. It was at the Pacific Hotel, Wiarton, where he was to meet Dr. Hough. Sullivan told him that Hough had rooms there.

The men went forward to North Grey, while the witness went back to Stratford. He came to Owen Sound on Jan. 5 and met J. J. McCarty, but was only here from one train to the other. McCarty was at the Cen-tral Hotel, and he met him there.

"Cap" Fails to Pay. At Toronto, the day after the election, Sullivan gave him $50 at the Walker House, and told him to send in his bill from Buffalo. He sent his bill for $135, but had not received the money. He wrote Sullivan sever-al times in connection with the bill, al times in connection with the bill, but did not get his money. Cross-questioned by Mr. Aylesworth, he said that he had not been here in recent years until Jan. 15, 1903. He was raised in Kingston, Ontario, and was born in 1854. For 18 years he had lived in Buffalo. He had been in Ontario at intervals since. At the time of the election he was working for The London Times, taking orders for The Encyclopaedia Britannica. He had read of Captain Sullivan in the newspapers, and knew that he was accused of corrupt practices in Ontario politics. The affidavit had been sworn before a notary public named Newman in Buffalo, and had been given to Mr. Wright, It was in March or late in February that he became acquainted Wright. It was in March or late in February that he became acquainted with Wright. Previously he had written to Mr. Whitney, and later, to G. M. Boyd. He did this because Sullivan had not lived up to his agreement. Mr. Boyd informed Mr. Wright, and the latter answered. He had not kept copies of the letters. Mr. Wright informed him that he was Conservative organizer, and he told him the substance of his story. Mr. Frazer, an attorney at Niagara Falls, drafted the affidavit. Mr. Wright, Mulloy and himself were present at the Mansion House, Buffalo, when the document was drawn up. when the document was drawn up Mr. Aylesworth led up to the date of the first meeting with Sullivan, and the witness was confident that it was December. The affidavit stated that the first meeting took place in November. Nelson replied that the affidavit was probably correct, as the fact was fresh in his mind at the Watch Conservatives, Too. Vance had told him that part of his work was to watch for bribery on the other side. He did not report the names of weak-kneed men to O'Bierne names of weak-kneed men to O Bierne but did to R. T. Hardy. He did not take into account the immorality of his position any more than a lawyer would. He denied that he had been in court for stealing spoons from the Bowery Brewery Company. The goods were property that was in a hotel which he had purchased, and over which there had been a misunderstanding. The judge fined him and over which there had been a misun-derstanding. The judge fined him and remitted the fine. For throwing one Mcarns out of his hotel for not pay-ing his board he had been fined and released on suspended sentence for one year. He had received no reward or promise of reward, and Mr. Wright had said: "Remember, there is no money in it for you, but if there is anything to tell I am here to take it."

The Liberals had approached him afterwards to have him make a false affidavit. The statement that A. W. Wright supplied the names for the affidavit was absolutely untrue. His instructions to Bain were to find the weak ones and buy them. Freeman was a stranger to him. He was from St. Catharines and was one of the captain's selections. Schley was from St. Catharines and he was also Sullivan's selection. Among the names mentioned was that of Frost, an attorney, who was to give them names mentioned was that of Frost, an attorney, who was to give them the money. He did not know that Mr. Frost was the town solicitor and a gentleman held in the highest esteem. The total amount which he had received from Sullivan was $360, of which $205 had been paid out to Bain and Crosby. None of the balance had been spent in North Grey.

When he sold out the articles still remained in the hotel and had not been taken in the notel and had not been taken away at any time. The witness had received no compensation, nor did he expect any for coming to Owen Sound, other than his railroad fare.

MR. BORDEN'S VISIT

The announcement of the visit of Mr. R. L. Borden to this city on Tuesday evening next, September 20th, will afford intense satisfaction to all classes of the people. Without regard to political affiliation, there is intense public interest in the man who has so quickly and yet so fully realized the highest expectations of the party, which chose him as its leader four years ago. The position Mr. Borden has taken on the issues of the day, commands the admiration of all true Canadians. His policy is remarkable, no less for its broad statesmanship than for the candor and ability with which it has been enunciated.

There has been no attempt on the part of Mr. Borden to pander to sectional interests on the great fiscal question. The story he tells to the people of the far West is the story that he tells to the people of the Industrial centres of the East. He believes in the adequate protection of Canadian labor and Canadian produce against foreign competition, "Between the Canadian producer and any other, I stand for the Canadian, between the British and the Foreign producer, I am for the Bri-tish every time." Day by day the conclusion is coming home to the peole of Canada that the maintenance of our present industrial status demands more substantial protection for the products of Canadian farms and Canadian workshops.

Mr. Borden's stand on the transportation question throws a new and important issue into the public arena. There is no doubt about the positions of the two great parties on that The issue is clearly defined. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his associates have pledged the credit of the people of Canada to the extent of $150,000,000, for the construction o fa continental railroad for Mr. Cox and Mr. Hays. They say, virtually, that the people shall build the road, but that the Grand Trunk shall own, operate, and reap all the profits that may be derived from its operation. Mr. Borden, on the other hand, has declared for public ownership of this great enterprise. He has urged that instead of spending the people's money to build for the Grand Trunk a road that will take traffic from the Intercolonial, that we should take some of this money and extend the Intercolonial west ward. In his great speech on this question on the floor of Parliament he declared:

"It is for the people to decide. Let them determine whether Canada shall have a Government owned railway a railway owned Government." With confidence, then, we may look forward to a rousing reception to Mr. Borden when he pays his first visit to this city. A patriotic Canadian, he has done more than any other man in his day to infuse into the public life of Canada the spirit of national self-reliance, that inspired his great predecessor, Sir John A. Macdonald. He has an abiding faith and an abounding confidence in the future of this great country. He believes Canada should be developed and her resources conserved and utilized for the Canadian people. Such a man deserves well of his fellow countrymen of all classes and of all shades of polities.

Laborers' Strike Off.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—This morning will see the builders laborers and bricklayers at work again. After a fight that lasted four weeks, the laborers have decided that, even though they might gain the demanded 28 cents per hour by staying out a few weeks longer, it would not pay them in the long run. Last night they met, and after a discussion lasting nearly an hour, voted te go back to work.

The Scotch Education Bill had repeaceful course in the House of Commons the other day, save at the opening, when Graham Murray ventured with insufficient knowledge thanter Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman.

The Liberal leader had jestingly resented Mr. Balfour's suggestion that Scotch members do not go to Ascot. Playing upon this, the Secretary for Scotland observed that he was not a betting man and did not go to races like Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman.
On the previous afternoon he had obbetting man and did not go to races like Sir Henry Campbell-Bannermand. On the previous afternoon he had observed that Sir Henry did not appear in the House until after the hour for the last race.

The suddenness of this amazing charge threw the Liberals into furious disorder. "C.-B" denied that he had even looked at a horse on Monday, and declared that he had really been at Westminster, all the time. One of his followers discovered there had been no racing at all Monday; so that the character of leader of the official Liberals remsed stainless.

Gradually it dawned upon the House that either this was a Scotch joke which Graham Murray had been perpetrating or that neither he nor-"C.-B." knew anything about horse-races.

Sir William Butler, an English soldier of distinction, said recently in giving testimony before a British commission in regard to william to the commission in regard to t dier of distinction, said recently in giving testimony before a British commission in regard to militia service: "Warwickshire men, miners, and that class of people, like to get to the sea for ten days if they can possibly afford it—they will spend their own money to do it. They all bathe. I have a very long sea-coast, and we have a number of miners who really enjoy being out with their regiment of garrison artillery near the sea. They go to the sea because they fire over the sea, and the bathing parade is as valuable, if not more so, than the drill; it freshens the men up and cleanses them. An officer told me last summer that when they were bathing there was one fellow with a very black skin, and he heard a man say to 'him, 'Jack, you are pretty dirty.' 'Yes,' he said, 'I was not out at last year's training.'"

Soldier's License.

The new Licensing Bill recalls the fact that the right to sell alcoholic liquors without a license was a priliquors without a license was a privilege formerly granted to old soldiers and their children as the State's reward for their services. An act was passed in 1816 authorizing any officer, marine, mariner, or soldier who had served in the Napoleonic wars to carry on any trade carr dier who had served in the Napoleonic wars to carry on any trade

This privilege was also extended to their wives and children. Seven years ago a dealer in wine, spirits and beer was prosecuted at the Mansion House for pursuing his business without a license. He pleaded that he was the son of a Peninsular veteran, exempt under this old statute, and had carried on his unlicensed business for forty years without official objection.

Lord Hugh Cecil, who makes such slashing attacks on Mr. Chamberlain, is perhaps the most studious and ascetic-looking of Parliamentarians, He never lingers in the lobbies, but is always to be found in one of the two places where, in the opinion of Lord Beaconsfield, the young M. P., whose ambition is the Treasury bench, should diligently spend his time—the library and the debating chamber. One of the few occasions on which the late Marquis of Salisbury exhibited emotion was at a banquet when Mr. Bryce referred to the debating ability of Lord Hugh and the promise of high political distinction his early Parliamentary speeches revealed.—London Chronicle.

THREE ACCIDENTS TO HIS PIPE AND WHAT THEY PORTENDED

A Fool With an Appetite"-How He Rebuked Some Hollanders Who Insulted the British National Anthem-Duke of Alercorn and the Ex-President-His Old Tattered Bible-What He Dared Not Do.

Many interesting stories are told of Many interesting stories are told of Mr. Kruger. Long years ago a pedlar, selling Oom Paul a meerschaum pipe, said three accidents to it would precede three big changes in life, and it strangely happened that just before Majuba part of the stem broke; just before the Jameson raid the bowl got chipped; and just before the Blewfore the Blever of the plant of the plant of the Blever of the plant of the bowl got chipped; and just before the Bloemfontein conference of '99 the pipe fell and was broken to

Some wealthy Africans, with whom Some wealthy Africans, with whom he was traveling in the desert, found the food hampers gone astray. "You are a great believer in miracles, Com Paul," said one of them. "Why can't you arrange for Heaven to send me victuals by the crows, as they were sent by the ravens to Elijah?" "Because," said Com, drily, "Elijah was a prophet with a mission—you are only a feed with a mission—you are only a fool with an appetite."

As she was about to spring on him, he saved himself by making such contortions with his body that she ran off in sheer fright. His she ran off in sheer fright. His thumb had been sadly mangled, and afterwards, when gangrene was set-ting in, he coolly cut it off with his knife. Seldom was Kruger really more

Seldom was Kruger really more angry—for he was not always angry when he seemed so—than when in '84 he was returning home from England. During the singing of 'God save the Queen' on shipboard, the Rev. du Toit and other Hollanders ostentatiously put on their hats and left the saloon. 'Oom,' who had risen and uncovered, would not rest till they had almost grovellingly apologized. Far be it from any of his people, he said, to insuit the flag they were traveling under.

In '95 the Duke of Abercorn visited Kruger as a simple British gentleman, and he and 'Oom' got on famously together till someone mentioned that he had been Viceroy' of Ireland. 'A Viceroy! A Viceroy!' cried Oom. 'What have I to do with so great a personage? I am but a passent the scool of selvery

Oom Paul was enchanted.

Men of many lands, having gathered round a shooter's camp-fire, a Briton and German came well night to blows over the relative merits of Shakspeare and Goethe. Oom Paul asked to arbitrate, growled, "Never read either of 'em' and the disputants asked in a breath, "what on earth he had read, then!" "Only this"—and out came Kruger's tatputants asked in a breath, "what on earth he had read, then!" "Only this"—and out came Kruger's tat-tered Bible. "I've read it day and night for 40 years, and haven't mastered half its glories. When I have done so I may start on Shakspeare and Goethe."

Once, in his young days, he dismounted from his horse to put a hobbling old woman in the saddle, hobbling old woman in the saddle, and led the animal by the head till he reached his home. "God bless you for your kindness," said the beldam. "If I had been young and comely I would not have wondered at it." "If you had been young and comely I dared not have done it." "Why, my dear, why? I should not have eaten you." "Oh, no, but—"And Stephen pointed to his wife, smilling on the stoep—"she would!" Kruger's physical prowess was, famous. He had shot his first lion when 11; his first Kafiir before he was 14. He could stand on his head in the saddle holding on to the stirrupstraps while his horse galloped; he could throw off his saddle when the girths broke without dismounting; he could bring down a running buck at 400 yards with almost absclute certainty; he could outrun a horse over and led the animal by the head till he reached his home. "God bless

Amid all his adventures he managed to learn to read and write. His reading was restricted to the Bible; his writing never got beyond the primitive stage. On one occasion, says Mr. Wilson, in his book, "Behind the Scenes in the Transvaal," Mr. Kruger visited Barberton, and the diggers received him with brutal rudeness, and demanded reforms and dictated terms; but Mr. Kruger completely took the wind out of their sails by impress-ing upon them the wisdom of im-mediately drawing up a formal peti-tion for Rand representation, which he sails he would personally take he said, he would personally take charge of. The delighted diggers car-ried the President off to luncheon, and champagne flowed freely. It was a triumph of diplomacy and cunwas a triumph of diplomacy and cun-ning. During the homeward journey next day, Mr. Wilson noticed him frequently chuckling and laughing to himself, and asked him what amused him. "I'm thinking of that peti-tion," he said, "it's the last they'll ever hear of it." And he spoke the truth.

A statue has been erected to President Kruger at Pretoria. It is char-acteristic of the man and his friends that Mrs. Kruger's especial wish that Mrs. Kruger's especial wish should have been respected, and that the hat, an ugly chimney-pot, should have been left roofless, so that rainwater may collect there and afford soluce to thirsty birds. LOST NELSON RELICS.

News of Those Stolen From Painted Hall, Greenwich Hospital.

The lost Nelson relics are still at The lost Nelson relics are still at large, though there is news of them, as recently recorded in The London Globe. Three and a half years ago, on the night of December 8, a large number of the Nelson relics were stolen from the Painted Hall, Greenwich Hospital. The glass was rmashed, when or how nobody knows. The relics stolen, says The British American of Chicago, whence the accompanying illustration is taken companying illustration is panying illustration is taken, comprised the gold watch which was presented to Nelson by the Marchioness of Westminster, the oval gold box which contained the freedom of the city of London, presented in 1797, one of the gold medals commemorating the battle of St. Vincent, and another on which was inscribed "Victory at Trafalgar, 1805, Victory, Nelson Vice-Admiral, Commodore-in-Chief, October 21st, 1805. The Press Association learns that two of the relics have been discovered. It appears that on June 27 two packages were left by a man in the cloak-room at the Custom House Railway Station, London, and had not since been called for. Suspicion being aroused, the luggage was on Monday handed over to Detective-Inspector Arrow, who, on examining one of the packages, found among its contents a concertina. A mark at the side of the screw in the instrument as if a screwdriver had slipped, decided the inspector. If a screwdriver had slipped, decided the inspecter to take the concertina to pieces, with the result that in-side, carefully packed, he found the gold watch and gold sword hilt which formed part of the missing screwdriver had slipped, decided formed part of the missing Nelson relics.

How Ice Forms.

On the surface of a river or water exposed to the air ice is made by the coldness of the air against the top of coldness of the air against the top of the water. When the water is cooled thus it at first shrinks in size and therefore sinks below the less cold water next to it. This in turn gets cooler, shrinks and sinks, and so on till all the water from top to bottom is lowered to 4 degrees C. above zero. As soon as the water restance. zero. As soon as the water gets colder than this it begins to swell colder than this it begins to swell and therefore no longer sinks as before, but stays on the top, and if the cooling still goes on till zero C. is reached it begins to turn into ice. When, by the colder air atop of it, as much heat is taken away from this water at zero as would have raised a pound of water at zero to a pound of water at zero to a pound of water at zero to a pound of ice is formed; when twice as much, two pounds, and so on till if bauch, two pounds, and so on till, if the air above the water keeps cold enough, the whole of the water will in time be made into ice.

Improved by Volcanie Dust.

When the volcanic eruptions in Guatemala last year covered the coffee fincas, it was believed that the industry was ruined and that Guatemala had received a blow from which recovery would be slow. Many planters abandoned their ash covered plantations and believed themselves ruined, but the activity of the volcances was followed by heavy and long continued rains, which washed away a great deal of the ashes and incorporated more of them with the soil. The rain also seemed to bleach the ashes and extract from it a liquid fertilizer which proved of great benefit to the coffee trees. The result is a crop nearly as large again as last year's. When the volcanic eruptions

TO PLAY IT OFF

A meeting of the Tecumseh lacrosse

A meeting of the Tecumseh lacrosse club was held last evening in the Rankin House with about 20 present. Everyone who attended was enthusiastic over the prospects for playing off the intermediate championship game with Orillia in Galt, and steps were taken to arrange the club's finances so that the game may be played. A subscription list was drawn up and is now being circulated, and it is hoped that the citizens will respond liberally to the call. Manager Frank Babcock feels confident that the Tecumsehs will we not be made to the time-up, and if Orillia wins it will be because they are fairly entitled to it, but the Tecumsehs will be in the game from the start to the finish. They are all in good shape and a record game may be looked for Galt is indeed fortunate in securing it.

THE "COWSOY EARL."

Peer Who Advertises Historic Castle Ma byr For Sale Has Experienced Many Strange Ups and Downs.

Lord Shannon, who advertises the historic town of Castle Martyr, which he owns, in County Cork, as being for sale, is a peer who possesses more than ordinary interest for people on this side of the water owing to the fact that he is known as the "Cowboy Earl." At the time of his father's death, some fourteen years ago, no trace of him could be found. The last that had been heard of him was that he had been part owner of a ranch in Minnesota about owner of a ranch in Minnesota about four years previously, that is to say, in 1886. say, in 1886.
But his whereabouts could not be ascertained for a long time, and much money was spent in scouring the whole of the United States and Canada, even to the Yukon, in an Canada, even to the Yukon, in an endeavor to apprise him of his father's death and of his own accession to the earldom before he was found living quietly in New York. During his roving life in the United States he experienced many strange ups and downs and extraordinary vicissitudes, cattle punching being the occupation in which he appears to have been chiefly engaged. Indeed for long after his return to Ireland and his establishment in his ancestral home at Castle Martyr, he used to go in for wood chopping on an extensive scale, getting rid in this manner of his superabundant energy, and his lazy cottagers reaping the and his lazy cottagers reaping the benefit of his violent exertions. He was at one time after his return reported to be engaged to a Mrs. Francis Beedy of Philadelphia, but eventually married a Miss Thompson of Surrey, by whom he has several children, the eldest of whom bears the title of Viscount Boyle, Boyle the title of Viscount Boyle, Boyle being likewise his patronymic, as it is that of the earls of Cork. The Earl of Shannon is the chief of a younger branch of the family, of which Lord Cork is the head, and it is his coat of arms which is emblazoned on the head of the menu cards and of the note-paper of the Carlton Hatel, which companyed the Carlton Hotel, which commemorates Lord Shannon's ancester, Lord Carlton, Minister of State to Queen Ann, and the creator of Carlton House, afterwards the residence of King George IV. as regent.

Had a Business Mind.

The late Queen Victoria seems to have exercised a suzerainty over the pocket money of her grandchildren. She held them to a strict accounting in the matter of expenditure, and if they did not make their allowances last over a specified period she sternly called them to account. One week when the present Prince of Wales was at Eton, candy, tarts and other schoolboy delights proved his financial undoing. He had spent a month's allowance in one week. With impecuniosity and indigestion came impecuniosity and indigestion came repentance. Accordingly he wrote a long mea culpa to his grandmother, confessing his fault, and asking for an advance on account of the next installment of pocket money. In reply he received a long letter of admonition from the Queen, refusing his request. The letter closed with a sentence in which the writer expressed the pain that it gave her in having so to write to him.

A few days later, Her Majesty received another letter from the future heir to the British throne. It ram

London's High Rents.

He is indeed a lucky man who owns building property within the four mile radius of London, for he can command a small fortune in the can command a small fortune in the way of rental for his houses, shops or offices, as the case may be. Singularly enough, it is not in the west end of London, as many people imagine, but near the Old Lady of Threadneedle street. Some time ago one room near the Royal exchange let for between $10,000 and $15,000 let for between $10,000 and $10,000 let for between $10,000 and $10,000 let for between $10,000 and $10,000 let fo let for between $10,000 and $15,000 a year, while a house agent who advertised certain properties in Throgmorton street asked $1,200 yearly rental for each of seven telephone boxes. For shops and business premises in the Strand gigantic rents are paid, although, of course, Bond street is the dearest thoroughfare in the world with regard to shops. Many shopkeepers between Charing Cross and the old Lyceum theatre pay be-tween $10,000 and $15,000 rental, exclusive of rates and taxes. Perhaps one might be able to obtain a very small shop for $3,000 or $3,500 per annum, but such a price would secure very indifferent accommodation-probably only the one room which faced the street.

Elected M.P. Fifty Years Age.

An English paper says: Sir James Ferguson, released from the thank-less task of presiding over the Grand Committee on the Aliens Bill, is no doubt thanking his stars that he is doubt thanking his stars that he is quit of as hard labor as he has encountered during the whole fifty years during which he has been connected off and on with the House of Commons. It is difficult to realize, looking at the slim, upright figure, youthful gait, and hardly grizzled locks of the member for Northeast Manchester, that he was first elected to Parliament half a century ago, just ten years before Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the present father of the House, took his seat for Gloucester-shire. Sir James shares with Major Seely the distinction of having become an M.P. while on active service as a soldier. He penned his first address to his constituents from the battle field of Inkerman, where his friend and fellow-Guardsman, Colonel Ment Visit, WEDN SDAY, SEPT. 28th

TYING KNOYS IN JAPAN.

It Is a Serious Art, as a Mistake May

Mean an Insult. Like the arranging of flowers, the tying of knots has been carried to the point of a complex art by the Japanese. There is one way—one right way, that is—to knot the cord that confines a birthday or New Year's present. There is one way to tie the bro-cade bag of the tea jar when the latter is empty and another when it is full. Not only general ignorance of social customs but deadly insults may be communicated by the way a knot is tied, foreigners often making dreadful mistakes either through enot knowing or from ignoring the niceties of knot Hooks and eyes, buttons and buckles are unknown so far as Japanese dress is concerned. They do not have much to fasten, but what they do have they fasten with cord. That is why they have carried the tying of cord so far. The Japanese have hundreds of ornamental knots, some of them so old that they antedate written history.

knots just as they are taught to write and draw. All sorts of flower and animal forms are copied. There is the chrysanthemum knot, the iris knot, plum blossom, pine tree and cherry blossom knots. There is a stork knot, a turtle knot, a knot named for the sacred mountain Fujiyama. An easy knot is called the "old man's knot."

There is also an "old woman's knot."

ties of a Big City.

A philosophic writer in the Kingston News and Times refers thus to a recent scene in Toronto:
Civilization is only over the fence from barbarism, and is constantly knocking boards off to make holes to crawl through, back to the original estate. People dearly love noise and show. Physical prowess and not intellectual achievement still claims the attention of the world—ard this was the sermor that the machine hung was the sermor that the machine hung on these pegs of text. Let the greatest preacher, the greatest teacher, the greatest surgeon, the greatest author that the world holds to-day, author that the world holds to-day, all come to Toronto together, and a half column interview, with a mild intimation that a few of their friends had called upon them at the hotel, would be the sum of public notice and of public interest. A few years ago when the introducer of antiseptic surgery was in Toronto, a man who indirectly has probably been the means of saving more lives than all the wars of the Empire have cost, who has prevented more suffering than all the wars have inflicted, when this man was in Toronto a few medical men and college people joined to do him honor, but the public had not interest enough to enquire his name. The City Council did not vote a thousand dollars to entertain him, nor a half score aldermen rush across the lake to meet and welcome him. Nothing meet and welcome him. Nothing that is of surpassing benefit to humanity, nothing that raises the status of the race, nothing that makes life better or more intense, appeals to the crowd. When Scholes won the boat race, though, there was a stir abroad. Here was a chance for noise, he matter that the all for noise. No matter that the al-

Wonderful Sand Bank. One of the historical spots of Prince Edward county is the West One of the historical spots of Prince Edward county is the West Lake sand banks. They are a curiosity, and where a large cedar swamp once stood is now entirely obscured from view by thousands of tons of sand. The sand banks are bounded by West Lake and Lake Ontario, and all about ten miles northwest of Picton. The main street of the latter place, with two rows of beautiful maple trees for several miles, takes the visitor to the sand banks, which the residents of Prince Edward County consider one of the wonders of the world. At the end of the road there is a turning point, at which is a huge maple tree, which stands in the centre of the driveway, familiarly known as the "wishing tree." Every time the visitors puss this odd tree they make a wish, and that they have scored luck at and that they have scored luck at one time or another is quite evident, as they never fail to wish when they go that way. About 40 years ago the sand from the lake began to fill in the cedar swamp, and since that time a bar has formed across the mouth of West Lake some four miles long and about three-quarters of a long and about three-quarters of a mile wide, which is the great feature of the sand banks. But there is a still more marvellous feature. Some who recently visited the place had the pleasure of indulging in a snowball throwing contest. In the winter the ice and snow form in the banks, which are covered by sand in the spring and convequently it has spring, and, consequently, it has no chance to thaw out. By digging down about three feet, the visitor locates the snow, which remains there the year round. The send banks are about 75 feet high in some places, and they plie up sequickly in some spots that it is necessary for drivers to dig out new roadways every year or so in order to get across to Wellington.

Bad Season for Salmon The salmon fishing season in Can-ada has been practically a failure this year. Not only have the fish caught with the rod been few, but the net fishermen have fared little better, so that salmon is selling in Canada almost at famine rates. The canada almost at lamine rates. The end of the season is Aug. 15.

The first fish enter the rivers almost as soon as the ice has disappeared, and the largest fish are usually the first to "run," as it is called. The run continues, at intervals, for two or three months.

But, in appreaching the mouth of

But in approaching the mouth of their river, the fish invariably hug the shore. The net fishermen take advantage of this, and set series af-ter series of nets extending out from the shore directly across the path of the ascending fish. These nets are only taken up to remove the fish cap-tured, and for 36 hours each week, from 8 o'clock on Saturday night till 6 o'clock Monday morning.

It is not, therefore, very surprising that the bulk of the fish that leave the sea each season to ascend the rivers are captured in the nets. Those that are killed by anglers in fair fishing with rod and line are so few as compared with those taken by the commercial fishermen that they make no appreciable difference in the supply, but there is little dcubt that unless more stringent measures are taken to protect the fish, not only will salmon fishing become a thing of the past in Canadian rivers, but there must also be a great falling off in the supply of the fish for THE UNANIMOUS VERDICT

CATARRH OF THE HEAD

Is very common, but awfully dangerous, because it causes deafness and leads to consumption. Cure is as certain to follow the use of Catarrhozone as day is to follow night. You simply breathe the fragrant, healing Catarrhozone which spreads through the nasal passages, throat and lungs, driving out every vestige of catarrh. "I was cured of chronic catarrh of the nose and throat," writes Ernest M. Wilkinson, of Laurenceton, "after many years of misery, by Catarrhozone, which is a splendid remedy to free the air passages from mucous. Catarrhozone ieleved quickly and my cure has been rermanent." Mr. Alexander MacWillie has re-Mr. Alexander MacWillie has returned to Toronto after a business trip around the world, which occupied two years and a half, and included Hawaii, the Philippines, Samoa, Japan, China, Siberia, New Zealand, Australia and South Africa. Mr. MacWillie had some extremely interesting experiences, for he covered territory not often visited by tourists. He penetrated so far into the interior of China that, for safety's sake, it became necessary to safety's sake, it became necessary to wear the native costume, including a wear the native costume, including a pigtail.

In Africa Mr. MacWillie visited the famous Victoria Falls, traveling 90 miles through the forest in an ox cart. On the return trip he had an experience with a lien. A kraal was reached about 1 o'clock in the morning, but the Cape boys refused to come out until threatened with the sjambok. It was learned that two nights before lions had taken cows from the kraal and the boys were afraid to venture out in consequence. The party lit a circle of fires and prepared to keep watch in turns. "I had the first watch," says Mr. Mac-Willie, "and was feeling drowsy when I heard the fierce growl of a lion within twenty yards of me. I freely confess I was so terrified that I could not call out. When I recovered myself I threw a stick at a missionary in the party who was sleeping close by me, and, together, we watched and listened. Again we heard the growls, and, picking up burning brands, we threw them in the direction from which the sounds proceeded and we were not bothered further. Later, while traveling down the Wankie, the superintendent of the Cape Government railway stopped the train in the middle of a forest at midnight in order to show me the place where a boy had the previous night been killed by a lion. The trail of the beast was plainly marked by the blood of the victim."

Mr. MacWillie says that Canadian business men do not half appreciate the great possibilities for trade that exist in South Africa, which is especially to be regretted in view of the fact that since the war Canadians have an extraordinarily good reputation at the Cape.

Mr. MacWillie spent some time at Port Arthur and saw a good deal of the great fortifications, but owing to his business relations with the Russian Government he did not care to say anything about them. He soom starts out again for South Africa and will cover very much the same ground as in his former tour, except that, in addition, he will visit India and Egypt. pigtail.

Sketch of Sir William MacGregor.

Sir William MacGregor, whose ap-pointment to succeed Sir Cavendish Boyle as Governor of Newfoundland pointment to succeed Sr. Cavendish Boyle as Governor of Newfoundland has just been approved by the King, was born in Scotland in 1847, and graduated M.D. at Aberdeen. After serving as medical officer at Leychelles, Mauritius and Fiji, he was acting High Commissioner for the Western Pacific; Administrator of British New Guinea, 1888; Lieutenant-Governor, 1895; Governor of Lagos since 1899. He has the Albert medal, second-class, and the Clarke gold medal for saving life at sea. In this connection The London Chronicle says: Dr. MacGregor—as he was then—played a great part in the rescue of a shipful of Indian coolies in the Syria, which struck on a rock about twelve hours steaming from Suva, the capital of Fiji. Dr. MacGregor, then Acting Colonial Secretary, organized the relief expedition, clambered over a broken mast that was the only path to the emigrants, who had been more than two days on the split steamer, and again and again returned with a man or a woman on his back, and sometimes a child, held by its clothes between his teeth. A man of vast physical strength, MacGregor wanted it all for his final feat. Down below on the reef was a woman who had fallen everboard, had got at the spirits, and was mad with drink. The captain of the ship and a police officer who had gone after her were being swept out to sea. MacGregor slid and was mad with drink. The cap-tain of the ship and a police officer who had gone after her were being swept out to sen. MacGregor slid down a rope, caught the knot of the woman's hair in his teeth, and with woman's hair in his teeth, and with his hands seized the two men and dragged them both into safety. He went back to Suva in a borrowed suit of pyjamas, having left all his clothes and a good deal of his skin on the coral reef. Then he wrote his report of the disaster and the results Saveral of his assistants graves of the disaster and the results Saveral of his assistants graves. report of the disaster and the resseus. Victoria bestowed upon him the Albert medal, and the Clarke gold medal was presented by Australia Somal was presented by Australia al was presented by Australia. Some, time afterwards, speaking of that last exploit, MacGregor said simply that "he never, till that moment, understood the value of his great strength."

CAPT. BERNIER RESIGNS.

Would Not Go As Second in Command on Sailing Vossel Arctic.

Thursday morning for the trial. All the events yesterday afternoon were very quiet, though no attempt was made at closed doors.

Apparently the C.O.F. officials are unwilling to push the case. They will give out no information, but it is conceded that the defalcations Quebec, Que., Sept. 15.-Captain Bernier will not take part in the steamer Arctic's expedition to the head of the Mackenzie River. He has resigned on the ground that he resigned on the ground that he will not accept the position of second in command. The steamer Arctic's expedition up the straits of the Hudson Bay is altogether a military organization, insmuch as Major pedition up the straits of the Hudson Bay is altogether a military organization, inasmuch as Major Moodie, in charge, is called upon to perform special duties and make important reports to the Government respecting the country and its conditions and geographical boundaries. Major Moodie has been given suprema command of the expedition, and Captain Bernier was simply appointed sailing master of the steamer, to receive his instructions from Major Moodie and obey his orders in regard to the movements of the ship. Captain Bernier revolted against these regulations when he was officially notified of the matter, and immediately threatened to resign, saying he was not going to play second fiddle to any man. He later carried his threat into execution, and telegraphied his resignation to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. The general impression is that Captain Bernier's resignation will be accented. Toronto, Sept. 15.—T. C. Robinette, K.C., has succeeded in obtaining a pardon for Levi Webster. Webster is the young man who was implicated with Fair in the big jewelry robbery from P. W. Losses of Battle As Reported Officially By Russ and Jap.

Two Reports to the Emperor From Gen. tary Forces at Port Arthur-Kuropat kin Makes a Report Which Relieved Tension Felt at St. Petersburg-Blames Orleff For Failure.

London, Sept. 15.—Field Marshal Oyama reports to Tokio that a considerable Russian force remains considerable Russian force remains south of the Hun River, while Gen. Kuropatkin telegraphed to St. Petersburg that the bulk of the Japanese force is still south of the Yentai branch railroad. Oyama also says that the Russians are fortifying the heights or both sides of the Liso. River at Tie Pass. No light is thrown on the all-absorbing question of where the next engagement in force will occur.

Gen. Kuropatkin's estimate of his losses in the fighting around Liao-yang are far under the first reports. He reports that, from Aug. 28 to Sept. 5, he lost 4,000 killed and 12,-000 weunded. Marshal Oyama plac-ed the total of Japanese casuatties ed the total of Japanese casuatties at 17,500, making the total for both armies in round number 33,500. Accepting these figures as correct, the battle of Liaoyang, in killed and wounded, falls much lower in the scale of the worlds' great battles. Japanese Attacks Repulsed.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 15.—The Emperor has received the following despatch from Gen. Stoessel (commander of the Russian military forces at Port Arthur), dated Aug. 28: "I am happy to report to Your Majesty that at 8 o'clock in the morning of Aug. 27, during a violent rain and thunder storm, the Japanese again attempted to capture our left flank positions, near number one fort and Udan Mountain. Their attack was everywhere repulsed. Our losses were appelled three men killed and two of der of the Russian military forces at sverywhere repuised. Our losses were small—three men killed and two of-ficers and 98 men wounded. The wounded were brought in and are being carefully tended. A number of Japanese corpses would have been picked up by us, but the enemy pre-vented us from so doing by opening fire on the hospital attendants, who had been sent out under the Red Cross flag.

Japs Blewn Into the Air.

Another despatch from Gen. Stoessel to the Emperor, dated Sept. 2, says: "On the night of Sept. 1 the enemy attacked Visokaya and Mnnaenemy attacked Visokaya and Minna-ya Mountains and the neighboring fortifications, opening simultaneously an artillery fire on the forts and mountains. The leading files of the enemy, with the Japanese columns following them, were discovered in good time, and our batteries opened on them. The leading files fortunate-ly encountered some automatic mines, and many of the enemy were blown and many of the enemy were blown in the air. The attack was repulsed in an hour. Our losses were incon-siderable—one officer and seven men wounded." Ignores British Pretest.

London, Sept. 15.—The Globe yesterday afternoon says that the decision of the Vladivostock prize court to confiscate that portion of the cargo of the British steamer Calchas consisting of flour, cotton and timber, consigned to Japan, if confirmed by the Russian supreme court, amounts to a complete ignoring of amounts to a complete ignoring of the protest lodged by Great Britain at St. Petersburg against the in-clusion of provisions in the Russian list of contraband of war.

Kurepatkin's Report. St. Petersburg, Sept. 15.—Gen. Kuropatkin's official report, which was given out last night, comes as a considerable relief as setting at rest alarmist stories of the loss of guns, the cutting of divisions and the death are centure of prominent commandof prominent which have been freely circulat ers, which have been freely chicking here. The report bears out the declaration of the Associated Press at the time that Gen. Orloff's failure to hold the vital position at the Yentai mines was responsible for the breaking down of the whole of Gen. Kuropatkin's plan of battle and turned a potential victory into de-feat. The report, as given out, does not state the casualties, but the Associated Press is authoritatively in-formed that they were under 17,-

The War Office is extremely retient regarding the present situation and future plans at the front. It is stated in general terms that the army is concentrated around Mukden, eaving the inference that it is ready to make another stand.

AT IT AGAIN

Another Queen Street Burglary Last Night-This Time Gammage's Store is Robbed.

The grocery store of E. C. Gammage, Queen St., was broken into last night and robbed.

The burglars were real hungry or were drunk. They first got into the shed and began to eat carrots and tomatoes. They then went and tried to cut a panel out of the back door. This task proved too large a one, so mother of thirteen children, of whom only the following survive: Duncan McKellar, of Michigan; Daniel and Peter McKellar, and Mrs. Giles, of Manitoba; Mrs. Wm. Edmondson, of Chatham, and Mrs. Sinclair, with whom she resided in Komoka. The funeral takes place on Friday afternoon at two o'clock to Komoka cemetery.—London Free Press.

The late Mrs. Thomas Edmondson, of this city, was also a daughter, and packing up about two dozen cans of this city, was also a daughter, and they went to the front of the store teake, corn beef and pickles. They then smoked a couple of cigars, and, packing up about two dozen cans of salmon, several bottles of pickles, tobacco and cigars, made off.

The only trace the police have been able to secure is that two men went down Lorne avenue with a lantern about 1.30 a. m. or earlier. The police were notified about seven o'clock this morning. P. C. Dezelia went down and looked over the ground.
Petty burglaries have been quite frequent of late. P. C. Dezelia, however, is inclined to believe that this job was the work of transients.
