SOME SOILED CIVIC CLOTHES HUNG OUT ON LINE TO DRY

Stinging Inuendoes and Counter Charges Flashed Across Council Chamber—Ald. Stone Hints at Collusion Between Ald. Austin and Ex-Mayor Cowan—Ald. Austin Notes Suspicious Circumstances in Calling of Caucus—Council Becoming Donnybrook Fair Says Mayor Marshall

Mayor Marshall dramatically extended his right arm.

"If I ever sign a by-law appointing two entirely new men to assess this city, may that hand never write another letter," he declared.

For the third consecutive night the members of the City Council had looked on with the question of assessor appointments—and the end was not yet. "We are as we were," declared his worship at the opening, "and I hope we're here to settle this matter to-night."

The Council went into committee on the by-law at once with Ald. Edmondson in the chair.

Ald. Austin moved that W. H. Gonne and Thos. French be appointed assessors at $250 each.

Ald. Stone—I wish to ask the Mayor the position Mr. Gonne took when he interviewed him. I do not think the city should be made a target for any two men. They had made a secret compact that if they were not both appointed, they would not act. The city cannot afford to be held up by men of this calibre—it is nothing more nor less than a scheme to entrap the aldermen into holding up the town. I would like to see the rolls of 1904-5 locked up and then see how competent these men are to assess the town. I am a part of no clique; I have no axe to grind; I have no favors to seek for friends. Why spring this thing now? It was February last year before the assessors started. We have been losing money on our Board of Works work. Shall we not secure William Carswell, an ex-alderman, ex-assessor and ex-chairman of the Board of Works? After he completes his assessment he could devote the balance of his time to the Board of Works and make a great saving to the city.

Mayor Marshall—In answer to Ald. Stone's introductory question I must say that when we saw Mr. Gonne he said he couldn't give an answer till he saw Mr. French. This was because Mr. French, he said, had sacrificed himself. I don't care for straight business.

Ald. Stone—Then why did you vote for the amendment?

The Mayor—I had a right to vote as I pleased. It has been said that this Council is tight. We're not tight if we stick together and do not squabble. We have had a taste of appointing inexperienced assessors. Personally I think more of John Liddy's little finger than of W. H. Gonne's whole body, but I'm throwing aside friendly feeling to act for the good of Chatham. I will never sign a by-law for two new men. May that hand never write another letter first. It is something to be ashamed of this jungle and wrangle and Donnybrook fair.

Ald. Stone—Surely we cannot allow two appointees to dictate to this Council. If every official took this action that would we do about it?

Ald. Thompson—Mr. Gonne told us there was a little agreement between him and Mr. French that if the two didn't get it, neither would act with another.

Ald. Austin—There has been considerable talking, but the only reason so far advanced by Ald. Stone is that the matter is being sprung upon us. When we went in caucus Friday night nothing was said about Mr. Liddy that I heard. It was sprung Monday. A caucus in municipal matters is surely to enable men to discuss freely the fitness of applicants. Surely this was springing the matter and treating a number of aldermen in a dishonorable way.

Ald. Scullard—This has become a rather complicated matter. I believe in the principle of accepting resignations sent in in good faith. I supported Messrs. French and Liddy, because I deemed Mr. French experienced and competent and Mr. Liddy to be a man of good judgment with a fair knowledge of the reality of the city. Mr. Liddy's name was mentioned at the caucus Friday night but not then generally discussed. I am sorry to learn of that secret compact between Messrs. Gonne and French. It is a matter to be regretted. But I think Mr. Gonne is the best available man in the city and it seems to be either the two old men or two new men. I have given the matter unremitted attention and my conclusion is that in the interests of the ratepayers I dare not recommend the appointment of two new men.

Ald. Stone—Mr. Carswell is not a new man.

Ald. Scullard—I confess I don't like the idea of appointing men who have made a compact to force the city's hands.

Ald. Stone—Do you call Mr. Carswell a new man? He has assessed the city twice and everyone concedes he was never done better. He has sat at the Council Board and proved a capable chairman of the Board of Works. I'm a personal friend to Mr. French but it must strike the people as startlingly strange that he comes before the Council and says, "I'm not competent to do this work with a new man."

Ald. Austin—Ald. Stone willfully puts Mr. French in a false position.

Ald. Stone—Let us lay this matter over till Monday night and consider it calmly and intelligently. In last year's Council there were favors drawn. One alderman was kept in touch with the then Mayor and the others kept in darkness. It was an unholy alliance and did not work for the city's best interests. I want every alderman this year to have an equal show and stand on his merits. If I spring anything unwisely I want to be censured for it. I want nothing sprung to the detriment of other aldermen. I want no compact.

Ald. Thompson—seconded Ald. Stone's suggestion for postponement.

Ald. Austin—I rise to a question of privilege. If Ald. Stone's insinuation is aimed at me—

Ald. Stone—Well, if the cap fits wear it.

Ald. Austin—I say without hesitation that the late Mayor and I were friendly.

Ald. Stone—Very.

Ald. Austin—At the present time I think of but one important innovation Mayor Cowan brought in that caused considerable public discussion—the matter of the School Board. I was not in collusion with the Mayor. I knew nothing about it. The Mayor honored me a number of times with consultation, principally on industrial subjects, I being chairman of the committee. Let Ald. Stone make his insinuations definite and I will deal with them. What matters do you allude to?

Ald. Stone—Did not answer.

Ald. Austin—I thought so. Now since Ald. Stone has brought up outside questions, I would like to ask why I with two other representatives were not notified of the caucus Friday night until 8:30 o'clock, when others had known and discussed the matter five or six hours earlier. Why this strange way of dealing fairly with all aldermen?

Mayor Marshall—Very cooled down a little but my opinions have not changed. We are not infants, we are over 21. Let us get to work and settle this.

Ald. Potter—I think Mr. Carswell is a splendid man, but when I approached the matter to him he would not consider the question of becoming an assessor.

Ald. Radley—Mr. Carswell told me he would act.

On motion Mr. Carswell was heard. He said that when Ald. Potter first spoke to him of the assessorship duties he had declined. Later when the question of also taking up the Board of Works work was added it put a new phase on the matter and he felt prepared to do it if the Council tendered the appointment. He was not, however, seeking the appointment.

Ald. Austin's motion for the appointment of Messrs. Gonne and French was carried on the following division:

Yeas—Austin, Scullard, Massey, Potter and the Mayor—5.
Nays—Stone, Benson, Radley and Thompson—4.

As it needed a two-thirds majority to give the by-law its third reading it was not possible and the Council on motion of Ald. Stone and Benson decided unanimously to stand adjourned for one week.

DO HONOR TO THE CHAIRMAN

Banquet to School Board at Hotel Rankin Pays Tribute to Good Work of Mr. Morley.

Worthy Presiding Officer Who Has Contributed Much to the Success of the Board.

Mr. W. N. Morley, the esteemed retiring chairman of the Public School Board, entertained his colleagues at a magnificent banquet in the dining hall of the Hotel Rankin last evening—a delightful event, commemorative of a splendid year of successful effort in local educational annals.

Much of the credit for the results of the past year must be accorded Chairman Morley. No better man ever presided at the Board. A gentleman of sterling worth, energy and enterprise, with a deep and active interest in all educational advancement, Mr. Morley has done much to further the best advancement of our schools—and it is a source of satisfaction to the citizens that his services are to be continued at the Board.

After the sumptuous menu, provided by Miss Host Pleasance, had been enjoyed, an impromptu program of entertainment followed, ex-Chairman Dr. R. V. Bray proving a splendid least-master. Among the former members of the Board present were: H. S. Clements, M. P., ex-Chairman John McCordie, Ald. W. H. Benson, the members and officers of the Board, Principal Plewes and the press representatives.

All the gentlemen present spoke briefly, alluding to the work of the Board and the inspiration of Mr. Morley's assistance. Dr. George T. McKeough, humorously termed the "Daddy of the Board" by reason of his long experience, and Ald. W. H. Benson, who has just been so significantly honored by the people of Chatham, made particularly pleasing and appropriate addresses, bearing testimony to the splendid services of the chairman. H. S. Clements, M. P., the ex-member of the Board to the Dominion Parliament, also made a splendid address. A capital song was also contributed by R. W. Angus.

Chairman Morley, who was greeted with round upon round of applause and the hearty singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow," made a feeling response. The past year had been to him a particularly pleasant one. He had enjoyed the happy relations with his colleagues, and congratulated them on the good work accomplished.

The happy gathering passed a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Pleasance and the gathering broke up with the singing of the National Anthem.

Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, and other throat ailments are quickly relieved by Cresolene Tablets, ten cents per box. All druggists.

TO ERR IS HUMAN.

Hon. Edward Blake has complained that one of the local papers has been "shamefully misled" in attributing to him certain statements in a cable despatch which he had never made. As a matter of fact it was an innocent error in the transcribing of the abbreviated cablegram which caused two distinct "stories" or despatches to be coupled together to Mr. Blake's annoyance. As accidents of this sort happen many a time in even the greatest newspapers the willingness of the editor to allow the blame to be cast upon the innocent sender of the message is perhaps the strangest feature of the incident. The padding out of the skeletonized despatches is not an easy matter, and even The Times, at the beginning of the South African troubles, one morning was content to print the cablegram appeal from the British residents of Johannesburg, just as it was received and to allow its readers to put their own construction to its wording.

A colonial editor receiving the abbreviated London despatch: "Two thousand enthusiastic Donovan Pioneer," failed to read in it the result of a turf event and elaborated the item to read "Two thousand enthusiasts met to-day in London to welcome Mr. Donovan, the celebrated pioneer."

Even more startling was the treatment accorded a statement of Mr. Gladstone in speaking of Parnell, which was followed by the three words: "Veracity, Tyrone, lobster," also the result of a big race, but which the ingenuity of the editor caused to make appear that Gladstone had denounced Parnell as "marching through rapine to the dismemberment of the empire, and observed further that the Irish leader had the veracity of a Tyrone lobster." A bulletin saying: "Dynamite found in Gladstone bag, Ludgate Hill Station," was construed by one journal to refer to an attempt on the life of the grand old man and by another as direct evidence showing his complicity with the Irish dynamiters. A simplified cable, "Marks, 7018, King, 3666," giving the result of an important election was lost upon The Transvaal Leader, which informed its readers that the figures were the scores of a billiard match between the gentlemen named. A London journal once transcribed a cable from Australia, reading: "New railway begun, Maryboro, governor twins first son" into two stories, one of which gave the personal information that: "The wife of Sir Arthur Kennedy has just given birth to twins, the elder being a son." Later it was learned that as a matter of fact it had been intended to say "governor turns first son." In this case the editor seems to have made the best of what was before him, although knowledge of the fact that the governor was a widower would have proven useful.

ARRIVAL OF KITTY TO-NIGHT.

"THE WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR."

"The Way of the Transgressor," which is announced to appear at the Grand to-morrow night, is a stirring story of life in America, in which the curtain falls on every act with an intensely dramatic climax. Weird and uncanny is the opening of the third act. It represents a rough-ly built station at the mouth of the famous Twin Tunnel during the progress of a furious storm. The shouting of the telegraph wires, the furious beating of the hail and sleet, the fierce gusts of wind, the drifting of the snow, and the muffled whistling of the stalled trains in the distance are all faithfully reproduced. Vividly pictured to the audience is the rapid progress of a blizzard and its fatal effects. Then when the action of the play takes place the wonderment at the stage manager's skill gives place to amazement at the work of the author. In this act he has contrived enough novel situations of a thrilling nature to please the most pronounced lover of sensation. Not a moment but something unusual and unexpected is happening until the moment before the fall of the curtain, when the audience will be kept in suspense for a few seconds awaiting the arrival of the Limited Express, which seems destined to crush the life out of a young girl on the tracks.

All of the dialogue of the play is terse, the comedy is pure and wholesome, and all of the situations are stirring and effective. It is safe to say that no play has a finer or more expensive scenic equipment. Each one of the four acts is provided with a massive and beautiful setting. The play is produced by a capable cast of clever people and in addition to the acting company there is a corps of specialists who will introduce many novel and exclusive features never seen with any other show. The four Landseer dogs which were educated and developed by William T. Stephens are also with this company and they will play parts in this magnificent production.

New and bright scenery, handsome costumes, magnificent scenic effects, and a cast capable of properly presenting the different parts to which they are assigned, are some of the reasons why C. H. Yale's "Everlasting Devil's Auction," which will be the attraction at Grand Opera House on Monday, Jan. 15, has always been a favorite in Chatham, coming here regularly for several years, and it has never failed to draw large audiences and to thoroughly delight its patrons.

It is one of those shows whose proprietors do not permit it to run down. The principal excellence of the "Devil's Auction" is maintained. The public expect this of the management, as has been shown in past years by the immense audiences that have witnessed it, and the management, it is said, will prove itself worthy of the confidence placed in it by the public by making this, the twenty-fourth edition of the "Devil's Auction," the most entertaining of all.

Fred. Stone, Treasurer of the Kent Children's Aid Society, has received a donation of $5 from the Council of Tibury village. This was unsolicited, and is greatly appreciated by the society.

The Adjutant and officers of the Salvation Army with their band and Sunday school children visited the County House of Refuge last evening and provided a splendid program of music, recitations, dialogues and drills, which was much appreciated by the inmates.

We will have cold weather yet. Attend The 2 T's January clearance sale. Lined gloves at factory prices—$2.50 and $3.00 lined gloves for $1.75; $1.50, $1.75 and $2.00 gloves for $1.25; $1.00 and $1.25 gloves for 75c. Sale opens Saturday morning, The 2 T's.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Hiram Macintosh, of Kent Bridge, who died in the London hospital, took place on Wednesday to the Methodist church and the remains were interred in the Kent Bridge cemetery. The deceased lady had been ill for about a year, and ten days ago it was decided upon by her physician that the only chance of her recovery was to undergo an operation, and she was taken to the London hospital for this purpose. Death took place one week after her entrance, and she leaves a husband and four small children, who have the sympathy of a large number of sorrowing relatives and friends.

A CANARD

"I wish you would deny for me in the strongest manner possible," said H. S. Clements, M. P., last evening, "the unkind and untruthful rumor that I have been interested or active in any way in the matter of the appointment of assessors for Chatham. I cannot understand why such stories should be started when I have not so much as mentioned the matter and have no interest whatever therein."

A RECORD OF ACHIEVEMENT

Congregation of First Presbyterian Church Close Splendid Year of Success.

Many Satisfactory Reports.—Good Work of Earnest and Worthy Pastor

It must be a source of untold gratification, and it certainly is a matter which deserves the sincerest commendation from everyone, for a congregation of any church to receive such excellent and encouraging reports as those presented at the annual meeting of the First Presbyterian Church, held last evening. Although this congregation were deprived of the use of their church four months last year, during the time of the renovations, still the managers were able to report that more money was raised than during any previous year in the history of the church; the total amount raised for last year being $9,800.

This is indeed a remarkable record, and, while the congregation can point with pride to the work they have done, a large amount of the credit for this wonderful showing must be given to the earnest and able pastor, Rev. A. H. MacGillivray, M. A. Mr. MacGillivray has worked faithfully and well during the past year. During the time he has been pastor of this church he has won a high standing in the minds of all citizens as a powerful man. A man with sound Christian principles, and the courage of his convictions. First Church is indeed fortunate in having him at the head of affairs.

REV. A. H. MACGILLIVRAY,
The Esteemed Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Many changes have been made in this church since the last annual meeting. The building has been entirely renovated and greatly improved, both in appearance and convenience, and the choir has been reorganized to great advantage. The new year is being commenced under very auspicious circumstances and every success is anticipated.

Mr. MacGillivray presided over the meeting last evening. The report of the Session, as given by Mr. F. Stone, showed 10 baptisms, 25 members added to the roll, 5 removed from the roll, showing an increase in membership of 20. The work of the Session was harmonious, and the condition of the church is most encouraging.

Mr. Farquharson for the managers reported that while the financial statement showed an overdraft of $593.45, the church has more than paid expenses last year. The overdraft was caused by the purchase of a water motor and new furnaces the year before. This year it is expected the balance will be wiped off. Mr. Farquharson also paid a very high tribute to Mr. Rose who managed the work of renovating the church.

The Ladies' Aid reported a very successful year, $430.00 being raised besides the $1,150 which was paid for rebuilding the organ. They started the year with $850.00 on hand.

The Young People's Society raised $59, of which $50 was presented to the Knox College Missionary Society.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society raised $114 during the year; the Mission Band $22, and the Sunday School $200.

At the conclusion of the meeting all of the former officers were re-elected. The meeting throughout was very harmonious and everyone seemed to feel that the church will continue the splendid progress which has been made. The future never before looked so bright and promising, and with such energetic and able men as the pastor and managers directing its destinies, this church will no doubt continue to grow, both in numbers and influence.

Young man, do your best, and leave it to others to beat it if they can.

HAD BONUSING SYSTEM

Tack Men Worked on Same Lines as Plumbers' Rake-Off.

In One Case Unearthed There Was to Have Been a "Divvy" But the Contract Went Wrong—Only One Firm Was to Get an Order, the Others Were to Get a Bonus—More Plumbers' True Bills.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—That a bonusing system somewhat like the same lines as the plumbers' rake-offs was proposed by James Hardy was revealed at yesterday's hearing of the case against the tack combine. Mr. Tilley, for the combine, repudiated the idea, but Crown Attorney Curry and Magistrate Denison talked him into submission.

On Feb. 16, 1895, R. & T. Jenkins wrote to the Montreal Rolling Mills a letter which reads in part as follows: "With respect to the order of the Massey-Harris Co., we have heard that in an indirect way that Mr. Osborne, the purchasing agent, stated his company would not give an order for these goods (a special class of tacks) to be divided amongst the various members of the association. Our impression is that if it was pointed out to that gentleman that one member of the association was going to manufacture all the goods we might get the order. Of course some arrangement would have to be made by which the member manufacturing the goods would pay something to the other members for the privilege."

Where's the Difference. "What is the difference between 'tack' and the 'rake-off' of the plumbers?" asked the magistrate. "No difference," said Mr. Curry. "Yes, there is," asserted Mr. Tilley. "Whose pocket does the money divided come from?" asked the magistrate.

"The proposal, for it was nothing more, was made for the purpose of trying to get around the objections made by the different parties," said Mr. Tilley. "The contract was not obtained at any rate."

"Because the profits for the others were placed too high," suggested the magistrate.

"They just ran a little too close to the line, and the sale went to United States firms."

The day was consumed in the reading of letters from the minute books, taken from Hardy's office.

More Bills Against Plumbers. The grand jury yesterday returned true bills against W. J. Storey, William Bush, P. J. Lawlor, Charles Corner, Charles H. Beavis, K. J. Allison, Lemis Legrow and W. J. Mason, charged with conspiracy to injure John B. Reeves and hindering his workmen and employers, and enticing the workmen from his service.

They are also charged with restraining trade, by conspiring with Fred Armstrong, P. J. Hayes and R. W. Harrison.

Another true bill charges W. J. Stevenson, A. Malcolm, George Clapper, Joseph Wright, Alexander Purdy, H. Mahoney and R. Mahoney with conspiring and defrauding the Homewood Sanitarium of Guelph of $900 on work done.

These plumbers' cases will be commenced on Friday. True bills were also brought in against 22 of the plumbers on the original charge of conspiracy, upon which they were sent for trial by Magistrate Denison.

Toronto Civic Inquiry. David Rogers, in the civic inquiry yesterday, corroborated his brother in the statement that Mr. Lennox had told him that Dr. Lynd said he thought he ought to get something for supporting their contract. Arthur Dinnis testified that Mr. Lennox owed a balance of $365.95 on an account of $1,173.49 for him by them. Lennox had previously testified that he was not a debtor of the firm. The balance was due Nov. 22, 1900, but Mr. Dinnis did not think it was judicious to press it as they had so many dealings with Lennox.

FINE WORK

Samuel J. Courtney, Dover street, had on exhibition in F. Tschichart's window last week a very handsome guitar made of maple, inlaid with mahogany. On the bridge of the instrument are the initials "S. J. C."

The guitar was made by Mr. Courtney, and shows the handwork of a genius. Besides the construction of the instrument, there are inlaid nearly 200 pieces of ivory, and it certainly is a work of art which deserves special mention. It is safe to say there is no finer or sweeter toned guitar in this or any other city.

John Courtney, brother of Samuel, has also a violin of his own make, and it is quite a novelty.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

ROBERT PARK,
Inspector.

Chatham, Jan. 10, 1906.

On motion of Trustee McArthur, seconded by Trustee McKeough, Inspector Park's report for December was received.

Inspector Park called attention to the fact that the census of the city should be looked after closely, as on this basis our Government grant was fixed. He thought that Chatham had increased in population to a greater extent than was shown by the last census. The city census should be rather higher than lower as regards population. The birth rate was low, but somehow the school population of the city was increasing fast.

Moved by Trustee McKeough, seconded by Trustee Drader, that the Secretary write the Clerk of the Municipality and inform him that it is most important that the assessors take a proper census of this city, in view of the fact that our Government school grant depends upon the population of the city and not upon the school attendance, and we wish to draw the attention of the Council to the fact that the school population was not taken last year, and also that the school attendance during December, 1905, was the largest on record.—Carried.

Moved by Trustee McKeough, seconded by Trustee Paxton, that Chairman Morley vacate the chair and that Trustee Heyward take it.—Carried.

Trustee McKeough spoke in eulogistic terms of the value of Mr. Morley as chairman, and that everything went along harmoniously under his regime, and took very great pleasure in moving that Mr. Morley be tendered a hearty vote of thanks.

Trustee Robertson seconded the motion, which carried unanimously.

Trustee Heyward tendered the vote of thanks, and said that were he a Demosthenes, a Cicero or even a Dr. McKeough, he would be unable to compliment the Chairman of the Board for 1905 highly enough. He always liked the Board and its work, and had very much regret in severing his connection with it. He might be heard from later on.

Chairman Morley made a suitable acknowledgment to the honor tendered him by the Board.

On motion, Mr. Morley resumed the chair.

Chairman Morley referred to Trustees Benson and Heyward in strong terms of commendation, both gentlemen being splendid men at the Board.

Dr. McKeough spoke along the same lines with regard to Mr. Heyward's worth at the Board. He always worked hard for McKeough school and its interests, and he would miss him much.

Chairman Morley tendered the regrets of the Board on Trustee Heyward's leaving them, and hoped he would be with them again soon.

The Board adjourned.

Chairman Morley kindly invited the members of the old Board and some former members to a banquet at the Rankin House, at 9.30.

A great deal of time is wasted in making excuses to explain the mistakes we have already made.

17 DIE IN LANDSLIDE.

13 Houses Topped Into 60 Feet Deep Pit Cut Out By Brickmakers—Five Rescuers Die.

Haverstraw, N.Y., Jan. 10.—Last night seventeen persons were missing and are believed to have gone to their death when thirteen houses along Rockland street, here, toppled over Monday night into a pit 60 feet deep, which had been cut by clay diggers in connection with the brick-making industry here. Twelve of the persons missing were occupants of the fallen houses; five were among the rescuers who went to the aid of neighbors after the first house fell and were carried down when the twelve other houses went crashing over the precipice. The wreckage quickly caught fire, and those who were in the mass were either crushed or burned to death.

There is grave fear of another cave-in along Rockland street, and the occupants of seven or eight houses have moved away.

Others are keeping an all night vigil, ready to flee themselves, and to alarm their neighbors in case of impending danger.

The landslide was caused by the falling in of the bank under which the brick excavators had been working for years.

Struck With Iron Bar.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—Arthur Reinhardt, cook at the London House, was almost killed yesterday, by his assistant, Jones, an Englishman. There has been bad blood between the two. Early in the morning Jones went to Reinhardt's room and cracked his skull with a bar of iron. He then made his escape. Reinhardt still lives, but is in a serious condition.

Robbed By Tramps.

St. Thomas, Jan. 11.—Arthur Schoneh, in charge of a car of poultry going through on the G.T.R. to New York, was Tuesday night, at the G.T.R. Co.'s clothing store. The prisoner pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to one year in Central Prison.

One Year in the Central.

Port Hope, Jan. 11.—Thomas Dalton of St. Thomas, a railroad man, was convicted of being concerned, with a companion, who is not yet arrested, in the recent burglary at Ben Oliver & Co.'s clothing store. The prisoner pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to one year in Central Prison.

The LUST of HATE

BY GUY BOOTHBY

Author of "A Beautiful White Devil", "A Bid For Fortune", "The Marriage of Esther," "Dr.
Nikola," Etc

AS to what I was now, there could be no question. The ghastly verdict was self-evident, and the word rang in my brain with a significance I had never imagined it to possess before.
It seemed to be written upon the houses, to be printed upon the snow-curled sky. Even the roll of the wheels beneath me proclaimed me a murderer. Until that time I had had no real conception of what that grisly word meant. Now I knew it for the most awful in the whole range of our English language.

All this time I had been driving aimlessly on and on, having no care where I went, conscious only that I must put as great a distance as possible between myself and the damning evidence of my crime. Then a reaction set in, and I became aware that I must do something to get out of England. I must do something to get out of this half-coherent fashion was neither politic nor sensible, so I pulled myself together and tried to think what I had better do.
The question for my consideration was whether I should hasten to Hogarth Square as arranged and hand the cab over to Nikola, or whether I should endeavor to dispose of it in some other way, and not go near that dreadful man again. One thing was indisputable. Whatever I did, I must do quickly. It was nearly one o'clock by this time, and if I wanted to see him at the rendezvous I must hurry, or he would have gone before I reached it.
In that case, what should I do with the cab?

After anxious thought I came to the conclusion that I had better find him and hand him his terrible property.
Then, if I wished to give him the slip,
I could lead him to suppose I intended returning to my hotel, and afterwards act as I might deem best for my own safety. This once decided, I turned the vehicle round, whipped up the horse, and set off for Hogarth Square. I could fasten to Hogarth long journey, for several times I missed my way and had to retrace my steps; but at last I accomplished it and drove into the Square. Sure enough at the second lamp-post on the left hand side, where he had appointed to meet me, three men were standing beside a hansom cab, and from the way they peered about, it was evident they were anxiously awaiting the arrival of someone. One I could see at first glance was Nikola; the other was probably his Chinese servant, the man who had brought me the cab earlier in the evening, but the third's identity I could not guess.
Nor did I wish to try.

As I approached them Nikola held up his hand as a signal to me to stop, and I immediately pulled up and got down. Not a question did he ask about my success or otherwise, but looked at the hansom cab, bowed his head and a top coat, which I recognized as the garments I had left at Levi Solomon's that evening.

"Put these on," he said, "and then come with me as quickly as you can.
I have a lot to tell you."

I did as he ordered me, and when my sou'wester and cape had been tussled into the empty cab, he beckoned me to follow him down the square.
His servant had meanwhile driven the awful cab away.

"Now, what have you to tell me?" he asked, when we had walked a little distance along the pavement.
I stopped and faced him with a face, I'll be bound, as shaven as that of a corpse.

"I have done your fiendish bidding," I hissed. "I am—God help me—unintentionally what you have made me—a murderer."

"The man is dead, is he?" replied Nikola, with icy calmness. "That is satisfactory. Now we have to divert suspicion from yourself. All things considered, I think you had better go straight back to your hotel, and keep quiet until I communicate with you.
You need have no fear as to your safety. No one will suspect you. Witherto we have been most successful in eluding detection."

As he spoke, the memory of the other murders which had shocked all London flashed through my brain, and instantly I realized everything. The victim, the man, the man, the man, had in each case been killed by some anaesthetic; they had been found in the centre of the road, as if dropped from a vehicle, while their faces had all been mutilated in the same uncanny fashion. I turned and looked at the man by my side, and then, in an unaccountable fit of rage, threw myself upon him. The men who actually did the deeds were innocent—here was the real murderer—the man who had instigated an egghead, then on to crime. He had led my soul into hell, but he should not escape scot free.

The suddenness of my passion took him completely by surprise, but only for an instant. Then, with a quick movement of his hands, he caught my wrists, and held me in a grip of iron.
I was disarmed and powerless and he knew it, and laughed mockingly.

"So you would try and add me to your list, would you, Gilbert Pen-nethorne? Be thankful that I am mercifully inclined, and do not punish you as you deserve."

Without another word he threw me from him, with the ease of a practiced wrestler. I fell upon the pavement as if I had been shot. The shock brought me to my senses, and I rose an altogether different man, though still hating him with a tenfold loathing as the cause of all my misery.
Having once rid himself of me, however, he seemed to think no more of the matter.

"Now be off to your hotel," he said sharply, "and don't stir from it until I communicate with you. By making this fuss you might have hung yourself, to say nothing of implicating me.
Tomorrow morning I will let you know what is best to be done, in the meantime, remain indoors, feign ill health, and don't see any strangers on any pretext whatever."

He stood at the corner of the Square, and watched me till I had turned the corner, as cool and diabolical a figure as the Author of all Evil himself. I only looked back once, and then walked briskly on until I reached Piccadilly Circus, where I halted and gazed about me in a sort of dim confused wonderment at my position. What a variety of events had occurred since the previous night, when I had stood in the same place, and had heard the policeman's whistle sound from Jermyn Street, in proclamation of the second mysterious murder! How little I had then thought that within twenty-four hours I should be in the same peril as the murderer of the man I had seen lying under the light of the policeman's lantern! Perhaps even at this moment Bartrand's body had been discovered, and a hue and cry was on foot for the man who had done the deed. With this thought in my mind, a greater terror than I had yet felt came over me, and I set off as hard as I could go down a bye-street into Trafalgar Square, thence by way of Northumberland Avenue on to the Embankment. Once there I leant upon the coping and looked down at the dark water slipping along so silently on its way to the sea. Here was my chance if only I had the pluck to avail myself of it. Life had now no hope left for me. Why should I not throw myself over, and so escape the fate that must inevitably await me if I lived? One moment's courage, a little struggling in the icy water, a last choking cry, and then it would all be over and done with, and those who had the misfortune to call themselves my kinsmen would be spared the mortification of seeing me standing in a felon's dock. I craned my neck still further over the side, and looked at the blocks of ice as they went by, knocking against each other with a faint musical sound that sounded like the tinkling of a bell. I remembered the depth of the river, and pictured my solemn body stranded on to the mud by the ebbing tide somewhere near the sea. I could fancy the con-jectures that would be made concerning it. Would I connect me with —but there, I could not go on. Nor could I do what I had proposed. Desperate as was my case, I found I still clung to life with a tenacity that even crime itself could not lessen. No; by hook or crook I must get out of England to some place where nobody would know me, and where I could begin a new life. By cunning it could surely be managed. But in that case I knew I must not go back to my hotel, and run the risk of seeing Nikola again. I distrusted his powers of saving me; and if I fell once more under his influence, goodness alone knew what I might not be made to do. No; I would make some excuse to the landlord to account for my absence, and then creep quietly out of England in such a way that no one would suspect me. But how was it to be managed?

To remain in London would be to run endless risks. Anyone might recognize me, and the capture would be inevitable. I turned out my pockets and counted my money. Fortunately, I had cashed a cheque only the day before, and now had nearly forty pounds in notes and gold in my purse, not very much, it is true, but amply sufficient for my present needs. The question was: Where should I go? Australia, the United States, South America, South Africa? Which of these places would be safest? The first and second I rejected without consideration. The first I had tried, the second I had no desire to visit. Chili, the Argentine, or Buenos Aires? It all depended on the boats. To whichever place a vessel sailed first, to that place I would go.

A Baker's Triumph

The Mooney Baker cannot produce anything better thanMooney's Perfection Cream SodasThe very best of flour, butter

Canada. A biscuit superior to any other you have ever tasted.
Say "Mooney's" to your grocer.

Took the Hint.

"This seems like a sweet dream," he rapturously remarked as he lingered with her at the doorstep.
"It doesn't seem like a dream to me," she replied, "for a dream soon vanishes, you know."
He vanished.

He Knew Her.

"I can't decide," she said, "whether to take the hat or not, but it is just the dearest thing I've seen this season."
"The dearest?" asked the husband, with a sardonic laugh. "Then it's certain that you'll take it."

WHY THAT WEARINESS?

You're uneasy, restless, without appetite. Still worse you are thin and fagged out. Work must be done, but where is the strength to come from?
Make your blood nutritious and you'll have lots of strength. Your only hope is Perrozone, an instant blood-maker, blood-purifier, blood-enricher. It brings back appetite, di-gests food and supplies nutrition for building up all the bodily tissues.
Perrozone makes muscle and nerve fibres, increases your weight, instils a reserve of energy into the body that defies weariness or exhaustion from any cause. To have vitality and healthy vigor use Perrozone, which all dealers sell in 50c. boxes.

The Last Word.

"Does your wife insist on having the last word?" asked the person who in-

"Not at all," answered Mr. Meekton.
"It is quite customary for me to close some such remark, to indicate that I understand what Henrietta intends to convey."

better since using Dr. Hamilton's Pills." Sold everywhere, 25c. per box

A Hatter's Trick.

"There are tricks in every trade, you know," said a New York clubman.
"Even in retail hat selling many dodges are employed."
"I said to a hatter one day:
"I don't see how you can afford to sell for nothing all the silk hats you sell."
"The man nodded at me gravely.
"We have to do it, sir," he said.
"The hats would last too long if we didn't."

OUR COUNTRY'S FOREST

CANADA HAS LARGER AREA THAN ANY LAND EXCEPT RUSSIA.Northern Forests of the Dominion Cover an Area About Forty-Four Times Greater Than England—Serious Dangers Which Threaten Timber—Suffer Dreadfully From Fire—
Causes of Forest Fires—Forestry Convention.The value of the forests of Canada is being realized more fully with the increasing price of lumber and forest products. It is therefore opportune that a Forestry Convention should have been called by the Premier of the Dominion to meet in Ottawa in January next to consider how best to deal with this important national asset.Canadians do not realize the large position the Dominion holds today in the eyes of the world. But if we consider for a moment what immense stretches of forest land there are in the Dominion the reason may be understood why such should be the case.
The area of forest lands in Canada has been estimated at between 700,000,000 acres and 800,000,000 acres, although of this only one-third is covered by mature forest, or say 250,000,000 acres, the remainder being burnt over land, either entirely waste or in various stages of recovery. This is the largest forest area possessed by any country in the world with the exception of Russia. It has been figured that the northern forests of Canada cover an area about forty-four times greater than England.There are, however, serious dangers threatening this timber. The northern forests are mainly composed of coniferous trees, spruce predominating, and are therefore easily burned. Hardwood forests offer considerable resistance to fire, but the soft wood with their resinous leaves and wood are a most inviting fuel. As has been stated, those who traveled our northern districts and have made close observation of the situation, make the statement that fire is at different times run off at least one-third of the country. If such should be the case again the wealth of these forests may easily be dissipated.A recent writer speaking of Northwest and Quebec and Labrador states that the immense forests of those districts have suffered dreadfully from fire, and in many places the vegetable part of the soil has been so completely burned out that a couple of centuries must elapse before the forests can be restored.
These fires are of annual occurrence and occasionally burn throughout the entire summer, destroying thousands of square miles of valuable timber to the south of the central watershed. It is authoritatively stated that at least one-half of the forest area of the interior of this part of Canada has been totally destroyed by fire within the past twenty-five or thirty years.The same danger runs of every part of the northern forest area of the Dominion, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Any one who has traveled through the forest districts of Nova Scotia or New Brunswick or Ontario, will see the devastation wrought by fire. Northern British Columbia has suffered in the same way. Reports show that what explorations of some years ago indicated to be areas of splendid spruce forest, are now largely depleted and burned over.The question arises whether anything can be done to prevent further destruction in these forests. The answer depends somewhat on the cause of the fires. If the fires are caused by careless camp fires, or by lightning, or by natural causes. Lightning is not infringingly a cause. It is sometimes surmised also that the friction of one tree against another may be sufficient to cause a fire, or that a globe of resinous pitch may be blown off a tree as to act as a burning glass. Much the larger number of fires are, however, occasioned by the action of man. It is along the canoe routes and the routes of travel that the fires are usually set.
The placing of warnings against fire along such routes and the presence of fire rangers patrolling them will do much to help. But the public who may travel through these districts are careless in their camp fires, and the Forestry Convention arouses public interest in such a way as to help the preventive work it will do much good.There is another direction from which danger may come. The Dominion is expanding and the railway system is building a transcontinental railway which will pass largely through the northern forest districts. The history of railway construction in Canada has as a rule been the destruction of the forests along the route. So important is it in these northern districts that the wood should be preserved that it is to be hoped means will be devised to prevent a repetition of what has so often occurred before.

A Destructive Fish.

The Perth Examiner tells some remarkable stories of the voracity of that inferior fish, the lynx, which does so much injury to game fish in Ontario waters. Some time ago, The Examiner says, Mr. Robert Moore was granted a license to net bull pout in Christie's Lake, and the other day he brought to The Examiner office one large lynx caught in the lake referred to and it was dissected. This lynx had swallowed a pike which measured almost fourteen inches in length and also a full-sized sunfish. Mr. Ephraim Deacon, the fishery inspector at Bol-lingbrook, called at Mr. Moore's to make an inspection, and he found the lynx had eaten a number of catfish, dozens of lynx, but no protected fish. Three lynx were dissected, with the following result: One contained three whitefish, eight inches long, and one bass; the second one had recently swallowed a 22-pickered minnow and three bass; and the last one opened was found to contain a large number of partially decomposed pickered minnows and ten recently swallowed.

Poison in Java.

The natives in Java have a natural poison to aid them in avenging themselves against their enemies. It is a strong fluid found in the bark of the upas tree. The bark is over an inch thick and is very spongy. A drop of the fluid on the skin causes intense irritation. A private revenge is satisfied by hiding a cup of this fluid in the room of the enemy, and then the avenger flies, for well he knows that by morning his victim will have crossed the high divide. The fluid produces stupor, which finally ends in death.

It contains nothing harmful and for coughs, colds and croup is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists.The people who take all the advice

The First Hats.

Discussing on the subject of hats an antiquary expressed the opinion that the hat was first used quite as much for decoration as for protection. The ancestor of all hats he considers to have been the fillet, or band, around the hair worn by the ancient Greeks, among others. Probably the first hint gained by men regarding head ornaments was through observing the crests, plumes and antlers of various birds and beasts. The eastern races, with their fondness for ceremony and display, afford the most notable instances of the use of hats as signs of rank and authority. Thus in Buddhist countries the gods are represented as wearing elaborate forms of head gear. In Korea the fashion attains its height, no fewer than fifty kinds of hats being worn by the natives as indications of their social position.

A DYNAMITE DISASTER

Averted by Soldiers Firing on and Piercing Engine Boiler.

Train Containing Two Carloads of High Explosive Run at Full Speed by Revolutionists to Blow Up the Nicholas Depot—Count Witte, Who is Bitter Against Moderates, Tells a Most Remarkable Story.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 11.—Premier Witte yesterday made a statement to a delegation, headed by the mayor of this city, which requested a relaxation of the orders of the prefect of police against meetings in the interest of the electoral campaign. The Premier could not promise to do anything until after Jan. 22.

The Premier spoke bitterly of the failure of the moderates to give the Government support, saying: "I am determined to save Russia." While the Emperor wanted the National Assembly to meet as early as possible, Premier Witte said that those charged with the election feared that it will be impossible for it to assemble before April 28.

Remarkable Dynamite Story.

Recounting a remarkable incident that heretofore had escaped notice, the Premier said: "At one time all the stations except the Nicholas Depot were in the hands of the revolutionists. The latter in desperation started a train hauling two cars loaded with dynamite at full speed for the station with the intention of blowing it up. A frightful disaster was averted by a timely warning of the plot, which enabled the authorities to have a military train with steam up ready on a parallel track. As the dynamite train arrived, soldiers from the military train running alongside fired at the engine and managed to pierce the boiler of the locomotive, stopping the train before it reached its destination." In St. Petersburg, the Premier further remarked, enough dynamite had been captured to destroy the entire city.

Rebels in Control.

Mitau, Courland, Jan. 11.—Fugitives who have arrived here from the interior recount remarkable stories of the civil administration set up by the revolutionists in the towns and villages they control. They have elected committees, on which one woman always serves, to administer everything, including the courts. The whipping post for theft has been revived, and for certain classes robbery is punishable with death. The spirit shops are closed and preaching the doctrine of the damnation of souls is forbidden. Only civil marriages are legal.

Killed to the Last Man.

A squadron of dragoons which was ambushed recently near Haseopol, losing two men killed and four wounded, received reinforcements later and surrounded the revolutionists. No quarter was given and the revolutionists, numbering 80 in all, were killed to the last man.

A band of 50 revolutionists made a daring raid on Livenhoff with the object of obtaining medicines and bandages for the revolutionists in the field. They carried off two Jewish merchants and held them for a heavy ransom, which was paid.

Officers in a Plot.

London, Jan. 11.—A despatch from St. Petersburg to a new London paper, The Tribune, reports the arrest of eight artillery officers of the St. Petersburg garrison on the charge of being engaged in a conspiracy to blow up the "Frotsky bridge and to capture the fortress.

Rising in Siberia Feared. Nagasaki, Jan. 11.—The transport Mongolia, which has arrived here from Vladivostok with Russian refugees, reports that a general uprising throughout Siberia is feared.

$40 AND COSTS FOR ASSAULT.

Hotel Proprietor Who Abused Conductor Heavily Fined.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—Forty dollars and costs or two months in jail is what Magistrate H. R. Frankland calls getting off easy for assaulting a railroad conductor.

That is what he told Capt. W. H. Lumb, manager of the King Edward Hotel at Sudbury, who handed Conductor Story on the northbound train from Toronto to North Bay an overdue ticket on Dec. 7 last. The conductor refused to take it, advising him to pay, and if he didn't like it, to make complaint to the company. Lumb paid, and then became abusive. He fought with the conductor and with everyone who tried to pacify him. He was brought back to Toronto by G. T. R. Detective Hart.

Miss Fulford Married.

Brockville, Jan. 11.—The marriage of Miss Martha (Mattie) Fulford, youngest daughter of the late Senator Fulford, to George Alexander Shirreff of Brockville, here in Fulford Place, was quietly celebrated at 11 o'clock yesterday morning by Rev. T. J. Mansell of Dundas. Mr. and Mrs. Shirreff, after an extended Florida trip, will take up residence in Fulford Place, Brockville.

BANNERMAN HOWLED DOWN.

John Burns Compels Mr. Chamberlain to Make a Retraction.

London, Jan. 11.—The election fight is daily growing in intensity and the party leaders, with the aid of motor cars, are displaying the greatest energy in addressing many meetings at different places on the same day.

The Premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who spoke at Shrewsbury last night, was howled down by a Chamberlainite minority and was compelled to shorten his speech. Disorderly meetings of this kind are not uncommon.

John Burns, president of the local Government board, made a successful tilt against Joseph Chamberlain, compelling him to publicly retract his statement that a million able-bodied men were being supported in the workhouses of Great Britain. Mr. Burns produced statistics which proved that the workhouses were at present supporting only 214,864 persons, the majority of whom were either sick or disabled.

Recovery of Stolen Furs.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—The police have recovered about $4,000 of the furs stolen from Lugadin & Lugadin and the goods of Mogenpenny Bros. & Co. $2,000 worth of the furs were brought into the Police Court yesterday morning from Hensall, and it was stated that John Lurie, a second-hand dealer of Chateaufort, Ont., had been placed under arrest and would appear in the Police Court here this morning to answer a charge of receiving the stolen property.

A Sale You'll Talk About for Months! JANUARY CLEARANCE SALE

Wise buyers, be early SATURDAY MORNING. The good old-fashioned January Clearance Sale that thousands of you know so well begins Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. The advertising today is only a fraction of what we have to report for your advantage. We can't begin to tell of all the goods on which we have stamped prices remarkably low.

HERE is the whole thing in a very few words. The season, as you all know, has been very backward, consequently we are overloaded with winter goods. You know. The 2 T's motto—never carry any goods over from season to season; get them out no matter what the loss is; our loss is your gain. SATURDAY MORNING we start OUR SEMI-ANNUAL SALE when every Suit, Overcoat, Underwear, Gloves, Mufflers and all winter goods will be marked at our usual reduction sale prices.

You'll remember our last January Sale—the most successful clothing sale ever held in Chatham. No doubt some of you have benefited by it. This year we intend to excel all previous sales we ever had, simply because our stock is much heavier. We have One Hundred and Fourteen Overcoats more than we should have, and Over a Hundred Suits more than we want. Owing to our increased trade we bought heavier, and the weather went against us, therefore you will get the benefit of it if you attend our sale.

The 2 T's Clearance Sale Never Disappoints as we always make it a point to do what we say we will do.

We are going to give you the choice of any SUIT or OVERCOAT in the store, outside of H. S. & M. Clothes for Suits and Overcoats that were $15.00, $16.50, $17.50, $18.50 and $20.00. Do not forget the sale price on them $12.50 only. All this season's goods, as you no doubt remember we cleaned up all last season's goods during our Big Sale last September. We have only two sales each year, but they count when we do have them.

All our $12.50, $13.50 and $14.50 Suits or Overcoats will go for $9.50. All our Suits and Overcoats at $8.50 and $10.00 will go at $7.50. $7.50 Suit or Overcoat for $5.75.

Men's Fine Trousers—We are loaded up with them. Here are the prices. $4.50 and $5 Pants for $3.75. $3.50 and $4 Pants for $2.75. $2.50, $2.75 and $3 kind for $2.25. $1.75 and $2 Pants for $1.50. $1.25 and $1.50 Pants, $1.00. You always need an extra pair of pants, so save yourself some money while you have a chance.

H. S. & M's $25.00 Overcoats will be sold till they are all gone for $16.85 Each. Look them over; they are out of the ordinary. Only about 20 left.

Gloves in Wool and Fur Lined must go at a price. All our Lined Mocha and Kid Gloves will be sold at factory prices and less. $2.50 and $3 Gloves for $1.75. $1.50, $1.75 and $2.00 Gloves for $1.25, and $1.00 and $1.25 Gloves for 75c. 50c Gloves for 40c. $4 and $5 Fur Lined Gloves to go at $2.50 a Pair.

Underwear to go at the same reductions. 50c lines for 40c.; 75c. lines to go at 60c.; $1 lines for 80c.; $1.25 lines for $1; $2 and $2.50 lines to go at $1.75. Wolsey's Underwear at exactly wholesale prices. This is a good chance to get fine underwear as we are overloaded with fine goods.

Boys' Sweaters will be all re-marked from the selling price to the wholesale price. We must reduce our stock by the end of the month at least four thousand dollars. If prices will do it we are going to do so.

Boys' Caps, all odd sizes, 50c lines for 25c each. Pick them out while they last. Heavy Wool Mitts, Heavy Shirts and everything pertaining to winter wear will be marked at wholesale prices and no more. You want the goods, we want the money.

Come Early and Get Your Choice.

EXTRA HELP will be provided for, so you can get waited on properly. REMEMBER, this Sale starts SATURDAY MORNING at EIGHT A.M., and will be continued for the balance of this MONTH ONLY.
