Quebec Convention. I will not weary you by entering into dry financial matters, nor do I place much confidence in this kind of argument. (A laugh.) Figures, it is well known, when in the hands of a skillul manipulator, can be made to lie notoriously; and I am content to allow the budgets of the speakers who have preceded me to speak for themselves and to be taken for what they are worth. As to the propriety of Union, I think there are few doubts, and that a Union of some kind must, ere are few doubts, and that a Union of some kind must, ere long, take place, is admitted, on all aides. The scheme yould all doubt, and little is said against it. The scheme of Confederation adopted at Quebec, is perhaps the best that could be devised, and it has been ably commented upon at bome. The Colonial Minuter, the Hon. Mr. Cardwell, has not only expressed his approval of the Report of the Quebec Convention in a despatch on that document lately transmitted to the Colonial Governors, but also in a speech at Oxford he culogises it as follows:

"They [the people of B. N. America] have conceived a noble ambition; they have designed to form, I venture to say, a sation, but not a nation designed from the allegioner which the form, I venture to say, a nation, but not a nation divided from the allegiance which they owe to the British throne, nor separated from the institutions under which it is their pride to live, nor estranged from the associations and attachments which bind them to the mother country. THE CHIPCHIAN AND ADDRESS OF THE CHIPCHIAN AND ADDRES

Transition in the second table sufficient quantities at the soil of an acre of land, the grant state of the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient grant and personnage in the table amounts to a large quantity of the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of an acre of land, the quantity of these sufficient for the soil of the stances present in the fertile soil may be sufficient for many crops, and that required by the more barren soil for even one crop may be very considerable.

We must also consider here the differences of the soil AFEW Super and sub-soil. The upper soil may be fertile and the suband sub-soil. The upper soil may be tertile and the sub-soil barron, and vice versa. In the former case, crops which spread their roots near the sufface, as is the case with the grain crops, will thrive on it, but will exhaust for invalidate and Persons of Impaired Digestic is more rapidly than if the sub-soil were fertile, in the sub-soil were fertile, in the sub-soil way for invalidation of the Faculty.

is more rapidly than if the sub-soil were tertile. In the latter case, only plants which can send their roots deeply into the soil will succeed well. In the former case, mixing the sub-soil with the soil may be sequicious in the latter it may be seen that the soil will succeed well. In the former case, mixing the sub-soil with the soil may be sequicious in the latter it may be seen that.

Again, our table shows that the fertility or barrenness of soils does not altogether depend on the quantity organic matter, that is, of vegetable mould or human present in the soil. This is, no doubt, of great value it is constantly yielding by its decay carbonic acid and ammonia to nounder the eigente part of the plant. It is constantly yielding by its decay carbonic acid and ammonia to nounder the eigente part of the plant. It is also by little used to matters of the plant, it is also by little used to matter of the soil. The renders classification in the particles of the boil. It renders classification in the particles of the boil. It renders classifications in the particles of the boil. The renders classifications of the soil will prove its efficacy—it will precommend that it is immensely superior to Arrowator, sage of approach that it is immensely superior to Arrowator, sage of approach that it is immensely superior to Arrowator, sage of approach that it is immensely superior to Arrowator, sage of arrival of an interesting of the interesting of the interesting properties, but also from its manufacture, which renders it more easily digestible. It is S.E.E. L.L.A.C.O. L. Frances of relating substances in solution. It is substances in solution. It is substances in solution. It is substances in the substances of the substances of the substances of significant of organic matter, and yet of almost inexhaustilitie fertility, and there are some peaty soils very rich is organ-ie matter, and very barren. Important though the or-ganic matter of the soil is, the mineral matter is more

The rable of the composition of soils when compared with that of the ashes of callivated plants, throws light on the causes of enlightening of fells, and on the advantages of rotation of crops. Soils manifestly become exhausted when, by a succession of crops requiring much observed when, by a succession of crops requiring much observed when, by a succession of crops requiring much of the soil to such an extent that the cropseat no longer obtains a sufficient quantity; and the number of crops which a sufficient quantity; and the number of crops which a soil will give, depends on the amount of Massacho, and instantaneous making matter which it orionally contained.
