CHAPTER XXIX.

Loyd-Mostyn Himself Again. N expression like the sun slowly escaping from the obstruction A escaping from the obstruction of a cloud passed over the lovely face. It was transcendent in its wonderful beauty.

"I have it at last!' she whispered, her lips barely moving over the words. 'I will escape! I will find some one in this great city who will be good enough to take me to the American minister. I will tell him my story and he will take care of me until my father can be found. He will not refuse. At least it is a hope. If I go now Lilford will not suspect, perhaps, and if I wait until later the precaution to make me a prisoner may occur to him. There is not a moment to be lost. I must go now, now while his anger has thrown him off his guard.' Even while she spoke to herself she rushed breathlessly to her wardrobe, took from it a long cloak that enveloped her, pinned on her hat and veil: then noiselessly locking her door from the outside, she slipped quietly down the stairs, and almost without a sound let herself into the street.

CHAPTER XXX.

BEBE'S SECOND FLIGHT. T Bebe was not unobserved. From an upper window a pair of sad, longing eyes gazed yearningly, and as they gazed the expression changed to one of intense

An early dusk was making caverns of footprints and cataract of small jets of water that spurted into the street from a defective sewer, and, as though fearing he had been deceived by an optical illusion, the man looked again

Then with a repressed exclamation he sprang to his feet, seized a hat and coat, and a moment later was following in the direction she had taken.

It required some time for him to to be flying, but when he was within with them. "He has not wronged me a protective distance he walked more ing the distance between them, but watching her intentively.

Something in the quivering voice, in the frightful agony of the exquisite face told Etienne Mil et that tors was not madness. He motioned to passing fiacre, then spoke to her with respectful courtesy.

'The distance is great,' he said gently. 'At least let us drive.'

She did not decline, and, placing her inside the conveyance, he spoke for a moment to the driver, then entered and took the seat beside her. "Remember that you are going to a stranger!" he said softly. "He is a man who has no interest in you other than that he is the representative of your nation, while I-I think that you know you may count upon me to the death, Mrs. Loyd-Mostyn.' She had listened eagerly until he pronounced that name; then a frightful chill seemed to seize her. "Oh. God!" she gasped.

"Is it that anything has happene to your husband?" he asked.

"Don't! Don't!" He leaned toward her and took her hands again, his magnificent dark eyes gleaming with wrath. "What has he done to you?" he de "Don't think that you can conceal it from me. "No! You are wrong. All wrong would trust you with my life, but not with the secret that makes perditio preferable. I would tell that to any one sooner than you! Any one!" The words, coupled with the misery of the tone, caused him to start. His ace flushed, then grew ghastly. He leaned toward her, pressing her hand between both his throbbing palms.

Editor Evening Telegram: Dear Sir,-One night this week tropped into the Nickel Theatre. As B the performance was in full swing when I entered, I naturally expected Ba to find not only every seat filled but the allev-way crowded up to the Br thain and the vestibule full of pat- Bu ons natiently waiting their turn to get in to see the show. But a very different state of affairs met my eya found the vestibule vacant, the ai ley-way clear of people, and even in he Hall itself not much more than a peggarly array of empty benches. n dawning upon me, the Govern-nent was in competition with the Nickel, and the Nickel was suffering. The crowd which usually fill 'atrick's Hall were now perambula ting the two rinks. The regularly stablished moving picture show was mporarily at least, eclipsed by the asual moving picture show ander Government auspices. The juestion naturally arose in my mind whether this was quite legitimate. Dught the overnment of the day to compete with business enterprise at And ought it to compete with a ousiness enterprise founded and developed by foreign capital? And, if it compete, ought it not to compete on somewhat equal terms with ics stablished rivals? If the Governstablished rivals? If the Government decided to give a moving picture show and invite the patronage of the public should it not be conent with the one single attraction and was it right that it should add the drawing power of the pictures he additional inducement of the expectation. ibition of a vast number of objects f interest? The resources of lickel are naturally limited to xhibition of moving pictures and the rovision of vocal instrumental ausic. The Government, on the con rary, was able to avail of the services of three full brass bands, a noving picture show, an exhibition f work of ingenuity and interest and display of all that the manufacturng and agricultural resources of the ountry can produce. If such con etition as this is to be encouraged nere is an end of private enterprise he resources of private enterprise re limited, while those of the Govrnment are, for all practical purhen, was unfair in any event, but its nfairness becomes still more apa. nt when we consider that, while oving picture theatres must charge tee for admission, the Government thow was open to everybody without ee or charge of any sort. Is this right in principle, and is it in conormity ith the avowed policy of the lovernment? This very show in the rinks was projected with the acmowleaged aim of fostering our locil industries and of proving that the resources of our country warrant the loreign capitalist in lending his money to develop them. Does it not appear somewhat inconsistent, then, on he hart of the Government to cennete energetically with a legitimate ndustry which was not only inaugurated but developed by capital furnshed from abroad? The amusement and entertainment of the people is he most prolific and the most certain of all the avenues for the investment of foreign capital which Newfound. of foreign capital which Newfoundand offers. Is it good policy then or the Government, with all its great esources, to enter into trade rivalry with those who are willing to extend he ickel system of amusement roughout the length and breath of the Island? When the project of employing prison labour in the owrk of beautifying the hospital grounds and improving the boulevard around Quidi Vidi was mosted we had a distinct Vidi was mooted we had a distinct prouncement from the Premier against such an unfair competition as this would be with the ordinary sources of labour. Should capital, then, be put on an unequal footing with labour in this respect? Ought not capital lawfully invested be as free from Government competition in its operations as labour is? If it is the intention of the Government to compete with the private citizen in the intention of the Government to compete with the private citizen in business enterprise I suggest that such competition should at least be conducted on equal terms that it should not offer greater attractions than its rivals can show and that it should not exhibit only in exchange for money. And I would ask why the show business has been singled out for this competition and why a minister of the Crown has been selected to afford the most innocently diverting of all the entertainments which the Government offered to those who visited the rinks. What has Shannahan to say?

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That tew of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that pinety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may concult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Prest., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Coronation Saltcellars.

Visitors to the Tower of London may possibly recall the beautiful gold saltcellars which constitute a feature of the regalia of the crown in the Jewel House. These have been used at the coronation banquets ever since

During the late king's reign an inpreciate how generally becoming is teresting old print was discovered at the gown of velvet combined with Windsor Castle, showing the design of these coronations saltcellars, and from this it was very evident that for the last 200 years the saltcellars had been used in an inverted position. It seems that the authorities were deceived by the fact that each of the cellars in question had what were taken to be feet, but which, in reality were nothing more than ears attached to the upper rim. Believing them to be feet, the officials had not only turned the saltcellars upside down, out they had inserted a small silver owl in each of the hollow ends.

King Edward, whose personal in terest in all matters of detail was well known, was most interested in the discovery, and at once sent direction to the Tower commanding that the mistake of centuries should be

A SUGGESTION.

Successful as were both the Industrial and the Agricultural Exhibitions generally, there was one defect in the Agricultural Show, glaringly great, standing out discordantly and disagreeably amidst the otherwise genereral excellence of the show. The accommodations and means of displaying the qualities and points of horses, cattle, &c., exhibited were lamentably inadequate. DO YOUR BUILDINGS NEED NEW ROOFS OR REPAIRING?

F so, settle it once and for all, by using a roofing of known wearing qualities. It's not what a roofing OUGHT to do; but what it HAS DONE, IS DOING, and WILL DO. We can prove that RUBEROID ROOFING that was applied to various kinds of buildings 15 to 20 years ago is still in perfect condition. No leaks. No repairs.

WHERE CAN YOU EQUAL THIS RECORD?

The buildings of the Lehr Agricultural Company, Fremont, Ohio, were among the first buildings, anywhere, to be roofed with a ready roofing. They were roofed with Ruberoid-the first ready roofing ever invented. That was seventeen years ago. This is the longest test ever given a ready-to-lay roofing. There is no theory, no uncertainty, in such a test as this. And to-day, this roof, put on in 1892, looks good for many years more.

Don't expect any ordinary roofing to stand such a test as this.

Many roofings look like Ruberoid Don't let that fact deceive you.

No other maker can use Ruberoid gum-and it is the use of this flexible gum which makes Ruberold waterproof-sun proof-cold proof-weather proof-recisting acids, gases and

It is the exclusive use of Ruberoid gum that makes Ruberoid roofing so good a fire resistant that if you drop live coals on the roof it will not take

A One-Piece Reofing.

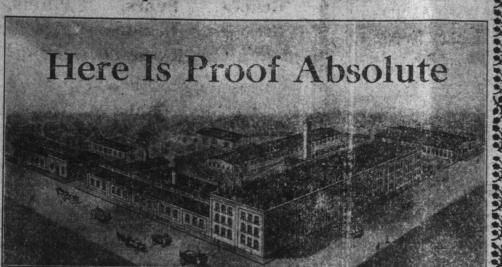

In each roll is Ruberine cement for joining the seams and laps.

A roof of Ruberoid is practically one piece, flexible, durable, and attractive.

It also comes in attractive colors-Red, Green, Brown-suitable for the finest homes.

These color roofings are made under our exclusively owned patents. The colors do not wear off or fade, because they are part of the roofing.

You can lay a Ruberoid roof yourself. Everything you need comes with

Orders

Dear Sir,-Your honest, independent and unbiased opinion as expressed in your issue of Saturday regarding the above mentioned incident, has met with general approval, not alone by the supporters of the C. C. C. but by in one voice strongly condemn the action of those who are responsible for such a glowing outrage which interests the general public, inasmuch as that those pictures have been or are to be paid for out of the public treasury. Such being the fact I think it is the bounden duty of the Premier, Sir E. P. Morris, and his Executive to demand an immediate answer from those individuals in London, or elsewhere, who came here for such a purpose as to take those pictures for the Festival of Empire, and to further prohibit those half finished pictures from being shown in England or anywhere else. And I think no monies should be paid by the Government in this respect until an investigation be held, as to do so would be nothing his up-to-date exhibition."

TUCKER AND MRS. TUCK-ER VISIT THE EX-

our visit.

In one of the sentences in the last article the printer made me say, "gone out of potatoes" for "gone out of poli tics." Certainly there's not much difference, as some of both are affected with canker.

We went down again last night and met the same crowd that we met the night before. They were beginning to show signs of exhaustion, and some of the cute women had discovered bench down by the door; there they sat and mopped the perspiration from their cheeks, puffed, and took in the straggling crowd as they rolled by We prized ourselves on the seat, put up with the black looks of two women from the Higher Levels, and gazed on the moving mass who looked anything but happy. All seemed to be suffering for their country, and everyone looked as if they had to come down to the show. In the crowd were all kinds and all classes. The uppish little man with the "far away gaze" and the condescending nod elbowed his way and did his best to appear ready to die if necessary to boast Local Industries; while the individual who only goes to shows with no admission fee, ried to look careless and a trifle off anded. The cute man who is engaged in local manufacturing, but who is too tight over his money to put goods in a stall, was there and felt like kicking himself when he saw his opportunity slip through his fingers. He moved with the gang because he had to and gazed on what he saw and said nothing.

The Soap Exhibition was very pretty, and Mr. Ross, the artist, who decorated the stall, looked important; ne certainly could feel important, for the display was a credit to him.

The Butter display of Harvey's. Hearn & Co., and Mackinson's were an eye-opener. Mrs. Tucker tasted the Forest, Star and Jersey, smacked her lips-and said: "There's no fear of getting inferior butter while we have such competition in the market." Keep to the left said a man, who had good Government job. "Get out," said Mrs. Tucker, "is you to tell us to keep to the left; why, an you always knew how to keep to the right, for no matter what party won in the elections you managed to come out He made himself small and was soon lost in the crowd.

"Who's that nice tidy, little, cutelooking man over there," said Mrs.

"Oh, that's Mr. Seymour, our memer for Harbor Grace," said a young man with a freckled face, "he's the man, you know, who 'got in' by the skin of his teeth." "Is that him, do you tell me, why he looks for all the world like the Consul for Arabia; or a detective looking for that safe cracker that managed to hide away among the millions of that Great City, Grand Falls."

"Where's Mr. Downey," says Tuck-"Oh, he's not here, he stand the strain." "Tis a shame," said Mrs. Tucker to spoil a nice hand like that-three "You're right," says Tucker, "sure with Mr. Blandford and Mr. Simms you'd run a chance of having a full hand." The clothing display seemed very grave-yardy, and the men in charge never smiled again. Chaplin's drew a big crowd of spectators, and Charlie Ellis broke the monotony by giving an eloquent discourse on the merits of the native The Royal Stores spared no money pushing their goods, and the days of importing Readymades should be a thing of the past.

When we got up where the trout were swimming around every one went chock-a-block. The trout gazed out at the crowd as much as to say what fools these mortals be." Tucker said he saw a trout in the case that got clear of his hook one day last summer. The crowd roared laughing and we made a retreat in an easterly direction.

Browning's display of Biscuits were really fine. George Snow, of Bowring's grocery, dressed this stall, and everyone admired it. We thought we'd get a few here but everything was stiff an dstately, so we moved on with languishing eyes.

"For goodness sake," said Tucker "look at the Fishery Exhibit. Oh ye gods and little fishes. Are we trying to do without fish, or are we trying to kill our staple product? After all our years is this the best show we could put forth? It's a good thing John Clouston's stall was next to it or we'd be the laughing stock of the country. He saved the situation with

A Prophetic Jewel.

Peculiar Ring That Was Owned by Marquise du Barry.

Marquise du Barry whose lovely head fell into the basket beneath the guillotine in expiation of her levity, extravagance and folly, had in her possession a stone of which the Paris jewelers were unable to tell the precise nature. There appeared upon it below the surface and as if under water an outline of a picture containing human figures. Strange to relate, when first the gem was given to its afterward unfortunate possessor this outline was not clear, but after it had been some months in her possession grew more vivid. One day the negro servant boy, Lamor, who was afterward instrumental from revenge in the downfall of the Du Barry, declared, looking at the jewel, that he could decipher the figure of a woman with disheveled hair leaning before a scaffold and surrounded by a crowd, while beside her

NOW LANDING. Snatching the jewel from the hand of the servant, Mme. du Barry examined it, saw the kneeling woman, the angry crowd, the death knife falling and, with a cry of agony, fell sense less to the floor.

Crippen Fails On Appeal.

HE WILL BE HUNG TO-MORROW. LONDON, Nov. 5.

The hearing of the appeal of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen from his conviction and sentence to death for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, drew another great crowd to the New Bailey Court to-day. Justices Darling, Channell and Pickford heard the counsel were the same as appeared T. Moulton. for him at his trial. The principal grounds upon which they based their Makes the Hair Beautiful large size, 50 cents.—oct29,1m. appeal were: First, that one of the jurors, taken ill during the trial, was removed from the court by physicians without being in the custody of an officer; second, the identity of the corpse found in the cellar of the Crippen home had not been established; third, that for the Crown rebutting evidence had been improperly admitted. Tobin, K.C., said that it was not charged that any one had tampered with the juror while he was temporarily excused, but that an important principle of law was involved. Snatch Thief About. MRS. J. MULLINS RELIEVED OF

Just about 7.30 p.m. on Saturday Mrs. J. Mullins left her home on Hamilton Avenue Avenue to go down to the city where she intended to pay some bills due and do some shopping. She carried in a hand bag which was slung over her arm, enclosed in a urse inside it the sum of $101.28 in 0's 5's, and 2's notes with some silver and a small cheque. She had hardly proceeded 20 yards from her residence when a man accosted her and asked her what direction he should ake to go to Cornwall Avenue. The voman pointed the way with her hand when suddenly the man seized the satchel and tore it from her, breaking the steel chain which went over her arm and ran with great speed up Thorburn's Lane and into Cornwall Avenue where he vanished in the darkness. The robber acted so suddenly and unexpectedly that the woman was dazed, and for a few minutes made no outcry, thus giving the fellow a chance to get away and outstrip possible pursuers. Mr. E. Rodgers and wife had just passed Mrs. Mullins on the street when the holdup occurred and were only 50 yards away, and when later Mrs. Mullins nade an outcry they with young men named Whelan, Forbes and Kavanagh met her and were told of the robbery. The men ran up the avenue but the thief had made good his escape. Before leaving her residence Mrs. Mullins had taken the money rom a cash box in which it was kept and transferred it to her purse. The blind of the parlor window where she transferred the money was raised and her action could be seen by any peron who might have been outside. She says that the man was of medium neight wearing a tweed cap with a dark suit of clothes and that he carried an umbrella. When he first acosted her he asked her where Murray the carpenter lived.
