The Bear Disposed te Growl.
LONDON, June 23.—It is reported that Baron de Staal, the Russian ambassador, has been instructed by his government to maintain an attitude of reserve towards the government of the Marquis of Salisbury. De Staal is also instructed, according to the same report, to insist that the Zulifaor pass ought to belong to Russia in order to check any advance Afghanistan may propose to make into Russian territory.

Lord Randolph Churchill, the new secre tary for India, at this moment commands' of modern statesmen. There are others who contemptuously deny him a title to rank among statesmen at all. Some of his admirers declare him to be an orator in the a stoutly maintain that he is at best no ents stoutly maintain that he is at best no better than a showy and shallow rhetorician. Favorable critics dwell upon the alleged wit, spirit, clearness, graphic power and frequent brilliancy of his speeches, while those of the severer order profess to be more struck by their meretricious glitter, overwhelming presumption, open disregard of principle, innate vulgarity of conception and utter absence of earnestness and truth. Still, such as he is, there he stands on the path, a great difficulty. stands on the path, a great difficulty. How can he; after giving pledge to Parnell to oppose the Coercion bill for Ireland and wou the division which defeated the government through that pledge, sit without shame in council with men like Lord Cranbrook, Lowther, Gibson, Plunkett and Lord Salisbury himself, who have declared themselves in favor of a renewal of the Crimes act for a lengthened period and in its full severity, and objected to the renewal Mr. Gladstone and objected to the renewal Mr. Gladstone proposed purely on the ground of its shortness of term and more subdued provisions? Then "My Randy," as his mother calls him, is personably objectionable to the queen. For the matter of that, so was Disraeli for many years. When his mother came over or a visit to London, while her husband, the late Duke of Marlborough, was viceroy in Ireland, she assumed semi-royal airs and appeared in Piccadilly and the park in a carriage and four with outriders, which much offended her majesty, who had a mild suggestion of her displeasure conveyed to the haughty duchess.

Concerts and Temperance Meetings -Chief Stewart and Riel's Trial. Hamilton, June 23.—The 13th bat. tailon will give a band concert, under the Thursday night in Dundum park.

A parochial branch of the Church England workingmen's society was organ ized to-night in Christ's church school

Jos. Kidd's brick dwelling at Dublin, Ont., was burned on Monday afternoon. Most of the contents were saved, but damaged. Insurance on the building: Royal Canadian, $4000; Perth Mutual $2000. Insurance on the contents, $3000 in the British American.

Great Minds in the One Groove. HALIFAX, N.S., June 22.—Presbyteria circles generally in Halifax, and particularly one congregation of that denominalarly one congregation of that denomination, are much disturbed over the fact that two of their clergymen have recently preached the same discourse. Last week the pastor of one of the city churches, heretofore looked upon as one of the cleverest divines in the city, left for Montreal to attend the annual session of the Presbyterian general assembly. On Sunday his pulpit was occupied by a minister of the same denomination from a town near Ottawa, Ont., who preached exactly the same sermon as one delivered about a month ago by the local minister. The matter will form the subject of a church conference.

Attempted Highway Robbery. DUNDAS, June 23. - This morning County Constable McNair arrested John Hurley, the of whom had been discharged within the past few days and sent to Moose Jaw on their way home. was so anxious to start that the Indians allowed him to go ahead, which he did. On arrival the three held a council. One of the three, who was married, and whose wife was confined only the day before sould not leave, and so agreed to join Big Bear. The other two told him that they were going to Prince Albert to join Riel, but struck for Lac la Biche instead, where they arrived all right. Big Bear had atthe time 300 tents with him, which means 400 or 500 fighting men.

The papers in the Northwest are more bitter about the mounted police than even the eastern papers. The Edmonton Bulletin, for instance, says:

It does appear that the word heroism, applied to the conduct of the mounted police in charge of Fort Pitt is decidedly out of place. If they surrendered some twenty or thirty helpless whites into the hands of the Indians sacre, and saved themselves by flight, as they appear to have, from their own account, the officers who so betrayed their trust should be hanged, as many better men have been for sets not a hundreth part has base, treacherous and utterly cowardly and unmanly.

His Arm Cut Off. When the express from Hamilton due here at 4.35 p.m. reached Mimico yesterday it took the side track to let the expres for Hamilton pass. William Murray was walking on the side track and evidently thought the express was going through without pulling up. He was struck by the engine and thrown in such a manner that his right arm was nearly cut off by the twheels of the engine. He was brought to the city and taken to the hospital where his arm was amputated. He was reported late last night to be doing favorably. He gave his age as 38 but from appearance is considerably older. He said he had no place of residence, but had come from Hamilton, and was in search of employment. walking on the side track and evidently

It traces their descent from Adam, through Jacob, their subjection in Egypt, their deliverance therefrom by Moses, their wanderings in the detert and their settlement in Syris under the ameership of Solomon, to their Babylonian captivity, their release, their wanderings on the bills of Ghour and their final settlement in Afghanistan. It concludes by exhorting the Afghans to trust to God, who will preserve them from their terrible enemy.

An advance copy of the report of the board of directors dated June 10, to be presented at the meeting on Friday, has just come to hand and shows the present condition of the company. During the past year the sale of farm lands (4335 acres) realized £4060; deducting £2449, the original cost, leaves £1610 as the profit. The average price yielded per acre was about $4.50. The town site sales only realized £587. The falling off in land sales is credited to the depression and to the rebellion. Farm lands to the extent of 2516 acres sold in 1882-3, and 800 acres sold in 1883-4, the purchasers of which having failed in their payments, had to be taken back.

Over ten thousand of the 300,000 shares were forfeited for non-payment of arrears. Over £9000 of the calls is also in arrears; most of this however will be recovered.

Viny's prospects.

'Twouldn't be long now before he proposed, I knew; and I kept talking to her about Washington, and asking fanny Ann questions on thesly, and praising Viny to the Senator, and doing my duty in every way, until at last one evening, coming up stairs with the towels, the Senator came out from among the other boarders in the narlor, and says he:

Then I turned quite faint and said:

I didn't say anything more. I was sort of stunned."

"My bound girl!" says I, after a while.

"We shall be married next week," says he; "and I shan't be ashamed of my little wife. She is a natural lady; and, as I said, any lo s you may sustain—"

But then I lost command of myself and began to tell him what I thought of him, and my opinion of that brazen Fanny Ann.

know Mrs. Senator Spriggins' origin.
They say she's ever so stylish and takes mighty airs; but I never could get any sympathy from Viny. She married Soroggins, the grocer, soon after, and will set up for happy.

"If Fanny Ann could put up with that solemn senator, she's welcome to him," says she. "I've always liked dear Scrog.;" but I have a mother's feelings, ma'am, and no one knows how I suffer when Mrs. Senator Spriggins drives by in her coach!

She always were nice long aprons that covered her from her neck to her toes, and good cowhide boots. I never allowed her to be idle. She was up at five, washing windows and making fires, and in the evening I made her sew and knit. She never had a lazy moment, so that can't account for her wickedness; but as for being pretty—no, indeed. My Lavinia was Pretty; she wasn't. Viny and Fanny Ann were just the same age.

It was when Viny was sixteen that Senator Spriggins came to board at my house. A splendid mar he was, about thirty, and just as handsome as a picture.

"Viny," says I to my girl, "how would you like to be a senator's lady"
"Queerer things have happened, Viny," says L. "Just do your prettiest. The senator's in and out a good deal, and you might as well see something of him; and I'm sure I owe enough for your things for you to wear 'em."

So Viny dressed herself in her best every day. And she was a girl to be proud of—white hands, small waist; never had done a thing for herself; didn't know how to take a stitch, for I wouldn't have her prick her fingers—a genuine lady.

"Evidence, indisputable evidence."

At the end of the month the judge re minded the young man of his promise.

"The man who can produce indisputable evidence wins public favor. I had an interview yesterday with the most successful because always backed by evidence,

FIRST DAY OF THE SHOOTING TOURNAMENT AT WOODBINE.

Messrs. John P. Moore & Co.'s great shooting tournament at Peoria blackbirds nanship exhibited decidedly creditable Two screened traps were used, and, as well as the birds, gave the utmost satisfaction. The two first prizes went to visitors, one to John Smythe of Hamilton and the other to E. H. Smith of Niagara, while of the remaining six local men carried off the greater proportion. The success of the tournament is due to the enterprise of John P. Moore & Co., who have been aided in the matter of cetting the traps and other minute by Fred Kimble of Peoria, Ill., inventor and patentee of the Peoria blackbird.

The Ontarios are not a whit daunted by so conquer the doughty Shamrocks on the Jarvis street grounds next Saturday. They recognize that it would be rather unreasonable to expect to sweep all the world before them in their first year of seniority, and therefore intend to fight the present year through and trust to the future to profit by their experience. They had a capital practice yesterday and showed a marked improvement in the quickness of their throwing, a temperation to hold the ball too long being one of their prevailing weaknesses. On Saturday they propose to make considerable changes in their team. First and foremost Dan their prevailing weaknesses. On Saturday they propose to make considerable changes in their team.
