EVERY PRECAUTION is being taken in EVERY PRECAUTION is being taken in Watford to prevent the spread of that baneful pestilence, Spanish influenza. Although no serious cases have so far been reported the Medical Health Officer, Dr., Siddall, advised a meeting of the Board of Health on Sunday and recommended the closing of the schools, public library, barber shops and pool rooms as a preventative measure and the order came into force Monday morning. Too much care cannot be taken, and the Board should see that no unnecessary gatherings are taken, and the Board should see that no unnecessary gatherings are allowed. It has been suggested, and we think very wisely, that people should not be allowed to congregate in the post office waiting as some do fifteen or twenty minutes while the mail is being sorted. There is no need for this unnecessary gathering of people, which is merely a habit. The "flu" this year is of such a virulent type that every possible precaution should be used to guard against its spread. Now that the schools are closed parents are directed by the Board closed parents are directed by the Board to see that their children are kept at home and not allowed to play on the streets with a number of other children. The act of closing the schools will to a large extent be nullified if children are allowed to congregate on the streets or in other places. Another meeting of the Board was held on Wednesday afternoon when the closing regulation was extended to Sunday schools, churches, and other places where people assemble. The ban places where people assemble. The ban on the barber shops has been taken off commencing Saturday, provided the owners keep certain regulations of the Board. These regulations remain in force until further notice.

Sir Thomas White's Appeal to Canadians

Points Out Great Need of the Victory Loan to Carry On the War.

On the opening of Canada's great Victory Loan drive the Minister of Finance issued the following mes-

To the People of Canada:

The Victory Loan of 1918 is now being offered for public subscription. It is an undertaking of most vital consequence to the nation, and I cannot too earnestly emphasize the duty and responsibility resting upon all citizens of Canada to co-operate to the extent of their available resources in making it an unqualified success.

SIR THOMAS WHITE

Minister of Finance under whose direction the great Victory Loan drive for $500,000,000 is being

The money to be raised is urgently required to enable us to continue the prosecution of the war, now in its fifth and most crucial year, and for the maintenance of the prosperity of the Dominion in all departments of productive activity.

Apart from patriotic considerations which should alone suffice, it is the direct, immediate, personal interest of every individual Canadian citizen that the Loan should not fail of its objective. The bonds afford absolute security and yield a most attractive rate of interest. Undoubtedly, in the period succeeding the war, they will show a substantial appreciation in

All citizens are earnestly invited to subscribe. Remember, you are asked not to give but to lend your money to the state. Small subscriptions from those of slender means are as welcome as the large. In the last Victory Loan we received subscriptions of over four hundred million dollars from over eight hundred thousand subscribers. This year we expect five hundred million dollars from more than a million subscribers. Let all subscribe to the extent of their means, be they great or small, and once more demonstrate to the world the strength, unity and determination of the Canadian people in this world struggle. Even if the war should end at an earlier date than has been anticipated, all the money asked for will be required for the purposes of demobilization, which will extend over many months, and for the continuation of credits for the purchase of Canadian products. The purchase of Canadian products. The organization and publicity work in connection with the Loan has been completed after many weeks of effort. It now remains for the people of Canada to do their share. That they will do so to the fullest degree, I am entirely confident.

Surpasses All Fiction

When a ship bound from France to the United States was torpedoed recently, and sank, a sealed coffin containing a body of an American soldier, floated from its deck as the ship went down. Four American sailors who had leaped from the sinking craft found sufficient buoyancy in the coffin to sustain them for 18 hours. Presently a ship came along and rescued them, and took the coffin on board, when it developed that the rescuing vessel was the ship on which the soldier had died at sea, following an operation. His body had been carried to France, and there transferred to the ship which was subsequently torpedoed, and which had been followed home by the later vessel. The coffin and the sailors were delivered safely at an Atlantic port. Few writers of fiction would take the liberty of setting down a set of circumstances so odd.

Robert Stead's New Novel

Robert J. C. Stead, in his new novel, "The Cow Puncher," (Toronto the Musson Book Co., Ltd., cloth, $1.50), has written a notable book Western Canada setting. David Elden, the cow puncher of the story, grows to young manhood on a ranch in the foothills, outside the influence of church or school. At eighteen he is accidentally thrown into the company of a young Eastern girl, who enkindles in him the ambition to be somebody in the world.

With this purpose in view, young Elden leaves the ranch and goes to guns, 4,000 cannon and 254,000 make his fortune in a young Western city. The first night he is so many men and guns one would a job next morning as a coal heaver. have to spent half his time keeping For a time it looks as through Dave's of up, but he fortunately comes under influences which revive his ambition for self-betterment. About this time the big western real estate boom breaks out, and Dave's course is meteoric. His wealth comes quickly and goes as quickly. Following the collapse of the boom a tragedy in his love affairs sends him as an enlisted man to France. In the closing chapters is found one of the highest patriotic notes struck by any author during the war.

"The Cow Puncher" is decidedly worth while. It is interesting and refreshing, and at times inspiring, written with all Mr. Stead's intimate knowledge of the West and skill of walls of the Kaiser's hopes and a happy vein of humor and philexpectations. Some of the writing osophy which is not the least of its charms. It is illustrated by Arthur Heming, ex-lumber man and North-West mounted policeman, and is announced by the publishers as an all-Canadian book—written by a Canadian, illustrated by a Canadian, and printed and bound in Canada. It should receive a warm welcome from the Canadian reading public. The United States edition is issued by Harpers.

Forgiveness a Hersey

In the Case of Germany

Everyone who preaches the heresy of forgivness is helping the Germans to win the victory and is even making himself an accomplice in their wickedness. To forgive is to condone, and condonation of the Huns will ensure that, if war comes again to destroy the earth, worse practices and fouler weapons than those invented by the Germans will be used and approved. Germany's Boasted Efficiency Has Failed in the Test

With all Germany's boasted efficiency, and it spent forty years in bringing it to the super-point, it has never been able to put the finishing touch on any job it has undertaken. Belgium was defeated and overrun Berlin thought it was done for all time, but it has never ceased to be an active, fighting force. Serbia was laid low, but today its armies are attacking the Hun. Poland was devastated, but today an army of 100,000 strong is ready to march to the salvation of the country from which it was driven. Italy was demoralized and the armies driven back but it was not put out of the war, and now it is stronger than at any time since war was declared. The defeat of Russia was the most complete piece of work Germany has done, but even there the final knockout punch was lacking, and now it is too late to deliver it.

Useful in Camp.—Explorers, surveyors prospectors and hunters will find Dr. Thomas, Eclectic Oil very useful in camp. When the feet and legs are wet and cold in the cold of th it is well to rub them freely with the Oil and the result will be the prevention of pains in the muscles, and should a cut, or contusion, or sprain be sustained, nothing could be better as a dressing or letton.

Cornwall Standard:—A merchaut in Renfrew advertises in the local papers that he will sell the same iron bed that Eaton's advertise at $6.10. His price, delivered and set up, will be $6.25. Farmers who call for it can have it for $6.15, and they get it the same day, no writing, postage, uncertainty or delay. It is quite possible that the same can be procured in other towns, but the local dealers don't advertise the fact enough. LET YOUR DOLLARS MARCH WITH DEMOCRACY,

The Lady With The Lamp

There is in France a young English V. A. D. who serves King and country by trimming between two hundred and three hundred lamps every day. If any one has ever attempted to keep one lamp in order that person will not envy the V.A.D. Neither will the fine grade of patriotism underlying the lamp trimming be overlooked. The work is performed in a cold, dark cellar, and the worker is alone much of the time; put the thing that keeps her steadily and cheerfully at work is the fact that every lamp will be needed at night in the hospital to which the cellar belongs. It happens that this particular hospital is one established in an old French Chateau, pictur-seque and full of charm, historically, but entailing a vast amount of extremely hard work because chateau and monasteries were not constructed, centuries ago, with an eye to perfect sanitary arrangements. Highly cultured Englishmen, over draft age or physically unfit, count this difficult work no hardship. They have become expert stretcher-bearers have driven ambulances under fire and do countless things that are much more difficult than similar work in English Hospitals in France.

Millers Worm Powders are pleasant medicine for worminfested children, and medicine for wormintested children, and they will take it without objection. When directions are followed it will not injure the most delicate child, as there is nothing of an injurious nature in its composition. They will speedily rid a child of worms and restore the health of the little sufferers whose vitality has become impaired by the attacks of these come impaired by the attacks of these internal pests.

The City of Jerusalem

How few of us have any conception of the city of Jerusalem as it is to-day. The best description is that of Lawrence Hutton:-Jerusalem is unique as a city in which everything is serious and solemn and severe. It has no clubs, no bar-rooms, no beergardens, no concert halls, no theatres no lecture rooms, no places of amusements of any kind, no street bands, no wandering ministrels, no wealth or upper classes, no mayor, no aldermen, no elections, no newspapers, no printing presses, no book stores, except one-outside the walls for the sale of Bibles, no cheerfulness, no life. No one sings, no one dances, no one laughs in Jerusalem; even the children do not play.

Tending Towards Peace

The impression made by the war news is that, as winter approaches, the conflict in France slackens. Little is heard except of the pressure of the Americans in the neighborhood is that there is steady progress towards peace. Nothing is heard of Turkey. But in Austria, a peaceful revolution is said to be under way, involving a breaking of the alliance with Germany, at once, and in the end the independence of Hungary. Germany is apparently engaged at home in a political revolution directed by her statesmen, in the first place, to satisfy the demand of the allies and, in the second, to provide a government, which will hold in the inevitable event of failure and defeat. It is not unreasonable to speculate stander faring worst. that Germany will hold out, if she can, till that is accomplished. Men like Ludenburg are leaving their posts and it is said that the Kaiser is ready to become the hereditary president of a German Republic like the Ring of England.

The war news this week is of a very encouraging nature. On the various fronts events are developing apidly and peace proposals are cropping up in several quarters. Austria has formally announced her willingness to make peace, either separately or with Germany, and is also willing to accept all the terms aid down by President Wilson. Germany, which had applied to Wilson for an armistice and had been told that such appeal would be passed on by the other Allies, claims to be waiting for terms. There should be no terms submitted but complete surrender and full indemhity. It looks as if Germany, Turkey and Austria were all ready for peace on almost any terms.

one hundred new cases of "flu" have been added to the list in Sarnia this week. The malady seems to be getting worse instead of better, as the number of deaths are on the increase. While most of the cases are of a mild form there are scores and scores of persons seriously ill. The hospital is overflowing now and is unable to take in any new patients. During the past two weeks. over a dozen persons have died from the results of Spanish influenza.

The Fate Of The Q-boats

R. E. Cropley in the October Atlantic.—We've had a type of boat war boat-known as the Q type. They look like old crocks and go out looking for Fritz with a vengeance. And they've got a lot of Fritzies, for the work they did is this. Fritz would show himself and shell them and then the merchant crew would abandon the Q-boat and row away. Fritz would close up. Then the Qboat would drop her fake topsides and have a go at him. You see the point was to get Fritz close in by making him think the Q-boat had been abandoned. Well, Fritz got on to it after a bit and the German admiralty warned the naval reserve men who man the Q-boat as to just what would happen. So a man going out in a Q-boat took his life in By instructions of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture, a free distribution of superior sorts of grain will be made during in the coming winter and spring to Canadian farmers.

These will will be sent out, free, by mail, from the Central Experimental farm, Ottawa, by the Dominion Cerealist, who will furnish the necessary application forms.

Only one sample can be sent to each applicant. As the supply of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply very early.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thriye. (Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspa-per Syndicate.) "Lieutenant Hanlon and Sergeant Farrell-to see Doctor Carroll, please," and a flash of admiration came into the usually impassive countenance of Sims, the butler, as he took in with one all-appraising glance the uniformed "A fine looking pair of soldiers," was his silent verdict, but aloud he said: "I'll tell the doctor you have come"— and he waved them into the large reception room that forms part of every

"Gee," said Scott Hanlon (he of the lieutenantilke decorations), "this is sure some fine place. Our doctor man must certainly be a man of means, adthough he never tried to make us think so when he talked to us." "I know it, Scott, but that's just what made everybody like him so," replied Sergt. John Farrell, late of the One Hundred and Seventh artillery. "I know a few boys in the trenches that'll never forget him, and I'll wager any one of them would cheerfully give up his life for 'Old Doc.' " "I guess you're right, Jack. I always knew he was a big man, but I never thought that he had left all this behind to go 'over there' and take care of the boys; and as for anyone ever giving up anything to help 'Old Doc,' why, I only hope I have the chance some day, for I'll sure never for

"Sh!" came a warning whisper from his brother officer as footsteps sounded in the hall. The draperies parted and once more Sims, the butler, made his appearance.

"Beg pardon, sirs," said he, "but the doctor was called out quite unexpectedly, but he's expected back any minute. Mrs. Carroll went with him, but if you'll please make yourselves com-fortable, Miss Madeline and Miss Mary will be down directly." And taking caps and ulsters from the two guests Sims withdrew once more with an apologetic cough.

Again left alone, the two men talked in undertones. "Kind o' queer that he shouldn't be here to welcome us, don't you think?" said Jack to his compan-"He's had our letter now over two weeks, telling him that we'd spend the last three days of our furlough with him here. However," as an after-thought, "I suppose a doctor's a pretty busy fellow. Must be if he can afford to have all this," and once more his eyes wandered with an admiring glance around the luxuriously furnished room. "I guess I'll leave our small offering here till by and by," he added, carefully depositing on the table a large and bulky package which up to now he had been holding.

"Miss Madeline and Miss Marythey must be the twins that 'Doc' was forever raving about," said Scott.
"Can you picture me holding a chubby three-year-old on my knee, and saying: 'Oos ducky darling is oo?'" And two hearty masculine laughs pealed forth, forgetful for the moment of their surroundings; but only for a moment, for a slight noise made both

The twins, indeed—but nothing chubby or three-year-old about the two young ladies who stood in the doorway. Quite the contrary; tall, slender and good looking—at least such was the mental verdict of two young men who saw them for the first time.
"Lieutenant Hanlon," spoke up one, slightly taller than her twin, and she looked inquiringly at the two young men.

"I am here," sald Scott, as he stepped forward.

"I am Madeline Carroll," said the girl, holding out her hand, "and this is my sister Mary. Then you," turning to Jack, as Mary and Scott were gravely shaking hands, "you must be—must be—" and she made a pretense of tooking at a well-worn letter that she held in her hand, "you must be Sergeant Farrell."

"I am," said Jack so promptly that they all laughed, and so the ice was broken.

"We've been looking forward to your coming for ever so long," said Madeline, who evidently felt that the burden of entertainment rested upon her shoulders, "and we were so excited when dad got your letter saying that you were coming today, because you see, it's a very important day for us—it's our birthday—Mary's and mine. You see, we're twins."

"Yes, I know that," said Scott. "Your. dad-we always called him Doc, over there at the front-did nothing but talk about his 'twins.' "

"He sure did," chimed in Jack, "and Scott and I thought that you were about three years old."

"What!" exclaimed Mary, shocked into speaking for the first time: "Why, we're eighteen today." and she drew emphasize the importance of that fact and then blushed adorably as she sud-denly realized that all eyes were upon her. "Evidently," thought Jack, "Mary was the shy member of the pair'-but he didn't mind how shy she was if she only blushed like that.

"Well, of course, we realize our dreadful mistake now," he said, look-ing straight into her eyes, "but how were two poor soldiers to know-Doc always called you his 'twin kiddles.'

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed, as a thought suddenly struck him, and going over to the table, he proceeded to unwrap the package he had so carefully placed there, and with comical dismay he held up to view two gayly colored balls dangling from elastics, and two squeaky rubber dolls.

Peal upon peal of laughter rang out -the boys foining in none the less heartily because the joke was upon them, and in the midst of it all came a stamping up the front steps, the front door was thrown open and a deep bass voice called out: "Well, so you got here ahead of me, eh? I hope my twin kiddles-I mean my twin young indies—have taken good care of you," and divesting himself of his great fur coat, which was taken in charge by the ever-present Sims, in came Dr. Walter Carroll, otherwise known as "Old Doc" of the One Hundred and Seventh regiment, and held out a hand to each of his guests.

Each young soldier grasped the hand extended to him, and gripped it with that grip by which men make known to other men the feeling that is in their hearts.

It was a pretty party that sat down to dinner that night in Doctor Carroll's house, and many a "trench story" did the two boys relate to their old friend, with the rest of the family as interested listeners.

"And now for the party," cried Madeline, her eyes dancing with excitement, as a group of the young people of the neighborhood came in to help celebrate the birthday of the twins. Soon the fun waxed fast and furious. and many were the envious looks cast in their direction when Scott and Jack were elected by the two girls to cut the two birthday cakes that adorned the table, brave in their proud array of 18 candles each.
"It's because they have swords, you see," explained Madeline, anxious to soothe the feelings of some of her devoted admirers. "You know swords do cut the cake so nicely."

"The ring—the ring—who gets the ring?" came a chorus from the girls, as the pieces of cake were distributed. Scott held up the coveted trophy.

There followed three such glorious days, that as they sat at the dinner table on their last evening with the Carrolls, Scott declared that he was so spoiled that he knew that he'd never amount to anything after he got back to actual duty.
"Well, we're glad if you enjoyed stay with us. answered Mary Carroll sedately, but although her lips answered Scott, her eyes sought out his brother officer.

"I'll tell you this," said Tom, graveto die. I shall certainly die happier for having had these few wonderful days." "Pooh! Pooh!" cried the doctor quickly, anxious to avoid any reference to the dangers to come that might spoil their last hours together. "After dinner the girl'll take you out along the river for a walk, and you'll only think how nice it is to live, and not be worrying about dying." Along the south path that led to the river John Farrell strolled with Mary. "It's only three days I've known you, it's true," he said. "but you must remember that really I've known you since you were three, from what dear 'Old Doc' has told us. I've got to go back to the front, dear, but the war can't last forever, and when I come back-have I chance, Mary?"

"Well, it was my ring—and you won it," said Mary, and she blushed adorably, and in some mysterious way her answer completely satisfied Jack.

"But you mustn't tell anyone," she begged, "for you see I'm only eighteen, and we'll have to wait a long time. Besides I'd hate to have Madeline know—that is—right away. Of course, I always tell her everything. Twins always do, you know," and she looked up at him with serious eyes, "but some how I'd like to keep this a secret just between us for a little while."

"All right, sweetheart, if you say so." he agreed, "but I don't think you need worry about Madeline. There she is now," as Scott Hanlon and the other twin came slowly up the west path.

On board the U.S. transport Alida two well-set-up, fine-looking young soldiers slowly paced the deck. "Well," said Jack Farrell to his friend, "I may not have won the penny that was in that birthday cake, but I'll bet you an army sweater against a pair of pigskin puttees that if I ever get safely back home again I'll be richer than you'll be."

"But you seem to forget," replied the other, "I won the wedding ring, and sometimes it's just as well to be-

"Ch. ho! So it's you, too, en?" exclaimed Jack, as he whistled softly; "well, we certainly are two lucky fellows. Here's to our next furlough, Scott, and may it be as happy a one as this one has been."
"Yes," said Scott Hanlon, "God willing, here's to our next furlough. And gravely the two soldiers shook Ancient Soap Making.

A soap boiler's shop was among the things discovered in the excavation at Pompeli several years ago. The city was buried beneath volcanic ashes A D. 79. It is said that the soap found in the shop had not lost all efficacy, aithough it had lain under the ashes more than eighteen hundred years. Soap making was quite a business in a number of the Italian cities at the time that Pompeii was destroyed. Pliny the elder speaks of soap, and says that because its price was so high many substitutes were used, among them a kind of glutinous earth and fine sand mixed in the juice of certain plants that made lather. History tells us that the Gauls made soap two thousand years ago by combining beech tree ashes and goat's fat.

A Vision Of Former Dinners

When we go out to eat these days we have to sit and wonder, if food controller's hit the list with lightnin' and with thunder, or if he's put some more laws on to choke us from our hash, or if he's took from us our oats, our hay and our bran mash.

And when I see the sugar lump I sit and heave a sigh, for you could stick the bloomin' thing right edgeways in your eye.
And likewise bread is trimmed up thin, and butter, oh by heck, there aint enough doled out to grease the hair upon your neck.

Oh, I like to sit at times like these, and back up twenty years, to them there days what come along and boot away my tears-to good old days of harvest homes when tables used to groan, and when we ate full to the neck for a quarter of a bone.

We used to take the punkins then, the corn stalks and the beets, and decorate the church throughout, the pulpit and the seats.

And put the big potatoes there, likewise the apples red, and cabbages as big and hard as was the deacon's head-and twine the oak and maple leaves, and spin the golden rod, and have a sample of most things what sprung from out the sod.

And then we had the harvest home-come back once more that night-when stuff to eat was piled up high and tucked in good and

We ate some turkey and some ham, some chicken and some pie, we had a heap of sandwiches heaped up both thick and high. We ate, we did, until we groaned, and then we ate some more, and every course that came along we hollered out 'encore!"

And after all that there was done they'd clear away the wreck, and all the preachers round about would climb upon the deck, and tear off jokes ten years of age and try to speechify on top of fourteen kinds of meat and sixteen kinds of pie.

There weren't no food controller then a-hangin' round the place, to see how much you gathered up and shoved into your face.

I'd like to be a kid again just for one harvest home, with sawhorse tables loaded up until they'd creak and groan-with punkin pies and chicken too, with home cured country ham, and best of all, by jing, there weren't no food controllin' man.-ARK.

We presume that many people think the newspaper men are persistent duns, as they keep reiterating, "look at the label on your paper,"
"move up the date," "you are back on your subscription," "pay what you owe," "pay up." "pay us." Now let a farmer or business man place himself in a similar business position and see if he would not do the same. Suppose the farmer raises a crop of two thousand bushels of wheat and his neighbor should buy a bushel, and the price was two dollars or less, and the neighbor says, "I will pay you the sum in a few days." As the farmer doesn't want to be small in the matter of small things, he says 'all right." Another comes in the same way until the whole of the two thousand bushels are gone out to the two thousand different persons. No one purchaser concerns himself about it, and, of course, that could not help him any. He does not realize that the farmer has frittered away his crop of wheat in little dribs, and that he is seriously embarrassed in his business, because his debtors treat it as a small matter. But if all would pay him promptly, which they could do as well as not, it would enable him to carry on his business without difficulty. The above comparison is too true of the difficulties that a newspaper man has to contend with.

On Saturday last I helped a farmer thresh oats which went one hundred bushels per acre. We hope that if the wheat does not make the money it was hoped to do in the spring, that oats as a sub-stitute will help out."

BASKET ON A STAND One of Italy's War Appliances That Does Fine Work,

"Jolly good work I call that for basket on a string," was the way a visiting British officer characterized an exploit of the Italians in the an exploit of the tatalans at the course of which—in lieu of any other way of doing it—they had shot the end of a cable from a gun across a flood-swollen river and thus made it, possible to rig up a teleferica for rushing over some badly needed reinforcements.

The Italians' conduct of their Alpine campaign must remain a classic of mountain warfare — something which has never been approached in the past and may never be equalled in the future.

Perhaps the most spectacular exploit ever carried out from a teleferica was that by which a troublesome nest of Austrian machine gunners were cleared off one of the pinnacles of the great M. Massif in the fall of 1916. The situation was irritating enough for the Italians even tating enough for the Italians even when the activities of the enemy were confined only to observation, but when he took to bringing up 3 but when he took to bringing up a machine gun and peppering—almost from its rear—the headquarters of an Alpini battalion which held an important pass 3,000 feet below, it became well-nigh intolerable. What happened was related to me some months later, when I asked the major of this battalion how it chanced that the roof of the officers' mess in which we were dining was armored with sheets of steel.

with sheets of steel.

"Against machine-gun bullets," was the reply; "there was a time—of accursed memory — in which he used to bring a gun out on a little splinter of rock, not 1,500 metres from here in an air line, and spray the whole of our little terrace with the whole of our little terrace with 'dum-dums.'

'We were working day and night," he continued, "to excavate a gun cavern, the fire from which would make that troublesome position un-tenable for the Austrians. In the meantime we had to stick it out as best we could. At this juneture Captain X. came in.
"'What is to prevent my rigging myself and a man to help—under a piece of canvas as if it was an ordinary load of gear, letting it be run down until I am well in the rear of the Austrians, and turning loose?"

"If I hadn't been seeing more or less red myself, and if our position had not become really serious, I would probably never have listened to the mad proposal. As it was, I entered into it heart and soul. We reckoned the slope of the cable, and hung the platform of the machine hung the platform of the machine gun at an agle which would make it easy to elevate and range on the Austrian position above. Then—as a happy afterthought—we bent a sheet of bullet-proof steel for a shield on the exposed side, erected a low plat form on which the gun would rest securely and—the first and last ar-mored teleferica was complete.

to put her on an even keel, after which she rode smoothly and evenly. With X. and his assistant couched low on either side of the gun, and a black tarpaulin thrown loosely over the whole, she looked like an ordinary load of junk going down for repairs. When X. 'unmasked' and opened up we could even follow the line of brown dust spurts on the opened up we could even follow the line of brown dust spurts on the face of the cliff as the bullets ranged upward toward their mark. And that was about all there was to it. The fire of the two Austrian machine guns ceased instantly, and never re-sumed. Probably the gunners were killed before they had a chance even to turn round their guns and reniv to turn round their guns and reply to the sudden attack from the air."

Corporal Mead made a feeling reply. He alluded to the feeling that prompted him to enlist, to the work that he had been able to do over there, to the experiences he had gone through, and his

Rev. T. M. Mead entisted on June 20th 1916, and went overseas in October of the same year. He was in England up till August, 1917, and was then transferred to the 55th Battery. As there is only one A. M. C. man to a Battery he was kept pretty busy. Mr. Mead was a man of many duties. He had to test the water in the wells as they advanced, for poisons and bacteria; render first aid to the entire battery, and (this is a secret, and is not to be read by his temperance friends) so highly did the O. Garside-Creasey

A quiet wedding took place at the parsonage, Watford, on Saturday, Oct. 19th, 1918, by the Rev. S. J. Fortner, when Miss Mary, the only daughter of Mr. George Creasey, of Brooke, and Mr. George William Garside, of Warwick, were united in the bonds of holy matrimony. The bride looked charming, dressed in a navy blue serge suit, georgette crepe waist, white satin hat, with shoes and gloves to match. The bride was attended by Miss Lily Hickson, dressed in a brown silk dress with hat to match. Robert Garside, brother of the groom, was the groomsman. The bride received many useful presents at the shower made by the young girls at Mrs. Norman McGill's, sixth line. Their many friends wish the happy couple many long years of happiness in their new life.

Banks Will Help Small Investors

It is announced that, in order to encourage investors to participate in the 1918 Victory Loan, the Banks will lend subscribers, on the probable certainty of repayment within a year, up to 90 per cent. of the amount of the investment in the Loan. The rate of interest charged by the banks is 5½ per cent.

This should have the effect of greatly stimulating the flow of money when the big Drive opens. Many people who were anxious to do their bit toward supporting the boys at the trout were unfortunately restricted as to the amount they had ately restricted as to the amount they had available for investment, having immediate or future obligations which called for their ready capital. It is such as these that tne Banks are ready to help. On reasonable security these intending in-vestors may receive the cash from the Bank at the same rate of interest the Dominion Government pays for the entire 1918 Victory Loan. They may reduce their obligations to the Banks monthly or quarterly.

The Banks will also accept from small investors for sale keeping without charge the interim securities and later the bonds themselves up to a reasonable amount, for the term of one year.

Stallion Enrolment

The report of the Stallion Enrolment Board for the Province of Ontario for the year 1918 has just been issued. The number of stallion enrolled for the year 1918 is 1,993, of which 1,535 are pure breds and 458 grades. This is a decrease from 1917 of 258, pure breds and 182 grades. As 1918 is the last year for the enrolling of grades there will be around 400 horses which were enrolled in 1918 that cannot be used in 1919. The vast majority of these horses are either taking majority of these horses are either taking the place of a good pure bred stallion or the place of a good pure bred stallion or they are so competing against pure breds as to make the keeping of pure bred horses in the Province less profitable in those sections where grades abound. To assist buyers in purchasing pure pred stallions a catalogue containing names and information regarding pure bred horses offered for sale will be printed and ready for distribution in the month of November. "Yours for Victory Loan 1918"

"Yours for Victory Loan 1918," is the Canadian letter writer's slogan in the Victory Loan campaign. Every one is asked to sign his or her letters in this way. Already some are doing it, and before the campaign is far under way it is hoped the practice will be general. It is an easy and yet most effective way of driving home the appeal for the Loan, and it will reach practically everyone. Business men particularly are requested to adopt the idea. As they read their incoming and outgoing letters, during the next five weeks, they will confront "Yours for Victory Loan 1918" scores of times each day. Start signing your letters in this way. THE AFTER EFFECTS OF DREADED LA GRIPPE

La Grippe, or Spanish influenza as the epidemic now sweeping over all, America is on eof the most dangerous diseases known to mankind. Anyone who has felt its pangs is not likely to forget the trouble. La Grippe, or influenza, starts with a slight cold and ends with a complication of troubles. It lays the victim on his La Grippe, or influenza, starts with a slight cold and ends with a complication of troubles. It lays the victim on his back, 4t tortures him with fever and chills, headaches and backackes. It leaves him a prey to puenuonia, bronchitis, consumption and other deadly diseases. Its after effects are often more serious than the disease itself. It is quite possible to avoid la grippe by keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—a tonic medicine which enriches the blood and strengthens the nerves. If however, the disease attacks you, the patient should at once go to bed, and call a doctor before complications set in. That is the only safe thing to do. But to recover your strength after the severity of the attack has passed, you will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills an unsurpassed tonic. Through the use of this medicine all the trouble will be banished. This has been proved in thousands of cases throughout Canada, where in previous seasons la grippe has attacked them. Among the many thus restored to full health is Miss Irene Bootes, Portsmouth, Ont., who says:—I take much pleasure in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because I have proved their worth in my own case. Last winter I had a severe attack of la grippe and it left me weak and all run down. I had severe pains in the chest and under the arms, palpitation of the heart and attacks of pains in the chest and under the arms pains in the chest and under the arms, palpitation of the heart and attacks of neuralgia which left me with the feeling that life was scarcely worth living. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began their use only on the principle that I would try anything that might better my condition. I had only hear using the rills a couple of weeks
