ONE DEAD; ONE MAY DIE.
Watford, June 9.—The house of John Maddock, three miles from Inwood, was struck by lightning on Friday evening. Mrs. Maddock and her daughter, 21 years of age, were in the cellar at the time. Miss Maddock was instantly killed and her mother so severely shocked that she may not recover.

His mother, who was a few feet from him in the yard, was severely stunned and is still in a dazed condition.

KILLED WHILE CLOSING WINDOW.
Niagara Falls, June 9.—Miss Elizabeth Biggar, 50 years of age, living with her brother, John Biggar, farmer, near Montrose, was killed by lightning in yesterday afternoon when she was closing the upstairs window when lightning struck the house, ripping things to pieces in the room where Miss Biggar was.

TWO KILLED.
Jamestown, N. Y., June 10.—Two fatalities were reported to-day after a storm. Mrs. Leander Haglan was struck by lightning and killed. She was the widow of a farmer.

PARALYZED BY SHOCK.
Brookville, Ont. (Special).—During the fierce electrical storms of the past few days, lightning struck houses and barns right and left, and reports of the same are reaching here from the rural districts. In the vicinity of Westport a son of John Cooke farmer, had a miraculous escape. Lightning struck the barn where he had taken shelter with a team of horses. One horse was instantly killed and Cook, who was standing beside it, was rendered unconscious for several hours by the shock. He is yet partially paralyzed, but will recover.

NEW ZEALAND'S PREMIER DIES ON WAY HOMEWARD

Hon. Richard Seddon, After Long Tour in Australia, Expires Suddenly From Heart Failure After Embarkment to Return to New Zealand—Had Made Imperialist Address on Saturday—His Career.

Sydney, N.S.W., June 10.—Richard John Seddon, prime minister of New Zealand, died from heart failure this evening aboard the steamer Owtstrey Grange, on which he had embarked this morning to return to New Zealand. The Owtstrey Grange put back into Sydney. Mr. Seddon was 61 years of age. His death was totally unexpected.

He came to Australia in the middle of May to consult with Alfred Deakin, the prime minister of Australia, on important questions, mainly those concerning the New Hebrides. During his stay here he visited the principal towns, making vigorous speeches and receiving deputations on various matters interesting to Australia, such as colonial preference and alien immigration. On Saturday he made a speech at Sydney, declaring that it was a suicidal policy for the colonies to send trade to foreign countries, thus enabling them to strengthen their navies. Trade, he said, should go to the motherland to assist in strengthening the British navy.

When Mr. Seddon called this morning he appeared to be in his customary health. Seddon complained of feeling ill this afternoon and slept for two hours. On awakening he rested on a couch while awaiting dinner. Suddenly he leaned his head on his wife's shoulder, saying:

ARGYLE, VICTIM OF ACCIDENT,
FORCED TO REMIND ERINDALE THAT LAW DEMANDED HER AID

Walking-Beam Broke and Steamer Helpless—Rescuer Begins to Haggle and Make Extortionate Terms for Removal of Passengers.

The breaking of a portion of the mechanism of the steamer Argyle's walking beam on Saturday was responsible for the arrival of passengers from Oshawa by morning train yesterday. The Argyle, leaving Oshawa at about 6.30 p. m., had covered about a mile and a half of the journey when something happened. There was the sound of a heavy object striking the deck, and almost at the same moment a noise as of the reeling of the panelling of the cabin. The alarmed occupants saw the wall splinter on one side. Then the steamer lay motionless. There wasn't a panic among the passengers, so the Argyle's officers declare, although there were a few uncomfortable moments while the nature of the disaster was being guessed at.

It was apparent to all that there was something the matter with the walking beam. One of the crew, swinging across untrammelled, had cut a swath thru the cabin bulking. Engineer Hazlett gave a fuller and more technical analysis of the situation. The cross-head, six feet in height, had broken near its middle, and one section of it, weighing possibly 200 pounds, had thumped down upon the deck, fortunately to the harm of nobody. The cross-head connects the piston with the cross-beam, and had necessary machinery as part of the machinery. Hence, was the Argyle helpless.

REACHING FOR TOP BUTTON
THIS GIRL BREAKS HER ARM

Dressing for a Party and Alone, She Stretched and Twisted and—Fainted.

Belleville, Ill., June 9.—One little button clear out of latitude and longitude, in an inaccessible spot on the rear elevation of a shirt waist—a provoking pearl button that refused to budge the sixteenth of an inch north or south where pink fingers were grasping frantically after it—brought more grief to Miss Annie Weisenborn than all the peep holes in all the "peek-a-bo" waists have brought to all other girls in the State of Illinois.

Miss Weisenborn is carrying her left arm in a sling. The bones in it are broken. The shirt waist is in a bureau drawer and the button is still unbuttoned. Hereafter Miss Weisenborn will evince a haughty disdain for the decree of fashion which says the shirt waist opening must be in the back. It is a front ingress and egress henceforth or nothing.

SLEUTHS VISIT PACKING TOWN PRESERVATIVES USED

Result of Secret Service Inquiries Will Be Used for Second Report From Roosevelt.

Washington, D.C., June 9.—President Roosevelt has government employees busy at work in the preparation of another report attacking the packing houses of Chicago, and this report will be sent to congress in a short time if action on the meat inspection legislation is delayed.

Under the orders of the president two secret service men were detached from their duty of detecting counterfeiters and sent to Chicago to collect information regarding the use of preservatives and coloring matter in packing house products and methods in the preparation of canned and bottled foods. These agents have been in Chicago several weeks. They have been very hard at work and have collected twenty-two affidavits bearing on the subject. The president ordered 40,000,000 acres of public land withdrawn from entry about which it is known to contain coal or other mineral deposits. These lands are situated in the States of Colorado, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Oregon, Washington and Montana and the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona, Oklahoma and Indian Territory.

WHO PAYS ADVERTISING?
POLICYHOLDERS ASK

Mutual Life Officers Invited to Explain Financing of Their Election Campaign.

New York, June 10.—A letter signed by Seymour Eaton, secretary of the International policyholders committee, has been sent to President Chas. A. Peabody of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, requesting information concerning the Mutual Life advertising, which is now appearing in newspapers throughout the country. The letter says that the committee which Mr. Eaton represents has been flooded with inquiries on this subject, the majority of the correspondents asking if the committee knows whether or not policyholders' money is being used to pay this advertising expense.

Roosevelt To Nationalize Coal and Oil Lands Left

40,000,000 Acres of Public Land Will Be Withdrawn From Entry—Necessary Legislation is Now Being Prepared.

Washington, D.C., June 9.—Just as soon as he is thru with the reorganization of the meat packing industry, President Roosevelt will enter upon another task which may attract worldwide attention and lead to prolonged discussion in this country. He proposes the government ownership of such coal and oil lands as have not already passed to private or corporate ownership. He will endeavor to prevent another acre of land having coal or petroleum deposits from passing out of the control of the government so far as the fee is concerned.

With that end in view he designs to withdraw from entry about 40,000,000 acres of the public domain which is known to contain coal or other mineral deposits. These lands are situated in the States of Colorado, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Oregon, Washington and Montana and the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona, Oklahoma and Indian Territory. The president is taking this step to prevent the fuel supply of the country from being monopolized and to check the Standard Oil Company. He has been very much impressed with the manner in which the Standard has operated and in which two great railroads have obtained control of much of the bituminous coal east of the Ohio River and monopolize the transportation of the rest.

SCENES MOST REMARKABLE AT TEMPLE'S DEDICATION

Thousands of Christian Scientists Participate in Series of Services Lasting All Day.

Boston, Mass., June 10.—One of the most remarkable religious demonstrations ever witnessed in New England took place to-day when the magnificent new $2,000,000 Christian Science temple in the Backbay district was dedicated. From every state in the union, and from all parts of the world came members of the faith—more than 40,000 Christian Scientists. It is estimated, by other persons in the city, that six services were held to accommodate the throngs, but even then there were thousands who were unable to get into the temple. The seating capacity of the new edifice exceeds 5000, and at each service today hundreds stood in the aisles and in the rear of the church. The first service was held at 7 o'clock this morning. As early as 1 o'clock hundreds of Christian Scientists were in line waiting for the doors to open and there were at least 3000 in the street, and many more who were unable to get into the temple. Cobalt, June 10.—(Special.)—Cobalt was invaded last night by a mighty force. Complaint has occasionally been made that Toronto capitalists have been slow to recognize the great financial possibilities of Cobalt camp, and that the working mines here were to prove the redemption of lost fortunes in other Canadian mining camps.

FOR WATERED STOCK. The new minister of justice in committee Monday night unconsciously indicated to the house and to the country the habit of thought peculiar to counsel who have enjoyed for years the retainers of great corporations.

Undoubtedly men may attain to important positions who are prejudiced against corporations. It is not to be rashly assumed that corporations do not suffer from injustice. This, of course, is not desirable. And by the same token it is undesirable that the law officers of the crown should bring to the administration of their trusts a tendency to flout the well-established principles of public rights in favor of corporations.

Respecting the important question of "watered stock," Mr. Aylesworth, in discussing the bill to incorporate the Grand Trunk Pacific Telegraph Co., announced his position as follows:

"I may state now how this question of capital stock that is put before the house strikes me. I see no difference between the proposition that the company will invest a certain amount of money in works within Canada and the proposition that some wealthy individual will do so. Surely it makes no difference to the country whether the money comes from some single person or from some hundreds of thousands of persons. Then what would any one say if a man came before this parliament offering upon the conditions contained in the charter of a private company to invest, say, $5,000,000 in Canada? Would that be treated as a menace to the country or as if it did not make for the prosperity of the country? Here are a number of men of means who propose to invest in Canada a certain amount of money—as much as they may find it to their benefit to invest. They put, as an outside limit upon it, $10,000,000. For some reason, the committee thought it wise to provide that they should not invest more than $5,000,000. Is it not directly to the interest of the country that the sums spent in public works should be as large as capitalists are willing to invest?"

It is hard to deal patiently with this most sophistical argument. Its fundamental error lies in the remarkable assumption that a corporation stands on precisely the same footing as a natural person. This doctrine, carried to its last extreme, would leave the great corporations entirely free from any control of government, so long as they kept inside of the four corners of the criminal code. It asserts the doctrine of private ownership, as it has never been asserted, at least in public, during the twentieth century, except by the insurance lobbyists who sought to avert the legislative recommendations by the Armstrong committee.

The reasons for insisting that the capital stock of a corporation should bear some proportion to the amount of money actually invested are numerous:

1. Watered stock means an additional burden upon the earnings of the company, recouped, as they only can be, by higher charges to the public and lower wages to its employees.

2. The dividends paid upon the watered stock represent money diverted from betterments. They stand for poor service, poor wages and excessive tolls.

3. Excessive capitalization embarrasses the government in any effort to require better service or lower tolls, or in carrying out the nationalization of public utilities, which in time will be inevitable.

4. Although the stock may have been, in its origin, immoral, it nearly always happens that its ultimate holders are innocent persons who bought their shares in good faith and for a valuable consideration. As a matter of fact watered stock is usually poked off on those who invest funds that come to them in a trust capacity. To destroy or impair this fictitious stock too often means a hardship inflicted upon the helpless. Popular shrinks in this era of humanity, shirkers from the assertion of a legal right that punishes the innocent for the wrong-doing of the guilty.

Any scheme of nationalization usually means the substitution of government securities for the securities of the corporation; and it is difficult to find any basis of exchange not founded upon the apparent amount of capitalization.

For the minister of justice to calmly announce that we have no more right to limit watered stock in a corporation than we have to limit the amount of money that an individual may invest in a private enterprise. Is to serve a notice upon the people that may be candid, but it is certainly not reassuring.

THE RAILWAY BOARD. The Ontario railway and municipal board, which has just been created by Premier Whitney and his colleagues, may prove itself to be a very important and useful body. At present, however, very little is known about its members, and from criticism that are being offered in some quarters, it would appear that none of them has ever been distinguished for his advocacy of public rights. Responsibility for the actions of the board will, however, have to be borne by the premier, and it may be that, under his inspiration, it will be the means of doing considerable good from the standpoint of the public.

Of the composition of the railway commission, The Hamilton Herald, an independent journal, says:

"The value of the public service to be rendered by it will depend largely upon the point of view from which its members have been accustomed to regard questions in which the interests of railway corporations and municipalities conflict. Mr. Leitch, the chairman, has practised as a corporation lawyer. Mr. Ingram, so far as we can judge from his utterances and votes as a member of parliament, is a strong friend of railway corporations. Mr. Kittson is a fair-minded as well as an able man, and will certainly strive to do his whole duty as a commissioner; but he is a railway promoter himself, and has never taken any active interest in municipal matters. It would not be strange if Mr. Kittson should be unconsciously biased in favor of railway promoters and corporations. The railway commission would have been more strongly established in public confidence if one of its members were a man who had earned a reputation as a champion of municipal rights."

On this question The Evening Telegram of June 9 says:

"The Ontario railway commission will be judged not by what its members individually have done or left undone in the past, but by what its members, collectively, will do in the future. The make-up of the commission appears to be more satisfactory to corporation lawyers than to zealous advocates of public rights. The Whitney government has had a free hand. Great has been its power. Equally great must be its responsibility. The strength and success of the Ontario railway commission will be the glory of the government that scores a success. The weakness and failure of the commission will be the misfortune of the government that makes a mistake."

STEAM LOCOMOTION. Now that the hitherto unchallenged supremacy of the steam locomotive is threatened by the advances made in electrical knowledge, its disappearance has been freely anticipated. But, as is the case with all similar experiments, the advent of a powerful rival has stimulated the improvement of the older contrivance. Railroad experts say there is much room for improvement in the steam locomotive, and see no reason why its improvement and perfecting should not be pushed with vigor. In an editorial on this subject The Railroad Gazette says that "there is much room for improvement, and the Pennsylvania Railroad tests will throw much light upon the direction to turn for promising results. Superboasting is in its infancy in this country and promises to do much in saving fuel and reducing boiler repairs. The recent interest in treating water, and the improvements (easily needed) in terminal facilities, will materially benefit the service performed by the steam locomotive, and much real progress is looked for in these directions."

Many railroad men who favor the steam locomotive, are by no means hostile to electric traction, but they maintain that it has its limitations, and is not adaptable to all conditions, as these exist as present. They consider that the steam locomotive is bound to reach further development, and that motive power officials should lend their energies in this direction, as the town horse will be in use for many years to come, instead of being relegated to museums as a relic of barbaric ages. Referring to this subject, G. N. Esford of the American Locomotive

Company, in an address delivered before the Mechanical Engineering Society of Purdue University, said:

"As yet, comparatively little has been done in the improvement of the locomotive in this country in the direction of superior economy and efficiency. In Europe the high price of coal has led to care in design and in operation of locomotives which is unknown here. The French are a generation in advance of us in locomotive operation. In France, locomotive engineers use devices such as a double valve gear and variable exhaust nozzles, which we do not entrust to our engineers and firemen. In England, the small number of locomotive failures on the road are a revelation to any one who studies them from our standpoint. In England, the locomotive is given a fair chance by receiving fair treatment, yet it probably does not cost more in the end. We certainly have much to learn from across the water, and while what we may learn is not so much in practice as in method, it is none the less important. That which we most need to learn from England is the value of appreciation of the locomotive and locomotive men. This will be learned and well learned—probably in the near future—of this we may feel sure. There may be some who are now doing safety count what, when those who are now students are ready to be leaders of mechanical departments of our railroads, the position of the department heads will be an enviable one. There is no field of mechanical work so full of opportunity as this and much depends upon those who are now fitting themselves for the leadership of to-morrow. These leaders may now be in the ranks; they may be in the colleges, but 'wherever' they are their preparation must be thorough, for their work is to be great and it will grow to be still greater."

COMPARATIVE INDUSTRIAL EFFICIENCY. In his recent investigation into industrial efficiency, Dr. Arthur Shadwell, well-known for his researches along this line, institutes an interesting comparison as to the main factors of industrial life in Britain, the United States and Germany. With regard to factory legislation a valuable summary states that in the United States every state has its own system, and the systems vary from one state to another within very wide limits indeed, from Massachusetts, which is the most "advanced," to South Carolina, which has only a partial limitation of children's work (dating from 1903) and a general rule establishing an eleven hours day in cotton and woolen factories. The English and German laws, subject to a general similarity of plan, show curious diversities in detail. The former, for instance, allows children to begin work at twelve, the latter not till thirteen, but while in England young persons are especially protected up to the age of eighteen, in Germany they are treated as adults at sixteen. On the whole Dr. Shadwell asserts that "the English provisions are more minute, more rigid, and more precise than elsewhere. The German law, while characterized by greater elasticity and a comparative absence of minute hard and fast requirements." He concludes British laws do impose disabilities on manufacturing enterprise which are avoided in Germany.

Information as to hours and wages in the different countries is notorious unsatisfactory; hours and wages themselves vary enormously from district to district and trade to trade. Dr. Shadwell, for comparative purposes, puts the normal week in England at 53-55 hours, in Germany at 60 (but more often over that under that average), in America at 59-60, with a much higher number in some of the most competitive industries. In regard to money wages Dr. Shadwell thinks that the differences between the three countries were exaggerated in the second "fiscal" blue-book, and gives the numbers 100, 75 and 142 as more truly representing the differences of general level in England, Germany and America respectively. To the workman the real value of his wages in terms of food and clothes and rent is far more important than their nominal amount. Dr. Shadwell concludes that the higher cost of living here the American workman has a whole no better off than the Englishman with his lower nominal wage, while the latter as contrasted with the German has higher nominal wages, a lower cost of living, and, as has been seen, shorter hours. Yet in spite of all this "the general level" of working-class physique "is distinctly higher in Germany." The paradox is explained by Dr. Shadwell as due to the habits of the people—the better care of children and home, better cooking, avoidance of the injurious habits of constant attendance at music-halls and public houses—and to military training. This explanation will hardly serve while the enormously higher infant mortality of many German towns—amounting in Chemnitz to 400 in every 1000 born—stands unexplained. But the evidence that in England at any rate, the massacre of infants is mainly due to parental neglect—voluntary or compulsory—is almost overwhelming.

In most points England appears to occupy a middle position between Germany and the United States. In two only does she differ from both in the same direction—tariffs and work. On the first of these differences Dr. Shadwell is emphatically judicious and indecisive; of the second he speaks in no uncertain tone. Britons put much less energy into their work; they are given up to a gospel of ease and games. Dr. Shadwell rightly points out that "restriction of output" by workmen is in no way due to trade unionism; it depends partly upon wrong systems of employment and payment—as when a bricklayer engaged for a single job only is paid by the hour; partly on economic facilities, almost universal among workmen; partly on the general spirit running thru the whole nation, the gospel of ease and the expenditure of energy upon everything and anything but work. The British people are not preserved from self-indulgence either by the buoyant vigor of the new nation or by the sense of duty of the old and disciplined one. Germany and America—Dr. Shadwell fears Germany most—are outstripping Britain; they have already in many ways outstripped it. Yet Dr. Shadwell is no pessimist about England; he regards the future with entire equanimity. Her people have all the national qualities to keep abreast and ahead of their competitors; they have simply forgotten to use them or have turned them to frivolous uses. But that misdeed was simply the result of over-prosperity, of too deep security. Now the bracing wind of competition is wafting them again; the evil will cure itself; indeed, it has already begun its own cure.

2-CENT RATE SATISFACTORY. President Mellen of the Boston and Maine Railway says that so far as the two-cent per mile rate had been tried it had proved satisfactory. The business of the company had increased, and the balance was a little to the good. He said: "We are hoping by the reductions to largely eliminate the use of the mileage book, which we have always found a rather piece of discrimination. We never have understood how it was justifiable that a man with $20 in his pocket should travel cheaper than a man who could rate but $5. We believe our tariffs should be arranged so that everyone can travel either 5 or 30 miles at the same rate of fare per mile. If such should be the case, the general rate could undoubtedly be made even considerably less than two cents per mile to everyone, and without serious loss to the railroad."

RUSSO-BRITISH ENTENTE. KING IS STRIVING FOR IT. Kaiser's Position Will Be the More Lonely if Plans Go Thru.

London, June 9.—King Edward of late has been working hard to bring about the much desired entente between Russia and England. In this matter the King above all is inspired by chivalrous sentiment towards his nephew, the czar, whose hopeless helplessness he seeks to alleviate. Never before has such wire pulling between sovereigns existed, and it is all on account of King Edward's diplomatic instincts. He has undoubted talents in the gentle art of diplomacy.

Emperor William's visit to Vienna late in the year was a direct result of Germany to England's pro-Russo-Franco policy in the game of political chess which has been going on long between the King and Kaiser. The former so repeatedly has checked the younger player that Wilhelm no longer is able to settle the world of diplomacy as anything like a match for his uncle.

Hard Knocks for Germany. The Franco-Anglo entente at Algiers meant a marriage, and lately the probable and almost arranged understanding with Russia has been a success in which King Edward had all to say and in each of which Germany has received a severe political defeat. King Edward certainly will go down in history as a diplomat.

According to a diplomatist the latter set impulsive move of Emperor William in rushing off to Vienna is by no means appreciated in the Austrian capital, but on the contrary is regarded as making an awkward situation. The German emperor was not invited, but proposed it himself as in his own and of course there was no saying so.

The manner in which the king of Italy was approached in order to obtain from him a declaration of adherence to the triple alliance was of a crudely beyond conception, and causes much comment of a non-flattering order from the diplomatic world. Kaiser Wilhelm's grand plan is to give Austria a free hand in the Balkans and in return receive Austria's support and aid, especially in Asia Minor, when the inevitable moment arrives.

May Be Second Algerias. In mentioning Sir A. Nicholson's printed with instructions from the King and with endless practical information from Sir Charles Hardinge, whose knowledge of Persian matters is unending, is given the mission of bringing the Russo-Anglo understanding to a conclusion with all possible rapidity.

The fact of such negotiations being actively pushed forward has aroused the Wilhelmstrasse plan to the highest degree, for it can see nothing but a deep set pulse to hurt Germany's interest in Asia Minor in the whole thing. Indeed, should the Russo-Anglo entente become an accomplished fact, founded, as it will be, on a thorough understanding for mutual benefit upon the basis of England and Germany's most interested countries in Persia, Germany's pretensions in the shah's domains will suffer the severest of shocks and Germany herself with a second Algerias question on her hands and only Austria to support her.

CINCINNATI WITHOUT WATER. Danger of Conflagration Added to Miscomfort From Heat. Cincinnati, June 9.—Intense heat and a water famine combined to make the people of this city miserable to-day. In addition, there is great danger of a conflagration, as the districts where the mains have failed are in as desperate a condition as that which reigned in the destruction of San Francisco after the earthquake.

For all the general alarm, no one seems to know what has caused the failure of the water supply. Residents of the hill sections including Mount Auburn, Walnut Hills and Avondale, this morning found that their faucets were dry. They include a large part of the residence portion of the city, and householders prepared morning meals with fear plainly shown on their unwashed faces. Matches were carefully guarded.

Mayor Dempsey at 4 o'clock ordered the water supply for the downtown section of the city shut off until one of the mains could be repaired. This left practically the entire city without water. One of the remarkable features of the situation is the fact that nearly 15,000,000 gallons of water have been pumped into the mains as usual during the last day, but none seems to have reached reservoirs or residences.

CREMATES BODY AS EVIDENCE. Chicago Physicist Tells of Experiment to Show Concealed Crime. Appleton, Wis., June 9.—The jury and auditors of the Kabat murder trial were surprised to-day when Dr. John B. Golden of Chicago, assistant to Dr. John Murphy, testified to burning a human body on a sandbar off Nova Scotia in order to demonstrate that a body could be cremated with a bonfire, as it is alleged Kabat cremated the body of McCarthy.

Golden stated that the body cremated by him was that of a man about the size of McCarthy. The cremation was under precisely the same conditions as it is alleged accompanied the burning of McCarthy's body. The cremation was witnessed by District Attorney Krugmeyer, Chief Conlon, Dr. Nolan, Attorneys Ryan and Heinemann.

It required four and a half hours for the flames to consume the body. Only a cigar box of ashes remained.

A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS FAMILY. Monetary Times.

There is probably no bank in the Dominion that has instituted so many innovations in banking practice as the Sovereign Bank of Canada.

The Sovereign Bank has adopted the "publicity" doctrine very freely, but there is one feature which has not generally been made public, but which the Monetary Times feels it will be interesting to the banking community generally to call attention to.

The first of these gatherings was held in Toronto in April, 1902, two weeks before the opening of the business. This gathering was held in a small room in the National Club, and not only were the prospective managers present, but the entire staff, the whole number aggregating 20, including the general manager.

The plan is briefly as follows: The 24th of May has been fixed upon as the day to hold the conference, as this combines the cheap holiday fares and makes a pleasant time for the visiting officers to meet in Toronto.

At 10 o'clock sharp the general manager takes the chair, and all present are provided with typewritten memoranda of the program. This program is made up in advance from queries, suggestions and opinions submitted to the bank's solicitors, and the written answers are given after the respective questions in the printed memoranda supplied to every one present.

At 1 o'clock lunch is served, and proceeds at 2 the conference again commences its work. The printed memoranda afford ample subjects for discussion and give rise to other matters and every man is encouraged to give full vent to his views. The chairman controls those who would talk too much, and has a way of inducing those who are backward in this respect to speak out.

At 6 o'clock the meeting adjourns, and from that moment it assumes more of a social than a business aspect. At 7 the members become guests of the general manager, and dinner, which on four occasions was held in one of the smaller rooms of the National Club, but this year the large members' dining room was necessary, to accommodate the 85 guests. A toast to the King—our Sovereign—is invariably proposed, after which the general manager addresses the gathering. We are

DIES BY INCHES IN MUCK HELP COMES JUST TOO LATE

New York Man Falls in Mire; Drowns as Tide Comes in— Struggle to Escape in Vain.

New York, June 9.—Michael McDonald, ship's carpenter, aged 30, met a slow and horrible death in the muck of Elizabeth River last evening.

The muck gripped him like some hideous, slimy, clinging monster, and held him fast in its treacherous, suffocating embrace while the tide crept in from the sea and mercifully swept over his head.

McDonald had quit work at 5 o'clock and started for the home of his parents at Elizabeth, where he was to welcome a brother who had been to sea for three years.

The tide was a little more than a rivulet when the ebb tide lays bare its banks, and its bottom is black muck, as clinging as quicksand.

The tide was at the slack when McDonald struck across the railroad ties on his way home. He made a misstep and his body slipped between the ties.

As he struck out with his hands again they splashed in water. It had been only a few minutes that they struck before this old McDonald that the flood tide had set in.

Struggles Are Hopeless. The recording muck showed that McDonald twisted and turned, gasped for breath undoubtedly, and then renewed his struggle against the engulfing mire. It got to the height of his arms alone.

Taken Out Too Late. It took but a few minutes to draw the body forth from the muck and as it was still warm it was towed to the bank and sought to restore respiration.

LONG BRANCH RANGES OPEN DEFECTS CAUSE COMPLAINTS

Ridge Obstructs Shooting at 500 Yards—Creighton, N.W.F.F., Top Scorer.

The season for regimental target practice on the Long Branch ranges opened Saturday with goodly representations from the Q.O.R., Royal Grenadiers, 48th Highlanders, Northwest Field Force, and Toronto Teachers' Rifle Association. At 2:30 o'clock about 300 men stretched themselves upon the long firing mound and from that time until 5:30 the rattle of Leo Enfields was incessant. A great many shots were wasted, of course, as is always the case at the beginning of the season; "rookies" usually are unsteady, and this year's quota are no exceptions. There was also a noticeable absence of the real crack shots. It was said they dislike to use the ranges until they are fixed up.

There were many kicks as to the bad condition of the ranges. Attention was called to the fact that it was impossible to take decent aim over the 500 yard range, because the lower half of the target was hidden from view by a long earthen "wing point"—a bit of experimental work which was thrown up last fall between the target and the range. It is away too high, and on a great many targets it was impossible to see the indicator, which points out each shot.

Considerable confusion was caused, and much delay, on account of about ten of the "pull down" targets on the five, six and seven hundred yard ranges being out of kilter. They would pull down alright, but would not fly up again. The 200 yard range was in good shape, and the early part of the afternoon was the best for making records. The wind shifted constantly between 3 and 4 o'clock, and it came in puffs. At 500 yards 8 points were allowed on the sight. Some of the scores:

Owing to the ill-health of R. Dack, Bedford Park, Mr. and Mrs. Dack are contemplating a trip to the old country during this month.

Notwithstanding the terrific storm of the night before and threatening storms all day on Saturday, the traffic on the Metropolitan Railway line was heavy. Every thru car was packed, and several parties engaged private cars.

Owing to the culvert and deep ditch on Yonge-street and the refusal of ex-Councillor John Sibbard to have his land encroached on the commissioner will be unable to lay a five ft. tar and gravel walk between Moses' hardware store and Crescent-avenue; consequently a plank walk will grace that part of the sidewalk.

The lawn social in connection with the reopening of the Presbyterian Church, Deer Park, will be held on the lawn of the church this evening.

Police Seize Liquor.

Mrs. Wells, 86 Sheridan-avenue, had a call at 8 o'clock Sunday morning. It was P. C. Phelan, and he without ceremony took charge of the gallon of whisky and three kegs of beer he found there. This is not by any means Mrs. Wells' first offence. The four men who were there were allowed to go.

Extent of Inspection.

Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture, was next heard. Dr. Melvin said that in Germany the inspection covered two-thirds of the product, while ours covered from sixty to sixty-five per cent. In Argentina and Australia there is no inspection.

In reply to a question by Chairman Wadsworth, Dr. Melvin said the only foreign complaint as to American meat he had ever received was as to three or four barrels of pig feet that went down to South America and were spoiled in transit.

Reputation is Lost.

London, June 9.—(N. Y. Sun Cable.)—Much has been cabled about the effect in Europe of the Chicago beef exposures, but it is difficult to give an adequate idea of the world-wide fury and horror created by Upton Sinclair's novel, "The Jungle," and about dispatches to European newspapers.

The old world has come to believe, in general terms, that American business men are avaricious, dishonest, unscrupulous, and that it is the simple truth, and the truth had better be told without disguise, will take more than a paper reorganization of the great life insurance companies and a cleaning of the Augean stables at Chicago to restore in friendly circles the administration of justice in the United States to-day is the subject of open hostility and contempt throughout Europe. There is nothing an Englishman respects more than an intimation that the American judicial system is similar to England's, and the chief argument adduced against the pending bill to create a court of criminal appeal is the danger that it will prove to be the opening wedge for American vices.

Prosecution and Punishment.

The Spectator, at the end of a long article on the beef scandal, goes as far as to state in friendly criticism when it says that Englishmen will be of the opinion that the recent disclosures should be followed by stringent prosecutions, and in the event of convictions, by severe punishment. It remains to be seen whether the American authorities will adopt an equally rigorous reading of their duties.

The Spectator also says that "the two worlds have been shocked and infuriated. The business circles which appear to combine pretty well all the characteristic evils which degrade our civilization. They are recklessly selfish. They stop at no offence that promises to serve their purpose. They are grossly oppressive to those in their employ. From now on we shall always kind of fraudulent method for disguising diseased offal, which it pleases them to sell as meat. They know how to square off their accounts, and are not shamed by so much as the shadow of inspection. They have not even tried to conceal their misdeeds."

The "Times" New York correspondent says that half has not been told in the newspapers about the beef scandal, and that the methods used in preparing canned meats, if they were the whole truth can never be told in print for the reason that it would transcend the bounds of decency. In such a case, the shadow of the bounds of decency have no claim to be considered. The needless piling up of the public with horrible and disgusting details are always to be discouraged, but here the word needless is not applicable. The public has a right to know how much it takes to arouse the public to a sense of its obligations.

The "Times" New York correspondent says for this latter purpose ought to be resorted to, no matter at what peril to the human public are exceptionally careless in matters of this sort.

To quote "The Times" correspondent again: "The American authorities are not so sagacious for protection against robbery, legalized or otherwise."

Chicago, Ill., June 10.—A report of the sanitary conditions of the large plants of the stockyards was made yesterday by his Sanitary Inspector Hendrick Reynolds, who differs from the Nell-Reynolds report. Although many things were found which did not meet his approval, the report does not contain any wholesale charges of bad sanitary conditions such as characterized the report of the government investigators.

Accompanying the report is an official communication to the packers to comply immediately with the suggestions of the city officials. This is commented on by Mr. Hendrick, in addition to his report in which he says the packers do not seem to need much persuasion to improve the conditions complained of.

At a meeting of the committee of directors of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association appointed to investigate conditions at the stockyards steps were taken yesterday to combine with the committee authorized by the directorate of the Chicago Commercial Association for the same purpose.

Secretary Glenn of the Manufacturers' Association expressed the world that the investigation should be carried out by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association. ### WHEN PRESIDENT TRAVELS MUST PAY HIS OWN FARE

Congressmen Discuss White House Financing—Suggestion to Pension Ex-Presidents.

Washington, June 9.—President Roosevelt will have to pay his own traveling expenses, accept free trains from the railroads or stay at home during the ensuing year unless congress makes special provision for his traveling expenses.

An item of $25,000 for traveling expenses of the president, his family and guests was struck out of the sundry civil appropriation bill in the house to-day on the point of order that it was new legislation raised by John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, minority leader.

Mr. Williams contended that this item for traveling expenses was really in the nature of an increase of the president's salary of $50,000 a year. He thought, he said, the salaries of members of congress, of the vice-president, the speaker and cabinet members should be increased, but he believed the president's salary of $50,000 was enough, and there was too much junketing now. He pointed out that the provision authorized the payment of such expenses of friends as the president might invite to accompany him.

Mr. Sullivan, of Massachusetts, advocated the appropriation, declaring the acceptance of free trains by the president placed him under obligations to railroads.

Mr. Gardner of Michigan criticized the appropriation of $75,000 for refurbishing and repairing the White House, where $600,000 was spent a short time ago. The president had not asked this appropriation, Mr. Gardner declared, but an attack designed to magnify his office and to see the White House a gilded palace, was responsible for the suggestion.

Mr. Shertley, of Kentucky, who recently declared $17,500 was sufficient salary for an ambassador, announced his belief that every public official should be given a salary which would enable him to serve his country without sacrifice. Representatives, he thought, should have $7500 instead of the $5000 which they now receive.

Mr. Williams declared it would be impossible for the president to use the money, which might be appropriated for other political purposes, as in his travels he would have to discuss public questions, and he would discuss them only as a Republican or a Democrat, or whatever he might happen to be. "The item, he thought, was clearly in violation of the constitutional provision against the president receiving any additional compensation from the United States or any state."

"What shall we do with our former president?" is a question often asked, said Mr. Williams. "What are we doing with our blacksmiths, representatives, carpenters and dentists? Giving them equal opportunities and burdens under a free government. That is what we will do with them and that is what we ought to do."

Mr. Sulzer of New York presented an amendment providing for the payment of $100,000 to the president and the retirement of men who had served as presidents on pensions $25,000. Mr. Sulzer explained that this would prevent, as in like cases in the past, the burial of presidents at the public expense.

lessen our exports we are that much poorer at the end of a year. The German and British governments keep experts at the stockyards secretly for the purpose of keeping a watch on the methods used in preparing canned meats. If these experts do not complain about the quality of the output, it is fair to assume that there is a possibility that the government investigators were hasty in their conclusions."

He suggested that an inspection of the kitchens of hotels and clubs might be a source of unpleasant things.

Health of Meat Handlers.

New York, June 10.—A new feature following the disclosure of beef trust evils came yesterday in the announcement that Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, whose plant is at Forty-first street and First-avenue, intend to have all employees who handle meat examined by physicians.

An official of the firm said yesterday: "We have heard so much about beef handlers who suffer from tuberculosis and other diseases that we have determined on this for our own protection. Next week we plan to have three reputable New York physicians, including a skin specialist and a lung specialist, and every man in our establishment, from the superintendent down, who goes near our products will have to submit to this examination if he wishes to remain in our employ.
