SUPREME COURT SUSTAINS R. B. HANSON

FOUND GUILTY OF PROFESSIONAL MISCONDUCT

Is Cleared of Charge of Alteration of Nevers Decree

BANNED FOR YEAR

Is Punished For Knowingly Taking Advantage of Error of Registrar

Special to The Times-Star

FREDERICTON, April 23—The Supreme Court this morning handed down judgment in the charges against Richard B. Hanson, K. C., M. P., of Fredericton, arising out of the alteration of the decretal order issued by Mr. Justice White in the Chancery Court in the matter of the Nevers estate.

The court found it not proven that Mr. Hanson had brought about an alteration in the decretal order issued by Mr. Justice White in the Chancery Court, Dr. T. C. Allen, but on the second charge of professional misconduct, as a barrister of the court, taking advantage of the error made by the registrar in altering the decree, when he was aware himself that the alteration was not in accordance with the wishes of the court, the Supreme Court found Mr. Hanson guilty, and imposed a penalty of suspension as barrister and attorney for 12 months from today.

Particular importance was attached to the evidence of G. F. Gregory Bridges, concerning the conversation between Mr. Hanson and Mr. Justice White, in which Mr. Hanson admitted to Mr. Justice White that he had altered the decretal order in violation of the court's wishes.

CHIEF JUSTICE REVIEWS CASE

Chief Justice Sir Douglas Hasen delivered judgment.

After reviewing the case, the chief justice said that the evidence of Mr. Hanson at the time he was sworn before the court, and the evidence of Mr. Justice White, in which Mr. Hanson admitted to Mr. Justice White that he had altered the decretal order in violation of the court's wishes.

The chief justice, commenting on this evidence, remarked that the chief justice had been surprised to find that Mr. Hanson had been so candid in his own defence.

BENEFIT OF DOUBT

If the evidence of Dr. Allen and Mr. Hanson alone were to be considered the court would not feel inclined to interfere with the usual punishment for guilty professional conduct.

There was no doubt, however, about the second portion of the charge that Mr. Hanson was guilty of professional misconduct. The second offence was admitted by Mr. Hanson, and he had attempted to excuse himself on a ground of overwork.

NOT SO SERIOUS.

The second charge was not so serious as the first, involving no criminal matter. Striking off the roll or suspension were the usual punishments for guilty professional conduct.

Had the first charge been found proven, nothing would remain but to strike Mr. Hanson's name off the roll. However, he had been given the benefit of the doubt in that.

There, therefore, was an order suspending Mr. Hanson from practice as barrister or attorney of this court for 12 months from date.

PROROGATION OF N. B. HOUSE APRIL 20

Friday Next Practically Fixed For Wind-up of Session at Fredericton

Special to The Times-Star

FREDERICTON, April 23—The usual rush of last minute legislation appears inevitable today.

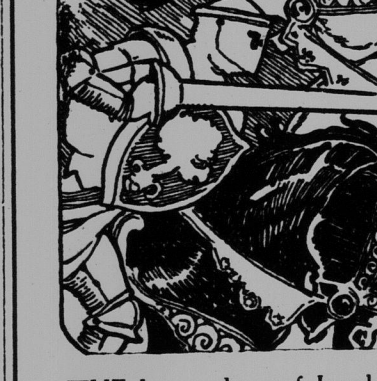

Although a good start was made today on the Grand Falls legislation, much hard work remains to be done in this direction while the bills relating to direct taxation, gasoline tax increases in taxes for banks and fire insurance companies still have to be brought down and as many of them contain contentious matters, discussion is likely to crowd things up against the final day.

Direct taxation will be the main feature of the Grand Falls bill with the House only to sit formally this afternoon.

There is absolutely no official confirmation to hand of such a hope but there appears to be a quiet feeling to use a rough phrase, "the bark has been worse than the proposed bite."

"The sudden, drastic and unexpected proposal, with the Finance Minister as mentioned in his budget speech to reduce the duty on automobiles 44 per cent and 21 per cent, respectively, fills us with feelings of the gravest concern, and if the bill is made effective in its present form, we fear it will have such disastrous effect upon our respective communities as to seriously impair their financial status, and will impose such a serious burden upon our rate payers as to jeopardize our present and future prosperity.

CASE PRESENTED

Kindly permit us to present the following facts:

"That the tariff rate of 35 per cent in operation prior to the introduction of the present budget, was inaugurated about a quarter of a century ago by a Liberal government of the like late Reverend Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was leader and premier.

Mr. Thompson gave a vivid account of the great naval engagement, telling of the events leading up to it, the manoeuvres of the fleets during the action, and the subsequent flight of the Germans leaving the British in command of the North Sea.

He said that the naval authorities had only recently called to Nelson's plan had been carried out at the battle of Trafalgar, and there was no doubt that the execution of Jellicoe's turning movement at Jutland would be the theme of discussion for many years to come.

Past President W. Roberts then took the chair and a vote of thanks was tendered the speaker on motion of R. A. Clark, seconded by R. Lockett. At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., APRIL 23, 1926.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

"St. George, that swined the dragon, and a'er since sits on his horseback at mine hostess' door."
—King John, Act II, Sc. 1.
"This royal throne of Kings, this scepter'd isle, This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars, This other Eden, demi-paradise, This fortress built by Nature for herself, Against infection and the hand of war; This happy breed of men, this little world, This precious stone set in the silver sea, Which serves it in the office of a wall, Or as a moat defensive to a town, Against the envy of less happier lands; This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this Kingdom."
—King Richard, Act II, Sc. 1.

Let us taste again of the flavor of England, turning for a moment to Newbold's lines on "The Death of Admiral Blake, (August 7, 1657) when he came back:
"Laden with the spoil of the South, fulfilled with the glory of achievement, And freshly crowned with never dying fame, Sweeping by shores where the names of the victories of England, Across the Bay the squadron homeward came."
Blake, with all his fresh glory upon him, longed for one thing only—to die at home. And what was home?—England:
"Oh! to be there for an hour when the shade draws in beside the holmwoods,
And falling apples wake the drowsy noon;
Oh, for the hour when the elms grow sombre and human in the twilight,
And gardens dream beneath the rising moon.
Only to look once more on the land of the memories of childhood,
Forgetting weary words and barren foam;
Only to bid farewell to the comb and the orchard and the moorland,
And sleep at last among the fields of home!"
Once a conqueror, (or his Minister) who seemed about to bestride the world and who had most of Europe under his heel, not content with the phrase "Perfidious Albion," coined another: "A nation of shopkeepers." He forgot something, and the omission was fatal. Proof that he erred was of the first magnitude was for some time lacking, but in due time Pitt, in spite of national discouragement, of financial chaos, of treason, financed England's weaker Allies, and pulled the Corsican from his throne. The English are of dogged and marvellous fibre, mental and physical. They are not beaten until they are beaten—and then they are not beaten.
Is it any wonder that St. George's Day is celebrated with unique heartiness and appreciation all along that world-circling line upon which Webster based the undying period in which he warned the Americans of the formidable character of their Mother with whom they were at war—whose drum-beat follows the sun around the world?

BEAUTY AND UGLINESS.
There is something to be said of beauty for revolutionists and iconoclasts, for "without them this world would have been much slower in making progress along that endless path which leads toward the Citadel of Attainment." But too often in the history of human advance there have been groups, and even countries, which fatally mistook violent motion for progress. Also, too often, there have arisen movements whose leaders and whose disciples prospered for a time upon a sort of notoriety won by pouring contempt upon the eternal virtues. Of such are they who break up priceless statues, who destroy the work of the skill masters, whose twisted brains run amuck with some misunderstood or half-guessed fragment of truth.
It has become a cult in some circles—unfortunately circles of far too great circumference—to speak of the Victorian Age with supercilious patronage, and to exalt cheap standards of their own making as the last word in wisdom or in intellectual smartness.
But while the half-gods and the cast-at-times become numerous and pestiferous, the gods remain. It is a habit of the world to stone its prophets, but in reality that practice only serves to cause the deathless fire upon the altars of truth to burn more brightly.
Let us turn, in this connection, to a letter contributed to the London Times recently by Mr. D. Fraser Harris, of Dane Hill, Sussex, (Dane Hill awakens recollections, too) under the caption "Modern Ugliness." He writes:
"Sir—Neither in the letter of Mr. Wilding of April 7 nor in your suggestive leading article thereon does it seem to me that the source of the bad manners of the young people of the present day is detected.
Manners are the external beauty of behavior, and to-day we are not allowed to admire beauty. Since the close of the Victorian era we have been commanded by "the critics" to worship the ugly, the distorted, and the unnatural. In painting we have had the atrocities in pigment so decreedly condemned recently by the sane courage of the Hon. John Collier. In sculpture we have distorted forms alleged to "symbolize" something, but representing emaciation and insanity. In poetry, instead of beautiful thoughts in beautiful rhythmic language, we have incoherent ideas flung at us in very blank verse in lines ranging from 22 syllables to two. In music, instead of melodious dignity or gaiety, we have a tuneless bombardment of the auditory apparatus. Even architecture is not allowed to be graceful, for the massive uncountness of some prehistoric Egyptian style seems to be the vogue.

Now just as painting is, or should be, beauty in pigment, sculpture beauty in stone, poetry beauty in words, and music beauty in rhythm, so manners are beauty in behavior. But as beauty has been banished from the Fine Arts, so it has from behavior itself. The manners of to-day are in keeping with the unloveliness of the environment of to-day. If Sylvia could be found she would be dismissed as fit only for the lid of a chocolate-box; and as for Schubert, we can but dimly recall his aesthetic pain if he could revisit the glimpses of the moon of our athletic lunacy.
If a word may be added—though, as a matter of fact, any further word would be as gratuitous and unnecessary—it would be that Mr. Harris has left nothing further to be said.

Odds and Ends
"The Song of the Undertow"
(Poem with which Katherine Hale opened her recital here last night).
—MacDonald—an extract.
Saint John is built upon a rock;
And very few her trees,
And on her face is writ the shock
Of many a vagrant breeze.
Altho' there is something in her eyes
Drawn from the seven seas.
Her harbor is a host of spires;
And, if you there should stray,
You'd think the woods of Restigouche
Had wandered down that way.
And lost their frocks beside the docks
And so were forced to stay.
The morning breeze along her quays
Doth bear the smell of rain,
And pungent rocks, that mend the hopes
Of many a broken spair;
And resplendent, insured at Lloyd's,
And spices from afar.
I love to stroll and ease my soul
Along each brimming quay
Where cargoes like a crazy-quilt
Are spread around to see.
Lemons from Spain and bags of grain,
And nuts from a tall palm tree.
And there I turned my pockets out
And they were clean and bare.
It seemed an aged of time to me
Since silver had been laid
And yet what good is bronze and gold
Upon God's altar stair?
I never bought a thing with gold
That made my pulses leap;
I never bought with gold a thing
That made me laugh or weep
With yellow gold you cannot buy
What any man may keep.

THE ENGLISHMAN
There's a land that bears a world-known name,
Though 'tis but a little spot;
'Tis first on the blazing scroll of fame
And who can ever it is not;
Of the deathless ones who shine and give,
In arms, in art, in song;
The brightest the whole wide world can give,
'Tis that little land belong:
'Tis the Star of the earth, deny it who can,
The Island home of an Englishman.
There's a flag that waves o'er every sea,
No matter when or where;
And to treat that flag as aught but the free,
Is more than the strongest dare.
For the lion spirits that tread the deck,
Have carried the palm of the brave,
And that flag may sink, with a shot-torn wreck,
But never float o'er a slave;
His honor is stanes, deny it who can,
The flag of true born Englishman.
There's a heart that leaps with burning glow
The wronged and the weak to defend,
And strike as soon for a trampled foe
As it does for a soul-bound friend;
It nurtures deep and honest love,
The passion of faith and pride,
And yearns with the fondness of a dove
To the light of its own freedom:
'Tis a rich, rough gem, deny it who can,
The heart of a true born Englishman.
The Briton may traverse the pole or the zone,
And boldly claim his right,
For he calls such a vast domain his own
That the sun never sets on his night;
Let the haughty stranger seek to know
The place of his home and birth,
And a flush will pour from cheek to brow
As he tells of his native earth:
'Tis a glorious charter, deny it who can,
That's breathed in the words, I'm an Englishman.

DINNER STORIES
Best of Advice
BY CLARK KINNAIRD
HAVE you ever noticed how many definitions of liberty there are abroad in the land?
The only freedom which deserves the name is that of pursuing our own good in our own way, as long as we do not attempt to deprive others of theirs, or impede their efforts to obtain it. Each is the proper guardian of his own health, whether bodily, or of his own mind, or of his own spiritual. Mankind are greater gainers by suffering each other to live as seems good to them than by compelling each to live as seems good to the rest.
Though this doctrine is anything but new, there is no doctrine which stands more directly opposed to the general tendency of existing opinion and practice. Everywhere it is being observed that Society has expanded fully as much in the attempt to conform to its notions of personal, as of social excellence.

JOHN STUART MILL observed that the disposition of mankind, whether as rulers or as subjects, to impose their own opinions and inclinations as a rule of conduct on others, is energetically supported by the best and some of the worst feelings incident to human nature, that it is hardly ever kept under restraint by anything but want of power.
As the power is not declining, but growing, unless a strong barrier of moral conviction can be raised against it, we must expect, in the present circumstances of the world, to see it increase.
THERE'S a reverse side to all this. "The cry for liberty is an honest cry," declares an Easterner (I regret I cannot give you his name).
"From the beginning of history men have struggled for liberty, and having achieved it have at once set about the business of enslaving others."
"Let a slave be made free and his next desire is for a man Friday to polish his boots."
"The cry for liberty is a cry for the right to smother those who smother us, the first business of a revolution is to overthrow those who now have authority; the second business is to establish a new government."
"There have been many revolutions, but the only one that has succeeded has been the setting up of a new set of bosses."

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAYS NEWS
PRINCE WILLIAM OF SWEDEN.
WHEN Prince William of Sweden comes to America this summer he will not come as a representative of his country, but as the paid lecturer of a lyceum bureau.
The prince, second son of Sweden's king, will talk on his experiences covering more than two years of exploration in the least known regions of Africa.
While on this trip he discovered more than eight unknown volcanoes in the mountains of Mambria.
He brought back a shipload of specimens to the Royal Natural History Museum of Sweden containing more than a thousand mammal, bird, and insect, many of them new to naturalists. Among the collection were two dozen gullies and a considerable number of rare fauna.
The prince is also an author and his play "Kinanqoz" will probably be produced in this country this summer.
He was at one time wedded to the Grandduchess Marie Pavlovna of Russia, only daughter of the murdered Grand Duke Paul and of his first wife who was a sister of the late King Constantine of Greece.
Because of incompatibility the marriage was later annulled by the Swedish Council of State in 1914.
The Swedish house is far from rich and the prince may be embarking on this tour principally to better his financial status.
When Field Marshal Bernadotte ascended to the throne he concealed a vast amount of treasure which he had garnered while commanding armies in Germany and France. Although it is certain that it is hidden in the maze of vaults which underlie the palace no one has succeeded in unearthing it. So while untold wealth may be had for the discovery, Sweden's royal family is comparatively poor.

POEMS HOME
BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE
"They Are Not Long," by Ernest Dowson.
IN HIS remarkably sympathetic introduction to the Poems of this English singer of the Nineties, Arthur Symonds, writing in 1909, "The death of Ernest Dowson will mean very little to the world at large, but it will mean a great deal to the few people who are kept alive, not by the man in the street, but by the passionate few."
Dowson wrote but little, and much that he produced will inevitably perish; yet his "I have been faithful to thee, Cynara—in my fashion," will have a place always in any summing up of that thrilling period when those carefree poets of London made for the world such a garden of clear, clean beauty. Dowson's work is marked by sheer loveliness, and he had that feeling for the right word which is the sign of the true artist. Of his brief lyrics, a great favorite of mine is this:

They are not long, the weeping and the laughter,
Love and desire and hate;
I think they have no portion in us after
We pass the gate.
They are not long, the days of wine and roses;
Out of a misty dream
Our path emerges for a while, then Within a dream.

hand. "There's a man going across ahead of you, sir," he cautioned. "So I see. What about it?" snapped the novice. "You must shout 'fore if there's anybody in the way when you hit the ball.'" "How on earth do I know when I'm going to hit it?" the beginner shouted angrily. "I'm no prophet."

HAVE you ever noticed how many definitions of liberty there are abroad in the land?
The only freedom which deserves the name is that of pursuing our own good in our own way, as long as we do not attempt to deprive others of theirs, or impede their efforts to obtain it. Each is the proper guardian of his own health, whether bodily, or of his own mind, or of his own spiritual. Mankind are greater gainers by suffering each other to live as seems good to them than by compelling each to live as seems good to the rest.
Though this doctrine is anything but new, there is no doctrine which stands more directly opposed to the general tendency of existing opinion and practice. Everywhere it is being observed that Society has expanded fully as much in the attempt to conform to its notions of personal, as of social excellence.

JOHN STUART MILL observed that the disposition of mankind, whether as rulers or as subjects, to impose their own opinions and inclinations as a rule of conduct on others, is energetically supported by the best and some of the worst feelings incident to human nature, that it is hardly ever kept under restraint by anything but want of power.
As the power is not declining, but growing, unless a strong barrier of moral conviction can be raised against it, we must expect, in the present circumstances of the world, to see it increase.
THERE'S a reverse side to all this. "The cry for liberty is an honest cry," declares an Easterner (I regret I cannot give you his name).
"From the beginning of history men have struggled for liberty, and having achieved it have at once set about the business of enslaving others."
"Let a slave be made free and his next desire is for a man Friday to polish his boots."
"The cry for liberty is a cry for the right to smother those who smother us, the first business of a revolution is to overthrow those who now have authority; the second business is to establish a new government."
"There have been many revolutions, but the only one that has succeeded has been the setting up of a new set of bosses."

The Very Idea!

ANTIQUE
THERE once was a maiden who early in life just craved for the time when she'd be some man's wife. She dreamed of the man whom she knew she would get—and started a hope chest so she'd be all set.
A little of that and a little of this were saved, as the things that would help marriage bliss. Thought she, "I'll surprise him, when I come to bat, with nearly enough things to furnish a flat.
The years wore along and the man came and went, but never, it seemed, did she meet the right gent. To marriage the road was never quite paved, for no man seemed worth all the things she had saved.
And then came the time when the end of her rope was reached cause she had all her wedding bells hope. But that didn't fret her, or bring on the tears like all of the things that she'd saved up for years.
Her love dream was blighted. It passed on his way. She opened a little antique store one day. And how did she do it? You'd never have guessed—with things that she'd put in her little hope chest.
As he was leaving town, he meant to kiss his lady fair. The train pulled out so suddenly, he kissed the open air.
The tightest man we know of is the fellow who listened to a Sunday sermon and turned off his radio when the collection was taken.
It's not a bad idea to appear dumb at times—but so many people carry it to excess.

SPEAKERS AT ROTARY SAY MOVEMENT IS GREAT ASSET TO WELFARE OF THE COUNTRY

H. F. Paisley, of Sydney, N. S., Declares Progress of Canada in Last 60 Years is Notable Achievement

CLUBS' TASK IN COMMUNITY TOLD OF

Judge Wallace, of Halifax, Sees Early Universal Brotherhood an Accomplished Fact—Province and City Extend Hearty Welcome to Visiting Delegates

THAT ROTARIANISM stood for the promotion of inter-community and international fellowship was the keynote of the several addresses which were heard at the 32nd District Rotary conference, which formally opened in the Admiral Beatty Hotel here yesterday.

H. F. Paisley, of Sydney, N. S., declared that the development of the Dominion of Canada in the last 60 years was one of the notable achievements in the history of the earth.

Speaking of forest protection, A. Sterling McFarlane, principal of the Fredericton High School, told the conference that New Brunswick was facing somewhat of a crisis, inasmuch as the destruction of a large part of its merchantable timber by fire.

Mr. McFarlane said that in one block of timber alone the province had lost a perpetual annual income of more than $100,000.

Speaking of the establishment of large pulp mills at various places in the province, Mr. McFarlane said that the establishment of a large plant had not the pulp wood in the vicinity been destroyed by fire several years ago.

OTHER SPEAKERS. District Governor John A. Young, of Sydney, N. S., presided. Among the speakers were: Harry Williams, of Brockton, Mass., district governor of district 31; Judge W. B. Wallace, of Halifax; William Webster, Halifax; William Layton, Ralston, Halifax; William Creelman, Sydney; W. F. Fraser, New Brunswick; H. F. Paisley, Sydney; Westby McDonald, Campbellton; George Graham, Kentville, general manager of the Dominion Atlantic Railway; A. M. Gregg, Saint John, and past district governor, John Gass, Halifax.

Messages of greeting were read from several clubs, and from John H. Moss, international Kiwanis president.

JUDGE GEORGE WALLACE. Judge Wallace spoke of the lack of knowledge people of one locality had of the people of other localities, and of the aims of Rotary to enlighten this ignorance and to promote inter-community and international good fellowship.

Judge Hughes, of the United States Supreme Court has said that the speaker on that international club, such as Rotary, would finally lead to world peace. The invasion of ideas could not be resisted.

The task might seem impossible but did it appear any more so when he compared the comparatively short time, since the inception of Rotary, to the centuries that it was not an idle dream that nations might be made friends, and that science would make them friends and brethren.

BRANCHES EVERYWHERE. With branches in Australia, Japan and the far corners of the earth much good had been wrought already. The speaker believed that the time was not remote when a universal brotherhood would be an accomplished fact.

Mr. Webster took as his subject "The Club Council." He spoke of the councils held by the Halifax club at regular intervals, and gave instances of the good results which the policy had produced. The council had not the power of directors, but their purpose was constructive criticism.

The speaker believed the club council to be a splendid idea and worthy the adoption of all clubs.

ROTARY SCHOOLS. Mr. Ralston spoke on Rotary Schools. The schools were places for the exchange of Rotary ideas. These should not be held at club luncheons where guests would be bored by questions between chair and members.

It had been found advisable to take up the school as a definite object to further the advance of Rotary ideas. One of the first subjects for discussion should be selective membership. The discussion would be found most interesting. Another subject should be chosen.

SPRING MEDICINE. The body is like a machine; it has to be adjusted to the conditions under which it lives. Spring marks the change from a cold weather to hot weather conditions.

With many people, the body cells do not readily adjust to them. The new conditions of resisting the effects of the heat and need assistance. Father John's Medicine is both food and tonic, a body builder as well as a body rejuvenator. It contains the purest cod liver oil scientifically blended with other valuable ingredients by specially designed equipment, which makes this old-fashioned medicine easy for the weakened system to digest.

Father John's Medicine contains no drugs, no alcohol, but one of Nature's great food-medicines, which is easily digested and promptly made use of by body cells. In use for over seventy years. Try it.

MEDALS PRESENTED TO L.O.L. VETERANS

Grand Lodge Honors Memory of Departed Also; Banquet With L.O.B.A.

FREDERICTON, April 22.—The Grand Orange Lodge of New Brunswick this afternoon received a delegation from the provincial convention, L. O. B. A., which extended official greetings from the sister organization.

The Grand Lodge in the afternoon also conferred medals upon those who had completed 50 years in the lodge. Those eligible to receive the medals were Thomas Coggan, of Sussex; Richard Sprague, of Colliers; Charles Lewin, of Canterbury; Hamilton Kyle, of New Brunswick; Richard Leslie, of Sussex; Rev. J. E. Fawcett, of Canterbury; King McParlane, of Markhamville; and Charles A. Jones, of Saint John, making a total of 61 including those who have previously received medals.

REPORTS OF VARIOUS COMMITTEES. The Rotarians, he said, should see that the boys had the opportunity of entering into their full heritage. Every boy possessed a social infection for the town in which he lived. It must be seen that this infection was guided in the right direction. He cited the cases of Singers, Watts and Grenfell as examples of boyhood inspiration mirrored in lives of splendid service. It was the duty of Rotarians to see that the boys had a chance to live. Slum conditions should be eliminated.

KEEP THEM AT SCHOOL. Development of both mind and body must be considered. Faulty education was a great menace to democracy. The boys should be kept at school or they would find the doors of opportunity closed in after life. Spiritual education should be encouraged and each boy helped into the church of his choice.

Mr. Gass told of the work being done among crippled children. He gave instances of totally or partially paralyzed children had received treatment with excellent results.

ONE IN EVERY THOUSAND. One child, he said, in every thousand was crippled. Wonderful work was being done among them under the auspices of Rotary. Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts had been prominent in the work. While he appreciated the work being done by other organizations, he believed that Rotary was leading the way. Almost every club in this district was bearing a definite part in the work, he said.

Mr. Gass told of what had been done in Halifax and the district of Saint John, and of the work being done by the Rotary societies.

MESSAGE FROM DISTRICT 31. Mr. Williams brought a message from District 31. In opening his remarks he paid a warm tribute to District Governor Young.

The Rotarian, he said, was just a steady, faithful, avowed citizen of the club could never have an identity in the community unless each member fulfilled his particular duty to other members of his fellows was the greatest honor a man could win.

The dinner and dancing of the Rotary club of district 32 in the Admiral Beatty last evening was a highly successful function and was graced with a full attendance of the Rotarians and their ladies and guests. The spirit of Rotary was allowed full swing and informality was the keynote of the occasion. The attendance was so large that the Georgian ball room was overflowed and additional tables had to be placed in the hall and writing room.

The dinner was interspersed with club singing. District Governor John Young, of Sydney, N. S., presided and introduced the guests of honor, among whom were: International Vice-President Arthur Sapp, Miss Sapp and Miss Helen Sapp, of Huntington, Mass.; Harry Williams, district governor of district 31, and Mrs. Williams, of Brockton, Mass.; Lieutenant-Governor W. E. Todd and Mrs. Todd, Mayor-elect W. W. White and Mrs. White, Donald W. Armstrong, president of the Saint John Gyro Club, and Mrs. Armstrong.

After the toast to the King had been drunk with the customary honors, a toast to the city of Saint John by the Maritimes was responded to by Lieutenant-Governor Todd and Mayor-elect White; was to the International Brotherhood by Mr. Sapp, and to the ancient colony by Rotarian Charles Hunt, of St. John's, N.B.

Dr. P. L. Bonnell sang two solos which were much appreciated and members of the Rossley group executed some pretty good dancing. Mr. McEACHERN gave several banjo-ukulele selections.

During the program bouquets were presented Mesdames Sapp and Young. At the conclusion of the program dancing was begun and was continued until early this morning. A feature was a grand march performed by the New Glasgow Rotarians and their ladies headed by the club's jazz band, which made a great hit.

Shall the College Man Marry the Uneducated Girl Who Fascinates Him?—Seven Love Questions Answered for Six 18-Year-Old Girls—Advice to a Widower on Selecting Wife No. 2.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a college undergraduate having my first love affair. My sweetheart is crazy about fine clothes and her desire in life is to have an uproarious good time. She has very little education and is a dabbler for book-learning and any form of intellectual pursuit.

On the other hand, I am keen on education and intend to devote my life to a profession that will require continuous study. This girl attracts me because of her lack of formal education. I am a savant, more interested in things of the mind than in domestic life. What do you think?

FRED J. ANSWER: I think, my dear Fred, that a college undergraduate having his initial love affair need not lie awake at night wondering what sort of a wife any girl will make.

These cat-love romances are a part of the college course that every boy goes through, and they are highly educational if you merely skim the surface of them as you do certain studies.

But, on the other hand, remember the warning of the poet who said, "My only books were women's looks, and folly is all they have taught me."

In answering your question, however, I can but warn you against the danger in marrying a woman whose taste and ideals and aspirations are so totally different from your own.

There is a very general idea among men that every unintelligent woman is domestic, and because a girl doesn't know anything else she must know how to cook and manage a house. Never was a greater mistake.

The girl who is too inert and lazy, who is too pleasure loving and self-indulgent to go to school and acquire an education, is a loser by nature and she will make a slow and slovenly housekeeper.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widower of 43, with a little girl of 12. I am in love with a girl of 18, and the only reason I have not proposed to her is because of my little daughter, who opposes my remarriage. Have I not a right to some happiness? Would I be happy with this girl?

ANSWER: What a lot of questions! They comprise the whole of the Law and the Prophets of a girl's sentimental life and it would take a Solomon to answer them. But here are my guesses at your riddles, girls!

First. No girl of 17 or 18 knows what real love is. She is too immature, her tastes are too unformed. She doesn't know what she wants in a man.

Second. Of course, a boy will kiss a girl if she will let him. Kissing is no indication whatever of affection on a man's part. It's a pastime.

Third. No boy respects a girl who lets him kiss her, unless he is engaged to her. He thinks she is an easy mark.

Fourth. Never let a boy know that you love him until he asks you to marry him. Keep him guessing. That way you pique his interest, and save your own face if he never comes across with a marriage proposition.

Fifth. There is no known recipe for winning the affection of a man. It is a matter of luck, of propinquity, of congeniality.

Sometimes a man can be chased down and caught. Sometimes he can be lured into the matrimonial fold by good food. Sometimes he can be floated into marriage on terra. Sometimes he falls for being flouted, and sometimes for being flattered and cajoled, but there is no guaranteed method that always works for winning a man.

Sixth. Petting parties are playing with dynamite. Don't do it. Seventh. There are two kinds of women in the world for men—the ones they go on wild parties with, and the ones they marry.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widower of 43, with a little girl of 12. I am in love with a girl of 18, and the only reason I have not proposed to her is because of my little daughter, who opposes my remarriage. Have I not a right to some happiness? Would I be happy with this girl?

ANSWER: Marry by all means, Mr. Forty-three, but don't marry the girl of 18. She is too young for you, and after your first infatuation for her was over you would find that you had nothing in common.

She is still a child and would bore you with her childish chatter, and wear you out wanting to do all the young things that belonged to her time of life. Also, she would tire of you and look upon you as a fossil.

A widower must consider his children when he marries, and no girl of 18 has the wisdom and the patience to deal wisely with a step-child almost as old as she is.

By all means marry, but pick a woman around 30 for a wife if you want to be happy.

"Make The Parks Safe For Lovers"

By GEORGE BRITT. MAKE the parks safe for our lovers! "More petting and fewer policemen in the parks!" These springtime slogans get the endorsement of a snow-haired but sunny-hearted sage, Ethelbert Stewart, commissioner of the United States bureau of labor statistics.

"In the springtime particularly," says Stewart, "it is instinctive with young people to want to walk together in the moonlight and hold hands and kiss. There is no thought of evil in 999 out of 1,000 of their hearts."

"But more than half of our population lives in cities. The parks are practically the only refuge for such young couples. Now let a policeman come along and tell the young fellow to take his arm from around that girl's waist. By thinking evil himself, the policeman is spreading evil where none was before."

CITES DR. JOHNSON. "It is an exact parallel of the case where Boswell pointed out to Dr. Samuel Johnson a painting of a nude figure in an art gallery. 'Sir, isn't that picture indecent?' asked Boswell. And the doctor replied, 'No, but your question is!'"

Sewart holds no sympathy nor affiliation with his contemporaries who utter disapproving croaks about the younger generation.

"They are like a lot of dried up, decayed, worm-eaten apples in the cellar growing at the blossoms and green apples on the tree," he says. "It is not to be wondered that the green apples show no ambition to mature into the same sort of fruit."

THEY KNOW THE RULES. "I can say with David," he told them, "that once I was young and now I am old, but never in my life have I put my arm around a woman, never have I tried to put my arm around a woman, who did not know all of the rules and regulations and exactly how to enforce them."

"When I was a boy, there was no public park problem," says Stewart. "We had bobbed rides in winter and hay rides in summer, and the young folks at close and came home in innocence. And I have heard sermons by the dozen, denouncing the parties as inventions of Satan."

"There were more proprieties and taboos in social relations then. But they were no more effective than now in suppressing the natural longing of youth for affectionate demonstration. With all their don'ts, they did not produce as clean a generation of young people as those today."

IN NEW YORK SEE SAWING UP and DOWN BROADWAY

See-sawing up and down the Easter parade on Fifth Avenue I beheld a most flashy pair of striped pants approaching . . . To say nothing of spotted white spats . . . And who should it be but Al Jolson, who seemed the very symbol of Broadway on parade.

And not far behind on representing Broadway was Marie Dressler, smiling infectiously upon one and all . . . And Texas Guinan, "America's most sophisticated woman," to whom it must have been great effort to early since her night club closes with the dawn, and my feminine aid informed me she was clad in a rose beige ensemble with a bluish hat, whatever that may be.

And there was the exotic and gorgeous Lya de Putti, imported from Europe to be another of those "wicked women" of the films . . . Yet there she was, most solemn of mien, going up the steps of St. Patrick's cathedral. They tell me this terribly "wicked gal" the screen attends church most regularly.

Four midgets from the circus side show, dressed absolutely "in the hills" and being all but stepped on by the crowd that gathered to see them . . . And Chauncy Depew, who never seems to grow old, particularly when he wears his silk topper and swallow-tails . . . The circus giant, wearing yellow spats and formal morning clothes towering above the parade like one of the avenue's traffic signs.

Outlookers lining the streets representing the entire collection of states. "Sh! Scores of 'ahs' and countless 'sh!' It's a great show.

WANDERED in on the annual revel of the Green Room Club, started some 25 years ago by Edward Forrest Lodge and one of his charter members but two remain on this earth—William Brady and Charles Dixon.

Which reminds me, the newest theaters to be built are without the good old green rooms of old, and the very newest has no box seats.

MOTORING over to that section of Long Island which is the Hollywood of the East Coast, I beheld this wiffling drama in the Paramount luncheon room.

An extra girl wandered in and walked up to the counter. She looked at the billiard fare when mortals were advertised at 65 cents and there, about, sighed and ordered a sandwich which cost 15 cents.

"No, just a cup and saucer." Whereupon she drew forth from under her coat a thermos bottle and poured out her own, thus saving a dime.

Menus for the Family

Breakfast: Omelette, Ham Hash, Coffee. Lunch: Oyster Stew, Cottage Cheese Salad, Corn Bread, Tea. Dinner: Roast Shoulder of Pork with Stuffing, Cabbage and Apple Salad, Tea or Coffee.

TODAY'S RECIPES. Ham Hash—Prepare a cream sauce, add ground-up ham and diced potatoes. Season and mix. Place in a buttered baking tin, cover with crumbs and brown.

Roast Shoulder of Pork with Stuffing—Order the shoulder of pork boned and stuffed with plain bread stuffing seasoned with a little sage. Score the skin for carving and sprinkle well with flour, salt and pepper. Place in a moderate oven and roast until tender, allowing 25 minutes to a pound. When two-thirds done place pared sweet potatoes around the meat and bake, turning once during the cooking. It will be necessary to baste the meat sparingly with boiling water containing some melted drippings from time to time during the cooking process.

FRUITS ESSENTIAL IN DIET. Scientists tell us that the use of fruits and vegetables in the diet rests on the soundest basis. They establish an alkali reserve in the blood which promotes elimination of carbon dioxide by the lungs and counteracts the acid produced by the consumption of bread and meat, thus preventing the dangerous condition known as acidosis or acid poisoning which often results from faulty metabolism or assimilation.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE SOFT DAVENPORT AND THE RADIO. Mister Tingle and the Twins walked into Ringtail Coon's apartment in the hickory tree, as Ringtail held the door open.

When Ringtail gently closed the door behind them, he had a look in his eye that the spider must have had when he invited the fly into his parlor.

It was a very funny look indeed, and I do wish that smart little Nancy or wise little Nick had noticed it. For if they had, they might have saved the little fairy landlady about three bushels and a half of trouble.

But although magic shoes will make you little and take you places, they can't do everything in the world. So nobody noticed the spy look in Ringtail Coon's eye as he closed the door and led them into his sun-parlor where the radio was.

There sat the radio-set, on a little brown table, but before Ringtail turned it on, he invited them to sit down on his willow davenport all covered with cushions.

That willow davenport with its soft cushions! Really, I wish you could have seen it! It was as comfortable as a big feather bed and a Cadillac automobile and a hammock and a swing all rolled into one.

The windows were all open and the breeze blew in and smelled as delicious as a bottle of broken perfume. I mean a broken bottle of perfume, and besides it was as cool as though it had been kept on ice for hours.

The poor little fairy landlady was so hot and tired, and the Twins were so tired and hot, that when they sat down on that lovely davenport with the breeze blowing over them, all three of them felt that they never wanted to move again—rent day or not.

Ringtail Coon sat down on the little stool in front of his radio and turned some knobs. "Who! Whee! Squeee!" it went at first.

Then he turned some more things and suddenly somebody began to sing. "Thanks for the Buggy Ride." It sounded simply fine and the visitors listened to the very end.

"That was beautiful," said Mister Tingle. "But really we must get the rest and be going now, Mister Coon." "Just one more tune!" insisted Ringtail. So he turned some more knobs and all at once someone began to sing "Bunny."

"We really must go now," yawned the fairyman when it was finished. "It's getting late and—" "Listen," said Ringtail Coon. "Don't miss this."

"They were singing 'Who' now. Then they sang 'Always.' Then they sang 'Remember.'" Each time the tired little fairyman said they simply had to go, but before he could move Ringtail would put on another tune.

At last there was a more, and turning quickly, Ringtail beheld all three of his visitors with their eyes closed, sound asleep.

Mister Coon turned off his radio and went downstairs. Then he took a long walk up along the creek.

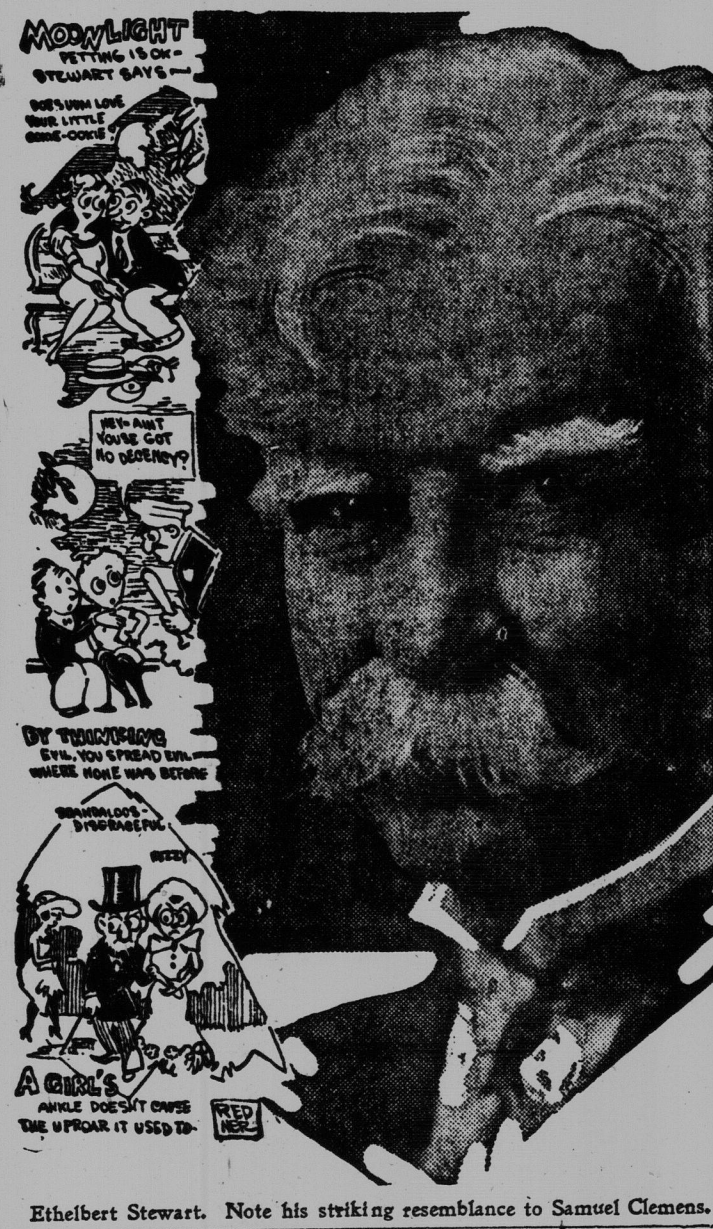

"Oh goodness! I never gave them my rent!" he cried suddenly. "I must go back." But he never moved a step toward home.

And I'm sorry to say he still had that

BEHIND THE SCREEN

LYA DE PUTTI, the famous Hungarian screen actress who arrived in New York a short time ago, has been selected by D. W. Griffith for the role of Lady Sybil in his coming production for Paramount, "The Sorrows of Satan."

She will begin work immediately at the Long Island studio, where Adolphe Menjou, Ricardo Cortez, Carol Dempster and others of the cast are at work.

The character of Lady Sybil symbolizes feminine evil, and Mr. Griffith has devoted much time and thought recently to the selection of an actress suitable to the role. He has interviewed and tested scores, but without finding one who, he believed, was the type necessary. When he first saw Miss de Putti, three days after she landed here, he recognized at once that she was exactly what he had visualized for the character.

That was all right for the mere physical appearance. The question then arose as to whether or not she was capable of playing the extremely difficult role. Mr. Griffith had "Variety," one of Miss de Putti's recent pictures screened for him, and after seeing her work, said that she was a marvelous actress.

Katherine Hale Is Heard In Brilliant Recital Here Before Very Large Audience

Enthusiastic Reception is Accorded Distinguished Visitor—Gives Charming Interpretations of Varied Number of Poems—Reads Many of Her Own

AN ENTHUSIASTIC reception was accorded Katherine Hale, (Mrs. John Garvin), when she gave her recital of modern poetry in the Church of England Institute, last night, under the auspices of the local branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club and delighted a thronging audience with her brilliant and altogether charming interpretations of the poems of a number of the moderns.

More especially her audience delighted in her readings of her own poetry and in the recital of the poems of childhood. Mrs. Margaret Lawrence, president of the club, introduced Mrs. Garvin and spoke of the pride of the local club in presenting so gifted a newspaper woman, writer and entertainer as "Katherine Hale."

During the evening A. C. Lawrence, accompanied by Miss Beryl Blanch, gave two very pleasing vocal solos.

THIRD VISIT HERE

Mrs. Garvin said that it was her third visit to Saint John, but the first occasion on which she had stayed for any length of time. She regretted that she had not herself written of Saint John in poetry, although she had had much pleasure in writing of the city in prose, but she gave as her opening reading a poem on Saint John written by MacDonald, an Ontario writer, and author of "The Song of the Undertow," from which the selection was taken. Her introduction was a very happy one.

The group of poems which she gave next she described as "color lyrics" and each was a gem of poetry. Included in the group were Marjory Pickthall's "The Green Month," "Breasts" from "The Sea Wall" by Mrs. L. Shannon; "Brown" by Louise M. Bowman; "Blue Homespun," a lyric of the French-Canadian habitant by F. O. Call and hymn to "Silver," by Walter de La Mare.

WAR-TIME LYRIC

As the closing number of the group she gave her own "Grey Knitings," a war-time lyric of great beauty of thought and expression, which made a very deep appeal.

Then she turned to that familiar descriptive poem of Alfred Noyes "The Barrel Organ," and as she read its rhythmic lines her hearers could picture the busy streets of London and realize the all pervading influence of the curbside music.

A number of her own poems taken from "Morning in the West" were given next. She explained that when she had visited Western Canada she had failed to find those curious things "typical characters" but had heard stories and seen things that haunted her and she had begun to put down these things in verse form.

That was in the year before the war and with the war she had dropped her western poetry. Since then she had had the joy of reading her Western poems to western audiences and she recognized the mood that she had endeavored to catch.

First she read a poem descriptive of the old Indian chieftain, 87 years of age, who sat by the roadside at Jasper to watch the modern world go by and peer back into the past when the trail had been blazed at mighty cost. Then she read the joyous poem of "The Return of the Trapper" and followed that with the "Winter Morning," in which the rich woman recalls her days of pioneering forty years ago.

A group of delightfully clever poems, which she described as "portraits of women," were given next by Mrs. Garvin and they were "snapshots" characteristic in very appealing verse.

There was the "Blue Jay" woman, the Irish woman, with the proper fear of pixies, the Bolshevik woman, who nevertheless wished the good things for her son, and the woman who was every kind of woman as all women are.

Mrs. Garvin included in this group also "A Fabulous Day" and one of her poems which has been most widely printed, "Silver Slippers."

STUDIES IN CHILDHOOD

From her own poems she passed to studies in childhood and declared her own belief that it required the greatest genius to touch childhood. She had not herself attempted poetry of childhood, she said, and would read from A. A. Milne's "When We Were Very Young," poems that have been so widely acclaimed. The poems in this group which she selected included Market Square, The Wrong House, The King's Breakfast, and each was a prime favorite with the audience.

Hilaire Belloc's "Cautionary Tales" were the last group on the program and for these very moral ditties Mrs. Garvin had a piano accompaniment and gave a musical recitative rendering which put all the proper thrill to the amazing climax of each of the poems.

Included in the group were the tales of Rebecca who slammed doors; Matilda, who told such awful lies and Henry, who ate bits of string, all of whom perished miserably, and Charles, who did at all times just what he ought to do and became justly wealthy, famous and happy.

FIRE BURNS HOME NEAR GAGETOWN

Residence of E. Peacock, on Mill Road, razed with Contents

GAGETOWN, April 22—Fire a few days ago, destroyed the home of E. Peacock, on the Mill Road, about two and a half miles from Gagetown.

The fire is believed to have caught from a spark from the kitchen chimney, which lit on the roof of the shed and caused a blaze which spread to the main house and was soon beyond control. Practically all the household belongings were also lost, although neighbors rallied as quickly as possible. It was considered useless to summon the Gagetown fire brigade, as the fire was too advanced. The family made homeless by the blaze is a large one.

The house was one of the older houses in the community, having been the home of the William Dingee family. It was situated near the old mill, which gave its name to the Millstream which flows into Hart's Lake.

BAXTER REPLIES TO VENIOT ATTACK ON GRAND FALLS POLICY

Holds Power Development Plan Of Cabinet Is Effort at Putting Money Into People's Pockets

Premier Says in Legislature Duel With Opposition Chief That Government Isn't There to Gamble With Public Funds on Doubtful Facts

EX-PREMIER HITS PENALTY SCHEME

Tells House No Positive Assurance Exists That Work Will Proceed to Finish at Cauterax and Valuable Concessions Are Being Given Away, While No Control is Retained

BY JOHN J. DUNLOP Staff Correspondent of The Times-Star FREDERICTON, N. B., April 22.—This government is trying to have energy developed at Grand Falls to put money in the pockets of the people and we are not here to gamble with the people's money on doubtful facts.

So declared Premier Baxter in expounding the policy of his cabinet and supporters in reply to a lengthy and vigorous attack on this policy by Hon. Dr. P. J. Veniot, leader of the Opposition, in the House this afternoon.

The two leaders took up the entire afternoon, the Opposition chief speaking for two hours while Premier Baxter contented himself with a half-hour address.

Hon. Dr. Veniot assailed bitterly the bills introduced, but they were ably defended by the premier. Both scored telling points and both were frequently applauded by their supporters.

The bills now go to the corporations' committee tomorrow for minute consideration. George H. Montgomery, K. C., counsel of the International Paper Company, Limited, will attend the sittings tomorrow.

The premier's rebuttal was to the point. He said he did not propose to follow his honorable friend through his many ramifications, as it would serve little good purpose. Referring to the $18.50 price asked of Frasers in a former report, the premier declared there were two kinds of horse power, continuous and 12-hour power. The $20 price now asked of Frasers was for continuous horse power of 810 horse power kind and that, he said, would effectively meet criticism by his honorable friend.

FOUND NEBULOUS STATE The Government, he declared, had found the Grand Falls project in a nebulous state, but when exact reports were made it was found that they could not depend on from 40,000 to 50,000 horse power every year. As to criticism of this development being for two industries, he said it was right that it should be so, as both were based on the native products of the province.

BUSINESS APPEAL He appealed to members of the House to consider this question from a business and not from a political standpoint. He reviewed events leading up to the development and said that if he could have had his way, agreements between the International and Frasers would have been reached long ago and that instead of being the last these bills would have been the first before the House. He would say, however, that every opportunity would be given to every member to consider this question, and so long as there was a desire for honest investigation just so long would he keep the House sitting.

PROVINCE IMPEDED Hon. Dr. Veniot, he said, had criticized the $80,000 forfeit arrangement, but he would like to point out to the people that this should have been forfeited long ago, but under legislation introduced by the party of his honorable friend the province's hands were tied in the matter and it could not be forfeited even though they so desired.

The premier praised the business acumen of Archibald Fraser, president of the Fraser Companies, Limited, and said he preferred to stand on his business judgment rather than a host of reports on the development.

OBTAINED BY COMMISSION. With reference to W. M. Tilly's opinion the premier declared he never sought this, as charged by Hon. Dr. Veniot. It was secured by the Hydro Commission after attempts were made to secure opinions from Eugene Lafleur and Acme Geofrion, counsel in this matter for the Veniot government.

The premier closed with a moving pervasion to bring back industrial life to the province.

ASSAILS ARRANGEMENT. Dealing with the two bills, Hon. Dr. Veniot condemned the arrangement for penalty to carry out the development, saying it put a license on violation of agreements. They might as well say, he declared, to the new company,

Wherever the blazed trail leads, there you will find lovers of life in the open wearing—for comfort and health—garments of JAEGER Pure Wool with were not regular employees of the commission, because at least 38 of the 45 were temporarily employed only, who had been engaged simply for the purpose of running the transmission line survey in connection with the proposed development of Grand Falls by the former commission, and when this work ended, there being no further work for them they were no longer employed. And this is what the honorable gentleman calls a 'month's saving of $8,500 to the province.' I am surprised that the honorable gentleman would attempt to put over such a subterfuge on the House. But if only goes to show what straits our friends opposite are driven in their efforts to discredit public ownership.

I. CHESTER BROWN 32-36 King Square, Next Imperial Theatre

The attempt to show that the deficit of the commission was in the interest of economy is only surpassed by their extreme efforts to kill public ownership in the eyes of the public so as to have a better excuse for handing over water powers over to private corporations.

ANOTHER ERROR CHARGED. "The honorable gentleman also led the house astray when he attempted to show the amount of money paid to Acres and Lowrey as so much salary. Such was not the case, and as chairman of the commission he must have known that the sums mentioned by him were not all paid for salaries to these two gentlemen. Acres was engaged by the commission at $600 a month as consulting engineer and acted as such for a little less than two years, which amounted in salary to about $12,000, the balance of the $23,000 was for the services of other engineers employed by Acres in making out plans, etc., and for expenses while traveling in the interest of the commission. Lowrey was engaged at $200 a month and received in salary about $7,000, the balance of the $10,000 mentioned by the chairman of the commission was for wages and expenses of the crew under him while engaged in making surveys preparatory to the making of the plans, etc. Why not deal with the facts just as they are found.

THOSE ON PAY ROLL. "But, Mr. Speaker, since the chairman of the commission is so anxious to show how the new commission economized since they took charge why did he not dismiss Acres, Lowrey and Blanchard, three very high salaried officials employed by the old commission to be used only in connection with the development of Grand Falls, and who have been kept on the payroll of the commission notwithstanding that the government had months ago decided that it would not undertake the development as a government measure?

The chairman of the commission said that he desired to give an honest account of the administration of the commission. Does it look like it in the face of what I have just revealed that the chairman of the commission did not satisfy himself in attacking public ownership from the Grand Falls standpoint, but he went so far as to give information touching Musquash, which I claim does not bear out his promise to give a fair and honest account of affairs.

REPLACEMENT RESERVE. "In dealing with the so-called replacement reserve deficit, when he pointed out that there was a shortage of $11,000 in the Saint John system last year, he could have further enlightened his hearers by stating that that deficit had been reduced from $17,000 in 1924 to the sum he named in 1925, through the effort of the new commission. But that would be giving too much credit to the former commission and my honorable friend is too close-fisted to give credit to anyone much less a political opponent.

MUSQUASH FINANCES "Then, again, while using what he called the unsound financial condition of Musquash as a battering ram against public ownership, why did he not tell the House of the improved condition of affairs since November last, not brought about in consequence of any work of the new commission, but as a result of the work of the former commission. He could not even be fair when he dealt with the contract made between the N. B. Power Company and the Hydro Commission. He told the House that we were paying the company some $2,800 a month, but he would have given too much credit to the old commission if he had told the House what revenue was actually coming in from this transaction and what further revenue was estimated. He further forgot to tell the House that this company was absorbing all surplus fresh season power at so much a kilowatt hour, which brought in about $15,000 to $20,000 a year, which otherwise would go to waste over the spillway.

"This is another instance of the fair and honest account which the chairman of this non-political commission displayed in dealing with our hydro system.

GRAND FALLS DEALING "If he was unfair in dealing with the results of the Musquash undertaking, he surpassed himself, if that could be, when he undertook to deal with Grand Falls, especially in connection with the quantities which, he claimed, we had to reserve for this, that and the next thing, under our agreement with the International Paper Company. He led this House to believe that he was quoting from Agreement B when he made the statement that the commission had to supply an estimated or probable quantity of 14,000 h. p. for storage and storage rights demanded by the State of Maine, and to this he added 'as claimed by Mr. Graustein.' Let me say right here, Mr. Speaker, that neither the chairman of the commission nor Mr. Graustein can find one single word either in any agreement between the International Paper Company and the commission, or in the order issued by the International Waterways Commission that would even hint at the reservation of 14,000 h. p. for storage and storage rights demanded by the State of Maine. Let me go further and say that if Mr. Graustein made the statement attributed to him by the chairman, he deliberately stated what he knew to be untrue, and I know Mr. Graustein well enough to be convinced that he would not make use of such a deliberate misstatement, nor even to make a point against public ownership.

"Let me point out another evidence honestly with this phase of the question he could not but have revealed wherein he led the House astray last session and how he deceived the people during the election campaign when he stated positively that Musquash was going behind financially at the rate of $200,000 a year, when the very best of their own auditors could show would be $48,000.

"There can be only one object in the desperate attempts at misrepresentation made by our friends opposite in connection with Musquash matters, and that is to destroy any faith the people may have in the policy of public ownership by throwing a scare into the public mind and thus prepare the way for handing over our valuable water power assets to private corporations.

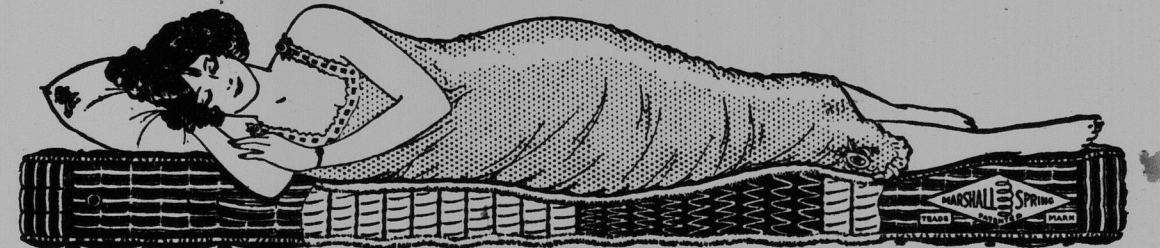

AGREEMENTS. "The attempt to make the House believe that there was a shortage of $11,000 in the Saint John system last year, he could have further enlightened his hearers by stating that that deficit had been reduced from $17,000 in 1924 to the sum he named in 1925, through the effort of the new commission. Here that under Agreement B, the Fraser Companies were debarred from purchasing any power from the Hydro Commission is the height of nonsense. The Premier read to the House what he said was the legal opinion of W. N. Tilley, one of the most eminent lawyers in Canada, to prove that this was the case. I do not pretend to question any legal opinion that might be given by such an eminent lawyer. If such an opinion was really given, but I do not hesitate to state that if the Premier had read to the House the full text, not of the opinion definitely expressed because there was no such definite opinion given by Mr. Tilley. Instead of reading only such parts of Mr. Tilley's letter as suited the case at the time, the House would not have been led to believe that the Frasers were debarred in the manner set forth by the argument used by the Premier.

"If the Premier had read the full text of the letter in question it would be clearly shown that I was right when I contended that the Hydro Commission, without having to consult the International Paper Company, could sell all or any part of its energy of 80,000 horse power (except the reservation of 10,000 or 14,000 horse power) to whom they pleased for any purpose other than a specified sale for grinding purposes.

CAPACITY OF GRAND FALLS.

"The Premier has questioned the capacity of Grand Falls and endeavored to show that there was only 27,000 dependable all time horsepower."

"I have in my possession the report of eminent engineers engaged by the International Paper Company to report upon and make plans for them in connection with their development of Grand Falls. This report shows an immediate development of 80,000 horse power and an ultimate of 80,000 horse power. The plans were made by John McCrae, consulting engineer in charge of the rebuilding of Chaudiere Dam, in consultation with Cecil B. Smith, who was in charge of the construction of plant of the hydro-electric plant of the Niagara Falls Power Co.

"There was to be eight hydro-electric generating units of 10,000 horse power each. The dam at the Falls would raise the working head 14 feet. Without the dam the effective head was 119 feet and there is more than sufficient water at this head to develop the initial 80,000 horse power, which amount is sufficient for the present market requirements."

"This report further showed that on a utilization of 12,000 horse power for the line to Fredericton and Saint John and Edmundston and Northern Maine, of the 80,000 installed, would leave surplus earnings of $185,500 after meeting every charge except sinking fund. By the installation of turbines of sufficient capacity to provide for the continuous over-load of 35 per cent, they would have a reserve of 25,000 horse power sufficient for the proposed paper mill, and Montreal line which would still further increase annual income by $78,500, while operating and interest charges would only be increased by $28,000 per annum. By the further ultimate development reaching 80,000 horse power, a further income of $600,000. The 80,000 horse power would yield surplus earnings of $889,000 less sinking fund, allowing 2 per cent. for sinking fund, the investment of $5,000,000 would return a 9 per cent. dividend. These are the figures, but the figures of the very company to which the government is handing over Grand Falls today.

ESTIMATED POWER PRICE.

"According to a report submitted to the government by the International Paper Company, made by Mr. Kerch, a most eminent engineer, in 1921, horse power could be developed and sold at the switch-board at Grand Falls for $16.75 per horse power.

"Since that time materials, machinery and labor have been considerably reduced in price, and today the same company is undertaking to develop and sell energy at $20 per horse power. This price is excessive.

"The development contemplated in 1921 was 35,000 horse power, about the same as the company now say they will develop.

"The engineers of the New Brunswick Hydro Commission having planned for a 60,000 to 75,000 horse power development estimated that energy could be sold at the switch-board for from $12.50 to $15.

"In the face of these facts have I not a reason for saying that $20 a horse power at the switch-board is a price far beyond what should be charged the Frasers Company or any other industry as well as for the amount of energy reserved for the use of the province?"

URGES PROVINCIAL WORK.

"To my mind these facts should be conclusive proof that the province should go on with the development. We can do it cheaper and save money to the Frasers or any other industry and at the same time give the International Paper Company all the power they will require for their paper and pulp mill.

"It is not reasonable to conclude that if power could be developed in 1921 for $16.75 a horse power, that it could at least be developed now for that figure. Why then should our industries have to pay tribute to the International Paper Company to the tune of four or five dollars a horse power above what their own engineers reported in 1921? These figures conclusively show that our engineers were right in estimating the cost of horse power in 1925.

PRICES OF HYDRO POWER.

"Those opposed to public ownership are making the claim that the development under private ownership can be made a great deal cheaper and consequently sold to the industries and for other uses at a cheaper rate than under public ownership.

"Such a contention is absolutely contrary to the facts. The proof can readily be found for my statement by an examination of operation of hydro in the province of Ontario, where the government controls about 1,500,000 horse power, and is still seeking to increase it because the demand is so great that they are running short of power very rapidly.

"I have been in communication with several large concerns in Quebec, who own hydro development and have obtained from them prices in various sections of that province. I find the following:

QUEBEC POWER COSTS.

"The Quebec Power Company sells blocks of power to industries of 1,000 h.p. and upwards of the rate of, based on three cents per k. w. h. for first 50 hours use of maximum demand per month. One cent per k. w. h. for the next 50 hours use and one half cent per k. w. h. for next two hundred hours and three mills for balance of consumption. In all cases a maximum demand metre is installed and charges are based on not less than 75 per cent. of the contracted amount. To all this is added a service charge of $1 per horse power per month. This is equivalent to about $40 per h. p.

"Montreal Light, Heat and Power Co., in Montreal district, large blocks of power are sold on basis of fixed flat charge based on maximum demand plus metre-rate for kilowatt hour usage. Cost per horse power year varies between minimum of $12 and maximum of $35, depending altogether on load factor and hours of use.

"Power plant situated outside city of Montreal, in blocks of 1,000 horse power and up electrical power is today being sold in Quebec at from $25 to $40 per horse power of maximum demand, depending on locality, hours and conditions of use. Maximum demand determined as highest integrated peak over any period of 20 consecutive minutes. Power factor 90 per cent. and 30¢. Contracts for five years or over.

"Ontario public ownership prices. The prices for industries in Ontario run from $18.50 to $30, according to distances of transmission and other local conditions. For instance at Ottawa power from the Chaudiere hydro is sold for $13.72 without high tension transmission lines to construct to the border of the city.

PRICES IN NEW BRUNSWICK. "The development of Grand Falls by the government of New Brunswick would permit the sale of hydro at the bus-bar at a price that would not exceed $14 a horse power. It could be transmitted over the high tension lines to Fredericton, Bathurst, Campbellton, etc., for a good deal less than $16 a horse power, thus giving to industries horse power at a distance from the power plant at a figure less than $28 a horse power. Industries today using a combination of hydro and steam generation of electrical power are doing so at a cost far in excess of $30 per horse power. With such an advantage in favor of Grand Falls development New Brunswick industries could readily compete with similar industries in Quebec or Ontario. When the development would be completed and the high tension lines erected throughout the province, the increasing volume of business would warrant an even lower rate per horse power to industries than that which would be charged in the inception of the enterprise.

DEALS WITH MEASURES. Dealing with the two bills before the House, Hon. Dr. Veniot said: "The bill incorporating the Saint John River Power Company is a distinct departure from the principle of public ownership, inasmuch as it passes the control of the most valuable water power development in this province over to a private corporation.

My intention is to deal with the principle involved in the action of the former Government and the departure therefrom as a result of the decision of the present Government to adopt the policy of private development of our water powers and in doing so review the actions of both the Hydro Commission and the Government in their efforts to convince the public that private ownership is the policy best suited to our province.

In reading this bill I am forced to the conclusion that the Grand Falls proposition will be in the very unsatisfactory position it was previous to the date when the Government in 1923 had courage enough to cancel the lease of the company and prepare for Government development. Up to that date the company, during a period of 13 years, did nothing except to kidnap the proposition. When pressed to develop, they always found some excuse and obtained delay upon delay. Always prepared to risk the forfeiture of their cash deposit made as evidence of good faith. Finally the company took one chance too many and in the public interest that cash deposit was forfeited for non-

There were two ways in which horse power was spoken of, one was primary, or continuous horse power, and the other was secondary, or more properly, 12-hour horse power, usually termed electrical horse power, in all probability. The figures which the honorable gentleman had quoted in regard to horse power elsewhere were for electrical horse power. He would point out that in the agreement between the Saint John River Company and Fraser Companies, Limited, as provided in the schedule to the bill before the house the price named ($20) was for continuous horse power, which would be $10 for electrical horse power and therefore much cheaper than the price quoted by his honorable friend as having been proposed some years ago, and which he thought should now be obtainable, namely, $10 per horse power.

REPORTS COMPARED. His honorable friend had spent some time in comparing reports made by Mr. H. G. Acres, evidently wishing the inference to be drawn that his report to this government contradicted his former statements. He would say that the value of a report depended upon the facts upon which it was based. From different angles of investigation the two reports quoted might both be accurate. At any rate he could say that the simple reading of the agreement justified Mr. Acres in his report to the present government. The various facts to which his honorable friend had referred in connection with Grand Falls, the present government had had in a most laborious form. He had given the various reports in regard to sewage, etc., most careful consideration. In conjunction with the members of the Hydro Commission and the only opinion which could be formed was that Grand Falls could not be developed upon for more than 40,000 horse power.

FACTS ARE DOUBTFUL. Notwithstanding all the evidence which his honorable friend had produced the facts which he presented were in many ways somewhat doubtful, and he (Baxter) considered that this government had not been placed in power to gamble on doubtful facts. Therefore, he said, they were tying this development to definite, well-known facts, the brains of the country it was wrong to entertain definite agreements. His honorable friend had said it was wrong to tie up the powers of Grand Falls to a few industries and that it should mainly be reserved to develop all sorts of industries, large or small, throughout the province. He maintained, COMPANY GETS CHARTER. "This new company is given a charter which contains power to do almost anything under the sun except give a positive assurance that Grand Falls will be developed. Section 24 of this bill contains what can be styled a magnificent attempt at perpetrating a huge joke on the public.

BAXTER REPLIES. Hon. Mr. Baxter, replying to Mr. Veniot, said that gentleman had spent time and energy with an eloquence of which he was so well the master, in giving the house a most wonderful disclosure. He had treated, not only on the subject matter of the bill, but had taken his hearers to Musquash and treated them to the details of the management of that project. He felt he could not resist anything like it, and was at a loss to know how to pick up the anaconda, perhaps it had better be by the tail. The honorable gentleman would like to make his hearers believe that he was much more conversant with facts than his opponents, and he had the peculiar faculty of treating what he termed "facts" in such a way as to make matters appear other than they sometimes were. He had stressed the tragedy of this unfortunate province where electrical energy could not be had for $10 per horse power.

MATTER OF HORSE POWER. There was one little fact in this connection, however, that he did not stress.

CONTRACT FOR SALE OF POWER TO THE FRASER COMPANIES AND THE INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY AND THE N. B. ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION SHALL NOT BE SUBJECT TO REVIEW OR TO ANY REGULATORY JURISDICTION BY THE BOARD OF PUBLIC UTILITIES OR BY ANY AUTHORITY FROM THE PROVINCE WITHOUT THE CONSENT OF THE COMPANY.

GIVING AWAY ASSET. "The province is giving away a valuable asset and has nothing whatever to say in its administration or future actions without the consent of this company. Even in the matter of the amount of energy reserved for the use of the province there shall be no regulatory jurisdiction except with the consent of the company. Is it possible to more securely tie the hands of the province?"

"But let me further point out that section 25 defines to what use the quantity of energy reserved to the province shall be put. Why not go one step further and complete the farce by giving this company control of the government?"

"OUTRAGEOUS CLAUSE." "But one of the most outrageous clauses in the bill is to be found in section 22, where, in the event of the province desiring to develop any water powers below the Grand Falls, on the Saint John River, the province shall pay tribute to this company at a rate not to exceed $2 per horse power for benefits accruing to such development as a result of the development at Grand Falls. Surely such a clause will never be enacted. Is this what the Premier meant when he assured the House that the interests of the province would be fully protected? Why should we give away right and franchise and then be required to pay dearly for benefits that may accrue from the extremely generous action of the government?"

"All the plans prepared by the former government are made available to the new company. I understand these plans will be followed with exception of a few changes necessary to meet what I might call the lesser development."

"In view of the oft repeated charge that our plans could not be relied upon because of insufficient information, the acceptance of these plans now somewhat throws a money wrench into the machinery used to convince the public that we were not justified in going on with Grand Falls development."

THIRD CHOICE. Mr. Tilley really was a third choice, although that did not detract from his high standing as a legal authority. No matter what Mr. Tilley might have stated in reference to other parts of the old contract he certainly said in reference to the paragraph dealing with the matter that the Fraser Companies and everyone else would give wide employment, thus distributing much money and enabling the workers to get light and other luxuries if they so desired. It was not the present policy to offer a man light when he had no money to pay for it.

CAMPAIGN PROMISES. During the campaign speakers on behalf of the old government had girded the whole province with twinkling electric lights—a very pretty panorama which would come into existence to pay for them? The present government was trying to turn the power into light and other luxuries if they so desired. It was not the present policy to offer a man light when he had no money to pay for it.

STAND OF GOVERNMENT. It was well known that this government stood for private development of power. Under the bill before the house the International Paper Company undertakes to develop the power and has reluctantly agreed to give power to other users. It had taken months of negotiations to secure in an agreement whereby the manufacture of the forest products on the immense holdings of the Fraser Companies might be served. Much time and many conferences had been involved and yet his honorable friend had insisted at the expenses incurred by the hydro commission in this connection. These negotiations had been pushed as rapidly as possible and the agreement was only concluded a few days ago. If he had had his way when the bills would have been ready at the opening of the session, but he could assure the house that no business would be rushed through and the house would be kept sitting until everyone had had the fullest opportunity to discuss every single item of the legislation. It was not government legislation and was therefore susceptible to taxation and all suggestions would be welcome.

BETTER THAN PREDICTED. He thought, however, that when the bills and schedules came to be studied the conditions would be found much better than the leader of the opposition had predicted. He would call attention of the house to Schedule B, providing for the agreement between the Saint John River Power Company and the Fraser Companies. This became a part of the bill and therefore would be noticed that under the agreement the power company had to furnish 20,000 horse power to Frasers within two years and Frasers had to accept the same. Of this quantity 13,000 horse power was to be continuous and 7,000 horse power of the secondary class. The question might be asked, why did the Frasers take less than 20,000 continuous horse power? The answer was that it was FEARED THERE WAS NOT ENOUGH IN SIGHT FOR BOTH COMPANIES, AND THEREFORE PRECAUTIONS HAD TO BE TAKEN.

GOVERNMENT CRITICIZED. His honorable friends had criticized this government because they had not exacted a new deposit as a guarantee of good faith from the company, but had allowed the $50,000 originally held in trust by the government from the old Grand Falls Company to stand although it had been forfeited. As a matter of fact, by the legislation which his honorable friend had passed this $50,000 could not be forfeited. Therefore it was still the property of the International Paper Company and as such was being held as a trust fund and would be forfeited if necessary should there be any failure in regard to carrying out the contracts.

He would repeat the only reason that this $50,000 had not been put into the revenue of the province was because of the honorable gentleman's own legislation preventing it.

ANOTHER COMPLAINT. His honorable friend had also complained because Public Utilities did not have control in connection with the Fraser contract. This was not considered necessary as it was purely a matter between corporations. In so far, however, as the sale of power to the public was concerned the Public Utilities governed. The province required all the industries that could profitably be promoted and conducted, and what could be better than to get an immense organization like the International Paper Company to come here and spend their money in the development of industries based upon our natural products. He conceived it to be the duty of governments to assist in developing work for the people and not to drive them away by vexatious legislation.

TO START THIS SPRING. His honorable friend had said there was nothing to prevent the International Paper Company from backing out and leaving the proposition where it was years ago. But if he would study the agreement with the Fraser Company he would know, as he believed he did now know, that work would start on this development this spring and be carried through with all possible dispatch to fill the terms of the agreement. His honorable friend had been carried away with exuberances of diction in trying to make a case against this bill, but he felt that when the House and country came to know its provisions they would agree that it was one of the best pieces of legislation yet brought forward for consideration. Through it the Government was bringing back hope to the people of New Brunswick—industrial hope for a great future.

The bill was read a second time.

Plantol Soap

This simple treatment has made more lovely complexions than all other beauty treatments put together

Skin beauty and skin cleanliness go hand in hand. Yet there are so many women who do not seem to realize this. Or else many who are using harmful rather than helpful soaps. Thousands more could have real complexion beauty—if they but followed this simple treatment.

First bathe the face and hands in warm water—not hot—with a soap as pure and mild as Plantol—that lathers softly, richly—that penetrates and cleanses the pores, without irritating them. Then, with warm water alone, to rinse the lather off. Then cold water, cold as snow, to close the pores and give the skin that fine smooth coolness that holds a glow under its whiteness.

This simple beauty treatment will make you more lovely—and it costs hardly two cents a week!

A skin kept clean is always clear

WESTMORLAND HEALTH BOARD HOLDS SESSION

Much Discussion Over Matter of Piggeries and Fox Ranches

MAYOR ASKS QUERIES REGARDING MILK

Shediac Inspector and Assistant Dismissed and Successors Appointed

MONCTON, April 23—The Board of Health of the sub-district of Westmorland, held its meeting in the city building yesterday with Dr. F. J. Desmond in the chair.

The secretary's interim report was read and accepted. Several letters were read, one dealing with a man living at Green Hill, whose case had been investigated and the facts submitted to the attorney-general. No action was taken in this case.

CLAIM ORDERED PAID

A Shediac action for damages, sustained by a resident of that place whose house and furniture had been damaged, presumably while fumigating was in process, and which had been investigated by Dr. Robidoux, received consideration. Dr. Bourque moved that a sum be paid. This was carried.

A reply regarding unsanitary plumbing in an Archibald street dwelling was received. There had been a violation of the health rules in the usage of certain fixtures, and the contractor's attention had been drawn to this matter, and in their reply, which the secretary read, they declared that with the repairs that had been done, the sanitary conditions should be improved 100 per cent. Mayor Wheeler said that he had heard of no permit being issued by the city council for the above mentioned repairs, which had evidently been made last month.

Alderman Frechet made a motion that this plumbing company be instructed to take out a permit from the city. Motion carried.

NEW INSPECTOR WANTED

A petition was read, signed by seventy residents, that Ernest Crandall be appointed sanitary inspector for Salisbury and Petticoat district.

Considerable discussion followed, and the secretary said that he had received no complaints regarding the efficiency of the present inspector. It was moved by Dr. Bourque that this matter be left on the table until the next regular meeting. Carried.

The bills as read by the secretary were ordered paid.

Complaints were received regarding two piggeries in the suburb of Moncton and, as this matter had come before the board previously, no action was taken.

Secretary Northrup read a drafted amendment to the present regulation bearing on the question of piggeries and fox pens. The chairman explained more fully the object of proposed regulation.

Mayor Wheeler spoke of the proposed change and made a motion that a copy of the draft, excluding fox ranches, be prepared and mailed to members of the board, with this matter to be discussed at the next meeting.

Dr. Bourque said he was of the opinion that piggeries and fox ranches should not be mentioned in the same regulation, and he made a motion to the effect that fox ranches be eliminated for the present and that the proposed regulation apply only to piggeries.

Mr. George contended that piggeries could be made more sanitary, and he thought the pig business should be stimulated as it was one of the leading industries of the province.

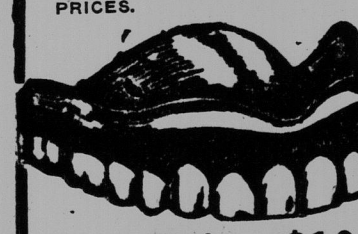

MAYOR'S QUERIES

Mayor Wheeler asked the following: The number of milk producers selling milk in the City of Moncton? How many licenses had been issued by the Board of Health to those selling milk in the city? If any of the milk producers and

Her Leg Broken At Supper Dance, Broker's Wife Sues Partner For $50,000 Balm

NEW YORK—A jury in the Supreme Court will decide in a few days whether a man who dances at a supper club with a woman partner, and falls on her and breaks her leg when he is alleged to be in no condition to dance, is to be held liable for her injuries. This was disclosed when suits brought in Queens County two years ago, by Russell Gomez, a stockbroker, and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Gomez, against William J. Wilkinson, a color printer, were transferred to New York. Mr. Wilkinson was divorced by Mrs. Elze Wilkinson several years ago after she had been accused of accepting the attentions of William F. Schlemmer, hardware merchant. Later Wilkinson married Marie Marietta, said to have been his stenographer.

MISS GOODWIN RECEIVES CLUB BAG ON EVE OF DEPARTURE FOR BOSTON

MONCTON, April 23—A surprise party in honor of Miss K. Goodwin, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Patterson, Union street, last evening proved to be a very pleasant function. Miss Goodwin was waited on by her many friends, which included a number of the staff of the T. Eaton Company, where she has been a valued employee for some time. She expects to leave on Saturday for Boston, where she intends to remain. During the evening Miss Goodwin was presented with a club bag and a musical program was carried out, after which dancing was indulged in and dainty refreshments served.

LAUDS CHARLESTON

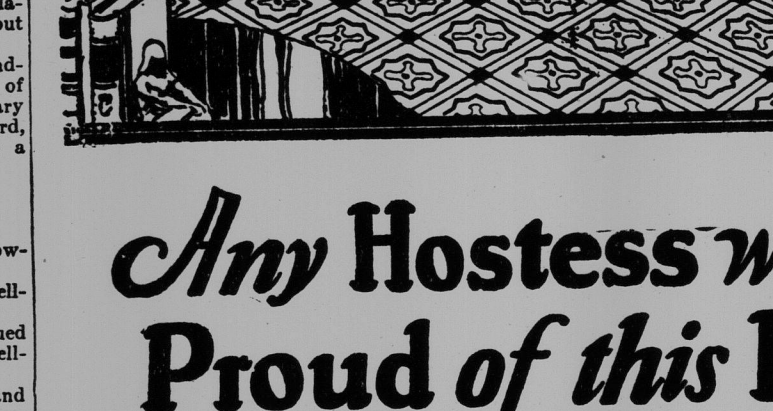

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 23—A Charleston a day keeps the doctor away. So advised Dr. Thomas O. Pierce, St. Joseph, Mo., addressing delegates to an osteopathic convention meeting here. "The Charleston dance is healthful and should be indulged in by every youth in America," he added.

those with dairies were also sanitary inspectors. Secretary Northrup said he was not in a position to give the required information off-hand, but he would look up the records and have same ready for next meeting.

INSPECTORS DISMISSED

Dr. Robidoux recommended that the present inspector and assistant inspector in the town of Shediac be notified their services would be no longer required. This was seconded and carried.

ON WALL STREET
NEW YORK, April 23—The unexpected decrease in the New York Federal Reserve Bank rediscout rate brought a flood of buying orders into the stock market overnight, with the result that opening prices displayed a strong tone. STORY OF ST. GEORGE.
The story of St. George the martyr, has thrilled uncounted generations. He was born at Lydda, in the Vale of Sharon, in A.D. 270, and as the Vale of Sharon was the seat of the Phoenician, St. George is the patron saint of England, the rose was taken as the English national flower. St. George took service under Diocletian, but when that Emperor persecuted the Christians, St. George openly defied him and suffered martyrdom at Nicomedia in Asia Minor, on his birthday, Good Friday, April 23, 303. A Cathedral was built over his tomb in the city of Lydda, and the city was renamed St. George. Since that time, St. George has been sacred to his memory, and on that day Englishmen throughout the world congratulate to honor to St. George and to their country. St. George's Day is also the anniversary of the British Navy's great feat at Zebra, where the harbor was blocked and the German submarines were trapped.

THE FAMOUS BANNER.
The banner of St. George, a red cross on a white field came into prominence during the Crusades, when England decided on a cross as its banner that of St. George was chosen. The banner of the soldier saint which still burns on your Banner white; Great race whose Empire of splendor Has dazzled a wondering world; May the flag that floats o'er thy wide domains Be long to all winds unfurled; Three crosses in concord ensigned, In battle the banner of our might; But the central gem of the ensign fair Is the cross of the dauntless knight. —S. H. SHARPOOTT WENSLEY.

Y.M.C.A. TEAM LEADS IN TOTAL PINFALL IN BOWLING TOURNAMENT

EASTPORT WINS TROPHY, HALIFAX IS RUNNER-UP

Winner Only Third In Pinfall For Championship Series

The bowling tournament for the championship of the Maritime Provinces and Eastern Maine and possession of the Brunswick-Bellefleur trophy for one year was captured by the Eastport team last evening in the closing stages of one of the most successful tournaments ever held, during which some record-breaking scores were made.

While the Halifax team failed to annex the trophy, they carried off practically every other honor except that of total pinfail for the series. Martell, of that team, was easily the star of the tournament as he secured the highest average with 111 1/2-2, the high single with 185, and the high three string with 977.

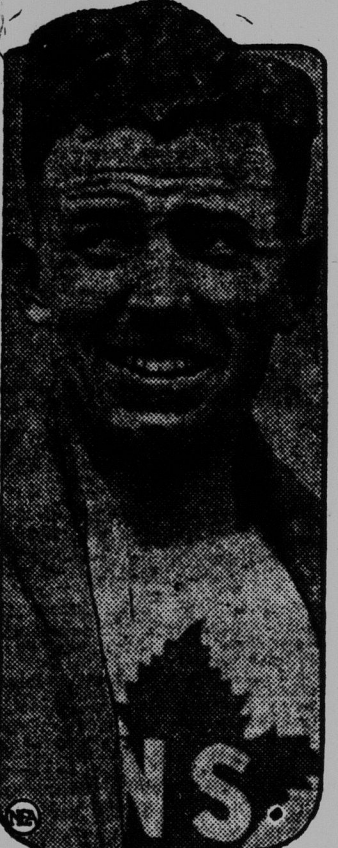

At the conclusion of the last game, the bowlers and their friends gathered in the Y. M. C. A. hall where the prizes were awarded by Joseph Coughlan, president of the association. After some brief addresses and musical selections, the gathering closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

The following are the individual scores for the games yesterday afternoon and evening.

Table with 3 columns: Player Name, Total Average, and Pinfall. Includes sections for ONE O'CLOCK, THREE O'CLOCK, and NINE O'CLOCK.

Veteran Stars Still Rule

Despite Numerous Rookies' Efforts To Usurp Crowns

By HENRY L. FARRELL NEW YORK, April 23.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, the most ancient of the baseball players in active service, have a stock answer to the question they are asked most frequently—"How long are you going to keep going?"

"Until some rookie comes up good enough to force me on the bench," they replied in their training camp down south. "There are none around here now so we'll have to keep going," they added.

Cobb recently started his twenty-first season of major league baseball and Speaker started his eighteenth and even if they are worn and weary of baseball there isn't a man in the major leagues that wouldn't like to have them around.

The records of these two great veterans have many things in common. They were both great outfielders, heavy hitters and extremely fast on their feet.

They are still great ball players, but years and usage have taken the toll in their legs and when a ball player's foundation crumbles his period of service reaches the end. The eye lasts longer than the legs, as can be shown by the list of heavy hitting former major leaguers in the minor leagues.

There are Wright, Traynor, Cuyler, Cochrane, Simmons, Frisch and others of the new school who have made fame in recent years, but it is surprising to note the number of aged veterans who are still among the leading players in the game.

Walter Johnson, as good a pitcher as can be found in baseball, is in his nineteenth year of big league baseball, all spent with the Washington Senators, and he hasn't slipped to any danger degree.

McGraw has made a record that probably never will be equalled unless Connie Mack has organized a team that will be good enough for a run of three or four years as manager of the Yankees.

Speaker has seen seventeen years of hard service and, as few young outfielders who can slug by balls with him. Speaker's uncanny judgment in the field.

MONCTON, April 22.—It is often said a storm follows a lull. This city tonight is in a lull, and it remains to be seen if the storm shall follow tomorrow for the semi-annual meeting of the M.P.B.A.A.U. of C. is to be held here Friday.

President S. F. Doyle, of Charlottetown; Fred Kelly, president of the M. A. H. of C. Corey, of Saint John, are here tonight, while other officials and delegates will arrive in the city tomorrow.

Dame runner here tonight is that the session is likely to be a "stormy" one, but as far back as one can remember, this has been the runner previous to the opening, but on many of these occasions the delegates have contented themselves very well, the sessions being quite ordinary. Several matters pertaining to the reinstatement of "canned amateurs" will be before the gathering.

HEAVY HITTERS COMMENCE HOME RUN CAMPAIGN

Todd, of Red Sox, and Hargrave, of Browns, Gets Two Apiece

NEW YORK, April 23.—The major league home run race appears to have started in earnest in two separate places yesterday, players of the Yankees and the Browns, who are the White Sox, although his team lost.

A member of the Yankees, broad shouldered with a powerful swing, now leads in the home run race. It is not Babe Ruth, but Pat Collins, the Cincinnati pitcher, who has the lead.

From College To Majors

ERNE NEVERS, California's football celebrity, is an excellent major league baseball prospect, in the opinion of George Siler, manager of the St. Louis Browns.

Attaining his reputation as a crushing fullback on the Stanford University grid squad Nevers, according to Siler, will not be forced to point to his gridiron ability on the ball field.

In a baseball uniform Nevers is a pitcher. And Siler's spring report is: "As good a pitching prospect as I have ever seen."

When Nevers reported to the Browns at their camp at Tarpon Springs, Fla., he was immediately recognized as a great football player. A week later the Browns' fence busters were looking at Nevers as a pitcher.

Nevers can be compared with Carl Mays and Grover Alexander in that he has Mays' hopping underhand ball and Alexander's side-whirl. When Ernie starts his submarine shot his right arm sweeps along a few inches from the ground. The side-arm shot comes from an angle between the shoulder and waist line.

All of the Browns are exceptionally enthusiastic about Nevers. "Of course, we will need a little time," remarked Siler, "but he is not going to be farmed out by me like other recruits for development in the minors. I don't think Ernie is that far away as a major league pitcher."

Nevers also started the Browns with his hitting. He swings from the right side, has a stance similar to Rog Hornby and almost the same perfect follow-through swing.

Ten innings were necessary for decision in the battle at Pittsburg. In the ninth inning, Chick Hafey scored the home run, driving in manager Hornby, to win the contest. Nevers pitched the last four innings, but kept them well distributed to win by 5 to 3.

NEVERS started for the Dodgers against the Giants but was peppered from all sides. He finally gave way to McWeeny and later Stryker entered the box, but the Giants won 11 to 4, by scoring in the ninth inning. Two triples by Menard had the Braves leading 5 to 2.

Dutch Reuther, of Washington, ably supported by Goslin and Rice, turned back the Mackmen 8 to 2. Several errors of omission were made by the Philadelphia Phillies.

HEAVY bats swung at Chicago where the White Sox overwhelmed the Braves, 11 to 7. Harris of the White Sox pitched two doubles and a triple. The Yanks and Red Sox staged a slugfest match which was ended in favor of Boston 9 to 5, by Todd's second homer of the day. Thomas, second baseman, and Shawkey, pitcher, were the Yanks in the ten inning contest, while Welser and Wingofield of the Phils. fought a draw with Frank Darren, Salt Lake City, 10 rounds.

Still Admits Colored Boxer's Claim For Chance At Title

NEW YORK, April 23.—George E. Brower, regarded as the "silent" member of the New York State Athletic Commission, will support a Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney heavy weight championship match "if it is found impossible to get the champion and Harry Wills together."

"Letter to have a Tunney-Dempsey match than none at all this year," is the way Brower puts it. "If there is any chance of getting a Wills-Tunney bout, I will support it however."

Brower's comment followed interviews with Chairman James A. Farley and William Muldoon of the commission, who were found to be on opposite sides regarding the questioning or disciplining Tex Rickard for signing Dempsey to a blanket contract at Fort Worth this week. Dempsey is regarded as an ineligible by the commission until he agrees to fight Wills.

Farley has held out all along for Wills, but Rickard at Fort Worth is quoted as saying: "Farley is not the only member of the New York Boxing Commission."

Muldoon said that he would be behind Rickard in staging the Tunney contest, and that he might be compelled to resign if things went the wrong way. Farley retorted that no matter how things went, he would remain a member of the commission.

London, April 23.—The earl of Devon, the birth of a royal princess and such other matters of great public interest are beginning to recede temporarily to the background, and Englishmen are turning their attention in earnest to the most momentous event of the week, the battle that is to be staged at the Wembley Stadium on Saturday afternoon to decide the possession of the English cup. The ears of the fans at the moment are riveted on the Lancashire seaside resort, and also on Buxton, the health resort in Derbyshire, where thousands of Canadians who returned during the war, where Manchester City, the other finalists, are sending out into contention.

These teams have already met in a cup final as far back as 1906, and on that occasion the honors went to Bolton. Three years ago Bolton again found themselves battling for the blue riband of the world's soccer, and once more they were victorious, defeating West Ham United. On Saturday, Bolton will field the same team that won them the cup three years ago, with the solitary exception of Finney, the left back who is being replaced by Greenhalgh. Finney is at present in a nursing home and will not be available for the game.

Finney is at present in a nursing home and will not be available for the game.

These teams have already met in a cup final as far back as 1906, and on that occasion the honors went to Bolton. Three years ago Bolton again found themselves battling for the blue riband of the world's soccer, and once more they were victorious, defeating West Ham United. On Saturday, Bolton will field the same team that won them the cup three years ago, with the solitary exception of Finney, the left back who is being replaced by Greenhalgh. Finney is at present in a nursing home and will not be available for the game.

PARISH PRIEST IS DEAD AT ORONO, ME.

Rev. Fr. Harrington Had Been Rector of St. Mary's For 26 Years

ORONO, Me., April 22.—Rev. John M. Harrington, one of the best known parish priests in this diocese, died yesterday in the parochial residence of the Church of St. Mary's of the Assumption, of which he had been rector for 26 years. He had been seriously ill for several weeks. He was in his 69th year, a native of County Cork, Ireland; studied extensively in France, taking degrees from two universities; was ordained at Poitiers and served a year in his home diocese before coming to America. After a time as chancellor of the diocese of Portland he served parishes in Rockland, Biddeford, Whitefield and Lewiston, then was sent to Orono 26 years ago. During his administration he built a handsome church parochial school and parochial residence, instituted a council of Knights of Columbus and took much active interest in civic matters. Two years ago he made a pilgrimage to Rome. He was a profound student not only of theology but history and literature and in many respects was considered as, perhaps, the most learned priest of the diocese. Two sisters survive, Miss Leonora Harrington of Winthrop, Highlands, Mass., and Mrs. Molly Connelly, who lives in Ireland. Funeral services will be held here Saturday morning at 10 o'clock with Bishop Murray, pontificate, and many other dignitaries in attendance. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery, Boston. A successful rummage sale was held on Tuesday and Wednesday at 12 Sydney street under the auspices of the Hebrew Ladies Aid. Mrs. Max Serenky, the president, was general convener and was assisted by members of the aid. The proceeds will be used for charitable work.

As Hiram Sees It

CLIFTON SPRINGS, N. Y.—Well, sir, this is the middle of April. When I was out in my gig in the park yesterday afternoon, the robins was singing in the big eliums—an' the grass was green—an' a feller was sowin' grass-seed in some bare places—an' another feller was flakin' up a flower bed—an' the sun was shinin' warm like it was a June day. Then 'las' night a blizzard swished its tail over the place an' this mornin' the green grass was covered with snow. It was all gone here noon today an' the gig party was out agin this afternoon in the sun. Beats all how quick the weather kin change round here—but we did hev a great week afore 'las' night's storm hit us. The red buds is out on the maples late here—but we did hev a great week afore 'las' night's storm hit us. EARLY DAYS AT ST. MATTHEW'S ARE RECALLED

Church History Given Last Evening At Anniversary Event. WORDS OF PRAISE FOR WORKERS SPOKEN. Hope of Large Church To Replace Present Avenue Structure.

The members of St. Matthew's Presbyterian church, Douglas avenue, continued the celebration of the church anniversary last evening by holding congregational reunions. Beautiful flowers were placed in front of the pulpit. Rev. Dr. J. A. Morrison conducted a devotional service after which John Stanton, chairman of the board of trustees, presided, and, on behalf of the trustees, presented a report of the management, extended a cordial welcome to all.

HISTORY OF CHURCH

He gave an interesting historical sketch of the church. On May 5, 1896, he said, the Presbytery granted permission to open a mission in the North End, which mission was first opened in Alexandra Temple of Honor Hall, Main street. On Jan. 18, 1898, the Presbytery appointed Hon. J. G. Forbes and W. H. Livingstone as provisional elders, J. R. Smith, E. E. Staples, C. Beers, H. S. French and Rev. H. H. Morton as the board of management, and to these names were later added J. Fraser Gregory, Henry Klein, David Magee and W. C. Whitaker. On April 4, 1898, the congregation decided to purchase the site on which the church now stands and immediately started to build. On Sept. 18, 1898, sacrament was dispensed at a church roll formed in Alexandra Hall. In December of that year the church was formally opened for public worship.

Mr. Stanton mentioned as those who were instrumental in the formation of the church Mrs. Burton, J. Fraser Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. David Magee, W. H. Livingstone and James B. Smith, who are still living. He conveyed greetings from Mrs. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Smith, Mrs. H. A. Doherty who were unable to be present. Mr. Stanton said that when he became chairman of the board of trustees there was a mortgage of $1,800 on the church building but this had been wiped out. Since he had taken office new pews had been put in the church, new gowns had been donated and within the last year a new heating apparatus had been installed.

SPIRITUAL PHASE

Rev. Dr. Morrison spoke of the spiritual foundation of the church and warmly praised the board of trustees, J. Fraser Gregory, the West Side Women's Club, the Ladies' Aid of St. Matthew's church, the Sunday school and its excellent staff of teachers, the board of session with its two chorale members, Dr. G. G. Corbett and James Scott. Dr. Morrison said that all these organizations were united for the common good of the church of their fathers and were all working for the glory of God. He was grateful to Miss Frances Murdoch and Miss Olivia Gregory for their assistance in the singing in the church and to the young men for renovating the church. Dr. Morrison said that when he accepted the call to St. Matthew's church he did not accept the $400 mission grant which had formerly been given to support the minister's stipend. He felt that there was something more than money to be considered. His aim was to build up the church.

MR. GREGORY SPEAKS

J. Fraser Gregory told some interesting things in connection with St. Matthew's. The lot of land for the church, he said, extended half way to the Strait shore and the reason why the church had been built along the roadside was because it was hoped eventually to build a more elaborate structure on the site and to move the present church to the rear to be used as a Sunday school. When the church building was started there was only $30 in the fund, he said, but plenty of labor was volunteered. The following week the basement had been built and $1,200 was realized. At that time one of the best friends of the congregation had been Judge Gregory who donated the pulpit and pulpit furniture.

Mr. Gregory spoke of the architectural features of the church and said that only three weeks ago he had sent the plans of St. Matthew's to Toronto to be used as a model in erecting new churches for Presbyterian congregations which had lost their church homes. He said also that St. Matthew's had adherents in all parts of the city, and the congregation still hoped for the erection of a new church building. Mr. Gregory spoke of his personal pride in St. Matthew's and hoped to see it increase in numbers and prosperity.

FORMER MINISTERS

John Willet, K. C. gave an interesting address and named the following ministers who had served in St. Matthew's: Rev. H. H. Morton, Rev. A. H. Foster, Rev. J. J. McCaskill, Rev. J. Hardwick, Rev. W. H. Spencer, Rev. Mr. Elsenor, Rev. W. J. Britton and Rev. Dr. J. A. Morrison, the present minister. Mr. Willet paid glowing tribute to Dr. Morrison and urged the congregation to stand by their minister and to assist him in upbuilding the church.
