THIRD CONTINGENT

Imperial Authorities Accept
Canada's Offer.

SIX HUNDRED.

Mounted Troops to be Despatched to South Africa.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The war office announced today that it has accepted Canada's offer of 600 mounted men for service in South Africa.

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—Although the government general had not received up to this evening any official cable from the imperial authorities notifying the Canadian government that their offer of 600 mounted infantry for service in South Africa had been accepted, it is learned that the Associated Press despatch of Saturday saying that the offer was accepted by the war office, has been confirmed by a private cable today to the government from London. This explains the cause of Dr. Borden calling upon Major General O'Grady-Haly this evening and spending an hour or so with the commanding officer of the militia. The minister of militia was asked by your correspondent if he had anything to say about this offer. He replied that he had no official information upon the subject but he was pretty well satisfied that the press cable was correct and therefore the department was preparing to be in readiness to send forward the troops without any delay.

Major Woodside, the census commissioner for the Yukon, has offered his service to go to South Africa.

Hon. Dr. Borden being interviewed the other day by a Conservative newspaper was asked if the war office would equip the mounted force it is proposed to send to South Africa.

"No," replied the minister, "we shall do all that. We shall furnish the horses, the arms and equipment complete, even to the tent, so that when the force lands in South Africa it will be ready to take the field."

This is perfectly correct as far as it goes, but the impression is conveyed that Canada in addition to doing all this work will also foot the bill. Such is not the case. There is no appropriation for such an expenditure and without the sanction of parliament the government could not undertake it. The reasons given for defraying the cost of the first contingents without consulting parliament do not exist today and the minister did not mean to convey the idea that the Canadian government intends in the present instance to pay the cost. The whole machinery of the department of militia will be placed at the disposal of the British government for raising the troops, but whatever costs will be incurred they will be charged to the imperial authorities just in the same way as were the bills for the South African constabulary. That at any rate was the decision which the cabinet had reached in making the offer and inquiry in government circles since does not indicate that there had been any change. Hon. Mr. Borden authorizes a correction of the statement attributed to him. He says that he was not correctly reported.

Later.

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—A cable was received from the high commissioner in London, England, tonight saying that Canada's offer of 600 mounted infantry had been accepted by the war office.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Major Merritt has returned from Ottawa, whither he went to interview the premier and minister of militia relative to the offer of Canadian troops. He expressed the opinion that corps will be recruited in Canada, but that the Canadian government would not bear the expense of the expedition. The government's offer was merely a substitution of Major Merritt's offer made to the war office some time ago with additional understanding that appointments of officers be made by Canadian authorities. Major Merritt's visit to Ottawa had to do with his offer to recruit South Africa corps and command it, but it is hardly likely he will get the appointment, as there are strong grounds, for belief Col. Evans, of Winnipeg will be chosen.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—This morning's despatches from South Africa show that the recent fighting near Villiersdorp, south-west of Standerton, as to which Lord Kitchener reported nothing beyond the fact that Commandant Buys had been captured after attacking a patrol of 100 railroad pioneers, was really a serious affair.

It seems that Grobelaar's command succeeded in surrounding and capturing 100 British Cape railway pioneers. Subsequently Col. Rimington came up with reinforcements and, after heavy fighting, compelled the Boers to retire and to release their prisoners. The British losses included Major Fisher killed and three officers wounded. The casualties among the men have not yet been reported.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Lord Durham, in presenting medals to the volunteers at Durham today, said that although he had ceased to support the ministry, he considered

Will Bombard Colon Today.

Warship Will Begin at Noon Attack on the Town Captured by the Liberals—Powers Represented are Notified.

Colon, Colombia, Nov. 24.—As a result of an exchange of notes between the United States gunboat Machias and the Colombian gunboat General Pinzon, Ignacio Foliaco, commanding the Pinzon, which has 600 men on board, has officially notified the American, British and French warships now in the harbor that he intends to bombard tomorrow (Monday), thus giving 24 hours' notice.

The various consuls are notifying their respective fellow citizens that refuge may be had on board the warships.

Braswork are being erected in the public thoroughfares of Panama. The townsfolk in the vicinity of these are hastily removing to safer places.

All persons known to be Liberals are arrested on sight. The government has declared its intention to contest every inch of ground if an entrance to the city is effected.

The Boyaca returned to Panama a second time yesterday afternoon, with General Alban and a few men. The government claims to have effected a landing at Chorrera routing the enemy and recovering all the prisoners previously reported taken, with the exception of two. Among the number recovered, according to the government version, is the aide-de-camp of Taboga.

The Liberal version of the incident is that the alcade was afraid to fight, and when captured, offered Domingo Diaz, the Liberal leader, $1,000 if he would release him, that the offer was accepted and the alcade was allowed to go away giving his word of honor not to attempt to escape. The Liberals also assert that General Alban effected a landing at Chorrera after the Liberals had withdrawn to join the Liberal force marching to the Empire station.

A New England Storm.

New York, Nov. 24.—The storm of last night and today did considerable damage. Windows in the upper part of the city were blown in and a few roofs were taken off. The greatest damage was along West street fronting the North River, where numerous cellars were flooded. The rapid transit tunnel was flooded in many places.

CHATHAM, Mass., Nov. 24.—The worst storm of the winter has been in progress here all day, the wind blowing from the northeast 45 miles an hour. The wind is still prevailing, but changed at sunset to northwest.

BANGOR, Nov. 24.—A strong east wind has been blowing here all day and at ten p. m. rain began falling. The indications now are that the port of Bangor will remain open for some days yet—probably a week or two.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman a fool if he believed the British soldiers in South Africa guilty of the barbarism and loathsome behavior alleged against them. If he made the charges for partisan purposes, to discredit the ministry, he was a knave. Lord Durham, further declared he would not make Sir Henry the premier if he could do so by spending sixpence or lifting a finger.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—With reference to the story that the British placed Boer women and children in front during the fighting at Graspan June 6, when General DeWet's convoy was captured—a story which has been spread broadcast on the continent as an example of British barbarity—the Daily Mail sent a despatch of inquiry to Lord Kitchener, who replied as follows:

"The statement is absolutely untrue and devoid of all foundation. One child was killed and one woman and child were wounded by the Boers."

As this story has been prominent in the recent anti-Chamberlain campaign in Germany, the Daily Mail has telegraphed Lord Kitchener's reply to all the leading German papers.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—The government is yet without official notification from the imperial authorities of the acceptance of Canada's offer of a mounted force, but preparations for its organization are already under way. Hon. Dr. Borden and Deputy Minister Pinault have returned from Montreal, and it is said tentative arrangements have been made with the Elder-Dempster company to transport the force to South Africa, the steamer to sail the first week of January.

TORONTO, Nov. 25.—The Evening Telegram's London cable says: "Canada's offer of mounted troops, six hundred men, most favorably commented on by evening papers. The Globe says the action is especially significant and speaks of welcome just now. The St. James Gazette says no better soldiers can be had than these hardy men, who are the best of riders and the best of shots."

MONTREAL, Nov. 25.—Many applications were made at the local brigadier's office today by men desirous of going to South Africa with the next contingent.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 25.—C. E. Evans has returned from inspecting armories in his district. He says he will accept command of the mounted Canadians for South Africa offered to him. He states he has already received many applications from incoming recruits.

STORM AND WIND.

Severe Storm With Easterly
Wind.

FLOODED STREETS

And Cellars in Newcastle, and Chatham, Goods Damaged.

The storm which started early Monday morning developed into a regular old-fashioned nor'easter and snow fell steadily all day. The high wind made an unusually high tide and the streets on the lower levels of the town were flooded and cellars on Castle street were flooded and considerable damage done.

Along Castle street the most damage was done. Frank Masson's tinmith shop was flooded, about four inches of water covering the floor.

John Ferguson had a quantity of telegraph poles floated up the street but none were lost.

The water entered Mr. Hickson's office but very little damage was done. At the mill no lumber was lost but the mill yard was flooded.

H. Wyse only suffered to a small extent. His out houses were flooded and wharf torn up.

Mr. Russell & Son lost about ten cords of firewood and slight damage to wharf property.

On the public wharf not much damage was done but water rose up to level of J. A. Rundle's flour and feed warehouse floor.

There was six inches of water in Mr. Call's warehouse and the covering of the wharf was lifted. Mr. Call and clerks did not get out of the building until the tide fell.

G. A. Lounsbury & Co's warehouse was flooded, but no damage was done. A quantity of hay had to be shifted.

The water entered Mr. O'Grady's cellar but everything had been removed and not much damage was done.

In Chatham the wharfs were flooded and considerable damage was done.

At Middle Island, light keeper Curtis, fearing disastrous results placed all his household effects on the second story and took his family to the mainland.

There is no doubt but that a large amount of damage has been done along the coast and it is probable that as soon as communications are again established word of destruction and flood will be the order of the day.

The Nelson's passengers had to be landed at Chatham in small boats as there was a foot of water on the wharf.

In conversation with Col. Call he stated that this tide was the highest for about twenty five years but that on November 11th, 1875, a tide 11 inches higher than the one of Monday night flooded the streets of the town and did an immense amount of damage along the river.

Yesterday the town had men engaged clearing off the drift wood, etc. that was scattered about the streets.

During the progress of the tide numerous rats were seen endeavoring to reach a place of safety and the small boys had some excitement snow balling and chasing them.

MONROE DOCTRINE MAKES FOR PEACE.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The most important position in to-morrow's edition of the Spectator will be occupied by a discussion of a proposal that Great Britain should give its formal adherence to the Monroe Doctrine. The Spectator will say:

"If America will define the Monroe doctrine why should we not pledge ourselves not to renege upon it. When we had acknowledged this doctrine, America might propose to the rest of the Powers for endorsement. If she did the Powers could hardly refuse. If they adhered, their adhesion would be of great use, not to America but to the cause of peace, for it would eliminate a great many of the notable causes of war."

"If the Monroe doctrine became part of the public law of the civilized world, the risk of a war breaking out with regard to European interference in Brazil or Spanish America, now always a possibility, would then pass away. Possibly no other Power but Great Britain would at first be willing to recognize the Monroe doctrine as binding. Even so, it would be worth our while to pledge our line to respect it for we never mean to attack that doctrine, and sooner or later our example will probably be followed by other powers."

The Spectator will also approve the canal treaty and in another article on Secretary Hay's foreign policy, the paper will say:

"No country in the world can show two greater or weather statesmen than President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay."

Coughs, colds, hoarse voices, and other throat ailments are quickly relieved by Vapo-Cresolene tablets, ten cents per box. All druggists.

A Teamster's Story.

SUFFERED GREATLY FROM ASTHMA AND KIDNEY TROUBLES

Spent Some Time in a Hospital and Almost Impoverished Himself Buying Medicine Without Benefit—Again Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured At Other Medicines Fail.

From the Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. William Cochran, a well known teamster, who lives near the Helix Polo Grounds, is one of those who willingly bear testimony to the curative powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A reporter of the Acadian Recorder who had heard of Mr. Cochran's sufferings and subsequent cure, called at his home, when he gave an account of his experience substantially as follows:—He had for many years been a constant sufferer from asthma, accompanied by an aggravated form of kidney trouble. The latter trouble caused severe pains in the back and loins, and at times his sufferings were very acute. He said he had almost impoverished himself in buying medicines of all kinds, but to no purpose; the trouble continued and seemed to grow worse as the years passed. Mrs. Cochran said that she had frequently seen her husband choke up and fall to the floor as though dead, and he would have to be worked with and rolled around before he would revive. A few years ago he spent ten days in the Victoria General Hospital. The doctors then thought that the pains in the back were due to over exertion in his business as a teamster, but gave him no material help. After leaving the hospital, he used bottles and bottles of medicine but failed to find a cure. A neighbor of his, Mr. Lowe whose wife had been made a well woman after years of sickness, by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, advised him to try them. He used a couple of boxes without apparent result and felt somewhat discouraged, but Mr. Lowe advised him to continue the use of pills, and before the third box was finished, he began to improve. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a Godsend to me said Mr. Cochran; they are the only medicine I have taken which seemed to do me any good. I had one prescription from a doctor which cost me $1.75 a bottle, which like many other medicines I took, was just so much money wasted. I have used eight or ten boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and can say that before I began their use life was an intolerable burden. I have reason to be thankful that I followed the friendly advice that urged me to use this medicine.

Most diseases have their origin in poor blood or weak nerves, and it is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood and strengthen the nerves that they have met with such success in curing kidney trouble, rheumatism, paralysis, St. Vitus dance, anaemia, nervous prostration and kindred troubles. See that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is on every wrapper around each box. If in doubt, send direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be mailed post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

New Color in the Cheeks Richness in the Blood

And Health, Vigor and Strength in the Whole System When Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is Used.

Pallor of the gums, lips and inside of eyelids, nervousness, weakness, indigestion, headache and despondency are the symptoms common to chlorosis and anaemia. These symptoms indicate that the blood is thin and watery, and does not contain sufficient nourishment—symptoms that disappear when Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used to build up the body and fill the shrivelled arteries with rich, red, life-sustaining blood. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a special formula devised especially for all diseases arising from an exhausted condition of the blood and nerves, and has proved signally successful as a cure for anaemia and chlorosis. In fact it cannot fail to cure these ailments, because it goes directly to form new red corpuscles in the blood, and so nourishes and restores the system to health and vigor. It is of incalculable worth to women suffering from the weaknesses and irregularities peculiar to their sex, and is evidenced by the grateful testimonials published from time to time in the daily press.

LIBERALS TAKE THE CAPITAL.

The Liberals Make an Unexpected Attack on Colon, Columbia, Tuesday.

COLON, C.M., Nov. 20.—The Liberals made an unexpected attack on Colon at eight o'clock last night. The Government was not prepared and there was little resistance. After some fighting in front of the Quartel and in certain streets for an hour and a half the Liberals gained possession of all the public offices and the town of Colon.

The perfect Guardia is a prisoner. Over twelve men were killed and about thirty men were wounded. The United States gunboat Machias, now here took no part in the proceedings.

Colon, Columbia, Nov. 20.—On receipt of news that Gen. Alban, the military commander of the Isthmus had started to attack the Liberals at Chorrera, near Panama, the latter detached 160 men under Gen. Platino to attack Colon. This force embarked on board a train from Panama to Colon Fredericko Berrera station at Las Cascades previously cutting off telegraphic communication across the Isthmus.

On arrived at the outskirts of Colon, where the Government usually maintain a small guard, they left the train and in the initial skirmish which began soon afterwards, Platino was killed.

The Command of the Liberals then devolved on Col. and they continued their march on Colon, there a few minutes after the train, the whole town.

VICTIMS OF SPORTSMEN

Five Lives Lost In Maine Woods.

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 18.—Although the last legislature passed a law imposing a maximum penalty of ten years' imprisonment, or a fine not exceeding $1,000, for negligence or carelessness which should result in the shooting of a human being by hunters, the record of such fatalities in this state during the present season is very heavy. A peculiarity of the situation is that in several of the accidents the shots have been fired by unknown persons. The record up to the present time shows that twelve persons have been shot by accident and that five of the victims have been either killed outright or wounded so that death death followed. In four instances the shots were fired by unknown persons. The persons who lost their lives are Henry McPheters, Milford, Me. W. C. Trickey, Dayton, Ohio. Louis Boker, Morshfield, Me. Frank Leonard, Frankfort, Me. John G. Weeks, Boston, Mass.

Thus far no steps have been taken as far as can be learned towards prosecution in any case, although the game wardens frequently have called public attention to the law.

How did your new house fare during that hard storm? Bad enough. My cistern was the only dry place in it.

The Government troops at Colon were outnumbered by the Liberals.

Fighting immediately began at the Quartel (Barracks) which was soon taken. There Senor Jaen, a judge of the criminal court, was killed and Senor Muskus, the district representative of the Department of the Interior was mortally wounded. Fighting subsequently occurred at the town hall, which was also taken by the Liberals. Among the prisoners captured by the Liberals there were the of the Perfect Guardia and the commandante police.

Senor Paredes, the mayor, managed to reach the gunboat Pinzon, which sailed last night for a destination unknown, probably Carthagena. The whole affair was over in less than three hours.

Communication with Panama was restored to-day. This reveals that no fighting has occurred there, that everything is quiet and that the city is still in the hands of the Government. The issue now entirely depends on the result of the, which is doubtless now occurring at Chorrera, news of which is anxiously awaited here.

The Liberals are now busy raising reinforcements locally. They are reported to have several hundred men at different railroad stations between Panama. The United States gunboat Machias landed a detachment of 100 marines here this morning. They are now guarding the railway station and other property of the road.

IN THIS LOCALITY

The medicine dealers in this place say that there is no preparation on the market to-day that has anything like such a reputation as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Would this extraordinary demand for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills continue and gradually increase if people were not being benefited and cured by their use? Certainly not. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

Father—Let me never hear of your disobeying me again. Son—I won't if I can help it. I didn't tell you this time.

WONDERS OF THE HEART

All the blood in the human body passes through the heart in about three minutes. The heart beats 70 times a second, 4200 times an hour, 100,800 times a day, throwing out 2½ ounces of blood a second, 656 lbs an hour, 7½ tons a day. It is only when supplied with pure, rich blood that the heart can accomplish this enormous amount of work and rebuild its own wasted tissues. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most effective treatment available for heart affections because it forms new, red corpuscles in the blood and gives to it that life sustaining quality which is necessary to the health of every organ.

Goggles—What's the matter, sonny?

A TRUE BRAIN FOOD

must replace the feeling of lassitude and mental tiredness by clearness and strength of mind. Not that it goes directly to the brain, but that it feeds the stomach and assimilated organs. No remedy yet discovered, possesses the marvellous brain strengthening power that Ferrozone has demonstrated in thousand of cases. Ferrozone does not stimulate the brain into a fitful glow, but by improving digestion, strengthening the nervous system, stimulating assimilation, new strength to the heart, it sends a stream of red vitalizing blood to the brain. Thus it is a true brain food. Ferrozone is sold by A. E. Shaw.

ANNOUNCEMENT.
In the future the publishers of the Advocate will render all advertising accounts monthly.

The Union Advocate,
ESTABLISHED 1867.

NEWCASTLE, NOVEMBER 27, 1901.

THE PERISCITE.

On Dec. 5th, 1901, the ratepayers and property holders of Newcastle will have the privilege of voting for or against the proposed systems of Waterworks, Electric Lights and Sewerage. We trust that every voter will consider the questions from an independent standpoint and not allow any selfish motive to influence their vote for or against the questions. The Advocate has invited discussion of these questions in its columns but none have been contributed which, we think, shows a lack of intense in this matter. Such ought not to be the case. Everyone ought to be interested in these questions and give it their earnest consideration.

A canvas that is being made against the proposed improvements is that a town like Newcastle has not the industries or business to make the system self supporting and thus the whole of the ratepayers will have to bear the burden by increased taxes. This may be the state of things at the present time, but if Newcastle is ever to forge to the front it must have some of the modern improvements. Modern men would fight shy of an eighteenth century town and go to one that has a few twentieth century improvements.

Insurance underwriters are already making enquiries and asking for copies of the engineer's report on the proposed system and there is not a doubt that if an adequate water system is installed that insurance rates will be reduced at least one-third.

The present dry season has been an object lesson for many and we are sure that with the very reasonable tariff as set forth in the Council's report, a large number of citizens would take the town's service and thus be sure of plenty of good clear water.

In reference to electric lights we believe that on that question the citizens are nearly unanimous that an up-to-date system is badly needed.

The Editor's Mail.

In the Editor's Mail column of the week, I Advocate dated Nov. 13. Citizens make a suggestion to the Provincial Government about the granting of lands to the N. B. boys who took up arms in the defence of the Empire. With all due respect for the boys who volunteered to fight the "Savage Boer" I think it was more love of adventure than patriotism that prompted most of the boys to go to South Africa.

I wonder would anything induce them to go back a second trip? I would heartily agree with Citizens were he to include all the young men of the labouring class particularly in the Northern Counties of this Province for if they continue emigrating to the United States and the Western part of the Dominion for two or three years at the rate they left this year the next census will show an alarming decrease in population. A common question is now asked, "What is the matter with Miramichi? Is it plague-stricken or is misgovernment the cause of the young flying from it as the "brave Canadians" few from South Africa?"

Our present Government gives the young men no choice in the matter and there is no inducement to stay. I will here state an incident that occurred under my notice a short time ago in the Parish of Blackville. Several young men of that place applied to the proper authorities (according to the laws governing crown lands) for 100 acres of lands, each paid $1.50 for application and seemingly because A. Gibson, had the land leased and a few small spruce stills remained on the ground the government ignored the application. Is this justice? They are breaking the laws laid down by themselves. I maintain that every young man born and bred in this country is entitled to 100 acres of land and if 'tis timber land, so much the better. Lumbering is the principal industry of the Miramichi and the few spruce or pine logs on a young man's grant may enable him to live while he is building a home and clearing a few acres for cultivation.

Hoping Mr. Editor the Government Officials will do something to encourage our young men to settle in their native place, (dear old Miramichi). I am,
Yours truly,
Young Man.

OVER THE WIRES.

Three Deaths in Hunting Down a Moonshiner.

OXFORD, Nov. 17.—John R. Montgomery, Deputy United States Marshall, and Deputy United States Marshal Hugh Montgomery, of Pontiac, left here yesterday to arrest Will Mathis, an alleged counterfeiter and moonshiner. Early this morning Mathis' house was found to have been burned to the ground. Two partially burned bodies were found in the ashes, and were identified as those of the deputy marshals. John Montgomery's horse has not been found and it is supposed that Mathis made his escape on him after the men had been killed and the house set afire. Mathis was indicted last summer for making and passing counterfeit money and was out on $2,000 bail. The principal witness against him was a negro living in the same neighborhood and a month ago the negro was assassinated.

A Third Contingent.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—Hon. Dr. Borden says the logical result of the correspondence between Canada and England will be that the Dominion will send a third contingent to South Africa. The six hundred mounted men will probably be under the command of Col. Evans.

Dishonor and Death.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—Herr Otto Gram, a director of the local bank at Leipzig, committed suicide today by shooting himself. His act was an indirect consequence of his firm connection with the recent bank failures in Leipzig.

South Africa.

MONTREAL, Nov. 21.—Advice received here today from South Africa state that a mutiny occurred among the horsemen on board the Allan line steamship Silician, which sailed from this port on October 13th for South Africa, with a cargo of horses for the British army. The officers of the ship quelled the mutiny and several of the leaders were placed in irons and handed over to the military authorities at Cape Town.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—A despatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria, Nov. 21, says, Commandant Buys has been captured after attacking a patrol of one hundred railroad pioneers on the Vaal River, near Villiersdorp.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Pretoria correspondent of the Standard reports as "a significant proof of the growing cleavage in the Boer ranks as a hopeful sign," the fact that an increasing number of ex-Burgers are joining the British forces in the field. He says that several such corps are now doing excellent work.

Guilt of Manslaughter.

John A. McCarthy, of Pagrawa, was found guilty of manslaughter by Judge Morse, Friday morning. At the request of the prisoner's counsel, sentence was postponed one week to allow the prisoner to settle his business affairs.

MORILE, Ala., Nov. 22.—The British barque Bismarck Wood from Rio Janeiro, in charge of mate Poe, arrived today and reports that on Nov. 18, the captain named Morris killed the steward. The boy was buried at sea.

The captain kept his cabin, pacing up and down. When informed that Sand Island Light was sighted on Nov. 22, he gave the order to anchor.

is all right, if you are too fat, and all wrong, if too thin already. Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion. Stop over-work, if you can, but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, and no other. If you have not tried it, send for free sample, it's a treatable taste will surprise you. SCOTT & BOWNE Chemists, Toronto.

Coughs

"My wife had a deep-seated cough for three years. I purchased two bottles of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, large size, and it cured her completely."
J. H. Burge, Macon, Ga.

Probably you know of cough medicines that relieve little coughs, all coughs, except deep ones! The medicine that has been curing the worst of deep coughs for sixty years is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Three sizes: No. 1, enough for an ordinary cold; No. 2, just right for bronchitis, hoarseness, hard cold, etc.; No. 3, most economical for chronic cases and to keep on hand.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal and
The Union Advocate.

A REMARKABLE OFFER!

Here is the best offer ever made in this community. By a very excellent arrangement made with the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal we are enabled to offer THE ADVOCATE and that great Family Paper, the Family Herald and Weekly Star, for one year for the small sum of $1.80 and include to each subscriber three beautiful premium pictures, of which the following is a brief description:

KING EDWARD VII.—True to life, a beautiful portrait size 18 x 24 inches, on beautiful heavy white satin finished paper for framing. This portrait has been taken since his accession to the throne, and is the very latest and best obtainable. It cannot be had except through the Family Herald and Weekly Star; each picture bears the King's autograph. This picture has the great merit of being the first taken after the King's accession, and has therefore an historical value that no other picture can possess.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA.—An exquisitely beautiful picture of the remarkably beautiful and good Queen Alexandra, also taken since the King's accession to the throne. It is the same size as that of the King, the two forming a handsome pair of pictures that alone would sell for many times the subscription price of paper and pictures.

No portrait of the King and Consort taken at the second or third wedding sittings can have one fraction of the value of the first. These go down to history.

THE DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE.—The Renowned Gainsborough Picture. Sold at auction sale in London twenty-five years ago for £10,000, stolen by clever thieves, hidden for over twenty-four years and delivered to its owner on payment of $25,000 reward and since sold to Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan for $75,000.

This, in brief, is the history of one of the premium pictures, which by a clever stroke of enterprise, the publishers of the Family Herald have secured for their subscribers. The picture is 22x28 in ten colors, and is reproduced line for line, color for color with the original. Copies of the reproduction are now sold in New York City, Montreal and Toronto for $12 each, and this the picture Family Herald subscribers are going to get absolutely free together with the pictures of the King and Queen.

Is this not big value? Call at the ADVOCATE Office and see samples of these beautiful pictures and the Family Herald. A handsome publication which is familiar to nearly everybody.

BUD'S FIRST RUN.

Or the Hero of No. 22. By Maitland Leroy Osborne.

Bud is superintendent of motive power now, and when he speaks things happen; but what I have in mind took place a good many years ago, when he was only a wiper in the round-house at Fairview, with hair like an October sunset, a snub nose and many freckles—though the latter were not often in evidence owing to the dirt. For wiping engines can, by no wild stretch of imagination, be classed as clean or easy work. It meant crawling like a rat under the bellies of the great iron horses; with a bunch of waste and a long-soured oil can, having his face and hands smeared with soot and dirt, ears full of ashes and hair full of grease, oil down his neck and a general sensation as of being rolled alternately in a dust heap and mud-puddle for twelve hours a day.

For exercise he was expected to break his back straining at the turn-table and helping the machinists to juggle heavy castings, and for recreation was allowed to do all the dirty and disagreeable work about the roundhouse that every one else shirked.

There were compensations however. When "Bud" was not too tired to indulge in visions of future glory, he dreamed of some day having the right side of an engine and being spoken to respectively by the master-mechanic and looked up to with awe by the frowsy-headed wipers who had sunk beneath his notice. And occasionally after he had labored diligently many weary months, the good-natured fireman of the fussy little switching engine would allow "Bud" to clamber up on the gangway and spell him for a half hour.

He began to find out the difference between an injector and a piston rod, absorbed intuitively the mysteries of the quadrant and the throttle, and at last—happy day!—was allowed to get his yearning clutch on the levers of a wheezy old freight engine and run her from the round-house down the track to the watering tank and when she had drank her fill, back her carefully up to her waiting train.

"Bud" was eighteen when he commenced wiping, bright and observant, strong and active, "respectful" to his superiors, and not given to needless talking. In eight months he had become thoroughly familiar with the outward and visible parts of a locomotive, understood the construction and working of a locomotive, understood the construction and working of the slide valve, injectors and air brakes and had begun to study the train sheet, the surest sign of the outcropping of ambition. Mason, the foreman of the round-house, had come to look on "Bud" as his reliable and most intelligent helper, and favored him accordingly.

Mason's dinners were usually brought to him every noon either by his wife or one of the younger children. But there came at last a red letter day for "Bud" when Nellie, the foreman's oldest daughter, tall, slender and brown-eyed, came picking her way daintily over the tangle of tracks at noon to the round-house with her father's dinner pail.

"Bud," crawling from beneath an engine, with oil can in hand, felt that the smoky, dingy place had suddenly become transfigured. Half-hidden behind the engine, he stole shy, wondering glances at the bright, happy face of the girl, at her neat, cool-looking dress and her soft white hands. She removed her wide-brimmed straw hat and seated herself by her father's side on the bench, after he had spread a bunch of clean waste to protect her dress from the dust and dirt, and "Bud," waked, fascinated, while they talked.

A few days later she came again and "Bud" being near at hand, Mason called to him good-naturedly, "Come here, 'Bud' and meet my girl."

"Bud" came, feeling the eyes of the world upon him, and suddenly he was conscious of his dirt-smeared face and hands and his torn and oil-stained clothes. But the girl appeared not to notice. She smiled frankly into his eyes and held out her hand. "Bud" stopped abruptly, blushed hotly under the coat of soot and grease and attempted furtively to wipe his hand upon a bunch of waste.

"Never mind the dirt," said the girl smilingly, still holding out her hand, and soon after a brief hesitation he grasped it.

Her white, soft, yet firm fingers lay in his own black ones for an instant, while their eyes exchanged a greeting.

Being a railroad man's daughter her earliest remembrance was of great shining, snorting iron horses that her father cared. In her heart she held the traditions of railroading secretly enshrined, and perhaps under the outer coat of dirt and grease on the face of the youth into whose eyes she looked, she saw something of the clean soul within.

She talked to him brightly, with a frank kindness that went straight to the lonely heart of the orphan boy who had grown up in the hard world of labor and had had no sister.

From that time forth "Bud" watched for her coming every day and studied the train sheet with renewed earnestness. It was not long before Mason asked him to dinner on Sunday. "Bud" went gladly, and for the first time Nellie saw him with a clean face. The home-like air of the neat cottage, the motherly welcome of Mrs. Mason, the clamorous greeting of the younger children, the hearty hand-shake of their father and the frank pleasure in Nellie's look brought moisture to his eyes. After that a plate was laid at "Bud's" place at the Mason table every Sunday.

The C. N. E. & W. is a single track road, winding deviously over two mountain ranges, with a long, easy curve across a valley midway of which lies Fairview. To the eastward are two small flag stations on the mountain side several miles apart, and then comes Westonville, fourteen miles away. To the westward, four miles beyond Fairview, lies Adams, and midway between is "the summit" at Pine Bluff, pitching off to either side a five per cent grade, a stumbling block or fall heavily loaded freights.

There came a night when "Bud" alone in the round house, was giving the last finishing touches to 22 before taking her down to the west end of the yard to run extra to Westonville with a half a dozen cars of delayed perishable freight, after the passing of the Express at 10 o'clock. The Express did not stop at Fairview, and ahead of it would be a cool train that would take the siding at Adams to give the Express the right of way.

No. 22 was a big ten-wheeled Baldwin, with 56 inch drives and cylinders large enough for children's playhouses. She had a record for fast running also, and was the object of "Bud's" special pride. As he gave the last careful wipe to a connecting rod, he glanced at the clock on the wall. Past time for the coal train, he thought, and as he listened heard a strident whistle and the rumble of the train entering the eastern end of the yard.

He stepped out beside the track and the glow of the head-light swept down upon him. Sparks were flying from the wheels of the great Mogul as they gripped the rails, and the train shot by him at a much faster rate than the six miles laid down in the rules for speed within yard limits. They were late, and Sandy McPherson with his head stuck out of the cab window and his eyes fixed on the switchlights in the yard, was evidently in a hurry to make his siding at Adams and get out of the way of the Express. "Bud" watched the tail light of the caboose disappear in the darkness, then stepped back into the round-house and glanced again at the clock. The Express would be due in twenty minutes. He climbed into the cab of No. 22 threw a shovelful of coal upon the grate and looked at the water gauges and the steam dial which showed a pressure of 118 pounds. Then he pulled the door of the fire-box ajar, swung lightly down from the cab and went outside to get a breath of the fresh night air.

Suddenly, to the westward he heard a low rumble like a coming train, then the hind-lights of a caboose flashed into view and a few seconds later a string of cars shot past him in a shower of dust and cinders. Instinctively he counted them as they passed. Six coal cars and the caboose, headed East to meet the Express and going at terrific speed.

The coal train had broken in two on "the summit" and the rear end was running wild! Under "Bud's" fiery looks was the brain of an ideal railroad man. When seconds mean lives the man of action must act by instinct and think afterwards. With a bound he was back in the round-house and had looked at the clock. If the Express was on time it would just be pulling out of Westonville, already too late to receive a warning from the operator at Fairview. As no night operator was stationed at either of the intermediate flag stations, there was now no way to warn the Express of the danger it was running down the mountain to meet. The heavy coal cars and the long train of Pullman's would meet with a crash at the foot of the mountain and nothing could save the sleeping passengers from a horrible death.

Yes, there was something. The coal cars had not cleared the yard before "Bud" was stooping over a switch. A moment later his hand was at the throttle of No. 22 as she glided out into the main track. One thought only had flashed through his mind. He must catch those runaway cars. Catch them, and pull them out of the way of the Express. Had there been time to discuss the situation, any engineer on the road would have told him that it couldn't be done single-handed. They would also have told him that to make the attempt meant certain death. But "Bud" did not stop to figure out the chances, he acted—like a tight coiled spring suddenly released. He lost a few precious seconds of time in stopping the engine and running back to close the switch, then climbed back into the cab, pulled the throttle wide open and No. 22 leaped forward like a race-horse. As he flashed by the station in a swirling clud of dust he caught a momentary glimpse of the night operator, hatless and coatless and white-faced, standing upon the platform. A few seconds more and he was beyond the boundary of the yard and the level track stretched ahead into the darkness.

No. 22 was swaying and bounding now so that he had to cling to the levers to keep from being dashed headlong from the cab. She was increasing her speed with every lap. If he overtook the coal cars while going at that terrific speed, and could not stop in time, No. 22 would plow half way through them, but with the express rushing down to meet them he dared not shut off and feel his way. He could only hang halfway out of the cab window, with the wind cutting his face like whip lashes, and watch with straining gaze the path of light dancing ahead on the shining rails. He felt the engine swerve under him as she rounded the curve, and knew that the foot of the mountain was less than two miles away. Then the coal cars came into view, so suddenly that he involuntarily shut off the steam. They were still running east but at diminished speed.

Pulling the throttle partly open again, "Bud" picked up a coupling pin, crawled from the cab window, and eling to the handrail like a bulldog at the flank of a frenzied steer, made his way slowly along the footboard to the pilot. The swaying of the engine all but threw him off a dozen times and he was cruelly bruised and battered as he was dashed resistlessly against her iron sides. No. 22 was gaining on the coal cars at every leap, and when he had reached the pilot only a few feet of space were between them. Bracing himself as firmly as possible he raised the heavy coupling bar with both hands and waited.

If he failed to guide it into the jaws of the draw-bar he would be crushed like an eggshell against the deadwoods. If they struck hard enough to throw him off he would be instantly ground to death beneath the relentless wheels. But he did not think of this. He thought of the light that had been in Nellie's eyes when she stood waiting for him at the gate the Sunday before, and of dead faces staring up at the midnight sky if he failed to make the coupling—and set his teeth hard. Then No. 22 butted her nose into the end of the coal car with a vicious jar that nearly shot him into space, but he clung, somehow, and guided the bar true to its place. Clinging to it with one hand, he reached forward and dropped in the coupling pin, then, dizzy and bruised, made his way back along the swaying footboard to the cab.

As "Bud" shut off steam, put on the driver-brake and applied the sand, the coal cars struggled madly to pull away, then sullenly slacked up with heavy chugs as the buffers crunched together.

Then he dropped the reverse lever down in the corner, pulled the throttle wide open, and as No. 22 gathered herself in the back motion for a headlong rush, he heard the Express whistling for the crossing at Stony Lonesome less than a mile away. Anyone who has ever ridden in the cab of a locomotive running backward at approximately a mile a minute, with half a dozen heavy cars tumbling after her, can appreciate "Bud's" sensations for the next few minutes as he raced madly ahead of the Express—none other than Rounding Cape Horn in a cat boat would be a mild and pleasurable excursion in comparison. The tremendous strain had pulled the steam down alarmingly and he found it necessary to attend to the fire. After narrowly escaping being pitched headlong from the gangway, and scattering several shovelfuls of coal all over the cab he finally managed to get a little into the fire-box. Then the lights of Fairview shot into sight. The night operator stood on the platform, lantern in hand, waved an "all right" as No. 22 went reeling and plunging past, shaking the heavy coal cars as a dog shakes a rat, then "Bud" hanging out of the cab window, saw him throw the signal to red to stop the Express, which staggered to a standstill a half a minute later, with a wondering blast of the whistle and protesting scream from the wheels when the brake shoes clutched them. The conductor, immaculate and severe in his faultless blue uniform and shining silver buttons dropped to the platform with his lantern swing from his arm almost before the wheels stopped turning, followed by the baggage master, engineer, Pullman porter and a couple of brakemen, all of them firing questions at the operator like the rattling of a Gatling gun.

The operator explained, briefly, and after the wires glowed hot with curt messages for a few minutes, handed an order in duplicate to the conductor and engineer who compared their slips of yellow paper in the light of the lantern. Then the engineer clambered back into the cab, a brakeman raced down the platform, lifted up two fingers to the conductor, who swung his lantern, the whistle gave a sharp toot-toot, and the Express glided away into the night with five minutes lost time to make up. On a side track at the west end of the yard No. 22 hung her head and panted heavily after her race with death, while a hundred and fifty passengers, having been within a half minute of eternity slumbered on in blissful ignorance of the fact that they owed their several lives to the quick wit of a red headed snub nosed wiper who was just then gingerly rubbing a bruised elbow and thing of anything but that he was a hero.

As "Bud" shut off steam, put on the driver-brake and applied the sand, the coal cars struggled madly to pull away, then sullenly slacked up with heavy chugs as the buffers crunched together.

Then he dropped the reverse lever down in the corner, pulled the throttle wide open, and as No. 22 gathered herself in the back motion for a headlong rush, he heard the Express whistling for the crossing at Stony Lonesome less than a mile away.

Anyone who has ever ridden in the cab of a locomotive running backward at approximately a mile a minute, with half a dozen heavy cars tumbling after her, can appreciate "Bud's" sensations for the next few minutes as he raced madly ahead of the Express—none other than Rounding Cape Horn in a cat boat would be a mild and pleasurable excursion in comparison. The tremendous strain had pulled the steam down alarmingly and he found it necessary to attend to the fire. After narrowly escaping being pitched headlong from the gangway, and scattering several shovelfuls of coal all over the cab he finally managed to get a little into the fire-box. Then the lights of Fairview shot into sight. The night operator stood on the platform, lantern in hand, waved an "all right" as No. 22 went reeling and plunging past, shaking the heavy coal cars as a dog shakes a rat, then "Bud" hanging out of the cab window, saw him throw the signal to red to stop the Express, which staggered to a standstill a half a minute later, with a wondering blast of the whistle and protesting scream from the wheels when the brake shoes clutched them. The conductor, immaculate and severe in his faultless blue uniform and shining silver buttons dropped to the platform with his lantern swing from his arm almost before the wheels stopped turning, followed by the baggage master, engineer, Pullman porter and a couple of brakemen, all of them firing questions at the operator like the rattling of a Gatling gun.

The operator explained, briefly, and after the wires glowed hot with curt messages for a few minutes, handed an order in duplicate to the conductor and engineer who compared their slips of yellow paper in the light of the lantern. Then the engineer clambered back into the cab, a brakeman raced down the platform, lifted up two fingers to the conductor, who swung his lantern, the whistle gave a sharp toot-toot, and the Express glided away into the night with five minutes lost time to make up.

On a side track at the west end of the yard No. 22 hung her head and panted heavily after her race with death, while a hundred and fifty passengers, having been within a half minute of eternity slumbered on in blissful ignorance of the fact that they owed their several lives to the quick wit of a red headed snub nosed wiper who was just then gingerly rubbing a bruised elbow and thing of anything but that he was a hero.

But "Bud's" days of wiping engines were over. The first train in the morning brought no less august a personage than the general manager himself to Fairview, and before him "Bud," somewhat to his own bewilderment, found himself on the right side of an engine with the best freight run on the division. A few months later Nellie Mason who was now Nellie Mason no longer, might be seen standing every afternoon at the same hour, in the doorway of a certain neat little cottage, where a bed of pansies glowed in the yard and morning glories clambered riotously over the windows, listening for the three sharp toots from the whistle of No. 22 that told her that "Bud" was "on time" and thinking of his wife.

"SCARRED FOR LIFE"

Skin diseases in many cases may need the "inward" application to remove the taint from the blood.

But many a once handsome countenance is "scarred for life" for lack of using such a healing agent as Dr. Agnew's Ointment. Only needs a few applications of this magic balm to any skin disease to clear away all signs of outward disorder and leave the affected part as smooth and soft as an infant's cheek.

Poisons in the Blood Bring Pain and Death

Uric Acid the Cause of Serious Organic Changes. Fatty Heart, Bright's Disease, Enlarged Liver, and Brain Diseases.

Uric poisons left in the blood by defective kidneys form what is known as uric acid. Its presence may be detected by such ailments as dyspepsia, associated with irregular bowels and scanty, highly-colored urine. There are pains of a neuragic nature in the back and in the joints, sleepless nights, dizziness, headache, depressed spirits and impaired memory.

Fatty heart, dropsy, apoplexy and heart disease are the usual termination if uric acid is left in the blood. It is a serious matter to neglect these symptoms. The home treatment prescribed by Dr. A. W. Chase has proven successful in many thousands of cases. Mr. A. W. Farson, Martineville, Que., writes:—"I was a sufferer from kidney disease and bladder trouble for 18 years, and had a constant desire to urinate with its accompanying weakness. Medicine prescribed by a skillful physician only gave me temporary relief. The trouble would recur at very awkward times. I was persuaded to try Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills. I obtained relief after one dose, and before I had finished the first box felt better than I had for many years." "Cure-Alls" Didn't Cure

Only a Kidney Specific of the genuine merit of South American Kidney Cure can ever hope to cope with insidious kidney diseases in all its forms.

For two years I was greatly troubled with an affection of the kidneys—frequently unfitting me for work. I tried many patent medicines and "cure-alls" without getting any relief, for I had intense pain almost constantly. South American Kidney Cure was recommended to me. A few hours after commencing its use I got great relief. Four bottles cured it. It is worth its weight in gold."—Frank S. Emerick, Alvinston, Ont. 38.

J. H. PHINNEY,

POOR OLD JIM.

I was running on fast freight as fireman, and my engineer was a man named Colville. He was ten years my senior and also an old bachelor. Jim was what everybody called a square man. He had lots of sentiment for a plain, uneducated man and a conscience so tender that he wouldn't have knowingly hurt the feelings of an Indian. He was a sort of "daddy" for 200 miles along the line and had the esteem of officials and men alike. The idea that Jim would fall in love at his age would have been laughed to scorn by all who knew him, and yet he only "went soft" on a girl, but made the mistake that old bachelors often do. She was a chit named Mary Blaine, only half his age and a coquette and a flirt. We figured it out that there was more sympathy than love on his part and that she was marrying him instead of a younger and better looking man because he had several thousand dollars in the bank and would baby her up. They were married on the quiet one day, and for a few weeks old Jim's face carried a look of contentment and things went well in his little home at Pine Hill.

By and by I notice a change to anxiety, and at times the engineer was preoccupied and absentminded. I never asked Jim or any other man a question, but through my landlady I learned that the young wife was very extravagant in her ways and was given to fits of sulks when reproved. It was also said that she was fond of going to parties and balls and was being generally criticised. Every week for many weeks I heard some new gossip, and, while realizing that it must be exaggerated, there was enough truth to make me anxious about my old pard's happiness. I hated to believe the tales, and yet I found many others hinting that the young wife was not playing a straight game with the trusting husband. Such an affair is one of the meanest on earth to meddle with. It is none of your business even if you are a brother, and yet you feel that it is and want to do something. I wouldn't have had old Jim deceived, and yet how could I go to him with the gossip?

By and by a passenger engineer named Frazer came to live at the Hill. He was a man of 28, good looking, good company and free handed. He knew Jim well, and he soon got acquainted with the wife. I threw myself in Frazer's way one day and told him what public gossip said and left it to him whether he shouldn't stop before the home was wrecked. He laughed in contempt. When I became indignant, he became defiant, and the result was a fight in which I battered him up until he was in bed for a week. Old Jim was sure to hear of the row, of course, and the day after it happened he looked at me in a queer way as we took our engine out of the stable. I felt sure he was going to speak about the fight, but he checked himself after a word or two. He had not only been told about the scrap, but what had led up to it as well, and there was only one of two courses for him to take. He must either bid me mind my own business and let him attend to his own domestic affairs or take it for granted that I was acting in a friendly spirit and be put upon his guard for the future. When he remained silent, I knew that he had adopted the latter course.

I do not know what man or woman my chum took into confidence, but it was some one who kept him thoroughly posted. He must have reproved, argued and commanded, but the girl wife either openly defied him or shyly deceived him. Frazer was less bold after the row, and for a time it seemed as if harmony and happiness might be restored. It was all a trick, however, on the part of an infatuated, vain minded young wife on one hand and unprincipled man of the world on the other a man who cared not what wreck he left behind him.

We were just leaving our western terminus one morning when old Jim received a telegram. He opened the telegram with steady hand, read the message without a tremor and then twisted it up and lighted his pipe with it. And yet I came to know that the telegram told him that his wife and Fraser were cloping together and had tickets for the day express bound west. His imperturbability deceived me, and I did not give the message a second thought. A man must have nerves of steel to con a message like that and never blanch. At noon, when we reached Thomasville, we got orders to run to Bascomb's and there side track for the express. We could do it with 3 or 4 minutes to spare. Bascomb's was not even a station, but a siding half a mile long on the prairie, and we must do our own switching. For three miles beyond it was a straight track, and then it went curving and turning among the hills and over a brawling creek. When we had come within a mile of the siding, I looked for Jim to begin to slow up, but he made no move. Half a minute and he even increased the speed, and when I shouted in his ear he waved me back. We passed the siding at a clip of 25 miles an hour and gaining on that every minute, and as I at last grabbed Jim's arm he pulled a revolver from his breast and motioned for me to stand back. The man had not gone crazy, he had not misunderstood his orders, but what was he doing in thus passing the siding? In a run of three or four miles we must meet the express. For a second I thought of attacking him with a poker, but he looked over his shoulder at me with a grim smile and motioned for me to jump. Then it occurred to me that the train had got away from him, and I turned and sprang from the cab. It was soft prairie for the fall, but it seemed to me that I turned over and over 500 times before the breath was finally knocked out of my body. When my senses returned, I heard the hiss of steam and the shrieks and cries of injured men and women, and I had staggered along the track about a mile when I came upon the frightful wreck. The engines of the express and freight had met head on, and 51 people had been killed and 70 injured in the awful smash. I was the most terrible railroad wreck for a score of years.

I helped to get old Jim's crushed and mutilated body out, and I helped to get out the crushed and mutilated bodies of his wife and Fraser, but it was days before I got at the true facts in the case. Finding himself betrayed, the old man had deliberately brought about the collision that he might have revenge on the guilty pair and be revenged out at the same time. If he thought of the innocent who would suffer as well, he had no pity. He must have hated the whole world as well as those who had directly wronged him. It was an awful thing he did, but he offered his own life with the sacrifice, and somehow I have always felt that, even though he presented such a cool, calm front to me, the fires of insanity must have been blazing in his brain every minute after reading that telegram.

Many things may happen when you catch cold, but the thing that usually happens first is a cough. An inflammation starts up in the bronchial tubes or in the throat, and the discharge of mucus from the head constantly poisons this. Then the very contraction of the throat muscles in the act of coughing helps to irritate so that the more you cough the more you have to cough. It is, of course, beyond question that in many cases the irritation started in this way results in lung troubles that are called by serious names. It is in this irritated bronchial tube that the germ of consumption finds lodgment and breeds. Great numbers of people disregard cough at first, and pay the penalty of neglect. Cough never did any one any good. It should be dispensed with promptly. Ad- amson's Botanic Cough Balsam is a well known remedy, and it is the surest and quickest cough cure known to-day. It does not deceive by drugging the throat. It soothes the irritated parts and heals them, then the cough stops of its own accord. The action of this medicine is so simple that it seems like nature's own provision for curing a cough. Every druggist has it. Be sure to get the genuine, which has "F. W. Kinsman & Co." blown in the bottle.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:
"Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.
I was then treated for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that, only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
Then saw your advertisement, accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and today, after five weeks, my hearing in the deaf ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,

RUNAWAY MARRIAGE

Lieut. Cecil and his Bride Await Penalty.
Interesting details are given in The London Daily Telegraph, which arrived by the English mail on the 30th October, of the Cecil romance, which has attracted great attention in England, owing to the fact that the young couple have set at defiance the Lord Chancellor, by getting married in Scotland.

The bridegroom, Lieutenant Richard William Francis Cecil, a nephew of the Marquis of Exeter, is a ward in Chancery, being 19 years of age, and under the will of his grandfather, Sir William Cunliffe Brooks, enjoys or will enjoy an income of about $40,000. His marriage with Miss Jessie Bain, the daughter of a Belfast stock broker was objected to by his mother, Lady Francis Cecil, who procured an injunction from the Court of Chancery to prevent it. The lovers, however, went to Edinburgh, where the English Court of Chancery had no jurisdiction, got married, and proceeded to London to await the consequences of their evasion of the English law.

"Quite a reception," says the Daily Telegraph, "awaited the stout-hearted couple at King's Cross Station. They were cheered as they stepped from the train and walked to a cab to drive to a hotel. Lieut. Cecil in an interview, declared that he had no particular course of action marked out. He was now within jurisdiction of the Lord Chancellor, and would await whatever action the court might take with regard to him. Mrs. Cecil, who is a tall handsome lady, was dressed in a gray traveling cloak and blue toque, with black trimmings. Her husband is a stalwart-looking fellow, quite six feet in height. He wears a slight fair moustache, and looks at least 23 or 24, instead of his real age of just over 19 years.

It seems to have escaped general notice that the offending person in this very delightful modern romance is not Lieut. Cecil himself,

The busy Christmas season is about commenced and merchants who start early to advertise for the Xmas trade will be the ones who get the cream of the trade. Have your ad ready when our representative calls.

As we go to press we have been handed a communication from the N. B. Board of Fire Underwriters and in it they state that they are about to re-vote all towns in N. B. and that Newcastle merchants unless we install a first class fire service, will be obliged to pay 4 per cent. The vote now is from 2 1/2 to 3. We will publish the communication in full next week.

Among the justices of the peace in Gloucester who have taken the oath of allegiance to King Edward VII is Mr. Joseph Sewell, of Pokenouch, who was born April 8, 1800, and was sworn Nov. 16, 1901, to bear true allegiance for the rest of his life to the King. He wore no glasses in signing the oath, and wrote a firm hand.—World.

CONDAMNED 46 YEARS AGO.—Mr. J. J. Harrington when searching the archives of Gloucester County the other day, discovered a presentment from the grand jury of 46 years ago, to the Sessions, condemning the county jail as rotten in its foundations and unfit for use, and urging the erection of a new one. The same old jail still there and in use. Will it last another forty six years?—World.

The members of Newcastle Division are looking forward with interest to an event which is booked to take place on Dec. 5th weather and roads permitting. This event will be an entertainment consisting of Songs, Recitations, Instrumental Music, a dialogue, and the last and most interesting feature of the evening will be a Spelling Match, between teams from Millerton and Newcastle Divisions. The Minister of Railways was entertained at lunch on Friday afternoon at the Union Club, St. John. Mr. W. M. Jarvis vice-president of the Board of Trade, and Mr. W. S. Fisher, ex-president, occupied the official seats. Other gentlemen present were Messrs. Pottinger, Russell & Tiffin, of the I. C. R.; Messrs Osborne and Sutherland, of the C. P. R.; and Messrs. W. H. Thorne, J. H. Thomson, D. J. McLaughlin, John Seely, I. V. Ellis, H. D. Troop, Geo. McAvity, H. B. Scholfield and Col. Tucker. Mr. P.—St John Globe.

The trains from Halifax were delayed several hours yesterday by washouts on the I. C. R. near Rockingham and Bedford. The trouble was caused by an extraordinary high tide which, blown by a strong north easterly wind, dashed over the track at several points where the line skirts at Bedford Basin. At the two points mentioned the ballast was washed away and the line rendered unsafe. As soon as the tide had receded sufficiently to permit of work being done, working trains were sent from Halifax and Bedford and repaired the damage in a short time.

BANK ROBBERED.

Book keeper the Guilty Man.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 22.—Great excitement was caused here today by the announcement that the Bank of Liverpool had been victimized by a trusted book-keeper to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars. What the losses amount to is not known, but an official statement issued by the bank says that through the dishonesty and betting transaction of a bookkeeper they may lose £170,000 ($850,000). The Bank of Liverpool shares fell £1 on the stock exchange to-day. The defaulter has not yet been arrested.

PROHIBITIONISTS WIN.

Manitoba Had a Right to Pass Prohibitory Liquor Law.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—In the appeal case of the Attorney General of Manitoba versus the Manitoba licenseholders' association, the privy council has decided that the legislature of Manitoba had jurisdiction to enact a liquor law.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—The Department of Justice received a cable to-day from London stating that the judicial committee of the privy council had given a decision in the Manitoba liquor case. The cable said that the judgment of the Manitoba courts, declaring the prohibition act of the province ultra vires, was over-ruled and that the act has now been held intra vires or within the powers of the Province to pass it.

It will be remembered that Hugh John MacDonald passed this act and that the Manitoba courts upset it. The court of last resort now holds the act good.

BODY OF SUICIDE IN NOVA SCOTIA WOODS.

Well Dressed Man Had Taken His Life—No One to Identify Him.

HALIFAX, Nov. 24.—The body of an unknown man who had committed suicide was found in the woods near Tuttle's Cove, two miles from Dartmouth, Saturday evening, by a hunter who was returning home. There was nothing on the body which would give any clue to identify. It was a premeditated case of suicide, as he placed the muzzle of a revolver in his mouth and sent the bullet crashing into his brain. He was respectfully dressed and about 40 years of age. Hundreds of people viewed the body today, but none were able to identify the suicide. The only articles found on the body were a small gold jewel and three links and the letters "F. L. T." and a small book, from which the fly leaf had been torn. The body also had "J. B." stamped on one arm.
