STEWART'S Home Made Bread, THE BREAD MY DADDY LIKES.

Daddy is evidently not one of those back number lords of creation who believes that woman's place is in the home—and only there. His taste in a wife is an up-to-date woman who will prove herself a real companion. He knows that if she is a slave to her kitchen she can't enjoy the poise or have the interest in world affairs that a little extra leisure would make possible; and so he is pleased to eat MRS. STEWART'S HOME MADE BREAD—the loaf with the home made flavor.

The smiling, well-nourished kiddie doesn't look as though suffering because mother is progressive enough to buy good bread made by a bread specialist, instead of wearing out her life in the kitchen.

Lerue Forced to Lay Off From His Work, He Declares

Halifax Man Says Tanlac Overcame His Troubles After Three Years of Suffering.

"Tanlac certainly is the medicine to relieve a fellow of stomach trouble and make him feel like something," said Simon Lerue, 23 Water Street, Halifax, N.S., well known shoemaker.

"When I began taking the medicine I had suffered for three years with stomach trouble. My food bloated me terribly, and for hours after every meal I felt awfully distressed and miserable. I had a dull, gnawing pain in the pit of my stomach all the time, and there was an awful mean, sickening taste in my mouth. At times I couldn't keep anything on my stomach, and this indigestion brought me down steadily in weight, and I became so weak I was constantly losing time from my work. I seldom went to sleep before two or three o'clock in the morning, and never got up feeling fit to go to work.

"Well, so many people were praising Tanlac I decided to see if there was anything in it for me, and it certainly has set me right. I don't believe I ever had a better appetite or enjoyed my meals better than I do now, for everything agrees with me perfectly, and I have gained several pounds in weight. That nervousness is gone, too, and I sleep like a log nights. A person won't go wrong to try Tanlac if he has troubles like mine were."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by Mr. Connors, in Paradise by Mr. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gillies by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. John's, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. Quahue, in McLeortown by Ex-Platts Valley Royal Stores, Ltd., in Flat Islands by William Samson, in Jamestown by Christopher Haines, and in Lewisporte by Uriah Freaks.

APPROPRIATED. LONDON, Feb. 14. Dealing with Lord Reading's address before the English Speaking Union on Saturday night, during which he opened his treasury reserves to send silver to India during the war, the newspapers this morning express liveliest appreciation of this action.

"Remembrance of these acts," says the Times, "should enable both peoples to judge a great deal of ill-considered talk with becoming contempt."

Tchitcherin, Russian Soviet Minister, is not over sanguine concerning the trade agreement with Great Britain, according to the Moscow correspondent of the Herald. He is reported to have said that if it were not signed the situation in the Near East would become critical.

THE DAIL EIREANN. DUBLIN, Feb. 14. The Irish Bulletin issued to-night summarizes a report of the Dail Eireann held in the last week of January, at which there was a full attendance of available members, including the President. Quoting from the speech of Eamonn DeValera, which dealt largely with the peace negotiations of December, an outline of which was printed some time ago, the bulletin says, "perturbed at effect on world opinion of his unrestricted Black and Tan warfare upon the Irish people, the British Prime Minister commissioned the Archbishop of Perth to come to Ireland as an official intermediary to arrange a truce."

St. Bon's Defeat Feildians.

In Most Exciting Contest of Season. Twenty Minutes Play-off Necessary to Decide Game.

In the most exciting game of the season and after a twenty minute play-off St. Bon's defeated the Feildians by a score of 8 goals to 6. The game was a fast one throughout and during the play-off the speed became tremendous. There was not one of the more than 1700 fans present who was not thrilled by the spectacular hockey doped out and "even the ranks of Tuscany could scarce forbear to cheer" when St. Bon's gained their well-earned victory. For a great part of the game play was much of a give and take nature, spectacular exhibitions being given by both teams, but on the whole, St. Bon's had the best part of it and at times completely outplayed the champions. Both teams, however, had to work hard and although the victory was deserved by the St. Bon's, it was by no means an easy one. Gibbs in goal for the victors, put up a corking game and, assisted by a bit of good luck, did a great deal in keeping down the score against his side. This was his first appearance between the posts for the season and if he continues as he started he is going to make an excellent goal. Hunt also played well for St. Bon's and got in some very nice hockey at times. Coke Cahill played a splendid game and scored some very fine goals whilst Higgins, too, worked hard and did some great individual work. The first goal scored after the play-off had begun came from Muir's stick and was probably the nicest bit of individual play for the game. Muir played consistently well throughout and helped materially towards his side's victory. Nix Hunt was again in good form and had a great deal more work to do than the St. Bon's goalie. Tait also played a fine game and made some great length runs. The condition of the ice, however, was not very conducive to good play as it was very difficult to carry the puck along. Winter played a very hard game for the losers, and Payne, Ewing and Rendell got in some excellent work at times. The game was started at 7.40, by Gus Herder, who was referee.

COMMENT ON THE GAME. Everybody was surprised to see the Feildians beaten in last night's game, which just goes to prove what an uncertain game hockey is. One thing, however, is positive, and that is, that St. Bon's deserved their victory.

There does not seem to be much doubt about the Feildians keeping their title to the championship. Some of the St. Bon's supporters are still optimistic, however, and say that if they win their protest in connection with their game with the Terras they still have a chance to carry off the laurels. It seems a pretty slim chance.

Bren Sinnott put in his first appearance for the season last night. Jimmy Alderice put up quite a good game for the losers.

Poultry Association

HOLDS REGULAR MEETING. In the absence of the President, Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, C.M.G. Vice-President John Calver presided over the meeting of the Poultry Association held yesterday in the Board of Trade Rooms. Mr. S. White, the Secretary and a large number of members were also present. Mr. A. J. Bayly attended, and on behalf of the Premier, Hon. R. A. Squires, K.C., handed over to the Association the cup for the exhibitor winning the largest number of blue ribbons at the annual show. The cup which was offered in 1919 for competition in the 1920 show, was won by Mr. W. R. Butler, who also won the Association's Cup for the winner of the most prizes in the largest class of the show. A feature of the evening was an address on "Incubation, Artificial and Natural" given by Mr. Geo. R. Williams. At next month's meeting Mr. W. R. Butler will lecture to the Association on the subject of the raising of chickens as they come from the incubator or the nest of the hen. Arrangements for the distribution of 2000 eggs for hatching will shortly be made. Judge Reid was amongst those present last night. After the conference Mr. W. R. Butler served refreshments and a short toast list was given through. At 11 p.m. the National Anthem brought the affair to a close.

Something to Consider.

The Squires-Coaker Party were extravagantly prolific of promises in the fall of 1919. The leader's manifesto assured the people that were he and his followers elected they would regulate everything from the price of eggs to the freight and passenger rates on the Reid Nfld. Company's trains and steamers.

ed more than in their promise to encourage home industry. The course pursued by Mr. Coaker, and allowed to go on without protest or objection by the Prime Minister, with regard to the marketing of fish, has produced a crisis hitherto unequalled, but that is not the particular point it is desired to raise to-day.

Hymeneal.

A VERY pretty wedding took place at the R. C. Cathedral on Saturday evening, the officiating clergyman being the Rev. Mgr. McDermott, when Robert Byrne, of New York, and Christine, of the Avalon Telephone Co., led to the altar Annie, second daughter of Patrick and Mary McGrath, of Colliers, C.B., the groomsmen being Mr. Andrew Hele. The bride was prettily attired in a costume of blue gabardine, and white fox fur, and was attended by her sister Fannie, who wore a fawn costume, with hat to match and fox fur.

ALL PLEDGED TO SECRECY. The Fish Exporters interested in the Portuguese market held a meeting at the Board of Trade Rooms to-day when some messages received by the Advisory Board from Mr. Coaker were discussed at length. The following cable to the Board of Trade, from Mr. Holmes, Agent of Hawes & Co. at Oporto was also given consideration. The message says: "Strongly urge Trade to consider seriously Importers' last telegram to Advisory Board. Have closely studied present situation and find buyers not bluffing, all absolutely determined if necessary to boycott our fish and flood the market with French, Norwegian, Iceland fish which is offering in unlimited quantities. Our position extremely critical. Can positively assure you if restrictions not removed Newfoundland will lose Oporto market."

Obituary.
REV. CANON JOHN MONK NOEL.
(H. F. SHORTIS.)
Mr. William Noel of the Department of Agriculture and Mines received a message at 10 o'clock last night announcing the sad news that his venerable father, Rev. Canon Noel, for many years Rector of St. Paul's Church, Harbor Grace, had passed away. For some time the aged cleric had been an invalid and the end was not unexpected—the reverend gentleman having attained the patriarchal age of 80 years.
Canon Noel was born in St. James' Parish, Westminster, London, England, on the 4th June, 1840, received his education at Archbishop Tenison's Grammar School, London, and arrived in St. John's in 1860, smothering Queen's Theological College in this city. He was made deacon in May 1864, and ordained to the priesthood in 1867. In 1864-67 he was incumbent at Ferryland, and had to travel on foot from Petty Harbor to Renew in carrying out the duties of his sacred calling. From 1868 to 1876 he was priest in charge of the church in Upper Island Cove, where his name is still highly venerated by all classes of the community, and from 1876 to 1895, he was Rector of St. Paul's Church, Harbor Grace, until his retirement in that year. Although retired from his active Sacred duties, he officiated on special occasions; in fact, it may be said that he died in harness. In 1895 he was promoted to the high and dignified position of Rural Dean of Conception Bay, and in 1897 was made Canon, being given the stall of St. Boniface in St. John the Baptist Cathedral, St. John's. During all those years, he was absent from active duties in his parishes for only three months, when he visited the scenes of his childhood and early manhood in London in 1906.
The deceased cleric was married to Miss Eliza LeMessurier, daughter of Peter LeMessurier, Esq., for many years accountant of the Anglo-American Telegraph Company in Newfoundland, who, with one son, William and four daughters, Mrs. Smart, wife of Rev. Canon Smart, Harriet Content, Mrs. John T. McRae, Misses Flots and Trixie of Harbor Grace, are left to mourn their great loss.
The venerable octogenarian, zealous and faithful patriarch of the ministry was "constant in season and out of season," as the faithful shepherd, and resigned a life that had been devoted to the cause of his Divine Master. The virtues which shed their halo around the name of this tried and zealous laborer in the Lord's vineyard, will long be remembered in this country, and throughout Conception Bay in particular, proverbial as it was for that holiness, which, with beacon-light, guides the world's wayward children o'er the scene of their earthly pilgrimage. Assured we are that amongst all classes the memory of the deceased will be cherished with a veneration due to the exalted piety and to the virtues which adorned a patriarchal and advanced age.
Amongst the long list of priests who officiated in St. Paul's for the past century, Rev. Canon Noel was, by many years, the clergyman to hold the position for such a lengthy period—forty years. Historic St. Paul's is the oldest church built of stone erected in the Colony. From old records it is gathered that three buildings of wood preceded it, each of which was successively burnt down through conflagrations which swept the town. After the last disaster the congregation made an effort to build with stone. Enterprising owners of brigs and schooners quarried and brought from Kelly's Island, a large amount of blue stone for the walls. The lime-stone for the window-facings and gables, and afterwards for the battlements of the tower, were imported from the West of England. The portion then erected included only the Nave. A Tower was added at a later date. The following items may be of interest:—
A.D. 1832—August 15th: Town of Harbor Grace destroyed by fire, Church of St. Paul burned to the ground.
1835—July 28th: Foundation stone of a new Church laid by Governor Prescott.
1837—July 9th: St. Paul's Church opened.
1840—July 2nd: Church consecrated by Bishop Aubrey Spencer.
1860—June: Transcripts and Chancel added and dedicated by Bishop Edward Field.
1897—May 24th: Foundation stone of new Tower laid by Sir Wm. V. Whiteaway, K.C.M.G.
1901—Sept. 8th: A new bell dedicated, which afterwards cracked.
1909—Sept. 22nd: Dedication of new windows in the Nave by Bishop L.J. Jones.
1912—Oct. 4th: Dedication of the Bell presented by the late Mrs. R. D. McRae.
On Empire Day, May 24th, 1914, on the Golden Jubilee of his Most Excellent Life, Canon Noel was presented with an address from the Conception Bay Clerical Association offering him their heartfelt congratulations, and appreciating his long connection with Parochial, Diocesan and Educational work, and signed by all the members, clerical and lay, His Lordship Bishop Jones' name at the head of the list. The school children also presented him with an address upon the same occasion.
It may be truly said that old St. Paul's Church was practically rebuilt

Robins Numerous.
Robins are reported as numerous in the wood near Rostellan, Long Pond Road. Yesterday a gentleman interested in birds noted a flock of about fifty fitting amongst the trees and feeding on dogberries, which this year are still hanging to the branches. It is a general impression that the robin red breast migrates during the winter months.

Tobacco Teeth

See the change in ten days

Smokers' teeth discolor more than others, usually. But the stains lie in a film, and removing that film removes them. There is now a way to combat this film. Millions of people employ it. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. See how teeth whiten when you use it a few days.

Film ruins teeth

That film on teeth which makes them dingy causes most tooth troubles. It is viscous—you can feel it. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

The old ways of brushing did not end it, so millions found that well-brushed teeth discolored and decayed. It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Very few people have escaped these troubles caused by film.

A scientific film combant, combined with two other modern requisites. Now advised for daily use by leading dentists everywhere. Supplied by druggists in large tubes.

Now we combat it

Now dental science has evolved ways to combat film day by day. Able authorities have amply proved their efficiency.

These methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Millions have adopted it, largely through dental advice. It opens, we believe, a new dental era. And, to let all know it, a 10-Day Tube is being sent to everyone who asks.

See and feel it act

Pepsodent brings five desired effects. Some are instant, all are quick. A very short test will prove a revelation.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. It also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere. With every application it combats the teeth's great enemies as nothing else has done.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Let this test show you, for your own sake, what clean teeth really mean.

Did The Great War End Wars?

"Give peace in our time, oh Lord." There is probably no more sincere prayer uttered each week in our churches than this for peace, with its pathetic response:

"Because there is none other that fighteth for us, but only thou, oh Lord!"

The one ideal which informed the British peoples during the war was that this was a "war to end wars." Again and again a war-weary people would reach the apparent end of their resolution, and then, tightening their belt another notch, take up the conflict with redoubled vigor; that their sons might not have to fight the battle all over again.

It may have been a war to make the world safe for democracy; but it was first of all a war to make future wars impossible.

This desire for peace, universal, lasting peace, is as old as the human race. Probably at the end of the Babylonian wars some idealists came forward with a plan to perpetuate peace; we know that Christ was hailed as the "Prince of Peace" by a strife-weary world.

When the Treaty of Utrecht ended the long continental wars in 1713 we find the Abbe St. Pierre coming forward with his plans for universal peace; when the Congress of Vienna met in 1815 to terminate the Napoleonic wars Alexander of Russia came forward with his Holy Alliance; on 11 November, 1918, the glad news of the Armistice was hailed with the cry: "Never again!"

Never again! and to-day Japan and the United States are feverishly building war vessels—in self-defence, of course; each with an eye open upon its rival's construction; each endeavoring to outbid its neighbor; while the press of each country urges the Government on to further efforts.

Peace cannot be brought about by armaments; building fleets inevitably means war.

There has been issued from Washington information showing the relative strength of the fleets of Britain, Japan and the United States.

The information has been compiled in the form of tables in order to show that Great Britain's sea power is nominally double that of the United States and that although the British preponderance in capital ships will practically have been overcome by the United States with the completion in 1923 of the United States building programme, the United States navy will still be inferior in types of vessels which naval officers regard as important, such as destroyer leaders, cruisers and light cruisers, cruising submarine and aeroplane hips.

On the other hand, according to these figures, the United States navy has more than doubled the strength of the Japanese navy and this ratio will be maintained even with the completion of the building programme of the two countries. The United States will be far superior not only in capital ships, but also in destroyers and submarines. Japan, however, will have double the number of battle cruisers, now possessing four such vessels with eight others projected while the United States has none completed and only six building.

Great Britain is building none. Without reference to the second line ships, of which Great Britain has a preponderance in all classes over the United States and Japan, the British navy contains 26 battleships carrying at least 10 guns each of 12 inch calibre or larger and displacing 20,000 tons or more. The United States has 15 such vessels, Japan 6, France 7, and Italy 4. Great Britain has no first line battleships under construction while the U.S. has 11, Japan 7, France 4, and Italy 4.

Great Britain was the first to develop the battle-cruiser type of warship, and in this she retains an early lead with six first line battle cruisers and four others classed as "second line." The United States has none completed and six under construction. Japan four in service and eight projected. France and Italy have no battle cruisers built or building.

In light vessels and destroyers Great Britain also leads, while she has 71 first line submarines as against 52 United States similar boats. To a total of 165 British underwater warships the United States has 98 submarines of all types and Japan has ten second line vessels. A recapitulation of the figures show that on January 1, 1921, strength of the three principal naval powers in first line major ships (battleships and battle cruisers) mounting guns of 13.5-inch calibre or greater is as follows:

Great Britain 28 vessels of 725,650 tons; United States 10 vessels of 800,100 tons, and Japan 9 vessels of 267,620.

This compilation excludes capital ships mounting guns of less than 13.5-inch calibre because of their low rate of efficiency in modern battle.

The projected strength of the three powers at the end of 1923 in capital ships, within the same limitations as to calibre or guns, on the basis of present projected building, is fixed at:

Great Britain 28 ships, totalling 725,650 tons; United States 27 ships of 983,000 tons and Japan 16 ships of 528,920 tons. Japan is expected to reach its greatest ratio of increase between 1923 and 1927 when the relative strength is projected as indicated as being the same in the case of Great Britain and the U.S. with Japan's capital ship fleet increased to 24 vessels of 848,920 tons.

The total first line ship strength of the three powers January 1, is placed at:

Great Britain 532 ships of 1,601,632 tons; United States 350 vessels of 766,772 tons; Japan 43 ships of 340,594 tons.

A comparison of the broadside gun power of first line capital ships mounting 12-inch guns and up shows the following:

Great Britain 238 guns; United States 176 guns and Japan 96 guns. These figures take into account only vessels completed.

In 1913 the United States navy expenditure was $133,262,861; in 1920 the expenditure for new naval building was $158,000,000; the estimate for 1921 is $185,000,000.

Japan spent forty-two million yen on her navy in 1913 and nine millions on instruction; in 1920 the same country spent sixty million yen on her navy and twenty million on instruction. A gold yen is worth about fifty cents.

If an Englishman were asked why his country has spent huge sums upon its navy he would reply that the Fleet must be maintained to defend the scattered Empire and to protect our sea-borne commerce. Germany gave much the same answer when she refused the proposal for a naval holiday suggested by Britain at the Hague Peace Conference. The United States and Japan would each return a similar answer to this question. The navy is necessary to protect the nation's commerce.

That would be a fair answer, but surely the seas are free to the commerce of all nations. A Danish tramp is as free on the ocean as a Cunard liner; that yawl which sailed from Halifax to Cowes is as safe as the most luxurious liner.

Of course the reply is that commerce is safe only during peace time and therefore the point is established that these huge navies are being assembled for wartime.

The war to end war has been won; the peace may yet be lost.

Before 1914 the British navy was admittedly stronger than the German, yet Germany decided she had a fighting chance, and we now know she came perilously near winning. The mere fact that any one nation possesses a preponderance of war vessels or of broadsides is not a guarantee of peace. Spain outnumbered England on the sea, but Napoleon could muster more ships than Nelson, but Trafalgar was a British victory.

History has proved again and again that as surely as a nation attempts to build up an "invincible" navy, or even one greater than any other, so surely will some other nation arise and challenge the claim to supremacy.

The history of the world is a history of these attempts at "world-power or downfall" from before the time of the Roman Caesar to the German Kaiser.

For centuries mankind has looked with wistful longing at the Dove of Peace, but the waters of war have ever risen higher and higher and the dove has eluded our grasp. At last we now have the chance to arrest the floods and to take the dove into our ark. There is no magic in this; it lies in the simple word "disarmament."

Just as we do not countenance the carrying of arms by all and sundry of our citizens, nor permit them to settle their quarrels on the "field of honor," so by some means should mankind put an end to this senseless arming of the nations, and require that quarrels be adjusted not by battalions but by the judges.

Let the millions now expended in armaments be invested in education, in the furtherance of agriculture and the fine arts, in the safeguarding of human lives against the ravages of disease, and we will look back in wonder at the time when man went to war. Then indeed we shall have won the war to end war and our sons and our women kind be spared the horrors of the Belgian, the racking anxiety of the Canadian women who lived between 1914 and 1918. Then only may we pray with real sincerity for peace in our time.

If we fail now we will have war. The next war—should the world be so wretchedly unhappy as to witness it—will make the horrors of this last one seem light. Our sons, as they "carry on" will curse the memory of those who to-day seem to have the opportunity to bring about a lasting peace.

"For heathen heart that puts her trust In reeking tube and iron shard Thy mercy on Thy people Lord."

Atrocities in Chientao.

COUNTRY LIT WITH INCENDIARY FIRES.

The Peking and Tientsin Times publishes some details of the atrocities committed by the Japanese troops in Chientao from reports it has received. From one report the following details are given:

An eyewitness saw on November 3rd the body of an old man, who for twenty years had been a leading member of a Christian Church at Putchako, and who had had no dealings whatsoever with the Korean "independents," who with six others, equally innocent, had been removed from their houses at 12 a.m. and butchered. Their throats were cut from ear to ear. Their families were told that if they touched the bodies they would be shot. The attitude of the Japanese troops is revealed by the reply of their Commander-in-Chief to a Foreign Missionary who asked for a pass which would ensure his personal safety. He was told: "My men are very angry just now, and even a British subject might be shot. If you go outside the town it will be at your risk." The harrowing details of Japanese atrocities in Chientao would require more space than we have at our disposal. But we print, herewith, a partial list of the crimes. It must be emphasized that in the majority of cases the people killed were shot without any preference at an inquiry, and irrespective of age, usually at daybreak, and that the Korean "independents" for whom the invaders were seeking, were concentrated seventy or eighty miles away from the scenes of these atrocities. Here is the list:

- Koosaidong: Church burnt.
- Namko: Church and school burnt.
- Chungsa: Church and school burnt; 100 people slaughtered, the women being burnt in their houses.
- Hanpo: Church and school burnt.
- Walooga: Church and school burnt.
- Ottoga: Women maltreated by troops.
- Laemakol: Church and school burnt.
- Oklunchoo: School burnt.
- Selmooloo: Houses burnt.
- Toolmetong: Houses burnt.
- Sokantung: Seventeen persons shot.

Sakokol: Five persons burnt alive. Chaidong: Twelve persons shot. Academy and Church burnt. Saripakol: Several persons killed. Meungdong: Academy and houses burnt.

Chankol: School burnt. Hweichingghal: Between 50 and 100 persons killed; houses burnt. Kooyangtun: Houses burnt. Whachunga: Several persons shot. Soocholgo: Six men removed by night to Putchago and shot. Putchago: Several persons shot. Elanga: Ten persons shot. Namyangchun: Houses burnt. Kooyangtun: Houses burnt. Sakoa: Houses burnt.

These outrages have all come under the observation of foreign witnesses. By night the country-side is lighted up with incendiary fires, as fresh villages are committed to the flames. At Sokantung the Japanese collected fourteen men from different villages, brought them to an open field, and then dug a large trench. They then compelled other villagers to bring supplies of wood and kerosene. The fourteen victims were shot, their bodies were burnt, and the debris was then flung into the trench, wiping out all traces of father and sons. In the Chungsan region three whole villages were burnt, and three hundred men and women are reported to have been killed, many of them being burnt in their homes. The local Missionaries have done what lies in their power to provide the survivors with clothing and food, their plight, homeless, starving and practically naked, being appalling. Not content with these barbarities the Japanese on November 2nd compelled all Koreans in the neighbourhood to display the Japanese flag, because the Commander-in-Chief was returning. In one village, an old man of eighty who saw his two sons shot and flung into the flames of their burning home, jumped in himself, to die with them.

From another quarter we have received a letter from which we make the following extracts:

"About 40 is from Lungching-tsun, Norel Bokie was visited at 1 a.m. on October 30th. The soldiers called out every man in the place, and as each man came out of his house he was shot dead. Two or three shots in each. The bodies were then piled up and set in fire. Then 19 houses were burned, including the church and school. A foreign doctor later counted the thirty graves and saw the widows and children standing around crying. Their clothing and food was, of course, all burned and the people are destitute. The very few of those who had really taken part in the political work (mostly harmless talk) had left the village when the Japanese first entered Chientao, so the innocent, together with the old men had to suffer. A Korean pastor brought in news of the burning of the church at Nopel, and that six men were tied hand and foot and thrown into the fire. It will be remembered that at the Suwon massacre in Korea, the Japanese locked the people in the church and then set fire to the building. The whole of the fury of the Japanese troops seems to be taken out on the Christians, and so far only Christian villages have been visited."

And so the letter runs. "The leader of the church at Nopel came in this morning and said that his brother and his two sons had been shot. It is rumored that there are thirty to be shot in Lungchingtsun and the Koreans throughout the Chientao districts are mostly peaceful farmers; there is not one in a thousand possesses any kind of firearm, and in those cases where a man has a rifle it is a very out-of-date pattern and used in the winter time for deer shooting."

We are asked to bring these facts to the notice of the civilized world for humanity's sake, and we do so, feeling confident that whatever may be the view of the Japanese military authorities their more enlightened countrymen will share the indignation that these revelations will arouse in other quarters.

PAINT INSURANCE IS WHAT YOU NEED

EVERY wise property owner insures his buildings against possible damage by fire.

And yet we find many a man failing to insure his building against the certain deterioration of unprotected wood, or iron, exposed to the constant wear and tear of the weather. Keeping your buildings regularly painted is insurance against deterioration. Good paint protects and beautifies the surface to which it is applied—it keeps wood from cracking and checking—it keeps iron and steel surfaces from rusting. ON DOGS AND AUTOMOBILES.

If one wanted to write about the development of the automobile and the change it has meant in the life of man—from the day, 15 or 20 years ago, when we first stood agape as one of those high seated, queer contraptions jiggled by and rushed home to tell the family we had seen an automobile, through the days of our own exciting first ride (we came home on the electric); the days when a woman driver was a rara avis to be exclaimed about; the days when to be in the automobile class was almost as much a mark of distinction as to be in the steam yacht class; the days when everyone put up his car for the winter; and so on down to to-day, when crossing a city street at a crossing not regulated by a policeman is taking one's life in one's hands, and when the person who has not ridden in an automobile is almost rare enough to be written up in the Sunday newspaper—one might well write volumes.

In fact I seem in danger of doing so.

Who Would Have Thought Dogs Would Love Autos!

But my intention was only to touch on a small phase of the automobile's significance. And that is what it means in the life of the dog.

Who would have prophesied that the automobile first appeared, that its most ardent devotee would be our canine friends? Yet such is certainly the case.

Do you know any dog who does not adore to ride in an auto? Personally I don't. Big or little, they all seem to feel that "was for my accommodation" this method of passing the country was devised.

And the pride they take in seeing their canine friends on the street when they themselves are ensconced in an auto! If anyone doubts that animals are capable of many human emotions, he should watch some dog on the seat of an auto superciliously looking down upon a dog on foot, or perhaps sharply barking out his sense of superiority.

Some search for joy in hoarded gold some find it in a modest way. Real contentment of the soul is in spite of what the cynics say; An happiness is of the home—the palace is no happier than the cottage on the simpler street where peace awaits the lumber man.

It's all in what we think we need, and what we feel we must possess. That makes its failures here on earth or stamps our labor with success; He who can walk the quiet lanes in glory in the friendly trees is just as rich in happiness as he whose gold in stacks is piled.

HAPPINESS.
It's all in what we're striving for, all in what we hope to do. There isn't any happiness that life can bring to us—no joy that we can see. You'll see some frown although they win, and others smile although they lose.

THE LIMOINESE DOG AND THE FLIVVER DOG.

One thing the Authorman and I cannot agree on. I maintain that the dog not only appreciates the unquestioned superiority of all who ride over all who walk, but that he realizes that the dog who rides in the limousine can look down upon the dog who rides in "an automobile such as some people think should be legislated against. It being almost as common as the people the Lord is supposed to love because he made so many of them."

The Authorman maintains that it is going too far. Nevertheless, he does admit that the dogs from whom he has received the most supercilious glances were mostly limousine dogs. Don't you think that gives me the best of the argument?

The Second Chapter of the Norapawie Massacre Story.

On the 4th of November, Rev. Mr. Foot, accompanied by a young Korean who speaks Japanese, visited Norapawie, taking with him some materials for clothing, Bibles and Hyatt Books and money to help in a small way the destitute.

On the following day seventeen Japanese soldiers and three policemen (one a Korean) visited the village. The terrified people, mostly women and children saw them coming and with a feeling of dread and horror, decided to stand their ground. The soldiers sent a messenger to a neighboring village from where six people had been shot, that a certain number of men were to come to Kan Chang Am (Norapawie) immediately. While these men were on the way the soldiers began razing the remaining walls of the burned dwellings. When the men arrived from the other village they were ordered to gather the bodies of the thirty-one shot a few days before from the various graves and bring them to one place. Some had already been removed to the family burying ground and were some distance away. The day was cold and the ground white with snow so that only thirteen of the charred remains were brought in. The remaining timbers of the destroyed houses were gathered together to serve as fuel, the bodies were placed on top of these and then more wood heaped over the bodies and the whole set on fire. The shivering and poorly clad mourners witnessed with aching hearts the re-burning of their loved ones. To the Korean mind this was most repulsive and distressing for, as a people, they greatly reverence their dead and have a tender affection for the departed.

The widows were then called into a room one by one and put through a rigid examination regarding their dead husbands and sons. Questions were also asked about the visits of the Missionaries, what they had said? how they had helped the people? They were made to promise that the bodies which had not been re-burned should never be uncovered and placed in a casket according to Korean custom and that when the present fire died out, which was not until next evening, the ashes should be all buried and afterwards covered, not uncovered. All the answers were written down and each woman was asked to put her seal to these that her answers were true and that she would obey instructions.

The people were then gathered together to listen to a defense and justification of all the cruelties that had been inflicted on the village. After this was over, the soldiers said they must return to Tonglung and asked that two men go with them as prisoners. There seemed to be no young men—there were the Elder's eldest son—the next two had been shot. He has not been released yet and we do not know where he is. Sometimes our friends are supposed to be in prison and we find out later that they have been deported or done to death.

HIS BUSY DAYS.

Now Brother Harding's days are busy, he has small chance to rest, or take a holiday in his leisure. In the sport he loves the best; for every hour some statesman dizzies arrives to be his guest. All day long the garden gate is creaking, as statesmen enter there, to do a lot of tiresome speaking and springing of hot air; and though poor Warren's nerves are shrieking, he has to grin and bear. He signified that he was willing to hear the views of men, and now the Windy Jimma go drilling to bore him in his den. Expounding, in their language thrilling, the whiteness of the when. And Warren oftentimes is thinking of brighter days, I guess, before Renown was busy linking his life with such distress, when in his shirt-sleeves he was linking his cheap old army press. The patriots all day surround him, and tell him what to do, and oft their yammerings confound him, and make him sad and blue; and office seekers and bound him, and laugh when he says "Shoo!" A half a million he is dreaming of brighter days gone—when approbation warm was beaming from Old Subscriber's eye, before the whole mad world was screaming for pie, and still more pie.

Trade Ruined by War.

Riga, which was known before the war as the Pearl of the Baltic and ranked as Russia's second port, is one of the saddest monuments to the destruction wrought by six years of ceaseless fighting. Half a million persons lived in Riga, before the war, and over four hundred large factories kept it busy and prosperous. Now there are only about two hundred thousand inhabitants and less than a score of factories are operating. Great rubber plants, car shops, wood-working shops and sawmills stand idle awaiting capital to buy machinery. The River Dvina and various lakes and inlets lying about the city are filled with logs. But there are no mills to convert them into timber, no ships to carry them into foreign markets. The docks are idle. Few trains operate, and those are fired with wood.

Pearler's "Bends".

Most of us know of the Caisson disease, the "bends" as those underwater workers call it. It will be news to many that the pearl divers of the South Pacific are subject to a somewhat similar disease.

Here is an extract from an article in the National Geographic Magazine for January upon the pearl divers.

"But the women are the worst," a sun-baked trader informed me; "the worst or the best, as you like to put it," he added grinning. "They'll go on till they burst, or pretty near it. Bargain-counter instinct, I guess. We call it the 'bends'."

"Yes, one of 'em goes down, and down; sees more more shell a little lower, and some more a little lower than that. Then she's reaching out for one last flutter at something like twenty fathoms, when they get her, the 'bends,' I mean. You can see her fighting against them, but it's no good; they bring her knees to her chin, and she can't straighten up, and she drops the last lot of shell she's gathered, and hates that worse than the 'bends.'"

"What does she do?"

"Nothing, except lie there crumpled up until her mate fetches her up and massages her back to life. Then she's no sooner conscious than she's down again."

"Why never kills this crowd? It takes dry land to do that. Why, there's a diver close on fifty years old here, paralyzed clean down one side. He can't walk, but he can swim. He gets them to carry him down to the reef and heave him in; says it's the only place he can get any comfort."

"How about sharks?" I asked.

"Oh, there are sharks alright, but the diver's mate looks after that; gives the signal and they're all in after him double quick."

"Finish him off with knives, eh?"

"The sun-baked trader smiled reminiscently."

"Well, hardly," he said. "A dead shark makes a square meal for the others, and that's all. What they need is an example, and they get it. They're cruising about sometimes when they come on one of these number-one pearls, one fin, and sundry other decorations that wouldn't exactly please the S. P. C. A. He is not nice to look at, and they clear out of a place where such things are possible."

"When an island's thrown open to poaching, we spend weeks mutilating sharks before the divers'll go down, and small blame to them, I say. Sharks are—well, sharks."

To Be Viceroy of India.

The next Viceroy of India will be the Earl of Reading, who has been Lord Chief Justice of England since 1913, although he was absent from his post for a time during the closing years of the war when he was in Washington, Special British Ambassador and High Commissioner to the United States.

Lord Reading, whose name is Rufus Isaacs, takes his title from the City of Reading, on the Thames, 30 miles west of London, noted among other things for its biscuit manufactures. In 1904 Reading elected him to the House of Commons. He represented the constituency for nine years, during three of which he was Attorney-General to the Asquith Ministry. Resigning in 1913, he was appointed Lord Chief Justice and raised to the peerage.

Lord Reading is a London man. He was born in that city on October 10, 1860, and was educated at London University College. He studied law at the Middle Temple. For many years he was one of the leaders of the English Bar, and was noted for his searching examination of witnesses and for the clear and convincing nature of his addresses to juries and to the Bench.

The post of Viceroy and Governor-General of India is one of the highest as well as one of the most onerous under the British Crown, and the long line of men who have filled it since 1774 contains many of Britain's foremost statesmen among them having been the Marquis Wellesley, Lord Ellenborough, the Marquis of Dalhousie, Lord Canning, The Earl of Elgin, the Marquis of Dufferin, the Marquis of Lansdowne and the Earl of Minto. The latter five had been Governors-General of Canada before going out to the Indian Empire.

The appointment is usually for five years. The capital of the Indian Empire and the seat of Government is now Delhi. The removal from Calcutta was made in 1912, and Calcutta was formed into a separate territory under a Chief Commissioner.

For Constipation

GOOD health cannot be maintained if constipation is allowed to poison the system.

Nujol works on an entirely new principle. Without forcing or irritating, it softens the food waste. This enables the many tiny muscles in the intestines, contracting and expanding in their normal way, to squeeze the food waste along and out of the system.

It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. Try it.
