Nova Scotia Steamers Collide in Fog.

Plant Liner Halifax Grounds in Fog in Boston Harbor, and Shortly After Floating, Comes In Collision with D.A.R. Prince Arthur.

BOSTON, July 17.—The Plant line steamship, Halifax, which grounded on George's Island this morning, while making her way up the harbor through a heavy fog, was floated on this afternoon's flood tide, fulfilling the old adage about misfortunes never coming singly, had proceeded but a short distance before she was in collision with Dominion Atlantic Steamship Prince Arthur.

When the Prince Arthur, Captain Kenny commanding, left her pier, the thick fog of the morning still hung over the harbor, and the steamer proceeded slowly from her pier, also keeping her whistles busy. Just off Castle Island the government revenue cutter Winnissimmett approached the Halifax and Captain George Barrett was about to board the Plant liner when there loomed up through the fog the lowering form of the Prince Arthur.

Warns Automobiles

Too Many Cases of Speeding, Says Judge Lanctot.

(Montreal Witness.) Judge Lanctot sounded a note of warning to the habitual fast driver of automobiles in this city, stating that the number of arrests for this offence, which have reached the figure of 82 since the beginning of spring, are far too many.

The dangerous practice of suddenly appearing in the middle of the road from apparently nowhere, and swooping down our crowded streets, with the speed of a locomotive train, has got to stop. The Judge was giving some sound advice to the owners of auto's and putting a special plea for the safety of children who may be playing in the street.

'Automobile owners do not have any more right of way,' he said, 'than any other vehicle. They are allowed to go at a speed of nine miles an hour. Half of the men brought to court are not aware of the speed they are going, and when arrested are surprised when told that instead of going nine miles, they are going twenty—like this man to-day—indicating John Doyle, a motor car owner. I will fine you $20, and costs, amounting to $28.50 and don't come here again, or it will cost you more.'

Crop and Live Stock Bulletin

Ottawa, July 13th.—A crop and live stock bulletin for Canada is issued today. The condition of the field crops of Canada for the month ending June 30, as compiled in the census and Statistics office from the reports of a large staff of correspondents, is on the whole quite satisfactory, although on account of uneven rainfall it is not uniform for all the provinces. Even in parts of the same province, as in Ontario, there is a considerable inequality. For the most part in that province excellent reports are made, but there are districts in which the grains and hay have been badly affected for want of rains in May and June.

For the whole of Canada the condition of winter wheat is only 75.26 per cent as compared with one hundred for a full crop. This is ten per cent less than last year, two per cent less than in 1909 and nearly fourteen per cent less than three years ago. In Ontario it is only seventy-five per cent of a full crop, as compared with 94.29 last year, 78.60 in 1909, and eighty-eight in 1903. In Alberta, the only other province in which winter wheat is largely grown the condition this year is 83.22 per cent, compared with 63.62 in 1910, 65.65 in 1909 and ninety-five in 1902. Spring wheat in all the provinces this year is given the high average condition of 94.78 at the end of June, which is better than in 1910 by 12.62 per cent, better than in 1909 by eight per cent, and better than in 1908 by nearly fifteen per cent. Ontario and British Columbia are the only provinces in which the conditions are under ninety, and only in Saskatchewan and Manitoba it is close to one hundred.

The average for barley is ninety-three, which is six to ten per cent better than in the preceding three years. It reaches close to ninety-five in the Northwest provinces, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, and over ninety in Nova Scotia and Quebec, a point below ninety in Ontario and only eighty-four in British Columbia.

Oats show an average of 94.46 for all provinces, which is higher than any year since 1908, and is ninety-five or higher in Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Quebec and the Northwest Provinces. In Ontario it is close to ninety, and over ninety in British Columbia.

Rye, peas and mixed grains are given a condition of about ninety for the Dominion, and are higher than in any year beginning with 1908. Hay and clover and alfalfa are both below last year's conditions, and pasture is a point higher. In the three Northwest provinces the condition of pasture is over one hundred.

The feature of late cereals is the increase of area in flax, which is nearly three hundred thousand acres more than last year. The largest increase of flax is in Saskatchewan, where this crop in recent years has grown into great favour.

The numbers of live stock do not show much change from last year, but their condition at the end of June is very satisfactory. All classes are within less than two points of one hundred, and an excellent uniformity is shown throughout all the provinces.

A PUBLIC NUISANCE.

The habit of decorating a nice bit of pavement with saliva is a favorite with loafers in other places than Bridgetown. The following protest by the Lunenburg Progress is none too emphatic:—

"While our Town Council is in the mood for reforms and the editor of the Progress suggests that there be placards prohibiting spitting on the street, perhaps it is thoughtlessness, perhaps it is carelessness, but the danger exists, not when this sputum, disgusting as it is to the passer-by, is wet, but when it dries and mingles with the air that is breathed by high and low alike, that is the time it is a menace to all whose constitutions are in a weak enough state to receive it. This is no theory to be scoffed at. It is a horrible fact and before we start cleaning the interior of the houses, let the Town Council clean the exterior, that is the sidewalks, which today represent the public cuspidors.—Lunenburg Progress.

A Progressive Annapolis County Farmer

The editor of the Middleton Outlook describes a visit paid a few days ago to the farm of Mr. John Bishop of Lawrencetown. Mr. Bishop takes a deep interest in his farm. Upon it he was born and here he has spent his entire life. He has steadily enlarged and improved it until now it is one of the best in Annapolis Co. About 17 years ago he added to his homestead about 40 acres from the George Daniels farm which bounded his lands upon the west and two years ago he also acquired the Dr. Primrose block lying between his own property and the Annapolis river. This latter consisted of 16 acres about two thirds of which was in orchard.

Mr. Bishop's property now extends from the Annapolis river southward two miles to Inghisville including nearly 200 acres. Thirty acres of this is in orchard from 10 to 30 years out. One year the orchard without the Primrose section yielded 1000 barrels of apples and two years ago including this latest acquisition a 1000 crop was again gathered. This year Mr. Bishop expects a 2000 barrels yield if nothing adverse in weather conditions occurs.

It was with just pride that Mr. Bishop showed the writer over his farm. At one place on the bank of the beautiful Annapolis river overshadowing a salmon pool we admired a row of stately ornamental trees. A few steps farther back is a shady grove fitted up with seats making a cool retreat an ideal spot in which to find rest from the mid-day heat. On another part of the farm is a wide range of the county association while in still another place is the source of supply for the water system of the town of Lawrencetown. Mr. Bishop's buildings also have the advantage of this water service.

The question of cooperative fruit shipping is one in which Mr. Bishop has taken a keen interest. He is the president of the Lawrencetown Fruit and Produce Co., and is very optimistic as to the future of cooperative shipping in the Annapolis Valley. Another matter to which Mr. Bishop and his two sons, who assist him on the farm is that of thinning the fruit on the trees. He has become convinced that the plan is a good one and intends making an experiment this year.

As we noted the broad acres, the heavy laden rows of apple trees and the general appearance of comfort and thrift, we wondered why young men should think of leaving this beautiful and fertile Valley for the West. If instead they would make up their minds to become owners of such properties in the Valley as that of Mr. Bishop they could accomplish their ambition with no more effort and with far less sacrifice than is required to accomplish success in the West.

Right in your busiest season when you have the least time to spare you are most likely to take diarrhoea and lose several days' time, unless you have Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand and take a dose on the first appearance of the disease. For sale by all dealers.

Never was war waged in the history of man but was pronounced inevitable by its makers; but cannot posterity look back and see that every one of them could have been avoided if the flames of selfishness and ambition had been quenched by the saving waters of reason, neighborliness, equity? Time after time wars have been foretold as "inevitable," yet intelligence and moral sense have successfully postponed them to this very hour, perchance forever. No. The plea "inevitable" is the plea of the timid and faithless. It is the note of unbelief. It is faith's paralysis. It is Hope denounced by Giant Despair. It is pessimism's last will and testament. Found in whatever mouth, it is a confession of unfaith in moral progress, the evolution of society and the perfection of human character. All things are possible to him who believes.

Official Census Notice

The newspapers have been reporting omissions on the part of enumerators of the Census, especially in the large cities of the Dominion, and notwithstanding the care of the Census Office to enjoin a performance of accurate and full work on the part of enumerators it is possible that in some instances persons and even families have been passed over. It is known at the office that many reports of omissions are without foundation, and that generally the enumeration has been well and fully made, although it is yet too early for a final decision. The fact is that the census of a district or enumeration area was often not completed when complaints were first publicly made. The Census Office earnestly desires that the name of every man, woman and child in the country, as well as all other information called for in the schedules, should be recorded as the statute and the instructions require. But lest there should be an inadvertent omission on the part of any enumerator, the Office respectfully invites the co-operation of the public for the completion of a full census. To this end persons who believe or suspect that they have not been taken are asked to notify the Chief Officer of the Census at Ottawa, giving their names, post office address, street and number if residing in cities, towns or villages, or concession and number of lot if residing in country places. Letters containing information of this nature are postage free, and if it is found that such persons have not been enumerated in the returns made to the Census Office, names will at once be taken to remedy the defects through the local officers of the Census who were employed in the work and who are responsible if any mistakes have been made in their respective enumeration areas.

For summer diarrhoea in children always give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil, and a speedy cure is certain. For sale by all dealers.

FARM SADDLE HORSE.

A Pleasurable Exercise and a Source of Profit Overlooked by Farmers

Excepting in cities and towns, says the Canadian Farm, horseback riding belongs to the past. One rarely sees a farmer's son or daughter engaging in this delightful exercise. The saddle and the saddle horse have given way to the top buggy. No one on a farm ever thinks of putting the saddle on a horse and enjoying a nice canter to the post office. It is a case of walking, if the distance is not too great, or hitching "Nell" to the buggy, or it may be getting astride a "bike" and "hiking" it up the dusty road. The change is not in the best interests of the country. There is something about a nice saddle horse and outfit that adds a charm to life on the farm. And it would be too a strong factor in encouraging boys to remain on the farm. One of the main reasons for the change is the type of horse kept on the average farm. The heavy horse which it pays the farmer so well to raise, does not make a good saddle beast. But even on farms and in sections of country where light horses are raised one rarely sees a saddle or a farmer's boy astride his best charger. The saddle horses now in use in cities or towns were bred and raised on farms. But it was not till they were sold off the farms that they got their first taste of the paddle and spur. Why could not such horses be broken to the saddle as well on the farm as off it? It would be a profitable business as well as one that would afford considerable pleasure to the farmer or the farmer's boy. The first-class, well-trained saddle horse sells for big money, but it is not the farmer who gets the big price. It is the man to whom the farmer sells who gets the "plum."

Digby Has Another Criminal Sensation.

Cowardly Attack of One Colored Man Upon Another Will Probably Result in Death of Injured Man—Tebbo Pays Penalty of His Crimes.

Digby has a double sensation this week. On Monday the hanging of John Tebo for the murder of Edward MacGregor took place. The day previous another crime was committed about two miles from the scene of the MacGregor tragedy and another murderer will likely pay the penalty with his life.

A Digby dispatch says:—Waldon Harris, colored, who has been working at St. John during the last three years, arrived at his home at Marshalltown, with his family for his vacation. He called at a neighbor's house about one o'clock, where was present William Owens, colored, a native of Annapolis County. As Harris entered the door, Owens struck him a terrific blow on the head over the ear. The hammer penetrated the skull about half an inch. Dr. Patten, of Digby, was called and considered Harris' condition critical and likely to prove fatal. Chief of Police Bowles was summoned at five o'clock, Owens, who was home, fled for the woods, with the chief in pursuit. The chief fired four shots at a distance of twenty-five yards. A fifth shot grazed the fugitive's right leg. He fell, and was handcuffed and lodged in the Digby jail. He is held pending further developments. There was a private grudge between the men.

It is said that Owens belongs to Granville Ferry. John Oliver Tebo was hanged within the jail yard enclosure last Monday morning. Tebo, who is about nineteen years of age, was tried in Digby in June and found guilty of the murder of Edward MacGregor, who mysteriously disappeared on the night of October eighteenth, 1910, and whose body was found near the old Oakes Road, Nov. 20th.

On the night before the execution he confessed to the murder, admitting that he killed the old man for his money, and that he had pre-meditated doing so. While in a neighbor's lot with the old man, where they had gone for cabbage to treat themselves to a "cabbage supper" he made use of the axe which he had in his hand to strike his friend in the head. He then took his pocket-book containing something over a hundred dollars and went to Digby and St. John where he spent all the money. He professed repentance and conversion.

Never Point Gun as a Joke

Little Boy Innocently Shoots Another at Canso—Didn't Know it was Loaded.

Canso, July 15—A serious and what may prove a fatal shooting accident happened here today. A number of boys were swimming near the fish store of William Shridder, and one of them named Willie Horn, about ten years old, went into the store and finding a gun lying on a table, picked it up and pointed it out of the door at the boys coming out of the water. It went off, discharging the whole load in the face of Jason Smith, shattering the chin and lower jaw and passing through his neck.

The parents of little Willie Horn are prostrated. Of course, he did not know it was loaded. The gun was left in the store by Borden Shridder on his return from gunning, because he could not extract a shell that had got jammed. He laid it up out of reach until he had time to extract the shell. There is small hopes for the Smith boy's recovery.

A young fellow from Underwood in town last week, when asked what he thought of 'Reciprocity,' replied his mother never used any other than Red Ross.—Port Elgin, Ont. Times.

Barn Destroyed by Lightning

Eighteen Head of Cattle Burned.

One of the most disastrous electrical storms which has passed over Halifax County for some years set in shortly before three o'clock Saturday morning and although of short duration wrought heavy damage. Lightning struck the barn of John Settle, Cole Harbor, completely demolishing the building and killing eighteen head of cattle, three horses and burning six tons of hay. The harness and other farming utensils were destroyed. The loss sustained is estimated to be in the vicinity of three thousand dollars. There is said to be little insurance.

Summer nights in Edmonton give only about two hours and a half of actual darkness. One can easily read fine print by daylight at half past ten. Ball games begin at 7.30. The longest day gives eighteen hours of sunshine. Canadians call this province "Sunny Alberta," and a cloud in the sky is rare enough to attract attention.

King George's effigy appears on a new Canadian coin. The honor of the first appearance will go to the humble cent, which is the only coin for which dies have yet been received by the mint. The demand for currency is increasing and the government must meet it.

Forest Fires Rage

in Cumberland.

Already Much Lumber Has Been Destroyed—Rain Can Only Stop March of Flames.

Amherst, N. S., July 17—A terrible forest fire has been raging in the Western portion of this county for the last week. The fire originated on the lumber property owned by Messrs. Cochran and A. Soley, at Fox River. These gentlemen claim that the fire was plainly the work of an incendiary and that fires were set in three distinct places on their property and on portions of it not visited by either hunters or fishermen.

From Fox River Settlement the fire has spread to the adjoining lumber areas owned by C. T. White and Son Apple River, Robinson and Wright, Shulee; Kelley Brothers, River Herbert, and also to the property of H. W. Elderkin in the same section of the county. So far the fire has run through valuable timber lands for a distance of eighteen miles and has burned a path from six to eight miles wide. From one hundred to two hundred men employed by the different lumbermen in this section of the county, have been vigorously fighting the fire for the past six or eight days with but little success.

Today the conflagration is raging as fiercely as ever and clouds of smoke overhang all the valleys along the Bay of Fundy coast and through the River Herbert Valley. Robinson and Wright have a cut of two million feet of lumber which is seriously threatened, the flames now being within two miles of their mills and the fire is now travelling toward this property.

It is impossible as yet to give any estimate with regard to the loss but there is no doubt that millions of feet of valuable lumber has been destroyed. So far as can be learned no houses or buildings have yet become a prey to the flames but several settlements have had close calls. If rain does not come to relieve the situation it looks as if the fire would continue until it burns itself out. Without doubt it is one of the most disastrous fires that has ever visited this part of the province and the loss of the lumber operators will be exceedingly heavy.

FOREST FIRES AT LAKE ANNIS.

Saunders' Saw Mill and Six Houses Destroyed.

(Yarmouth Herald) The heavy forest fire that has been raging for some days past between Forest Glen and Lake Annis, approached dangerously near the settlement of Lake Annis recently, and the residents were in a state of anxiety, particularly at six o'clock in the afternoon, when the extensive saw mill of Mr. David R. Saunders was destroyed, taking with it six of the employees' houses and two barns.

There are a number of summer houses in the village owned by Yarmouthians, but few of them were occupied, it being the intention to go there after Old Home Week. Dr. Solomon and wife, of Truro, were there with Mrs. W. H. Moody, and fortunately the welcome rain came about ten o'clock at night, when the fire had reached within half a mile of the houses.

Several had removed their effects from the houses, as it was feared nothing could stop the approach of the fire. A strong southeast wind was blowing, which added to the volume of the flames, and made the scene one of awe and terror, as with a roar the flames leaped from tree to tree with amazing rapidity.

By midnight all danger was passed and the tired weary residents dropped off to sleep. Mr. Saunders' mill and contents, and the lumber burned were insured.

TUBERCULOUS MILK.

The final report of the British Royal Commission on Tuberculosis simply confirms the views held by the majority of experts as to the danger from the bovine disease. It is reported that of twenty-eight cases of pulmonary consumption two were of bovine origin, and of twenty-nine cases of abdominal tuberculosis four showed bovine bacilli exclusively and two contained both bovine and human forms of germ.

The Commission therefore concludes that precautions against human infection from the milk and meat of tuberculous cows cannot safely be neglected. It states that these precautions are particularly necessary in the case of milk consumed by children, and adds that "bacilli may be present in the milk of tuberculous cows presenting no evidence whatever of disease of the udder." Because of this it believes that "measures for securing the prevention of ingestion of living bovine bacilli with milk would greatly reduce the number of cases of abdominal and cervical gland tuberculosis in children."

These conclusions which may be considered as a final and authoritative considered as a final and authoritative question, leave the milkman a choice between two methods—at least so far as his milk intended for the feeding of infants and young children is concerned. He can use only tuberculin tested cattle, or he can pasteurize his milk. The danger to the adult from bovine tuberculosis is certainly small, but even in his case a pasteurized or tested raw milk is to be preferred.

When The Children Go Bathing

Sea bathing in nearly all cases is good for children. It invigorates and stimulates them, and the sunshine warming their little bodies is better than the best of tonics.

Sea bathing in this climate begins about the second week in June and ends about the first week in September. Very little children should be allowed to paddle on the edge until they become used to the idea. It is a decided mistake to frighten a child by compelling him to let you carry him into deep water. More harm than good is done by these methods, and the child comes with a fear of water that sometimes lasts him for many years.

Children who are in the habit of taking their daily bath in a tub filled with water are seldom afraid to go into deep water when swimming times comes. But if they are afraid, compulsion and duckings will not cure them. One thing should be remembered, however, the head should be thoroughly wet as soon as the child wades into the sea. The first bath should last only ten minutes at the very longest. After the child becomes accustomed to the climate and the weather gets warmer the bath may be protracted to fifteen or even twenty minutes.

For the first week or two, in order to get invigorating effects, the bath should not take place every day, but every other day or twice a week. Immediately after the bath the child should be rubbed with a rough towel and dressed. He may then play on the beach in the sunshine or take a brisk run. A great many mothers allow their children to take sun baths while in their wet bathing suits. This sometimes has good effects, but if the child is dried and dressed quickly he is certain not to be chilled and the effects are just as good.

Of course every mother knows that no child should ever be allowed to enter the water if it is either too cold or too hot. If the child is chilled before the bath he should not take it. If he is perspiring from the heat he should be allowed to cool off gradually before he goes into the surf. A child's bathing suit should be made of light flannel, in one piece, with short sleeves, and legs. If he has to be carried any distance to a bath-house, he should have a warm dressing gown of towelling or flannel to put on as soon as he comes out of the water.

Every child past eight years of age should be taught to swim. It is not difficult at this age to teach them. Children are natural swimmers at any rate and take to swimming like little tadpoles. It is better to teach them the elemental stroke, which is, properly speaking the dog fashion method. Those who learn the art of swimming early soon acquire better strokes, and dog fashion requires less effort than the breast stroke.—The World Magazine.

Change in Nova Scotia Cabinet

Attorney-General MacLean Leaving to practice Law in Montreal.

Ottawa, July 16—An impending change in the Nova Scotia Government is foreshadowed in the admission to the Bar of Quebec last week of Hon. A. K. MacLean, the Provincial Attorney-General.

Mr. MacLean was here on Saturday and stated to friends that he intends to retire from provincial politics, but he is uncertain just when it will be. He proposes to locate and practice his profession in Montreal, with more particular attention to corporation business.

A TOILET REQUISITE.

Borax and the finer boracic acid are so valuable that a small package of each should always be at hand, whether one is at home or travelling. For toilet use, borax enters into the preparation of many of the most popular cosmetics. It has a softening and healing effect upon the skin, if not used too frequently. To remove the shiny look common to some complexions, add a pinch of borax to the water in which the face is bathed. If the eyes are tired, especially from the heat of the day and the sun, a solution of boracic acid—one teaspoonful to a pint of boiled water—is highly recommended as a wash.

It is also valuable as a healing lotion for slight cuts and scratches. Hands that become red upon exposure may be softened and whitened by bathing them in hot water to which a good-sized pinch of borax has been added.

To remove the odor of perspiration dust well with powdered borax under the arms after bathing.

HAS THE FLIGHT OF THE VITAL SPARK BEEN WITNESSED?

Detroit, Mich., July 17—The flight of the vital spark has been witnessed or dusty a shampoo ineeded—where Dr. Patrick S. O'Dell, of Chicago, an X-ray expert, who has been following experiments made by Dr. W. J. Kilner, of England. Some time ago, using a chemicalized film, sealed between two thin strips of glass, Dr. O'Dell made a demonstration to twenty physicians of the aura or "electrical radiation" of living bodies, four young women being the subjects. The aura developed a strong ray of light surrounding the entire form of the subject.

"Last night, said Dr. O'Donnell, "in the presence of several physicians in Mercy hospital, I tried the experiment on a dying man. He was rapidly sinking. Suddenly the attending physician announced that the man was dead. The aura began to spread from the body and presently disappeared. Further observation of the corpse revealed no sign of the aura. "We don't claim that the light is the soul or spirit, in fact no one knows what it is. In my opinion, however, it is some sort of radio activity, made visible by the use of the chemicalized film. My experiments, however, seem to prove that it is the animated power or current of life of human beings."

THE DOWN GRADE.

A King's Counsel, well known among the younger barristers of Toronto, was sent to the penitentiary yesterday for three years on several charges of forgery. At one time he was most attentive to his practice, most methodical in his ways, most exemplary in his habits. Whiskey caused his downfall. As he increased his consumption of strong drink his attention to business ceased, and before long he was engaged in the gravest of crimes that a man of his profession can be guilty of the forging of the names of public officials to bogus property titles.

How many young men in business life and in the professions are following in the road he took to ruin. They indulge in daily tipples—enough to muddle, but not enough to mean public disgrace or cause the pointing of the finger and the whispered words in club or office: "_____ is on the down grade."

USE OF DEPLIATORIES.

Beware of the depilatory! This is just exactly the advice given by one of the most reputable beauty doctors in the country.

Depilatories are advertised constantly and their virtues urged forward, many lines of space being given over to declarations that they will positively remove all disfiguring and superfluous hair from face, neck or arms. Women, in all of whom the desire for beauty of person is the highest and strongest instinct, flock to the purchase of depilatories. All depilatories, according to this beauty specialist, who really knows, are composed principally of quick-lime. The result of the applied depilatory is to eat the hair off, but in so doing encourages a larger and more obstinate growth. From a soft fuzz, the hair on the face comes back a stiff bristling beard, and from having to apply the depilatory ones in four or six weeks, the period necessary decreases to a week or a day or two. Continuous and long use of the depilatory or quicklime will inevitably injure the skin, and is liable to cause serious eruption or skin disease.

And all the time the hair comes back again, in increasing growth. Unless some process of law limits the sale of depilatories, the world is doomed to a race of bearded women, says this beauty expert, and her testimony is backed up by the same assurance from others in her line of work.

A great amount of money is now being spent in Canada, the United States, Great Britain and other countries in providing sanitariums for the treatment of tuberculosis, especially advanced cases. But Dr. Montizambest, chief medical health officer for the Dominion, is of the opinion that these institutions while of great value will never of themselves serve to eradicate the disease. He holds that more effective work can be done through the medium of local dispensaries, and visits of trained nurses to the homes of the afflicted, combined with energetic action on the part of the municipal authorities in improving the housing accommodation of the poorer classes, and hygienic conditions generally.

ELECTION IN SEPTEMBER.

Appeal to Country During August is Regarded as Unlikely.

Ottawa despatch—The party workers in charge of the practical task of preparing for a general election, do not take much stock in the report that the voting will take place in August on account of the practical difficulties in the way of such an early appeal to the country. They say that no matter what happens when the House meets, the government will not ask the farmers of Canada to vote in the middle of the harvest season. October is the ideal month for an election, because the rush of farm work is over, and the evenings are long, making it easy to attend political meetings. If the Opposition refuses to vote supply, thus making an appeal to the country necessary, the Government will probably not find it convenient to wait till October, but the workers say that there is little likelihood of the vote being taken before September 10th at the earliest.

APPLES BAKED ON TREES BY SUN.

Rochester, N. Y., July 7—A special from Brockport says that apples growing on the Frank Sparling farm, north of there were baked on the trees by the intense heat yesterday. Some of the apples were taken to Brockport and exhibited in a store window.

MORE THAN BUSY.

In a certain hotel some commercials were in the habit of chaffing Biddy, the waitress, on her good looks (?) On this morning one of the guests asked Biddy why she did not appear more tidy when serving up breakfast to gentlemen.

HEROIC.

An exceedingly drunken man on a very rainy day stood weaving back and forth beneath a belching water spout. A passing policeman took him by the arm thinking to lead him away, but the drunk resisted weakly and mumbled: "Shave the wimmen and children, I can swim."

ALTERNATION.

Farmer Silow—"Do you alternate your crops?" Farmer Timothy—"Yep. Have 'em killed by one thing one year and another the next."

Another Crusade

(Chicago Post.) Ban the cup and swat the fly, Let us sicken, lest we die; Dust the towel and the comb From the places where we roam— But let's face another task; But more crime we must unmask— March ye, brave, crusading bands, In the Clerk with Grimy Hands.

See him in the grocer's store, Hands the color of the floor; Watch him as he calmly digs From the box the juicy figs, Or the dates that we desire— Let us tell what we require, Say things that he understands, To the Clerk with Grimy Hands.

See him in the candy shop, Picking out the cream and drop, Breaking taffy from the piece— Let us go call the police See his fingers and his nails— Properly His Grimy Hands. We can't find a word that brands Serving us in every guise With his hands all streaked with dirt—

Like his collar and his shirt, Let us join, while there is hope We can make him use some soap, Let us march in earnest bands On the Clerk with Grimy Hands. On the Clerk with Grimy Hands, Till swift retribution lands On the Clerk with Grimy Hands. Jerking soda, cutting pies, Brethren, here our courage fails;

GEOGRAPHY EXAM. PAPER IS NOT SATISFACTORY

Dissatisfaction is expressed by parents with the grade 9 provincial examinations in geography, it being that questions four and five should have no place on the list since the pupils are not instructed in what is asked for. These questions are as follows—

"Name the three great railway systems of Canada, with the provinces through which they pass. Name the two transcontinental systems now under construction, and the place selected as the western terminus of each."

"Give the name and location of the canals for overcoming obstruction by rapids and falls in the water route between Lake Superior and Montreal."

The examination has also been criticized as not having a single question on the British Empire, nor on general geography.

Nova Scotia Woman In-Railroad Wreck

Mrs. William Hartman Seriously Injured and Her Little Boy Killed.

BOSTON, July 15.—Amongst the casualties in the terrible accident of the New York-New Haven and Hartford Railroad at Bridgeport, Conn., on Tuesday morning last Nova Scotia had its share. Mrs. Wm. Hartman of Newfield, N. J., and her three year old son were in one of the cars that was totally destroyed. Her little boy was badly hurt and now lies in the Bridgeport hospital. Her husband was wired for, and is now with her. Some hopes are entertained for his recovery. She was on her way to Westport, Digby Co., to spend the summer at her father's, of Councillor H. P. Bowers of Westport, and a niece of E. C. Bowers, a former M. P. of Digby Co.

TAX REFORM IN SASKATCHEWAN.

Everybody knows that the progressive West is years ahead of eastern Canada in its tax laws and it appears that the West is determined to continue the lead.

At the session of the Saskatchewan Legislature which has just closed a decided move towards allowing cities and towns to adopt the single tax system gradually but within four years, was made. In the cities and towns the assessment is now 100 per cent of the value of the land and 60 per cent on buildings and improvements. The latter may now be decreased at such a rate that in four years there will be no assessment on buildings and improvements. The City Act has recently been amended to allow bona fide tenants to vote at municipal elections, under reasonable conditions.

This amendment to the city act of Saskatchewan is very similar to the proposal so vigorously urged by the press of Ontario during the past year that the Municipalities be allowed to tax improvements at a lower rate than land values. Throughout the rural areas of Saskatchewan the assessment is a flat rate per acre, regardless of value, and there are no taxes levied on the farmer's personal property, buildings or improvements. At the recent session of the legislature provision was made whereby rural organizations might assess at a certain rate per acre on a valuation basis, but this will not likely be adopted to any great extent until the year 1912.

The single tax system is used by about 20 villages out of 185 organized in Saskatchewan.

Every man has his ups and downs, and you are bound to have yours. Always, but especially when you are down, quit yourself like a man, be brave, strong, have your nerve with you, be dead game, according to your manner of speech. It makes no difference how you say it—it's how you do it. The many kinds of people that make up this world have many kinds of speech, and sometimes one does not understand what the other says but everybody understands the language of human character and and everybody admires the man who never forgets his manhood.

UNCLE GAV.

IT SOUNDS FLAT.

Of course everybody says flat things once in a while. But wise people try to make that once-in-a-while synonymous with seldom or hardly ever.

Also, of course it's hard to tell when you are saying them. But here's a pretty good way to tell. Whenever you catch yourself planning to say something simply because you think it will impress people with your beauty or popularity or some other desirable quality, don't say it. Ten to one they will see right through you and it will sound flat.

Last week the family of A. W. Sherwood, for twenty years station master at Sussex, N. B., were poisoned by eating gelatine. Mr. Sherwood died on Wednesday, July 12th and Mrs. Sherwood and daughter were seriously ill at the time.

The day dreams that profit a man are those dreamed when his hands are at rest, and the brains of others are idle. The ambition that is so overbearing, that it cannot concern itself with the demands of the immediate present is its own defeat. Keep your day dreams for your idle moments. Then, if you turn them into practical channels, if you follow them up with undivided, concentrated effort, they may make you great.

But while you work, work. Let no glimpse of future glories distract accuracy, general efficiency are the divided effort of head and hand.

Automobile Exploded

The St. John Globe says: An explosion, followed by the complete destruction of Percy W. Thomson's 40-horse power, seven passenger White Steamer Pullman touring automobile, was the unusual sight witnessed in Gilbert's Lane shortly after noon today. The chauffeur, Harry Chittick, alone in the car, was waiting near the tennis court to drive home Mr. Thomson's young son, Eric, who was passing away the time at playing tennis. As Eric was about to step into the car an explosion took place, and the chauffeur, nervous with the shock, had just enough time to jump and avoid serious burns, for the fire followed so quickly that in a few minutes flames were roaring 25 feet in the air. The automobile was soon a heap of debris. So quickly did the blaze take possession that Mr. Chittick was unable to save the spare tires on the side of the machine.

CENSUS IS PROMISING.

Canada's Population May Considerably Exceed Eight Millions. Ottawa, July 11.—Census returns from many districts largely exceed the estimates made by the Census Bureau, and it would not be surprising if the returns, when totalled, show a population for Canada of considerably over eight millions. A notable instance is the constituency of West Toronto, which, in 1901, had a population of 44,000, but today has over 100,000, an increase of one hundred and thirty per cent. The details of other cities and constituencies have not yet been made up.

For Skin Diseases

A Treatment that Costs Nothing Unless it Provides Satisfactory Relief.

We have a grayish white ointment with a pleasant odor that is clean to use, which we believe is the best known remedy for the relief of skin diseases. It is especially efficacious for overcoming eczema in all its various forms, ringworm, acne, pimples, blotches, insect bites, tetter, certain forms of ulcers, sores and wounds. It is strongly antiseptic, cleansing, soothing and healing. It stops all itching and burning caused by skin eruptions.

We are so positive that our ointment is unequalled that we offer it with distinct understanding that if after having given it a reasonable trial, you are not satisfied with the results, we will, without quibbling, return every cent paid for it. We exact no promises or obligations whatever.

We want you to try Rexall Eczema Ointment. The first application gives a refreshing sense of relief, and because of its germ destroying power it eradicates the germ or parasite which causes eczema and many other eruptions. It quickly allays the inflammation, gives protection to the inflamed surfaces, and helps restore healthy tissue. It is particularly active in relieving skin ailments peculiar to children. You certainly cannot lose anything by trying it. We would not dare make this offer except, we are positive Rexall Eczema Ointment will satisfactorily benefit you. Two sizes, fifty cents and one dollar. Remember, you can obtain it only at our store—The Rexall Store, Royal Pharmacy, W. A. Warren.

WHERE A MAN RISES.

When a woman comes into a room in which there are only a few people, say about half a dozen, all the men should rise at once and remain standing until she is seated. In a crowded room at a tea party, this, of course, is not necessary.

If a man is already seated at the table he should rise when women come to the table. Men who are very careful of their manners do this even at hotels and restaurants if strangers are put at their table, but it is unusual. Heidelberg students in Europe keep up this practice, and it is said that Harvard students in this country also do so.

If a woman in passing down the aisle of a theatre or train pauses to speak to friends any men in the party should rise while she is speaking, and if on a train, one of them should offer his seat.

A man should always remain standing until the women at a table are seated, pulling the chair back for the oldest or the one nearest, if there are more men present.

If a man by chance sits next to a woman acquaintance on a car or subway and she leaves the train before he does, he should rise and lift his hat when saying goodby.

It is unnecessary for a man to rise if a woman goes in and out of a room many times. This would be stretching an act of courtesy to the point of ridiculousness, although there are few excessively polite men, who insist on keeping their manners polished to this degree.

A man should never remain seated while he talks to a woman who is standing. This applies to offices as well as drawing rooms. A courteous employer can always get good work from his employees.

NEVER FORGET THIS

When packing for the country cottage, don't forget your box of Zam-Buk and your Zam-Buk soap. Blisters, sunburn, scratches, insect stings, etc., if not immediately attended to, are likely to spoil your pleasure. Zam-Buk ensures you a gainst trouble from these. Zam-Buk is antiseptic, kills all poison in wounds, whether from barbed wire fence, or insect sting. Soothes aching feet and blistered hands; heals baby's chafed pieces; cools those sunburn patches, and prevents freckles. No mother should be without it. Purely herbal in its composition, Zam-Buk is superior to the ordinary ointments containing animal oils and fats, and mineral coloring matter. All druggists and stores 50c. box. Use also Zam-Buk Soap. Best for baby's bath and for tender skin. 25c. tablet.

Electric Beans Are a Natural Remedy for Nerve, Stomach and Liver Disorders.

Once upon a time disease was thought to be due to direct influence of evil spirit and magic was invoked to cast it out.

Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits still exist we call them "Disease Germs," and they must also be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines biliousness with its aches and pains, or in fact seventy-five per cent of the ills that affect the human race, is the result.

Electric Beans are the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Their action is quick and thorough, they clear the intestines, rouse the torpid liver to new life, stimulate mucous membranes to healthy action and cleanse and invigorate the whole digestive tract. Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a box in the home.

See our booklet of remarkable, true, testimonials. Test this remedy at our risk, if it is not satisfactory we will cheerfully refund the money paid for it.

Electric Beans can be had from the stores of S. N. Weare, W. A. Warren, Mrs. B. C. Turner, J. E. Lloyd & Son and C. L. Piggott or direct from us 50c. a box. THE ELECTRIC BEAN CHEMICAL COMPANY, LTD. Ottawa, Ont.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 26, 1911.

The movement to hold a Flower Show in Bridgetown has materialized in a definite plan and a well compiled prize list, and shows energy and progressiveness on the part of the originators of the scheme. It is not only the esthetic value of such an exhibition in itself, but the educational possibilities, as one of its promoters suggested in the recent meeting, which may lead to a larger development of the artistic sense in our citizens and a higher sense of the value of a well-kept town.

If a Civic Improvement League were to develop from this small beginning the result would be indeed of far-reaching effect. As an instance of the objects in view of such a league we quote from the objects specified by the Halifax Civic Improvement League, which, though new, shows a promising spirit of enterprise among its promoters. They are as follows—

- Tree-planting.
- Artistic home gardens.
- Street improvements, particularly on thoroughfares most frequented by visitors.
- Rectification of things that go wrong in the streets and other public places.
- Aiding the health authorities in their efforts to improve conditions affecting public health.
- Good suburban roads and road-side gardening.
- Improvement of back yards.
- Public meetings for the discussion of improvement work.
- Removing of unsightly fences, delapidated buildings and other eyesores.
- Peoples' play grounds.
- Public baths.
- Popularization of window boxes.
- Definite outline of a comprehensive plan for the beautification of the city, and the prevention of mistakes in future.
- Law enforcement—particularly those laws relating to the public health and whatever tends to the disfigurement of things out of doors.
- Cleaning and beautifying public buildings.
- Care of vacant lots.

Obituary.

MRS. JOHN MUNRO.

After a lingering illness there departed on Wednesday last a venerable lady, well-known to many of our citizens, especially to the older generation, and one who was universally esteemed for her many sterling qualities of heart and mind.

Mrs. Munro married early in life
the late John Munro, of Port Lorne. She was the mother of five sons, several of whom were well-known mariners. Her sons have pre-deceased her, but she is survived by four daughters, Mrs. E. G. Langley, Mrs. J. W. Salter and Miss Ada Munro of Bridgetown, and Mrs. Adoniram Rumsey, of Clarence.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon last, from the home of Mrs. E. G. Langley. Rev. N. A. Mc-Neill conducted the service, and outstanding music was rendered by the Baptist choir. The pall-bearers were Messrs. B. D. Nelly, J. Harry Hicks,
A. L. Beeler and K. Freeman. Burial took place in the Bridgetown cemetery. A large circle of friends unite with the Monitor in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

MR. WILLIAM G. FITCH.

Mr. William G. Fitch, son of Ingraham F. Fitch, formerly of Clarence, and a nephew of William H. Bishop, of Paradise, passed away June 10th, at Grants, New Mexico, while a passenger on the east-bound limited train of the Santa Fe Road.

The deceased had been in ill health for about two years and, accompanied by his wife, was returning east from Los Angeles, Cal., to his old home at Wheeling, West Virginia, in the hope that the change of climate and a visit to his home would be of benefit to him. He was about forty-five years old, and although quite ill, he was always bright and cheerful and it was not realized that the end was so near. The interment was at Wheeling.

Mr. Fitch was the superintendent of the Standard Oil Company's property in California. He had been connected with the Company in prominent capacities for a number of years and was well-known among oil men.

MRS. LOUISA WOODLAND.

The death of Mrs. Louisa Woodland occurred at her home on Friday night last, after an illness of several weeks, following a stroke of paralysis. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon from St. James church, the rector, Rev. E. Underwood officiating, with a large number of friends and relatives in attendance. The choir rendered appropriate and favorite hymns. The pall-bearers were six nephews of the deceased and burial took place in the Bridgetown cemetery.

Mrs. Woodland was born in Mahone
Bay and was fifty-four years of age.
She was bereaved of her husband, Mr.
Dow Woodland, about three years ago.
She is survived by a daughter,
Miss Lavinia Woodland, and several brothers and sisters— Messrs. Ephraim and Isaiah Ramey, Mrs.
George Taylor and Mrs. Elias Durling, of Bridgetown, Mrs. William Woodland, of Waltham, Mass., and Messrs. Pearl and Joseph Ramey, of Haverhill.

Of a warm-hearted and affectionate nature, her relationship in the family circle was one of helpfulness and sympathy. Industry, sincerity and faithfulness marked her daily walk in life. The Monitor extends sympathy to the bereaved friends.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL.

Cherries have been very plentiful, but are almost out of the market.

Potatoes are very scarce. Neither old nor new tubers could be found in the market yesterday.

The name of Abby Jackson in Grade six was omitted from the report of the Ingewood school.

If looking for a home or farm property don't fail to consult the Monitor's classified real estate column.

The marriage of Miss Hazel Irene Palmer to Mr. W. A. Kinney takes place this morning at the home of the bride.

Mr. Borden, of Carleton's Corner, adorned the Monitor sanctum with a cherry tough covered with the black beauties one day last week.

An Ice Cream Social will be held on Friday evening, 28th inst., at "Evergreen Hall" West Paradise. Proceeds for missions. All are cordially invited.

Haying is nearly over on the uplands and on an average less than a two-third crop has been gathered. It is expected that the marshes will yield about an average crop.

The Nickel, which is showing a splendid line of pictures, has secured the Coronation films and will put them on next week at a date which will be announced later.

The Municipal Council met representatives of the town of Middleton in Bridgetown on Saturday last, with Judge Neagher as arbitrator, to fix the joint liabilities for the town.

Bush fires on the North and South Mountains on Monday afternoon made the air dense with smoke, the rain that night relieving what threatened to become a menacing danger.

Rev. Father Summers, of St. Mary's, is in poor health and is under medical treatment, having discontinued his duties at the cathedral for the time being. He will likely go in the infirmary.—Chronicle.

The D. A. R. steamer was detained in her passage from Boston to Yarmouth by the storm of Monday night, not arriving in port until one o'clock noon yesterday. The Bluenose waited for the passengers for eastern points.

John Wade, of Granville Centre, has picked fruit from sections of a hough apple tree the seventh day of May. The apples though small are perfectly formed. The parent tree blew down last winter and Mr. Wade saved the sections from it.

The long season of drought extending over a period of six weeks, with the exception of slight local showers, was again interrupted during Monday night when copious showers, lasting about twelve hours, lent their stimulating influence to vegetation, which was beginning to suffer to a serious extent.

The ringing of the fire alarm at the engine house on Thursday morning last at about eight o'clock startled our citizens. The alarm was rung by one of the firemen in response to the firemen's signal, but the fire department, promptly responding, failed to find any conflagration to subdue. It was a matter of especial rejoicing that this was so as the water supply was perceptibly lowered and a serious fire might have been a disaster in more ways than one. The alarm could not be accounted for, except that the telephone line men were working at the system and it is supposed that the wires somehow became crossed.

MACDONALD-FORSYTH.

An interesting event took place at the home of Mrs. W. Morton Forsyth yesterday (Tuesday) morning, when her only daughter, Bessie, was married to Mr. John MacDonald, a former Y.M.C.A. secretary of Bridgetown but now associated with Dr. Grenfell, of Labrador Mission fame, and studying for the ministry of the Presbyterian church.

The wedding was a quiet one, only a few guests being present. The room where the ceremony was performed was prettily decorated with greenery and cut flowers, and the bride and groom stood under a wedding bell. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. McNeill, of the Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Simpson, of the Presbyterian church.

The bride wore a becoming traveling suit of navy blue and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas. After a collation was served the happy pair took their departure for Labrador, by way of Sydney, C. B. and Newfoundland.

The bride, who is highly esteemed was the recipient of numerous useful and costly gifts. The best wishes of many friends for a successful and happy voyage through life will attend them.

CORRESPONDENCE

MORE ABOUT THE DUTCH SHORE

I have again visited the "house of Burns," and my friend, I will say to you quietly, that if ever you have an invitation from the Captain and want to have a good time and be treated royally, "stand not upon the order of your going, but go at once." Talk about cherries, no need of ladder, no need of anything but a mouth and hands, and, if you don't want to attend your own funeral, common sense enough to know when to leave off eating them.

Yes, it was cherry Sunday, but I attended the Baptist church in the morning and heard the Rev. Henry Carter preach. If I had had my way, I would have taken Brother Carter and his whole congregation on a boat and praised God that he had given us such a beautiful world to live in and such glorious opportunities to live and make others happy and a disposition to do it, but the motor boat had been engaged before we arrived.

Eut, to begin at the beginning: after my arrival at the "house of Burns," I secured a team and we took our usual drive along the Dutch Shore to "Colonial Arms." I have often wondered why the place was called the "Dutch Shore" the name seemed so common place for such a beautiful locality and if the Captain had not explained to me that the name had an historic significance, I would have suggested that it be changed to something more poetic. The explanation which must be correct, may prove interesting to some of your readers.

The English have always been in the habit of hiring soldiers to do their fighting for them in times of war. These soldiers, in times of peace had two of these companies of these soldiers are from foreign countries and are hired in companies from Germany, Russia, Holland, etc., and a number of years ago, I don't know what date, in time of peace she had two of these companies to provide for. One was from Waldensia and the other from Hessa. These Dutch companies were given the strip of land along the Basin and hence it is now termed the Dutch Shore. The Waldensians were given the territory along the Basin back to what is now known as the Walded Line, and back of that the Hessian troops were given the strip of land as far back as what is now known as the Hessian Line.

The Waldensians and Hessians no "Line," terms which I presume the inhabitants of this locality would not care to part with.

The men of these two companies may or may not have been valiant soldiers, I do not know, but I do know that their descendants are to be seen in the houses of the Dutch Shore. We had time enough to hear an orchestra discourse the sweetest of harmonies, to see the well-lit waiting room seated full of smiling crowds of whist players; and beyond that, through the window in front of the house, the glitter of the bejeweled fingers, the flashing of the braceleted arms and the measured touch of the light fantastic upon the polished hard-wood floor presented a scene that none of the older inhabitants of Deep Brook ever dreamed could exist in that locality.

Captain Spurr informed us that all the rooms of his hotel, which is one-eighth of a mile in circumference, longer exist as such and nothing that I know of remains to mark the historic arrival of these two companies, except the names "Dutch Shore," "Walded" and "Hessian" were taken; that he had to begin importing tents and building cabins and this fall he intended to add to his capacity by extending the building.

"Coming home?" I said, "Yes," said the Captain, "and bringing strangers with them." All honor to the Captain for his enterprise. Wanderer and stranger alike, in behalf of our colony, we bid you a hearty welcome—and good-night.

We were soon again on our way through the darkness to the "house of Burns." I have purposely used the term "house of Burns" because if you imagine that Captain Amos Lundy lives only in one house, you are mistaken. A little to the eastward of Clemyntport, on the hill overlooking all that we have tried to describe as beautiful in this locality, a little back from the road, surrounded by large trees whose cool and friendly shade robes the hottest days of their weariness, in manlike residences, five-four families. Marking the shortest distance between these houses are well trodden paths which are unbroken by any fences. One of these is occupied by Mr. Moor and McCrumple, who married a daughter of the general Captain, the other across the road is the house of Mr. William Stronach, a son of Mrs. Burns, by a former husband, and farther to the westward larger and more manly like is the residence of the Captain, while on the spacious grounds about these residences are three tents, two of which are occupied by our friend Wiley, the Captain's son, with his family. This is the "house of Burns" but I find my letter is already too long.

The Captain has, however, invited me to come again, and when I go I will try the Monitor for a little more space, whether you want me to or not.

Boy Scout Notes

English papers to hand give a glowing account of the inspection of the Boy Scouts—35,000 strong, from all parts of the Empire, under the command of the Chief and "father" of the Scouts, Lt.-General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, by the King in the Great Park, Windsor, on July 4th. The inspection took the form of a "rally" and march-past. The London Daily Mail says—"It was obvious at the novel inspection that the King was as pleased as the boys were proud."

Under the heading "Canadian Boys Rewarded," The paragraph reads as follows—

"Then honor was done before the King to two young Canadian boys, Francis Philip Galbraith and Donald Chadsey. The Chief Scout handed to each a medal for good service well done. These Boy Scouts, with others, had traced a man accused of murder through the woods and watched his hiding place until the police arrived to effect his capture. The two boys were elected by other Canadian Scouts to attend the King's review. His Majesty asked about their service and said, when he learned the facts, that their courage was commendable.

The same paper also gives an account of a remarkable feat of pluck and endurance, accomplished by a fifteen-year-old boy scout named Frank McMillan, who left Bolton, Lancashire, at 12.1 a.m. on Saturday July 1st on a bicycle with a letter from the editor of the Bolton Chronicle to the editor of the Daily Mail. The journey is rather more than two hundred miles and on starting the boy, who was accompanied by his father on another bicycle, hoped to complete the journey within the twenty-four hours. He did it with barely three minutes to spare, reaching the London office at 11.57 p.m. on the same day.

The Mail further says—in many ways the most picturesque spectacle of the week has been the King's Review of the Boy Scouts in Windsor Great Park. The Boy Scout movement is a creation of the past few years. When "B. P." came back home fresh from the glories of Mafeking, some of the superior ones who criticize, and at times do little more than criticize, were inclined to sneer at him. They talked of him as a man who had done one big thing and was not fit to be heard of again. "B. P." did nothing, but did the next hard work to hand, and it is safe to say that his fame as founder of the Boy Scout movement will be greater and more permanent than his glory as the hero of the South African War. The spread of this Boy Scout movement resembles more than anything else the spread of the Franciscans when the Saint of Assisi started preaching. You see Boy Scouts wherever you go. On every holiday you find manly fellows skilled in first-aid, clever in tracking, trained signallers, and expert in open air life, camping and drilling. It is their creed to be always cheerful and above all things, to avoid cowardice, meanness, or low-down tricks. The boy of fourteen who wishes to prove his smartness no longer smokes cigarettes in shady corners and apes young men. He puts on his uniform lives up to it, and makes it the ambition of his life to pass through the various grades of his service and become a first-class scout. To become a first-class scout means sureness of eye, resource, and skill. Scores of thousands of these lads are being trained in the very best qualities of manhood, without cant or nonsense. Their minds and bodies are being strengthened. The King, in honoring the movement has given impetus to one of the most healthy and most hopeful organizations of the day.

The first Fiction Number of Scribner's Magazine was published July, 1889. Among the notable stories which it contained were: "How the Derby was Won," by Harrison Robertson; "The Governor," by George Hibbard; "The Rock of Beranger," by T. R. Sullivan, and an instalment of "The Master of Ballantrae," by Robert Louis Stevenson. The Fiction (August) Number this year will contain contributions from Edith Wharton, F. Hopkinson Smith, James B. Connolly, Georgia Wood Farnham, Alice Brown, and several new writers.

FAILED TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF PERPETUAL MOTION.
 Baltimore, July 18—Andrew Gerard, eighty-six years old, is dead here after spending fifty-five years of his life in vain effort to solve the problem of perpetual motion. Gerard was an inventive genius and would have made fortunes on practical inventions if he had been able to dismiss the perpetual motion problem from his mind. At a wedding present to his son, Henry, he gave the young man a suggestion for a labor saving corn reaper which made $17,000,000 or more in profits.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES PAIN

A Heart-to-Heart Talk With Herself By a Grievance-Lover

(Certain characters seem to need grievances as they do some indispensable article of food in order to maintain the attitude of discontent with which they torture their family and friends—Dora Melegari in Makers of Joys and Sorrows.)

"I'm very happy this afternoon. I have a grievance. It is a splendid grievance and it is against the whole family. I am deeply hurt. I shall sleep for hours and everybody will come to me and try to placate me. I shall have a beautiful time as soon as the family gets home.

"Yes, they are all away. That is my grievance. I said I might possibly get home today, and yet they went off auto riding with the Fenices. Of course I haven't been gone but three days, and of course they don't get auto rides often, but still I think they might have been at home to greet me.

"It just shows how little they care about me. It shows how little account I am in my own home—about if they'd care if I didn't come at all.

"There, I've worked myself up splendidly and here they come. I'll have to open the front door, but I won't say a word until they speak to me.

"Well, I think I did that pretty well. I didn't say a word of reproach but by the way I asked them how they enjoyed themselves, and the short way I answered them when they asked me what kind of a time I'd had, showed them how I felt.

"They all know I'm hurt and they are trying to be as nice as pie to me. They just wanted to know what I'd like best for supper, and I said it didn't make any difference, in a tone that showed I felt how unimportant I was.

"I don't know whether I can show my displeasure best by going up in my room and shutting the door or by staying here and just answering in monosyllables. Think on the whole I'll get the most out of it if I stay here.

"What an absurd idea. Someone tried to make me believe that I did not say I'd get home before tomorrow. Do they think I'll give up my grievance that easily? I guess not.

"Won't I come in the library and sing with them? No, of course I won't. I couldn't do more than that if I were feeling real vile.

"Mrs. Bemis has asked them to go autoing next Sunday, and they think it would be fun if I took some one's place. I love autoing, but I told them I wouldn't think of that. I'll go all right, but I'll keep them begging me before I say 'yes.'

"Oh, thunder, here's some company coming in the front gate. That means I'll have to be decent. You can't parade grievances in front of company, you know. They don't understand. They simply think you are disagreeable. I guess I'll carry out my other plan and go up in my room and close the door.

"Well, now, I call that a good parting shot. They called to me not to go upstairs, the Randalls were coming, and I said very coldly, "I don't seem to be included in the invitations that are extended to this family. I don't imagine their guests will miss me very much."

"I think I got its full value out of that grievance, all right. I don't know when I've had so good a one."
 —Ruth Cameron.

A SORE FOOT
 Enos Guy of this town says, "I had a very sore foot all last winter. No salve or liniment would cure it. In March I tried REED'S EARTHLINE. In one week I was cured. I am satisfied this is the best remedy we have here."

Scores of testimonials like the above could be given by the people of this town, but we consider it a waste of money to publish all the cures made by our remedies.

DO THE VERY THING YOU KNOW YOU OUGHT TO DO.
 Each of us knows himself better than the world can possibly know him. Each of us deceives himself more or less the greater part of the time, and forgets the harmful truths. But we can know ourselves if we will. Take a really truthful inventory of yourself once in a while. You know perfectly well what makes success.
 You do not have to read about "How to be Successful." The way to be successful is to do the very thing that you ought to do.
 Take that inventory, take a pencil and a piece of paper and write it out. Stick it in your pocket and keep it. Make up your mind to go systematically about your work during the balance of this year. Write some things out of the inventory and add to others.
 The young Chicago human dynamo said that one brilliant man failed "because he did not have the nerve to take an inventory of himself."
 Perhaps by taking an inventory, harsh and truthful, you may succeed. Try it.—Selected.

Let Down the Tension and Rest

Train yourself not to live in a constant state of tension, if you do not wish to give out all at once some day, like a piece of machinery which is in constant use and has no opportunity of stopping for repairs and lubrication.

For instance, when you are sewing, if your eyes feel tired, and your back aches, drop your needle, let your hands and eyes rest and rest absolutely for a few minutes. To do this you need not necessarily lie down. Lie back in your chair, close your eyes and lay your hands quietly in your lap, so that they will not be tempted to finger anything or to clasp each other nervously.
 Mind relaxation is quite as important as physical relaxation, and particularly at bedtime. You must cultivate the habit of changing the current of your thoughts at times if you are very strenuously employed mentally.

These lines across the forehead usually come from mental tension, and to avoid them you must have resolute control of your thinking powers.
 Women as a sex go heart and soul into anything which interests them, and often wear themselves out by constant attention to the subject, whether it be housekeeping or any of the numerous businesses and pleasures that necessarily or love of pleasure present to us.

One of the first lessons in avoiding a nervous breakdown is to get business or pleasure down to a point where you control it and it does not control the mind to the exclusion of every other interest.

You may think you have not time, but after a while you will find that you can accustom yourself to almental and physical rest at intervals during the day. It may only be for a few minutes at a time, but it will pay.

Your heart must rest, and it does involuntarily when you lie down. It does not stop altogether, for you could not live under such circumstances, but nature arranges that it does not beat so rapidly when the body is reclining.
 In a like manner you do not have to stop altogether in order to relax a little now and then.

Learn your capabilities and act accordingly. If necessity demands certain exertions let up on something else.
 It never pays to burn a candle at both ends. With certain attention to the wick, it will burn brighter and certainly longer when lighted only at one end.

Make a little list of rules and keep to them.
 Make your days as regular as possible and bear in mind the following:
 Do not sit in one position for too long a time without straightening up and lessening the tension now and then.

Relax at intervals while eating as in working. Do not swallow and gobble though your dying of indigestion would help matters any.
 Do not attempt problem plays and read reading after a day of great mental activity. Above all relax the mind as well as the body when you go to bed.

If you can't rest during the day you must learn how to rest at night if you wish to feel refreshed in the morning.
 Do not go to bed tired and cramped and brain weary in a close room and lie in a huddled, tense heap thinking for hours and tossing about. If you can't get relief to your lungs by fresh air before retiring insist upon plenty in the sleeping chamber.

RAGING HEADACHE STOPPED AT ONCE

When He Took "Fruit-a-lives"

SHANLEY, ONT., Sept. 23rd, 1910.
 "You certainly have the Greatest discovered Headache Cure in the world. Before 'Fruit-a-lives' came before the public, I suffered tortures from Headaches caused by Stomach Disorders.
 "One of your travellers called on me when I had one of my raging headaches and had my head almost raw from external applications.
 "I hated to see any person coming into the store (much less a commercial traveller) and I told him very curtly that I had a headache but he insisted on my trying 'Fruit-a-lives'.

"I did so, with what I would call amazing results. They completely cured me and since then (nearly six years ago) it is only necessary for me to take one occasionally to preserve me in my present good health. I was 65 years old yesterday and have been a general store keeper at the above address for twenty-five years."
 W. M. PITT
 As Mr. Pitt says "Fruit-a-lives" is the greatest headache cure in the world. Dealers everywhere have "Fruit-a-lives" at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial size, 25c. or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

Undress and think and busy yourself in some trivial matter in a comfortable lounging robe. Do all your thinking before the light goes out, then go to sleep.

Don't read after you go to bed. It excites the brain, and if sleep follows it is usually not a restful sleep. Remember that a nervous strain induces many wrinkles, makes the eyes heavy and the skin sallow.

HAPPIEST GIRL IN LINCOLN
 A Lincoln, Neb., girl writes, "I had been ailing for some time with chronic constipation and stomach trouble. I began taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and in three days I was able to be up and get better right along. I am the proudest girl in Lincoln to find such a good medicine." For sale by all dealers.

There's never a rose in all the world
 But makes some green spray sweeter;
 There's never a wind in all the sky
 But makes some bird wing feather;
 There's never a star but brings to heaven,
 Some silver radiance tender;

THE HOME

MOTHER'S VACATION.

I turn with serious look and thought, to a passage in a letter from an active member of our family:

"Say a word, please, for our house mother at this season. She is the only member of the household who does not enjoy a stated rest and relief from the cares of the home. She sews for her daughters; urges the husband to take recreation and to enjoy it to the full, and works from 'alarm clock to alarm clock.' In the name of humanity, won't you put in a plea for respite from the maddening grind?"

"The maddening grind!" When duties which were once a delight and a pride get to be that, nature sounds an alarm, that means danger and much of it. A woman who loves her home and is a capital and cheerful housekeeper is said to me the other day, that she did not want to vote unless John should settle every morning what to order for luncheon and dinner. "That was as much responsibility as she could carry, year in and year out. The mother in every home knows what she meant and felt; knows, too, why she loses appetite for home food with the coming of the summer days she hates almost as heartily as the children love them. It is bad enough to order meals, she will tell you, without having to eat them. Also, that 'nothing tastes right.' When the girls have their own homes, and have to consider for 365 days in the year the problem of what to eat and how to serve it; to calculate how to market bills; to the actual income upon which she may draw to pay them; to set so good a table that the waning appetites of hard worked husband and school children, fraying under examinations and heat, may be tempted and their strength kept up until vacation, the now thoughtless young women will look back remorsefully to those days of ignorance and uncharitable judgment of the appetites-tolerant chief.

"She sews for the daughters." There is an appalling quantity of sewing to be done. The dressmaker who comes by the day to take breadths out of last summer's skirts, and fashion her waists out of the surplus material thus gained (the one and only benefit to lean purses accruing from the scant skirts) expects mother to help her for as many hours of the day as other tasks will allow her to do. The prospective wearers of the abridged garments have their hands and heads full of other matters. They are up betimes to play tennis in the nearest court or golf on a neighbor's links; there are water parties and picnics and strolls "by the pale, silver light of the moon." The boys have their swimming club and football team to "keep the life in a fellow" until vacation begins in good earnest. One and all, they would characterize the lessons and other impositions of the last ten months as a "maddening grind." The father of the crew would catch eagerly at the phrase as descriptive of his daily vocation, be it a profession, commerce or a craft.

The mother has been driven to the extreme end of her wits to maintain a tolerable standard of good humor and outward cheerfulness for the last few weeks. She has invented new dishes and novel combinations of old standbys when she could not afford all the delicacies of the season demanded by capricious appetites. With broilers at forty cents per pound, she must, of necessity, have fried bacon and eggs for the Sunday morning breakfast once in a while and rice pudding for dinner instead of fresh berries. If she has a roast duck once a week, a series of boiled mutton and the left-overs she can contrive to make from it, she must establish an average expenditure or she will overrun the weekly allowance, which does not take into account winter scarcity and summer luxuries. Boys will outgrow their clothes and girls must dress as well as their associates or suffer mortifications that cut more deeply into the mother-heart than she ever confesses to them. Part of her trade is to put the best foot foremost. Her husband and children know this to be a fact, and that, as Inspector Bucket says of his wife's amateur detective work, "She has acted up to it nobly." In the say when the master balances accounts with his employees the mother's name will be found in lines with heroes and martyrs of whom the world was not worthy. She will be more astonished than anybody else when the award is made. The suspicion that she is anything higher than a commonplace wife and mother, who tries humbly to do the duty of the day without a taint of self-pity in word or thought, has never dawned upon her commonplace intellect.

Yet she is keen witted in deprecating the talents of her offspring and zealous in the sacrifice of her personal ease and comfort to secure recognition and improvement of these gifts. Her husband is the head of the home. If he had his deserts, he would be the leading man in the community. She spares him every care that she can ward off from the dear head already bowed by the weight of responsibility and the mysterious fardel she calls "business." The weight and "grind" of business are the abundant excuse for surly tempers, harsh criticism of her ways and works, impatient faultfinding with the children she shields from his wrath by every ingenious art love can devise.

In how many homes—even among the very well-to-do classes in our country—is mother's vacation a stunted family "institution?" Who plans that she shall step out from the shadow of money cares and homely contrivances to get for husband and children of more moderate means recreation and holiday? She would plead against herself that she cannot be spared from the helm. Nobody else can run the house as she runs it; her duties may not be delegated to daughter or hirelings.

It is the plain duty, then, of husband and daughter to take the matter of mother's vacation out of her hands. She is so evidently incapable of caring for herself as her worth deserves that she should be cared for; armed intervention is necessary. Find out what she would like to do, obeying the advice of the nerve specialist, and see that she does it. I knew one confirmed homebody who, when put into the confessional by a visiting relative, owned to a long-indulged wish to go to Saratoga and watch the "folk" promenaded the verandas by day and dance in the ballroom by night. Whereupon the family clubbed in and bought a new black silk for her; had it made handsomely and sent her off to Saratoga in company with a neighbor who was ordered to drink the waters. "Mother" had the time of her life! She made the acquaintance of two other "plain people" and the three sat for hours in the shade of the veranda roof, eyeing the butterflies of fashion in their fitting back and forth. At night they "did" their hair afresh; brushed their black silks and put on their best brooches; shook rosewater upon clean handkerchiefs, and repaired to the coign of vantage in the ballroom for yet more brilliant views of the gay world. The effect upon the quiet homebody's health and spirits was so pronounced that she has been sent to the "Springs" every August since. She has never drunk a tea-spoonful of the waters. She does not need it. For one golden week and a half out of the fifty-two she does just what she likes to do, getting clean out of the "maddening grind" of everyday drudgery.

Another—the hard-worked wife of a village pastor—was convicted these years ago of a longing to taste the delights of New York as a summer resort, and found it so exactly to her liking that she goes to the metropolis periodically when heat and desolation are at their height; takes rooms in a quiet boarding house not far from Central Park, and is happier than the July days are long, storing up incidents and experiences that beguile thought and engage tongue all winter.

A third, who is not especially fond of church-going for the rest of the year, takes her outing at Northfield, attending every meeting, indoor and out. When I looked politely surprised at hearing this, she explained the idiosyncrasy by observing diffidently:

"You see, it is so unlike anything I have for the rest of the year. It refreshes me through and through. I look forward to it longingly from the beginning of the season."

She lit upon the truth without knowing one word of Latin. She empties her mind of all that absorbed thought and time for the rest of the year and follows whim rather than duty. The indulgence is a genuine vacation.

If you can beguile the mother into an expression of personal inclination on the subject of her holiday, exercise your ingenuity to extract it painlessly. That is, without letting her suspect what you are bent upon. If she has grown so weary in body and in spirit that she has no preference for one place or thing above the other, the greater is her need of a thorough change. When a woman of sense and native energy ceases to care whether she stays at home or goes abroad, and begs to be left alone, she is in a bad way. Sometimes if teased by affectionate importunities, she flares up with the declaration that she "would as soon die as live—she is so tired out!" Poor, faithful, over-driven creature! She means what she says in her desperation.

Do John and the children, who have for all these months accepted her service as a matter of course, ever bethink themselves of the terrible statistics relative to mad houses? That was the name "asylums" bore in the olden times. We are familiar with the uncontented statement that more than one-half of the inmates of these institutions are farmers' wives. Who sets him down to reason out the puzzle? It is not the brain-worker, or the ill-paid factory girl, or the showwoman, of whose wages we have heard so much lately through letters to our Exchange, who is most likely to recruit the wretched corps of lunatics. The evil agencies in the work are the monotonous toil of the wife who does not set her foot off the farm for six months together, except when she can get the housework out of the way in time to go to church Sunday forenoon, and then carries the dinner in her mind while she seems to take part in the devotions of the rest; the scarcity of amusements that might distract her thoughts from petty cares and ignoble anxieties—in three words, "the maddening grind" of housemother and wife. All this is what frets her into a premature grave or sends her to the sadder living tomb of the insane ward.

I do not apologize for speaking strongly and at length upon a subject that may not interest readers in general. It should appeal powerfully to those in whose service the mother has spent and been spent until self-forgetfulness is the law of her being.

She saves others; herself she never thinks of saving. Do you, her husband and you, her children, see to it that the evil is rectified.

Begin as soon as you lay down this page to arrange for mother's vacation, no matter who else of the household goes without his or hers. I heard a girl say not long ago that "poor dear mamma would not know what to do with a holiday if one were forced upon her."

Begin, then, to teach her how to use it. If necessary, make a new and wholesome application of the system of compulsory education.—Marion Harland.

LEGEND OF THE WILLOW PATTERN.

Every collector of rare old china knows the "willow pattern," one of the most sought after of all the china antiques. There are a great many, however, who are not familiar with the love legend attached to the two blue and white doves winging their flight across the blue and white bridge, which is a conspicuous part of the decoration. The story is a Chinese one, because the first willow plate came from China. It runs as follows—

A beautiful Chinese girl, named Koong-Shee, loved her father's secretary, Chang, who was poor. Because her father wanted her to marry a rich man, and because she would not give up the poor secretary, he sent her to live in a little house at the end of the garden. Outside Koong-Shee's window was a willow tree, and just beyond a fruit tree. Koong-Shee sat all day watching it bloom.

One day when she was most unhappy, Chang found a cocoon shell to which he attached a sail. In it he placed a letter asking his sweetheart to fly with him. The shell sped across the lake where Koong-Shee sat watching. She read the letter and answered that she would go if he would be brave enough to come for her.

Then Chang went boldly up to the little house and took her away. They had to cross a bridge to leave the garden. As they were half way across Koong-Shee's father saw them and sent out an alarm. The girl went first with her distaff. Chang followed with her jewel case and behind, the father with a whip. The lovers escaped however, to a little house across the lake, where they lived happily. Finally, one day the rich man who wanted Koong-Shee for his wife, and who hated her for refusing him, found out where she lived. He set fire to the pretty little house and Koong-Shee and Chang died together.

MOTHERS, SPEAK LOW.

I know some houses, well-built and handsomely furnished, where it is not pleasant to be even a visitor. Sharp, angry tones resound through them from morning till night, and the influence is as contagious as measles, and much more to be dreaded in a household. The children catch it, and it lasts for life—an incurable disease. A friend has such a neighbor within hearing of her house when doors and windows are open, and even Poll Parrot has caught the tone and delights in screaming and scolding, until she has been sent into the country to improve her habits. Children catch cross tones quicker than parrots. When mother sets the example, you will scarcely hear a pleasant word among the children in their plays with each other. Yet the discipline of such a family is always weak and irregular. The children expect just as much scolding before they do anything they are bid; while many a home, where the low tone of the mother or a decided look of her steady eye, is law, never think of disobedience, either in or out of her sight. Oh, mothers, it is worth a great deal to cultivate that "excellent thing in women," a low, sweet voice. If you are ever so much tired by the mischievous or willful pranks of the little ones, speak low. It will be a great help to you to even try to be patient and cheerful, if you cannot wholly succeed. Anger makes you wretched, and your children, also. Impatient, angry tones never did the heart good, but plenty of evil. You cannot have the excuse for them that they lighten your burdens; they make them only ten times heavier. For your own sake, as well as your children's sake, learn to speak low. They will remember that tone when your head is under the willows.—Selected.

GOOD LOOKS AND HEALTH.

Our admiration—yes, our worship—of beauty is based upon the soundest and sanest of biologic bases. Beauty is the outward and visible sign of the inward and spiritual grace—health.

Every line, every tint, every texture that makes for ugliness, makes for or indicates ill health, inefficiency or ill temper. It is no mere coincidence that "ugly" means in popular acceptance, "spiteful" and "vicious" almost as often as "unbeautiful."

It is a painful but significant truth that most of us were far more beautiful as babies than we have been ever since. It is the Golden Age of Beauty, to which we can all look back, the only time in our lives when we were perfectly natural. Nearly everything that makes a man or woman homely comes from bad surroundings.

WIRE WOUNDS.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks, the sores have healed, and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is not white, as is most always the case in horse wounds.

There is a good deal of stern justice in the "cry baby" stigma of the school playground, much to be commended in the sounder's approval expressed in the statement, "He's a dead game sport."

Nobody likes a quitter—everybody, big, little, refined or unrefined, likes any kind of a man who can put up a good fight and take the consequences without complaint. This principle runs through all life, and is recognized by all grades of society. It is universal and unavoidable.

A Flower Show for Bridgetown

That Bridgetown have a Flower Show during the 18th and 19th of August next, was the unanimous decision of the meeting called to consider the matter, at the town hall Monday evening.

After considerable favorable discussions officers were elected and committees appointed.

Mrs. I. B. Freeman said she had interviewed many of the business men and they had all expressed themselves as favorable toward a show of this character. Many others had promised to give aid in various ways. She favoured giving the proceeds or surplus to improve our public cemetery and felt that we should have a good surplus from it. She thought we should go ahead with it at once.

Dr. Armstrong said the room committee of the Masons had offered the free use of the lower part of their building, that he believed an exhibition of this nature could become a regular annual event that would benefit the town and increase the interest in flora culture and the beautifying of our places and houses and that it would exert an influence throughout the whole country. He favoured making it a county show rather than a town one.

Mrs. Harlow, who was present to represent his worship the Mayor, also spoke enthusiastically of an exhibition of this nature.

Superintendent Hiltz of the County Hospital said he would be glad to lend any aid he could give and believed an exhibition of this character would be a great educative factor and influence our people to grow more flowers indoors and out. He knew these shows were very successful in many places and he favoured our trying it.

The following officers were elected:— President, Dr. Armstrong.

Vice President, Mrs. I. B. Freeman.

Mrs. D. G. Harlowe

Secy.—Treas. Miss Una Cameron

Board of Directors, A. F. Hiltz,

J. E. Lloyd, H. B. Hicks, J. Harry Hicks (and the above officers).

A committee was appointed to draw up a prize list, which is elsewhere published.

Kentville Chronicle.—Hillcrest Orchards, Ltd. has been shipping five to ten hundred boxes of cherries daily, during the last two weeks. Another week's picking is expected with a total crop of twelve to sixteen thousand boxes. Hillcrest presents, perhaps, the only real commercial, cherry proposition in the prov. nec.

ELECTIONS IN EARLY FALL

It is now practically settled that the elections will take place not earlier than September 25th and not later than October tenth. The Canadian Gazette today publishes a proclamation, countersigned by the deputy minister of justice, ordering the registration of voters in the unorganized districts of Ontario shall be completed by September eighteenth, instead of October twelfth, the date fixed by statute.

Local Boy Scout Notes

With one third of the boys away, one or two indisposed, and a lowering sky overhead, the muster for last Saturday's "hike" was small and necessitated a slight change in the programme. But those who went voted it one of the best afternoons yet. A tramp to Currell's mill pond, a wading in the pond whilst your clothes dry, stave drill to set you up, a couple of Scout games to sharpen your wits, a lively march home, not to mention the pleasantries bandied to and fro with every sign of comradeship and good feeling, was not a bad afternoon's programme, and made us who were present feel sorry for those who had missed it. The first Scout game—"Finding the Traitor's Letter" ended in a draw, neither side getting even a sight of the incriminating document within the time limit, possibly because the game was not quite understood. But after further explanation and changing sides, Scout Bent secured it with two minutes to spare, and this after the rest of his side had been placed hors-de-combat.

It was a lively time. "Look out Benzy, he's on you." "There comes Prim, up behind that bush." "See Gordon there." "Now, Craig, I hit you." "Tom Borden, too, he's out!" "Get me more ammunition, Jack." "How much more time have we?" "Here you are boys—the letter!" "Umpire—Well played. Two minutes to spare."

Monday night brought great excitement. The suits had arrived, at least, the larger part. Not quite all O. K., but enough to enable most of the Scouts to present a uniform appearance. The mistakes will be rectified in due course, and the balance of the equipment obtained.

Orders for the week, Saturday, July 29th:

Meet at headquarters at half-past one in uniform and carrying staves. Program for the afternoon to be announced then.

Monday, July 31st:

Headquarters open at half-past seven p.m. Each boy will please bring his camp equipment and provisions for transportation.

Tuesday, Aug. 1st:

The day for going to Camp. All to parade at headquarters at 6.45 a.m. in uniform, (stout walking boots or shoes) carrying staff and enough provisions to last for one meal.

Start for camp at sharp seven o'clock. It is hoped to have transportation part of the way for all the boys. Particulars to be announced Monday evening.

The Scoutmaster thinks there are several boys who want to go to camp but who yet have not handed in their names. This has handicapped the making of the necessary arrangements for accommodation, etc., and unless the names are handed in at once together with the fee ($1.25) these boys cannot be taken.

ERNEST UNDERWOOD, Scoutmaster.
