The publisher of the "Prince Edward Island Calendar" has taken some pains to make the Almanac of 1852 more worthy of the patronage of the people than any preceding it. The calculations have been made for the meridian of Charlottetown, by a talented gentleman well versed in astronomical science, and can therefore be relied on for accuracy. It will be found equally suited to any part of the Island.

The prognostics of the weather have been omitted; they are now never found in a respectable Almanac, being based solely on the fertile brain of the editor, who may perhaps, make two or three ready hits during the year, whereon to found a fame for his predictions.

A chronology of leading events in colonial history, &c. has been added, which, from the shortness of time in preparation, must needs be but imperfect. We hope, however, that it will make a beginning, which each succeeding year will find more full and complete. Farmers will find a few hints selected from late publications, which it is hoped will prove useful to them in their occupations.

The lists have been revised with the utmost care and attention, and some improvements have been made, among which are a list of the days of sitting of Small Debt Courts, and a continuation of Roads and distances, from a former Almanac.

ECLIPSES OF THE SUN AND MOON.

The greatest number of eclipses which can happen in any year is seven. In the present year there will be six; namely, three of the sun, and three of the moon.

I. A total eclipse of the Moon, Jan. 6th—7th, visible as follows:—

First contact with the penumbra at 11h 8m p. m.

First contact with the shadow, 0h 8m a. m.

Disappearance, - 1h 8m

Last contact with the penumbra, 4h 47m

Magnitude of the eclipse (Moon's diameter equal to 1) 1.667 on the northern limb.

II. A partial eclipse of the Sun, Jan. 21st, invisible in North America, but visible in New Zealand, Van Dieman's Land, and the Antarctic Ocean.

III. A partial eclipse of the Sun, June 17th, invisible in North America, but visible in South America, and in the Southern Ocean.

IV. A total eclipse of the Moon, July 1st, invisible in P. E. Island. The middle of the eclipse occurring about 13 minutes past 11 a. m., the Moon being below the horizon.

V. A total eclipse of the Sun Dec. 11th, invisible in North America, but will be seen by the inhabitants of Asiatic Russia, part of Hindostan, &c.

VI. A partial eclipse of the Moon, Dec. 26th, invisible in P. E. Island.

All the calculations in this Almanac have been made to mean time. The equation of time, however, or that by which apparent time may be converted into mean and vice versa, has been given for every day in the year. As this table should be of much more practical importance to people in general than the precise moment of the moon's phases, it may not be improper to enter into some explanation. A day is the interval of time between the departure of any meridian from a heavenly body and its succeeding return to it, and derives its name from the body with which the motion of the meridian is compared. The interval between the to the sun's centre the moon the interv a star a sidercal day invariable length, a by astronomical clo ry purposes of life, standard of time, it any sufficiently strik which regulates the out by nature to fi obliquity of the ecl earth in her orbit, t val of time. interval between the departure and return of a meridian to the sun's centre is called a solar day. In the case of the moon the interval is called a lunar day ; and in that of a star a sidereal day. Of these, the sidereal day alone is of invariable length, and is, on this account, the time shewn by astronomical clocks, at observatories. For the ordinary purposes of life, however, it would be an inconvenient standard of time, its commencement not being marked by any sufficiently striking phenomenon. That luminary then which regulates the operations of mankind, seems pointed out by nature to fix the standard of time. Owing to the obliquity of the ecliptic and the unequal velocity of the earth in her orbit, the solar day is an ever-varying interval of time. Unlike the sidereal, no two consecutive solar days are exactly equal. Instead of attempting to make our clocks and watches correspond with this variation, which has been found impossible, all the resources of philosophy have been called in to aid mechanical skill in contriving timepieces which shall accurately measure the computed average length of these solar days. Watches and clocks, therefore, are intended to show mean time ; sun-dials, and other such contrivances, show solar or apparent time ; and the equation of time for any day is the difference between these two. There are, however, four days in each year, at some instant of which the apparent and mean time are the same ; these are, in the present year, April 15th, June 14th, August 31st, and December 24th. On these days the clock and sun-dial should agree, but on any other, in setting a clock by a sun-dial, or twelve clock mark (and there should be such in every house) the proper equation for that particular day must be applied.

For instance, if I want to set my clock on the 2d February next, when the sun-dial shows 12, the clock should show 14 minutes past 12, as we find from the equation of that day that the sun is slow of clock 13' 59". Again, on November 1st, when the sun-dial shows 12, the clock should show 11h 43' 43", the sun being fast of clock on that day, 16' 17". Should the clock show more or less than this, it should be altered accordingly. However, as the calculations for the rising and setting of the sun and moon have been made for mean time, clocks and watches can be regulated by these phenomena with sufficient accuracy.

AGRICULTURE.

The first and most important thing for the farmer in this month is to attend to his horses, cattle and swine. Let them be housed at night and in stormy weather. See that the stables are cleaned, the yards dry and well littered, the sheds warm and yet well ventilated. If hay is scarce and labor is cheaper than fodder, it may be cut and mixed with chopped straw, corn stalks, meal, bran, grain or roots; take care, at all events, that no fodder is wasted. Cut up a few potatoes or turnips for sheep, and mix a little salt with them. If there be sufficient snow, haul home wood for fuel and fences. Logs may be taken to the mill and made into boards for future use. Repair your tools, vehicles and implements, when obliged to stay in doors. Thresh grain, clean seeds, and take farm produce to market. Take oats to mill. Take every opportunity of chopping and preparing new land for a crop. This is also a good season for breaking steers and colts, and for making tenons and mortises in fence stuff.

New Year's Day.—That wholesome custom of making presents on the opening of the year, is as ancient as humanity; for it was "in the end of the days," at the Autumnal Equinox, that Abel offered up to God a lamb of nine months old, and Cain (when every branch yielded him the means of happiness) the first fruits of his husbandry. It became traditionary with all the Celtic tribes, the Jews, Sarmatæ, and Romans and was peculiarly a British observance; and in a later age, we find it blended with feelings of piety & friendship.

AGRICULTURE.

Continue to attend to the stock: remember that by keeping animals warm you economise the food which would otherwise be applied to sustain the heat of the body. Curry the cattle and horses. Lice, which accumulate on over-crowded cattle, may now be destroyed by tobacco-juice, snuff, lard, fish-oil, or soft soap. Hens will lay all winter if their houses be impervious to cold winds, and if with their grain they receive a supply of gravel and old mortar. Continue the hauling of fuel and fencing stuff; cut up as much of the former as possible, and pile it away under cover for summer use: this seems novel, but the farmer will understand though the lumberman may not. Finish the threshing of grain, and stow it away beyond the reach of rat, mouse or weevil. Prepare for making maple sugar. Take advantage of this season for hauling peat, swamp-muck, sea, river or pond mud, for making composts of.

I am contented: I wish for nothing more, I have set bounds to my desires. I possess every thing that is necessary for life. Cincinnatus, Curius, Fabricius & Regulus, after having conquered nations and led kings in triumph, were not so rich as I am. I should always be poor were I to open a door to the passions. Avarice, luxury, ambition, knows no bounds; cupidity is a fathomless abyss. I have clothes to cover me, food to nourish me, and horses to carry me; land to lie down and walk upon, and to receive my remains when I die.—Petrarch.

For a man to talk great and falsely of himself in discourse, is but to imitate, and be laughed at with Braggadoccio in the comedy.

AGRICULTURE.

Make maple sugar. No trees of less than twelve or eighteen inches diameter ought to be tapped: they should be bored with an inch auger; all the vessels used should be perfectly clean;
 the sap should be first strained and reduced by boiling nineteen-twentieths of its bulk, then clarified by white of egg, boiled and strained again; boil again, and then pour it into pans till it grains; after this, dry it by placing it in wooden drains filled with gimlet holes. Look well to the cattle, and give those with young an extra feed or mash occasionally. Manure may be hauled from town or elsewhere. Take every opportunity of hauling wood, and of carting manure to the fields. Let the yards be cleaned at regular times and new littered. Early Lambs for market should appear in March, but very great care is required to preserve them.

Five and twenty is the very harvest time of life, to gather precious corn, and the fruit of our labours against the cold storms and cloudy days of aged winter, when the body is weak, the eyesight decayed, and the hands tremble.

Foppery is never cured;
 it is the bad stamina of the mind, which, like those of the body, are never rectified; once a coxcomb, and always a coxcomb.

The way to cure our prejudices is this, that every man should let alone those that he complains of in others and examine his own.

AGRICULTURE.

The farm should be plotted and each field assigned its crop for the year. Manure should be all got out while the hauling is good. The cattle should not be allowed to wander on the road, fields or meadows, which does no good to themselves, and much injury to the land. Let the drains be overhauled and cleared out. Continue the cutting, splitting and piling of wood. Prune and remove dead limbs and branches of fruit trees, bushes and shrubs. Scrape off moss from apple trees, and cut off black knobs on the plum trees. All kinds of fruit and forest trees may now be safely transplanted. Transplanting must always be done before the leaves are out, or after they have fallen; if a tree is covered with leaves when it is transplanted, the evaporation by their surface is so great that the vital moisture of the plant would be all dissipated before the roots had begun to absorb water from the soil. Break up the garden and sow the early vegetables. Commence ploughing in dry situations and on sod land as soon as the frost will allow.

We can behold with coldness the stupendous displays of Omnipotence, and be in transports at the puny essays of human skill; throw aside speculations of the sublimest nature and vastest importance into some obscure corner of the mind, to make room for new notions of no consequence at all; and prefer the first reading of an indifferent author, to the second or third perusal of one whose merit and reputation are established.

Economy is of itself a great revenue.

AGRICULTURE.

Set about ploughing the land. Early spring ploughing is the best for sod land, as the frost both pulverises it and kills the weeds. Sow grass and plant the root crops. Steep and sow the grain crops. Corn may be sown after the grain crops and clover. Turn out the sheep and cattle, but not before the land is tolerably dry and the young grass has appeared. Cart out the remainder of the manure and clear up the farm yards.

Manure will waste as much in the heap in one season as in the ground, and for the first you get nothing, for the other a great deal. Towards the close of the month the meadow lands may be top-dressed with compost, gypsum or other manure. Mark spots for future drainage.
Beets, mangold-wurtzel, and Swedes may be sown with advantage after the other crops. Peas, beans, onions, turnips, carrots, parsnips, potatoes, radishes and spin-ach may be sown in garden fields. Cabbages, cucumbers, cauliflower, lettuce, and radishes may be planted out. Hedges and shrubs may be trimmed.

The same hath happened to the truly wise which befalls ears of corn; they shoot and raise their heads high and pert, whilst empty; but when mature and swelled with grain, begin to flag and droop. So those men who have tried and sounded all things, and discovered nothing solid and firm, have quitted their presumption and acknowledged their natural condition.

Every man is the architect of his own fortune.

AGRICULTURE.

Finish sowing and planting. The seed-end of potatoes, cut rather deep, will yield the best crop. Ruta-bagas, or Swedes, may be sown after the potatoes. Four or five lbs. of seed are not too much for an acre,—that will allow some for the insect and some for the land. Transplant so as to fill up spots where crops seem to fail. Hoe, or set the cultivator going among the corn and root crops. Weed the garden, the grain and root crops, otherwise it will be fifty times more troublesome later in the season and next year. Weedy fields may be ploughed for summer fallow. Buckwheat land ought to be prepared. The earlier the chopped land can be well burnt the better. Prune, trim and transplant trees. After transplanting, the soil should be rendered mellow and rich by mucking in for a considerable distance around; choose a moist or rainy day for the operation. Remove or destroy insects, lice and caterpillars on fruit-trees. Plant out cabbages. Transplant wild plants, bringing with them a portion of the natural soil.

It is an incontestable truth that the Deity constantly inspects the actions of the human race; nor will the virtues or vices of any one pass unregarded; but, agreeably to the different nature of them, they will be followed by a different retribution. These may not, indeed, be the immediate effects; but they are the constant expectation of every man, arising from the consciousness of his actions.

The motion of the comets about the sun is in a very long slender oval; whereof one of the foci is the centre of the sun, and the other very much beyond the orbit of Saturn.

AGRICULTURE.

Hoe and weed corn, potatoes, and all other crops; run the cultivator through them when the opportunity offers. Buckwheat and even turnips may be sown as late as July. Make early preparation for harvesting; repair barns, vehicles and tools. Get the best tools in the market: a man may earn the extra cost of a good scythe or cradle in a single day's work. Procure a horse rake; by means of which, one man with a steady horse, can do the work of seven or eight men. Clover should be cut while it is in full bloom. Timothy and red-top do not ripen till a fortnight after clover: they should be cut while the seed is in full milk, and before it is so ripe as to shake out when handled. Weeds should be cut down or rooted out before seeding; transplant cabbages and turnips in field or garden; gather flowering herbs, and dry quickly in the sun.

What! though you have given many illustrious proofs of great abilities, both in the state and in the camp; yet in this, Cæsar, thou art not singular. What we expect from you is the restoration of fallen liberty. Accomplish this, and every corner of the earth will be instantly filled with your applause; then, indeed, wilt thou rise to matchless glory.—Sallust to Cæsar.

Men of real sense and understanding prefer a prudent mediocrity to a precarious popularity; and, fearing to outdo their duty, leave it half undone.

A good name is the embalming of princes.

AGRICULTURE.

Finish hoeing and weeding, and prepare for grain harvest. Wheat, oats and barley are generally cut in this month: the best ought to be set aside for seed, and allowed to ripen fully while standing. The grain intended for consumption should be cut while still soft, for not only is the flour better, but there is much less top and waste in harvesting the crop. Lowland hay may be cut and made into stacks. If there is time, it is much better, at once, to get the low meadow hay beyond the reach of the river rather than to wait till winter. Make drains where required; gather seed and herbs; destroy weeds wherever they are to be seen; remove balls from the potato vines if thought necessary. Fall wheat may be sowed. If grain harvest be finished, fall ploughing for the next season may be begun. A good farmer will be ploughing all summer long. Don't burn too soon or the trouble will be greatly increased. Great care should always be taken to extinguish fires on new land; besides the real danger to all parties, & the penalty, on conviction, for not doing so.

The situation of a young and rich widow is walking blindfold upon stilts amidst precipices; though perhaps as little sensible of her danger as a child a quarter old would be in the paws of a monkey leaping on the tiles of a house.

The two chief advantages which a real acquaintance with nature brings to our minds, are, first, by instructing our understandings, and gratifying our curiosities; and next, by exciting and cherishing our devotion.

AGRICULTURE.

Carry on the harvesting of grain, corn, and root crops. Neglect not fall ploughing for a single day. Draining ought to be gone on with : let the drains be from 30 to 36 inches in depth, and placed about 20 feet apart. Grain may now be field threshed. Do not take up potatoes until the vines have been killed by the frost, and are perfectly dry ; keep them from sun and wet, and allow them to dry before housing ; let them be stored away in barrels or bins well protected from the air. Early apples may be gathered by hand, wiped, and put away into bins or barrels, taking care not to bruise them ; they should be kept in a dry, cool cellar, or upper room, where the temperature is not below the freezing point : should they, by any means, get frozen, they should be kept covered, so as to let them thaw gradually. Trees may be budded in this month. Farmers generally sow grass seeds (not clover) as early as possible after the summer crop. This is, likewise, a good time for the cow to go to the bull. Rams, again, should be removed from the sheep until the end of November or December.

An author is little to be valued, who tells us nothing but what we can learn from every coffee-house conversation.

Be just and fear not.

AGRICULTURE.

Continue draining, fall ploughing, and securing corn and root crops. When potatoes are to be stored in the field, a dry, sandy spot should be chosen, on which they are to be laid in heaps, then put a layer of straw over them; thatch them carefully, and cover the whole with earth: two small orifices should be left, the one at the top, and the other at the bottom; these should be closed with a wisp of straw, and opened occasionally to permit the access of fresh air. If the soil of the field is a wet clay, a ditch ought to be dug round the spot where the roots are to be laid. Turnips may be either stored in a root house, or in pits three feet in breadth, and covered with straw and earth as above. Cull out the choicest animals for breeding and for use; sell or fatten the remainder. Trees may be set out for the ensuing spring as soon as the leaves have fallen, and the buds are fully formed. Small seedlings, however, are best transplanted in the spring. Fruit trees may now be propagated by layers or cuttings

If there be a nation that exports its beef and linen, to pay for the importation of claret and porter, while a great part of its people live upon potatoes and wear no shirts; wherein does it differ from the sot, who lets his family starve, and sell his clothes to buy drink? Franklin.

Labor rids us of three great evils, irksomeness, vice and poverty.

AGRICULTURE.

Preparations must now be made for a long and severe winter. The summer vehicles should be dried, cleaned and stowed away. The fences should be put in order, so that none of the fields may be exposed to the poaching of cattle, sheep, or hogs. The farmer should walk about daily with a hammer and pocket full of nails, patching and repairing the barns and sheds where they require it. The yard should be well bedded with turf, peat, muck, straw, sawdust, weeds, or other vegetable matters, at the same time they should be so constructed that the soluble parts of the manure, which are the best, shall not be lost. Finish digging, and storing of roots, and the fall ploughing. One good ploughing of clay land in the fall is worth two or three in the spring. Husk the corn; make cider; examine and make cuts for the drainage of surface water; underground drains are preferable to surface cuts. The children should be kept close at school, and the farmer should never forget that more attention is due from him toward the improvement of his children than to that of the land or stock.

Happiness is the only thing of real value in existence, neither riches, nor power, nor wisdom, nor learning, nor strength, nor beauty, nor virtue, nor religion, nor even life itself, being of any importance, but as they contribute to its production.

Infants, for nearly three weeks after their birth, do not laugh when they are awake; but when asleep they both laugh and cry; which is a proof of the pre-existence of the human soul.

AGRICULTURE.

Stocks now require increased attention: they should be stall-fed for the winter, if possible, or put up in yard with a warm aspect, and with sheds attached, whereto they can resort in stormy seasons: they should be supplied with plenty water and salt, and fed about three times every day, and curried regularly. The sow may be taken to the boar in this month, and the ram allowed to return to the flock again.

Let the farmer keep out of the woods, for farming is not a branch of lumbering, nor are active lumberers likely to make thrifty husbandmen. Once for all, let the farmer forswear the woods. He may now thresh grain, and take his produce to market; the good wife ought to have her quota ready for cheese, butter, fowls, hams, sausages, mittens, socks, cloth, wool and feathers; these are all as good as money in town. Let all accounts be settled and debts paid. Every farmer ought to keep a book, wherein he records his operations, and notes the effect of different kind and quantities of manure, seed, &c., the returns under each method ought to be recorded by measure and weight. The crops for each field ought to be arranged not only for the ensuing summer, but for several years in advance: let there always be a systematic rotation of crops on the farm. Let every one take in and study an agricultural periodical, and strive to combine science with practice—practice with science.

Another passion there is, to make children learn 'all things;' the languages, the sciences, music & painting. Thus the child becomes a talker in all, a master in none.

HEALTH WHERE 'TIS SOUGHT! HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND STOMACH, WHEN
IN A MOST HOPELESS STATE.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Matthew Harvey, of Chapel Hall Airdrie, Scotland, dated the 15th January, 1850.

To Professor HOLLOWAY;

SIR,—Your valuable Pills have been the means, with God's blessing of restoring me to a state of perfect health, and at a time when I thought I was on the brink of the grave. I had consulted several eminent Doctors, who, after doing what they could for me, stated that they considered my case as hopeless. I ought to say that I had been suffering from a Liver and Stomach complaint of long standing, which during the last two years got so much worse, that every one considered my condition as hopeless. I as a last resource got a Box of your Pills, which soon gave relief, and by persevering in their use for some weeks, together with rubbing night and morning your Ointment over my chest and stomach and right side, I have by their means alone got completely cured, and to the astonishment of myself and every body who knows me.

(Signed)

MATTHEW HARVEY.

THE EARL OF ALDBOROUGH CURED OF A LIVER AND STOMACH COMPLAINT.

Extract of a Letter from His Lordship, dated Villa Messina Leghorn, 21st February, 1845.

To Professor HOLLOWAY.

SIR,—Various circumstances prevented the possibility of my thanking you before this time for your politeness in sending me your Pills as you did. I now take this opportunity of sending you an order for the amount and at the same time to add, that your Pills have effected a cure of a disorder in my Liver and Stomach, which all the most eminent of the Faculty at home, and all over the Continent, had not been able to effect; no, not even the waters of Carlsbad and Marienbad. I wish to have another Box and a Pot of the Ointment, in case any of my family should ever require either. Your most obliged and obedient Servant.

(Signed)

ALDBOROUGH.
