Spring School
WILL commence on Monday the 1st of May; and as it is of the most essential benefit to the Pupils to begin at the same time, rather than commence in the middle of a Quarter, it is requested that those Ladies who mean to honour her with their Children, will send them early. From the few Young Gentlemen who have come forward since her commencement, Miss P. is induced to suppose she may not be thought equal to instruct such. She can in that case assure her friends, that at one period she was honoured with 80 Boys, for six months continued, and that at a time when two Dancing Masters were on the spot, which she hopes will of itself be a sufficient recommendation.
 Hours during the Summer, 3 o'clock for Ladies, and 4 for Young Gentlemen.
 Adults or others, who may wish for private instructions, can be accommodated at Miss P.'s apartments, opposite Mr. Peters' in Church Street, where terms may be made known, for twice a week—Days, Tuesdays and Thursdays, for private lessons by the month.

THE CHARACTER OF THE LATE KING.

The best tribute to the memory of the just is to hold their good deeds in remembrance and to produce them as examples to those who shall follow them. If the intermediate state of the departed spirit may be inferred by the words of the Apostle, "absent from the body, present with God," if the constant tradition of the Church, "of the Communion of Saints," confirms this interpretation, and if it be still further strengthened by the opinion and persuasion of all men from the very original of mankind downwards, that man is not only immortal by the gift of revelation, but was originally created a mortal body with an immortal soul (an inference warranted by the express language of the book of Job, which is acknowledged by all learned men to be correct, and by many to exceed, in antiquity, the books of Moses); if all these premises be true, and we know not how they can be well doubted, it will follow that the spirits of the departed are in the same state of active existence between death and the resurrection, and that they do not wait for that maturity of the world, and that completion of the scheme of Providence, which will doubtless precede the consummation of all things in the resurrection of the body, and the general judgment. If such be the state of the dead, it is nearly equally probable that they are sensible of what is proceeding in the world which they have left, that their employment, and perhaps what constitutes their intermediate happiness, is in some ministering office of God's daily providence between man and himself; and if such be the truth, may it not contribute, even now, to the happiness of our departed Sovereign, to behold himself thus beloved by those from whom he has been severed, and with whom, in the process of time, he will again assuredly be united? May it not contribute to the happiness even of a beatified spirit to behold his human virtue producing its effect after his death, to see others animated by his example to similar virtue, and thereby giving him a better claim to the approbation of those pure spirits with whom he now lives in kindred?

In the ample materials which the industry of the daily press supplies to public curiosity, the character of our late Sovereign has become so well understood, that we shall not pretend to add anything not before known. The peculiar features of his mind and understanding were soundness and rectitude. He did not possess, at least was not distinguished by what are termed talents and genius; his education was defective and neglected, and he had therefore nothing of what is called learning, and very little, any, of that kind of knowledge, which is only to be acquired by an understanding regularly trained to the use of the reasoning powers, and adding and meditating upon the best authors.—It is true that he had nothing of this, he possessed an understanding strong, acute, and sagacious, from nature, and by the free and constant use of it in conversation with men of all kinds and all habits, he acquired a very exact and extensive knowledge of all that is to be learned in the practice of life. In this respect, his sphere was so large, and his curiosity and constant exercise so unwearied and unsatisfied, that he knew almost what a mass of information had been acquired. As books are only the thoughts of men and conversation, their discourse, it is manifest that the subject-matter of both is, in kind, the same; and it is equally impossible to imagine such an amount of conversation, and such a long and frequent intercourse with men, as may amount in a degree to the same kind of instruction, and to the same quantity of it, which might be acquired in books themselves. For example, we can easily imagine that a man of vast understanding and strong observation might learn as much in the conversation of such men as Burke or Johnson as by their printed volumes, and probably might learn it to better purpose; as discourse is certainly better remembered than any reading. And this will account for the astonishing degree of information possessed by his late Majesty;—a man, perhaps, who had read as little, and who had talked as much as any man in his dominions, but who, by means of his natural strength of observation, and by his insatiable curiosity, added to his opportunities, was inferior to very few, if any, of the most learned men of his reign; in all that respects the knowledge and practice of life, of history, and of business. As respects history, he was acquainted, as well as any of his day, with the history of every kingdom in Europe, and had a more intimate acquaintance, because better opportunities, with their interests and politics. By the same means (important questions) he had attained a nearly equal knowledge of ancient history as of modern, and what is more surprising, had even mastered the difficulties of metaphysics and logic by the united means of a little reading and much conversation. With these aids the conversation of the King, in his days of health and strength, was not merely intelligent, but acute and striking, and was in no degree inferior, upon all general subjects, to that of those who believed themselves most profound upon such points.

The above was the character of the King's understanding, and its cause and origin. His moral and religious character is above all praise. It infinitely exceeded what might have been expected from the age in which he lived,—from the circumstances under which he was formed, and from the court and characters by which he was surrounded. It appears almost to have been a felicity rather than a merit, if such rare virtue in any case can be termed a gift of fortune, and should not be more properly denominated the peculiar gift and grace of Heaven. We feel it perfectly unnecessary to enter into any particular upon this head. In no other instance was his right and sound judgment so well manifested as in his religious and moral habits. He believed the truth of Christianity with his whole heart and mind, and as he thus acknowledged its value and importance, he applied himself with his characteristic prudence to hold fast, and to ensure the immortal treasure. His whole life, and almost every day of it, was passed under the remembrance and consciousness of his being an accountable being; and one who was indebted to Providence for a long course of happiness. This is a part of his character which every one must remember with the like feelings,—and in which every wise and good Englishman will rejoice to recognise his own sentiments and character represented so justly and so strongly in the splendid and conspicuous example of his late Sovereign.

FREDERICTON, APRIL 19, 1820.

The Lieutenant Governor having received by the English February Mail (which arrived here at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon) Official Accounts of the demise of his late Majesty, of blessed and glorious memory, and of the Accession of his present Majesty, King GEORGE THE FOURTH, to the Imperial Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the Dominions thereto belonging: Directions were immediately given by His Excellency, for the Proclaiming of the King with the requisite solemnities and ceremonies.

Preparatory thereto, at 10 o'clock this morning, minute Guns commenced firing from the Artillery Park (the Standard half-mast high) and continued for two hours; the Church Bell tolling the whole of the time, in honour of the memory of our late Most Gracious and dearly beloved Sovereign. At twelve o'clock His Excellency went in state to the Province Hall, where the Troops in Garrison were paraded; and after the Members of his late Majesty's Council had taken the Oaths of Fidelity to His present Majesty, and the like Oaths were administered to the Lieutenant Governor, His Excellency took his seat in Council, in presence of a large assembly of the Magistrates and Officers of the Government, Civil and Military, and of the principal Inhabitants of the Town and Vicinity: when the following Official Communications were read by the Secretary:—

(I.)

CIRCULAR. Downing Street, 7th February, 1820.

Sir, It is my painful duty to inform you of the Demise of His Majesty King George the Third. This melancholy event took place at his Castle of Windsor, on Saturday the 29th ultimo, at 55 minutes past eight o'clock, P. M. It will be satisfactory to you to learn, that His Majesty, whose strength had gradually declined for some weeks, expired without the least apparent suffering.

His present Majesty was proclaimed on the 30th ultimo, as announced in the enclosed Gazette, which also contains His Majesty's Most Gracious Declaration in Council.

The Form to be observed in proclaiming within your Government, His Most Sacred Majesty King George the Fourth, is stated for your guidance in the accompanying Communication from the Lords of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council; to which is annexed the Form of a Proclamation, requiring all Persons being in Office of Authority or Government at the decease of the late King, to proceed in the Execution of their respective Offices till His Majesty's Pleasure shall be further signified.

I have the honor to be, Sir, Your most obedient humble Servant, BATHURST.

Major-General SMYTH, &c. &c.

(II.) AFTER Our hearty Commendations;—It having pleased Almighty God to take to his mercy, out of this troublesome Life, Our late Sovereign Lord King George the Third, of blessed and glorious Memory, and thereupon His Royal Majesty King George IV. being here proclaimed; We have thought fit to signify the same unto You, with directions, that You do, with the assistance of the Council and members of the principal Inhabitants of the Province of New Brunswick, forthwith Proclaim His Most Sacred Majesty King George the Fourth, according to the Form here enclosed, with the Solemnities and Ceremonies requisite on the like occasions. And You are likewise to publish and proclaim a Proclamation, requiring all Persons being in Office of Authority or Government at the Decease of the late King, to proceed in the Execution of their respective Offices till His Majesty's Pleasure shall be further signified according to the printed Copy of the Proclamation herewith transmitted to You for that purpose.—And so not doubting of your ready compliance herein, We bid you hearty farewell.

From the Council Chamber at Carlton House, this thirty-first day of January, 1820.

To our very loving Friend, The Governor, Lieut. Governor, or Person acting as such in the Province of New Brunswick.

(III.)

Extract from the London Gazette Extraordinary, Monday, 31st Jan. 1820.

At the Court at Carlton House, the 30th day of January, 1820.

Present, The King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

His Majesty being this day present in Council, was pleased to make the following Declaration, viz:—

I HAVE directed that you should be assembled here, in order that I may discharge the painful duty of announcing to you the death of the King, my Beloved Father.

It is impossible for me adequately to express the state of my feelings upon this melancholy occasion; but I have the consolation of knowing, that the severe calamity, with which His Majesty has been afflicted for so many years, has never effaced from the minds of his Subjects the impressions created by his many Virtues: and his Example will, I am persuaded, live for ever in the grateful remembrance of his Country.

Called upon, in consequence of His Majesty's indisposition, to exercise the Prerogatives of the Crown on his behalf, it was the first wish of my heart to be allowed to restore into his hands the Powers with which I was entrusted. It has pleased Almighty God to determine otherwise; and I have not been insensible to the advantages which I have derived from administering, in my dear Father's name, the Government of this Realm.

The support which I have received from Parliament and the Country, in times the most eventful, and under the most arduous circumstances, could alone inspire me with that confidence which my present station demands.

The experience of the past will, I trust, satisfy all Classes of my People, that it will ever be my most anxious endeavour to promote their Prosperity and Happiness, and to maintain unimpaired the Religion, Laws, and Liberties of the Kingdom.

Whereupon the Lords of the Council made it their humble request to His Majesty, that this His Majesty's Most Gracious Declaration to their Lordships might be made public; which His Majesty was pleased to order accordingly. JAS. BULLER.

A Commission appointing George Pidgeon Esquire, His Majesty's Herald at Arms for proclaiming His Majesty's Accession, was then read: and then the following:—

WHEREAS, it hath pleased Almighty God to call to his mercy our late Sovereign Lord King George the Third, of blessed and glorious memory, by whose decease the Imperial Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and all other his late Majesty's Dominions, is solely and rightfully come to the High and Mighty Prince George Prince of Wales: We, the Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Chief, and the Members of his late Majesty's Council, the Judges and Principal Officers of his said late Majesty's Government of this Province, and numbers of others, Magistrates and Principal Inhabitants being here assembled:

Therefore do now hereby with one full voice and consent of Tongue and Heart, Publish and Proclaim, That the High and Mighty Prince George Prince of Wales, is now by the Death of Our late Sovereign of happy and glorious memory, become our only lawful and rightful liege Lord George the Fourth, by the Grace of God King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, Supreme Lord, &c. of this Province of New Brunswick:

To whom We do acknowledge all Faith and constant Obedience, with all hearty and humble Affection, beseeching God, by whom Kings and Queens do Reign, to bless the Royal Prince George the Fourth with long and happy Years to Reign over Us.

Dated at Fredericton, this nineteenth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and twenty.

Which being read, was immediately signed by His Excellency, the Members of His Majesty's Council, Sir Robert Le Poer Trench, Commander, the Principal Officers of Government, the Magistrates and other Officers Civil and Military, and a great number of the Inhabitants—when His Excellency advanced to the Portico of the Hall, where the Herald at Arms, standing upon His Excellency's right, proclaimed his present Majesty—all uncovered—the Troops presenting Arms—and the Music playing the National Air of "God save the King," under a Royal Salute from the Artillery Park—Colors hoisted. The Herald then mounted on horseback, and accompanied by the High Sheriff and other Officers, and a large escort of the Military, proceeded to different parts of the Town, where the Proclamation was again read—the Troops presenting arms, and the rest of the Procession uncovered.

His Excellency then held a Privy Council, and issued the following Proclamation, viz:—

By His Excellency Major-General GEORGE STRACEY SMYTH, Lieutenant-Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Province of New Brunswick, &c. &c. &c.

A PROCLAMATION,

Requiring all Persons being in Office of Authority or Government at the Decease of the late King to proceed in the execution of their respective Offices.

G. S. SMYTH.

WHEREAS by an Act made in the Sixth Year of the Reign of Her late Majesty Queen Anne, intituled An Act for the Security of Her Majesty's Person and Government, and of the Succession to the Crown of Great-Britain, in the Protestant Line; it was enacted, that no Office, Place, or Employment, Civil or Military, within the Kingdoms of Great Britain or Ireland, Dominion of Wales, Town of Berwick-upon-Tweed, Isles of Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney, and Sark, or any of His Majesty's Plantations, should become void by reason of the Demise of Her said late Majesty, Her Heirs or Successors, Kings or Queens of this Realm, but that every Person and Persons in any of the Offices, Places, and Employments aforesaid, should continue in their respective Offices, Places, and Employments for the Space of Six Months next after such Death or Demise, unless sooner removed and discharged by the next Successor, to whom the Imperial Crown of this Realm was limited and appointed to go, remain, and descend; And whereas by an Act made in the Fifty-seventh Year of the Reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, intituled An Act for the Continuation of all and every Person or Persons in any and every Of-ice, Place, or Employment, Civil or Military, within the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Dominion of Wales, Town of Berwick-upon-Tweed, Isles of Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney, Sark, and Man, and also in all and every of His Majesty's Foreign Possessions, Colonies, or Plantations, which he or she shall hold, possess, or exercise during the Pleasure of the Crown at the Time of the Death or Demise of His present Majesty, until removed or discharged therefrom by the succeeding King or Queen of this Realm; it was enacted, that all and every Person and Persons, who upon the Day of the Demise of His said late Majesty should hold any Office, Civil or Military, under the Crown during Pleasure, should under and by virtue of the said Act, and without any new or other Patent, Commission, Warrant, or Authority, continue and be entitled in all respects, notwithstanding the Demise of His said late Majesty, to hold and enjoy the same: But nevertheless same should be held or enjoyed only during the Pleasure of the King or Queen who should succeed to the Crown upon the Demise of His said late Majesty; and the Right and Title to hold and enjoy the same under the Authority of the said Act, should be determinable in such and the like Manner by the King or Queen who upon the Demise of His said late Majesty should succeed to the Crown, as the Right or Title to any Office, Place, or Employment granted by such succeeding King or Queen, during Pleasure, would by Law be determinable: I, therefore, with the Advice of His Majesty's Council, declare His Majesty's Royal Will and Pleasure to be, and do hereby direct and command, That all and every Person and Persons who at the Time of the Demise of His said late Majesty of Glorious Memory, duly and lawfully held, possessed of or invested in any Office, Place, or Employment, Civil or Military, within this Province, do severally, according to their Places, Offices, or Charges, proceed in the Performance and Execution of all Duties belonging to their respective Offices, whilst they shall hold the same respectively during His Majesty's Pleasure; And I do hereby require and command all His Majesty's Subjects to be aiding, helping, and assisting at the Commandment of the said Officers and Ministers, in the Performance and Execution of their respective Offices and Places, as they and every of them tender His Majesty's utmost Displeasure, and will answer the contrary at their Peril.

Given under my Hand and Seal, at Fredericton, this Nineteenth Day of April, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Twenty, and in the Year of His Majesty's Reign.

By Command of His Excellency, W. F. ODELL.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

FOR THE STAR.

Messrs. Editors,

It is with great reluctance I come before you in the character of a complainer, but I feel myself compelled to say, that the ceremonies of yesterday, which ought to have given rise to feelings of unmixed exultation, have spread dissatisfaction and indignation throughout a very large proportion of this community. No doubt, the warning given from Head Quarters was so short as not to admit of many previous arrangements, but still there is a certain path which common sense and common prudence direct, as the one to be pursued in almost every case that can occur. Unfortunately, there was a flagrant aberration from that path, on the late occasion.—That Trinity Church, as a place of public resort having an open space before it, should have been fixed on as one of the places for reading the Proclamation, was natural and proper, and provided the Bell had ceased, some syllables of utterance might have been caught by the spectators. But, if one place of public worship was selected for this purpose, why not others, especially in a town, such as this, where there are so few public buildings, besides Churches and Chapels? Why, in particular, was not the Scotch as well as the English Church, so far acknowledged as to have its new Head proclaimed at its gates? This neglect is the more remarkable, as the Bell was stopped at the approach of the procession—a crowd assembled around the doors and railing in front of the Church—the Military, both Officers and men, took it for granted that they were to go through their manoeuvres, and were actually proceeding to draw up for the purpose.—Nay, if I am rightly informed, the Music had ceased and the cry of, Stop! proceeded from the crowd,—but a sterner voice called out, March on!—and was obeyed. Accordingly the ringer was ordered instantly to leave the Bell, which was followed by the immediate cessation of the others, so that, in as far as the ringing of Bells was concerned, the procession went on in solemn silence.—Now, as to the impropriety of such a proceeding, there is but one opinion in this community. If it was designed, it certainly was a gross insult offered, not only to persons belonging to that particular church, but to the Scottish Nation in general, not to speak of the Scotch Regt. whose services were called for on the occasion. I know that His Worship the Mayor was not to blame, as he did not accompany the procession from the Market-place, and at any rate, that Gentleman has too much liberality of sentiment, as well as regard to the rules of civility and decorum, to have departed so far from the line of propriety. I am persuaded also, that had the Commandant been present, his own national feeling, as well as his known regard to the rules of equity, would have prompted him to interfere so as to prevent the unfortunate result. Nay, I verily believe, that had His Majesty, George the IVth been on the spot, matters would have been otherwise arranged. This I am led to conclude from his having come forward so warmly to take the oath for the security of the Church of Scotland which the articles of Union require to be taken at every accession to the Crown.

"At the Court at Carlton House, the 30th of January, 1820.—His Majesty, at his first coming into the Council, was this day declared, that, understanding that the Queen should, at his accession to the throne, and subscribe the oath relating to the church of Scotland, he was ready to do it this first opportunity. His Majesty was graciously pleased to do so to the forms used by the law of Scotland subscribed two instruments thereof in presence of the Lords of the Council, who the same; and His Majesty was pleased to order, that one of the said instruments should be presented to the Court of Session, to be in the books of Sedrent, and to be forthwith lodged in the public books of Scotland; and that the other of the said instruments should be entered in the Council Book."

After reading such a statement, so the public prints, it is surprising that the Church of St. Andrew in this Province have been wholly overlooked in proclaiming His Majesty's accession to the Crown of Great Britain. It is to be imputed to a crowd of or to an idle, unfortunately too prevalent part of the world, that the Church holds an inferior rank to that of the English British Constitution in Church and State rather disposed to lean to the charlatan and to suppose that there was no other respect. But, some explanation will be found. At all events, it is fortunate that a circumstance however much it may individuals implicated, cannot affect, respectability of the Scottish church at principles of the North British church.

His Worship the Mayor, and the Court of the Garrison, having yesterday at an early hour received by express despatches, official intelligence of the death of our late and beloved Sovereign, the Third, and of the accession of His Majesty King George the Fourth, was from His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor to proclaim the King in this City, preparations for this purpose were forthwith.

At 10 o'clock the Bells of the Church commenced tolling, and minute guns fired from the Artillery at Fort Howe, the Standard Garrison Flag Staff, and the flags of the in the Harbour being hoisted half mast, in the memory of our late gracious King. At 12 o'clock the Members of His Majesty's Council residing in this City, previously taken the oath of fidelity to His Majesty, His Worship the Mayor and Members of the City Corporation, the Magistrates and other officers of the County, the Commandant and other officers of the Garrison, and a large number of principal inhabitants of the City and County assembled at the City Hall, the troops being paraded in front, with their lowering Proclamation was signed by the Members of His Majesty's Council, the Commandant of the Garrison, the Members of the City Corporation, the Sheriff and officers civil and military and a large number of Magistrates and other Inhabitants read from the Platform in front of the City Hall, by Mr. GEORGE L. ROBINSON, Honorary Secretary for the occasion by His Worship the Mayor.

"WHEREAS, it hath pleased Almighty God to call to his mercy our late Sovereign Lord King George the Third, of blessed memory, by whose decease the Imperial Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and all other his late Majesty's Dominions, is solely and rightfully come to the High and Mighty Prince George Prince of Wales: We, the Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Chief, and the Members of his late Majesty's Council, the Judges and Principal Officers of his said late Majesty's Government of this Province, and numbers of others, Magistrates and Principal Inhabitants being here assembled:

Therefore do now hereby with one full voice and consent of Tongue and Heart, Publish and Proclaim, That the High and Mighty Prince George Prince of Wales, is now by the death of Our late Sovereign of happy and glorious memory, become our only lawful and rightful liege Lord George the Fourth, by the Grace of God, King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, Supreme Lord, &c. of this Province of New Brunswick: To whom We do acknowledge all Faith and constant Obedience, with all hearty and humble Affection, beseeching God, by whom Kings and Queens do Reign, to bless the Royal Prince George the Fourth with long and happy years to reign over us.

Dated at the City of St. John, this 19th day of April, one thousand eight hundred and twenty. Under Royal Salute from the Artillery Park—Colors hoisted, and the Colour-bearers present being uncovered, the Proclamation was read from the Platform in front of the City Hall, by Mr. GEORGE L. ROBINSON, Honorary Secretary for the occasion by His Worship the Mayor. The Herald then mounted on horse and foot, and under the Military proceeded to different parts of the City on the Eastern side of the City, where the Proclamation was again read—the Troops presenting arms, and the rest of the Procession uncovered, and under successive Oaths of Fidelity to His Majesty, George the Fourth, proclaimed King of Great Britain and Ireland.

God Save King George the Fourth.

After reading such a statement, so lately, in the public prints, it is surprising that the only Church of St. Andrew in this Province should have been wholly overlooked in proclaiming His Majesty's accession to the Crown of Great Britain. Is it to be imputed to avowed contempt? or to an idea, unfortunately too prevalent in this part of the world, that the Church of Scotland holds an inferior rank to that of England, in the British Constitution in Church and State. I am rather disposed to lean to the charitable side, and to suppose that there was no intentional disrespect. But, some explanation will be required. Dated at the City of St. John, this twenty-fourth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and twenty." Under a royal salute from the Artillery, all persons present being uncovered, the troops presenting arms, and the Colours hoisted—at the close of the proclamation the air resounding with shouts of "God Save King George the Fourth." The Herald then mounted on horseback and accompanied by the High Sheriff, Coroner and other Officers, and a very numerous cavalcade of Magistrates and other inhabitants, both on horse and foot, and under the escort of the Military proceeded to different parts of the City on the Eastern side of the Harbour, and to the Parish of Portland, and Carleton where the Proclamation was again read, the troops presenting arms, and the rest of the Procession uncovered, and under successive acclamations of God Save King George the Fourth!

We understand that Stephen Humbert, Esq., is appointed Preventive Officer, to enforce the new Acts of the General Assembly, by regulating the Plaster Trade.

FESTIVAL OF SAINT GEORGE.

Yesterday the Anniversary of Saint George, the Tutelar Saint of England, was celebrated as usual by a handsome entertainment at Mr. Coly's.—The party was numerous and respectable, and sat down to dinner at 6 o'clock. Harry Peters, Esq. President of St. George's Society, took the Chair, and was well supported by Mr. Thomas Smith, as Vice.—Among the guests on the occasion were, His Worship the Mayor, the Clergy, the Heads of the different Military Departments, Presidents of the St. Andrew's and St. Patrick's Societies, &c. &c. The evening was spent with much hilarity, enlivened by instrumental music, and songs from different gentlemen of the party. The company separated at an early hour this morning.—The following Toasts were given on the occasion:

1. Saint George, the Tutelar Saint of Old England, and the Day.
2. His Majesty George IV.—May the virtuous example of his illustrious Father be the guide of his conduct through life.
3. The Memory of our late beloved Sovereign, whose long and glorious reign will be the boast and pride of Britons for ages to come.
4. The Duke of York, and the Royal Family.
5. The Navy and Army.

The Bank of New Brunswick—may it soon go into operation, and long may it flourish.

A shocking casualty recently took place on board the brig Jane, of this port: On the arrival of that vessel at the mouth of the harbour on Saturday, a seaman (John Hughes) fell overboard from off the bowsprit, and was lost;—on Sunday, while in the act of furling the sails, after drying, Daniel McKay, seaman, fell from the main yard on deck, of which fall he died in about half an hour;—and Robert Burns, seaman, fell from the fore yard, broke his thigh, and has become a charge to the Parish: The two latter were implicated with others of the crew in broaching the vessel's cargo of rum, of which they were completely intoxicated at the time, and rendered them unfit to perform their duty.

From the Halifax Weekly Chronicle, April 21. Eight of the late conspirators, viz.—Thistlewood, Bruant, Davidson, Ings, Wilson, Tidd, Harrison, and Monument, were committed to the Tower, March 3, upon a charge of High Treason; and a special commission was to be issued, without delay, for their trial. Six others were committed to the House of Correction under different charges.—Some for murder, and others for shooting at persons with intent to kill.

A dreadful gale occurred March 2-3, which did great damage to the shipping on the coasts of Great Britain and Ireland. The papers contain melancholy accounts of shipwreck and other disasters, on both sides of the English and Irish channels, the German ocean, &c.

Further Particulars of the late Conspiracy.

During the confusion incident on putting out the lights, Thistlewood fought his way down the ladder. Westcott, who was below, attempted to secure him, but he discharged his pistol,

A soldier of the Guards, employed on this occasion, has, in an account given to the papers, stated, that the picket guard of the Coldstream regiment, consisting of thirty men, was commanded by Capt. Frederick Fitzclarence.

On their arrival within 60 yards of the house in Cato-street, they were ordered by Capt.
Fitzclarence to fix bayonets and shoulder arms.

The first object that presented itself to the sight of the military, was one of the party running out of the stable, apparently with the intention to make his escape.

The detachment was then ordered to rush into the house, which they did, headed by their Captain, who, on entering, darted into a stall, and seized by the collar a fellow who was standing in it, and who grappled with him with one hand, while he attempted to fire a pistol at him with the other, which did not go off, the powder flashing in the pan.

Two of them, James Revel and James Bassey, immediately seized him, and he surrendered himself, saying,
"Do not kill me, and I will tell you all." This scene took place in the stable on the ground floor.

On entering the hay-loft, they discovered that the constables had been there before them. The first object that presented itself was the dead body of Smithers, the constable, and a ruffian lying at his side, all covered with the blood of the dead man.

These four were all of them found by the soldiers in the room, making, with the man taken below in the stall, and the two outside, seven prisoners.

He is a butcher.

At three o'clock on Thursday morning, a Gazette Extraordinary was issued, offering a reward of £1000 for Thistlewood's apprehension.

Instead of returning to his lodgings in Stanhope-street, Clare Market, it was discovered that he had proceeded to an obscure house, No. 8, White-street, Little Moorfields. Thither, at nine o'clock in the morning, Lavender, Bishop, Rothven, Salmon, and six of the patrol, were dispatched. On arriving at the house, three of the latter were placed at the front, and three at the back door, to prevent escape.

He had his breeches and stockings on, and seemed much agitated. On being dressed, he was identified. In his pockets were found some ball cartridges and flints, the black girdle, or belly which he was seen to wear in Cato-street,

At two o'clock he was conducted, still handcuffed, to the Council Chamber, and placed at the foot of the table. The Lord Chancellor informed him that he stood charged with treason and murder, and asked him whether he had any thing to say for himself? He answered, that "he should decline saying anything to the occasion." His commitment to Coldbath-fields was made out, and he was conveyed to that prison under the care of the six officers. There was a partial shouting and groaning as the carriage drove off.—London Paper.
