I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated.

"It is to be hoped that your fair samewords has a fortune of her own, for you, I believe, possess little, since you madly persist in throwing away your aunt's bequest."

"Miss Atherton is as poor as I," teturned Edmund, with quiet dignity, "but I can take care of her; I have my business, and with energy, and perseverance will be able to morease it. She shall never regret her choice, if I can help it, Mr. Dent."

"Mas Atherton is as poor as I," teturned Edmund, with quiet dignity, "but I can take care of her; I have my business, and with energy, and perseverance will be able to morease it. She shall never regret her choice, if I can help it, Mr. Dent."

"No ; she lingered and suffered along, "pining away all the time for years, the "doctors doing her no good; and at last "was cured by this Hop Bitters the panchine of the vacancy in the House of Commons or that medicine."

The Coll lawyer seemed to have an obstruction in his throat which acquired a great amount of coughing to vanquish.

And when at length he was restored to quiet, it was only in time to receive Edmund's adieu, and then the other legatees departed, satisfied with their share.

Miss Eleanor Lang, who had lived "in maiden meditation, fancy free," and had died at the mature age of seventy-five, had been the possessor of considerable fortune, which, with the exception of a few legacies to friends and old servants, was ultimately to be-defined and old servants, wa

He was a noble, upright, honorable man, and he had entertaired no idea of depending on his aumt or his great expectations. He did not believe in waiting for dead men's aboos, or a dead woman's either; so he had started, in a modest way, as a merchant, and was doing quite well at the time of his aum's death.

And then, fo find the promised for tune bequeathed to him, but with an uncomfortable appending which he had not expected. Besides, he was engaged to the avectest little woman in the round world. He felt justly indignant and resolved to have nothing to do with anyling which had belonged to the little woman in the round world. He felt justly indignant and resolved to have nothing to do with anyling which had belonged to the great while house on the hill, where the Winchesters lived, and where Miss Atherton had come for a long visit And soon, standing in he presence, a slender, dark-eyed girl, he was relaing the story of his wrongs and his bitter disappointment.

"If it were only myself," he added, classing the girl's white hand as he spoke: "if I were the only one come overled, Mary, I would not care much. But you what are you going to do with me y'."

"Be your wife," she answered, promptly, "if—you—want me."

His answer was a rather demonstrative one, and I will not attempt to elucidate.

So, when he had kissed sweet Mary good night, and turned he fisce to ward the which he now called his home, he felt which he

Dr. B. J. Kendall, & Co., Gents:—For the past three years I have used Kendall's Spavin Cure. In every case of spavin, of which I have treated five, thas killed them all, and entirely removed three. In case of splint I find it has no equal, one case I had was of three years standing and the Spavin Cure removed it entirely. I had a cow get spavin ed and it entirely cured her. One year ago a two hundred pound block of ice fell cut of a wago striking my foot on instep and curried into the house. I do not think amputation of the leg woul cause any more pain. I sent for Kendall's Spavin Cure. It was all I used, and in six days I could be approached to the control of the cause any more pain. I sent for Kendal's. Cure, it was all I used, and in six days I walk around. About three weeks ago my ran away and threw me out of the wagon, the wheel struck my knee. After applying

Santa Rosa, Cal., Feb. 9th, 1888.

B. J. Kredall & Co., Gents:—I feel it a duty to others suffering with the piles and falling of the rectum to write you. I have had the piles and prolapsus of the rectum for five years, for the past three years I have suffered the most agonizing pain. Tried everything without relief, but after en days use of Kendall's Spavin Cure I have not seen nor heard of the piles since. One who has not suffered as I have cannot comprehend the great joy that I feel at being cured of a disease almost worse than death. I had a valuable young horse that had a large bunch gather on his breast bone. I tried all kinds of inliments and had it cut open without any benofit. Saw your advertisement and bought a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and ordered my teamster to use as directed. In less than one week the lump had disappeared.—Thinking that a liniment that would do what Kendall's Spavin Cure has done for my horse might benefit more. I tried it as a last resort.

With gratitude and bost wishes for your success,
