CATHEDRAL'S JUBILEE ON CHRISTMAS DAY.

The Fiftieth Anniversary of its Dedication to be Celebrated on Monday.

On Christmas Day the golden jubilee of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception will be celebrated. The holy sacrifice was first offered within the walls of the church on Christmas Day, 1855.

Tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock a grand pontifical mass will be solemnized when the rector, Rev. A. W. Meahan, will be the preacher. The New Freeman of today publishes a long article, well illustrated, giving a history of the cathedral and of the venerable gentlemen who have in years past conducted its affairs and helped to place the church and gloce in the enviable position it now occupies.

BASIS PREPARED FOR CHURCH UNION.

Inter-Congregational Committee Make Advances.

(Special to the Star.) TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 23.—The official report of the proceedings of the joint committee on Church Union prepared and published under authority by the secretaries has been issued.

The reports of the various sub-committees as adopted by the joint committee supply tentative basis of union which is to be submitted to the assemblies of the three churches concerned at their next meeting next summer. Substantial unity and essential harmony existing among all three denominations are the marked features of the findings of the committee. Common doctrines held by Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists are formulated; possible lines for framing a policy for a united church, arrangements for pastoral service without a time limit, settlement and transfers of pastors, training for the ministry and relations of the minister to the doctrines of the church are set forth, and the matter of administration is left in the hands of a sub-committee to prepare a detailed report for the next annual meeting of the general conference.

PARTICULARS OF REV. J. D. MACKAY'S DROWNING.

Former St. John Clergyman and Missionary Upset in Small Boat in the Essiquibo River.

(Special to the Star.) HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 23.—A cable message from Demerara gives particulars of the drowning of Rev. J. D. Mackay, the Nova Scotia Presbyterian missionary, and Rev. J. C. Cruikshank, the Scottish missionary who perished with him. The town of Suddie is situated on the west bank of the mouth of the Essiquibo river, which at this point is twenty miles wide. Here are found shifting sand bars, continually moving as the rapidly rushing river meets the strong winds blowing in from the sea. Midway across the river's mouth are the islands of Lehan and Wakemaam, which with a large East Indian popula-

SANTA CLAUS' FAVORITES.

The Six Letters He Liked Best. List of Winners in the Star's "Letter to Santa Claus" Competition.

The six successful little ones in the Santa Claus letter competition are:

- VERA VINCENT, aged 10, 164 1-2 Waterloo Street. KENNETH GAULT, aged 10, 183 Main Street. GRETA P. FARRIS, aged 8, 174 Adelaide Street. SEVEN YEARS OLD AND UNDER. CHESTER BROWN, aged 7, 77 Portland Street. ARTHUR INGRAM, aged 6, 27 Esplanade Street. HELEN MCKANNA, aged 7, Silver Falls.

In addition to these Santa Claus has instructed his agents in this office to answer also the letter of Margaret Myrtle Crawford, of 20 Wall street, aged 4, because she was the youngest child to write an intelligible letter. Margaret wanted a "doll boy and dir" very badly, and was so fearful that her writing would not be readable that she supplemented it with unmistakable pictures of her heart's desire.

These winners were not selected without a good deal of study and careful comparison as among the thousand and odd letters received there were many that pressed them very closely. The letters that were originally written, naturalness, neatness, good handwriting, and wherever it was impossible to decipher the handwriting on these grounds, the letters first received were given the preference.

Among those which came the nearest to being among the six best which the Star promised would be answered were: Annie K. Hughes, aged 10, 309 King street west. Ella F. Marr, aged 9, 389 Erin street. George Howard, aged 9, 247 Douglas street. Doris Hastings, aged 8, 185 Bridge street. Jessie Jamieson, aged 8, 68 Stanley street. Fleetwood Marshall, aged 7, 65 Portland street. Mary and Marjorie Robertson, twins, aged 6, 74 Elliot row. Nelson Manning, aged 6, 36 Rock street.

The requests of the children were as varied as the play in the toy shop windows. The girls, however, were nearly unanimous in favor of dolls, or something pertaining to the care of dolls. As side issues they asked for books, work-boxes, skates and frames. One little girl wanted money for music lessons, and another asked for an organ, not a toy organ, but a really, truly one on which she could learn to play for her father's delight in the evenings.

The boys declared for skates, express wagon, sleds, snowshoes, Irish maids, mechanical toys, magic lanterns and similar playthings. For a demand for books—what struck the reader of the letters as peculiar—there was only one request for a Boy's Own Annual. One ambitious youth demanded an automobile and another sent a list about four pages long, which would have exhausted the resources of any toy store in the city.

The wishes of the lucky ones, which are fairly read for and will receive their share of skating boots with skates to fit. Kenneth Gault's desire embraced "a good large sled called the Red Bird, two good long skate straps, a pair of moccasins and a dozen magic lantern slides."

Greta Farris will be satisfied with "a nice big doll and a work-box." Chester Brown and Arthur Ingraham each wanted only an express wagon.

Helen McKanna, who gave Santa Claus full directions about placing the presents at the foot of the tree, and promised that mamma would sit up and keep a fire going for him, hoped for "a big, big dollie and a carriage to fit her."

The handling of the hundreds of letters that came from all over the province has entailed considerable work upon the staff, but it has been pleasant and heart-warming work, the only hard part of it being the necessary rejection of so many pleas.

4 GREAT PARTIES IN BRITISH POLITICS.

Rosebery and Chamberlain May Openly Oppose Liberal and Conservative Leaders.

(Special to the Star.) LONDON, Dec. 23.—If one were to judge of the drift of events, forgetting the historic names of the great parties of Great Britain and Ireland, there are four great parties instead of two—papers talking about the split in the Unionist party he declared to be outdone and decided to create a more real and sensational split in the Opposition. After declaring with his hand upon his heart, as the children say, that he would not "even utter one jarring note which could conflict with the unity of the Free Trade party," he went on "to say, emphatically and explicitly, and once for all, that he could not serve under that banner."

"That banner" is the Home Rule flag, which, again to quote Lord Rosebery, "the honored and responsible head of the Liberal party" * * * has hoisted once more, in its most pronounced form at Stirling."

If Lord Rosebery stood alone his emphatic and explicit refusal would not so much matter. But there as the Liberal League, of which he is president, and of which Mr. Asquith, Mr. Haldane, Sir Edward Grey, and Sir Henry Fowler are prominent officials, and the great majority of successful Radical candidates at by-elections are adherents. What of them? Under which banner are they going to serve? Lord Rosebery demands to the revival of the Home Rule policy on several grounds, and amongst them, "a high constitutional objection, founded on the experience, the recent experience, of foreign European countries." How do his fellow Liberal Leaguers view these "high constitutional objections?"

The little rift in the Unionist late is really uninteresting compared to the hole that Lord Rosebery has knocked in the Radical big drum.

Of course, what most people are asking themselves and their neighbors is whether and in what respect this escapade of Lord Rosebery will affect the position of the government.

The Unionists are claiming that the difference between Mr. Balfour's declaration at Newcastle and Mr. Chamberlain's at Bristol though serious is a difference of degree, not of kind. But as between Lord Rosebery and his adherents and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and his adherents and whippers-in there is a difference of degree as well as of kind. The Liberal League will accept no policy that leads up to the "larger policy" of Home Rule; Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman advises the Nationalists to accept no policy that does not lead thither.

The theory is advanced that when Lord Rosebery saw the political news-hops more—but certainly four. One of these is the party headed by the new premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, another headed by Mr. Balfour, the former premier and leader of the Conservatives, now leader of the Opposition to Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Lord Rosebery and Mr. Chamberlain.

The "split" in the Conservatives regarding the policy of fiscal policy between Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain is well known. But the "split" in the ranks of the Liberals is so sudden that all England is talking of it with bated political breath. And soon it is believed these mutterings and whispers will make so great a rent in the ranks of the Liberals that there will certainly be four large-sized, well developed political parties when the era of the general elections takes place.

A telephone message from Moscow tonight represents the situation there as grave on account of the attitude of the troops.

The government has received no confirmation of these reports and professes absolute confidence in the loyalty of the army which it says cannot be shaken by the present demonstration.

RUSSIAN STRIKERS ARE LOSING GROUND.

Government is Confident of Winning Out.

They Have Refused to Grant Universal Suffrage, But Agree to Extend the Franchise.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 23.—The Emperor and his cabinet late last night reached a decision regarding universal law, deciding against universal and equal suffrage and in favor of extension of the law promulgated August 19 last to include, in addition to the small land owners and the educated classes, the small rent payers in the cities. The details of this law were covered at the time in these despatches.

The doctina will be convoked in March. In high government circles confidence is expressed that the general strike will fall.

So far as St. Petersburg is concerned the battle is going against the revolutionaries. The government's firm stand effectively prevented the strikers keeping up the excitement in St. Petersburg by "red flag" demonstrations and by the old plan of marching from mill to mill to force the men to strike.

Some of the leaders already confess that the outlook is discouraging and they express the fear that the organization were guilty of a blunder in preparation, nevertheless they declare that the provinces can still turn the tide.

The main hope of the strike leaders rests on Moscow, to which all eyes are turned and where the tie-up is practically complete.

A telephone message from Moscow tonight represents the situation there as grave on account of the attitude of the troops.

The government has received no confirmation of these reports and professes absolute confidence in the loyalty of the army which it says cannot be shaken by the present demonstration.

C. P. R. TO SPEND OVER $250,000.

Will Make Extensive Improvements on Atlantic Division

New Bridges, Sidings and Round Houses to be Built Between Montreal and This City.

The C. P. R. will spend fully a quarter of a million dollars on their Atlantic division the coming year. The exact figures are not available, but some of the items run into large figures, as for instance $60,000 has been appropriated for fish plants along between here and Montreal and branch lines.

The biggest part of the money will be expended on ballasting and for heavier rails for the branch lines (the main line is now well equipped). Considerable money will be spent on new passing sidings and snow fences. A number of new steel bridges will be put in with heavy masonry piers and a number of the round houses will be enlarged.

The C. P. R. have to date this season received for winter port business 4500 cars of freight. They have handled 100,000,000 bushels of grain and have about 400,000 in the elevator at present with large arrivals every day. So far this season 1,500 cars of grain have been shipped from here, more than was handled last season up to the same date.

ST. ANDREWS, N. B., Dec. 22.—There is little doubt that Capt. Wm. Datson, of the Dartmouth tug R. J. Kirk, lost his life by falling off the C. E. R. wharf during the storm at midnight last night.
He was last seen going to the wharf to get on board his vessel at about 11 o'clock. Shortly afterward some men in a clam schooner were awakened by the cries of a man. They came on deck but could see nothing.
Today grappling parties have been seeking for the captain's body. He was forty-eight years of age and a resident of Campbellton, where his two children live. His wife has been dead some time.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white cashmere with lace trimmings, and wore a bridal veil. Miss Viola Jones of Point du Dute, was bridesmaid. Many useful and valuable presents testified to the high esteem in which the bride is held. The groom's gift was a handsome set of furs.

GEN. BOOTH'S PLAN FOR UNEMPLOYED.

Must Be Given Work, Not Charity.

Petition Sent to the King Blaming Poverty on the Luxury of the Upper Classes.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Gen. Booth has taken up the unemployed problem. In his preface to Mrs. Annie S. Swan's new book "The Outcasters," he deals with the subject vigorously.

Under such a scheme General Booth states that $30,000 of the ratepayers' money which is annually spent in maintaining people without work, would be expended in furnishing work for those who are able to do it.

The £25,000 given by the Duke of Westminster to the Church Army, through the Queen's Fund, are to be used in establishing two "Duke of Westminster" Labor Relief Depots, one at Poplar to be worked in connection with the existing Church Army Labor Home at New, and the other in the city of Westminster.

THE SPIRIT OF BOBBY BURNS.

[The following was written after reading an article condemning Campbell-Bannerman's all-Scottish cabinet and referring to Scotland as a land which bases her claim to distinction primarily upon the vapors of a lewd poet.]

My evening prayers had just been said; With nothing on my mind to dread I sank to slumber on my bed.

When, hark! a knock comes to my door, The like I never heard before, And never want to hear it more.

I've heard some talk going on of late 'That day on Alma's bloody height, 'And some in 'Holy Willie's Prayer,'

'Twas Scotland's name I'll vindicate, 'As true's your life.

'They claim within Auld Scotia's coast 'That's not a living soul can boast 'A deed of daring he could do.

'Now read that sweet pathetic strain, 'How Robbie's heart was rent in twain 'For Highland Mary, lang syne slain.

'Not all the words I've set in rhyme 'Are metred in immortal tone; 'Take 'Scots-Wha-Hae,' and 'Auld Lang Syne.'

'Some lines in 'Holy Willie's Prayer,' 'And some in Mauchlin's Holy Fair,' 'And Tam o'Shanter' and his mare

'But 'Mulla' and the Brides o' Ayr 'You'll read with pride.

'No, brother, try my fame to save, 'The hour has come to take my leave; 'He gave his hand a farewell wave

'And to the land beyond the grave Went out of sight.

An Open Letter To Santa Claus

By THADDEUS.

Dear Old Friend, I don't know your address, so I write you this open letter that I may reach you before Christmas. I have no doubt that her mood exaggerated her words; it is only when she thinks of her scanty purse, and the work and worry of selecting presents for her uncles and cousins and her aunts, that she becomes pessimistic. "But what will she be at fifty if she is so bitter at twelve?" That little girl found out long ago that her doll was stuffed with sawdust, and threw it indignantly away. That sawdust spoiled one of her illusions; and I suspect, Santa, that like Betsy Prigs, who doubted the existence of "Mrs. Harris," there are times when she doubts yours. Next year that little girl, I suppose, who is being disillusioned in her childhood, will choose for her school girl essay, "Is life worth living?" and a few years later, "Is marriage a failure?" I have been thinking, Santa, that you are somewhat to blame for your artificial life, and our half joy, and half dread of Christmas. I know that little girl whose words I have quoted, voiced the sentiments of her father and mother, and countless fathers and mothers all over the land. And the day that ought to be the sweetest and the best of all the year, is to a great many a half-burden by reason of its exactions. The "dearest" day of all the year, just expresses it. It costs too much. It has grown to be a luxury, and only you millionaires can afford it. Since you have grown rich, Santa, and joined the select and select "four hundred," I don't (excuse my plain speaking) like you half so well as when you were poor, and your hands were rough and hard because you worked so hard. I think I can see a marked change in you, since you came into your money; you are more dignified, and just a trifle "dudelat" perhaps, since you have become such a wealthy manufacturer and importer, and have your factories and warehouses in Paris, London, New York, and all over the world. Now that you handle diamonds and many fine houses on the Dorchester and St. George streets of our cities, do you get down into the poor streets, as often as you did when I was a boy? Do the poor get their share of your wealth as impartially as they did before "Fortunatus" touched you with his golden wand? I have often wondered, Santa, how you made your money. I don't want to be impertinent and curiously inquisitive, but there are so many who have grown enormously rich by questionable methods that we are suspicious when a man gets his money quickly. You haven't been in Wall street, "corner" in wheat, I know, for that means no bread for the poor. Did you ever gamble in stocks and call that making money? No, I will not wrong you, my old friend; you made your money in legitimate trade, and that would seem to keep your thousands of employees on starvation wages. You might have sat in a dining office and you chosen such a contemptible way of making money, and watched like a spider watching for a fly, for the unfortunate, and taken advantage of their necessities; you might have driven a rickshaw, and then excused the "round of cash." No, you chose the honest God appointed way of making money. You made an idle stream turn the wheels of a factory, and you gave employment to willing hands, and so gave bread to the hungry, and there is no stone in your brown stone front to "cry out against you." I have known some men, Santa, who have cut their poor relations, and have been deaf to any allusion to the poverty of the past, but I am sure you have never been guilty of snobbery like that. You have not forgotten, Santa, the handkerchief you whittled out for me, and the skates you made at the blacksmith shop? I got more fun and bumps out of that old sled, gullish of steel runners and paint, than your little "Lord Fauntleroy" could get out of their "Metecors" and "Electrics" painted in all the colors of the rainbow. Do you remember the stockings you filed, or only half-filled, at our house? There was a doughnut, and an apple and a stick of candy—but I guess that was all; the apple was not very large nor very sweet, but we were thankful and happy. We never dreamed of complaining, for we knew you were poor, and that you had a large family, and that you did the best you could for us all. I know we were more thankful and happy with our poor presents than many children are with costly ones. I went into a wealthy home last Christmas, and the children were complaining and fretting because you had either forgotten or could not afford to give them something they wanted; and I thought of poor Flora McFlynny with her "nothing to wear" in the midst of her beautiful wardrobe. I went into another home that day, on a poor street, where the fire was scanty, and the children were crying with hunger and cold and disappointment. And when they asked their mother why you had not come, she tried to make some excuse for you. But I saw the tears she tried to hide; and I confess, Santa, my own eyes were moist as I went away; and I said to myself, "his memory is falling, he

GOOD ROUTE NORTH OF LAKE ABITIBBI

Chairman Parent Hopes to Call For Tenders Next Month. OTTAWA, Dec. 22.—According to reports recently received from the surveyors of the National Transcontinental Railway commission, a good route has been found north of Lake Abitibi. The chairman Parent announces that the commission will be in a position next month to call for tenders for the construction of the line from Winnipeg to Lake Superior Junction, the connecting point with the C. T. P.'s branch line from Fort William. The C. T. P. is pressing for the completion of this section by August, 1907, in order that that road may get its share of the Western Canada trade of that year. As fast as the location surveys are approved, of contracts will be asked for the remaining portion of the government line through Northern Quebec and Ontario. It will be the aim of the commission to let these contracts as early a date as possible so that contractors may be able to get their supplies in over winter roads. Otherwise grading might be delayed for a year. Surveys in New Brunswick to test the merits of rival river and canal routes have been suspended owing to transportation difficulties. They will be resumed as soon as snow is melted, and it is expected a decision will be reached and contracts for construction let before spring. P. B. Ritchie, of the department of agriculture has been appointed registrar of copyrights, in succession to Jackson, deceased.

LABORER RISKED HIS LIFE TO GIVE HIS CHILDREN A CHRISTMAS.

On inquiry at the hospital this morning the Star was informed that the order of E. J. Earle, of 127 Mill street, who was taken to that institution suffering from severe blood poisoning his life, remains the same. Mr. Earle is a coal shoveler with John Duffy, but last Friday was employed as a laborer on the P. & N. E. A barrel of cement rolled against his leg, causing a slight bruise and a cut about an inch long, although poisoning set in he worked until Tuesday, hoping, as Mrs. Earle says, to allow the children to whom there are four and a sick baby, to observe Christmas. Mrs. Earle said this morning that he had so much trouble during the strike that as last week was a busy one he did not want to lose an hour. When Dr. McAlpine was summoned he was sent to the hospital, where he has been since.

CHRISTMAS TRAFFIC DELAYS TRAINS.

The Fredericton and Sussex trains this morning, said one railway official, were held up by the Christmas traffic. The conductors on the I. C. R. are of the opinion that this is the heaviest traffic they have handled in a while, while the passenger travel on the C. P. R. is also very great.

All the trains were more or less late. The Boston section of the Montreal-Boston train which has lately been brought in in two sections was an hour even heavier than to the city and that the Fredericton train last night picked up at least one hundred passengers along the line.

ST. JOHN PREACHER PREAID.

Reporting the visit to Acadia University and the addresses there last Sunday of Rev. P. S. Bamford, the Wolfville Acadian says: "Mr. Bamford has only been in Canada a few months and is fast gaining the esteem and confidence of his denomination. The qualities that mark him as a man are his strong personality, his ability and his cheerful willingness to work. He has studied at Victoria, London and Oxford Universities, and expects to obtain next spring, the degree of D. Sc. from Harvard University. It is hoped that we may soon have the privilege of getting better acquainted with Mr. Bamford."

FREE CHRISTMAS MORNING.

The postponement of the Victoria Ring opening from this afternoon until Christmas day was a disappointment to many, but the children will be glad Monday morning when, with their new skates, they indulge in Manager Armstrong's hospitality. A., Ltd., joins him at New York Christmas day, and will also take passage on the same boat.

POLICE COURT.

How Little Ham Bon Arrested a Big Drunk on Lumberman and Made Him Pay For His Window.

At the police court this morning two plain drunks went to jail in default of paying a fine of $4.

George Chestnut, attired in the full garb of a woodman, was quite penitent this morning in court, when he was fined $8 or 30 days jail for being drunk and also asked to pay $1.50 to Ham Bon for breaking the glass in the door of Ham's Caramthen street laundry. Ham Bon is a neatly attired young almoned eyed celestial with a fairly good grasp on the English language, and he threw a beaming smile on the magistrate this morning when he explained the bad actions of Chestnut and the plucky manner in which he handled his man.

Yesterday Chestnut arrived in the city from the woods and early last night he had acquired a jag that made him uproarious. He could not resist the opportunity of pushing his right hand through the laundryman's window and cutting his hand quite badly.

Little Ham was equal to the occasion and soon had the burly drunk by the collar and hustled him unaided to the police station steps. It then occurred to Chestnut that matters looked serious for him and he put up a fight. Ham held on and rent the air with his screams for the police. Sergt. Campbell, who was in the central station, heard the uproar and hastened to the Chinese's rescue and placed Chestnut in a cell. This morning Chestnut paid Ham Bon $1.50 for the damage done to the window and went to jail in default of paying eight dollars for being drunk.

Mrs. Graves was in court this morning, owing to a complaint of Henry Close, who claimed that he had given the woman a watch to keep for him until he wanted it, and that when he called for the time piece she refused to hand it over.

Mrs. Graves explained to the court that Mr. Close wished money for liquor and the watch to her for one dollar, which was to have been paid today. The case was dismissed and the parties interested told to leave the court and fix the matter among themselves.

CHRISTMAS BRIDES.

Two St. John Couples Who Will Celebrate the Merry Christmas Day by Getting Married.

A quiet but very pretty wedding is to take place at three o'clock on Christmas day, when Rev. A. J. Prosser will unite in marriage Miss Edie A. Hoyt, daughter of Mrs. Mary L. Hoyt, 173 Union street, and Wm. Lee Hiscock, of T. McAvity & Sons.

The wedding, which will take place at the home of the bride, is a very quiet one, on account of the death lately of her brother. The young couple will be unattended. The bride's costume will be a very pretty white silk crepe de chene over white silk dress. She will carry a bouquet of white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Hiscock will reside at 173 Union street.

The young couple received many handsome and valuable gifts. Particularly mentioned were mentioned handsome brass urns from the millinery staff of the London House, where the bride was formerly employed, and a handsome present to the groom from his employers.

The marriage is also announced to take place on Christmas Day at the mother's residence, 399 Union street, of Miss Mamie Martin, daughter of the late George H. Martin to Norman Robert Mosher of Noank, Conn.

The ceremony will be a quiet one, the happy couple being unattended. The nuptial knot will be tied by the Rev. G. M. Campbell of Queen Square church at half-past five in the afternoon. The bride will wear a handsome suit of blue canvas cloth with a bouquet of white roses. Her travelling suit is of blue canvas cloth with black velvet hat. The home will be prettily decorated with plants and cut flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mosher will reside in Noank.

The bride has received numerous pretty wedding gifts including a silver salver from the class and teachers of Queen Square Sunday school.
