

ST. JOHN EXTENDS WELCOME TO VISITING MEDICAL MEN

Hon. Mr. Hazen. Hon. J. D. Hazen, who was then called on for an address, and who was given a fine reception, said it would be surprising to him to say it afforded him great pleasure to be present and extend the members a hearty welcome to St. John and New Brunswick.

Mr. Hazen remarked he had ordered Mr. Stupart, director of the meteorological department to send along the best of weather for the conference, and had been advised the weather man furnished St. John with the best weather in July without orders.

Mr. Hazen referred to the marvelous achievements of medicine since the days of Hippocrates and the rise and importance of the branch of the science, that devoted to the promotion of public health. He pointed out that as a result of the public health work of doctors the average length of life had been greatly increased in the past 50 years, and that every year greater efforts were being made to improve conditions assuring a sound mind and vigorous body.

St. John's Welcome to the Visitors. Mayor Frink extended a welcome on behalf of the city, especially to those who had journeyed across the ocean and the visitors from the United States. He hoped the discussions would promote interest in public health matters as well as technical questions.

Need for Uniform Legislation. Speaking of the progress of the association he said there were about 8,000 medical practitioners in Canada, one fifth of whom belonged to the association. Of late there had been a material increase in the membership, and there was opportunity for continued growth.

Dr. MacLaren spoke of the advisability of having uniform medical organization and legislation in all the provinces. He said the profession should adopt a franker attitude towards venereal diseases, and said the facilities for dealing with such diseases in Canada were inadequate and that the disposition was to hide their ravages. He referred to the generosity of Mrs. Jordan in establishing the sanatorium at River Glade and hoped it would prove a stimulus to the liberality of others. He said the hospital accommodation at St. John was inadequate, and that the question of providing better accommodation should be faced in a more generous spirit by the public.

He advocated the printing of a weekly medical journal and spoke of the growth and efficiency of the Army Medical Corps, through the interest of the profession.

On a motion of Dr. R. W. Powell of Ottawa a vote of thanks was extended to the president for his able address. Thomas McCrae, M. D., F. R. C. P., professor of medicine at the Jeffersonian Medical College, Philadelphia, and a former Canadian, then delivered the address on medicine. He pointed out the necessity of doctors developing the powers of observation, and the necessity of having all the facts in order to form sound conclusions. "The essential factor in the method made famous by the story of Zedig and the demonstrations of Sherlock Holmes, consists in working back from observations of conditions to the cause which brought them about."

MANY INQUIRIES AT HOSPITAL FOR NEWS OF OFFICER O'LEARY

The great interest that is being taken in the city regarding the condition of Officer Frank O'Leary, at the General Public Hospital, is extraordinary, and the calls on the telephone at the hospital are almost continuous night and day. In one hour Monday evening there was no less than 130 calls, which is proving a great task for those at the hospital to look after. The doctors and nurses are very busy and while it is appreciated by them that in some cases the calls are made by relatives, it is understood that the greater number of calls are from mostly any person who is near a telephone. With the exception of the officer's parents, the clergyman and the doctors there are none others allowed to visit him, and boys and girls, and also young men who are acquainted with the popular officer, have called at the hospital demanding that they be allowed to see him. One of the physicians at the hospital said yesterday that it took him some time to get in favor of the public would call on the telephone so many times as the staff cannot possibly attend to the phone and their duties.

In the "Safety First" campaign, which is now engaging the attention of two continents, one of the greatest problems is that of providing adequate protection against the force of gravity. MEDICAL

Dr. H. W. Hill, former Director of Health, at London, Opening Session — Disease, he claims — Live address.

A bombshell was thrown into the Canadian Medical Association's opening meeting yesterday afternoon when a paper prepared by Dr. H. W. Hill, M. B., M. D., D. P. H., former director of the Institute of Public Health, London, Ontario, and now executive-secretary of the Minnesota Public Health Association, promulgated the doctrine that dirt has little to do with disease.

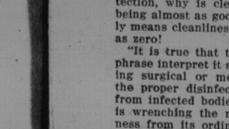

"The earlier conceptions of public health," said Dr. Hill, "identified dirt with disease, holding that one made or included in some way, the other. But as we go deeper and deeper into the real causes of disease, direct or indirect, dirt loses the significance more and more, and we recognize that the saying 'dirt causes disease' is one of the most grossly generalizing and really mean nothing or is even false."

"We repeat, some of us often and again, 'Cleanliness is next to Godliness.' But is it? In what public health sense is that saying true? This phrase on the surface seems to mean, is certainly usually taken to mean, that cleanliness protects against disease; and that the protection is so good as to rank below nothing but Godliness. But who here would dare to claim Godliness protects against sickness at all? Does the unvaccinated bishop escape smallpox or the vaccinated burglar escape cholera? Are the ninety per cent of our people who suffer from measles, all Godless? We average by the time we reach adult life over three infections apiece, counting only the accepted children's disease. Are children more Godless than adults? Godliness is no protection provided infection can reach us. Unethical cleanliness produce disease provided infection is excluded. It was not the heathen who suffered syphilis, tuberculosis; they were free until Christian nations, who loving in both diseases, brought both to them. Then if Godliness is no protection, why is cleanliness lauded as being almost good, since that mere means cleanliness is almost as good as zero?"

"It is true that those who like this phrase interpret it sometimes as meaning surgical or medical cleanliness, the proper disinfection of discharges from infected bodies, and so on. This is wrenching the meaning of cleanliness from its ordinary use and significance; and can be justified only by a desperate feeling of need to make the phrase mean something useful. But this forced significance still does not make the phrase true; in fact it makes it, if possible, still more ridiculous. Cleanliness in this really efficient form is not next to Godliness, but of value as a protection; it is far, far above it; for we have shown that Godliness only ranks zero! Certainly sur-

THE TIMES AND MR. GOULD.

It is amusing to note the persistence with which the Times continues to charge the Standard with abusing that newspaper, the Telegraph, and Mr. Carvell. The Standard's contention has been that matters arising from the sessions of the Royal Commission, and incidents in connection therewith, should, at least, be treated with some slight regard for the truth and the "abuse" of which the Times complains has consisted principally of illustrations whereby this newspaper has shown that the Times has not been truthful. If it is abuse to charge a newspaper with deliberate lying, and then to prove the charge beyond the shadow of a doubt, the Standard pleads its determination to continue in the present course just so long as the Times finds it more profitable to lie than to deal with facts and facts only.

The other morning the Telegraph published a story setting forth in much detail how the watchful Mr. Carvell had a sleuth at Debec Junction to serve a subpoena upon Mr. A. R. Gould, president of the St. John and Quebec Railway Company. The Standard, yesterday, stated that this very fact indicated that Mr. Carvell knew when and where to find Mr. Gould and the evidence to show that the latter gentleman had tried to avoid service was far from convincing.

The Times, last evening, in a specially displayed article on its first page, continued its game of misrepresentation and said:

"The Standard" this morning wants to know why it was, if Mr. Carvell did not know the whereabouts of A. R. Gould, that he had a man at Debec Junction to serve a subpoena. The answer is very simple. Mr. Carvell took no chances. He had had a man at Debec Junction and a man at Arctostook Junction with instructions to subpoena Mr. Gould if he should pass through either place. Mr. Gould passed through Debec. The subpoena was there waiting for him.

"The Standard" also endeavors to make it appear that Mr. Gould was delighted to receive service, and to assure the agent of Mr. Carvell that he would gladly appear before the Royal Commission. As a matter of fact this is the second notice of Mr. Gould received that he was wanted before the Royal Commission. When he received the first one, his remarks were very far from being of a character which would indicate joy and a yearning desire to appear before the Royal Commission."

A staff correspondent of the Standard went to Fredericton yesterday and, last evening, had an interview with Mr. Gould. We quote our correspondent's report as follows: "Mr. Gould expressed much surprise and no little amusement at the statements in the opposition press that he was dodging the Royal Commission investigation charges against Premier Fleming. 'Why,' said Mr. Gould, 'the man who served the subpoena on me at Debec Junction rushed into the car and threw the paper on the seat in front of me and then ran out again, and this was after I had told Mr. Carvell I intended being present at the next session of the commission. Mr. Carvell knew I was in Montreal and when he was on his way to Calais to meet Mr. Berry I saw him at McAdam Junction and told him I had every intention of giving evidence. If I had wished to avoid attending I could have gone on into Maine in fifteen minutes.'"

The Standard was in error when it said Mr. Gould announced to Mr. Carvell's representative that he would be on hand. Mr. Gould had no such opportunity, for Mr. Carvell's sleuth "rushed into the car, threw the paper on the seat and ran out again." But the truth puts Mr. Carvell, or the Times, in even a more awkward position than if the Standard's statement was correct, for, instead of telling the agent Mr. Gould told the principal. And Mr. Carvell's grandstand play was not made until he had already had the assurance of the president of the Valley Railway that he would be on hand when wanted.

There we have two statements. Mr. Gould claims he did not attempt to evade service. The Times, for Mr. Carvell, claims that he did. Mr. Gould tells the truth. The Times lies as it has always done. There is nothing further to be said.

WELCOME TO THE MEDICAL MEN.

St. John is pleased to welcome the distinguished guests now within her gates as delegates to the sessions of the Canadian Medical Association. It is worthy of note that the visit to this city of the three hundred or more members of the society is a distinct compliment to Dr. Murray MacLaren, the president of the organization, and one of its most active members. In no branch of science has greater progress been made during the past few years than in the medical profession. Theories of diseases and their cure which, for years stood the test of time, have, through the medical research, been proven, if not incorrect, yet not quite accurate. The men now in this city are among the leaders in their profession all over Canada and the result of their gathering together, and consequent interchange of advanced ideas will doubtless prove of much value.

To St. John the gathering is of importance because it affords to men who, otherwise, might not visit us, an opportunity to see what we have in this city by the sea. They will drink in the energizing sea breeze, while observing that St. John while smaller than some, is at least as busy and as prosperous as any city in Canada. They will rejoice in the absence of the overpowering July heat of other centres and will learn that we possess the summer climate par excellence. And if they do get a taste of St. John fog it will only serve to remind them of the proximity of the ocean, an important factor in producing the ideal summer climate which they have already learned to appreciate.

It is to be hoped that their visit will be pleasant and that when they depart for their homes it will be with the desire to return on occasions when they can give more attention and time to the advantages which at present they can but glimpse. The members of the Canadian Medical Association are very welcome visitors.

MR. HAZEN AND ST. JOHN.

The decision of the Dominion Department of Public Works to call for tenders for the construction of a breakwater from Negro Town Point to Partridge Island is another illustration of Hon. J. D. Hazen's interest in St. John, says the Fredericton Gleaner. The construction of the breakwater will immensely improve the shipping facilities at that port, and will place it in a position that will enable a very largely increased traffic to be satisfactorily handled. With this, and the preparations which are under way providing adequate terminal facilities for Grand Trunk Pacific traffic and the extension of the harbor works, Mr. Hazen has demonstrated his ability to do something more than make promises to the people whose interests he has so much at heart.

"But although Mr. Hazen has done more for St. John than any other Minister that ever represented it in the Dominion Parliament, one of his most notable achievements is unquestionably the obtaining of the $3,000,000 to construct the bridges on the Valley Railway, and thus not only render the completion of that road an early possibility, but what is of even more importance to St. John, providing a means of access to that city for the Grand Trunk Pacific. By this means the iniquitous deal by which the Laurier government defrauded St. John of its share of transcontinental traffic will be largely overcome, and with the completion of the railway and the provision of terminals at St. John, the advantages which will accrue to that city from the increased traffic can be readily appreciated.

"It is to Mr. Hazen's statesmanship, it will be remembered, that the province owes the construction of the Valley Railway at all; he had a faith in the future of the road that his political opponents lacked; and but for this faith there would be no possibility of St. John benefiting from the Grand Trunk traffic. Not only all professed interest in the city's future, the St. John organ of the Liberal party is energetically backing up Mr. Carvell in his efforts to belittle and discredit the road in every detail; the road which, from Fredericton to St. John, is being built to Transcontinental standard, in order to accommodate Grand Trunk traffic and take it to St. John. Mr. Carvell has even carried his animosity to the Valley Railway so far as to send his own railway engineer over the road in an effort to manufacture some evidence derogatory to it; but the results of that engineer's investigations are said to have confirmed Mr. Carvell's worst fears, as to the substantial nature of the road, and he will not attempt to bring them in evidence.

"Mr. Hazen is bringing up and developing this province, and Mr. Carvell is vainly endeavoring to minimize the usefulness of his handwork. It does not need the wisdom of a Solomon to decide whose course the people most appreciate."

DIRT AND DISEASE.

Whether the contention of Dr. H. W. Hill, to the effect that the old theories that dirt is a breeder of disease and cleanliness is next to godliness are all wrong will be supported by his fellows in the Canadian Medical Association, he will, at any rate, have the satisfaction of knowing that he has won the regard of the thousands of growing boys to whom the constant injunctions as to a state of cleanliness, thought by the boys to be entirely unnecessary, have become almost a bug-bear.

There is hardly a man today who does not carry in his memory cells, side by side with the old oaken bucket, the little red school house, mother's slipper and other fond recollections of childhood, a remembrance of times when he was sent to wash his face while the other lads were waiting outside for the game of baseball or the visit to the fishing pool.

Much has been said and written regarding the virtue of cleanliness. That it has been ranked as second only to godliness, possibly, has contributed to give it an importance which, up to this time, few have ventured to challenge. Whatever may be said by medical men regarding the value of Dr. Hill's claims they possess much of interest and are buttressed by arguments which, to the layman at least, appear convincing. The growing boys of today are readers and it would not be at all surprising to find the future railway magnate, or physician, or leader of public thought, packing a report of Dr. Hill's address and using it upon insistent parents who may still be inclined to cling to the older theories.

Diary of Events

HISTORIC DAYS IN CANADA

Sir Charles Tupper resigned the premiership of the dominion eighteen years ago today. Early in 1886 Sir Charles gave up the high commission-ership to accept a portfolio in the ministry of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and assumed the leadership in the House of Commons. An election was close at hand, the Conservatives were disorganized by long continued friction and disarray, and the Liberals represented the popular side of the Manitoba school question, then the foremost issue. In April Sir Mackenzie Bowell retired and Sir Charles, as premier, faced the coming storm. The Tupper government, from necessity rather than choice, appealed to the country; upon the Manitoba school issue, and in the June elections it was swept from power by a veritable avalanche of ballots. Personally Sir Charles held the confidence and respect of all Canadians, regardless of party, and it was more in sorrow than in anger that the votes handed down a dismissal from office. With the eloquent Wilfrid Laurier at the head of the opposition, and with so popular an ally as the Hon. Sir Charles, the Conservative party could have made so good a fight. On the eighth of July following the election of 1896 Sir Charles retired, and Wilfrid Laurier organized a new government. With the dissolution of 1896, seven parliaments had run their course since Confederation, with seven successive ministries, though with but three changes of government. The Laurier government was destined to continue in power until 1911. Sir Charles retired in 1911, and was succeeded by Mr. Borden until 1901, when Mr. Borden assumed the responsibilities of that position.

FIRST THINGS YALE

The first benefactor of what is now Yale University was Elihu Yale, who was born in Boston in 1648 and who died in London 193 years ago today, July 8, 1721. Yale was buried at Wrexham, a little town in North Wales, and his grave is a place of pious pilgrimage for all "sons of old Eli" who visit England. Yale made a fortune in the East Indies as a trader, and when he returned to America he gave to the Collegiate School at Saybrook, Conn., books and money valued at $4,000. Hence the 200th anniversary of the removal of the school to that city. In 1715 it was decided to change the name of the institution to Yale College in honor of the philanthropist. The name Yale College applied at first only to the new building in New Haven, and it was not formally adopted until the charter of 1745. In 1887 the use of the title Yale University was authorized. Yale's gift, small as it seems today, was considered magnificent when it was given. Few other men in history have bought immortality at so low a price as did Elihu Yale.

THE PASSING DAY.

MOST FAVORED BIRTHDAY. Were you born on the eighth of July? As you count yourself fortunate, for astrologers assert that it is the most favorable birthday of the year. As proof, the stargazers can point to the fact that John D. Rockefeller will pass the three-quarter century mark today. The Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, the great English statesman, who died last week, was born on the eighth of July in 1836. Two distinguished near-octogenarians were born on the eighth of July in 1838—Count Zepelin, the German airship inventor, and Gov. James Bennett McCreary, the Kentucky statesman.

Shrewd business sense, searching minds, domesticity, industry and thrift are the virtues of those born under the sign Cancer, according to the astrologers. Love of money for money's sake is the principal vice of "Cancer people," according to these same "authorities." So far as the world's richest man is concerned, this description seems fairly accurate, but it does not apply to the others. Neither Zepelin, Chamberlain nor McCreary have been money-grubbers.

The late Joseph Chamberlain announced last January his intention of retiring from the House of Commons, of which he had been a member since 1876. With the exception of Gladstone, Mr. Chamberlain was considered England's ablest statesman. He resigned of his objections to home rule for Ireland. He was secretary of state for colonies during the South African war.

His third wife was a daughter of Judge W. C. Endicott, of Massachusetts, who was secretary of war in Cleveland's first administration. Count Zepelin, the "grand old man of the air," brought out his first airship, which served as the prototype for many subsequent dirigibles. In 1900, he was the first to establish regular passenger travel in the air. Disaster struck Zepelin's early airships, but when in 1906 he flew across Europe he sent a chill of fear to the hearts of European monarchs. Early rising and the consumption of large quantities of milk enabled James B. McCreary, ex-Congressman and ex-senator, to win out after a strenuous campaign in the last election for governor in Kentucky. Gov. McCreary was born July 8, 1838, in Madison county, Ky., fought in the Confederate army, was elected governor of the Blue Grass State the first time in 1875, and spent eighteen years in Washington as representative and senator. Richard N. Y., claims the honor of being the birthplace of John D. Rockefeller. Beginning his career as a clerk in Cleveland, at a salary of $12.50 per month, at nineteen he borrowed $2,000 and started in the commodity business, later turning to oil.

It is to be hoped that their visit will be pleasant and that when they depart for their homes it will be with the desire to return on occasions when they can give more attention and time to the advantages which at present they can but glimpse. The members of the Canadian Medical Association are very welcome visitors.

The Profit On Diamonds.

Diamond prices constantly advancing and diamond production is increasing. It is natural when one knows only these facts to conclude that the profit on a diamond dealer also increases. But the cost of diamond mining steadily increases, while the waste and expense in cutting, and the cost of marketing the stones do not decrease. As a matter of fact the dealer does not make an unusual profit, or as large a one as formerly from each sale—but he does sell more diamonds because more people want diamonds.

NOW IS THE TIME TO Plan For The Summer. We will not give a summer vacation this year as a number of students from long distances would be inconvenienced thereby. DOCTORS TAKE TWO HUNDRED SPLINTERS FROM MAN'S BODY

Motorcycle rider collides with board track during race and emerges a "Human woodpile".

Philadelphia, July 5.—Surgeons at St. Agnes Hospital today, headed by Dr. Bransfield, performed the strangest operation which that institution has known for some time, when they collaborated in picking 250 splinters from various parts of the body of a motorcycle rider, who lives at 515 Christian street. Fifty splinters of various lengths still remain hidden in the patient and the doctors will resume their task tomorrow to rid the man of his wooden enemies.

Surgical instruments and strong hands were the agents through which the 250 bits of wood were taken from the patient, who remained anesthetized during the entire operation. Dr. Bransfield, the leader of the corps of physicians, is an athlete, having at one time been a figure at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Bransfield and his nimble and talented fingers secured the larger part of the wooden victory.

Tomasoni became a "human woodpile" in a rather conventional manner. He is a motorcycle racer and was entered in one of the events at Tomant Breeze motordrome on Saturday. The leading rival of the Tomasoni was Daniel Kelley. They raced neck and neck for two laps. On the third, the men swerved from their usual line, the machines collided and Tomasoni was sent hurtling through with considerable velocity.

The unseated cyclist alighted and in his journey picked up some of the track in the inconceivable form of splinters. The injured man was taken to St. Agnes Hospital where he was given an examination and no serious injuries found. However, the doctors were surprised to find that his back was literally a bed of splinters. Tomasoni remained under treatment Saturday night and today it was deemed necessary to operate. The patient in the meantime suffered untold agony.

For four hours the doctors labored and then it was decided to allow the rest of the splinters to remain in the victim until tomorrow when they will again be subjected to the ministrations of the physicians.

The patient is getting nicely, and while he is one mass of punctures from feet to neck, it is believed that no permanent effect will be felt from his injuries.

OBITUARY.

Amherst, N. S., July 7.—The death took place at 3 o'clock this morning at Highland View Hospital of Walter Lee, third son of the late Thos. L. and Mary Higgins, of Amherst. He was several years he has been a resident of Amherst, where he was well and favorably known. He was a young man of a very kind and gentle disposition and endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact. He was a faithful member of the St. Charles Catholic Church. Mr. Higgins' death occurred at an early age, and coming as it did so suddenly, has cast a great gloom among his many friends here and throughout the province. His illness has extended since Easter, but it is only since Sunday that his case was considered serious. His father, mother and his sisters, Miss Bertha and Mrs. Jas. W. Gallagher, of Norton, and his brother, Leonard, were present when he died. He was buried in St. Charles' Church, awaiting the arrival of No. 2 train for St. John. A long and painful illness accompanied the body to the station. The body will arrive in St. John at 11 o'clock on Tuesday evening and the funeral will be held Thursday at 10 o'clock from his mother's residence, East St. John. St. Joseph's Church, Silver Falls, for High Mass of Requiem at 10:30 o'clock. Besides his mother, he leaves two sisters and three brothers, Fred and Len at home, and H. PORTAGE VALE NOTES

Portage Vale, Kings county, July 7.—A number of the young people of Penobscot took the advantage of beautiful moonlight last night and drove to Sussex where a L. O. B. A. lodge was organized with a good membership and it starts with a prospect of making a splendid success.

Mr. Charles W. Osborne of Penobscot met with a painful accident one day last week when he was struck by a vicious sheep. The animal came up behind him and he was therefore unconscious that danger was near. Mr. Osborne's many friends are pleased to know that the accident was not a more serious one.

Mr. and Mrs. MacKinnon and family, St. John, were here Saturday on a fishing trip.

Several auto parties were also in the place Saturday from St. John and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Kinnear of Ramford Falls, Me., are the guests of friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry King, St. John, spent the week-end the guests of Mrs. King's parents at Annapolis, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Dunfield.

GIRL SCOUT WHO RECEIVED PRIZE FOR HAVING SAVED A HUMAN LIFE

Miss Doris Lippman, a Girl Scout, of Savannah, Ga., has received from the National Red Cross Society a prize of fifty dollars for heroic conduct resulting in the saving of a human life. This is the first award made to the Girl Scouts by the National Red Cross, and announcement was made from national headquarters in Washington. The man saved by Miss Lippman was overcome with gas while digging a well. Miss Lippman, together with a number of other girls, was spending some time on a farm near Augusta when the incident occurred. Through prompt use of the rules taught her by her organization Miss Lippman succeeded in reviving the man by means of the "Sylvester" method of artificial respiration. "It was just a case of opportunity and being prepared," said Miss Lippman. She is eighteen years of age.

THE CONGREGATIONAL UNION MEETINGS AT BEACH MEADOWS, N. S.

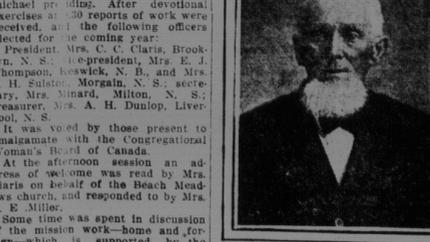

Beach Meadows, N. S., July 4.—The meetings of the Congregational Union were resumed this morning at 9:30, when Rev. Geo. Kingdon conducted the services. Resolutions of condolence were passed to friends of several members of the churches who had passed away during the year. The invitation of the St. John church to meet there in 1915 was heartily accepted by the union.

A Mass Meeting for Young People.

The services on Sunday were all largely attended. At 11 o'clock Rev. W. J. D. Mason delivered a well prepared sermon on the text Isaiah 52: 11—"Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord." At 2:30 a mass meeting for young people was given by C. E. MacMichael, and addresses given by several speakers.

The attendance and interest at the evening service exceeded all previous meetings. At 7:30 a. m. on Monday, St. John, was the preacher, speaking on the subject, "God's Trust in Man."

OWN FAMILIES CAN'T TELL TWINS, AGED EIGHTY, APART.

The most remarkable twin brothers in the United States, Robert C. Osborn, of Middletown, N. Y., and John S. Osborn, of Woodbury, Pa., have just celebrated their eightieth birthday. As will be seen by the photographs, they are counterparts. When they were children their mother could only tell them apart by tying a pink ribbon on one and a blue one on the other.

ST. JOHN COUPLE ARE GRANTED DIVORCE

Decision given yesterday in case of Damery vs. Damery--A lengthy docket.

Fredericton, July 7.—The July sittings of the Divorce Court opened this morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Justice McKeown presiding.

After the regular formal opening, the cases on the docket were taken up. The cases of Appleby vs. Appleby, and McLennan vs. McLennan were set down for hearing at St. John, August 14th. The case of Douthright vs. Douthright, Bulyea vs. Bulyea, and Parlee vs. Parlee, respectively, were set down for Fredericton, August 26th. The case of Burgess vs. Burgess and Wheaton vs. Wheaton were stood over till next term.

The case of Ross vs. Ross was taken up. The witnesses examined were the Deputy Provincial Secretary, Mrs. Ross, Sergt. Kilpatrick, Patrolman Briggs and Mr. C. H. Ferguson. The testimony was similar to that given before the courts in St. John in which the defendant pleaded guilty of unfaithfulness. Mrs. Barcoe is co-respondent.

In the case of Burboe vs. Burboe, the same witnesses gave testimony along the same lines as in Ross vs. Ross, Burboe being the plaintiff and Burboe the defendant. The court considers in both cases.

The case of Perry vs. Perry was also heard. Three witnesses were examined in support of the charge of unfaithfulness on the part of the husband. The court considers.

In the afternoon His Honor delivered judgments as follows: In the case of Annie Damery vs. Annie Damery, divorce was granted on the usual statutory grounds. The parties belong to West St. John. The plaintiff is given right to remarriage. G. Earle Logan proctor.

In the case of Mary E. King vs. Harry King, the former of St. Mary's and the latter of Fredericton, absolute divorce is granted. His Honor stating that infidelity had been rightly proved. Mrs. King is given the right to remarriage, and defendant must pay costs. H. J. Smith proctor.

BLACKFOOT INDIAN FREE AFTER 34 YEARS

Washington, July 7.—After thirty-four years behind the bars under life sentence for murder, Spoope, a Blackfoot Indian, was unconditionally pardoned today by President Wilson. He will be released at once from the federal hospital for the insane here to return to his daughter at Browning, Mont., whom he has not seen since she was a baby. A party of Blackfoot Indians, sightseeing in Washington, some months ago, happened upon Spoope, grown gray with his long imprisonment. They established his tribal identity by an Indian song, and one of the interpreters recognized in Spoope the hero of an old legend, who had disappeared a score of years ago into some white man's jail. Blackfoot mothers have been singing their children to sleep with a song about him ever since. Officials of the Indian office, advised of the discovery, began an investigation which resulted in his pardon.

Spoope was charged with the murder of a white man near the Canadian border north of the Montana line. It is thought by the Department of Justice that the murder probably was committed in Canada and that the territorial courts of Montana which tried Spoope at Fort Benton had no jurisdiction. Moreover it is now believed that Spoope committed the murder in self-defense. He and another Indian asked a white man for food. Their request was denied and the white man denounced Spoope, finally assaulting him with an axe. The Indian claims to have fired in self defense and his story is credited by the Department of Justice.

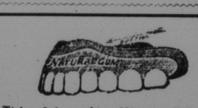

The Standard has been asked to say that the Goldsworthy mentioned yesterday in connection with a robbery at Port Benton had no jurisdiction of military road.

WENT TO JAIL FOR PUBLICLY REBUKING JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

New York, July 7.—The sentence imposed upon Upton Sinclair last April on a charge of disorderly conduct for attempting publicly to rebuke John D. Rockefeller for his attitude in the Colorado strike situation, was today confirmed in the Court of General Sessions. When given the alternative in the magistrate's court of paying a fine of $5 or serving three days in the Tombs, Sinclair chose the latter, and began a hunger strike. He served two days of his sentence, then his wife paid the remainder of the fine.

REVENUE OF FISH INDUSTRY IN YARMOUTH

First half of current year shows big business - All kinds of craft requisitioned by fishermen - Lobster trade nearly half million.

Yarmouth, July 7.-The first six months of 1914 has seen considerable revival of the fishing industry in Yarmouth. For some years past fishing has been at a low ebb in this town.

For five months out of the six just closed the lobster fishery predominated. In this branch of the fisheries this year the fishermen have been much hindered by bad weather.

The mackerel trappers are doing moderately well this season. There have been no phenomenal catches, but the traps continue to take a few barrels every day and the traps have not suffered from rough weather this year as they have done other seasons.

Since the 1st of January the exports have been as follows: Clams $1,250; Fish oil 252; Fresh salmon 15,985; Smelts 478; Canned lobsters 148,410; Prinkies 128; Live lobsters 602,865; Pickled fish 42,651; Boneless fish 48,954; Dry salt fish 128,573; Eggs 730; Fish waste 4,971; Salt mackerel 5,700; Salt herring 4,560; Fresh fish 28,476; Pollock 500; Halibut 14,294; Fresh cod 90; Fresh haddock 75; Hake sounds 96; Scallops 10; Sturgeon 162; Finnen haddies 2,260; Fresh mackerel 34,530; Blotters 3,261; Fish skins 900.

Americans Cornering English Beef Market?

Corporation of City of London starts inquiry to ascertain what section of market U. S. Companies control - Merchants' Shipping Bill has passed second reading.

London, July 6.-The corporation of the city of London is holding a private inquiry into the alleged control of the English meat supply by the big American beef companies. It was proposed at a recent meeting of the Corporation that the development of these companies be clipped by placing a limit upon the number of stalls they may hold in the Smithfield market, but upon adverse report by a special committee, it was decided not to interfere. The committee reported that the conditions of the business and the nature of the trade have very materially changed during the last ten years, and that the tendency to eliminate the middleman, or commission agent, and to concentrate the trade into fewer hands had effected the meat trade as well as other industries. The Corporation decided, however, by 90 votes to 10, to have a private inquiry to ascertain which sections of the market, if any, are under American control. It is asserted that many of the Smithfield salesmen are financed by what is called "trust funds" but the extent of the American influence in Smithfield is not known.

For singers hymns is a loud, raucous voice, regardless of the pitch and beat observed by the other members of the congregation, Charles Tunstall, the village blacksmith of the village of Tunstall, has been sent to jail on the charge of disturbing the peace. The complaining witness was one of the church wardens who testified that Tunstall's singing was so loud and so bad that the nerves of the church goers gave way and the blacksmith became almost the only regular attendant at service. Jail sentence was imposed in lieu of a one pound fine.

The Canadian government already has a survey boat in that neighborhood investigating reports to the effect that the hulls of the steamers Westford, Morgan and Carruthers are lying just off Nartel's Point.

Preventing a Business Slump

During September, October and November manufacturers and merchants were to suspend their selling aggressiveness, as represented by their newspaper advertising, autumn business for them would be very dull. When selling energy is reduced, business slumps. The slump in summer business which many firms experience is due mainly to a collapse of their own efforts to keep business up to its usual level. The public does not eat less in summer than in the autumn; it merely changes its diet. The summer apparel worn by the average man and woman differs from autumn or winter apparel only in weight and kind, not in extent or variety. The common needs of man remain fairly uniform the year round. The way to keep business up in summer is to keep up the selling pressure as faithfully then as at other seasons, and to keep open the channel of communication between seller and buyer - the channel of newspaper advertising.

You can obtain helpful advice on advertising free of cost and without obligation by consulting the Advertising Department of The Standard.

NO ANARCHY IN CHINA

Political Advisor to Chinese Republic Corrects Misrepresentations of Recent Actions of Government.

London, July 7.-The active interest of London in Chinese affairs was manifested by a crowded audience which gathered to hear Dr. G. E. Morrison, political advisor to the republic, address the chamber of commerce yesterday on the present position in China. Dr. Morrison corrected the misrepresentations of the recent actions of the government and denied that a state of anarchy existed, though he admitted the campaign of calumny by the remnant of irrecconcilables had had some effect. On the other hand the extension of public works was strengthening the authority of the government. He declared that the provisional constitution prepared after the suspension of parliament was based upon American and Japanese lines and was well fitted to prepare the people to evolve from the rigid autocracy of the past to a good form of representative government. Foreign affairs were now settled, while the attention of the British government towards the opium question had won the approval of all thinking people. Dr. Morrison further showed that China was successfully collecting revenue and hoped soon to revise the customs tariff. Recognizing the injury done to the national credit through unwise loans, the president now supervised the Ministry of Finance. This year two loans totalling $4,625,000 will be extinguished. He concluded with an appeal to England to exercise in the instance the sense of justice and the good sense which commended Britain to the Oriental.

CHARGED WITH AMALGAMATING TRADES UNIONS IN ENGLAND

General Laborers' Union joins with the Miners Transport Workers and Railway men - Premier Asquith rounding out sixth year as Prime Minister.

London, July 6.—Premier Asquith has now held office for just six years, thus exceeding in length the administration of Disraeli, who occupied the office from 1874 to 1880. Since the days of Lord of Liverpool, who was prime minister for fifteen years, there have been only three statesmen who have held the office for a longer period, without a break, than Mr. Asquith. Two of these, Lord Melbourne and Lord Palmerston, both were prime ministers for about two months longer than Mr. Asquith has been so far. The third case is that of Lord Salisbury, who was prime minister for seven years, from 1895 to 1902. Lord Palmerston, during his long term of power, was, like Mr. Asquith, leader of the House of Commons, as well as prime minister. The others, however, sat in the quieter atmosphere of the House of Lords. The present prime minister, too, has taken an extra hour, and his administration has been at least as full of hard work as any in modern times.

Through it all Mr. Asquith, although the strain must be great, seems to thrive. He has certainly aged somewhat, but so have all those who have gone through the last few strenuous years with him. He is still the master of the House of Commons, having no equal, except perhaps Mr. Balfour, in debate, while as a political tactician, none come within miles of him. Even should the Ulster question prove to be beyond his powers of getting over difficult situations, he will be able to look back upon a long series of successes.

The amalgamation of the trades unions goes steadily forward. In regard to the working agreement between the miners, transport workers and railwaymen, with a total membership of 1,350,000, the General Laborers' Union, which has an immense organization spreading all over the country, has been admitted to the amalgamation. The practically all the unions, whose members mine coal or handle the freight of the country, are in one organization.

This is the reply of the workers to the combination of the employers of the country, but it is only part of what the trades unionists aim at. They are in the matter of the call from the Harvey congregation, the appointment of Rev. J. F. McKay for Harvey, and Rev. Grover Livingston for Shediac. Mr. Dewar resigned.

The quarterly meeting of the St. John Presbyterian Church was marked by a general discussion on church union matters. The discussion arose through the reports of the delegates to the assembly and those who took part were Dr. Murray MacLaren, the moderator, Rev. Mr. Mitchell, Rev. Dr. MacVicar, Judge Forbes, Rev. Mr. McCaskill, Mr. McKay and Mr. Bryant.

In the matter of the call from the Harvey congregation, the appointment of Rev. J. F. McKay for Harvey, and Rev. Grover Livingston for Shediac. Mr. Dewar resigned.

The call from Shediac, Hampshire and Scotch Settlement extended to Rev. Grover Livingston was sustained. Induction will take place on next Tuesday at Scotch Settlement. His ordination will take place at the induction. Dr. J. H. MacVicar will preside. Rev. J. F. McKay and Rev. Mr. McIntosh, Sackville, were appointed to make the induction address.

A request was received by the Presbytery from Richmond to be relieved of their grant of $500 stipend by the end of 1915. Hon. J. G. Forbes stated that the Presbytery could not interfere between the minister and his congregation. He said that application should be made for an augmentation grant from the Presbytery synod. Rev. J. R. Miller, who is the minister, was reluctant to make the application.

Rev. Dr. Chapman of New York was introduced and expressed his delight in the fellowship of the Presbytery. Speaking of the relations between the rural and city churches, he said that in New York large demands on parts of the latter were being made by the churches, which were being augmented by the congregations of rural churches and supported by them. The rural districts are the former. Wednesday afternoon and evening Mrs. McKay were a gown of cream-colored crepe de chene and Mrs. McTavish blue silk. In the tea room Miss Sadie Murray presided, assisted by Miss Ella O'Donnell. A large number of ladies were present.

Miss Edith Swanson, teacher in the domestic science department, Moncton, is spending a few days at her home here before leaving for the Congo. This is a gift from the United States, where she will take a special course in domestic science. Mr. John Corbett of Australia is visiting his brother Wm. Corbett. He is accompanied by his nephew James Corbett of Elgin, Scotland. Miss Laura Bryenton, of the teaching staff of Havelock superior school, is spending the vacation at her home here.

Harold Davidson, principal of Centreville school for the past year, has been awarded a $250 scholarship from the Miss Aitken Harkness Academy fund. Mr. Davidson will attend U.N.B. in the coming year.

Philadelphia, July 5.—Thirty days' journey from the Caribbean seacoast settlements of British Guiana, Dr. William C. Parabe, leader of the University of Pennsylvania South American expedition, writes that he came across what is the most peculiar choir of the Anglican church in the world. The British government commissioner of upper British Guiana, in whose district the chapel stands, recently visited this city on his way to London, where he hopes to create sufficient interest to insure the building of a railroad from that part of the colony to the coast. He is the Hon. H. P. C. Melville, a Scotchman.

Pictures of the almost nude Indian choir and of other scenes in the interior of the southern hemisphere, were brought back by Dr. Franklin Church. The Indians are of the Arawak family, peaceful and industrious. The Anglican Mission, at which the photograph was taken, is near Dadana, which is close to the border of Brazil. From there, Mr. Melville, single-handed, rules over many thousands of square miles. There are no courts. The government is patriarchal, vested almost solely in him alone, as the representative of Britain, but effective because, as he put it while in Philadelphia, "we have justice there."

Dr. Parabe, who is now at Paris, writing his report on the expedition, the expedition to date, preparatory to setting out anew into the unknown territory, visited that part of Guiana on his way to the unknown parts of the country to the west of it. He was in search of the remnants of the Carib Indians, who disappeared from the coast about 160 years ago, but he failed to find them. He is vainly attempting to stay the progress of the European invaders of their country.

He found them living peacefully in the interior in scattered and isolated tribal communities. These Indians, once the scourge of the weaker Indian tribes, formerly lived on the coast, but have been driven inland by the Europeans who came to their shores. They were practical by instinct, but their neighbors for the purpose of loot and rapine, and boasted that they never had worked and never would work for their living. Though they were strong, clearly their habits and devotedly attached to their traditions and their tribal unity, the Indians now are the very antithesis of their warlike ancestors.

Dr. Parabe found them peacefully living in the valleys of the before unknown country, west of Comeston. The Arawaks were one of the tribes upon which the old-time Caribs preyed, but now they and the Caribs hold primitive communities, which are not hostile to each other. It is a tribe of the Arawak family to which the Indians immediately surrounding Mr. Melville's settlement of government belong. The choir is composed of them.

Thirty Days from Civilization Explorer Finds Tribe Once Scourge of Weaker Ones Living Peacefully.

Philadelphia, July 5.—Thirty days' journey from the Caribbean seacoast settlements of British Guiana, Dr. William C. Parabe, leader of the University of Pennsylvania South American expedition, writes that he came across what is the most peculiar choir of the Anglican church in the world.

While the ancient Egyptians possessed no newspapers, an interesting chronicle of the small happenings of their daily life is exposed in the region which he had crawled out to obtain a close view of some dancing girls. Announcements of horse racing and other athletic sports, and a complaint by a wife against a surly husband who refused to give her the house keys, and other items in the paper.

A great transformation is taking place along the lower stretches of the Thames. Old docks are being enlarged and new ones built under the scheme of the Port of London Authority to increase the trade of London. New model towns are springing up, where once great slums existed, and within a few years "Thameside" will have entirely changed its appearance. The most important item in the authority's programme is a magnificent deep water dock, which is being cut through the Royal Albert Docks. When complete it will cover 65 acres, and the mean depth will be 35 feet. So far 2,000,000 cubic yards of earth have been excavated and as much again remains to be removed.

To re-house people displaced by the new dock, the Authority will erect a new town in West Ham on garden city lines, on the basis of 22 to the acre. In Woolwich forty houses are to be erected.

He found them living peacefully in the interior in scattered and isolated tribal communities. These Indians, once the scourge of the weaker Indian tribes, formerly lived on the coast, but have been driven inland by the Europeans who came to their shores.

Liverpool, July 7.—The Chamber of Commerce president today started a movement with the object of making the insurance of stowage passengers on ocean liners compulsory. The advocates of this idea contended that there would be no difficulty in slightly increasing the passage rate for emigrants in order to cover the cost of the insurance and that such a step would obviate the necessity of making appeals to the public for funds in the case of disaster.

The members of the chamber heartily approved of the proposal and decided to urge the Board of Trade to take the necessary action to put it into force.

The Latest News From The World Of Sport

FROM THE TRAINER'S CORNER

A column of comment on sporting and athletic men and events, physical culture, exercise, health measures, and body building by Mac Vey of Babylon.

Now that boxing has been included in the programme of the Olympic games, and an international boxing federation to control the contests of amateurs is to be formed, the "manly art" may be expected to regain its old popularity as a "gentleman's sport."

The inability of the public to distinguish between boxing and prize-fighting, and the dubious methods of some professionals and promoters, together with the popular belief that boxing is dangerous, have served to prevent a general adoption of one of the most interesting sports and most healthful forms of exercise known to man. The Olympic Congress is to be congratulated on its adoption of the sport, and doubtless its action will do much towards dissipating the prejudice against the fist art.

Amateur boxing, properly conducted, between boys and men who are evenly matched, is about as "dangerous" as croquet; and at the worst the hazards are not so great as in football and many other games. Baseball has claimed more victims than modern boxing. The possibility of accident cannot be eliminated from any many sport. For the matter of that, it is dangerous to be alive.

The arguments in favor of boxing as an exercise for creating and maintaining more vigor and good health would fill a book. The glove game comes as near any sport to developing evenly all the muscles of the body. It will not produce big and bunched muscles like heavy weight lifting. The arguments in favor of boxing as an exercise for creating and maintaining more vigor and good health would fill a book. The glove game comes as near any sport to developing evenly all the muscles of the body. It will not produce big and bunched muscles like heavy weight lifting.

Another great feature of boxing is in developing the capacity for thinking. The boxer who permits his wits to go wool-gathering is likely to be awakened by a stiff punch. The operation between mind and body which is one of the marks of the successful man is encouraged by boxing as by few other sports. Even baseball is inferior in this respect, for few plays in the national pastime are pulled off with such startling suddenness as marks the actions of a clever boxer.

Quickness in thought, swiftness in putting the thought into action—what would not any ambitious man give to attain these qualities? Yet both may be accomplished by persistent practice with the gloves.

Development of self-control is another pronounced virtue of the "manly art." The man who rises in a rage at the slightest provocation, who finds it impossible to control his temper, and who realizes that these faults are calculated to ruin and embitter his whole life and keep him constantly in hot water, could do better than to place himself in the hands of a good teacher of boxing. Nothing is better calculated to impress upon a man the futility of getting "all set up" than a few stiff punches to the chest, which stop the brain cells, poison the blood, stop the digestive processes and causes such an internal reaction that frequent repetition actually weakens the will of the man who is addicted to such a vice, and who has enough horse sense to honestly seek a cure. I would say: Take up boxing with one experienced at the game, and learn to take your medicine like a man. Make a murderer and other violent crime would never be committed if all boys were taught, in the school hard knocks, the necessity for self-control. It is a noteworthy fact that no professional pugilist who was unable to control his temper has ever been successful at the game.

Another point in favor of boxing is that the boy who wants to shine with the gloves, and be a champion among his companions, soon learns that he must live a regular and wholesome life and avoid late hours and dissipation. In order to accomplish his ambition, boxing, as a sport to be recommended to amateurs, does not mean fighting. Many of the best professional boxers seldom if ever try for a knockout, and the amateur should devote all his attention to skill, cleverness and science rather than to the development of a hard fist.

Incidentally, this Sunday marks the 210th anniversary of the birthday of the father of modern scientific boxing, John Broughton, who was the second champion of England and the first to introduce a code to govern the game, as well as the first to use boxing gloves or "muffers," in teaching the art to his noble and famous pupils, who were born in London on July 5, 1704.

While the early exhibitions of professional boxing were often brutal, pugilism at its worst was a triumph for the spirit of humanity and civilization, for the bouts took the place of the bloody and often fatal combats with swords which disgraced the reign of George I.

It is noteworthy that when Englishmen substituted fistfights for the duel with swords, England first began to manifest that spirit of fair play and the square deal which has characterized her sportsmen ever since.

After quitting the ring, Jack Broughton opened an amphitheatre in London, where he staged boxing matches and instructed some of the greatest men of England in the science of self-defence. The Prince of Wales and scores of noblemen and literary lights took lessons from "Professor Broughton," who advertised that he gave "proper instructions in the art and science of boxing without loss of eye or limb to the student."

Another quaint announcement of this pioneer instructor of boxing stated that at his gymnasium "the whole theory and practice of that truly British art, with all the various stops, blows, cross-butts, etc., incident to combats, will be fully taught and explained; and that persons of quality and distinction may not be barred

WANTS TO FIGHT JONSON.
"Jess" Willard is anxious to fight Jonson. "Jess" fights somewhat in the Johnson way. He stands off and waits, and if he's stung he hits an astonishing wallop before he drops back on the defensive again. Because of his great size and strength Willard might have a chance. But it would be a slow fight, with neither willing to lead and both waiting for the other to have an opening. Willard has been improving so much during the last few months that he may show enough championship form soon to get him a match with the champion.

from entering into a course of these lectures, they will be given with the utmost tenderness and regard to the delicacy of the frame and constitution of the pupil; for which reason muffers are provided, that will effectively secure them from the inconvenience of black eyes, broken jaws, and bloody noses.

The "muffers" invented by Broughton to protect his titled patrons from the inconvenience of "broken jaws" and other accidents were but little smaller than pillow cases. They were made of cloth and stuffed with hair. Only the professor wore the gloves; his students being free to bang away with the bare fists as with any piece of furniture.

Hundreds of the greatest men in English history received instruction in boxing from Broughton and his successors. Lord Roosevelt and many others scarcely less known have studied boxing under the venerable ex-middleweight champion, Prof. Mike Donovan. Not everybody can have such famous teachers, but all men can master boxing to an extent that will prove of great benefit to their health and to mental and physical agility.

London, July 7.—Fred Welsh, light-weight champion of England, today beat Willie Ritchie on points in the twenty round fight for the lightweight championship of the world at Olympia. In the opening round Welsh scored more points than Ritchie. In the fifth round, however, Ritchie forced the fighting, and in this and the next two rounds there were some sharp exchanges and heavy fighting in which Ritchie generally got the upper hand. Several times the American was cautioned for holding in the clinches.

In the eighth round the Welshman recovered his liveliness and in this and the ninth round forced the fighting and had the best of the encounter. When half the match was over Welsh led easily on points.

Ritchie revived somewhat in the eleventh and there were some hot exchanges in this round, Welsh repeatedly, by his remarkable quickness, scoring and then eluding heavy returns. In the thirteenth round Ritchie had it all his own way, landing some heavy blows and forcing the fighting all through, while Welsh appeared to be weakening.

The fourteenth was also all Ritchie's and the fighting was very fast. Then both slowed up, but in the sixteenth round there was a lot of infighting and Welsh was boxing splendidly, Ritchie meantime trying for a knockout. In the seventeenth Ritchie got home a number of sharp body blows and forced the fighting throughout, but Welsh was very clever in covering. Ritchie forced the fighting all through, while Welsh appeared to be weakening.

The final round was the swiftest of the whole fight, and Welsh had the better of it. Of the twenty rounds, ten were undoubtedly Welsh's, five went to Ritchie and the other five were about even.

Ritchie broke down when the decision was given against him and was in tears when seen in his dressing room. "I have nothing to say," he said, between sobs. His manager and seconds were just as reticent.

There was some dissatisfaction among the American spectators of the fight at the decision, because neither man was bested at the final round, and although the Welshman scored the most blows, those of the American appeared to be the most telling.

WELSH, BRITISH FIGHTER, WORLD'S CHAMPION-- DEFEATED RITCHIE IN TWENTY ROUND BOUT-- FIGHTERS INTRODUCED BY CLERGYMAN

London, July 7.—Fred Welsh, light-weight champion of England, today beat Willie Ritchie on points in the twenty round fight for the lightweight championship of the world at Olympia. In the opening round Welsh scored more points than Ritchie. In the fifth round, however, Ritchie forced the fighting, and in this and the next two rounds there were some sharp exchanges and heavy fighting in which Ritchie generally got the upper hand. Several times the American was cautioned for holding in the clinches.

Ritchie broke down when the decision was given against him and was in tears when seen in his dressing room. "I have nothing to say," he said, between sobs. His manager and seconds were just as reticent.

There was some dissatisfaction among the American spectators of the fight at the decision, because neither man was bested at the final round, and although the Welshman scored the most blows, those of the American appeared to be the most telling.

When the Rev. John Heyver Boudier, who is popularly known as "Father" Boudier, climbed through the ropes shortly before eight o'clock in his clerical garb he got a good round of applause. He then announced in stentorian tones the names of the contestants in the first of the preliminary bouts.

The great revival of interest in pugilism in Great Britain was evidenced by the big assemblage of all classes which had congregated in the arena of Olympia. The newspapers had predicted a large attendance of women, but there was not a woman appearing of bright dresses in the cheaper seats around the sides of the arena, which filled first before time was called.

Before the three preliminary time-killing bouts had been finished the majority of the promoters of the gigantic British lion-grieving over the remains of a dead hero. The colossal memorial, weighing twenty tons, is the most imposing in the cemetery, and the "tipper" would probably conclude that he marked the last resting place of one of England's greatest warriors. A perusal of the inscription would sustain his guess, for it reads:

"Sacred to the memory of Thomas Cribb; born July 8th, 1781; died May 11th, 1848." A tablet asks the reader to "Respect the ashes of the brave." Today marks the 133rd anniversary of the birth of Hanham, in Gloucestershire, of the hero who has thus been honored. Tom Cribb was champion of the world in 1812, and he was defeated in a record that has never been equaled by any other champion before or since. He was the victor in seven terrific bare-knuckle battles, and only once tasted defeat, and that when he was a novice at the game. His first victories were scored over George Maddox, Tom Blake and Ikev Piz, the latter a pioneer Jewish boxer. He had "Tom Cribb's Parlor."

Round 1.—Welsh won the toss and kept the corner he originally entered. Welsh got in a few blows in the clinch, which immediately followed the bell. Ritchie responded with a straight to the jaw. Infighting followed, with Welsh getting the better of the argument. When they squared off, however, Ritchie delivered several body blows.

Round 2.—Ritchie swung hard with his right and missed. He was cautioned by the referee for holding in the clinches. Welsh got in some vicious jabs in the in-fighting.

Round 3.—Ritchie opened the round with a left swing, but in a clinch Welsh landed on the body close quarters. Welsh got in a couple of jabs, Ritchie retreating with a left to the jaw. Welsh followed with a right to the same spot. The round ended with Welsh landing lightly on the face. Ritchie was again cautioned for holding.

Round 4.—Welsh fought for the body. Then in a clinch he gave Ritchie two or three left hooks to the jaw, followed by a right swing on the same spot. Welsh appeared the fresher of the two, smiling when the gong sounded.

Round 5.—Ritchie got one to the face Welsh replying with a left to the jaw. Ritchie then sent a straight left to the jaw and a heavy body blow. Ritchie forced the fighting, but was repeatedly cautioned for holding.

Round 6.—Ritchie's left eye seemed to be slightly swollen. Welsh's left eye also was damaged. Ritchie played for the bad eye. Welsh dodged a right hand swing aimed at the bad eye, but his blows seemed to have less steam than the American's.

Round 7.—Half of the round had passed before Ritchie began forcing the fighting. He landed two smart blows on the face. Welsh responded but the American covered up well and the round ended in his favor.

Round 8.—The work of both fighters thus far had been very constant and Welsh was very clever in covering. Ritchie's blows, continually falling short, while Welsh, getting a furious pace, got several blows to the body and the round ended with the infighting. This was Welsh's round.

Round 9.—Welsh forced the fighting, scoring repeatedly on Ritchie's face. He then eluded one of Ritchie's famous right arm blows. Welsh had the better of the fight thus far.

Round 10.—Welsh who came up smartly, landed a sharp left on the face. Ritchie again failed to reach the spot effectively, with his busy right. The fighting was hard and fast, Ritchie retaining some of his ginger.

Round 12.—Welsh scored a left hook to the head, and to play football and cricket. When he was a curate at Cardiff in 1902 he established a temperance saloon in which he placed a great crucifix over the bar. The venture was an immense success.

Round 13.—Ritchie smartened up and landed two straight rights on the face as a left uppercut. The American forced the fighting all through the round, Welsh slowing up, considered by Ritchie as a slow round, all in favor of Ritchie.

Round 14.—The American got in a short hot left on the body. Later he repeated with the right. The fighting was fast and fierce to the end of the round. This also was Ritchie's round.

Round 15.—The first half of the round was a lugging match, with both men working hard in the clinches, Welsh trying to wear his opponent down. There were a couple of rallies, but no damage was done. The round was even.

Round 16.—There was more infighting, each receiving a good tap on the face. The Welshman ducked a terrific right hander. The fight continued a fine exhibition of boxing by Welsh, who played entirely for the face, while the American tried for a body knockout.

Round 17.—The men again went into a clinch on the sound of the gong. Upon breaking Ritchie landed a hard left hand swing on the face and followed it with a series of sharp body blows. Ritchie pushed the fighting and appeared stung. Welsh covered well and was too quick for his opponent.

Round 18.—Ritchie bled from the lip. This was a very fast round, in which strength against quickness continued to be displayed, but the Welshman got a little the best of it.

Round 19.—Welsh was getting all the applause, with Ritchie doing the fighting. Welsh landed a right on Goldberg's face and in return, there was a smart rally in which the honors were even.

Round 20.—They started mixing it hard with both hands for the body. Welsh dodged a fierce left uppercut and gave the American a sharp left to the cheek. The fight ended with the swiftest kind of work, the Welshman pressing the American around the ring in the last few seconds. Welsh carried out of the ring amid great cheering, after being declared the winner of the contest on points.

The Temperance Saloon.
London, July 7.—The Rev. John H. Boudier, vicar of St. Michael's Anglican church, Islington, who is to act as master of ceremonies at the Welsh-Ritchie match, is a popular curly-curler who encourages his parishioners to go to bed and to play football and cricket. When he was a curate at Cardiff in 1902 he established a temperance saloon in which he placed a great crucifix over the bar. The venture was an immense success.

Round 21.—Ritchie bled from the lip. This was a very fast round, in which strength against quickness continued to be displayed, but the Welshman got a little the best of it.

BASEBALL PLAYED AT BROWNVILLE

Brownville Junction, July 4.—The C. P. R. Beavers won two league games from Lake View by a score of 8 to 2 in the morning, and 5 to 1 in the afternoon. The morning game was featured by the heavy hitting of James. He had the game well in hand throughout, fielding his position cleanly and keeping the hits scattered.

In the second game the chief feature were three double plays made by the Beavers, York doubling to McClain twice, and Clarke doubling to McClain once from right field. Fraser did good work in the box, being strong in the pinches, and at no time was the game in danger.

THIS DATE IN RING ANNALS

1883—Bill Lang, the Australian heavy-weight, born at Melbourne. Lang's real name is William Langman. Standing over six feet, and well-proportioned, Lang looked like the man to restore the faded glories of Australian pugilism; but early in his career he was met with Jack Johnson at Melbourne in 1907. The Australian sports fan fondly imagined that Lang might whip the big smoke, and they backed him heavily, but Lang was utterly unequal to the job of wiping the golden smile of Jack's face, and after playing with a steady nerve for eight rounds, Johnson put him to sleep in the 9th chapter. After that Lang licked a number of Australians, and then considered himself good enough to tackle Tommy Burns. The Canadian made short work of him in 1909. Lang knocked out "Lemon Bill" Squires and poor old Bob Fitzsimmons. The next year he stayed 20 rounds with Tommy Burns, but lost the decision. Since then Lang has been defeated by Sam Langford, Sam McVey, Jack Lester, Jim Barry, Dave Smith and others.

1889—John L. Sullivan defeated Jake Kilrain in 75 rounds at Richmond, Miss.

SPORTOGRAPHY Birthdays of Tom Crebb, who held Title 15 years.

In the cemetery at Woolwich, England, the "tipper" may see a magnificent monument representing a gigantic British lion-grieving over the remains of a dead hero. The colossal memorial, weighing twenty tons, is the most imposing in the cemetery, and the "tipper" would probably conclude that he marked the last resting place of one of England's greatest warriors. A perusal of the inscription would sustain his guess, for it reads:

"Sacred to the memory of Thomas Cribb; born July 8th, 1781; died May 11th, 1848." A tablet asks the reader to "Respect the ashes of the brave." Today marks the 133rd anniversary of the birth of Hanham, in Gloucestershire, of the hero who has thus been honored. Tom Cribb was champion of the world in 1812, and he was defeated in a record that has never been equaled by any other champion before or since. He was the victor in seven terrific bare-knuckle battles, and only once tasted defeat, and that when he was a novice at the game. His first victories were scored over George Maddox, Tom Blake and Ikev Piz, the latter a pioneer Jewish boxer. He had "Tom Cribb's Parlor."

Round 1.—Welsh won the toss and kept the corner he originally entered. Welsh got in a few blows in the clinch, which immediately followed the bell. Ritchie responded with a straight to the jaw. Infighting followed, with Welsh getting the better of the argument. When they squared off, however, Ritchie delivered several body blows.

Round 2.—Ritchie swung hard with his right and missed. He was cautioned by the referee for holding in the clinches. Welsh got in some vicious jabs in the in-fighting.

Round 3.—Ritchie opened the round with a left swing, but in a clinch Welsh landed on the body close quarters. Welsh got in a couple of jabs, Ritchie retreating with a left to the jaw. Welsh followed with a right to the same spot. The round ended with Welsh landing lightly on the face. Ritchie was again cautioned for holding.

Round 4.—Welsh fought for the body. Then in a clinch he gave Ritchie two or three left hooks to the jaw, followed by a right swing on the same spot. Welsh appeared the fresher of the two, smiling when the gong sounded.

Round 5.—Ritchie got one to the face Welsh replying with a left to the jaw. Ritchie then sent a straight left to the jaw and a heavy body blow. Ritchie forced the fighting, but was repeatedly cautioned for holding.

AROUND THE CITY

Special Officer. Gordon G. Kennedy has been appointed a special officer of the city Public Works Department.

Six Remanded. Yesterday afternoon six prisoners were taken from the jail to the police court and further remanded. They were Foley, Stevens, Hall, Appleby, Baxter and Rose.

Out Again; in Again. After spending ten days in the county jail on remand Celia Donovan was turned out on the street yesterday. Celia did not return after her term in jail for last night about ten o'clock she was arrested on Pond street by the police and is charged with being drunk.

Yesterday's Picnic. Large crowds attended the St. Luke's church Sunday school picnic to Rothsay and the St. James' church picnic held at Wednesday afternoon. There was a programme of the usual sports and the picnicers returned to the city about eight o'clock last evening rather tired but all in all they had one of the best times in their lives.

A Warm Wave. St. John experienced a hot wave yesterday. While the thermometer did not climb to any considerable extent still the lack of a breeze made conditions anything but comfortable. The highest temperature officially registered was 74 during the morning but this was reduced considerably during the afternoon and last evening was quite cool. A thick fog helped to make the late afternoon and evening unpleasant.

Missionary Union Executive. A meeting of the officers of the executive board of the Maritime Province United Baptist Women's Missionary Union was held yesterday in the parlors of the German street Baptist church. Only routine business was transacted. Among the visitors to the city who were in attendance at the meeting were Mrs. W. G. Clark and Mrs. G. A. Dawson of Moncton and Mrs. Mary Smith of Amherst.

POLICEMAN O'LEARY HAS FIGHTING CHANCE, THE PHYSICIANS SAY

His exceptional vitality may pull him through—Visiting Medical Expert sees patient and believes there is possibility of recovery — Police looking for Cambridge Goldworthy and John Leggett in connection with Mowatt break.

Special Officer Frank O'Leary, who was shot on Monday morning by John Brama, the self-confessed burglar, was, up to last night, still in a most critical condition in the General Public Hospital, and despite the fact that other papers than The Standard have given out reports that the officer was growing worse, and little hopes were entertained for his recovery, the physicians who have charge of the case state that there is a chance for O'Leary to recover, and that if anything he was growing somewhat stronger yesterday. The grit shown by the officer, and his excellent health condition before he was wounded is a great factor towards keeping him alive, and unless peritonitis sets in from the wound he received O'Leary will get better.

Last night he was still conscious, and his mother was at his bedside for a number of hours talking with him. O'Leary fully realizes his very serious condition, but holds out hopes for his recovery and is putting up a great fight for his life. O'Leary, although being treated in a private room in the hospital is a patient under the careful watch of Dr. W. W. White. About eleven o'clock last night Dr. White, while in conversation with a Standard reporter said that O'Leary still had a chance for his life, and that there was still hope for his recovery.

Yesterday afternoon Dr. White when he visited O'Leary at the hospital had accompanying him G. E. Armstrong, M. D., the professor of Surgery at McGill University, Montreal. Dr. Armstrong is a noted surgeon and took an especial interest in the case of the wounded policeman. With Dr. White in conversation with a Standard reporter O'Leary's case, and appeared pleased at the excellent condition of the patient under the circumstances, and like Dr. White, he remarked after leaving the bedside that O'Leary had a fighting chance for his life.

Last night O'Leary was a little stronger if anything, and today it is expected that there will be a marked change in his condition either for better or worse.

Brama Not Worrying Over Case. It is generally understood had not O'Leary such vitality he would have undoubtedly succumbed before this to the severe nature of the wound.

There was nothing very much new in the case of the two burglars, Brama and Thomas Petrie, yesterday. Brama is taking things as a matter of course in the county jail and yesterday morning his father and mother called and asked to be allowed to see their son. Young Petrie was yesterday morning taken from the police station cell to the court room and arraigned before Magistrate Ritchie. The prisoner was not asked to plead, but listened intently to the charge of robbery that was read to him by the Clerk, George Henderson. The prisoner was then remanded to jail. He is being represented by Lester J. Smith.

Yesterday afternoon when seen Mrs. Brama, the stepmother of the prisoner who fired the shot at Officer O'Leary, stated that they could not afford to engage counsel for the boy, and she was in no way backward in mentioning the names of a couple of other youths whom she said were also mixed up in the robbery of the Mowatt store Saturday night. One of the youths, she said, had received the sum of about $85 of the loot. Her boy had always been a good boy and never had any trouble with him before, and it was only because that he mixed with a gang of bad boys that he got into their ways and got in trouble.

The Magistrate's Comment. After remanding Petrie to jail yesterday morning, Magistrate Ritchie made some comment and said: "I know a little about this town. Thirty years ago if five persons were together and one of them went into a store to rob, the others would be indicted for aiding and abetting together by acting together. We used to prosecute them all and while we may have got the name of being a "terror," still the law was enforced. I don't like to say what I think this town is coming to. I have instructed the police time and again to arrest all suspicious looking characters who have been out late at night. Any policeman who does not do his duty and demerons is liable to a penalty and any policeman who is fined by me may be fired by the chief. Let us call a spade a spade and some ourselves." Members of the police force are being kept busy gathering in evidence regarding the three robberies in which the prisoners Brama and Petrie are being held on, and it is understood that the officers are being successful, but what the evidence obtained by them would be given out at police headquarters last night.

Cambridge Goldworthy, aged 16, and John Leggett, aged 17 years, are being sought by the police as they have been mentioned as being implicated in the robbery of the Mowatt store and since Brama and Petrie were arrested they have kept well out of the sight of the police. A full description of the two youths has been sent all over the province by Chief of Police Clark and the police in different towns are keeping a sharp lookout for them.

Chief of Police Clark says that he does not take any stock in the reports that have been sent forth by some newspapers that there is another "Tan Yard Gang," but he thinks that about a quartette of boys have been chumming together and hitting up some evil ways. Now that they have been captured any further work in this line has likely been broken up.

YOUTHFUL DUGGLARS HAD VARIED LOOT

Storehouse under old breakwater contained choice collection of sweets and tobacco.

Yesterday afternoon Fred McDonough, aged sixteen, and Herbert Goodspeed, aged fourteen, were before the police magistrate on the charge of breaking into a store on Carmarthen street and robbing it last Sunday. These were two of the boys who had such a large quantity of articles under the old breakwater on Courtenay Bay which was discovered by Policeman Ward, George Miller and William Alexander, two other boys, when they came that on Sunday they saw the defendants coming from the rear of the store which was robbed, the defendants had parcels but the witnesses did not know that they had stolen goods. All adjourned to the old breakwater and began to enjoy a repast when Policeman Ward put in an appearance. The prisoners were remanded to jail until Saturday morning.

The articles found under the breakwater by the policeman proved a great variety as follows: one box of Bond's chocolates, one box of Crown chocolates, one package of McCormick's cream soda crackers, three cans of kippered herring, one can of apple and strawberry jam, three tins of lucky strike tobacco, one tin of Pride of Virginia tobacco, one package of Murad cigarettes, three packages of Gloria cigarettes, one package of Sweet Caporal cigarettes, four tins of black Jack tobacco, one package of four cigars, five small packages of Spearmin gum, a few pieces of Maple Bud chocolates, two packages of cigarette paper, two books of the Nick Carter Library, entitled "The Man of Riddles," and "Unseen Fees." One book of the Boys' Home Weekly, four books of the "Western Weekly," and two 31-calibre revolvers.

HE ALMOST DID-- BUT HE DIDN'T Prisoner in Britain Street Lock-up was near liberty, but the policeman spoiled it.

About 3:30 o'clock Monday night Austin Baxter was arrested for being drunk on Prince William street by Patrolman Hickey. The prisoner was locked up in a cell in the Britain street lockup.

To be left alone in a dismal cell was no to the Hibernian Baxter and spending a couple of hours "inking matters over he became very active and smashed the coverings off the water pipes. There is a small opening that looks scarcely more than a foot square at the top of the wall door with bars over it and Baxter managed to pry the bars clear and then throwing his coat out through the opening he managed to crawl through. He was in the act of putting on his coat and leaving the lockup and beat a retreat when the policeman happened along and he was locked up in another cell. Yesterday morning in the police court he was fined fourteen dollars.

INSPECTION OF NEW HARBOR STRIKE AMONG CAR MEN LIKELY

Board of Trade Committee at Courtenay Bay yesterday afternoon—Satisfied with progress.

A committee of the Board of Trade of which Mr. P. W. Thomson is chairman, and consisting in addition of Messrs. J. Hunter White, Allen Westmore and R. E. Armstrong, inspected the work in progress at Courtenay Bay this morning and were well satisfied with the headway which was being made. The new harbor as it appears at high water was thoroughly inspected, some two hours being spent at the scene of the work. The committee returned during the afternoon. After the inspection Mr. Thomson said that the party had visited the dredges and had been shown around by Messrs. Warren and Gilchrist. "There is," he said, "a crew of 350 men at work now, and it seemed to us that the contractors should be able to complete the work before March 20th, 1917, which is the time limited in the contract." The committee will make a report to the Council of the Board of Trade.

He had been serving a term for drunkenness and only had a short time to serve when he would have been discharged. If he is captured he will now stand a chance of receiving a term of two years in the Dorchester prison.

Reed of Chester, Penn., who arrived yesterday on the Governor Cobb to visit his mother, Mrs. Thomas M. Reed, 7 St. James street. Mr. Reed, who is a druggist and a prominent politician of Chester, is of the opinion that at the next presidential elections the Republican party will make its peace with the Bull
