ARMED GUARD NOW ON CHAMBERLAIN LAKE

Maine State Troops May Be Called Out to Protect Dam

Lumbermen Blow Up Obstruction With Dynamite, But Breach is Repaired and Not a Drop of Water is Escaping--More Trouble Feared if Attack is Renewed--Lumber Operators Claim That Water is Diverted from St. John River by the Dam.

Chesuncook, Me., Aug. 7.—A messenger who arrived here tonight from Chamberlain Lake, in the wilds of Northern Maine, stated that a more serious condition of affairs than was first supposed exists in that section as the result of last week's hostilities between men supposed to represent lumber companies along the St. John river and the Marsh & Ayer Company, whose interests are identical with the East Branch Improvement Company of Maine.

The first report stated that the employees of a St. John river company had used violence in interfering with a man in charge of a dam at the lake. It was stated that a rifle carried by the man had been taken away and that the gates at the dam had been lifted to release water alleged to have been diverted from the St. John river, in spite of his emphatic protest.

Tonight it was learned that late on Friday the men blew up the dam for a distance of twenty feet near the gates with dynamite. The break was speedily repaired by an employee of the East Branch Company, and the dam is now closed so tightly that no water whatever is now running over it. A large number of men employed by the Marsh & Ayer Company are patrolling the locality. The messenger says that two men, supposed to be of the Chamberlain Lake, were seen in the vicinity this morning, and the lumbermen there expected serious trouble should a further attempt be made to release the water.

LOWERS ST. JOHN RIVER

The present difficulty is not altogether a dispute between Maine and New Brunswick lumbermen, as the East Branch Improvement Company of this state, whose operations are largely confined to the east branch of the Penobscot river, are operating by lumber interests along the St. John river over the Canadian border, but also by several Maine corporations operating mills at points in Maine from the source of the east branch of the Penobscot. By the construction of this dam, the mill owners on the St. John claim that the waters of the lake are diverted from their natural outlet, the St. John, to the Penobscot, thereby lowering the St. John stream and injuring the lumbering interests along its course.

OUTLOOK FOR PEACE IS NOT CONSIDERED BRIGHT

Feeling is That Japan's Terms Are Likely to Be Too Harsh

Russia Almost Certain to Reject Paying Indemnity and Yielding Territory—Conference Tuesday Will Settle Language in Which Discussions Are to Be Made—Witte Arrived at Portsmouth Monday Night--Linevitch Sends News of Slight Success.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 7.—(Special)—There are many bluffs in the diplomatic game and the envoys in the present conference may do all kinds of seemingly erratic things before any result is obtained. Those who are watching the peace conference need not be surprised at startling performances. They will be a part of the game.

That the game is going to be seriously played here is now the prevailing belief. It is true that the outlook for peace is not regarded as bright, but the pessimism arises solely from the tone of the Japanese statements that they want everything and will stick out for it and from the Russian's declarations that though beaten they will give nothing. These are the two warring nations together at a table, and when they do get together it seems hardly possible that they should end their conference with a mere presentation of demands and a refusal to accept them.

It is no easy matter to bring representatives of two warring nations together at a table, and when they do get together it seems hardly possible that they should end their conference with a mere presentation of demands and a refusal to accept them. One hears many predictions at Portsmouth that the conference will end in a failure in a few days. Such predictions have no warrant in fact.

There are gathered at Portsmouth a number of men who are versed in the progress of the war and the problems that have grown out of it, and must be settled before peace comes. They include some Russian and Japanese correspondents, men who crossed the ocean with Witte and the others just prior to the outbreak of the war, and some who are versed in the progress of the war and the problems that have grown out of it, and must be settled before peace comes.

JAPANESE DEMANDS GREAT

It is believed that the Japanese demands are great but that does not preclude the possibility of concessions from the Japanese. It is not deemed likely that Mr. Witte will throw up his hands and resign. Without a earnest fight as has been suggested that he might.

Recent Manoeuvres of These Nations' Fleets and Visits to Each Other's Waters Point to the Friendly Feeling--Coming Visit of British Squadron to United States Ports Causes Lively Satisfaction.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) New York, Aug. 7.—When the world history of this period of peace is written the name Portsmouth will stand out bright and clear. At the new world Portsmouth where the breeze blow from the pines of Maine, the representatives of Japan and Russia will meet in an endeavor to bring to a peace the greatest war of the epoch.

As was the case recently at Brest, the ships are lined up, not in separate squadrons, but those flying the tri-color alternate with those flying the Union Jack and the strains of the Marseillaise hymn mingle with those of the English national anthem.

PRAYER-BOOK NOW FOR PRESBYTERIANS

Dr. Fotheringham Speaks on Radical Change in Form of Worship Prepared

USE HAS BEEN BEGUN IN CHICAGO

Volume Includes Service for Christmas Day, Easter, Advent and Good Friday—No "Obey" in Marriage Ceremony—Dr. Fotheringham's Views Relative to Adoption in Canada.

The Chicago Evening Post of last Monday published some particulars of the Book of Common Worship which has recently been prepared by a committee of the Presbyterian church of the United States as a liturgical form of service.

Rev. Dr. Fotheringham, in an interview last evening, gave The Telegraph some interesting details in connection with the subject as affecting the Canadian church and explained how the Presbyterian church of Scotland came to adopt a separate form of worship from the Anglican. The article in the Post is as follows:

Prayer Book Now for Presbyterians
The Presbyterians have a prayer book, and a liturgical form of worship soon will be introduced into several churches.

Prayer for Good Friday
Greater surprise may be manifested when conservative Presbyterians discover that in the "Treasury of Prayers" which has been prepared by a committee of the church, the complete forms of service are given in the book for morning and evening service, for the celebration of the holy communion, for the administration of baptism, for the burial of the dead and for the solemnization of marriage.

Wedding Vows Minus Obedience
It is probable that young women will turn first of all to see what has been done with the word "obey" in the marriage service. The word "obey" is not there, and neither by the way does it appear in the promise which the man makes to the woman.

Recalls Anglican Service
Hereafter, the stranger who enters the Presbyterian house of worship which has adopted the form of service prepared by the committee will think temporarily that he has entered by mistake a church of the Anglican communion.

To End Bewildering Variety
The report of the committee goes to show that there was a bewildering variety in the arrangement of the different parts of the service in use in those churches which had departed somewhat from the simple extemporaneous prayer, hymn and sermon formula.

Form of Morning Service
In "The Order for Morning Service," which corresponds to "The Order for Daily Morning Prayer" in the Episcopal book, the service opens with the reading of one or two sentences from the scriptures, but the prayer in the Episcopal Church, but the Presbyterian book omits this part.

The Ideal Tonic
When you can't eat and can't sleep—can't think and can't work—can't get any pleasure out of life because you don't feel well—it's the time for a bottle of byterian committee has made an entirely new selection of sentences.

An innovation by the clergyman follows, taking the place of the well-known "Deeds beloved brethren, the scripture moveth us to sundry places, etc." of the Episcopal service.

In the new book, comes the confession of sins, taking exactly the same place in the service that the "Confession" takes in the Anglican liturgy.

The Presbyterian committee has not gone far enough to include the abolition of sins which in the Episcopal Church is made by the priest after the general confession, while the people still remain on their knees, but it has come as close to it as the committee probably considered advisable.

This assurance of pardon differs in effect from that of one form of abolition used in the Episcopal Church chiefly in that it employs the pronouns "us" and "you" instead of "you" and "your," thus relieving it from the suggestion of being a direct pronouncing of absolution for the people by the priest.

Use of Prayers Optional
The minister is told in the rubric that he may use any of the prayers given in the book, or, if he think better, he may pray extemporaneously.

Prayers for Many Saints
There are prayers in the morning service taken from Gregory, St. Thomas Aquinas, the liturgy of St. James, Gelasius and St. Chrysostom.

Men Who Prepared the Book
The committee which has had in charge the work of preparing the service forms and prayers is as follows:

in Canada, Dr. Fotheringham said each minister adopted a form which he thought best.

In consequence every time a stranger occupied his pulpit was necessary to write out the order of service for his guidance.

As far as the directory was concerned, no one paid any attention to it.

A committee of the church was formed to deal with the subject of uniformity of worship, but Dr. Rose, of London, Ontario, who was the convener, had not been able to give much time to it, and no work had been completed.

Why Churches of England and Scotland Are Not One
While on the subject of the Church of Scotland, Dr. Fotheringham said in connection with an interesting fact that for John Knox the churches of England and Scotland would probably have been one and undivided today.

lake mud five feet deep is marked, to depth to grade is a further eight feet.

The nature of this strata is left to the contractors to ascertain. Through the dry lake at varying intervals mud and sand are shown to a depth of more than twelve feet and reaching below grade.

From that point to the end of the line, which extends 400 feet into Lake Latimer, no indication as to the subsoil is given.

Here the contractors complain they have found considerable rock. The question, however, presents itself as to whether the contractors were justified in concluding little or no rock existed.

The last 900 feet being quite unexplored ground as far as the profile plan is concerned, it would be interesting to know upon what data the contractors based their estimate at this particular spot, and why they consider the city to blame.

On the plan the test pits vary in depth from five to twelve feet, and it would not be unreasonable to suppose that in each case they were sunk as far down as possible and that consequently ledge would be found beneath. Had an independent series of test pits been sunk by the contractor the rock would have been found, and the present difficulty would not have arisen.

REDWOOD MAN IS IN THE CITY

Shirley Baker, whose firm is supplying wood stave pipe for Loch Lomond

TALKS OF THE WOOD AND ITS QUALITIES

Makes Strong Claims for It, and Quotes Extensive Works in Which It is Being Used—Bidding on Panama Canal—Progress at Loch Lomond.

Shirley Baker, manager for the Excelsior Wood & Pipe Co., is at the Royal Hotel. This concern is supplying the contractors with the wood stave pipe which is now being laid on Section 1 of the water extension work. Speaking of the progress made, Mr. Baker told a representative of the Telegraph yesterday that he hoped to have the section finished by Sept. 1. Near 3,000 feet, he said, is in position, and the work was being rapidly pushed forward. Asked why native woods were not used and what special properties the red wood had to recommend it, Mr. Baker replied that it was essential to use a wood that was clear of grain and free from knots and sap. An attempt was made early in the year to secure a Canadian wood that would answer these particular requirements but it was found that the mills could supply only 1 1/2 per cent. of all wood handled in a year's run that would be satisfactory in every way. Red wood in addition to these qualifications had a special value from its lasting longer than other soft lumber. It was much in demand for foundation work and fence posts and had 600 years use. It had also the advantage, Mr. Baker added, of being practically non-combustible and was recognized as such by fire insurance companies.

Mr. Baker was told that considerable discussion as to the power of wood stave pipe to resist high pressures had taken place. The proposed new 36-inch main from the One Mile House to the Marsh Bridge referred to and he was asked if he had any experience of a wood stave pipe subjected to a pressure of nearly 300 feet of head. He said that by increasing the thickness in the wood from 1 1/2 to about 1 3/4 inches and by making certain modifications in the circular rods the red wood had been found to give every satisfaction. In an instance he mentioned fifteen miles of pipe line laid down about five years ago for the Southern California Water Company. At one point in this line the pipe ran through a deep gully in the form of an inverted siphon and the pressure at this point was 230 feet.

Another point touched was the possibility of a burst from the wood pipe swelling when the water was turned on. Mr. Baker, however, said that as the wood was comparatively soft the iron bands inserted under any increased strain. In the event of repairs being necessary at any time it was a simple matter, he said, to take out a stave and replace it. Speaking of the uses to which the red wood was put, Mr. Baker said it was in much demand where the white oak was prevalent, as it was one of the few woods which escaped its ravages. On this account the company were hopeful of raising a contract to supply wood for tanks, doors and sashes in connection with the Panama Canal.

Among existing contracts where wood stave pipe is being laid down Mr. Baker mentioned the following: At Lynchburg (Va.), seventeen miles of 30-inch main; at Duluth (Minn.), two and a half miles of pipe seven feet in diameter; at Peru, South America, one and a half miles of 22-inch main. He added that to the best of his belief the pipe now being laid out for the Loch Lomond extension was the first of its kind in Canada.

BOY FOUND WITH SKULL FRACTURED

Think Horse Kicked James Brazillion of Kingsville, But He Cannot Tell.

James Brazillion, the thirteen-year-old son of James Brazillion, sr., of Kingsville, was found on Saturday in an unconscious condition behind a barn near his home, with a deep wound on his head. The first intimation of an accident came from a lad who said young Brazillion had been kicked by a horse and was lying dead behind the barn. Fortunately this story was an exaggeration, but an examination of the injury by Dr. Curran, Fairville, proved that the boy had sustained a fracture of the front of the skull, and was in a serious condition. He was unconscious for some hours, and yesterday although considerably better was unable to give any account of the accident. The wound is described as a clean cut, as if made with an axe. There is no suspicion of foul play, and it is believed that the account given of the accident will prove correct.

J. Kimball Scammell, C. E., acting for the dominion government, is making a survey of the shore waters of the St. John river, particularly in the vicinity of wharves, with a view to making a detailed report, so that the dredging that for some time has been needed, can be intelligently attended to before the close of navigation. At present Mr. Scammell and assistants are surveying on the eastern side of Long Reach in the vicinity of Laakey's Landing, now known as Bedford. The digging plans will be completed in a short while and a comprehensive report made. It is understood the dredges New Brunswick and Dominion, now lying in this port, will be sent out to do the work which, it is promised, will be faithfully and thoroughly prosecuted when commenced. After completing the dredging the wharves and important landing spots on both sides of the waterway will be furnished with depths sufficient to float a steamer of much greater tonnage than any now following the river routes. River steambot captains, and those otherwise interested, are glad to learn of the government's proposed action. Since the height of summer a large percentage of all the important wharves have been considered risky in taking a big steamer to them. Westfield wharf is particularly destitute of floating facilities, also Glenwood, otherwise called Belyea's wharf, at the back of Vincent's Island, above Brown's Flat. At nearly all the wharves the boats "pick up" mud and clay, as if trawling. Sometimes wheels and propellers have struck bottom, and boat hands have lately been stationed just to warn engineers of such.

It is said that the Westfield side of the river is more exposed to currents and strong tides, it being what is known as the concrete shore. Land, mud, stone, etc., drift in there more rapidly. Possibly before the dredges get through with their deepening at the points most in need of such work local authorities will be flooded with petitions to attend to other and minor jobs, for the river-owners, who the country folk are waking up to, are becoming a more important factor in the affairs of the province. Land is increasing in value, shore privileges are growing dear, and the country folk are waking up to the opportunities within their grasp.

SUNDAY WELCOME FOR EARL GREY

Viceregal Party Arrived at Chatham Sunday and Attended Church

WENT TO NEWCASTLE

Were Accompanied on Trip Up River by Governor Snowball, Premier Tweedie, Mayor Nicol and Other Gentlemen and Ladies.

Chatham, N. B., Aug. 6.—(Special)—The weather was all that could be desired and flags were flying from every staff as the viceregal party sailed up the noble Miramichi this morning on board the steamer Minto which anchored off Chatham about 9 o'clock. On account of its being Sunday there was no public demonstration on their arrival. They were simply greeted by Lieut-Governor Snowball, Mayor Nicol and others, who extended to them a hearty welcome. Shortly afterwards they landed and carriages being in waiting they were accompanied by Mayor Nicol, drove to St. Paul's quaint little church about two miles up river, where they attended the regular Sunday morning service, conducted by Ven. Rev. Archdeacon Forsythe. Returning, they were joined at luncheon on the Minto by Lieut-Gov. Snowball, Premier Tweedie, Mayor Nicol, W. S. Loggie, J. P. O. Turpin, M. P., and Mayor Miller, of Newcastle.

Went to Newcastle. Early in the afternoon a party of ladies joined them, among them being Mrs. J. B. Snowball, Mrs. R. A. Snowball, Mrs. W. B. Snowball, Misses Frances, Laura, Lilian and Annie Snowball, Miss Thompson, Mrs. Nicol, Miss Nicol and Miss Pierce. The party then sailed up to Newcastle.

His Excellency Earl Grey and Lady Grey, accompanied by Mayor Nicol, were taken around the town in Mr. Miller's automobile and returning to the Minto, the Chatham party said farewell to the distinguished guests and returned home by the steamer St. Nicholas. The Minto will call at Dalhousie tomorrow on the way to Quebec. A sad feature in connection with the visit was the flagstaff in the Newcastle park to untwist the ropes that had become entangled in hoisting the flag fell to the ground and broke an arm and ankle.

The tablet commemorating the death of New Brunswick soldiers in South Africa, may not be placed in Emouath street Methodist church, for in view of the attitude of certain members of the congregation toward any reminder of war being brought before the church members, it has been thought best to refrain from any course that might tend to make the situation more acute. It is probable that the trustee board of Trinity church will be asked to allow the tablet being placed in that church.

Gasoline Launch Burns in Harbor. Overflow in Filling Viking's Tank Started the Fire. The once trim little motor boat Viking, the property of John Johnson, the South ender, being house keeper, lies in the Market slip a forlorn looking wreck, all charred and burned. Mr. Johnson and a friend were just starting on a cruise down the harbor about 9:30 o'clock Saturday night, and with the boat fastened to the end of South Wharf were in the act of filling the gasoline tank. Suddenly there was an overflow, the gasoline ignited and, running over the bottom of the craft, enveloped her in a sheet of flame. Mr. Johnson and his friend immediately jumped overboard and swam to the steps. Detective Killen and Deputy Chief Jenkins were at the head of the wharf and seeing the accident the detective ran to the alarm from the dock.

The department was quickly on the scene. The Viking by this time had drifted closer to the wharf, and a stream from the chemical was played on the mass of flame. As the gasoline proved the more powerful it was necessary to bring the water hose into use, and this, together with the stream from the chemical, soon placed the flames under control, but not before the little boat was ruined.

Mr. Johnson naturally feels very badly over the loss, as besides the fact that there is no insurance he had spent considerable time and money—the value being something more than $500 on getting the Viking into shape. He had planned a trip up river yesterday morning. It is probable that he will build a new boat during the winter, for next summer Mr. Johnson had one hand quite severely burned, but his friend, except for a bruised ankle as the result of coming in contact with the sewer pipe when jumping overboard, was not injured.

The fire attracted a great crowd and the North Wharf was lined with people from one end to the other.
