FOR FREE SUGAR!

Agitation Organized in Chicago---Said To Be a Sly Move to Crush Beet Sugar Industry.

Times says:

Wholesale grocers of Chicago and persons interested in the sugar trade are discussing pro and con a petition now being widely but quietly circulated in the Chicago congressional districts praying for the abolishment of the tariff on raw sugar, and asking for a signatures to be presented to congress, when it meets in December. Three or four copies of the petition are now being signed in each congressional disrict in Cook county. The petition is sent out ostensibly by the National Pure Food Association, which has its headquarters at Broad-way and Chambers street in New York. But it also is being circulated by agents of the United States Export Association, which has its head-quarters in the same building. F. B. Thurber is president of both organizations, and Hylton Swan is secretary. against Chicago, Nov. 13. - The Chicago of the wholesale grocery firm of H. K. & F. B. Thurber, of New York. In substance the petition calls on all jobbers and large consumers of sugar to join in a petition to congress to do away with the sugar tariff, because it save consumers of the country $60,000,000 annually, and give the people refined sugar at a cost of 3 or 4 cents a pound. It would, the petition states, result in fair competition becane and beet sugar interests, of which consumers would get the benefit, and in a great increase in the manufacture of preserves, confection-ery, etc. This would drive out the "English trade importations in these goods, and would benefit fruit growers, manufacturers and all alike." While some Chicago jobbers agree with the arguments of this petition, and look on it as a good move, there are others who are inclined to regard it as a sly move of the sugar trust, intended to influence congress to admit Cuban sugar duty free and so put an end to the most dangerous competition against the trust-the beet sugar in

FIGHTING ON THE FRONTIER

Of India --- Afghan Post of 200 Troops Attacked by Jehandad Khan's Followers.

The British Army Will Try a New Rifle---London Paper Thinks Premier Will Quit--- New Railroad Planned for London.

FIGHTING ON INDIA'S FRONTIER. of threes and fours, has an aggregate Lendon, Nov. 13 .- "It is reported approaching one hundred. here," says the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, that Jehandad Khan, who fled from Afghanistan on the death of the ameer has been making trouble on the Indian frontier. He gathered several hundred followers, and attacked an Afghan post of 200 troops, commanded by Ali Akbar, near the frontier. Ali Akbar drove the rebels over the frontier, losing one officer and nine soldiers killed. "The British authorities, according to report, then arrested Ali Akbar, while Jehandad Khan fled to Kurram Valley. Habib Ullah has ordered the

last Saturday night at the Guildhall, Truth says: "The careless composition of the speech of the premier, which contained some singularly obscure sentences has revived the talk of his impending retirement and has given cause for believing at least that he no longer takes an earnest interest in political life."

A NEW RIFLE. The Daily News makes the following announcement: "Owing to Lord Roberts' conviction that the sabre and lance have seen their best days and must be replaced even for cavalry by rifles, while the bulk of the infantry must henceforth be mounted, the small arms committee was instructed some months ago to find a modified form of the Lee-Enfield suitable for all arms. As a result the committee has decided in favor of shortening the barrel five inches and increasing the twist of the rifle in order to compensate for the loss of range and accuracy, adding a ten-cartridge clip action. An experimental issue of a thousand will be made soon.'

NEW RAILROAD PLANNED FOR

LONDON. At yesterday's meeting of the London County Council a proposal was unanimously adopted to ask the consent of parliament to the construction of subways and a shallow tramway Victoria embankment under New street to Holburn connecting a little further north with surface trains. In the course of the session the delegates who recently visited the United States described the systems in Bos-ton and New York; J. Williams Bonn declaring his conviction that what had been done in those American cities could be done in London, and efforts should be made before subterranean London was handed over to foreign control. This statement was greeted with considerable applause.

CHINESE ARSENALS VERY BUSY. Telegraphing from Hankow, Nov. 5, the Pekin corespondent of the Times,

Dr. Morrison, says: "The Yang Tse valley is now peaceful, and no doubt is entertained that the court will return to Pekin. Trade is very active here. The manufacture of arms and ammunition is proceeding on a great scale at all the principal Chinese arsenals. There are 2,000 workmen in the Hankow arsenal and 2,500 in the arsenal at Shanghai. Forty thousand gun stocks were recently imported, and 15,000 Mausers are now ready for distribution. Large contracts for the supply of rifles are being negotiated by the representatives of European firms." TEN PERISHED IN FIRE. The Mandelevitch building, one of the finest blocks in Odessa, which includes a fashionable arcade of shops, has been destroyed by fire. Ten persons perished and thirty-five others were injured. The damage is estimated at 1,000,000 roubles.

London Litigant Wins Long Drawn Out Legal Case.

Outcome May Have Important Effect on Pending Cases Involving London Citizens.

A case of considerable local interest, and one likely to have considerin which several Londoners are involved, has just been disposed of by the supreme court at Ottawa. The case has been in the courts for two years and a half. It commenced in April, 1899, when A. Wilson, of the Wilson Varnish Company, of London and Montreal, entered suit against John F. tation to him that they had paid in $50,000 cash for stock of the company held by them, when in fact they had paid nothing. The case was tried in this city in December, 1899, by Chief Justice Armour. He found that de-ceit, as alleged, had been practiced upon the plaintiff Wilson, and he gave judgment for the plaintiff for $1,000 and interest, cancelled the stock, and ordered the defendants to pay the costs of the action. From this judgment appeal taken direct to the appeal court.

judgment was sustained, the sitting judges being Messrs. Justices Osler, Lister, Moss and McLennan. Mr. Justice Osler took occasion to score the defendants for the methods employed in the organization of the company. The case was carried to the supreme court, evidently with the intention of wearing out the resources of the de He, however, contested the appeal, and the previous judgment was again sustained. About a week ago the little girl placed in her mouth a button which she pulled from her coat. Without noticing the danger she was incurring, she kept the button in her mouth, and after talking to a playmate she finally got it into her throat. Efforts to dislodge it proved futile. A few days afterwards Hazel complained of feeling intense pain whenever she tried to swallow. Her father then became alarmed and brought her to Dr. Park, who, by the use of the X-ray machine, located the button in the back of the throat. The child was put under chloroform and the button was removed in three minutes. As the button was made of metal the child's throat is in an irritated condition, but it is believed that complete recovery is only a matter of a few days.

A MARTYR TO SCIENCE. New York, Nov. 13.-A young woman has just been inoculated with virus from a cow suffering from tuberculosis by Dr. George D. Barney, of Third street, Brooklyn. The woman was Miss Emma H. King, of Brooklyn. She offered to submit to this experiment, it was said, in order that the medical profesion might know whether or not Professor Koch's theory that bovine tubercle bacilli cannot affect human beings was correct. The cow from which the virus was taken was inoculated with virus of a consumptive person some time ago by Dr. Barney. Dr. Barney said he was also anxious to prove that persons suffering from consumption in its early stage can be cured by the inhalation of a compound of the phenol group. Should Miss be stricken with consumption as a result of the experiment she will undergo the inhalation treatment.

PEACE RUMORS!

From Almost Every Point Except From Botha's Heacquarters in the Saddle.

London, Nov. 13, 1 a.m.-Peace negotiations are reported from every quarter except from General Botha's headquarters in the saddle. The National Liberal Federation is agitating for a full and explicit declaration of terms from Downing street, but this is a political maneuver directed by the pro-Boers. Messrs. Kruger and Leyds are credited, for the first time, with a willingness to consider something less than actual national independence as a basis for peace, but the rumors from Holland are contradictory and illusory.

ANOTHER PEACE STORY. There is a story that the Boers in arms have approached Lord Kitchener and intimated a desire for peace without reference to Messrs. Kruger, Steyn and Botha, but this is a transparent fiction, started for the purpose of ex-plaining Lord Salisbury's veiled reference to grounds for confidence which he could not lay bare. There can be no peace while 8,000 Boers and Cape rebels hold the field under a dozen or more guerilla leaders.

BOERS CLAIM A SUCCESS. Dr. Leyds' friends, says the Berlin correspondent of the London Times. assert that a British laager, containing remounts for the cavalry now on the way from England, was captured by the Boers. The circumstance that this success of the burghers is not known in London, according to these informants, is due to the fact that it is not the custom of the British to mention the loss of war material unattended by loss of life. DEWET IN ORANGE COLONY.

Lord Kitchener's last report shows how scattered these forces are, and how narrow is their range of opera-tions. Dewet has reappeared in a quarter of the Orange River Colony where he can co-operate with Botha, and it is surmised that another attempt to invade Natal is impending. BOER DELEGATES AT BERLIN. Dr. Leyds, the diplomatic representative of the Boers, and Mr. Fischer, a Transvaal delegate, are in Berlin. They disayow having any political object, but the idea prevails in certain quarters that it is not accidental that their coming coincides with the outbreak of Anglophobia aroused by Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's speech in Edinburgh. Meetings to protest against the statements made by Mr. Chamberlain continue to be held there Chamberlain continue to be held, there being four at Leipzig, Insterburg, Hamm and Gera. Resolutions were adopted and forwarded to Chancellor

Von Buelow. "SPATCH-COCK" EXPLAINED. London Chronicle: Many people have been wondering how the word "spatch-cock," used by Gen. Buller, comes to mean "sandwiched in between." At a dak-bungalow in India you see a "chicken" running about, and in ten minutes you are eating him "spatch-cocked." He has been slain, dipped in hot water to assist the plucking, and his breast bone flattened down, and is grilled as flat as a chop, without the flesh ever being allowed to cool. He is supposed "eat" less tough in that way than any other.

WAY. Nov. 13.-Pan-American travel swelled the receipts of the Buffalo street railway system over a million dollars as compared with the income of the previous year. The re-ports of the International Traction Company for the quarter ending in September show gross receipts 1001 to be $1,802,277. The total increase over the previous year was $1,041,079. SEVENTY POLICEMEN TO BE RE-LIEVED.

On Friday 70 policemen, who are now doing special Pan-American duty on the regular force at $65 per month, will be dismissed. They will lose their jobs not because of any fault of their own but merely because they will not be needed any more. Last spring the common council made a special fund of $29,250 to be spent on 75 special patrolmen to be employed for the six months beginning May 15. This appropriation was exclusive of the $150,-000 raised by a bond issue for Pen-American guards, all of which has been spent.

She collided with a sunken iceberg in Toku Bay on the night of Nov. 2. A blinding snowstorm was raging at the time, and when the shock came some of the passengers, believing she was going down, made attempts to get into life preservers. Enthusiastic Converts.

nere Are III Believe as This Woman Does.

Mrs. Ira Knowlton, of Butte, Montana, is a most enthusiastic convert to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for obstinate stomach trouble. She says: I had poor digestion nearly all my life. It now seems to me that for years I never knew what it was to be hungry, to have a good, natural appetite.

"I was troubled with gas in stomach, causing pressure on the heart with palpitation and short breath. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach, sometimes I had cramps in my stomach which almost resembled spasms. "Doctors told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines would not reach it, and I would still be a sufferer had I not, in sheer desperation, decided to try Stuart's Dyspepsia

"I knew they were an advertised remedy, and I didn't believe anything I read about them, as I had no confidence in advertised remedies; but my sister, living in Pittsburg, wrote last spring telling me how Stuart's Tablets had cured her little daughter of indigestion and loss of flesh and appetite, and I hesitated no longer. "I bought a 500 box at my drug store and took two of the large tablets after each meal, and found them delightful to take, being as pleasant to the taste as caramel candy. Whenever during the day or night I felt any pain or uneasiness in the stomach or about the heart, I took one of the small tablets, and in three weeks it seemed to me as if I never knew what stomach trouble was.

"I kept Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in the house, and every member of our family used them occasionally after a hearty meal or when any of us had a pain or ache in the digestive organs." Mr. E. H. Davis, of Hampton, Va., says: benefit from Stuart's Dysrepsia Tablets than in five years of the doctor's and Mr. J. P. Whitney were given a good reception at the annual meeting of the Ward Two Conservative Association held here last night. Mr. Borden dealt largely with Dominion is-sues, and charged that the preferential tariff, which the Liberal Government boasted of, was simply a com-promise arrived at between warring factions in the cabinet. He explained why the Conservatives had not done better in the provincial elections in Nova Scotia, and assured the Conservatives of Ontario that the result did not in any way indicate the measure of success they would obtain in the next Dominion election. Mr. Whitney spoke with emphasis and vigor in denunciation of the Ross Government.

The idea of a thanksgiving day was occasion has long taken on the character of "The Home Day," a day more intercourse after, it may be, long sepa- terests of the Liberal party, Mr. Ross ration. In Canada, however, Thanksgiving Day will never take the place of Christmas with either the children or the children of a larger growth.

Let us not be misunderstood as objecting to the idea of national thanksgiving. National thanksgiving in some the bountiful hand of Providence is as meet and proper in national as in individual life. Of course, all that can be done by the Canadian Government is to make a recommendation that such and such a day be set apart as a day of public and united thanksgiving. No government in modern times could or would attempt to force its way within the precincts of the individual conscience. All it can do, all it now attempts to do, apart from closing the public offices, is to recommend, not command,

What we would recommend is that the Government should suggest as the day of national thanksgiving, not a week-day, but a Sunday. In that case, let both services be crammed full of thanksgiving, whether in Scripture reading, hymn or anthem, and especially in the sermons of the day. There are plenty of other Sundays whereon to bewail national and private fault; plenty of other Sundays on which to be purely critical, or on which to clothe one's mind in sack-cloth-and-

There is a time for all things, and it is an insult to God and to every common-sense idea of the meaning of the day to employ that one special occasion for any other purpose than that of Empire. It is possibly too late to rectify for this year the mistake that has been forward let us revere the past, and as made in not appointing a Sunday for Thanksgiving, and probably our second holiday in the month will be as farcical as the one already held - we cannot say enjoyed. But next year the Government should avoid the mistake of this year. Even as it is, the wisest thing the churches could do would be to make a real Thanksgiving Sunday of the Sunday immediately preceding the alleged official celebration on the weekday, which latter is, and probably always will be, nothing short of a hol-

Build Up Ontario.

These three words are in brief the policy of the Ontario Government. They constitute the bugle call, so to speak, by which the Liberal party will rally to reiterated victory next summer. The author of the phrase is the Hon. George W. Ross, Ontario's honored Premier, who only a day or so ago was banqueted amid great applause by the Ross Liberal Club of Toronto. The banquet was made the occasion for presenting Premier Ross with a portrait of himself in oils, a gift that embodied not only the good wishes of the club which bears his name, but of a large number of admirers throughout

"The truth is, I never saw Mr. Mabee the parliament buildings or elsewhere. I never made an appointment with him or wrote him a letter of any kind, as Mr. Whitney did. I could not have instructed him, for his book was prepared while I was out of the country. As a matter of fact, I have not yet read the pamphlet, except a page here and there. I was not asked to approve or disapprove of it. It is purely a private venture on the part of the author and publisher, and no member of my Government can be held responsible for what it contains. Mr. Whitney says he disavows this pamphlet because it contains all sorts of vilification against me. Why does he not disavow the Daily Mail and Empire and other Tory organs which contain all sorts of vilification against the Liberal party and my humble seif: If that is the reason of his disavowal, I hope he will extend it, and bring his friends of the Conservative party to recognize more the amenities of public life, and he might extend his disavowal to some of the very strong language occasionally used by himself on the public platform. It is a case of 'Physician,

Unexpected Testimony.

During the present war foreign opinion has been so steadily against Britain that one is surprised to meet anything else. Hence we cannot wonder that the London Times gives prominence to a letter from Johannesburg to the Cologne (Germany) Gazette, which contains such sentiments as the following: "One may think what one this war but of one thing every un-Now that a preferential tariff has been it has achieved all that could be inaugurated between Canada and Great achieved, and that it is very doubtful

This is certainly a remarkable testimony to be sent by a German correspondent and published in a German newspaper. At present the Germans are very much excited over Mr. Chamberlain's statement that the British have done nothing worse than they did in the war of 1870. Whether Mr. Chamberlain's remarks were wise and timely, may be questioned in the present state of German feeling, but we note that the Times has published statements from German officers which seem to show that they are true.

Trusts and Labor Unions-Two Notable Speeches.

Before the Merchants' Club, at it banquet at the Auditorium in Chicago on Saturday night, two notable speeches were made, one by James B. Dill, of New York, and the other by Carroll D. Wright, of Washington.

Mr. Wright predicted the end of strikes, and that the end would come about much in the way contended for by The Advertiser. Mr. Wright said:

"I believe that strikes as a method ciples of private or joint conciliation committees will take their place. The most intelligent captains of industry are thoroughly alive to this view, and I believe that they have an opportunity in connection with organized labor to accomplish a vast deal of good and to secure more rapidly the very things most ardently desired by working-

Mr. Dill urged the benefit of publicity for trusts. He urged national legislation. He thought a national corporation act was now more needed than a national banking act was needed a few years ago. Of the control of on a knowledge of the facts and of the publicity necessary to such legislation,

"Publicity must be secured by legislation, either national or state, and the latter, to be effectual, must be practically uniform among the states. "But the time is coming when publicity will be an essential element of the success of every industrial combination which seeks its support from

"As between combinations themselves, the sound corporation will avail itself of the opportunity to demonstrate its soundness by public statements, and in such demonstration force to a lower position its competitor who is unwilling and inferentially unable to make the same public showing.

"Public confidence is and must be the essential element of the success of any industrial. Public not be based upon anything but knowledge of the facts, and this knowledge of the facts must come from the corporation by way of statements to the public, for the accuracy of such statement someone is responsible. "This leads to the conclusion that while today the better corporations are voluntarily practicing publicity, they would favor a statute which secured published publicity from all corporations. This would redound not only to the benefit of the public, to the steadying of industrial finances, to the making of industrial securities a permanent investment for holders, large and small, but would also prevent the formation of blind pools, industrial swindles, and tend to avert mancial panics.

I used five bottles before I was cured, but when they were taken I was a well woman once more. Your Compound is certainly wonderful. PRESBYTERY OF LONDON

Call to Rev. A. H. Kippen From Aldboro Sustained.

Rev. Dr. Sutherland, of Fingal, Retires From the Ministry-The Home Mission Scheme.

Presbytery met in Knox Church, St. Thomas, at 10:30 o'clock, Tuesday morning, Dr. Johnston, moderator, in the chair

Commissions of elders were received as follows: Edward McMillan, Kintyre; Andrew Thomson, South London; W. S. Trott, Delaware; James Gray, St. James' Church, London; Isaac Langford, Bethel and Bryanston; Archibald Carmichael, Argyle Church and West Lorne. Mr. Reed, St. Thomas, was added to the committee on remits.

A call from Argyle Church, Aldboro, and West Lorne, was presented by Mr. Barnett, moderator, in favor of Re . A. H. Kippen, Stratford; 152 members and 116 adherents signed the call. A stipend of $800 and four weeks' vacation are promised, together with rented ouse or use of manse. Messrs. A. Caimichael and D. J. Campbell appeared and supported the call.

On motion, the moderator's conduct was approved, the call sustained and ordered to be forwarded to Mr. Kippen. A telegram was dispatched to Mr. Kippen stating the fact that the call had been sustained. It was arranged provisionally on the acceptance of the call that the induction take place at West Lorne at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 26, the moderator of the presbytery to preside, Mr. Lawrence to preach, Mr. Courtenay to address the minister, and Mr. Stevens to address the people. Mr. Drummond stated that the con-

Mr. Drummond stated that the congregation of Knox Church, Aylmer, was prepared to call Rev. J. W. Rae, of Toronto Junction. A telegram had been received from Mr. Rae, stating that he must decline the call. The report was received, and in consideration of the message from Mr. Rae, the call was set aside, and Mr. Drummond authorized to moderate in a call again, them, Leslie Stuert's popular "Soldiers Mr. Henderson moved that the presbytery hold its January meeting on Jan. 20, 1902, and that the reports on church life and work and the schemes be the stated order for business at the evening session, and that the meeting be held in Glencoe at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The motion was carried. with the amendment that the meeting be held in Dutton. Mr. Currie reported that the appli-ceived, and further consideration was postponed until the March meeting.

Mr. Clark made a statement to the presbytery in regard to the great de-mands of the home mission work of the church, enforcing his remarks by figures, showing the wonderful growth of population and their needs. Dr. Mc-Crae also presented the claims and needs of augmentation. Mr. Gilmore gave some facts that had come to his knowledge in his own experience in British Columbia.

It was moved by Mr. Stuart, second ed by Mr. Currie, and resolved, that Mr. Clark be requested to procure memoranda for home mission and augmentation addresses for the differen members of the presbytery.

The report as to the supply of Hyde Park and Komoka during Mr. Wylie's absence was received, and Mr. McGillivray was thanked for his services in connection therewith. A telegram was received from Mr Kippen, declaring his intention of accepting the call from Argyle Church and West Lorne. Dr. Sutherland, Fingal, presented the demission of his charge. The venerable clergyman addressed the court briefly, stating in effect that his advanced years rendered this step necessary. He has held his present charge since 1866, and has been one of the most faithful in the discharge of his

"While recognizing the financial success of the work, we find that the century movement for the deepening of spiritual life of the church must be given stronger emphasis, and every effort put forth to accomplish end. We would recommend: (1) That every minister be enjoined to lay emphasis on the great doctrines of grace, bringing sinners face to face with sin and its consequences, and calling the saints to greater activity in the work of the Lord: (2) that the first Sabbath of the new year be set apart as a day of special thanksgiving to God, and that so far as practicable the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper be observed on that day; (3) that the ministers, members of sesice-bearers of the congregations within the bounds of George H. The Fadettes.

The Fadettes Woman's Orchestra, of Boston, which last night gare the second concert of the Metropolitan course at the New Grand Opera House, has appeared in this city before, but it is an organization whose visits will always be delightedly welcomed by the music loving public of London. An American writer is responsible for the assertions that "man may be the intellect of music, women is its heart and soul," and that "the best work done in the arts women is of a better quality than the average work done by men." hearing the Fadettes one can well-nigh believe the truth of both statements. The Fadettes stand easily in the front rank of America's musical aggregations, and many of their admirers do not hesitate to place them before more pretentious and better known orchestras and concert bands in point of artistic excellence and enjoyability of entertainment. The evening was certainly one of unalloyed pleasure for all present, and the programme given was one acceptable alike to the cultured and the uncultured musical taste. There is no need to speak of the work of the orchestra, for any utterance can only be words of praise. Mrs. Nichols, the conductor, has so infused her personality into the organization that they respond instantly to every slightest motion of her baton. Each lady is an adept in her art, and when to this is added the scrupulous training to which the company have evidently been subjected, it is easy to understand the artistic results achieved. Strings, woodwind, and brass each filled their allotted parts flawlessly. The proopened with Meyerbeer's gramme Fackeltanz," in B flat, followed by the tuneful overture to Thomas' "Mignon." The string orchestra rendered Steck's "Awakening of which was delightful in its delicately shaded pizzicato passages, and Gillett's dainty "Entr'acte Gavotte." The rendition of the grand selection from "I' Pagliacci" (Leon Cavallo), was followed by a double encore, one of of the King," elfciting great enthusi-asm. A descriptive piece, Puerner's "Imps and Goblins," closed the evening's programme.

The assisting artists' portion of the programme was not the least enjoyable feature. Mary Reuck-Wilczek, a violiniste of rare technique and great depth of feeling, executed Wienawski's Andante and Allegretto from his Seventh Concerto, in a finished man-ner, winning an enthusiastic recall to mr. Currie reported that the application for grants to the augmentation fund were granted, with the exception that the $12 50 additional asked for Tempo and South Delaware was for the present refused. EXEMPTION EXPECTED TO BE GRANTED

McClary Proposition Seems To Be Favored.

Aldermen Appreciate Importance of the Request.

Divided As To How to Deal With It But Majority Is Counted Upon to Vote for the Bylaw.

The McClary Company's request for a fixed assessment, which will be considered at the meeting of the finance committee Friday night, was a muchtalked of subject about the city hall today. The general opinion seems to be that the matter will be sent to the council and that finally the application will be granted. Members of the council are divided in their consideration of the matter, into three classes-the opportunists, who would grasp the chance to keep the company here and not risk it by referring the bylaw to the people; the doctrinaires, who would refuse the request as it stands, because by allowing the application, a moral obligation would be broken; and another group, in which are the aldermen who, with an eye on the coming elections, say that the council should not take upon its shoulders the burden of determining whether the McClary Company should have a fixed assessment, but should leave it to the people to decide. The contentions of the first class are wholly practical, and are founded upon the primary belief that the McClary Company must be kept in London. These aldermen, who form the majority, it is believed-would pass the bylaw without putting it to the people. They would do this, not from any wish to take from them their right to vote, nor from any doubt as to the people's wise judgment in the matter, but because they believe it would be impossible to poll a two-thirds vote of all property-owners, not to say a two-thirds majority, as the statute requires. They would ignore the bylaw and depend upon the merits of the city's case to secure special legislation authorizing the bylaw. authorizing the bylaw. judgment is that the practical interest outweighs the theoretical or moral. If the bylaw were submitted to the people, they say, and it got less than a two thirds majority of all property-holders, that would be a declaration against it, even though a big majority of the voters favored it. Under such conditions they could not secure special legislation for the bylaw by arguing that a majority desired it, because they would be as much in the wrong then as if they had gone to the government without allowing the people to pass upon the bylaw a They would vote, therefore, for the request as made by the McClary Comsecond group comprises a very Their argument is ly says that no bylaw fixing an assessment is valid unless submitted to the people, and passed by a two-thirds majority of the property owners. To violate this law, they say, would be to disregard the rights of the people. They add that if an exemption is given to one, then none should be refused. They would approve of a bylaw, general in its application, so that all factories might benefit; by which the man who employs a few hands might be helped proportionately to the large manufacturer. Their opinion is that it looks hard for a man to struggle along in a small way and struggle against difficulties to be helped by the city when the struggle is over. "Here is the law," they say, "and we as citizens must observe it, just as we expect the humblest man in the city to observe it." As the request now stands, these aldermen would vote straight against it.

In the third class are some of the prospective candidates in the approaching elections. They would neither vote against the proposition, while renor to ignore the people. cognizing the necessity of keeping the firm here—as indeed all the aldermen do-and acknowledging the danger in letting the bylaw seek a two-thirds majority, they hate to deny the people anything at such a ticklish time, especially when such a denial is strictly against the law. It would not be a surprise, in case the passing of the by-law is moved, if Ald. Winnett, for in-stance, moved in amendment, that it be passed upon the understanding that the public be given the chance to ex-press itself upon it. In support of this the public be given the chance to express itself upon it. In support of this they would say that doubtless a very large number would vote for it, in which case the government would simply grant the necessary legislation. They do not take into consideration that this would be practically as bad as leaving the people out of it altogether—but then, this is election time, and prospective candidates must not have obstacles on the road that leads to the council chamber.

"I can truthfully say that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a wonderful medicine and deserves the praise given it," writes Mrs. Emma Spooner, of Lakeview, Montcalm Co., Mich., Box 263. "I was sick four months, and the medicine prescribed by the doctors did me no good. Pinally I wrote to Dr. Pierce for his advice. He answered in a very kind letter instructing me what to do. I followed his advice and to-day am a well woman, thanks to Dr. Pierce."

questions; she had expressed her faith in him, her belief in his statements. She did not even inquire to what backsliding of his own he had alluded when in the shrubbery he had spoken of a fault committed and repented of—a something done which he would have laid down his life to have undone. Whatever that mysterious sin was, it was not murder; it had nothing to do with that deadliest of crimes—no remotest connection with the death of Lord Hammond.

"You must eat," Elsie said, imperatively, to Owen. "Sid down. Here is a cold ham and part of a pigeon pie, some white French bread and a bottle of Burgundy."

Owen was nearly famished. He sat down and partook of the good things supplied to him. Elsie cast side her wraps and stood close to the fire in all the glistening grace of her white ball costume. She did not think of herself, nor of how lovely she looked to poor Owen's eyes—Owen, who was a hunted being, flying from the pursuing dogs of the law, a price set upon his head, homeless, penniless, friendless in the great world which would have done him such fawning homage had he become the heir to the carldom of Chase by honorable, honest means.

fawning homage had he become the heir to-the carldom of Chase by honorable, honest means.

When Owen had finished eating and had drunk a large glass of Burgundy, he turned away from the table and approached Elsie. She would have laughed at his ugly disguise under other circumstances, but as it was, her lip trembled as she looked at him and her heart stood still with fear. Would other eyes than hers penetrate that disfiguring husk which shielded the precious fruit? She looked at the false eyebrows and the false beard and shuddered.

"Tell me, dear Owen," she said, speaking in a low, fearful whisper, "tell me how it is that this deadly suspicion has fallen upon you."

"I must explain that, Elsie, Ah, you shrink from me!" he laughed, bitterly. "No wonder," he added, "I am dusty and dirty—not fit to approach a young lady; and you look enchanting enough to captivate a prince in that white ball dress." She gave him her hand.

"Dearest Owen, don't let us talk of trifies. Sit here now. While you hold my hand teil me how this happened. I want to understand it."

"Elsie I have been living in hiding for some me—that fact tells against me."

"Dearest Owen, don't let us talk of trifies. Sit here now. While you hold my hand teil me how this happened. I want to understand it."

"Elsie I have been living in hiding for some me—that fact tells against me. Now, you know that Raby Hall is let for three hundred a year. Both my brothers are gone abroad, and to each of them one hundred pounds a year is allowed out of the rent by the persons who now hold possession of the property: those persons are the Earl of Chase and his agents. For reasons of my own I resolved not to live up to my little income. I put away half in a bank where I dare not show myself to claim the money now, and I lived at the rate of fifty younds a year in a garret at the top of some chambers built over the offices of a benefit society called the Winter Foresters, in a narrow street in Soho. I lived as the poor live. I sold my watch and ehain, and diamond ring, and emerald signet ring, and a great sapphire pin given me by my godmother, who was a ducheks, but who is dead. All the money I received I put in the bank with the other; this makes one hundred and twenty-four pounds. Then I worked at my new profession—portrait painting. I brought beggar boys and flower girls home to my attic to sit to me as models. I was delighted with the progress I made. I slept on a hard bed, and sat on my single chair, and kept my broken cups and cracked delf plates in a little cupboard near the fireplace. I had three burning desires—one was to pay back money unjustly gained."

He paused, and searched Elsie's face with his flashing eyes. She did not flinch only looked at him with a pitiful gaze, and he went on:

"The next was to excel in my work; the third was to make such a home, Elsie, as I could ask you to share. I did not wish you to see how shabby my clothes were getting as the days went on. I had not had new ones for a long time before leaving Raby Hall. There was no money to spare, and I would not get in debt. I felt that if you saw me in my misery that you would be unhappy; you would perhaps pity me, an

"I was not able to sell my pictures be-cause I had no name and no friends. A few shillings were offered me by cause I had no name and no friends. A few shillings were offered me by one man for a likeness of a street-beggar; but I had given more for the canvas and colors. I knew it would not be always so; I knew that as time went on I should learn to do so well that my portraits would command sitters who would pay me nobly; but I had much to master. I was only a student. I had very little to eat. I thought of you night and day, but I dreaded for you to see me fallen and I dreaded for you to see me fallen and degraded. Thursday Owen, this is not commonplace girlish jealousy! I believe that I have the first place in your heart! If Miss Bracegirdle were good and honest I would not mind you choosing her as a friend and sister; but she is a dreadful woman! Did I tell you how she had me decoyed away from Charteris by means of a false telegram? how she made me cross the sea, and sent her base father to meet me and compel me to live in his family? how they took my money away so that I could no pay my fare back to England? All that was done that she might keep me away from Charteris because poor Lord Hammond would pay me attention and neglected her; and she wanted to marry him! All this is true!—true—quite true! And have you trusted this woman with your secrets?"

"My darling Elsie, are you sure of what you say? This woman has never touched my fancy, much less my heart; still, I thought she was gentle, kind, gifted—I did, upon my honor. She wrote to me, and offered me her sympathy; she did not want to mary me, poor beggar as I am!"

Elsie smiled a little bitter smile, and shook her wise, pretty head.

They are big, husky fellows, with abundance of strength and vitality, but sooner or later the hard life and the irregularity of meals knocks them out, and almost invariably the stomach is the first part to suffer. A big, strong man with dyspepsia is deserving of the greatest possible amount of sympathy; but he seldom ever gets it, for he looks so big that it seems difficult to believe that he could possibly be afflicted with any ailment. As a result his case of dyspepsia is seldom ever properly treated, and complications of a more serious nature follow. It is to such men as these that the Battle Creek Sanitarium health foods prove a boor and a blessing. Caretaker Frank Lane, or the Chedoke Park, Hamilton, was for years an employe of the C. P. Christmas Dinner for 1,000

The Salvation Army in the city are arranging this year to give a Christmas dinner to a thousand people. The officers in going around visiting among the people find there are a very great number indeed who are deprived at this festive season of the cheer and luxury that many others enjoy, and which the army officers believe many of the more fortunate citizens are anxious should be afforded them. KEEN COLLEGE MEN

The Food of Harvard Brain Workers and Athletes.

Memorial Hall at Harvard where some twelve hundred of the men eat, is particularly interesting. The dining-room is an enormous gothic hall finished in old English oak with wide stained-glass windows on the sides. The walls are hung with portraits of illustrious graduates and benefactors of past generations.

The students have good food to eat and plenty of it. The hall is run on a co-operative plan so that it costs something less than four dollars a week for board. To this place three times a day come men, whose lives for the time being are given to serious intellectual work, and to accomplish this, they are keen enough to realize that proper food is absolutely neces-

One is particularly struck by the vellow packages of Grape-Nuts standing on nearly every table, which the men purchase at grocery stores and bring in for their personal use. They juickly find, out by practical demon-stration that brain work exhausts the phosphates, and that nature demands that this loss be made up, and made up from food. Grape-Nuts is ready to be used without cooking, it is a scientific food which nourishes and builds up the brain, and is particularly suited to the needs of students. The 'Varsity athletes also eat it to keep their digestive organs in perfect working order so that they can stand the great strain of both body and head-work when important contests hall come. .

LITIGATION

VAUDEVILLE

Local Interest in A. J. Small's Suit Against Manager Shea.

Manager Cairns, of the Grand, Speaks of the Local Aspect of the Situation.

The public of this city and of Hamilton and Ottawa, as well as theatrical men in general in Canada and the United States, are interested in the lawsuit which has been instituted by Mr. A. J. Small, of the Grand and Toronto Opera Houses, Toronto, and the Grand Opera House here, for $7,500 damages against Shea's Yonge Street Theater Company, the claim arising out of the non-fulfillment of an agreement made between the plaintiff and defendant company, and the cancellation of a contract whereby the vaudmeeting will be on Nov. 26, and it is eville performances given at Shea's Toronto theater would be presented at the plaintiff's theaters in Ottawa,

Hamilton and London. So far as the public of this city are concerned, their sympathy will be entirely with Mr. Small in the matter. It will be remembered that the public were promised a high-class vaudeville bill weekly, throughout the season. The first one was put in on Sept. 30, and was a fairly good one, being accorded as much patronage as could be expected for such an innovation. The second show a week later, was considerably below the first in point of excellence, and far below the standard which vaudeville should maintain to Hutton, the former general officer attract the patronage of the best It also was accorded quite as much business as it deserved. The public, however, were beginning to take to the vaudeville habit, and many were looking forward with interest to the third show, which included James J. Corbett, in his monologue turn, and a better supporting bill than had yet appeared. Practically without notice, At a meeting of the official board however, the attraction was cancelled, and it is only now that the public of this city learns that it was the fault of Mr. Shea, and not that of Mr. Small or the local management. Mr. Shea's faint-hearted withdrawal from his contract before the public had been given a fair chance to show their true attitude toward vaudeville is even less understandable after his expression of willingness to lose several thousand dollars in the venture of giving vaud-

Mr. J. F. Cairns, the manager of the Grand Opera House here, was seen by a reporter today and asked what he could say as to the local aspect of the case. Mr. Cairns replied: "London was not treated fairly in the matter of Shea's vaudeville. The people were just beginning to understand what the vaudeville really meant, when the shows were withdrawn. Everybody wanted to see Corbett, and we could have packed the house that week, when suddenly I received word that the vaudeville contract had been Grand Opera House here, was that the vaudeville contract had been broken by Mr. Shea. The whole thing put the local management in an awkward position. We had promised the public such headliners as Jessie Bartlett Davis, Eugene Cowles, James J. Corbett, and other leading vaudeville people, but as a matter of fact Lon-don was not given these or any other headliners, and so was given no chance to chow its appreciation. I myself did more to book the Shea show than any other attraction we had booked. The best people were beginning to realize that it was quite safe to come and see the Shea shows. London people had shown in their attendance at vaudeville shows at Springbank summer that they were prepared be generous in their patronage of the high-class article, and they should have been given a better chance prove it than they were given.'

The Quick Pace of Declining Health.

Wasted Nerves and Weakened Bodies Give Way to Suffering and Disease-The Action of

There are hosts of people who are susceptible to attack of various kinds of illness. Their systems are ever ready to take on disease They bend the slightest trial, and their health is jeopardized by every trivial exposure. They lack resisting power, and health declines because there is no nerve force to make good the waste by disease.

At first slight weakness, stomach annoyance, headache, heart fluttering, trembling of the hands and limbs, restless sleep, indicate something is lacking—that something is nerve force. Until the stock of nerve force is replenished the pace of declin ing health will increase, until lost vitality is expressed in every move. Pale, languid, nerve-shattered people find exactly what they require in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It supplies the wants of wasted nerves, rebuilds the wasted cells, and renews the blood. Its wonderful cures are due to the fact that it restores natural nerve force and it is lack of nerve force that causes most suffering these days Brain nerves, heart nerves, stomach nerves, give out, and all sorts of troubles follow.

Mrs. M. A. McCrea, Troy Hill, Ont., writes: "My system was all run down when I began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was weak and very nervous, and felt so tired and worn-out that I could scarcely drag myself about the house. It seemed impossible for me to get rest or sleep at night, and I felt that I was gradually growing weaker and more nervous and ir ritable. Since beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I feel altogether different. It has gradually strengthened my nerves and built up my system wonderfully. I sleep well now, and am being thoroughly restor-ed to health and strength. I believe it is the best medicine to be had for the nerves."
