NEW BRITISH-JAP FAR EAST TREATY AGREE TO MAKE WAR IN COMMON

Armies and Navies at the Disposal of Either Power.

Jap Tutelage of Korea Recognized---Treaty Made for Ten Years.

London, Sept. 26. — The text of the Anglo-Japanese agreement, which was signed on Aug. 12, and a dispatch to the British ambassador at St Petersburg, forwarding a copy of it, with instructions to communicate it to the Russian Government at the earliest opportunity, have been issued.

The preamble declares that the Governments of Great Britain and Japan, being desirous of replacing the agreement concluded Jan. 3, 1902, by fresh stipulations, have agreed upon the following articles, having for their object the consolidation and maintenance of general peace in the regions of Eastern Asia and India, the preservation of the common interests of all the powers in China by insuring the independence and integrity of the Chinese Empire and the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations in China, and the maintenance of the territorial rights of the high contracting parties in the regions of Eastern Asia and India, and the defense of their special interests therein.

Article 1.—It is agreed that whenever in the opinion either of Great Britain or Japan, any of the rights and interests refered to in the preamble to this agreement are in jeopardy, the two Governments will communicate with one another fully and frankly, and will consider in common the measures which should be taken to safeguard those menaced rights or interests.

Will Make War Together.

Article 2.—Should either of the high contracting parties be involved in war in defense of its territorial rights or special interests, the other party will at once come to the assistance of its ally, and both parties will conduct a war in common, and make peace in mutual agreement with any power or powers involved in such a war.

Article 3.—Japan, possessing paramount political, military and economic interests in Korea, Great Britain recognizes Japan's right to take such measures for the guidance, control and protection of Korea, as she may deem proper and necessary to safeguard and advance those interests,providing those measures so taken are not contrary to the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations.

As to India.

Article 4.—Great Britain having a special interest in all that concerns the security of the Indian frontier, Japan recognizes her right to take such measures in the proximity of that frontier as she may find necessary for safeguarding her Indian possessions.

Article 5.—The high contracting parties agree that neither will, without consulting the other, enter into a separate agrement with another power to the prejudice of the objects described in the preamble.

The Present War.

Article 6.—As regards the present war between Japan and Russia, Great Britain will continue to maintain strict neutrality, unless some other power or powers join in hostilities against Japan, in which case Great Britain will come to the assistance of Japan, will conduct war in common, and will make peace in mutual agreement with Japan.

Article 7.—The conditions under which armed resistance shall be afforded by either power to the other in the circumstances mentioned in the present agreement, and the means by which such assistance shall be made available, will be arranged by the naval and military authorities of the contracting parties, who will from time to time consult one another fully and freely on all questions of mutual interest.

A Ten Years' Treaty.

Article 8.—The present agreement shall be subject to the provisions of article 6, and come into effect immediately after the date of signature, and remain in force for ten years from that date. In case neither of the parties shall have been notified twelve months before the expiration of said ten years of an intention of terminating it, it shall remain binding until the expiration of one year from the day on which either of the parties shall have denounced it, but if when the date for the expiration arrives either ally is actually engaged in war, the alliance shall be ipso facto, and continue until peace shall be concluded.

The treaty is signed by Foreign Secretary Lansdowne on behalf of Great Britain, and by Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister, on behalf of Japan.

This for the Czar.

With the treaty was issued a dispatch to the British ambassador at St. Petersburg, Sir Charles Hardinge, with the request that the treaty be communicated to the Russian Government.

This dispatch is explanatory of the delay in publishing the treaty, due to the progress of negotiations looking to peace between Russia and Japan.

In it Lord Lansdowne says: "The Russian Government will, I trust, recognize that this new agreement is an international instrument to which no exception can be taken by any of the powers interested in the affairs of the Far East."

Continuing, Lord Lansdowne says: "Great Britain, I believe, may count on the goodwill and support of all the powers in endeavoring to maintain peace in Eastern Asia, and in seeking to uphold the integrity and independence of the Chinese Empire and the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations in that Empire.

On the other hand, the interests of the contracting parties are of a kind upon which they are fully entitled to insist, and the announcement that

The Kaiser and M. Witte Talk of Curbing "Yellow Peril."

New York, Sept. 27.—While the visit of M. Witte to the German Emperor is stated to be in connection with the coming peace conference at The Hague, the real object of the Russian statesman's interviews with Prince Von Buelow, Baron Richthoff, and Emperor William, is to arrange, declares a Herald dispatch from Berlin, some joint policy to stem the danger christened the "yellow peril" in the far east. According to a Times dispatch from Berlin, the Tageblatt today asserts that the purpose of the recent visit of the Japanese minister to Chancellor Von Buelow was to request an explanation of Emperor William's reported remarks regarding the "yellow peril" to the visiting American congressmen. It is stated that the Japanese minister went away satisfied.

The Alliance Hits Germany

London, Sept. 27. — Sir Charles Dilke, in speaking to the Associated Press, took the position that the new treaty makes no change in the pre-existing status quo, but said it was an inevitable consequence of the new conditions in the far east, and that it was certainly a stronger peace than the previous alliance. He argued that Russia never really was a menace to the Indian frontier, but merely played on the susceptibilities of Great Britain. With regard to Persia, Sir Charles did not believe that Russia would ever risk a quarrel with India. "In reality," said he, "the countries most affected are France and Germany, because to both the new treaty secures possessions which they might have found it impossible to defend. To France the arrangement is entirely satisfactory. With Germany the case may be different, because it deals a blow at the aspirations which Germany is supposed to entertain with regard to the province of Shantung and because Germany's present privileged position in Shantung may become non-existent by reason of the treaty.

"Germany therefore may have some slight feeling of irritation because of the limitation thus imposed. It is only in this respect that the treaty is likely to give rise to any permanent unpleasantness. In all other respects it makes for peace."

MAN SHOT DEAD AT A CHARIVARI

Tragedy Follows the Merry-making at an East Zorra Wedding.

Tavistock, Sept. 27.—Tuesday evening a crowd of young men gathered at the home of Mr. Wagester, concession 17, East Zorra to charivari the daughter and husband who were married in the afternoon. A very few minutes after the demonstration commenced one of the crowd, John Hauch, a young man 21 years of age, fell to the ground, and within a few minutes was dead, killed by a bullet, which entered his left shoulder, and no doubt reached his heart.

It is supposed the bullet was from a revolver in the hands of one of his companions, and was undoubtedly an accident, as the whole affair was being conducted good-naturedly.

The young man was employed on one of the neighboring farms, and was a son of John Hauch, near Petersburg, Ont.

PRICE OF COAL GOES UP

Th s is in Detroit, However - Nothing Doing in London.

The people of Detroit are at present paying $7 a ton for coal. On Oct. 1 they will be called upon to pay an additional 50 cents a ton. Several reasons are given for the advance, among them being a car shortage, the great demand for coal and the possibility of a strike of the miners.

A London dealer was asked today regarding the possibility of an increase in the price here, and he replied that as far as he knew none was to be made. However, it was difficult to say what mail might bring notice of an advance by the mine owners.

They are said to intimate that the mayor's only chance for safety is to "let up" in his efforts to suppress gambling and other vices. A patrolman walks up and down in front of the mayor's house all day, and two stand guard all night.

DISPUTE OVER INTERSWITCHING PURELY ONE BETWEEN ROADS

Makes Not a Cent of Difference to Shippers, Says Pere Marquette.

The little difference which has arisen between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Pere Marquette, re the interchange of cars, does not threaten to become a very serious matter. It was brought to a head recently by the C. P. R. refusing to pay a bill presented for the handling of cars for the C. P. R. onto sidings now controlled by the Pere Marquette, the former company declaring the charges to be excessive.

When the railway commission handed down its ruling some time ago in regard to interswitching, there was no mention made of the Pere Marquette or the Michigan Central. So far as the judgment and the fixing of a tariff went, it only related to the interchange of cars between the C. P. R. and the G. T. R.

The Pere Marquette, since the connection was made with the C. P. R., has handled cars from that company at the same rate as has been charged the Grand Trunk. But this is not satisfactory to the C. P. R. And, in fact, the Pere Marquette appears to be under the impression that the Canadian Pacific is after its business, and does not wish to give the P. M. anything in return.

A Case in Point.

A case of this came up the other day. The McClary Manufacturing Company wanted to ship a carload of stoves to Winnipeg. A Pere Marquette car was loaded with the shipment, and the C. P. R. asked that it be handed over to the Grand Trunk, to be in turn switched to the C. P. R., to be handled to Winnipeg. This the Pere Marquette refused to do. The C. P. R. had refused to pay the charges asked by the P. M., and the later road would only deliver the car to the C. P. R. at St. Thomas, where an agreement between the companies for the interchange of cars exists.

In brief, there is nothing in the law at present to compel the P. M. to handle cars for the C. P. R., and if the C. P. R. could not see its way clear to pay the P. M. the same rate for handling cars as the Grand Trunk pays, then the P. M. would only deliver the cars to the C. P. R. at St. Thomas

This is merely a matter of business for the Pere Marquette. When the shipment was handed over at St. Thomas, the P. M. got a share of the freight rates, but if it were handed over at London to the G. T. R. for the C. P. R., the P. M. would get nothing out of the deal but a few cents for switching.

No Loss to Shippers.

"You may say that the dispute does not mean one cent of difference to the shippers of London," an official of the P. M. told an Advertiser reporter today. "It is simply a little difference between the companies as to who shall get the business of certain shippers.

"We claim that when a car is wanted by shippers located on one of our sidings for shipment over the C. P. R. or any other road, the Pere Marquette should be asked to furnish the car. Instead, the C. P. R. wants us to handle cars for them brought down over the interswitching line by the Grand Trunk. This we will not do. If a shipment is to be made by a shipper on our sidings over another line, we must furnish the cars. We think this is only fair. We have a right to know where the cars are going, and right to get our share of any business which accrues on our sidings.

"The handing over of cars to the C. P. R. at St. Thomas instead of London is no hardship to the shipper. It does not cost him a cent more. But it does mean that we get a share of the freight tariff to which we are entitled.

"And if the C. P. R. had paid our account under protest, instead of practically repudiating it, we would still have handled cars for them as we do for the Grand Trunk. We do not fear the result of the appeal which it is said is to be made to the railway commission. We believe the shippers of London will not be against us, and we hope for a speedy settlement with the C. P. R."

It is understood the Canadian Pacific officials will at once ask for a ruling by the railway commission, and it is not improbable that that body will draft an agreement and tariff which will include the Pere Marquette and the Michigan Central, as well as the C. P. R. and the Grand Trunk.

HELPING HERSELF TO OUR TIMBER

Newfoundland Over Labrador Line Says Quebec.

WOULD GO TO PRIVY COUNCIL

Island Colony Last Year Ignored Invitation to Settle Question —Gouin to Push Matter.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—Feeling that it is desirable to have the boundary between the Province of Quebec and Newfoundland's coast strip along the Labrador Peninsula clearly defined, the Quebec Government, with the approval of the federal authorities, will shortly take steps to have the subject threshed out in the courts.

Newfoundland has for some time been issuing timber licenses in the interior of Labrador. Premier Gouin's intention is to have some of this timber seized, after which the courts will be asked to say whether the island colony had any right to issue the license under which the lumbermen operate. The case will be tried first in the supreme court, and no doubt appealed to the judicial committee of the Privy Council. Over a year ago Canada proposed to Newfoundland a reference of the Labrador boundary dispute to the Privy Council, and inquired whether the island was prepared to accept the ruling of this highest tribunal in the British Empire. The Island Government never even replied to the invitation, and meanwhile goes on disposing of the timber on land that we claim belongs to Canada. The step contemplated by Premier Gouin may led to temporary resentment on the part of the Newfoundlanders, but it is only being taken after careful consideration. If Newfoundland possesses any rights in the region in dispute they should be safe before the Privy Council. On the other hand the Canadian ministers feel that there is an advantage in having the line finally established, so that no further friction may accrue.

In the event of Newfoundland's continuing in her present mind and maintaining her independence of the Canadian confederation, Canada admits Newfoundland's claim to the coast strip of Labrador from Cape Chidley at the entrance of Hudson's Straits to Anise Sablon in Belle Isle Straits. The dispute is as to how far the island colony's jurisdiction extends inland. The crux of the dispute occurs at Hamilton Inlet. Lake Metville, an expansion of the lower part of Hamilton River empties by a narrow channel not more than one mile wide into Hamilton Inlet. Newfoundland counts her coast strip up Lake Metville, while Canada asserts that the latter is simply a salt water lake entirely within our limits.

Council Makes Good Offer To London Tool Company

A $40,000 Loan and Free Water---Company to Consider It But Think Hamilton Would Suit Them Better.

The London Machine Tool Company is lost to London.

This is the opinion of the committee which met Mr. William Yeates, president of the company, today in the mayor's office.

Acting Mayor Stevely explained to Mr. Yeates that the city of London is very anxious to keep the important industry here, and he made the offer on behalf of the city that if a loan of $40,000 is any inducement to the company to remain, a bylaw will be introduced to have the people vote on the proposition. Other inducements in the way of free water and the like would also be extended to the firm.

Can't Wait for Vote.

Mr. Yeates, after listening to the proposition, gave the city no room to hope that the company will stay in London. He pointed out that to take a vote of the people will mean a delay of not less than a month, if it is taken at once, and a delay of several months if it is taken in January. The company cannot wait this long. It must make a move at once, as the shops on Bathurst street have been sold to the Dyment-Baker Lumber Company.

Hamilton Suits Better.

Mr. Yeates declared also, that Hamilton is better suited for the trade of the company than is London. It is the center of the iron industry of Canada. At present the tool company pays freight on goods to bring them from Hamilton to London, and then pays freight again on them to ship them back. These charges will be saved by going to Hamilton. The company will also enjoy low taxation, as its works will be located just outside the city, in the county of Wentworth and the city guarantees the company free water and fire protection. All things considered, he could hold out no hope that the company will remain here, but at the solicitation of Acting Mayor Stevely, he agreed to take the city's offer into his consideration and give a final answer next Monday. His firm had never considered the Berlin proposition, he said.

Acting Mayor Stevely and the other members of the committee were bitterly disappointed. They were not able to see the city solicitor today, as he is in Toronto, but they all felt that if the people sanctioned a loan to the company, there would be no obstacles encountered in the raising of the money.

A dispatch from Hamilton to The Advertiser today says: Thomas Hobson, of Lees, Hobson & Stephens, who has been looking after the London Machine Tool Company's interests in this city, stated this morning he was satisfied the company would come here. He had never been officially notified the company thought of going to Berlin, and was inclined to regard that story as "moonshine."

Another dispatch, from Berlin, says: Berlin will not get the London Machine and Tool Company's foundry, for which negotiations have been in progress for two weeks. At a council meeting this evening to pass a loan bylaw for $40,000 and a free site, a telephone message was received canceling the proceedings, as the company has decided to go to Hamilton.

Subterranean rumblings were quickly followed by the violent rocking of houses and the splitting of inner and outer walls, driving the inmates to seek safety in the open air. In many places fissures a foot wide were opened up, while the level of the ground in the eastern part of the island sank appreciably. The disturbance lasted a minute.

Walked Off a Moving Car And Was Fatally Injured

Sad Death of Mr. J. B. Robinson, of Clifford, While on Visit to the City.

While attempting to alight from a belt line car at the corner of Dundas and Waterloo streets shortly after 7 o'clock last evening, Joseph B. Robinson, of the town of Clifford, near Harriston, was thrown to the ground, sustaining injuries from which he died in Victoria Hospital three hours later.

Mr. Robinson was a brother-in-law of the late United States Customs Inspector Sutherland, who died in this city a short time ago. He had come to London yesterday in connection with the winding up of the Sutherland estate, and was stopping, together with his niece, Miss Jennie A. Sutherland, who is bookkeeper at Victoria Hospital, with a friend of the family, Mrs. John Turner, 567 Maitland street.

After tea, Mr. Robinson declared his intention of going down to Victoria Hospital, to see his niece, as she had not been home for supper, and it was his intention to return to Clifford at once. He boarded a belt line car at the corner of Central avenue and Maitland street, and started down town. When the car was just west of Colborne street, he spoke to the conductor and told him he wanted to go to Victoria Hospital. The conductor explained to Mr. Robinson that he was on the wrong car, and the old gentleman became somewhat excited. Then the conductor told him that he would let him off at the corner of Waterloo, where he could take a South street belt car for the hospital. Thereupon Mr. Robinson, who was sitting near the rear, arose and started toward the platform. The conductor pulled the bell cord, and Mr. Robinson, not appearing to know what he was doing, descended to the bottom step, and walked off the car.

At the time the trolley was slowing up, but the car was about 100 feet from the corner. Mr. Robinson struck the ground with awful force, alighting on his head.

When picked up he was unconscious, and he was carried into the office of Dr. Piper, on the corner of Dundas and Waterloo streets. Dr. Moore was also summoned, and the ambulance was called. An examination by the physicians showed the base of the skull to be fractured, and it was evident that death was only a matter of a very short time. He was removed to Victoria Hospital, where he died

NEW BRITISH-JAP FAR EAST TREATY

those interests must be safeguarded is one which can create no surprise, and need give rise to no misgivings."

Special mention is made of articles 2 and 3. Of the latter Lord Lansdowne says: "It recognizes in the clearest terms the paramount position which Japan at this moment occupies, and must henceforth occupy in Korea, and her right to take the measures which she may find necessary for the protection of her political, military and economic interests in that country.

"It is, however, expressly provided that such measures must not be contrary to the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of other nations.

"The treaty at this point differs conspicuously from that of 1902.

"It has, however, become evident that Korea, owing to its close proximity to the Japanese Empire, and its inability to stand alone, must fall under the control and tutelage of Japan. His majesty's Government observes with satisfaction that this point has been readily conceded by Russia in the treaty of peace, and there is every reason to believe that similar views are held by the other powers with regard to the relations which should subsist between Korea and Japan.

"His majesty's Government ventures to anticipate that the alliance thus concluded, designed, as it is, for objects that are purely peaceful and for the protection of rights and interests, the validity of which cannot be contested, will be regarded with approval by the Government to which you are accredited.

"The British Government is justified in believing that the conclusion of this alliance may not have been without effect in facilitating the settlement by which the war was so happily brought to an end, and its members earnestly trust that the alliance may for years to come be instrumental in securing the peace of the world in those regions which come within its scope."

A similar dispatch was addressed to Sir Francis Bertie, the British ambassador at Paris.

Treaty Pleases London.

London, Sept. 27.—The pithy articles of the official text of the agreement between Great Britain and Japan bring out forcefully the tremendous importance to both countries of this alliance, which practically makes Great Britain Japan and Japan Great Britain for the purpose of defense in the regions of East Asia and India.

This inclusion of India specifically as a point at which any aggression by a foreign power will call for the assistance of Japan finds much favor with the press of London, the morning papers containing laudatory articles, welcoming the new and more extensive alliance of the two insular kingdoms west and east as giving immediate relief from the dangerous thundercloud which, for so many years, has hung over the Indian frontier.

Baron Hayashi, who was interviewed after the publication of the agreement, said: "The new treaty forms an affective safeguard against the renewal of disturbances in the far east. That it its object. We can not say that a permanent peace has been secured, but we can aver that tranquility has been assured for a long time to come. It should be clearly recognized by all that the treaty is not meant as a menace to any one."

While there is some criticism of the treaty in the radical newspapers, it is only half-hearted, and, as a whole, London heaves a sigh of relief and greets with great satisfaction the positive assurance of the future assistance of a powerful Oriental ally.

Grey Gets Good Bag.

Winnipeg, Sept. 26.—Lord Grey visited Fort Qu'Appelle yesterday, riding from his camp at the lakes.

He had lunch with Arch McDonald, chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Company, and proceeded to the File Hills, where he will see the Indians, returning here Wednesday.

The weather was ideal, and his excellency enjoyed the ride through the valley.

The shooting at the head of the lakes has been good and the vice-regal party have secured good bags.

A SHINING MARK

"Here he is," said the marquis. "Handsome fellow, isn't he? Regular Carr-Lyon face. Looks as if he had gone through rather, a heavy mill doesn't he? How d'ye do, Carr-Lyon. Going to join the majority?" and he jerked his head towards the saloon.

Desmond nodded and passed on. This question had set him asking himself another one. Why had he come here tonight, he who had shunned his fellowmen for two long years? Why should he add one more to this jostling and perspiring crowd? He stopped with a slight frown at the door-way and half-turned; then some people pushed him forward with a muttered apology, and he found himself in the room and shaking hands with the poor duchess.

"Ah, Lord Carr-Lyon!" she said, her set smile and regulation voice changing for one of genuine welcome. "How good of you to come. They all told me that I should not succeed in getting you; that the hermit never left his shell! It is good of you! You will find a great many who will be glad to see you."

He bowed over the hand, and with a suitable response, then made his way through the crowd. In a very few moments he got tired and impatient of the melee, and finding a vacant corner, got into it, and leaning against the wall with folded arms, lapsed into thought.

For two years he had been wandering about the world; shunning the cities, and clinging to the wilds with that instinct which the wounded man shows with the lower animal, the instinct that tells man that the only cure for the deadly hurt is solitude and rest.

And all that time he had continued to think of the girl he had loved, and still loved; to dream of her by night, to muse over the memory of her by day.

And at last he had come back. He heard that she was under the shelter of Lady Warner's wing, that she was acknowledged to be the most beautiful and charming woman in London, and the longing to see her, to be somewhere near her, if only for a few hours, took possession of him and mastered him.

He had come back, but he had not yet seen her. With all his courage he had shrunk from calling upon her, as an ordinary acquaintance might have done. His heart beat with a wild throbbing at the mere thought of meeting her, and he did not know whether he feared or longed for it most.

You see, he had gone through an ordeal which, like fire, though it may not utterly destroy, leaves its scars behind.

Even at this moment, as he looked at the brilliant, chattering crowd, he was far away, away in the quarry, with Kate in his arms, and—alas! alas! —loving, true-hearted Nellie dying at his feet.

He was so absorbed with these shadows of the past, mingling with the intense craving to see Kate, that he did not see the notice he was attracting, and that people were watching him with a covert, but eager curiosity as they whispered his name to one another, and told the romantic story of his life.

"Most extraordinary man, my dear," murmured one old lady to another. "Hid himself for years, even after that dreadful man, Arthur Carr-Lyon, had been murdered by that still more dreadful woman. Only just come back from—somewhere or other. Oh, most extraordinary! Did you hear what he did with that place in Devonshire which Arthur Carr-Lyon had built?—Lidcote, Lyncote, or something like that. Turned it into a convelescent home for sick children. He did, indeed! Rich? Of course, immensely rich. The Carr-Lyon place, Caresford, is one of the best in England. What a match for some girl, for they say he is as good and nice as he is handsome."

"Yes? Well, I'm sure we ought to be very much obliged to him," said her companion, who was rather a nice old lady.

"Obliged to him. Why, my dear?" demanded the first, with a little surprise.

"Because he has restored our belief in the romantic." was the reply. "We had got to think that there was no romance left—excepting in the pages of a novel—and it is quite refreshing to find that a man can be a hero, and look it at the same time," she added, glancing approvingly at Desmond's tall figure and handsome face. "He doesn't seem to be enjoying the sensation he is creating—doesn't seem to know that he is creating any, which is rather ungrateful, isn't it? Look! I fancy he is actually going."

He was going. With the same preoccupied expression he left his corner and made his way towards one of the numerous exits.

As he did so, while he was in the middle of a crowd going in the other direction, he heard a voice behind him which sent the blood rushing to his face, and caused him to start and turn so abruptly that he came in sad collision with a rather stout old gentleman who had scarcely breath left to respond to his apology.

It was the voice of Kate—the voice that had haunted his dreams and echoed in his heart for two weary, restless years!

He looked in the direction it had come, eagerly, and after a moment he saw her.

Even then his emotion was so great that he almost shrank from going to her. But he was spared the exertion. She turned suddenly and came towards him, her lovely eyes almost as preoccupied as his, fixed above his head. Then her eyes fell, and—she saw him!

Like him, she stopped, and her face became suffused; but the next moment it resumed its pallor, and her hand went with an uncertain movement to her heart, as she stood and waited.

He went up to her and held out his hand, trying to speak her name, to greet her in the ordinary fashion; but no word would come, and they stood looking at each other in silence, bridging, by that look, the years that had separated them.

She, woman-like, was the first to recover her courage and her speech.

"Lord Carr-Lyon!" she said, and there was a strange quiver in her voice. "This—this is a surprise, Lady Warner—" and she looked round with piteous nervousness.

"Lady Warner is in the rose-house, my dear," said a lady near them.

His wits had come back to him, and he offered her his arm.

"Let me take you to her," he said.

She laid the tips of her fingers on his arm; he could feel them trembling, and they passed into a conservatory filled with roses.

Neither Lady Warner nor anyone else was there save themselves, and Kate drew back a little, as if she meant retreating; but he put his hand upon hers and held it.

"Kate," he said in a low voice, "are you afraid of me? Why do you shrink from me?"

She averted her face, her lips quivering.

"I—did not shrink," she faltered. "I —"

She seemed unable to continue, and sank into a chair, her face still averted.

He stood looking down at her, with a storm of emotion raging in his heart. The sight of her lovely face, the sound of her voice, had so unnerved him that he scarcely knew whether pleasure or pain predominated.

At last he said:

"I—I did not know you were in London. I only returned from Africa a few days ago."

"Yes?" she said; then she went on, hurriedly, "Oh, yes, we have been in London since the season began. Lady Warner wished it, and I—I—she has been very kind, very, very kind to me."

"Heaven bless her!" he said in a low voice.

This made her lips quiver still more ominously.

A NEW KIMBERLEY IN CANADA WILDS

Precious Gems To Be Found in New Ontario

FROM LAKES TO HUDSON BAY

Some Big Stones Have Been Discovered—Toronto Scientists Bring Out Fine Specimens.

Fort Francis, Sept. 25.—Old mining men and prospectors in this region did not need to be told by Dr. Ami of the Geological Survey that great diamond wealth lay hidden in that part of Canada between the great lakes and Hudson Bay. In the Rainy River district, and in the auriferous valley of the Seine many diamonds have been obtained from Indians and French-Canadian voyagers, who had picked them up in their wanderings without any idea of their character and value.

At the hamlet Mine Center, in the Seine River country, George R. Douglass is the resident agent and assayer for the Rothschild interests. Mr. Douglass was long a resident of South Africa. He says the geological conformation of the Rainy Lake and Seine territories is almost identical with that of the Kimberley district, which has given to the world the famous diamond mines.

Forty miles from the mouth of the Big Fork River, which empties into the Rainy from Northern Minnesota, are many ancient mounds whose origin extends beyond the traditions of the Ojibways. Until recently these mounds were inviolate, for they are in a wild region but little visited by white men and accessible only by canoe.

One summer, however, a party of scientists from the University of Toronto came out to explore them. From one of the mounds on which a sturdy oak was growing, a large human skeleton perfectly preserved was exhumed.

It was not that of an Indian, and in the cavity whence it was taken were evidences of prehistoric civilization, in the form of articles of pottery, some stamped with unique and beautiful designs. Around the skeleton's neck was a massive band of pure copper, and on its bosom rested a curiously wrought necklace of the same metal, into which were interwoven shells and colored stones.

What arrested the attention of the exploring party, however, was a stone which gleamed from the center of a pendant to the necklace. At first it was judged to be nothing more than a clear piece of quartz, but closer examination and testing proved that it was a diamond.

Although half a dozen mounds were opened up before the party left the region, and copper ornaments and pottery were found, with skeletons in all of them, no more diamonds were unearthed.

On their return the party met a band of Ojibways, to whom the articles found in the mounds were shown, in the hope of obtaining traditions concerning their origin. As to the copper the Indians were ignorant, but they grunted disdainfully when the pottery and the diamond were shown.

Specimens of the former, they said, could be obtained in almost any quantity from the remains of an ancient pottery works that once existed on the banks of the Big Fork, near the Big Falls, a few miles up the stream, while in the same region glittering stones of the sort the palefaces seemed to regard so highly had frequently been found.

Stratled by the information, the Toronto party pushed on to the Big Falls, which marked in old days the disputed boundary between the Hudson Bay Company and John Jacob Astor's American Fur Company. There they found an old hermit squatter, Dan Campbell.

He took them to the ancient pottery field opposite his cabin, and, what was more, brought from a pouch which he carried stones which in purity and brilliancy greatly exceeded the one found by his visitors. These stones he had found in the course of his 30 years living by the Big Fork, while scratching the surface of the pottery field with his hunting knife.

Old Dan had no idea that his finds were anything more than quartz despite the care with which he had preserved them. So skeptical was he of his visitors' assertions that the stones were diamonds that he intrusted them to their care to be appraised in Toronto and their value sent to him. Nor were the party mistaken in their judgment. The four stones were pronounced to be real gems of an aggregate weight of twelve carats and worth $2,500.

Mr. Douglass was sitting in the trading post at Mine Center one afternoon when a young buck and his squaw entered to exchange pelts for provisions. They had come by canoe 50 miles down the Seine Valley.

Strapped to a birch bark frame the mother carried a pappoose on her back. She took off the frame and leaned the mummified looking youngster against the counter while she joined in her husband's dickering with the storekeeper.

Mr. Douglass noticed that the young redskin held something firmly in his hand, which every now and then, after gazing upon it, he attempted to put into his mouth, but was prevented by the vigilant mother. Curious to see what kind of toy the Indian baby had Mr. Douglass pried open his little brown fist, and there lay scintillating a diamond as large as a hazel nut. There was no mistake about it.

In astonishment he inquired of the squaw where she found the gem.

"Oh, it," she replied, contemptuously, in her guttural tongue. "My man picked it up when he was getting the poles for our tepee up the river."

Douglass pulled out a $20 bill and offered it to the squaw for the stone. But paper money has little significance for the Ojibway in the wilds of Canada.

A gleam of avarice shot into the squaw's eyes and tightened the corners of her mouth as she saw how anxious the white man was to get her baby's plaything.

She shook her head and grunted a decided negation. Douglass smiled, for he knew the Ojibway character.

"Give me all the chicken feed you've got," he said to the trader.

The storekeeper emptied a sack on the counter, containing about $10 in small change. The squaw's eyes and those of the buck glittered.

"Here," said Douglass, as he shoved the coins toward them, "give me the stone."

In a thrice the mother snatched the gem from the pappoose and tossed it over to Douglass. The diamond was taken to Toronto and appraised, valued at nearly $1,000.

To Rainy Lake town drifted Jim Ropes, a prospector for the yellow metal, after spending the money he had obtained by the sale of a gold mine discovered by him in Michigan, and also known by his name. Ropes' days of activity were nearly over, and about the best he could do was to pass judgment on samples of quartz brought to him by less experienced prospectors.

One day a thrifty French-Canadian squaw man named Le Febre came to the camp from the Seine district. On his gaudy brass watch chain hung a sparkling stone which he had made into a charm by twisting some wire about it. He ran into Ropes in the barroom of the hotel of the camp, and with ugly demeanor demanded that Ropes buy him a drink.

The old prospector's eyes had caught sight of the stone dangling from the squaw man's chain and another glance was sufficient.

"That's a pretty piece of quartz you've got there," remarked Ropes quietly, "If you'll give it to me I'll buy all the drinks you want."

The man glowered at the prospector for an instant, undecided whether he was being guyed, but Ropes' countenance was serious. Le Febre tore the stone from its setting and snapped it over to his companion with a loud guffaw.

"By gar, I guess youse want it worse dan I do," he remarked. "Now let's get those drinks pretty damn quick."

In two hours Le Febre was snoring in a drunken stupor on the floor of the shack, while old Ropes with his purchase was paddling to Fort Francis thence to make his way back, the worse for wear and poor whisky, but carrying in his pocket a part of the $1,500 for which he had sold the diamond that had cost him a bar bill of 85 cents.

THEY CLEANSE THE SYSTEM THOROUGHLY.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills clear the stomach and bowels of bilious matter, cause the excretory vessels to throw off impurities from the blood into the bowels, and expel the deleterious mass from the body. They do this without pain or inconvenience to the patient, who speedily realizes their good offices as soon as they begin to take effect. They have strong recommendations from all kinds of people.

Figures may not lie, but figures of speech are often misleading.

VERY MANY PERSONS die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

A pessimist is a man who knows a lot about himself and but little about his neighbors.

IT RETAINS OLD AND MAKES NEW FRIENDS.—Time was when Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil had but a small field of distribution, but now its territory is widespread. Those who first recognized its curative qualities still value it as a specific, and while it retains its old friends it is ever making new. It is certain that whoever once uses it will not be without it.

BOLD WORDS FROM RUSS STUDENTS

Make Fiery Anti-Government Speeches.

AND SING THE "MARSEILLAISE"

Decide to Reopen University, as It Would Thus Prove More Dangerous to Imperialism.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 26. — Following a long and earnest debate concerning the question of the resumption of work the students of St. Petersburg University decided today by a large majority to resume their studies, "because an open university will be more dangerous to imperialism than a university on strike."

For five hours a mass of two thousand students stood closely packed in the assembly of the university, listening to a series of heated but remarkably able speeches from student orators. Nearly all the speakers were members of the socialistic group, and many were out-and-out revolutionists, and a stranger, listening to the fiery debate, would have little idea that he was in Russia, supposed to be a land where free speech is not permitted. No voice was raised in favor of the Government. All the speakers united in the idea that the present concessions are unsatisfactory, and that it is necessary to continue the reform propaganda. But they differed as to whether it would be better to continue the strike or reopen the university as a center of agitation, or even as "a temple of revolution." Students from other factions, who were thinking of continuing their education other than furthering the work of reform, abandoned the forum to the agitators, but when the vote was taken they snowed under those who wished to continue the strike. Revolutionary proclamations were several times showered from the galleries, and the students sang the "Marseillaise." But the meeting was far more orderly than that of Feb. 20, during which a portrait of the Emperor was destroyed. Neither police nor troops were visible in the vicinity of the university.

The preamble to the resolution adopted declares that the national assembly in its present form was not truly representative, that it ignores the workmen, and that the students are not satisfied with teh autonomy granted to the universities, but that the strike has lost its particular significance, and that the opening of the universities will mobilize the student forces, and enable them to co-operate with other influences in the great work for liberty.

Therefore it was resolved to end the strike until a more favorable moment, and to reopen the universities, which is more dangerous to imperialism than a university on strike.

The university will reopen on Sept. 28th.

WALKED OFF A MOVING CAR

shortly after 10 o'clock, the accident having occurred at 7:20.

The car upon which Mr. Robinson was riding was No. 108, and it was in charge of Conductor W. J. Nicholls, of 29 Bathurst street, and Motorman Fred Newman. After the accident the conductor made the following statement: "I pulled the bell for the car to stop, and then went into the car to collect a fare. The car was about 75 feet from Waterloo street, and was slowing up. The old gentlemen walked right off the car before it had stopped."

This statement is borne out by the testimony of Mr. Charles Turner, assistant tax collector of London, who was riding on the rear platform when the accident occurred:

"I heard the conductor tell the old gentleman that he was on the wrong car, and I naturally looked toward him, as it struck me that he was a stranger. Then Mr. Robinson walked onto the platform, descending to the lower step. The next moment I saw the old man walk off the car as though it was standing still. He struck the ground with terrific force, alighting on his head.

"The conductor had pulled the bell and the car was slowing up, but the trolley must have been 100 feet from the corner of Waterloo street.

"It seems to me that the old gentleman was so excited he did not know what he was doing. He simply walked off the car like a man in a dream."

Circumstances in connection with the death of Mr. Robinson render it extremely sad. On the 21st day of July last his wife died, and she was buried in London. Then on July 24 the death of his brother-in-law, the late Mr. Sutherland, took place, his own death making the third in the family within a few months.

Last night his niece, Miss Sutherland, was awaiting his coming at the hospital, but instead of greeting her, as she expected, he was carried into the hospital on a stretcher. Since the death of her father, Miss Sutherland had relied solely upon her uncle to transact the business in connection with the winding up of the estate for her, and his death comes as a terrible blow.

A curious incident in connection with the accident is that though Mr. Robinson was stopping with Mrs. Turner, of Maitland street, Mr. Charles Turner, who witnessed the accident, and who is a son of the lady mentioned, was not aware of the fact. He did not recognize the old gentleman until he returned at night, and visited his mother, who lives next door to him. Then he learned that the victim of the mishap was his mother's guest.

The late Mr. Robinson, who was about 65 years of age, is survived by his brother, Dr. Henry Robinson, of Port Elgin, who arrived in this city today to make arrangements for the funeral, which will be held from Ferguson's undertaking parlors.

'TWAS A GALA DAY FOR AILSA CRAIG

The Northern Fair a Decided Success—Record-Breaker in Most Branches.

Ailsa Craig, Sept. 27. — The fortieth annual fair of the North Middlesex and East Williams Agricultural Societies (the Northern Fair) was held yesterday in the town of Ailsa Craig, the day being an ideal one. There was no doubt in the minds of the directors as to the success of the show. The business men of the town and many private citizens decorated their places of business and homes with flags and bunting, giving the town quite a holiday appearance.

Every department of the fair was ahead of previous years, with the exception of fruit. The excellent facilities for handling all kinds of farm stock have been the means of bringing out many fine specimens, and the work of the judges was in many cases extremely difficult.

The roots and vegetables were excellent, especially so in mangels and potatoes.

In the ladies' department some very fine articles were exhibited.

In fine arts there were many fine paintings and sketches.

The breads, buns and pies looked to be very fine, but as your correspondent was not allowed to sample them he could not pass judgment on them, as "the proof of the pudding is in the eating."

There was a large display of poultry, G. & J. Bogue, of Strathroy; A. Reith, Lucan, and C. V. Cassidy, Ailsa Craig, being the largest exhibitors. Mr. William McNeil, of London, placed the ribbons on the poultry and gave entire satisfaction.

Sheep were a larger class than last year and some vrey fine animals were shown. Mr. W. H. Beattie, of Pond Mills, placed the awards.

In heavy horses and Shorthorns is where the Northern Fair excels. All classes of horses were well represented, but in the heavy draft class some remarkably fine animals were shown, and gave the judge, Peter McGregor, of Brucefield, many difficult points to decide. Mr. W. R. Elliott, of Centralia, was the judge in the light horses, and had close decisions to make.

The pink-lemonade and three-balls-for-a-nickel men were on hand, as usual.

A special feature this year—tried for the first time—was a prize for the best dressed and marched school. The prize was a $15 flag, and was won by the Ailsa Craig school under the direction of John McWilliams, teacher, who deserves great credit for the excellent work of the school.

The Ailsa Craig Band furnished the music during the day, and was very much appreciated by the large crowd on the grounds. Below will be found a summary of the speeding, only one race being put on, as the 2:40 event did not fill:

2:20 trot or pace, three in five—

Col. Hunter	1	1	1
Hazel Hal	2	2	2
Fred Lee	3	3	3

Time—2:28, 2:32, 2:24.

A fine concert was given in the skating rink in the evening and was largely attended. This was the final act in the great Northern Fair of 1905.

LADIES WILL WORK

Auxiliary to Aid in Furnishing Y. M. C. A. Boys' Department.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. met yesterday afternoon, and had a combination business and social session. It was the opening meeting of the season, and quite a large number of ladies were present. Rev. J. W. Graham, pastor of the First Methodist Church, led the devotional exercises of the meeting and spoke very highly of the work of the association throughout the country and the importance of the co-operation of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The ladies have planned for a bazar to be held in the afternoon and evening of Oct. 19, the proceeds of which will go to the furnishing of the boys' department of the association. A great many ladies have contributed articles, and others will be gratefully received by friends of the association.

Great Britain and Japan.

The new Anglo-Japanese treaty, the text of which was given to the public yesterday, is even wider in scope than announced in the newspaper forecasts. The unofficial versions stated that Japan had engaged to come to Great Britain's assistance only in the event of attack upon British possessions in Asia. The new treaty pledges each to assist the other without limitation. They stand shoulder to shoulder the world over. The former treaty provided for joint action only in case either Great Britain or Japan was involved in war with two other powers, but this restriction also disappears.

The new convention is primarily aimed at Russia. The third article recognizes Japan's paramount political, military and economic interests in Korea, and her right to take "such measures for the guidance, control and protection of Korea as she may deem proper and necessary" to safeguard and advance her interests. In the fourth article Japan recognizes the right of Great Britain to take such measures in the proximity of the Indian frontier as she may find necessary for safeguarding her Indian possessions. Korea and India are balanced against each other.

The duration of the treaty is ten years, during which Great Britain will be able to complete Kitchener's plans for the reorganization of the Indian defenses, and Japan will recover to a large extent from her financial exhaustion, and have a free hand in the development of her plans in Korea and Sakhalin. At the end of ten years it is altogether probable that Great Britain and Japan will renew an alliance which is an effectual check upon their common enemy. Great Britain is a match for any three powers on the ocean, and Japan has the greatest army in the world, with the possible exception of Germany. Such a union is absolutely impregnable in the far east. With her ocean communications protected by the British fleet against any possible naval combination, Japan can contrive to control the situation on the mainland. So long as they stand together, Russia cannot be formidable for a generation at least. She must work out her grave internal problems before she can again play an aggressive role, or serve as a British bugbear. The object of the Anglo-Japanese alliance is purely defensive, and ought to be welcomed as a pledge of peace.

The Cubans on Trial.

The capacity of the Cuban people for self-government is being put to a searching test. So far they have acquitted themselves well. President Palma's administration has given the island stable and progressive government, and brought about conditions of security which have encouraged foreign investors. Capital has poured into the country to build railways and develop its great natural resources. Happily, the first years of the republic have coincided with great material prosperity, due largely to the revival of the sugar industry and the favored treatment of Cuban products in the United States market.

President Palma's first term expires in December, and he entered the field for re-election as the candidate of the so-called Moderate party. His opponents, who call themselves Liberals, nominated Gomez, a hero of the revolution. The ensuing turmoil has cast a shadow over the hopes of Cuba's well-wishers. The President is reported to have taken an unscrupulous advantage of his position. He is said to have used all the machinery of the Government to promote his success at the polls, and in some localities blood has been shed. Palma has received a preponderant majority of the votes, but the Liberals claim they were terrorized at the polls. They threaten an armed uprising against the Government, or an appeal to Washington. The United States recognized the independence of Cuba with some reservations, comprised in what is known as the Platt amendment. One clause of this amendment provides that the United States may interfere in Cuba if life, property and individual liberty are not adequately protected. It is presumed that this clause will not be acted upon unless the situation becomes extreme.

It may be that the character of the Cuban people, and their inexperience of responsible government, call for strong and even arbitrary rule. The results may not be alarming if Palma proves to be a wise and benevolent despot of the same class as Diaz of Mexico. Better that than the anarchy of some of the South American republics.

Growing London.

The fact that 500 houses have been erected in London this year is one evidence that the city is fully sharing in the growth of the country. The municipal census will probably show an increase of 1,500 in population, and at least a million dollars in assessment values.

London is regarded as pre-eminently a residential city, a beautiful city of beautiful homes, but it has some of the solidest and oldest-established industries in Canada. If we are not getting new industries as rapidly as some municipalities, our old establishments have greatly expanded in the last few years, and the city, in wealth and population, has held its own with more strenuous rivals. One reason for its growth is the magnificent territory which is tributary to it. A circle of a hundred miles in diameter drawn around London would include a larger area of fertile land and a greater number of prosperous towns and villages than a similar circle drawn around any of the larger cities of Canada. For this magnificent section London is the natural distributing center, and its unsurpassed railway facilities permit it to take the fullest advantage of its position.

London has grown, and will continue to grow because its foundations are deep-laid in the riches of the soil.

Wanted to See.

[Cleveland Leader.]

"Ma caught me lookin' through the keyhole at sister an' her beau."

"Gee! Did she lick yeh?"

"Naw! But she made me give her the place."

Some Lively Old Boys.

[New York World.]

How the gay old boys of 90 and thereabouts persist in making places for themselves in the news columns of the daily press!

Jacob Kinney, of Henrico county, Va., is about to marry, at 90, a seventh wife. He has 44 children. Daniel T. Jewett, 99, and the oldest living Harvard student, is practicing law in St. Louis. William Rankin, pioneer hat-maker of Vermont, is active at 95. Dennis Druly, 90, of Richmond, Ind., has the whooping-cough. James B. McGregor, of Newport, N. H., oldest New England Mason, has just celebrated his 104th birthday. Robert Miller, 85, of Maine, took his first drink in 40 years while on a visit to New York, and repented of the indiscretion in Magistrate Breen's court. One of the voters at the Democratic primaries in the fifteenth assembly district was James Kelly, 96.

Among a younger generation Peter Lorilliard Ronalds, 78, recently drove a four-in-hand 1,000 miles, and William M. Stewart, also 78, forty-niner and half a century in public life, has started in to make another fortune. Two who snapped their fingers at superannuation to the last were James Boshare, oldest citizen of Northern New York, who died at Bombay, aged 107—his hair still black—and Isaac Leonard, oldest Chicagoan, dead at 102.

There are patriarchs in the earth in these days also. A round-robin of greeting from the survivors of this group of old boys to Prof. Osler at Oxford would no doubt be read with interest by that philosopher of premature euthanasia. At 60 these fine fellows were but beginning to live.

Boxed British Apples.

[Westminster Gazette.]

At last attempts will be made this season to distribute British apples to the public in unchangeable boxes. The business will be started from two centers, Worcester and Hereford. Last year over 1,000,000 boxes of imported apples were consumed by the British public. This year 1,500,000 boxes will be unshipped in our ports, but they will now have to face competition from the English grower. The Great Western Railway Company is doing its best to encourage the new departure. At White Cross Bridge, Hereford, an extensive warehouse has been erected, adjoining the line for the reception and dispatch of the boxed fruit. It is expected that 5,000 boxes of these apples will be offered to the public during the present season. If the venture is attended with the success expected, the promoters claim that next year they will pack and distribute 50,000 boxes of these fruits alone.

The Best Court of Appeal.

[London Daily Mail.]

No one could say a sharp or bitter thing with more absolute coolness than Lord Westbury, who was made lord chancellor of England in 1861.

After retiring from the office of lord chancellor he took a very active part in the House of Lords, sitting as a court of appeal, where his colleagues were Lord Chelmsford and Lord Colonsay. Lord St. Leonards, who was senior to them all, never attended. One day Lord Westbury chanced to meet him, and said: "My dear St. Leonards, why don't you come and give us your valuable assistance in the House of Lords?"

"Ah," said Lord St. Leonards, "I should be of no use. I am old, and blind, and stupid."

"My dear lord," said Westbury, "that does not signify in the least. I am old, Chelmsford is blind, and Colonsay is stupid; yet we make the very best court of appeal which has ever sat in that assembly."

A Fable of Two Maidens.

[Baltimore American.]

Once there Were Two Maidens who Sought to Catch a Nice Young Man, who also Was a Good Thing. And it was a False Start in the Eyes of the Undiscerning, for the One was Exceeding Fair to Look upon, and Dressed Stylishly, while the Other was Plain of Countenance, and her Rat was Always Showing through her Pompadour. The Pretty Girl Smiled Sweetly on the Nice Young Man, who was also a Good Thing, and Talked to Him, till She Dazzled Him with her Beauty and charmed Him with her Wit. The Plain One gazed Wonderingly at him, and Made Him Talk to Her of Divers Things, while She Listened, Entranced at his Wisdom and Learning. He took the Pretty Girl out Riding and to the Theater, and Bought her Candy and Flowers, and All the Knowing Ones said She had struck a Winning Gait on the Homestretch, when One Day he Married the Plain Girl and took her on an Automobile Wedding Tour of Europe.

The Pretty Girl had Made Him Very much Pleased with Her, but the Plain Girl had Gone her One Better, and Made him Very much More Pleased with Himself.

TOPICS OF TALK IN THAMESFORD

Farewell and Presentation to Rev. Mr. Wright—Concert to Aid the Library.

Thamesford, Sept. 27.—The English Church and rectory were the scene of considerable interest the latter part of last week, which grew out of Rev. T. G. A. Wright's decision to accept a parish at Walkerton, and on Friday morning many of the citizens turned out to give a willing hand in loading the rector's household effects in the cars. When night came this task was satisfactorily accomplished, but another event of greater importance followed, when many other citizens gathered to give Mr. and Mrs. Wright a farewell reception, and to express the general regret felt at their departure. Mr. Clendenning took the chair, and after a few introductory remarks called up Rev. Mr. Daunt to read an address, during which Mr. and Mrs. Wright were presented with a purse of $50 in gold. Mr. Wright replied in feeling terms, thanking the friends not only for their present kindness, but for the many favors they had received from the people of Thamesford since coming here six years ago. Short addresses were given by Dr. McWilliam, Rev. T. A. Watson, Rev. Mr. Daunt and others, all testifying to the worth of Mr. and Mrs. Wright, not only as moral examples, but as true citizens in every sense of the word. On Sunday Mr. Wright preached his farewell sermons. Large congregations were present at both services, who listened intently to two powerful discourses. Mr. and Mrs. Wright and family left on Monday morning for their new home.

Mrs. Webb has secured a house in Ingersoll, and will move with her family in a few days.

Mrs. Day and little Marion Whithen, who have been seriously ill with typhoid fever, are now improving, and they will be around again in a short time.

Mrs. Mills, sen., Mrs. George Mills and Mrs. McLellan attended the Woodstock fair on Thursday.

The corn is being cut rapidly just now, and "corn bees" are the order of the day. It is a great crop, and many of the silos are not able to contain the abundant yield.

Mrs. (Dr.) McWilliam was in Toronto last week, visiting friends.

Mr. John Borland, who was so seriously injured last week by falling from the roof of Mr. John McKay's house, is improving as fast as can be expected, and it is now thought there will be no permanent bad results therefrom. He is still at the home of Mr. McKay, and is resting easily.

The Thamesford fair takes place on Oct. 11. Many entries have come in and the promise is that the exhibition will prove a record-breaker. The directors are sparing no pains to make this the event of the season, and it is hoped that a large number will show their appreciation of the efforts being put forth by their presence at the grounds on that day.

The Thamesford public library board have decided to hold a grand concert in the town hall on fair night, Oct. 11. The services of Mr. Eddie Piggott, of Toronto, one of the leading comedians of Ontario, have been secured. He will be assisted by artists from London, as well as by local talent. As many as possible should make it a point to be present. The library needs your help. It is a worthy cause, and you will certainly get the worth of your money.

Mrs. Lutz and family are visiting friends in St. Thomas. They will not return until their house, which is undergoing repairs, is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Sare, of London, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Smith, 11th line.

We regret to have to chronicle the death of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lumley, which took place on Saturday night. The funeral was held on Monday, and was largely attended. The sympathy of the community is extended to the parents.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mott, of the 11th line, took place on Saturday, and was attended by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Our sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Mr. Ed. Murray shipped a car of hogs on Monday. The price was about $6 25.

Sunday was children's day at the Presbyterian Church. A large number were present, and listened to a carefully-prepared discourse by the pastor.

There is a big rush for apple barrels just now, and the coopers are not able to supply the demand, although a good force is engaged at the work.

Dr. Smith, of Embro, spent Monday night here.

Several from here will attend St. Marys fair this week.

SAY DOYLE IS SANE

Man Charged With Matricide Knows Right From Wrong.

Brantford, Sept. 26.—The fate of Felix Doyle, charged with the murder of his mother, still hangs in the balance. The trial practically concluded this evening.

The judge's charge will be the first thing tomorrow.

Witnesses were heard from half-past 9 this morning till 7 o'clock this evening.

The greater part of the evidence was the same as at the preliminary hearing, telling of the different stories concocted by the prisoner, as he said, to make people believe something, and stop all the lies that were going around.

County Constable Montgomery and Detective Greer told of the finding of the blood-stained and iron-bound club, which Felix had said had "killed mother."

It developed that he had taken the club to the gate to substantiate his robber theory, had brought it back, hiding it in a pig pen, and finally, had voluntarily produced it.

The evidence in which the greatest interest was evidenced was that of Dr. Johnson, of Toronto, and Dr. Russell, of Hamilton.

These two experts in mental diseases gave the prisoner an examination during the noon adjournment. Dr. Russell had previously examined Doyle last March. Both physicians, when under the scrutiny of the lawyers, stated that Doyle was not insane, though he acted peculiar at times.

Doyle had given the doctors some clever answers during his examination.

It was true, they said, that he was of a low type, a degenerate, but still they were of the opinion that he knew the difference between right and wrong. Neither did they think he was a victim of impulsive insanity.

DIED IN ARIZONA

Mr. Everett Benton, of Tillsonburg, a Victim of White Plague.

Tillsonburg, Sept. 27. — The death is announced from Phoenix, Arizona, of Everett Benton, who left here for that place a few weeks ago for the benefit of his health. Consumption was the cause of his death.

Mr. Benton had been for some years past employed on the Tillsonburg, Lake Erie and Pacific Railway, lately as superintendent of motive power.

He was a son of the late C. Benton, who was the first master mechanic of the Canada Southern Railway, now the Canada Southern Railway division of the M. C. R.

SANATORIUM FOR HAMILTON

Ambitious City Will Take Proper Care of Consumptives.

The Hamilton Herald says:

That Hamilton will have a consumption sanatorium on the mountain is now a certainty. The exact location and other details have yet to be arranged, but things have progressed to such an extent that it will be possible to care for consumptives within a very few days now. Relief Officer McMenemy fathered the scheme for a long time, and has done a lot of good work. His scheme will be carried out through the gifts of the generous citizens of Hamilton. Chief among these are Long & Bisby, who will donate any of three sites upon which the committee has options. That means a gift of at least $8,500. Others have put their names down for large amounts. About $20,000 in all has been subscribed, and $10,000 more is in sight. With this amount the committee in charge feels justified in making plans to come to the immediate relief of the victims of the terrible white plague. The institution will probably be used for the treatment of incipient cases, but this as well as the scheme of management and all other details will have to be worked out. It is likely that the large contributors will be elected a board of management.

Tree's Theater Sinking.

London, Sept. 27.—At the close of the performance at His Majesty's Theater on Monday night, Mr. Beerbohm Tree, the manager, announced the discovery of a crack in the arch of the proscenium that was apparently caused by the subsidence of the building. Mr. Tree added that it would be necessary to close the theater for an indefinite time to make repairs. His production of "Oliver Twist" will be transferred to the Waldorf Theater.

Wreck in the Rockies.

Durango, Col., Sept. 27.—News has just reached here of the wreck of the eastbound Rio Grande passenger train at a point between Dolores and Glencoe, two miles west of the latter place. The train was making a sharp curve, when the baggage car left the track, taking with it both passenger coaches. The entire train was overturned, and all the passengers, about 30 in number, were bruised and shaken up.

BUILT UP HER HEALTH

SPEEDY CURE OF MISS ECCLISON

She Is Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Writes Gratefully to Mrs. Pinkham.

For the wonderful help that she has found Zula Ecclison, 6 Erie St., East, St. Thomas, Ont., believes it her duty to write the following letter for publication, in order that other women afflicted in the same way may be benefited as she was. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a uterine tonic and regulator. I suffered for four years with displacement of the uterus and no one but those who have experienced this dreadful agony can form any idea of the physical and mental suffering those endure who are thus affected. Your Vegetable Compound cured me. Within three months I was fully restored to health and strength and now my periods are regular and painless. What a blessing it is to obtain such relief when so many doctors fail to help you. Your medicine is better than any doctor or medicine I ever had."

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhœa, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her experience is very great, and she gives the benefit of it to all who stand in need of wise counsel. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Good Casters ON Ives' Brass Beds

The caster on a metal or brass bed is important. An imperfect caster is liable to injure carpets or rugs while on polished floors it always leaves marks.

Ives' Brass Beds have a double wheel ball bearing caster. The double wheel divides the weight and its wide face does not mark the floor, while it turns so easily to the motion of the bed that it never injures carpets.

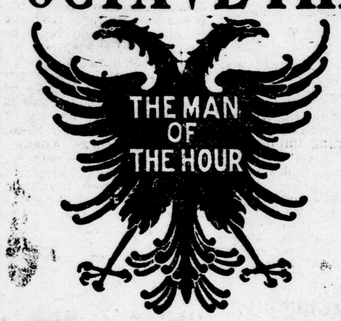

It is attention to important small things that makes Ives' beds the finest in America.

Ask to see an Ives Brass Bed and examine it closely.

T OSTOP POACHING

American Owner of Tugs Says He Will Curb His Captains.

Buffalo, Sept. 26.—W. Vernon Booth, of the firm of Booth & Co., Chicago, which is one of the large corporations in the fishing industry of the great lakes, today talked about the trouble between the fishermen of Lake Erie and the Canadian Government.

Mr. Booth stated that the companies interested in fishing in Lake Erie did not uphold the captains of fishing boats who have been poaching in Canadian waters. The captains of the boats, he said, have a financial interest in the boats, and they are willing to run the risk of poaching in Canadian waters for the sake of gain. If they make a good haul of fish and escape capture, they make some money.

The fishing companies, Mr. Booth says, regret the recent occurrences of a warlike character on Lake Erie. If the captains cannot be curbed, the alternative is to deprive them of all financial interest in the boats which they command. Mr. Booth thinks the fishing boat captains will find themselves simply hired men if they do not mend their ways.

ANNUAL GAMES AT THE ASYLUM; A GREAT DAY FOR THE INMATES

A Long Programme of Sports Carried Out—Keen Tug-of-War Won by Packers.

To inmate and attendant alike yesterday was the red letter day of the year at the London Asylum for the Insane. It was the date set apart for the holding of the eighteenth annual athletic sports, and unlike last year, when the weather was cold and rainy, this year's programme was carried out under ideal conditions.

Several hundied persons from the city watched the games and fully as many patients of the asylum intermingled with this crowd and were quite as deeply interested. A large inclosure on the spacious lawn in front of the north building was the scene of the competitions. The unhappy lot of many of the unfortunates seemed to be forgotten for the time being, and all threw themselves into the spirit and zest of the afternoon's events. Beginning at 12:30 o clock a long programme of games was carried out and keen competition and earnest effort characterized every number on the programme. In the patients' events, the winners experienced feelings of happiness which formed perhaps the brightest spots in a year not altogether filled with happy incidents. Yesterday, with a measure of freedom, the patients enjoyed themselves to the full. The last event of the programme, with the exception of the distribution of tobacco, candy, etc., to the patients, was the tug-of-war between the Canadian Packing Company of London Junction, and the Asylum. Ten stalwart men were on each team. The anchor men were of course, of portly build, and could not qualify in a featherweight competition, one of them weighing 230 pounds. The contest excited the keenest interest, and it was with the greatest difficulty that the crowd was kept back. The first pull lasted fully ten minutes and was won by the Packing Company, after desperate efforts were made by the asylum men to keep their position. The second pull was longer and tested more fully the strength and endurance of the teams. For nearly 20 minutes, as many men pulled with might and main. One side would gain a slight advantage, only to lose it a moment later. No more evenly matched teams have ever engaged in a tug-of-war contest in any previous year at the asylum. But the sturdy packers proved to be their opponents' superiors, and succeeded finally in pulling the red ribbon over the mark, amid the shouts of many interested onlookers. The two straight victories game them the prize.

To the judges and committee of management great credit is due because of their efforts to bring about the success of the day. On Messrs. Dr. Sippi, manager; George Angus, starter, and George Rennie, secretary, much of the hard work devolved during the afternoon, and they managed the entire programme with admirable ability. The long list of games, which were governed by the rules of the C. A. A. A., and their winners are as follows:

BIG OCEAN LINERS RACED FOR A WEEK

Despite Weak Machinery the Teutonic Beat the Celtic in Hot Race.

New York, Sept. 27.—The White Star steamship Teutonic arrived in port on Saturday, beating her sister ship, the Celtic, in a race across the ocean. The Teutonic was to have sailed a week ago Wednesday, but the breaking of a pin in the crank shaft delayed departure until Friday. Owing to the repairing of the machinery the ship was forced to go slowly on Sunday and Monday. On Sunday she went for eight hours at half speed, and a good part of Monday was traveling at the same rate. The machinery then was put in working order, and the ship plowed along at a fast clip for the rest of the distance.

On Sunday, while going at reduced speed, the Celtic, which had started after the Teutonic, passed her. While the ships were near E. P. Murray, a passenger on the Teutonic received a wireless message from a friend, Sir Ernest Corcoran, on the Celtic. Sir Ernest joked Mr. Murray on being "left," and asked if Mr. Murray wanted a tow line. The latter responded, saying: "Never mind, we are going under one engine. If we need help will let you know."

On Wednesday, when the Teutonic got going at full speed again she caught up with the Celtic and passed her. Then Mr. Murray got back at his friend. "How about the tow-line now?" he asked Sir Ernest in a wireless. "The drinks are on me," the baronet is said to have answered.

DIFFICULT TRIP TO THE MACKENZIE

Bishop Reeve Tells of the Hardships of Long Ago.

Toronto, Sept. 26. — An interesting peep into the difficulties attending a trip to the Mackenzie River district more than 30 years ago was given at St. James' Cathedral yesterday morning by Bishop Reeve, the missionary in that faraway diocese. Thirty-six years ago, when he and his wife had first gone to Mackenzie, there was no communication between Eastern and Western Canada. They had to go to New York and travel from there to Minnesota. Then they went four days by wagon and four more down the Red River to Fort Garry. Thence they traveled nearly three months more in an open boat, manned by Indians and half-breeds. Month after month they pushed along until Fort Simpson was reached, on the Mackenzie River. Three and a half months previously they had finished the railway part of the journey. To obtain supplies they had to write out a list two years before the goods reached them. Letters were received but twice a year, and the latest news was five months old. The nearest doctor was 2,000 miles away. Today they received their letters four times a year, and the railway came to within 1,100 miles of them. Supplies were brought in once a year. He said that a new diocese of Athabaska was required.

Smallpox at Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 26.—Four more cases of smallpox have developed on Sheridan avenue.

This visitor went in and out among the Sheridan avenue people freely, visited the fair, and was present at various entertainments during his visit.

Died in Cell.

Stratford, Sept. 26.—Drink caused the death of Cornelius Keough, porter at the Cabinet Hotel, in one of the cells of the police station where he had been placed yesterday morning to recover from the effects of a debauch.

Although not of a quarrelsome disposition Keough was well known to the police as a habitual drinker, and at the time of his death was in a state bordering very closely on delirium tremens.

When You have a Bad Breath

THAT'S the time to take a Cascaret.

—When your tongue is coated,
—When you have Heartburn, Belching, Acid Risings in throat,
—When Pimples begin to peep out,
—When your Stomach Gnaws or Burns,
—That's the time to check coming Constipation, Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

One single Candy Cascaret will do it if taken at the right minute, just when you first feel the need of it.

A "Cascaret in time is worth nine" later on.

Cascarets don't Purge, nor Weaken, nor waste Digestive Juices in flooding out the Bowels, like Salts, Castor Oil, "Physics."

But, — they act like Exercise on the Muscles that shrink and expand the Intestines, thus pushing the Food on Naturally to its Finish.

When the Bowel Muscles grow flabby weak, or lazy from want of Exercise, the Food does not tickle them enough to make them act.

That's Constipation!

Castor Oil, or "Physic" will help to slide out one load of trouble, but they can't help the Cause.

In fact, they weaken the Bowel-Muscles more than ever by slackening them, and by doing work for them which they should do for themselves.

When your Arm-Muscles grow flabby they need Exercise, to strengthen them —not a sling to support them.

When your Bowel-Muscles grow flabby they need Exercise to strengthen them—not "Physic" to pamper them.

Then carry the little ten-cent "Vest Pocket" box constantly with you, and take a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need it.

One Cascaret at a time will promptly cleanse a foul Breath, or Coated Tongue, thus proving clearly its ready, steady, sure, but mild and effective action.

A thousand dollars a year spent in amusements could not buy for you half so much hearty Happiness, solid Comfort, Cheerful Temper and Health Insurance as that little ten-cent "Vest Pocket" Box of Cascarets will bring you.

All Druggists sell them—over ten million boxes a year, for six years past.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC."

A sample and the famous booket, "Curse of Constipation," Free for the asking. Address Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago or New York. 702

PAL OF "TEXAS" SHOT NEAR TOLEDO

A Man Named Bradley Killed While Attempting to Rob a Saloon.

A man named Bradley was murdered a few days ago at a roadhouse near Toledo, and the police of that city are now searching high and low for a man named Joe Knipper, who is supposed to have been implicated in the affair.

The case has no local bearing whatever, save that "Texas" Burdell is mentioned in connection with it. The Blade says:

Joe Knipper is still at large. It is known positively now that he is not in the immediate vicinity of Toledo or Northwestern Ohio and the local authorities are awaiting developments. Numerous telegrams and cards have been sent broadcast, and it is thought that he will be picked up in the course of a few weeks. Knipper has undoubtedly taken refuge in some of the large cities. He is strongly and plainly marked, though, that the police have no fear but that he will be taken a prisoner in time.

"We are up in the air; we haven't a tangible clue," said Sheriff Chambers when queried regarding Knipper's probable location today.

It was rumored that Mrs. Knipper would soon be charged with murder in order to hold her. The sheriff says that the woman can be held for a time before habeas corpus proceedings can be commenced and that nothing will be done at present.

Sheriff Chambers said today that Mrs. Knipper refused to talk concerning the tragedy at Herbert's. From remarks made while being driven from police headquarters to the county jail, and in the house where she was in hiding, it is known almost positively that she will endeavor to shield Knipper, and place the murder on other shoulders. From remarks dropped by Mrs. Knipper, it is thought that the fatal quarrel in the roadhouse Tuesday night did not start over a person called "Texas," but from some sort of swindling game in which Bradley lost his roll.

A strange coincidence in connection with the recent murder at Herbert's resort on the Point Place road is the fact that "Texas," the person over whom the quarrel is reported to have started, was the same day sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment at London, Canada, for burglary. "Texas Rube," as this crook was called, was a pickpocket and burglar. He was arrested here some time ago and sent to Pennsylvania. It is reported that "Texas" was a warm friend of the dead Bradley and an enemy of Knipper's. On the same day that "Texas" was sentenced his partner was shot while attempting to rob a saloon.

BUGLE MAJOR LEAVING

Charley Bell, of the Seventh, Going to St. Thomas.

Mr. Charles Bell, for some time instructor of the Seventh Regiment Bugle Band, will shortly sever his connection with the corps, and remove to St. Thomas.

Bugle-Major Bell has been offered a position in St. Thomas. There he will become identified with the Bugle Band of the Twenty-fifth Regiment, in the capacity of instructor, with the rank he at present holds in the Seventh. The Bugle Band of St. Thomas is somewhat disorganized, and in order to build it up, it was decided to get an instructor from an outside place. Charley Bell will fill the bill.

PURSE WAS SNATCHED

Young Lady Lost $11 While Returning Home—Arrest Made.

A young lady employed as a domestic in a Talbot street residence was relieved of her purse, containing $11, while returning home last evening. She alighted from a car at the corner of Richmond and Maple streets, and was walking west on the latter thoroughfare, toward Talbot, when a man whom she had noticed following her, grabbed her chatelaine bag and decamped.

This was at 11:30 o'clock. At an early hour this morning, the matter was reported to the police, who got busy and succeeded in a very short time in securing information that led to the arrest of Wesley Boyce, who is generally employed at local liveries.

While the young lady could not furnish the police with the numbers of the bills stolen from her, she was able to give their denominations and also some distinguishing marks on them. The police ascertained that Boyce had been spending money freely, and they now have a number of the bills passed by him, and which are marked similarly to those stolen from the young lady.

... Burdell Tells of Wild Rides He Has Taken

Boasts to Deputy Sheriff of How He Has Ridden Express Trains Everywhere.

Deputy Sheriff Watterworth has returned from Kingston, where he delivered "Texas" Burdell to the authorities at the penitentiary. During the long journey to that city he had no trouble with his prisoner, mainly because he was given no opportunity to effect his escape. "Texas" was supremely confident to the last that he would get a new trial immediately. He counted on being free by Thanksgiving Day. He was firmly convinced that his counsel would be successful in obtaining his freedom.

Mr. Watterworth had never had a talk with "Texas" until yesterday, and he, along with everyone who had that experience, was greatly impressed by the criminal. On the way down he was very talkative and informed everybody that he was the notorious "Texas," and appeared not a whit ashamed of his position. He related his experiences along the road. There was not a town in which he had not been, from London to Kingston. He knew almost every feature of the country through which he and his keeper would pass.

Wild Riding.

In this town there would be a limekiln, in that a bridge, and so he went on telling of his trips. His most interesting descriptions were his method of travel. He boasted of the fact that he had ridden over every foot of the Grand Trunk system, but had never paid his way. He had ridden the trucks of the International, when the train was speeding at sixty miles an hour. When he came out you could not tell what manner of being he was. His reckless mode of life was thus illustrated. The wander-lust was upon him, and the more daring the mode of travel, the better he was satisfied.

This reckless, devil-may-care sort of fellow was not always the real "Texas." Melancholy would seize him, and the craven coward would be manifest. He became a child, almost an imbecile. He became a madman. This "Texas" was the most dangerous. He confided to his captors yesterday that he feared his mind would give way. He would go mad.

"Texas'" Old Home.

Only once did he show anything that bordered on remorse. When speeding through a certain little town on the way, "Texas" remarked that the old folks lived there, but they did not know where he was. He said that his father had a good business on a street not far away.

The sheriff experienced a feeling of relief when the great doors closed behind his notorious prisoner. London was well rid of the most dangerous burglar that has disgraced the city with his presence. In spite of the maudlin sympathy wasted on him, the man himself acknowledged that society was merely protecting itself when it locked him up. Almost his last words as the big door closed behind him were that he would not serve his fifteen years if he were not granted his liberty.

And it is quite possible that "Texas" will end his long warfare with society by the suicide route.

WHEN'S A SPANKING NOT A SPANKING?

A Curious Conundrum for the Police Magistrate to Solve.

"When is a spanking not a spanking?" was the conundrum that Police Magistrate Love had to solve this morning. August Kreutzer was charged by Harry Harper with assault. Harry is 15 years old and was adopted by Kreutzer. As far as Harry was concerned he was supposed to work, and hand the change over to Kreutzer.

Behind it all, however, was a family trouble. Harry is Kreutzer's nephew by marriage. But there does not seem to have been many pink teas between the families. The particular trouble to which the court's attention was called occurred a couple of Sundays ago. Harry did not get in until very late that night, and was accused of being "out with the girls." Then the row began. Harry was disrobing, when August cut loose. This August was the hottest in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, and when it came to laying on, MacDuff was an "also ran." Harry was hurt in several localities, so he had Kreutzer charged with assault.

In court, the youngster was accused of everything from highway robbery to flirting with girls. On hearing the evidence the court decided that the spanking was too severe, and fined Kreutzer $1 and costs. Harry was warned, however, to get over the habit of staying out late at nights.

Percy Beasley is a colored gentleman who has not been a sojourner in our midst for some time. Percy is a regular village romp, and one year ago last 24th of May he became hilarious over at Tecumseh Park. He was summoned to appear for his riotous conduct, but disdained the summons and vamoosed. Percy had a longing to see the old place again, and returned not long since. And Percy began to be merry, and was chased in as a disorderly. When in, he found that the police had not forgotten him. A charge of contempt of court was laid. The two cases were adjourned until tomorrow.

The case against Robert G. Wilson about the fence around the Bank of Commerce building was laid over for another week.

George Donnelly, up for assault and as a vag, was remanded until tomorrow.

Two first-time drunks were discharged.

MAY ALSO PULL OUT

Talk of the Southam Printing Company Going to Hamilton.

It was stated yesterday that there is a probability of the Southam Printing Company pulling up stakes and leaving London for Hamilton. The Grand Trunk wants to buy the land now occupied by the firm, and Hamilton is said to be offering them inducements to go there.

Mr. Southam said he was not prepared to discuss the matter today as he does not yet know just what the Grand Trunk intends to do.

RAPID GROWTH OF CITY SUBURBS

What the Assessors' Figures Show—New Houses at Every Turn.

Assessment Commissioner Grant and his staff are working hard to complete the outside work of assessing the city by Oct. 1.

"The growth in the south and east ends of the city is phenomenal," one of the assessors said today. "New houses are to be seen everywhere, and they are all occupied. The increase in population will likely be greater than the increase of a year ago. In subdivision 10 of ward 3, we met new houses and an increase in population at every turn."

It is expected that the figures for ward 4 will be given out the latter part of this week.

Mr. Arthur Jolly, clerk in the assessment office, who has been ill for some time, was around the hall today. Mr. Jolly is known as the right arm of the assessment commissioner, and his absence has been a severe drawback to the work of the office.

THE MEN'S MEETINGS

Y. M. C. A. Has Laid Out Plans for Sunday Afternoons.

At a meeting of the directors of the Young Men's Christian Association last evening, Mr. Wilson, secretary, outlined the plan of work scheduled for the fall and winter. Big preparations are being made for the Sunday afternoon men's meetings. These will be made especially attractive for men, not only the best local talent being secured for these afternoon sessions, but also attractions from abroad. Among some speakers who will appear here Sunday afternoons will be Dr. A. A. Willits, of New Jersey; Dr. Francis Straugh, of Kalamazoo, Mich.; W. H. Bengough, of Toronto; Tod B. Hall, chief of detectives, of Baltimore. Strong musical attractions have been secured. These will be announced later.

STANDARD EDITOR HERE

Mr. Wm. Goode, of London, Eng., Spends Few Hours in the City.

Mr. William A. Goode, managing editor of one of the world's greatest newspapers, the London, England, Standard, was in the city for a few hours yesterday, en route for Montreal, whence he sails this week for England.

Mr. Goode, who is a very young man to hold this very important and responsible position on the Standard, has been in America for a month on business. He went to England as London correspondent of the Associated Press, and became connected with the Standard when the change of ownership took place recently. The Standard has been always a Conservative paper, but when the tariff controversy arose it stood strongly for the free trade position. Since it has been acquired by the great publishing house of Pearsons, it has supported the stand of Mr. Balfour in favor of a tariff policy which would give Great Britain the power of negotiation. However, it does not indorse the Chamberlain proposal of a tax on food.

Mr. Goode is a son-in-law of Dr. C. A. Sippi, of this city. Mrs. Goode, who has been here for some time, will return to England with her husband. Mr. Goode was yesterday the guest at luncheon of Dr. H. A. McCallum, of Queen's avenue.

A NEW WRINKLE.

A somewhat novel procedure was noted this morning, which took place on a belt line car bound east. The conductor, it appears, had discovered some story in a newspaper that interested him very much—so much indeed that he had to take his paper into the front vestibule and read it aloud to the motorman. It was a pretty long story, too, for though one of the passengers listened to it for six or seven blocks, it was not finished when he left the car, and the reading may be going on still. It is possible that the car was ahead of time, or maybe it was "slowed down" for the benefit of the reader, at any rate its speed seemed very slow to those who wanted to get down town to business. Fortunately (for the car hands) there were not many persons getting on or off, and the reader had few interruptions.

FROEBEL AUTUMN WORK.

At the weekly meeting of the Froebel Society yesterday afternoon the programme committee reported arrangements for autumn work. To assist in a better understanding of child nature, the society will study and hold open discussion on the general development of the race of mankind, considering primitive man, the development of language, of the arts and the social development as outlined in Tylor's Anthropology. A day will also be devoted to games, another to stories and about the end of November an open mothers' meeting will be held. After the conclusion of the bussiness, Miss Horton gave a very instructive talk on physical culture and the social needs of society.

CITY HAS POLES TO SELL.

About ten years ago the city purchased a large number of poles from the London Electric Company for the fire alarm system. At this day the majority of these poles are now unused, and are stored in a yard in East London. Now the London Street Railway Company wishes to buy them, and the city will probably sell them. They will be used on the Edward street belt, as well as to replace breaks which have occurred in the poles being used by the company.

TAKEN BACK TO REFORMATORY.

Special Officer Hanvey, of Rochester, New York, is in the city today, and takes back to Rochester with him a young lad named Eddington, who escaped from the State Reformatory some time ago. The boy made his way to this side and was located on a farm near Melrose, where he had been working. Officer Hanvey and High Constable McLoud located him.

NEW G. T. R. TIME CARD

Will Go Into Effect on Saturday at Midnight—Many Changes.

A new timetable goes into effect on the middle division of the Grand Trunk on Saturday at midnight.

For some days past the trainmasters have been in Toronto arranging the new card, proof sheets of which arrived here from Toronto today. The changes, however, will not be made public until tomorrow, as the sheets have to go to Toronto again tonight to be finally passed. Some further alterations may still be made, and for this reason, the local officials would say nothing today, except that many changes are likely.

The new timetable will include Brantford on the main line. Henceforth, all passenger trains—both local and through—will touch the Telephone City, leaving the present main line at Paris or Lynden, according to the direction in which they are traveling.

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS.

Brantford juniors won the C. L. A. championship in that division, and the Telephone City got right up and made a noise about it when the boys returned. At that, it is better than the senior championship they won with their importations last year. The home-brews are all right.

The Toronto team's batting and fielding averages are out, and were it not for the Humane Society, we might publish them. Some of the men, had they made as many hits as errors, would be in the honor roll of batsmen. They were a lovely team.

Mr. Dyment has become disgusted with the performances of his runners, and has sent them up north. He must have had a bet on Tongorder in that last race of his. Dyment's judgment of horses is fine, but his jockeys this year have been very bad.

Belleville is not going to have a hockey team this year, after all. They think the O. H. A. has treated them shamefully the last two seasons. Well, Belleville's first name should have been Toronto. Then they might have imported enough bank clerks to make up a team. There seems to be a very fair importation of hockey players towards Toronto this autumn.

Ed Barrow, the new manager of the Toronto Eastern League team, has looked them over, and found three who will do for next year He must use a powerful microscope. Perhaps he means that those three are the only ones he can trade off for old iron. He could not do that with the rest of them.

Hamilton is to the fore with a "rassler" named Conkle, who promises to be a leading member of the Headspinners' Union. He is thought to be of championship caliber. All right. You can have the honor, Hamilton. No grapplers in ours, please.

The great game pitched by Matthewson in Chicago last Saturday is the first one the big twirler has lost since July 4. Chicago had to shut his team out at that to beat him. Matty is easily the king-pin of the shot-servers in his league. He looks about the best in the business. He has horse-sense, something that Rube Waddell lacks.

At Libertyville, bets were declared off on a bad-looking race, a driver was taken down because he didn't seem to be driving, and there was a bit of gossip about a suspected ringer. We hardly think a running meeting could have done any better.

Up to date the Michigan football reports have been more or less of an advertisement for a book which recently appeared.

There is a prairie chicken problem. You wouldn't think so from reading the railroad hunting manuals, but the prairie chicken is now about as numerous as the Buffalo.

The harness races at Lexington Oct. 3 to 14, will be about the greatest the Grand Circuit has ever had. Three hundred and seventy-four horses have been named in the different races. The one race of greatest interest to Canadians is the Kentucky Futurity, in which Miss Wilks' Katherine L. will meet Susie N. and Bon Voyage. This will settle the question of supremacy between these three phenomenal "baby" trotters, Katherine L. will have to trot her best to beat Susie N., who is trotting near record-breaking time about every heat. Bon Voyage is not to be despised, either. The 2:04 pacing race will be a thriller, as The Broncho will for the first time look up with Nathan Strauss, and the pick of the eastern "pasters." This event would be worth the journey alone. The only Canadian horse named so far is Maud Keswick in the 2:06 pace. The records will get it at this meet.

Harry Giddings, Oakville, is in rather hard luck. His good stud, Wickham, was rescued when the stables were burned, with much difficulty. However, the horse never recovered from the partial suffocation, and died the other day. He was a good horse, and the colt, Wire-lin, sired by Wickham, comes rather close to being one of the best Province-bred horses ever produced. He was also the sire of War Whoop and other good ones.

The undersigned has been asked to pick out what he considers the best team in the City League. This is a very hard thing to do, but as far as his judgment goes, here would be about the best line-up: Catcher, Steele, McClarys; pitcher, Earley, McClarys; first base, Wanless, Londons; second base, Fleming, Londons; third base, Ward, Blue Labels; shortstop, Ball, McClarys; left field, Hutchison, McClarys; center field, Bell, Rockets; right field, Phillips, McClarys. This team looks about as strong as any possible to be chosen from the league. Newan or Ecclestone might be placed in right field without much damage, but Phillips handles short hits to first better than any of them. The rest are somewhat secure in their positions. This team would make them all hurry, as they are fast on the lines, good hitters, and play heady ball.

Ed Patch, 2:08 3-4, is the first 2:10 performer for the champion Dan Patch, 1:56. In many ways he resembles his sire. Nothing disturbs him, and he always has that kindly look up into the grand stand when he jogs back to score, for which his famous grand-dad, Joe Patchen, 2:01 1-4, and his own sire, Dan Patch, 1:56, were noted. He is not so large as either of the above-mentioned pacers, and never will be over 15½ hands high. He is a four-year-old and no doubt will in time land down among the free-for-allers.

In looking over the new list of 2:10 performers for this year, one wonders why horsemen still persist in holding to the 2:30 list. Any horse that cannot beat 2:30 nowadays on his first time on the track is immediately chased out on a milk route or something worse. Why not, with the improvement of horses, and in racing gear, raise the select circle to 2:20?

The American League race is getting to be an awful thriller. After their setback by Detroit, the Chicago White Sox looked hopelessly to the bad, but they are coming down the stretch at a terrific clip now. Detroit is making a bold bid for third, and may land the position. The Athletics will have to go some to beat the fast-coming Sox. They certainly miss the "Rube." The twirler eccentrique is about due to pitch a game. The coming series between the Athletics and White Sox will be the greatest of the year.

The "bangtails" have moved from the Woodbine to Windsor. Another bad season for the hardworking bookies. It's a shame to take the money.

Tomorrow McClarys play the Bloomer Girls. Don't miss this game. The foundrymen will have their regular line-up. The girls play real ball. Maud Nelson, their pitcher, is there with the slants. Don't forget to go to Tecumseh Park on Thursday afternoon and see the game COVERPOINT.

JUNIORS WARMING UP TO THEIR WORK

Between Thirty and Forty at Practice - Saturday's Team Not Chosen.

The London Juniors are fast getting into shape. Last night's workout was all that could be desired, between 30 and 40 players keeping the coach and captains busy putting them through the movements. The line-up that will encounter the Sarnia bunch on Saturday has not yet been picked. There is no dearth of good material, and it is a difficult matter indeed to know which players to choose. The practices of the next day or so will greatly aid the committee in picking the teams. Every player will do his utmost to make a position. Thomson may not be able to play on Saturday. Canfield, Whetter and Alexander will form part of the back division, and one other man will be chosen. Rowlands, Macgregor, Carmichael, Tierney and Morrison are all sure to be on the line-up, and each will give a good account of himself when the opportunity arrives.

Practice has been set for 5 o'clock this afternoon., and will continue until about 7 o'clock. Every man is requested to be out. Daylight practices are much more satisfactory and should be held whenever possible.

Cal. Brown turned out last night for practice with the Rugby boys. Moore, the ex-player from across the line, suffered a slight injury the other night which will keep him away from Tecumseh Park for a day or so.

The enameling of the pigskin was a happy thought. The white ball looks like a huge egg, and can be seen at night quite as easily as can one of the ordinary footballs in the day time.

Dick Whetter looks like a promising player on the back division of the junior team. His illness of last week kept him away from practice for a while.

No expense or effort has been spared to help the game along, and all that the management expect from the players is conscientious and earnest practice.

The accommodations at the club house this season have encouraged the boys very much to turn out and practice. With plenty of room at the club house, the knowledge that all belongings are safe and the assistance of two trainers nothing more is essential to the boys' interests in Rugby. The quarters are warm and commodious and the shower bath is a necessity, which, though dispensed with in former years, has now been found to be of the greatest advantage.

The new sweaters of the London Rugby Club are very effective. The club colors this year are black and white and the sweaters and stockings are of the same.

TOOK LAST THREE HEATS IN SIX

Thus Did Angiola Capture $10,000 Event—Straight Heats in Other Races.

Cincinanti, Ohio, Sept. 26. — The Ohio stake, for 2:09 class, trotting, purse $10,000, was the feature event of the Grand Circuit races at Oakley Park today. Angiola, after finishing eighth in the first heat, fourth in the second, and eighth in the third, won the next three heats. Redlac won the first heat easily from Robert M., going the distance in 2:07½, and breaking the record for this event, which was 2:08¼. Angiola easily won the last three heats and the race. In the final heat for the three heat-winners, Angiola was pulled up at the end, Norman B. and Redlac being almost distanced.

In the first heat of the 2:19 trot, Woody R. ran into the fence at the last sixteenth pole, bursting a blood-vessel, and was instantly killed. His driver, J. Miller, was only slightly hurt.

Byrl Wilkes had no trouble in winning the 2:10 pace in straight heats. In the second heat of this event, Lady Veach struck the fence at the half-mile pole, throwing her driver. W. Dagler, but neither the driver nor the horse received serious injuries. Summary:

ONLY TWO WENT FOR BIG STAKE

Cairngorm Defeated Favorite at Brighton—Two Horses Were Killed.

New York, Sept. 26. — Cairngorm, backed from 7 to 5 to 13 to 10, easily captured the Cup Preliminary at Brighton Beach today, defeating Caughnawaga, the 13-to-20 favorite, and the only other starter, by four lengths.

The Cup Preliminary is a weight-for-age race for horses exclusively nominated for the Brighton Cup of 2¼ miles. Four cup candidates were carded to go, including the fast filly Artful, but as she was a trifle sore, Rogers, her trainer, did not care to take any chances and withdrew her. Oxford also declined the issue early.

Caughnawaga aa the start received two lengths the best of it, and passing the stand the first time was leading by two lengths. Davis, on Cairngorm, was content to trail the favorite after getting off poorly, and Caughnawaga continued to show the way into the back stretch. Half a mile from home, Burns began to ride Caughnawaga, but Davis let Cairngorm trail along to the stretch, where he let him down, and in a few strides was in front and galloped home a winner.

Brookdale Nymph broke the track record for five and a half furlongs, when she won the second race, by stepping the distance in 1:06, which is one-fifth of a second faster than Whimsical's time made this year. One favorite won.

TWO HORSES KILLED.

Louisville, Sept. 26. — Brancas, at 8 to 5, won the Old Inn Handicap at Churchill Downs today. Mr. Rose, Prince Real and Golden Link fell in the steeplechase, and Prince Real and Mr. Rose were killed, each animal having sustained a broken leg. Jockey Garic was badly hurt. Clear weather; track fast.

SYSTEM MAY BE KILLED.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—The death of Sadie Mac after the fourth heat of the Charter Oak Stake, at Hartford, Conn., a couple of weeks ago, has caused general criticism of the plan of racing to win three heats, and an attempt is being made to permanently substitute the two-heat race. A large number of prominent drivers have signed an agreement not to drive in three-heat races next season, and the result may be that a ban will be placed on this number of heats by the different racing associations.

YESTERDAY'S WINNERS.

At Brighton Beach—Oriska, 15 to 1; Brookdale, 7 to 10; Sidney C. Love, 20 to 1; Cairngorm, 13 to 10; Sly Ben, 7 to 2; Aucassin, 6 to 1.

At Louisville—Echodale, 7 to 5; Nifo, 9 to 5; Dolinda, 12 to 1; Bracas, 8 to 5; Scepter, 7 to 1; Envoy, 9 to 5.

FOOTBALL.

GETTING IN SHAPE.

The Toronto-Argos are working hard to get into shape for their first game of the season with the Victorias on Saturday at Varsity Athletic Field, which Rev. A. F. Barr will referee. In practices, the passing has not been up to the mark by any means. Flett, Sale, Clarke, Greening, F. Cochran, Anglin, Scully, and Hutchins have been on the half-back lines.

Tigers Will Not Withdraw.

The Tigers executive was in session until nearly midnight on Monday debating as to whether or not the club should withdraw its senior and second teams from the O. R. F. U. as a protest against the treatment accorded to the local teams by the committee that drew up the schedules. The Spec says that as a result of the meeting it is likely that the teams will play out the schedule, although every member of the committee was of the opinion that the club had been shabbily treated. Opinion was divided as to the course that should be taken. A number of the executive thought that the Toronto members of the O. R. F. U. committee, and they form the majority, as well as the Toronto teams, would ask for nothing better than that the senior Tigers should withdraw, as there would then be a chance for them to get the tinware that goes with the championship back in Toronto. It was for that reason practically decided not to withdraw, but to play out the schedule. As far as the second team was concerned the committee felt that an injustice had been done in placing it in the intermediate series, but that it would be able to hold its own. While the second team is rather light for intermediate company, it is fast, and is in good shape, having practiced faithfully all season, and those who have been following its work closely are confident that it will be able to more than hold its own against Dundas and Guelph, the teams that it will have to meet in this district. It is the intention of the club to enter a junior team also, so as to give the youngsters a chance to show what they can do.

HUFF MAY MANAGE CLUB.

Chicago, Sept. 26. — George Huff, director of athletics at the University of Illinois, was yesterday named by President Hart, of the Chicago National, as a possible manager of his team. His appointment is conditional on Frank Selee's inability to return to Chicago, and Capt. Frank Chance to take the place. Chance has proved successful as a manager and will be offered the place, but it is doubtful if he will accept. Huff has been locating new players for the Cubs for several years.

In an Automobile Race: Sensations Experienced

One can hardly imagine the feelings experienced in driving automobiles at a record pace in races like the one for the Vanderbilt cup, and many of the drivers themselves are unable to describe the sensations of literally flying over the roads in the modern juggernaut, says a Washington exchange.

Herbert J. Lytle, the "midget," who competed in the trials yesterday, said after the Vanderbilt race last year that there were times when he only seemed to hit the high spots in the roads, bounding along like a ship in a stormy sea. He says if he had time to bring his mind to the swaying and rolling of his vehicle he might get seasick. His main feeling is that he wants speed, speed, and more speed, to eat up the yellow ribbon of road that stretches ahead. Bert Dingley says that in long races on the road he fails to have any particular sensation, his whole idea being centered in keeping the car on the smoothest part of the roadway.

George Heath, the winner of the Vanderbilt cup last year, said that he always suffered with nervousness for a week after a long race, and had great difficulty in getting sleep. Although a man of great wealth, he is fascinated by racing, and will be a contestant this year. In talking with a reporter recently, a racing man said:

"I have so often been asked the question, 'How does it feel to drive a racing car?' that I look upon it as one of the stereotyped questions, which up to the present time I have in no instance adequately answered to anyone's satisfaction, for the simple reason that I have never taken the trouble to analyze my feelings when driving.

"One has a very wearing experience the week before the race, when it is necessary to be at the factory and overlook the final work on the car just before it is ready for the road. Early in the morning until late at night one is at it. A little spin of half an hour, and then back to the works; the whole car then pulled to pieces, another wearying wait until it is ready to go out again, through some small point having to be changed; then out again for a ten-minutes' run, and again the car has to be taken down.

"I remember a friend of mine while I was waiting with my car at the start of a race, which I eventually won, asking me how I felt, and I could only reply that I was exceedingly bored. Of course, this feeling goes immediately one is really started, and as the car settles down into her speed one idea dominates—namely, to get over the ground as quickly as possible.

"The incidents in driving are so fleeting and varied that at the end of a race it is almost impossible to recall them, although at the time of occurrence they appear of vital importance to the driver. A slight hesitation of the motor or apparent slipping of the clutch are things in themselves to make the driver of the car fear and tremble that his troubles are commencing. A choked-up lubricator, and in imagination the whole engine is fired and he is stopped beyond all hope of finishing the race. I think really the most tiring strain throughout a race is this dread of something happening to cause delay, and the most comforting sensation that of hearing the vicious spit of the four cylinders, steady and regular, above the roar and rush of the wind.

"Undoubtedly driving a racing car for a prolonged period has a curious effect on the driver himself. With the possibility of winning well within reach a grimness almost inhuman dominates his actions. It would be asking him to achieve the impossible to go through those blinding dust clouds in passing a car in front, if this task were set him in cold blood. The exhilaration of speed is necessary before the chances are taken and the corners shaved.

"The car in front must be passed, every second's delay is a second lost, and the faster car catches its opponent; the driver calculating all his chances on the opportunities presented by the road and pushing his front wheels along side his opponent. A moment's suspense—the two cars seem to hang together — and the victor is by and away again. It is but an incident however, forgotten in the next incident of passing another car. And underlying all the effort and governing all the movements of the driver is uncertainty — that uncertainty of not knowing whether everything is going well with him to the end."

ROYALTY LIKES SPORT.

London, Sept. 26.—Sporting life appears to have taken a firm hold upon the aristocracy of the old world, even the feminine members of royal families becoming enthusiastic sports. Princess Charles of Denmark is a skilled shot, and as a child was taught to shoot at a target. Princess Victoria Melitia of Saxe-Cobourg, formerly Grand Duchess of Hesse, and niece to King Edward, is another famous markswoman. The Duchess of Bedford is a splendid shot, and so is the Duchess of Newcastle, who has killed many head of big game in the Rocky Mountains. The Marchioness of Breadalbane is a first-rate rifle shot and deer stalker. Lady Loch, a bride of last season, shoots well, and many fine stags have fallen to her rifle. Lady Sandhurst and the Hon. Mrs. Algernon Rourke must also be included among noted deer stalkers. Lady Hindlit is another big-game shot, and brought home a giraffe from her recent travels in East Africa. Lady Delamere has also secured some notable trophies from the African jungle. Lady Wolverton, Lady Helen Staverdale, Lady Vivian and Lady Juliette Duff are all good markswomen, and the last-mentioned ladies afford instances of stepdaughters trained by sport-loving stepfathers. Lady Constance Stewart-Richardson is second to none as a noted sportswoman. She has shot stags in Scotland, big game in the jungles of Ceylon, and wild hogs on the plains of Southeast Texas. Lady Beatrice Pole Carew is another splendid shot, and the list also includes Lady Elena Wickham, sister to the Marquis of Huntley; Lady Constance Scott, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch; Mrs. Asquith and Miss Muriel Wilson. Mrs. Alan Gardner, daughter of Sir James Blyth, has killed big game in all the four quarters of the globe, and Mrs. George Cornwallis West shoots as well as she writes or plays the piano. The Hon. Mrs. Lancelot Lowther is a good rabbit shot, and Violet, Lady Beaumont and the Countess of Warwick are deadly with partridges and pheasants.

THERE ARE OTHERS IN SUTTON FAMILY

Los Angeles, Sept. 26.—Interviewed on her return to this city from her European trip, regarding her experiences in playing tennis, Miss May G. Sutton, world's champion among women, said:

"It is a fact, I take it, that there is a knack of playing tennis and that not every one is born with the trait. But it is quite as certain that love of the game, practice and an aim to succeed at it have made 99 first rate players where natural ability has made one. I am satisfied that any girl who is strong enough to play a set of tennis without resting continually can learn, if she will, to play a first rate game.

"Girls' tennis is often referred to in the newspapers as 'ding-dong' play, that is tennis made up of long rallies in which both players are content merely with getting the ball back in any way whatsoever. In fact, there are but few girls who can come up toward the net and volley or smash the ball.

"The strokes that have been named, usually for some characteristic, are most commonly the back-hand, the cut, the volley, the lob, the smash and the Lawford. The latter is named for Eugene Lawford, a great English player, who used the stroke with almost uniform success and won himself distinction on account of it. The Lawford is a difficult stroke, difficult to describe, very difficult to learn and to make good. The principle of the Lawford is found in the cut. A ball that rebounds low and is not too swift is struck with great force, the arm of the player swinging down almost straight. As the racket touches the ball the arm is brought up sharply. The result is to give a curve to the ball so that after it has crossed the net it drops quite rapidly to the court and rebounds very low. Only a powerful stroke will give the Lawford rebound to the ball, and the stroke, even when used by an expert, will be a failure about nine times in ten.

"In learning to play tennis one should use the stroke that is hardest and make and strengthen weak points. Do not play to the grandstand, and do not be afraid of it. If you are going to play tennis you cannot be as correct in manner and dress as you would in a parlor. Wear the dress you think is correct and then do not pay any attention to its antics. If it flies, let it fly. Tennis is not a pink tea.

"I have played tennis ever since I was ten years old and I love the game. I think that it is the best sport for girls, and if it is taken properly, I fail to see how it can hurt any girl.

"My sisters, Ethel, now Mrs. B. O. Bruce, of Pasadena, and Violet and Florence, all play tennis, and all play well. It seems to run in the family, although my brother never played a brilliant game.

"I think that either Florence or Violet could defeat eastern cracks, for they come nearer to beating me than any of those girls did. Still, it would be hardly safe to say that either of them could win the championship. I hope some day that both will have the chance. I shall retain the championship as long as I can, but I think that this talk about my having a 20-year lease on it is all foolishness. No player of any game is good enough to beat everyone forever."

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 25. — The National commission today made public a rule providing that no waiver shall be asked by a major league club of a player purchased from a minor league previous to Feb. 1. LONDON LADY WEDDED AT VANCOUVER.

The Daily Province, of Vancouver, has the following account of a wedding that is of interest to Londoners: The wedding was solemnized yesterday morning at the residence of Mr. Greenwell, Pacific street, of Mr. Albert Edward Booth, of this city, and Miss Jessie Bremner, of London, Ont. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Knox Wright (a former pastor of the King Street Presbyterian Church, London), in the presence of a number of intimate friends of the contracting parties. The bride was attended by Miss Fannie McElhinney, while Mr. Arthur W. Lammers supported the groom. The happy couple left on the steamer Princess Victoria yesterday for Victoria en route to the Sound cities. The groom is attached to the city engineer's office, and has resided in Vancouver for a number of years.

ALDERMEN DO NOT FAVOR THE IDEA

Of Allowing the Street Railway Company to Use Two Kinds of Rails.

The question of allowing the London Street Railway to use a "T" rail instead of a grove rail on the Edward street belt was informally discussed at the meeting of the city council last night.

Acting Mayor Stevely explained that the bylaw for the new extension will come up on Thursday night at a special meeting of the city council, as will also the matter of absolving the company from the building of the Wortley road stub.

"If the company is permitted to use a 'T' rail, the manager is prepared to see that the new line is in operation by July 1, 1906," Ald. Stevely said. "Otherwise, owing to a scarcity of groove rails, the company will be compelled to stipulate that the line shall not be in operation until Dec. 1, 1906."

A letter from the city engineer was read, stating that on unpaved streets the "T" rail is every whit as good as the groove rail. He suggested that the rail should be of a heavy type, of say, somewhere between 68 and 72 pounds to the yard.

The aldermen did not like the idea of allowing the company to lay two kinds of rails in the city. At present the "T" rail is used on the Wellington street line to the Kennels and in West London, also to Springbank.

The matter will be taken up again at the council meeting on Thursday night.

Special attention paid fall wedding orders. Hueston's liveries.

FAREWELLED BY FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. Lemon Leaving London for Portland, Oregon.

On Monday evening several of the most intimate friends accompanied the Knights of the Maccabees of the World, to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lemon, 88 York street, to spend a social hour with them, prior to their departure for Portland, Oregon. During the evening a very dainty dinner was served after which Mrs. Lemon was escorted to the parlor, where Mr. Robert A. Locker, of the postoffice department, in a few well-chosen words, presented her on behalf of the Lady Maccabees with an address and most beautiful present, showing their goodwill and appreciation of her good work for the order, of which she was a most highly esteemed and energetic member.

After several selections from the gramaphone, a few appropriate songs, and social intercourse, the gathering broke up, all wishing Mr., Mrs. and Master Johnnie Lemon a most pleasant and safe journey. Her many friends hope that Mrs. Lemon will regain her health by the change of climate. She goes to Portland, Oregon, at the suggestion of her physician.

THE LATE JOHN BOYD

Council Passes Resolution and Decides to Attend Funeral.

At the special meeting of the city council last night, a resolution eulogizing the memory of the late ex-Ald. John Boyd was passed unanimously.

Ald. Garratt, seconded by Ald. Matthews moved: "That the municipal council of the city of London do hereby place on record the sincere regret at the death of John Boyd, Esq., who during his long and active life rendered enthusiastic and earnest service to the upbuilding of the city, both in the capacity of private citizen and public servant, and who from 1877 to 1890 filled with acceptance various important offices on the board of aldermen, and that this expression of our sincere sympathy be suitable engrossed and conveyed to his widow and family in their sad bereavement."

On motion of Ald. Matthews the council decided to attend the funeral in a body and to send a wreath.

On the sands near Marske-by-the-Sea, Yorkshire, England, the other day, a crab was seen running along the beach with a sparrow in its claws. The crab had caught the bird by the leg, and so much was it struggling to get free that it once lifted the crab several inches off the ground. The crab eventually let the bird go and ran off.

As an instance of the jealousy existing in the relations between Norway and Sweden, it may be noted that the boundary line between the two countries is the most minutely exact in Europe. In every parish touched by the line there is deposited an elaborate plan, which is renewed every ten years, the whole of the work of surveying, etc., being carefully repeated each time.

Loan of $40,000 May Be Made to the Tool Works

Council Will Make an Effort to Get Company to Remain in the City.

The city council, at a special meeting last night, decided to grapple with the problem of industries being induced to leave London, and will begin by waiting on the London Machine Tool Company, for the purpose of finding out what the city can do to keep the firm here. Further, the committee appointed to wait on the company will not go empty handed, and if the city solicitor says the city has the power to submit a bylaw to the people for the purpose of authorizing a loan of say $40,000 to the company, the city will make such an offer to Mr. Yeates as an inducement for him to remain in London.

Acting Mayor Stevely briefly explained the situation, and why he had called the special meeting. Though it was understood that the firm has practically decided to go to Hamilton, Mr. Yeates had told him that the matter was not definitely settled. He moved that a committee composed of Alds. Gerry, Garratt, Forristal, Matthews, and the mover, be named to wait on Mr. Yeates, and see what the city can do to keep the industry here.

Ald. Cooper declared that from all he had heard he believed the firm could be kept here. If other people can afford to help an industry to leave London, this city should be able to assist it to remain here.

Ald. Matthews remarked that it is too bad that industries are being coaxed away from London. The city doesn't appear to be able to get many new industries, and the British policy of what we have we'll hold is not being followed out. He referred to an application for inducements which had been received from a Mr. Moore, of Ealing postoffice, and which the council has simply filed, on the ground that the city has no power to offer inducements. He declared the application should have been sent to the manufacturers' committee.

Ald. Forristal pointed out that it is useless to go to the tool company with the same old arguments. The city should make up its mind to do something. Hamilton undoubtedly has the call on London, inasmuch as it is the great iron center of Canada. Power is cheaper there than in London, and will be cheaper still. In conversation with the younger members of the Yeates firm, he had learned that they all wanted to leave London, but that Mr. Yeates, sen., is anxious to remain. He favored the raising of $40,000 by debentures at say 4 or 4½ per cent, and the loaning of this sum at the above-named interest to the London Machine Tool Company as an inducement to have them stay in London.

"We can offer nothing in the way of exemptions, but we can offer the firm free water and other things," Ald. Forristal continued. "And I can tell you of another firm which is thinking of leaving London, and which has offers from other places. The Grand Trunk wants this firm's property. It behooves the city to give this industry problem the very closest attention."

Ald. Garratt wanted to know if the city solicitor hadn't told the council that the city has no power to raise money to loan to industries, but Ald. Forristal pointed out that this was in relation to the raising of the sum of $100,000 for the purpose of buying free sites for manufacturers.

Ald. Carson thought the scheme to raise money and loan it to the tool company a very good one. It will simply mean that the city will raise the money, and the company will pay the interest.

It was then agreed to wait on the city solicitor, and ascertain if the city has power to submit a bylaw to the people for the purpose of loaning $40,000 to the firm, and the committee will then wait on Mr. Yeates and see what can be done to keep the company here.

A special meeting of the city council has been called for Thursday night, when the report of the committee will be received.

GLAD THE MIDWAY WAS CLEANED OUT

W. C. T. U. Passes a Resolution Regarding Fair Board's Action.

That the W. C. T. U. was well pleased with the action of the Western Fair directors in their purification of the Midway was shown at the meeting of the union yesterday, when a resolution was passed expressing satisfaction that some objectionable features had been eliminated from the fair.

The resolution was adopted after a general discussion by those present regarding the altered condition of affairs. Mrs. H. Ashplant, the president of this department, was presented with a bouquet of roses in appreciation of her work.

Mrs D. A. McDermid and Mrs. Ashplant were appointed delegates to the provincial convention of the W. C. T. U., to be held in Brockville on Oct. 24 to 27. The delegates were instructed to invite the provincial body to hold its next annual convention in this city.

The next meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be the annual meeting. The officers will be elected at this meeting.

It is the oldest paper in the county, and has been an eminently successful publication.

Mr. Smith will enter into possession about Oct. 1.

GET POWER
The Supply Comes from Food.

If we get power from food, why not strive to get all the power we can. That is only possible by use of skillfully selected food that exactly fits the requirements of the body.

Poor fuel makes a poor fire and a poor fire is not a good steam producer.

"From not knowing how to select the right food to fit my needs, I suffered grievously for a long time from stomach troubles," writes a lady from a little town in Missouri.

"It seemed as if I would never be able to find out the sort of food that was best for me. Hardly anything that I could eat would stay on my stomach. Every attempt gave me heartburn and filled my stomach with gas. I got thinner and thinner until I literally became a living skeleton and in time was compelled to keep to my bed.

"A few months ago I was persuaded to try Grape-Nuts food, and it had such good effect from the very beginning that I have kept up its use ever since. I was surprised at the ease with which I digested it. It proved to be just what I needed. All my unpleasant symptoms, the heartburn, the inflated feeling which gave me so much pain disappeared. My weight gradually increased from 98 to 116 pounds, my figure rounded out, my strength came back, and I am now able to do my housework and enjoy it. The Grape-Nuts food did it." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

A ten days' trial will show anyone some facts about food.

"There's a reason."

SMALL SEEKING HEAVY DAMAGES

Is Suing Auditorium Company and Thirty Quebec Policemen for $15,000 Each.

Quebec, Sept. 26. — A. J. Small has instituted actions of damages for $15,000 each against the Auditorium Company, and thirty of the Quebec police, the former for dispossessing his local manager, Mr. Kormann, and the latter for the part the city police took last week in guarding the theater.

Mr. Small obtained an injunction yesterday, but the company ignored it, and locked the doors of the theater.

A matinee performance was given today, but the Auditorium Company is in possession again tonight.

"THE SCHOOL GIRL" TONIGHT.

Miss Vera Michelena, the dainty little star, and her associates in "The School Girl" Company, will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House tonight. Of last week's appearance of this company in Toronto the Star speaks as follows: The first act is novel in having not a single man in it, the choruses, several in number, being taken by female voices entirely. "We Want to be Simpler," a caricature of "the simple life," as sung by the trio of comedians, was uproariously funny, introducing all imaginable nursery toys, from the whistling balloon to the hobby horse. The "Cosy Corner Girl" made a hit. Its chorus, sunk to a well-known dance tune, runs:

"In my cosy corner shady,
Alone with my darling lady,
As I hold her hands in mine
And look into eyes divine,
On her cheek my head I pillow,
For it's softer than 'neath the willow."

A MERRY LAUGH.

It is generally conceded that hearty laughter is better for the stomach than medicine. Herbert Cawthorne, the famous comedian, will dispense trial packages of the former throughout the entertainment for the "Isle of Spice" at the Grand tomorrow evening.

"DOWN BY THE SEA."

There is such a realistic rainstorm in "Human Hearts," a play of the Arkansas hills, full of bristling incidents and withal a play with a moral in it, attracted a small audience to the Grand last night.

The melodrama was well staged, opening with a village smithy scene, in which the hero, Tom Logan, hammers out a horseshoe on an anvil, to the delight of the audience.

Mr. Frank J. Woods appeared as Tom Logan, and his work was excellent. Miss Florence Mendoza was the Limpy Morgan of the play, and she proved equal to the exacting role. The role of the villain was taken by Mr. J. C. O'Neill, who proved a most uncompromising stage rascal.

All the other members of the cast were very fair, and the production as a whole met with the undivided approval of the audience.

Benett's Vaudeville Theater was last night honored with the presence of a number of civic dignitaries, all of whom expressed themselves as very well pleased with this week's excellent vaudeville bill. Among those who were present as the guests of Manager Bennett were the following: Acting Mayor Stevely, Police Magistrate Love, Ald. Matthews, Cooper, Forristal, Saunders, Carson, Abram, Wyatt, Garratt, Oliver Ellwood, City Clerk Baker, Assessment Commissioner Grant and Treasurer Pope.

The wonderful act of Albine and La Brant greatly interested the audience, and there was much speculation among the aldermen as to "how it was done."

"If I could work that gag I'd know all about those fellows who promise to vote for me and then give me the haha," said one of the aldermen.

All the other acts on the bill pleased immensely, and the verdict was that Mr. Bennett's shows are clean and worthy of the patronage of the very best class of theater-goers in London.

"Down by the Sea," that when the play was given in a neighboring city recently, a man in the audience opened up his umbrella and created a deal of merriment. He was told that the storm was only on the stage, and after much argument seated himself, reluctantly closing his umbrella.

CUCUMBERS AND MELONS are "forbidden fruit" to many persons so constituted that their indulgence is followed by attacks of cholera, dysentery, griping, etc. These persons are not aware that they can indulge to their heart's content if they had on hand a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, a medicine that will give immediate relief, and is a sure cure for all summer complaints.
