Charles Calder, who defeated John Dryden in South Ontario, has a petition against his election also. These make six protests in all-Kingston, Port Arthur Sault Ste Marie, North Norfolk. Parent Will Not Resign.

Montreal, March 13.—"There is not the slightest question of my resignation at present," declared Premier Parent at the Place Viger Saturday morning. "All I want is British fair play," concluded Mr. Parent, "and I think no faction in the Legislature should desire to deprive me of that. My honor has been impugned. I cannot leave office while such a condition exists. I demand that the whole matter be cleaned up, and then I shall bem ore than glad to fulfil my long desire to resign."

About nine o'slock Forsythe began calling for a drink of water. Turnkey Somerville went and got him a drink of water. Benjamin, had already been released and Forsythe wanted him to fly, too, but the former refused. This aggred Forsythe and he struck his obstinate pal over the head with the large key which the turnkey carried. This key is about a foot long. Leaving the room in which the cells are, Forsythe went into the guard room and then out a window to the roof of the porch in front of the jail. Ottawa, March 13.—Hon. F. W. G. In the first place at Ortigwa was a disgrace to Canada. The Archbishop of Quebec he expresses the opinion that there is no necessity for dividing the country into two Provinces separated by a purely arbitrary line, and with their machinery and institutions duplicated. He, however, admits that opinion in the Territories is not unantimous, and that he proposals of the Government will not evoke much hostile criticism. He adds that he thinks the dividing line should be at least 75 miles further east.

The Education Question.

Premier Haulitain takes atrong exception to the treatment of the education, both at the conference and in the bills. From this letter it appears that reither his colleague nor himself was made aware of the proposals until noon of the day on which the bills were introduced. THR FALL OF MUKDEN.

The fall of Mukden is the climax of the stupendous struggle that has been in progress in Manchuria for the past ten days. The Russian army has been rolled up and smashed to pieces; a great fortress has fallen into the hands of the victors, and with quantities of stores.

Mukden must be regarded as the greatest battle in history. The twe largest armies that ever faced each other were locked in a death grapple for more than a week around its gates. And immense were the stakes for which they battled. Russia once the first military power in the world, making one last and desperate effort to hurl the tenacious little Saxon of the Orient from her throat Japan determined to clinch by one mighty blow, her supremacy in Korea and her peaceful possession of the territory that she won a few years

It means more, this battle of Mukden. Russia is not only beaten. She is broken. Her dreams of supremacy in the east has vanished forever. She can no longer play the bully among the nations. Her bluff has been called-by a bitherto insignificant military power-and the terror of Europe and the constant menace to the peace of the world lies torn and bleeding te-day at the feet of Japan.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY.

The question of rural mail delivery as far as the present Government is concerned has been rather abruptly disposed of by the Postmaster-General, comments the Guelph Herald. The service in the United States has proved immensely popular in the sections served, saving much labor and adding very materially to the comfort and pleasures of life But the cost of the service is rather startling. According to Sir Wm. Mulock the first vote by Congress for rural mail delivery was $40,000. In 1904 it was almost $13,000,000, and in 1905 $20,816,000. For the coming year, $25,828,300 is asked. Though the postal authorities are not in favor of such rapid extension, they are unable to prevent it, the influence of members, of Congress being exerted to get routes established in their localities, and their desires as a rule proving stronger than the business scruples of the department chiefs. The effect is seen, among other things, in an increase in the annual deficit in the administration of the postal service. In 1902 this was only $2,937,649, It is now $14,000,000, and this in spite of an increase in the ordinary business of the post office.

The Weekly Sun is not impressed by Sir William Mulock's objection to the reform. His treatment of the question, it says, was bardly that of a statesman; it was more like the plea of an advocate on the other side who was determined to smash the case of an opponent. An answer has ed on this point of view, no matter how well prepared, would not be satisfactory in any event; the reply of the Postmaster-General becomes more unsatisfactory still when subjected to examination. The Sun proceeds: Sir William deals with the question solely from the standpoint of income and outgo by the Government. He wholly neglects to take into account the large saving that would be effected to the individual citizens by substituting a system of delivery by a single carrier for a lersonal call for mail by several score of busy men. He igno-es, too, the increased value which would be given to farm property by this convenience. The cost to the Government case of an opponent. An answer basvenience. The cost to the Government again is based on the expense incurred in the United States; the fact is overlooked that carriers in the United States receive much larger pay than would be necessary here. It is a most unfortunate thing that a Government which has a sympathetic ear for seeking after iron bounties or railway subsidies is so completely deaf to all appeals for the organization of a service which would be of drs. Mary Dimmick of Washington tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Wall.

IMPORTANT TO MARRIED WOMEN

It is with great pleasure we publish the following letters, as they convinc-ingly preve the claim we have so many times made in our columns that Mrs.

Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., is fully quali-fied to give helpful advice to sick women. Read Mrs. Dimmick's letters. Her first letter:

Her first letter;

Dear Mrs. Pinkham;

"I have been a sufferer for the past eight years with a trouble which first originated from painful menstrustion—the pains were exeruciating, with inflammation and ulceration of the womb. The doctor says I must have an operation of I cannot live. I do not want to submit to an operation if I can possibly avoid it. Please help me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, Washington, D. C.

Her second letter;

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

Dimmick, Washington, D. C.

Her second letter;

Dear Mrs. Pinkham;

"You will remember my condition when I last wrote you, and that the doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I received your kind letter and followed your advice very carefully and am now entirely well. As my case was so serious it seems a miracle that I am cured. I know that I owe not only my health but my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to your advice. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I wish every suffering woman would read this letter and realize what you can do far them."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 59th and East Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

How easy it was for Mrs. Dimmick to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and how little it cost her—a two-cent stamp. Yet how valuable was the reply!

As Mrs. Dimmick says—itsawed her life.

Mrs. Pinkham has on file thousands of just such letters as the above, and offers ailing women helpful advice.

"All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players."

William Houston, M. A., on Its Scope Method and Terminology.

"The Scope, Method and Termin "The Scope, Method and Terminology of Sociology" was the subject of a paper read recently at the Canadian Institute, Toronto, by W. Houston, M.A., calling attention to the vagueness of the signification of "sociology," and putting in an objection to the hybrid origin of the term. The lecturer defined it as "the science of organized human society," and proceeded to point out that it is wide enough in its scope to include several other sciences, especially politics, jurisprudence and economics. The first of these has to do with the institutional framework of organized society; the second with its legal character; the third with its industrial and commercial pursuits. In one sense, ethics might be included under sociology, but that science would have first to be itself subdivided, and, as a matter of scientific and academic treatment it is convenient and sufficiently accurate to define sociology as above. Sociology" was the subject of a pa

Political institutions are the con rottical institutions are the concrete means thru which civilized so-clety expresses its will and does its work. The constitution of the country is one of them, but there are also mu-nicipal, educational, ecclesiastical, do-mestic and legal institutions, not to speak of those that are quast-economic, mestic and legal institutions, not to speak of those that are quasi-economic, like property and public finance. It is customary, though not necessary, to make a separate class of legal insti-tutions under the title "jurisprudence"; it is customary, also, to deal with both property and finance as phases of eco-nomics.

In Mr. Houston's opinion, the academic treatment of sociology has in Canadian universities, and especially in the University of Toronto, been seriously and needlessly handicapped by the want of clear conceptions of the subject matter, method and aims of the strings. the science. There is some co between economies and politics, between economics and politics, but not such an intimate relation as justifies assigning them to the same professorship. Similarly, there is a great advantage in the acaden separation of politics and jurisprudence, the latter of which, in the university course, includes the formal science of positive law, the history of Roman law, the history of English law, and international law, which Prof. Holland has a privalled the "vanishing point of the prudence."

Canadian students are, in Mr. Hou ton's opinion, advantageously situated for the prosecution of the study of so-ciology in all three of its great subdivisions, and Canadian universities should rise to the occasion and afford them the necessary opportunities.

Canadian's Strange Adventure. One of the most terrible ordeals a hu-man being has eyer been called upon to go through was that endured by War-der Thomas Kelly in the prison hospital other day, was for six days in a death-like trance, and only returned to active life when actually in the mortuary.

A Canadian, 49 years of age, who has spent fourteen years in the navy, Kelly looks physically a wreck, and gives an impression of extreme bloodlessness.

"I arrived at Mauritius seven months ago as boatswain on a steamer, and was sent ashore through ill-health." he said. "Stranded on the island. I accepted a wardership in the little prison, where I looked after the con emmed cells when there were any murderers there.

cells when there were any murderers there.

"In November I caught the fever, and went into the hospital. One day, when they thought I was better. I was selzed with a fainting fit as I was stitling down to a meal. I fell from the chair, and was carried back to bed. For nearly six days I lay there without moving a muscle, yet perfectly conscious of all that was going on.

"My feet were warm as far as the ankles, but the rest of my body was quite cold. On the last day of my trance i was stripped, wrapped in a sheet of calloo, and taken into the little deadhouse. Just as the two coolles who were carrying me raised me on to the slab, I came to." They dropped me with a howl, and I cut my head open in the fall. Both coolies ran away, and one had not returned to the hospital when I left the Island.

"The Governor of Mauritius and his wife were very kind to me, and helped me to get a passage to London. As for the doctor on this ship, I should have died on the voyage here if it had not been for him."

The Rheumatisms Germ.

The Rheumatism Germ.

Some time ago a circular germ belonging to the same family as the paseumonia germ was announced as the cause of scute rheumatism. Subsequent investigation has tended to confirm this statement, according to Dr. J. M. Beattie of the University of Edinburgh. When artificially grown in milk or bouillon the germ produces a marked aciditication of these duids, and when animals are inoculated with it a train of symptoms and lesions similar to those of acute heumatism in man occur. For these reasons, says Dr. Beattle, the "micrococcus rheumaticus" may be considered a special organism and the cause of acute rheumatism.

Origin of "Yankee Doodle." Johann Lewalter of Berlin has traced he tune of "Yankee Doodle" to 1776, at Vasenburg, the central depot of the lessian troops, employed as mercenfees in the war of American independence. Lewalter is an eminent authority on folk songe.

Donald is older now, his face is bearded and his voice is firm and his action resolute.

He found it hard when he came to Canada—he found it difficult, he found that even in this land there were 20 men willing for one who was needed and capable.

He often became discouraged, but the voice of his mother was stronger than the discouragement. He was often tempted bitterly, but the same voice was stronger than the temptation, and if he fell, it bid him rise again, for he heard the words, "Be a brave laddle," and often fancied that he fell the imprint of that kiss and that genfle pressure of her arm about his neek.

He fell that he was held. He did not know how or why, but could he have visited the little home, could he have listened at the door of her bedroom, he would have heard the words: "Lord, keep my laddle safe."

She is dead now, but Donald lives, a prosperous and respected citizen of this Canada of ours, and his children wonder that when sometimes the old home is mentioned his voice becomes soft and his eyes moist, and his head is turned away.

She is dead now, but Donald is kept by the Power Invisible.—Charles F. Raymond, in Toronto Star.

Alta Vista Villa, No Man's Land,

Dear-Look at above heading and dream a dream of joy. I'm here, and when I saw that name tacked up over the portals of our hotel I said, "Here's where I rusticate just on the strength of the name."

We are up on a bluff—sand bluff. I've been here three blessed, broiling days and haven't found anything in the place yet but sand and bluff. And sea, lots of sea, so much sea that you hope you'll never have to see so much sea again in all your life. Also a bathhouse, tintype tent, peanut pavilion and bathing houses—little, hot, new pine coffins stood up on end. Also girls and girls and girls, from sixteen to sixty, assorted sizes, and all looking for the part There are lets of his for the man. There are lots of him running around in the days of his youth, but for a real man such as we are led to expect, by all the summer lore ever written, hangs his delightful elf around summer resorts and wears white duck and brings you water lilies and sighs over a mandolin at you 'neath the pale moonlight—there isn't a single specimen wandering for miles around our villa.

Do you know what they call this par-ticular eyric I have alighted on? No Man's Land. Pleasant, isn't it, after you've tolled over a typewriter while the wintry wind did a ragtime dance around your furless throat and you didn't give a rap because you were thinking of your white waists and your linens and organdies and your heavenly, floppy Trianon hat with its lace veranda, all of which should storm the heart of the summer man and make him fall down and worship by the sil-Very starlight?

Nancie Bell, it isn't any such stuff. There isn't any summer man, and even if there were and he didn't have sense enough to run away the minute he grasped the situation I wouldn't have a bit of respect for

That's all. I shall be home in a few days, just as soon as I have tan enough to bluff the stay-at-homes into the idea that I've had a glorious time and been belle of the beach strong, Nancie. Don't look even at an excursion steamer. If sinners entice thee, dress up in your organdles and walk down Fifth avenue and you'll see more admiring sons of Adam in an hour than you will out here in a week. Haplessly yours,

Day After Yesterday, Hello, central! All hall the mau! He came, he saw, and Caesar isn't a corner room. Mrs. Banks, our general overseer, says, he is an exceptional young man. Wonder how much board he paid in advance!

He isn't real young nor real old; just that intermediate age that is so inter-esting. I don't think he is exactly handsome, but you know what a prop-erly trimmed vandyke and a pair of rimless eyeglasses will do for any man. He's that kind.

This morning he escorted all of us through the glen. Did I tell you that we had a glen? Oh, yes; Glen Ellyn. Just ferninst the villa. It's a break in the sand bluff, and it's damp and piny and darksome at midday. Heretofore the organdie flock had religiously es-J. A. RICHARDSON.

Diat. Pass. Agent, N.-E. corner King and Yonge atreets, Toronto, and St. Thomas,

I opine he is a botanist. Well, it's better than a barber. A letter came for him today addressed to Professor Adrihim today addressed to Professor Adrian Vogel. How's that for individuality? He looks it too. He does not dance, and he does not play the mandolin. He goes for his morning dip at some unearthly hour before we are up. In fact, he does not do any of the orthodox summer "manisms," but he has manners and customs of his own.

For instance, he sings, and sings well. There are about ninety and nine muses who group themselves in the parlors after dinner to listen to their 'Apollo. When he sings "All Aboard For Dreamland" he looks at you as much as to say he has only two passes for the boat, but the other one is for you.

Yachting and autoing he classes as nerve racking, but nature and close to nature's heart and all the rest of it is what the professor's joy is. I think privately we would get closer to nature's heart and the professor's heart, too, if he could be made to understand the expediency of individual lessons for too. If he could be made to understand the expediency of individual lessons for his botany pupils. But he cannot. He calls for a class, and we are all classed. I hope for the best. So do the other ninety and eight muses. Botanically yours,

Saturday.

Came to No Man's Lond every time.

Come to No Man's Land every time for something doing. We have saved the professor's life. If it had only been one of us it wouldn't have been so complicated. A composite gratitude doesn't go far when it has to be passed around. It was long after kunchtime, and he never misses lunchtime. He can put away more fried bluefish and blackberry potpie than five of the muses, but it is only proof of his exceptional excellence, and the overseer never rebukes him.

Did I tell you she was a widow, also interested in botany? Lthink she stands nterested in botany? Lthink she stands lecond best. He likes fried bluefish, etc.

Anyway, we missed him, and there was a swift summer storm stealing blackly up from the horizon, and the sea moaned as it broke in sobs along the shore. They do that kind of thing all right. I used to think that went with the summer man, but it doesn't.

MacGregor Clarence Blair said he hadn't showed up since breakfast, and he'd seen him making a bee line for the hadn't showed up since breakfast, and he'd seen him making a bee line for the glen, and he'd said. "What's yer hurry?" and the professor had said he hoped he could have one morning in peace to study without that thundering crowd of old maids hiking after him.

We didn't believe MacGregor. He looks like a pale, new sand fly, and his father and mother own all of No Man's Land. The professor never in all this world used such words as hiking and thundering, but MacGregor did. Therefore, I may say, in the same common parlance, that he whole thundering crowd of old maids pitched in and lambasted MacGregor until his pretty basted MacGregor until his pretty white linen suit was not fair to see and his twining curls were full of sand burs. Then he howled and retracted, and we all went up the glen after the

The glen deepens and darkens as you go in, and the sides are rocky and pre-cipitous, with much shrubbery and unergrowth and scraggly pine trees list ed to windward. And just as the first streak of lightning quivered in the sky we heard a faint shout for help. It was the professor. He hung sus-pended in air on the bare limb of a dead pine that jutted out from the rock halfway up the bluff, like Genius on Pegasus, the widew said—on a petrified

Then Genevieve Perley, our college product, said Pegasus couldn't be pet-rified. He would have to be ossified. And the widow began to cry and sat down on a log and said she didn't care a bit either way, ossified or petrified. and Professor Vogel was such a lovely man and always paid his board like a gentleman, and she hated to see him killed before her eyes, and she never felt so much like fainting before in all her life.

Genevieve said fainting was counted out. He was a fine target for light-ning up there, and, while it was none of ner business and she had no interest in the professor as a lovely man or in the continuance of his regular board paying, still she thought a rope might be a good thing.

"In mountainous countries," began Agatha, the artist, who has been Europized, "I believe they tie a rope around the waist of one person"—
"It's the shoulders," said Genevieve;
"kind of a slipknot."

The professor shouted for help again, this time fainter still. "No; the waist," said Agatha firmly "And lower that person over the mountain side until he rescues the other party.' "Let's lower MacGregor," murmured Genevieve, but the widow cried and said her feet were getting wet and she didn't think it was right to joke in the face of death. That braced us up, because the professor did look like it, so while the fleeting moments sped Genevieve and I sped fleeter and found some clotheslines and a couple of husky lads in sweaters from the peanut stand and the boathouse, and we sped back to

Then the husky lads climbed the bluff on the sandy side and did the Alpine act with the clotheslines, assisted by several ropes from the boathouse, and before our eyes the professor was pulled back to life and liberty.

He is resting now. It is dark and still at the villa. No hops or mandolins tonight. The shock will bring him to, I think, from the botanical dream and cause him to concentrate his joy on some loving, sympathetic heart, and it may be your PERDITA.

Monday I shall be home on the Tuesday boat. The other girls are packing too. The overseer has fainted. Only the professor is serene. He was up bright and early this morning fo meet the 6:08 train, and when he came back he had a Mrs. Professor and three little Professor. or juniors tagging merrily along after him.

No, I don't think men were deceivers ever. I think it was absentmindedness. Only Mrs. Professor gave the muses their crushing blow when she said she was so glad we had all joined the professor's summer botany class, as he had reduced the course rate to $10, and she thought it was the sweetest, most elevating study one could take up. We all assured her it was elevating. It was—for the professor.

And we're all going home tomorrow.

Yours for single blessedness.

A Philadelphia Gallant. There is nothing that astonishes a woman so much as meeting a man who takes her at her word. A certain very impetuous young woman living in the suburbs of this city experienced in the suburbs of this city experienced this unique sensation when she attended a musicale given by a friend and met a specimen of the too literal male. She was about to leave the house when her hostess called after her: "Oh, don't think of going out on such a stormy night alone. Mr. G. will be glad to go with you. Won't you, Mr. G.?" turning to a gentleman at her right. "Delighted," said the would be escort, beaming on the young woman, and he slipped on his over coat and stood ready with hat and unbrella in hand. "Oh, please don't bother," said the protesting girl. "You know I am quite accustomed to going out alone. I am not the least bit know I am quite accustomed to going out alone. I am not the least bit nfraid. I nearly always leave here unescorted." "Oh, well, if that is the case," said the stupid man, "I don't need to go then. I would not think of interfering with your lifelong habits." And without glying the independent young woman a chance to avail herself of his escort he threw off his overcoat and joined a pretty blond at the end of the hallway.—Philadelphia Record.

Lesson From the Dainty and Artis-tic Frenchwoman's Book. The Frenchwoman-for she must be sidered as a class—dress peculiarly and different from any woman in the world. She dresses for the back. She takes care to dress well, considered from a front point of view. But she dresses with a special regard for those who shall see her from the rear. She takes great pride in her shoulder blades. "Let them get fat, and you are lost," she says. And so it is. "Let your shoulder blades become stooping, and you are ruined," she declares. "Let your shoulder blades get sharp, and none of your gowns will fit you. Let your shoulder blades grow ungraceful, and you might as well give up the beauty quest."

When it comes to the display of her back and neck and arms the Frenchwoman excels. She shrugs with them. She says yes and no. She expresses sur-prise, joy, disdain and sorrow, all by the gestures of her back and arms. She laces her waist so tight that it seems as though she would break in two. But her bust is free and her breathing space is full. She would not think of cramping her lungs.

"Merci!" exclaimed a Frenchwoman putting on an American bodice. "I can-not breathe. The belt is like a bag. It is so lose that I am uncomfortable, while it is tight around the bust and around the throat."

And that is one of the Frenchwoman's secrets. She gives her throat plenty of room, and she gives her bust a chance to expand. But her waist, on the other hand, is tightly laced. She takes care, however, to pull the laces tight below the ribs and below the lung space and below the bust line in order that the beautiful upper figure may have plenty of room in which to breathe and expand and be graceful,

To enrich the blood and increase the red blood corpuscies, Dr. Pierce years ago found a vegetable compaund, which he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, that would quickly cure the bad symptoms by increasing the red blood corpuscies and thereby feeding the nerves on rich blood. This "Medical Discovery" also acts upon the digestion and assimilation of food, so that the blood yets its proper elements from the products of digestion. Feed the lungs, stomach and heart on rich red blood and you have surely a healthy hody which will throw off the germs of disease which lurk everywhere. Set as near nature's way as you can. A medicine made entirely from botanical extracts and which does not contain alcohol is the safest. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

WALTZING MICE

Ways of These Curious and Interesting Little Animals.

Waltzing mice are curious and inter-sting little animals. They are not quite so long as the common gray mouse and much more slender. They are spotted black and white at each end of their bodies and are clear white in the mid-dle. They whirl around on their four feet as if on a pivot, sometimes stopping and reversing the direction. Frequently I have seen two or three of them going around together in a large circle. Although they waltz sometimes as long as five minutes without rest, they appear never to get dizzy.

They can, if they choose, run in a straight line, but they seldom do. Instead of running away when disturbed or frightened they begin to waltz. They ome out of their nests about sundown and waltz until nearly midnight. Then they go back to their nests to sleep. One of the curious things about them is their fighting. They waltz until they run into each other, when they bite, squeal, jump into the air—and then start waltzing again. They keep this up until they are seriously injured, sometimes having their tails and legs bitten off and their skins torn. There are several theories as to the reason they can whirl around in this way and yet do not get dizzy. One is it is because of a disease of the brain that they inherit.

Veins of opals are usually met with soft formations where nothing above ground indicates their presence. The earch for them, therefore, often requires considerable time. But it is not extremely difficult, for opals are generilly found near the surface. Indeed, it was thought for a long time that they vere not to be found as deep as twelve feet below the surface. This opinion I know not whether I muse most at the has, however, given way in the light of evidence, because opals of great value have been discovered at a depth of fifty

The value of opals depends upon several considerations, of which the principal one is the color. It is important that they should be bright and not pre sent streaks or spots alternating with uncolored substance. The most valuable are those which have red fires or mixtures of red and yellow, blue and green. Opals of a single tint are of little value unless the tint is particularly striking and the figure beautiful. Indeed one of the essential qualities of the opal is the arrangement of the fig-ure, which sets off strikingly the hue of the stone.

When the figure is quite regular and distinct it is the more valuable, much less so when the grain is quite small and frregular. Sometimes the color appears as a single blaze or with figures regularly spaced. It may then be of a green or reddish and has but little bril-

The cutting is very important for the opal. Thus a thick stone will be much less beautiful than a thin stone, which, on losing part of its volume, loses also the figure. The foundation tint contrib-utes much to the beauty. It ought to be transparent, slightly milky and har-monize fully with the different reflections of the opal, which, when it is really beautiful, presents a variety of hues infinitely pleasing to the eye.

MARRIAGE

At Park St. Methodist Church ast evening, the pastor, Rev. G. H Cobbledick, began his series of sermons on the Home Circle. The subject was "The Founding of the Home, or Courtship and Marriage." In opening, the speaker said it was a subject rarely dealt with in the pulpit, probably for the same reason that he felt reluctance in dealing with it, viz: It was one of the delicate questions on which one could not speak all that was in his mind, but had to deal with it with some reserve, and yet the religious counsellor ought to have something to say to the young people of his congregation concern-ing questions which affected them so seriously for nife. He would start the series at that point in every

A strong warning was uttered against young women marrying rakes to reform them. The faithfulness of a drunkard's wife does not help society like the resolution of a maiden to ask purity, for purity.

Marriage begins in kinship of the spirit, and such is eternal. Be religious for the sake of, divine direction in the choice of your nite partner.

The text used was Heb. 13, 4,—"Let marriage be in honor among all." The church was well filled and keen interest was manifested.

The church was well filled and keen interest was manifested.

Next Sunday evening the subject will be "Husband and Wife, or Wedded Life." The choir was in excellent form and gave three numbers. The anthem, "Rock of Ages," was splendidly sung. The soprano solo, "Hold Thon my Hand," by Mies Potter, was given in good voice, and Mr. Gilleland, a former member of the choir, gave the bass solo, "Calvary," which was very much appreciated.

Burns as a Poet of Life,

Burns as a Poet of Life.

The birthday anniversary of Robert Burns calls forth in some quarters the usual critical remarks as to Burns' true place in the ranks of the world's poets. Among other things, it is said that his view of life was defective. He sang of life as he knew it, and his view finds an echo wherever his verse is read, and that means in almost half of the civilized world. A "feature of nature" is what a critic of past years called the Ayrshire singer, and his very naturalness makes him sreat. Nature is the one great fact of the universe, and the pen of Burns speaks for man what man feels about nature and cannot himself express.

Verses which ceme to the mind in the everyday wear and tear of life as pat as the well-worn texts of the Bible or the aphorisms of popular folklore cannot be set down as second-rate unless there are grades in truth, which is impossible. Burns' epigrams and full-fiedged sentiments well up from the heart to the brain—are felt before they are spoken. If life is a normal and true manifestation of nature's forces, then Burns' view of it is not defective, since his utterance rings true to what the millions feel and think.

"THE 999."

The love and admiration of the average boy for the locomotive was prettily illustrated a few evenings ago. A seven-year-old had been to a Sunday school concert with his parents and listened to some of the beautiful songs that Bliss and Sankey used to sing, such as Too Late, Let he Zower Lights be Burning, it is a light with My Soul, Hold the Fort, ull for the Shore, and The Ninety and Nine. The last made a deep and fasting impression. George H. Daniels, an old friend of the family, visited them the following night, and the youngster, running to him, exclaimed, "Oh, Mr. Daniels, I heard em sing your everlasting song last with the service of the 'em sing your everlasting song last night!" "Indeed!" said the dean of night!" Indeed!" said the dean of passenger agents: "what was the name of it?" "The 999." replied the boy, thinking of the most advertised engine in the world, that which gave fame to the Empire State Express. Best thing Daniels has heard in ten years.—From On the Tip of the Tongue, New York Press.

IT IS THE CAT.

Peasy Fashion's Fad and the House-hold Pet-How to Treat Her. "Whene'er I take my walks abroad. how many cats I see!" Everywhere, in town or country, pussy may be found in dozens and hundreds, lying on tops of walls in the sunshine, lazily watching the birds on the lawn, or sitting at the top of the area steps, waiting for

Why does every one think that cats live on milk? The idea is widespread, and yet many cats don't like it and will not touch it. Then people wonder what makes the cat so fond of drinking from a pan put under a tap to eatch the drip of water while its saucer of milk is standing untasted un der the table. In reality puss is rather a thirsty animal for water, and cats, though they can have as much milk as they want, constantly come up to drink from the dog's trough of cool

So please let poor puss have a water trough all to herself if there are no kind dogs for her to share it with. It is very bad for cats to be out all night. Many people turn out their cats at night regularly, and then they won-at night regularly, and then they would der that puss looks so thin and wretched and has such a rough coat. Besides this cats left to wander about at night will go incredible distances and metimes into places where there are infectious diseases, which they bring home. Cats are very subject to sore throat and diphtheria, and their friends at home may easily catch these Cats should have plenty of fish and meat and bones to knaw. They are carnivorous animals and cannot keep well and strong on bread and milk. The bones will help to keep their teeth clean, and the diet for which nature has formed them will make their coats smooth and glossy.

The distances cats go in search of grass are very great, and the relish with which the town bred puss falls upon a bunch of the coarse herbage known as dog grass if it be brought home for her and tied to the leg of a table so that she can crop and pull at it is very marked. Grass is the cat's natural medicine, cooling and alterative, and should be provided as coniantly as possible.

Some folks starve the cat under the mpression that doing so makes it more eager to catch mice. This is a cruel fallacy. If the cat is a good mouser it catches mice principally for the ingrained instinct and love of sport and not as a food. It plays with them for a long time and then, having killed them, leaves them uneaten in some corner. Many of course do eat them, but only probably as a tidbit.

Need it be said how cruel and horribly wrong it is to leave a poor cat to fend for itself in the summer holidays when the house is shut up?-Lady.

A Clear Complexion. To keep the skin in a perfectly healthy condition a daily tepid water bath is necessary. It is a good plan to dampen the entire body with a sponge and dry briskly with a rough towel every night just before retiring. This has a sooth-ing influence and induces a sound, invigorating and restful sleep, from which one wakes refreshed. Those de-sirous of obtaining a fine, healthy looking skin and clear complexion should get all the fresh, pure air and sunshine possible, should sleep eight hours daily, should not eat much meat, pastry or sweets, but drink plenty of water between meals, eat fruit, vegetables and saleds. Tometees looks over the saleds to the saleds of the saleds of the saleds of the saleds of the saleds. Tomatoes, leeks, carrots and spinach are also good. Green vegeta-bles are one of the best purifiers, and there should be no sfint in the use of them, advises the Ladies' World. An old English rhyme says: With spinach and leek, Lily cheeks in a week.

A Household Remedy.
Papa had suffered all day with the toothache and had his hand to the side of his face. His little son, about five, looked at him sympathetically and said: "Papa, I can cure you if you will do what I tell you to. Fill your mouth full of water and go sit on the stove till it bolls."—Exchange.

A Fine Salad.

Cook the roe of a shad with half an onion and a bit of bay leaf in salted, actidulated water twenty minutes. Let the water bubble but gently on one side of the saucepan lest the membrane surrounding the eggs be broken during cooking. Let cool in the water, drain and when cold cut in slices. Cut the broken slices in cubes, marinate with two or three tablespoonfuls of oil, a dash of cayenne, one-fourth a teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful

Age Told by Figure.

The woman who follows an outdoor sport is usually a very graceful wo-man. The woman who takes to the rocking chair at 9 o'clock in the morning and who sits all day, getting out for only a few minutes, is not the woman who will preserve her figure. At forty this woman will look her age, and at fifty she will look a great deal older. Don't forget that age is told not by the lines on the face, but by the ilgure. The middle aged figure is well known. The hips and abdomen are prominent, and there is fat on the shoulder blades. Then there is the figure of old age. There is a withered figure, thin above the waist line and heavy on the hips. This is the stage when a woman begins to look as though she were seventy long before she has lived out her sixtles

Small Towels.

The housekeeper who has not discovered the value of the small towel in her household economics has some-thing yet to learn. It is only recently that they have been used to any extent in private families, but their usefulness is making them increasingly popular. This is the towel that has here-tofore been known as the hotel size. It is the small hand towel that is used n large quantities in public places, where many people use a towel only once. A large towel would be incom venient, and the ordinary towel would make at least twice the bulk to send to the laundry

Are Women Too Active! The women of this generation are undoubtedly suffering from too much occupation. The listless, bored, discontented, unsettled girl of twenty years ago has given place to the rest-less, energetic and positively business woman thirsting for fresh outlets for enterprise. We are caught up in the whirlwind of modern unrest, and we imagine we are happy because we have no time to think anything to the contrary.-Ladies' Field.

One of the peculiar features of a Windsor Castle dinner is that every dish on the menu has the name of the man who cooked it attached, a fact that, no doubt, keeps up a healthy spirit of emulation in the Castle Kitchen.

As a rule he is taken to the King's private sitting-room for this little valedictory interview, and if he has a drop of Irigh blood in his veins he can scarcely fail to thrill with particitic pride while there, for the furniture and decorations of the apartments are catried, out in the true emerald green of the Emerald Isle.

His Majesty's Cigars. His Majesty's Cigars.

King Edward has reduced the art of smoking to its simplest terms. He usually smokes cigare of the choicest Cuban brand, and he generally makes use of four a day. The cigars used by the King are of a rather short, full-barrelled kind, of medium strength. They are usually smoked only about three-parts through. Occasionally, when in the billiard-room, the King prefers a pipe, and a pipe is usually used over the morning's correspondence.

Latterly, however, both pipes and eigars are much less in use than formerly. His Majesty's favorite method of using tobacco is in the form of cigarettes. He formerly affected a peculiar brand of Virginia tobacco, but since the Egyptian cigarette was first introduced to his notice by the Duke of Clarence, His Majesty has abandoned the purer American weed for the subtler aroma of the Latakis produced in the factories of Cairo.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and it days time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. The result is a liquid that does what coxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilisrating, vitalizing, purifying. Suffered Great Agony. Could Not Stoop or Bend.

No disease is so quiet and stealthy in its approach as kidney disease. That is why it is so dengerous. It may become deep-seated before you realize the danger. It is therefore of great importance to recognize the early warning symptoms, because in its early stage kidney disease is easily curable. Pain or dull ache in the back is one of the first signs. So are bladder pains, bearing-down pains, smarting sensation when urinating, frequent or suppressed urination, and gravel or sediment in the urine, etc. You cannot be well if your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. In all ordinary cases of any derangement of the kidneys, a few doses of

The all important thing is to keep the stomach right, and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that certain favorite articles of food must be avoided.

favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Wiechold gives pretty good advice on this subject; he says: "I am 68 years old and have never had a serious iliness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep a healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary I always eat what my appetite craves, but daily for the past eight years I have made it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal and I attribute my robust heafth for a man of my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets.

All these great passes through the Rockies to the north of the Canadian Pacific Railway have been known to exist for some time, but the engineers have been the first to study them in detail, and they now report that they are all available for railroads, that the gradients on the east are very gentle, and that some of the passes are wide enough for double tracks.

Arabia's Laughing Plant. Arabia's Laughing Plant.

Travelers from Arabia tell of a plant, which grows there, called the laughing plant, on account of the peculiar property of its seed. If these be dried, ground to a powder, and safen, the effects arising therefrom are similar to those produced by the excessive use of liquors. The consumer shouts, laughs, and performs wild antice for an hour. Then exhaustion sets in, and he falls into a deep sleep, from which he watens with no recollection of his strange performance.

In no part of the world excepting in Alaska has there been more rapid progress in geographical exploration in the past few years than in British Columbia. The latest facts concern a number of new passes through the Rocky Mountains.

Some readers may be surprised that there should be anything left in British Columbia to discover. The fact is that the Government surveys are yet for from covering the larger part of that big region. The fine geographical work that a missionary has recently been doing shows that there are still opportunities for discovery in this part of the Dominion.

Muskrat News From Easex County.
Owing to the low water in the creeks and marshes, the muskrat cands connecting their houses with deep water are closed up and frozen, and the muskrats are compelled to eat holes through the houses to get out to feed. The rats are in a half-starved condition, and are out looking for something to eat, and are killed in the fields. One boy killed with a dog 77 in a week in the fields around Caldwell's Grant marsh, says. The Amherstburg Echo, and many were killed about the stables and worn cribs. Then it is said that the carp have cleaned the creeks and marshes of wild rice, sweet flag, and cat-tail roots, leaving the muskrats without their usual feed. Not in forty years have the muskrats been in such a bad condition. Muskrat suppers will be rare this season.

What does it prent a woman if so gain the whole world of knowledge and lose her own health? Young womes students, and school teachers, eager, ambitious, and full of energy, very often neglect their health in the struggle to gain education. They eat insufficient food, and at irregular hours, they allow irregularity of the womanly functions to be established, and the result is that they become chronic invalids with all their education practically worthless. There is a plain road back to health for such as these, marked by the feet of thousands. long, one desperate chance remained. It was to sacrifice his artillery by massing the batteries so as to paralyze the enemy. The Russan gunners did their duty and saved what is left of Ruropatkin's armies."

Kuropatkin's Manly Course. St. Petersburg, March 13.—Gen. Ku St. Petersburg, March 13.—Gen. Kuropatkin has telegraphed to Emperor Nicholas, assuming himself all the responsibility for his defeat, making no excuses except that the strength of the Japanese was miscalculated, and refusing to place any of the biame upon the council of generals upon whose advice he determined to give battle. This manly course and the General's personal exertions in directing the retreat will, however, hardly save him. His reputation as an oftensive strategist is gone, and though the Emperor's military advisers know not where to look for a better general, his resignation will be accepted. In losing General Kuropatkin the army will lose the idol of the private soldiers.

Against His Best Judgment.

Tie Pass, March 13.—The decision of Gen. Kuropatkin to offer battle on the Shakhe was taken against his own best judgment. He had been constantly blamed, both in army circles and at home, for operating without decision, and the demand that he take the initia.

blamed, both in army circles and at home, for operating without decision, and the demand that he take the initiative and abandon the policy of retirement was voiced on all sides. It appears that Gen. Kuropatkin yielded to this opinion, which was that of many of his principal generals, and decided to give battle, thereby losing the opportunity for a more successful retreat before the Japanese forces, which largely outnumbered the Russian army.

Japa Cesse Pursuit.

The Japanese, it is reported, have ceased their pursuit, at least temporarily. Some of the Japanese are 25 miles below The Pass. A resumption of their advance is expected. Rumors are in circulation that the Japanese already are attempting another wire turning movement to drive the Russians from Tie Pass.

RUSSIA ANSWERS DEFEAT.

Will Send Another Army, and Hopes
Japan's Financial Ruin.
St. Petersburg, March 15.—The Immediate answer of the Russian Government to the defeat at Mukden is the announcement that a new army will be raised, and the forces in the far east reorganized; that Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky will be ordered to sall to try conclusions with Togo, and that the war will be prosecuted to the bitter end.

war will be prosecuted to the bitter end.

The Russian Government, with the full magnitude of the disaster at Mukden still undetermined, but with the 1905 campaign seemingly already hope-lessly compromised, retreat to Harbin inevitable, and Vladivostock practically lost, declares that the time has not yet come when Russia can be forced to humble herself.

But, while this is the official attitude, nothing but peace talk is heard in St. Petersburg. The difficulties of another mobilization on a lorge scale will be enormous; in fact, it is stated in some quarters that it will be impossible. Nevertheless, it might be accomplished.

The real hope, however, for anything possible. Nevertheless, it might be accomplished.

The real hope, however, for anything like a successful termination of the war is admitted to rest upon the prospects of the financial exhaustion of Japan.

Financial Minister Kokovsoff, at the conclusion of a conference on the national resources, a few days ago, is said to have tapped the table before him and exclaimed: "We can win the war at this desk."

PRISONERS NUMBER 75,000.

Stores Valued at Millions of Dollars Ta-ken by Japs. Tokio, March 13.—The Japanese pur-uit of the Russian armies continues, and a resumption of heavy fighting in the vicinity of Tie Pass is anticipated. Tie Pass, which is natrally strong, has been extensively fortified, and it is thought the Russians will rally there in an endeavor to check the Japanese.

The rapidly advancing Japanese already are in touch at Tie Pass. The Russians evidently are confused and exhausted and possibly are short of food and ammunition, and it is believed here they will be unable to resist a strong attack.

Casualties 40 Per Cent.

Succeeding field reports increase the extent of the Russian disaster. It will require months to re-supply and reorganize the Russian disaster. It will require months to re-supply and reorganize the Russian aimles. Estimates of the casualities given by captives reach 40 per cent. The artillery losses are especially heavy. The captured guns have not yet been counted, but the numerous captured stores and munitions are valued at millions of dollars. This loss materially adds to the crippling of the Russian armies.

The Japanese press editorial articles, in discussing the possible effects of the victory upon peace, declare Japan will unremittedly continue the vigorous prosecution of the war, and has no suggestion to make to Rusiaa, directly or indirectly.

Tie Pass, March 13.—For many versts all the approaches to Tie Pass are covcrea with troops, srillery and baggage transport pressing northward, and 25 miles away the strong rearguard of troops, which is commanded sersonally by Gen. Retreat to Tie Pass Ordered. Retreat to Tie Pass Ordered.

The order to abandon Mukden and retreat to the Tie Pass position was given at 9 o'clock on the evening of March 9. It was realized if any point of the Russian line gave way all would be lost. The position in the most extreme danger appeared to be north of Mukden Station, where it seemed for a time the Japanese might break through and entirely cut the lines of retreat. Gen. Kuropatkin concentrated heavy columns there, took command himself.

retreat. Gen. Kuropatkin concentrated heavy columns there, took command himself.

Burned Everything, Possible.

Before beginning the retreat all the depots, stores and military buildings and everything that would be of service to the Japanese was set on fire. A large amount of baggage and many guns were abandoned. All rolling stock belonging to the main railroad was brought away and not a single car or lecomotive was left at Mukden, though some cars belonging to the military roads behind the Shakhe River positions were abandoned.

Wounded Left Behind.

About 10,000 severely wounded Russians and several hundred Japanese were left at Mukden hospitals, together with a complete Russian medical staff, which was entrusted to the care of the chivalrous Japanese. The remainder of the wounded in hospitals were sent northward and a railroad train remained behind almost with the rearguard, and brought off a train load of those wounded in the retreat, many of them reaching Tie Pass without their nijuries being bandaged. Mukden Station was abandoned at 7 o'clock Friday morning.

miles north of Mukden and Pu, five miles further north. Under these circumstances the retreat was conducted with astonishing precision, which was largely due to the personal efforts of Gen. Kuropatkin, who, with haggard face and uniform yellow with dust, was everywhere when needed.

In ordering a retreat, Gen. Kuropatkin is said to have declared it was done in order to satisfy protesting opinion, and whatever the blame he would take it, which in the light of events seems to show that he best knew the capacity of the soldiers.

Strenuous War.

For ten hours not a man nor a horse rested, while the wounded were being gathered up on the topsides, in the rear, and often in the centre, and every energy was bent towards getting out of a trap, the jaws of which were aimost upon the Russians. The forty miles of retreat was accomplished in seventeen hours. It was virtually through plowed fields, with enormous dust clouds, which made it impossible to see any distance.

STRENUOUS BALZAC.

He Lived In a Frenzy of Toil and Died Pleading For More Time. "To be celebrated and to be loved'assionate desires," writes Tighe Hop rins, the English author. "He gave the preference to fame and killed himself with work if ever author did. His books—each one of which, when he had settled down to the 'Comedie Humaine,' he proclaimed a masterpiece-were a veritable obsession. We know now with what ceaseless and almost insane toll he brought them forth and can see him wrapped in the monk's robe of white finnel, the big throat laid bare, veins swollen, the great black eyes affame, agonizing over plot and scene, supplicating and cursing the phrase that would not come, sustaining this through the days and nights of three dreadful weeks at a stretch in the sealed and curtained chamber where the candles were never extin-guished. Then, livid, unwashed and half clothed, he would drag himself to the printer's. Thus only in a nation of stylists could the man that never achieved a style make himself the first novelist of his day and a classic.

"Wearing and wasting as this travail was. Balzac's splendid strength of oody, the sure and ready return of his inspired and seer-like periods, his quenchless belief in himself and inrepid faith in the future enabled him to continue it, with a minimum of repose, for thirty-one successive years. And what a bulk of work! From 1821 to 1824 he wrote thirty volumes, and in 1824 he was but twenty-five years of age and had not even begun to think of the 'Comedie Humaine.'

"Between 1830 and 1842 seventy-nine novels of the 'Comedy' saw the light, and with all this the great work was never completed. On his deathbed he pleaded with his doctor for six to consummate his task and sank into coma while pleading for six hours."

JAPANESE NEW YEAR'S.

Day of Religious Rites and Spe-

To a devout Japanese breakfast on To a devout Japanese breakfast of New Year's day is a religious rite rather than a vulgar satisfaction of the appetite, says the London Chronicle. Ne ordinary dishes are consumed at this meal. The tea must be made with water drawn from the well when the first ray of sun strikes it, a potpourri of materials specified by law forms the staple dish, while at the finish a measure of special sake from a red lacquer rup must be drained by whosoever desires happiness during the coming year.
