ORDERS FOR JAN. 12, 1916

Duties—Subaltern of the day— Lieut. R. E. Watts; next for duty, Lieut. C. O. Jolly.

Duty Platoon—For duty purposes the base details has been divided up between C and D Companies, and each half will share the duties of the duty company to which it is attached. The duty platoon for the current week will be No. 9.

Supplementary Examinations—Extract from Camp Orders 8, 1, 16: Supplementary examinations at the School of Instruction will be held on the 17th and 18th for officers who have failed in subjects at the last course (Infantry).

"Officers who have failed in all subjects, wishing to qualify must take the last two weeks of the present course and examinations without expense to the public. Applications must be submitted to this office for officers wishing to take these supplementary examinations.

Saluting—Extract from Camp Orders 8, 1, 16: "Officers must be most careful to return the salute of every soldier. There is only one salute laid down—an Officer must return the salute of a soldier by carrying the hand to the head dress in the same manner as a private salutes, and not by a casual jerk of the hand, or the lifting of a walking stick."

CONCERNING DOCTORS.

It is estimated that there are some 700 Ontario doctors, including young practitioners, of course, now over seas, with battalions, base hospitals, and other units.

The duty of a medical officer to look after a battalion—1,200 men—is an arduous one and a severe test of his courage and ability as a medical man. He has to look after all the medical arrangements of the battalion, including supervision over the sanitary arrangements. Particular care has to be taken to preserve the health of the men and look after the sick who do not require to be sent to the hospital. He has to inspect all quarters so that everything is clean, and a thousand other important details, that pertain to the development of the 1,200 men under his care. The medical officer is responsible for the health of the men and also acts as an advisory officer to the officer commanding on matters regarding the health of the troops. They have a great deal to do in preserving the fighting efficiency of the men, this is most important of all—to keep the soldier free from disease so his body can be strong and healthy when he goes to the front. Medical officers do a great deal in the matter by insisting on cleanliness and making the soldiers pay attention to their feet, and see that their boots and socks fit properly.

"HEALTH PRESERVES."

They supervise the work of the sanitation detail to all units and have to instruct stretcher bearers on their work, besides giving lectures and demonstrations to all the men in first aid work in the field and sanitation. It is not considered sufficient that the sanitary arrangements should be left to medical officers, but all officers and men in the ranks are impressed with the importance of carrying out the sanitary arrangements laid down by the medical officer. One of the most important duties of the battalion "health preserver" as they are humorously called in the army, is to lecture to the men on the prevention of communicable diseases. Hundreds of men are careless in their habits and if they do not keep their bodies clean and healthy they are liable to contract diseases and spread it among the soldiers. The medical officer pays strict attention to lectures for the men and this has contributed a great deal to keeping down diseases to the minimum. Medical officers always accompany battalions on route marches and other manoeuvres to look after any accident that might occur. The job of a medical officer is one of the most important posts in the army, and he is responsible one to a battalion.

ALWAYS APPLICANTS TO DRAW FROM.

A medical officer is appointed to a battalion on the recommendation of the officer commanding, who confers with Lt.-Col. Fred W. Marlow, Director of Medical Services. If the officer commanding has recommended the applicant's appointment, he is appointed, provided that he is a factory and capable doctor. He is then appointed to the Army Medical Corps and detailed to duties with a battalion. There is no rivalry for appointments, but there are always a number of applicants to draw from. The job is not very attractive. At the front their duties make it risky and dangerous, and while in training there is a lot of hard work.

THE WHOLE BODY NEEDS PURE BLOOD

The bones, the muscles, and all the organs of the body depend for their strength and tone and healthy action on pure blood.

If the blood is very impure, the bones become enfeebled; the step loses its elasticity, and there is inability to perform the usual amount of labor. The skin loses its clearness, and pimples, blotches and other eruptions appear.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood. It is positively unequalled in the treatment of scrofula and other humors, catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, that tired feeling. Be sure to get Hood's and get it today. All druggists.

ANNUAL BANQUET

Of St. Jude's A. Y. P. A. Proved a Big Success.

St. Jude's A.Y.P.A. held their annual banquet on Monday evening and the event was a success in every respect. The Sunday school room was prettily decorated and the tables loaded with good things. There was an overflow of attendance and a splendid programme and toast list. Following is the programme:

Vocal solo, Miss Maud Taylor; reading, Miss Neva Smith; vocal solo, Mr. N. McLeod; vocal solo, Miss Mary O'Grady; violin solo, Mr. Errol Gamble; reading, Miss A. Eyerson; vocal solo, Miss Elsie Senn; piano solo, Miss Armstrong.

The King—Proposed by the president of the A. Y. P. A., Mr. P. Pellin.

Our Army and Navy—Proposed by Mr. Broadbent. Responded to by Lieut. Slemin.

Our A.Y.P.A. and Sunday School—Proposed by Mr. E. Simpson, responded to by Mr. C. House.

The Rev. Canon T. B. Jenkins—Proposed by Mr. W. B. Scace, responded to by Mr. Jenkins.

Our Boys in Camp and Field—Proposed by Mr. P. Unsworth, responded to by Mr. Raymond.

The Ladies—Proposed by Mr. Trumper, responded to by Miss Hunt.

There were some splendid speeches during the evening. Mr. Broadbent referred to the debt we owe to Britain's navy without, which Canada would probably have suffered the fate of Belgium.

Lieut. Slemin spoke of the hardships the sailors are enduring in the North Sea, that we may live in safety and Commerce go on practically unharmed. Mr. Raymond made the speech of the evening and his words could not fail to inspire patriotism.

He feels like taking off his hat every time our soldier boys pass by for they have made a record for glory and honor that ever Germany has.

The history of the war will be incomplete without an account of the bravery of our boys who went into the war for honour and will come out with honour.

During the evening Miss Gilkinson read an account from a Brantford paper of July 22, 1885, describing the laying of the cornerstone of St. Jude's Sunday School.

The evening was brought to a close with the National Anthem.

Manitoba Compromise on Bilingual Question

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—Addressing the Legislature yesterday, Premier Norris outlined the general principles of his policy. With respect to prohibition, he said he hoped the referendum would give a majority of votes for the reform. If, however, prohibition would not carry the Government would undertake a policy of strict regulation of the liquor traffic and reduction of the number of licenses. There were too many licenses in the province at the present time.

On the bi-lingual question he said the policy of the Government was to make English the teaching language in every school. There would have to be compromises in handling this delicate question, and there were indications that the various nationalities were anxious to reach an understanding.

R. A. Rigg, the Social Democrat member for Winnipeg North, seat B, said that there had been irregularities in his constituency in the election of last August.

Mr. Rigg put the responsibility for these alleged misdeeds on S. Hart Green, the defeated Liberal candidate for seat B, Winnipeg North.

Under the terms of the Woman Suffrage Bill which Premier Norris has introduced, women will be entitled to sit in the Legislature as well as vote.

Music and Drama

"A PAIR OF SIXES."

"A Pair of Sixes," the farce which New York critics declared to be the funniest play ever seen on the New York stage and which ran for an entire year at the Longacre Theatre, New York, will be presented at the Grand Opera House, Tuesday, Jan. 18th by a company of well known actors, each of whom has appeared at one time or another in the New York production. It is in three acts. The author is Edward Peple, who has already won a high place among American dramatists by his other great successes, "The Prince Chap" and "The Little Rebel." He has written an amusing story and developed it through three acts of the most amazing comic situations and in a spirit of humor that never lags.

The plot deals with two partners, who disagree as to the relative importance of the conduct of a prosperous patent medicine business, and they decide, after much squabbling and irritation, to sever their business interests. But their partnership agreement does not provide for any method by which they can end their relations. Their lawyer is called in, but they decline his various business ideas and he finally suggests the inexpensive method of playing a show-down poker hand to see which of the partners will have control of the business, as well as the direction of other partner's affairs. A pair of sixes wins, and the winner obtains the service of his partner as a butler in his household for one year, under an ironclad agreement by which not a word of explanation shall be made nor an order violated, without the payment of so many fines that the loser would be bankrupt. After the butler is installed in his menial duties, he is almost driven frantic by a homely old cockney housemaid, who pursues him with her attentions. To make matters worse, his sweetheart arrives as a guest in the house. He cannot explain for fear of the fines which would sacrifice his interest in the business, and

LAWYERS LISTEN BUT DO NOT ACT ON SUGGESTIONS

Complaint of Legal Lights at Ontario Bar Association.

TRYING TO PUT THROUGH REFORMS

"Votes for Women" is Used in Committee's Report.

"Year after year," says the report on Law Reform, before the Ontario Bar Association, at the annual meeting at Osogode Hall yesterday, "your committee has suggested and recommended legislation to improve the law, but very few of these suggestions or recommendations have found their way into the Statutes. Your committee has almost come to the conclusion that it is useless to recommend further amendments to the law if these are to meet with the same fate as former ones."

WOULD TRY PRESSURE.

However, the committee, of which M. H. Ludwig, K.C., is chairman, recommends that the present name of a committee of six, "charged with the duty of taking the necessary steps to have the legislation heretofore proposed become law."

The committee says that too many Appellate Court cases find their way into the reports: "The constant reporting decisions that lay down no principle should be discouraged."

HUMAN BEINGS NEGLECTED.

The committee points out that while it has been deemed necessary and advisable to regulate by legislation the number of animals that may be confined in a car or other given space, "our legislators, so far, have not deemed similar enactments necessary for human beings."

AMAZINGLY WELL.

Augustine Birrell, the Irish Secretary, replying to Sir Edward Carson said: "The Government never contemplated the application of the bill to Ireland, for they could not hope to establish in Ireland those appeal tribunals wherein the excess of the bill in Great Britain depends, Ireland has done wonderfully well, but I say, 'Do not rush her.'"

CARSON NOT SATISFIED.

Sir Edward Carson scathingly denounced the opportunity of the bill. He declared that the obligations which Great Britain had assumed could not be fulfilled unless the bill from the Statutes had been abandoned, he said, because the country had not had enough men to carry through the enterprise, which he said was a "most admirably conceived undertaking."

PROPERTY CONSCRIPTION

Referring to suggestions regarding the conscription of property, Sir Edward declared he would not shrink from it if necessary in this way to raise funds to win the war. "What good is property to me," he said, "if I have to hang my head in shame?"

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

Look at the tongue, mother. If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels are getting a little, through cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food, and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of cheap imitations sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

National Unemployment Fund—The first account of the Unemployment Fund of the National Insurance Act shows receipts of £2,011,504, the contributions of employers and workmen being £1,822,937, and the sum provided by the State £388,567, which was received as interest on £8,223 investments. The chief disbursements were—Unemployed benefit, £1,183,193; repayment to workmen, £183,193; repayment to 28,000 workmen of unemployment benefit, £25,124; salaries and other charges, £181,000; Commissioners for the Redemption of the National Debt, for interest, £1,610,000; balance, £38,907.

REDMOND FAVORS COMPULSIONS ACT

London, Jan. 12.—At the opening of the debate on the second reading of the Military Service Bill in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon John E. Redmond, Parliamentary leader of the Irish Nationalist party, announced that the Nationalists would put forward no further opposition to its passage. Having made their protest and observed the overwhelming majority in its favor, he stated in his speech there would be no more demonstrations on their part.

Signs of Improvement

Real Estate transfers with the old agency of S. G. Read & Son, Limited, were 300 per cent greater during the months from 1st of September to 31st of December, 1915, than the corresponding months of Jan. 1st, 1916. We hope and expect a much better year this year. Prospects are brighter, factories are busier, merchants are doing better and there is a healthier atmosphere. The result of the war never looked more hopeful for the Allies—we expect the end thereof beginning after midsummer of 1917 as never has been before.

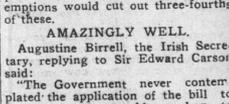

Now is the time to buy Brantford real estate, and we are well equipped for serving our customers. Come and see our list of properties—come and let us drive you around and show you what we have to sell. Come to the agency that knows the history of real estate since its beginning—45 years in business, and never sold a property with a bad title, and never made a loan that our clients lost a dollar by—on the contrary many who have continually dealt with us for the last 30 or 40 years have averaged from 20 to 30 per cent per annum on their investments, and in some cases more than that. We will guarantee the investments made through us, absolutely. Estates managed, rents collected, properties insured, auction sales conducted.

MOUNTED SCOUTS OF SIBERIAN FORGES' HARDY, DARING TROOPS

Held Back the Germans on One of Their Drives on Warsaw and Turned the Tide of Battle—Russian Red Cross Very Efficient—Flying Columns Which Aid the Wounded.

Headquarters of the Russian Army of the Center, Dec. 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—One of the most perilous branches of army service in Russia is that of mounted scouts, an organization peculiar to the Siberian corps. There are one hundred or more of these scouts to each regiment, and a harder, more daring lot of rough riders would be hard to find. They are for the most part plainmen, whose life has been spent in the open and on horseback.

RAID GERMAN LINES.
This organization played an important part in the Japanese war, where, by their impetuous attacks they saved the Russian troops in many instances from heavy losses. After the Japanese war they were disbanded, but with the outbreak of the present conflict, were reorganized by Captain Benjamin Jessotky, who became their commander. During the recent months while the Russians and Germans have been facing each other in the trenches these scouts frequently have raided the German lines and during the last week in November, on the Eastern front, they bagged a German staff, consisting of two generals, a doctor and six non-commissioned officers. A colonel and many soldiers were killed in the action. The following incidents concerning the scout activities earlier in the war were given by an officer at the front who participated in events related.

HELD THE LINE.
The Germans began to advance on Novo Ivitchi, sending a flying column in front. Fessotky ordered his men to open fire. The German column to their surprise began to fall back. Fessotky got on top of a small house and through his glasses observed the enemy, ordering changes in position to give the impression that the trenches were fully manned. The Germans began shelling the village and the house where he was. In face of this he sent an officer to the rear,

GREAT ENEMY LOSSES IN BUKOWINA BATTLES

Petrograd, Jan. 12.—According to a private message from Kiev the number of prisoners taken by the Russians in the last three weeks' fighting is much greater than was supposed from the official reports.

A party of 2,200 has just reached Kiev. It is said there are 10,000 more in the rear of the fighting line. This number is exclusive of the wounded, whom the enemy are abandoning wholesale.

MUD IN BELGIUM IS EVERYWHERE
How the Plucky Soldiers of King Albert Struggle With This Foe As Well as Against the Germans.

With the Belgian Army in Flanders, Jan. 12.—As soon as one leaves Nieupoort town, as distinguished from Nieupoort beach which is held by the French, and travels to the southeast along what was once the Nieupoort-Dixmude railroad, one meets the little Belgian army, as stubborn as their work of protecting their last strip of country as in the epic days of August, 1914.

AN UNCEASING STRUGGLE
Here we enter a region of mud and mud clings and clogs us as we advance—mud everywhere. The mud is here as much of the enemy as the Teutons. It is a struggle that never ceases.

SMALL TOWNS SHELLED
The small towns behind the lines are subjected daily to bombardment. The engagement was at long range, at many points to make sorties after vigorous bombardment. These were repulsed with losses.

BLEAKEST SPOT IN WEST
Without question Flanders is the bleakest spot on the whole western front. During winter it rains six days out of seven, and on the seventh a drenching sea mist is sure to obscure the landscape.

THIS CORRESPONDENT

Forshadowed the Withdrawal From Gallipoli Peninsular.

Constantinople, Dec. 31 (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The withdrawal of a large portion of the Allied troops on the Gallipoli Peninsula has been almost coincident with the arrival at the Turkish front of heavy German and Austrian batteries, which are so formidable that the people of Constantinople believe there is no longer the slightest doubt as to the ability of the Ottoman army to clear the peninsula of the invaders. Large shipments of ammunition for the Turkish artillery also recently reached the Dardanelles coast batteries and the field guns, and according to indications in the Turkish official report, the Ottoman troops are constantly increasing their effectiveness in artillery fire.

During the last interview with The Associated Press correspondent, Field Marshal Liman von Sanders Pasha, the latter pointed out that with sufficient artillery at his disposal the Allied troops would find it difficult to remain on the peninsula, especially if their artillery was able to keep the British and French men of war from coming too close to the coast.

As pointed out in previous despatches, the lack of sufficient artillery and ammunition proved at times a sore problem for the Turkish troops. The Turkish artillery fire was always weak, and the Allied warships were unable to take the Turkish positions under the most gallant fire without running the slightest risk, except that occasioned by the presence of German submarines. It was only occasionally that one of the Allied ships, venturing in too closely, was hit. The fire of the British monitors, also by reason of being "high curve" made certain exposed trenches of the Allied trenches also exposed to the fire of heavy mortars. It is declared that the fate of the British and French troops on the Gallipoli Peninsula is sealed. In fact, say the Turkish authorities, to take them away while there is yet a chance would be an act of mercy. The prospects of success for the Allies are declared to be so slight that it would require an expenditure of men and material as great as has already been made to bring the British and French any closer to Constantinople. Although tens of thousands of the Turkish infantrymen fought for some time with rifles of the antique Snyder type, they have all now been equipped with modern models, notably the rifles taken from the Russians. The great scarcity of machine guns in the Ottoman army is also a thing of the past. Everything that could tend to place the Turkish army on an equal footing with the best organization in Europe has been rushed here since the opening of traffic on the Danube.

To-day it has become a question whether or not it is possible for the Allies to remove the rest of their troops without losing a great share of them. The transports, if brought inshore to embark the troops, would be under a terrible fire by the new Turkish batteries, even if a powerful British and French fleet were assembled to protect the retreat.

THE ROMANCE OF THE EDELWEISS.

The Alpine edelweiss has always had a special attraction for tourists who love the gathering of the flower in dangerous circumstances. An amusing chapter on this subject is contained in "Adventures among Wild Flowers," by Mr. John Trevena. The author says— "Of all the various kinds of mental derangement from which few adventures in the Alps are free, the edelweiss mania is the most remarkable, inasmuch as it attacks all classes: young men and maidens, old men and children, venerable ladies, philosophers and scientists—all bow their knees in worship before the white and woolly idol, Leontopodium alpinum. All must sport their imitation of a flower in hat or buttonhole. It is the

THE DIAMOND FROM THE SKY

CHAPTER XXIV. Arthur Strikes It Rich.

"YES, dear," Hagar had murmured when Esther had folded her in her arms; "I know who you are, but I just cannot remember now. My tomorrow I will remember. They took my boy away; they put a great jewel on his breast. I remember that, and I remember you came and were my baby in his place. I will remember tomorrow. I am tired now, but kiss me, dear child, for I see by your eyes you love me, and I will remember tomorrow who you are."

So it was with a hopeful heart and feeling resolute for her adventuring in search of Arthur that Esther bid adieu to the kindly head of the sanitarium and rejoined Quabba, with his own personal attendant, Clarence, the monkey, waited for her in the shadows up the quiet street, and, trudging side by side, the girl and the hunchback, the latter carrying the sleeping monkey and a small bundle of Esther's hastily packed belongings, took their way from city streets to country lanes, while on them gleamed the light of the myriads of diamonds in the sky. She was happy. She felt sure that Arthur prospered in far California and the money that Hagar supposedly had been possessed of could be found. Save for a modest sum of money on her person when she returned to Stanley hall, Esther had not known that with the clonding of Hagar's mind after her visit to the house of Mrs. Stanley in Fairfax no trace of any wealth or means that Hagar supposedly had been possessed of could be found. Save for a modest sum of money on her person when she returned to Stanley hall, Esther had not known that with the clonding of Hagar's mind after her visit to the house of Mrs. Stanley in Fairfax no trace of any wealth or means that Hagar supposedly had been possessed of could be found.

SIGNIFICANT ORDER

French Officers and Men to Salute Greek Officers.

Paris, Jan. 12.—General Sarraill commander of the French army in the East, has issued a new order to his troops, from which the Saloniki correspondent of The Times quotes the following as the most important passage: "I repeat again: You must all, both officers and men, observe towards the officers of the Greek army of rank superior to your own the authorized rules of deference and the outward marks of respect. You will be good enough to entertain relations of friendship: comradeship with military of your own rank."

Rarities in warfare are bullets made of precious stones, but during the fighting on the Kashmir frontier, the British troops defeated the rebellious Hindus, the brave used bullets of pure garnets enclosed in lead. Many of the troops preserved these as curiosities.

CHAPTER XXIV. Arthur Strikes It Rich.

Esther had not been aware that this purchase he mounted his horse and awkwardly bore it away. He had hardly gone when Detective Blake arrived, driven over from the Fairfax depot, followed in another station carriage by Blair Stanley and his mother, and the aged, for every ill thing that used to, and she would tell you—Mrs. Randolph.

When Mrs. Randolph's maid announced that Esther's room was in disorder, her bed not slept in and that Esther was gone, Mrs. Randolph promptly had an attack of nerves, while Blair raged and fumed. Mrs. Stanley alone remained cool in the face of this surprising news. "She has no friends and no money," said Mrs. Stanley calmly; "she will not go far. We will find her back here or with her gypsy friends before long."

MANY SPIES

Over-run Salonica and Post the Germans.

Paris, Jan. 12.—Numerous extracts from documents seized at Salonica when the Consuls of the Teutonic allies were arrested there recently were printed in yesterday's newspapers. Among the papers, according to the published statements were copies of daily reports telegraphed to Vienna by the Austrian Consul-General, giving the numbers and descriptions of allied troops that were landing at Salonica; reports of spies on the movements of allied forces into the interior and records of payments to these spies and to local newspapers. The system of espionage the accounts stated, was extended to Greece, and among the published papers there are what purports to be copies of reports made by agents at Greek military centres and by port functionaries. A good friend of Germany and can be trusted," is a sentence printed as being taken from one of the reports made regarding a certain prefect, while a certain officer is described as "a good friend of Germany and can be trusted."

One secret agent is declared to have written on December 30 that Greek troops which were supposed to be leaving the city marched out on one side and came back on the other.

Another secret agent, a secretary of the German Legation, is represented as reporting that he was endeavoring to establish communication by spies with Monastir.
