

PAUL VANE'S WIFE

"See, Paul, your eagle comes! What a magnificent specimen! And look! he carries something white in his talons. A young lamb, doubtless, that he has stolen from a flock. Ah! he swoops down so near us that you can easily get a good shot. You first. Steady now; take a good aim. Fire!"

A sharp report rang out. The aim had been true. As the smoke cleared away the immense eagle was perceived shooting downward with great velocity through the air. Harold Meadows ran forward and caught the bleeding bird with admirable dexterity. It fell into his arms with a thud, and Harold recoiled with a womanish cry of grief and amazement.

"Oh, God! what have we done? See this little white bundle bathed in blood! It is not a lamb. It is a tiny little baby that the eagle was carrying off to its nest. And it is dead! We have murdered the little thing!"

CHAPTER XXVII.

Meadow Brook was the scene of great excitement when two sportsmen returned, soon after Beryl's arrival, Paul exultantly carrying the eagle, the trophy of his skill, and Harold bearing with careful hands a small bundle wrapped in his shooting-coat.

"You will never, never guess," he said, when he had kissed his pretty sister, "what I have here!" smiling down at the little bundle.

"Something for me!" cried the happy girl.

"Yes; a lovely little pet," answered Harold, gaily, and Beryl, mindful of boyish tricks that Harold had played on her so often in the past, approached cautiously and drew aside a corner of the coat.

But in none of his wildest pranks had mischievous Hal ever astonished her like this. She was nothing more than a tiny little baby—an exquisite, doll-like little creature, with a tiny, rosy face, lying asleep as cozily as if it were in a cradle, so tenderly did it cling to him in its arms.

"Oh! oh! oh! Where did you get it, Hal?" exclaimed Beryl, and her cry brought mamma rushing to the scene. She, too, exclaimed in wonder at Harold's strange burden, and hastened to take it from his arms into her own tender, motherly arms.

"But where did you get it?" she repeated, as her daughter had done, in amazement.

"Bring some milk and feed the poor little thing, then I will tell you all I know about it," said the young man; for the babe at that moment whimpered faintly and opened its little eyes—eyes of heaven's own blue—and looked up with what seemed an appealing gaze into the eyes of Beryl, who was bending over it in rapturous admiration.

"No pity, darling! she cooed, and the baby smiled softly, as if it understood the sweet love language. Impulsively the girl bent and kissed the dainty, doll-like little thing; then, as Harold bade her to bring it food.

"Mrs. Meadows fed it sweetened milk daintily from a teaspoon, and then, while she soothed it gently to sleep again, the young man told the romantic story of his rescue.

"We thought we had killed the poor little thing!" Harold said, with a sudden moisture in his eyes at the memory of the moment when they looked through tears that did not shame their manhood at the still, little face, and thought that Paul's shot had taken its innocent life.

"It was wrapped in a white embroidered shawl, and the eagle's blood had stained the wrapping crimson. So we thought for a minute it was dead, and in that moment we felt like murderers. Tears ran down Paul's cheeks—you need not look ashamed, my boy; they were a credit to you—and I own I sobbed aloud." Beryl sobbed at this juncture, for the recital was very affecting. "But our dismay lasted only a minute, for then the little one began to cry, and we found that it was quite unharmed, save for a slight wound on the left shoulder made by the sharp talons of the eagle as it grasped it. See," he said, pointing it out to his mother, and adding, fervently, "Oh, how we thanked God that we had not committed murder!"

"It is the strangest thing I ever heard of," cried Mrs. Meadows. "Why, where could the eagle have found it? I wonder if it is not some poor little outcast creature abandoned by a heartless, unmotherly man. In no other way could the eagle have become possessed of it."

"Oh, mamma, don't suggest such a thing!" cried Beryl. "To me it seems just like a baby dropped from the sky—a little flower from heaven—or a star! Yes, that is it—a star! Hal, you said it was for me, this little pet! So I will name it Star!"

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Bud Rensen and Joe Murray were idle sportsmen, and believed in the old saw that "the early bird catches the worm." So, promptly on the morning of the day succeeding the accident at Aready, they unmoored their boat for a morning's fishing in the clear waters of Mountain Lake, where the fine fishy tribe abounded, and the August sun was many hours high had a fine showing of the speckled beauties known as mountain trout in the bottom of the boat.

Morning Lake was one of the loveliest spots on which the eye of a beauty lover ever rested with rapture. Picturesquely formed by Nature's hand, enclosed on all sides by wooded mountain slopes and bordered by blossoming rhododendrons and wild laurel, it lay upon the breast of old Virginia like a sapphire set in emerald. Deep in its clear depths were seen the tops of tall pines that had taken root and flourished long ago, spreading aloft their stately branches to sun and moon and breeze from the mountain spring that once had hidden beneath their shade had swelled to a tumultuous lake, submerging them beneath its waves as the unbridled passions of sin often overflow the tender growths of human kindness.

"My, it grows warm," Joe Murray said, with his little smile. "Suppose we return to the hotel, eh, Bud?" looking upward at old Sol, who was slowly climbing the meridian.

Suddenly he dodged, with a loud cry of surprise and alarm.

"Havens! Look, look! A balloon—"

"Not so far, for just at that moment the living body of a man was precipitated swiftly downward from a speckling balloon above them, seeming at first as if it would fall into the boat, but moving slightly in its terrific, downward course, plunging into the shrubberies with eager, yearning eyes.

"In a moment we shall meet; she is singing in the meadow, and the rivulet at her feet is Rippling on in light and shadow. Do I hear her sing as of old, My bird with shining head, My own dove with the tender eye? But there rings on a sudden a passionate cry."

"He waited, watched in vain: A strange sense of desolation clung about the place. The dooms and windows were all closed, the shutters drawn. He thought he had been pang of regret, of the day he had come here with sorrow and seen the young wife sitting by her husband on the garden seat, so fair and sweet and loving. Ah, only to see her there again, what would he not have given. Life itself, necessary."

He opened the gate at last and went into the lonely place. A serpent crawled across his path, and he stepped over it with a quick shudder as he mounted the steps of the porch. He rang the bell, and the sound came back to him in low echoes. The rectory seemed absolutely uninhabited.

"MOTHER" EDDY'S NEW HOME

It Has Bolts and Bars and Patrol of Guards.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 28.—Sudden removal to a $200,000 mansion at Chestnut Hill makes no difference in the daily routine of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science Church. She took a drive to-day, as was her daily custom at Pleasant View, Concord, N. H. Her secluded new quarters, however, with guards patrolling the spacious grounds and with locked gates at the entrance, permit more privacy than was possible at the village estate. Her carriage and horse arrived from Concord at noon to-day, and within an hour the usual coachman and Calvin A. Frye, Mrs. Eddy's secretary, had them at the big porte-cochere. Her drive after fifteen minutes this afternoon was cut short by a snowstorm.

YORK LOAN LIQUIDATION

Permanent Stockholders Ask to Rank as Creditors.

Toronto, Jan. 28.—Are they holders of stock which the York Loan Company had no right to issue, and therefore creditors for the $222,655 contributed by them to its stock, or are they holders of duly authorized stock, and, therefore, liable for the payment of a further $207,945: is the question that is agitating about 1,000 holders of $500. of what is called permanent stock. The question is also one of considerable interest to the holders of—terminating stock as between a reduction of their assets by about $300,000, and the addition to their assets of unpaid $200,000 on permanent stock and the elimination of the holders of the latter from participation in the division of the corpus of the company, there is a very material difference.

Thirty-Five Members of Legislature to be Called.

Toronto, Jan. 28.—In denying a rumour that Dr. Beattie Nessitt intended to drop his action for criminal libel against the Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of the Globe, Dr. Nessitt's counsel, Mr. Reid, of Macdonell & Bohand, stated yesterday that thirty-five subpoenas had been prepared for service upon members of the Legislature and would be issued probably some time this week.

LOWER DUTIES ON WINES

United States Effects Reciprocity Treaty With France.

Washington, Jan. 28.—President Roosevelt late to-day issued a proclamation announcing the conclusion of the Franco-American reciprocity arrangement drawn under section 3 of the Dingley Act. Under it America concedes a 20 per cent. abatement in duties on champagne and sparkling wines imported into the United States, and France confirms the minimum tariff rate now accorded American products.

KILLED VILLAIN.

WOMAN TELLS HOW SHE KILLED HER TRADUCER.

Claims Self Defence—Thought He Was About to Kill Witness After Breaking Up Home.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The "short and simple annals of the poor" found eloquent expression in Judge Windes' Court yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Angeline Anselone, 24 years old, told why and how she shot and killed Phillip Ferreo last August.

Her plea is self-defence—that she shot to protect her life from imminent danger. But whether Phillip Ferreo had a revolver in his pocket or not and whether he intended to draw it and use it had not been stopped by a bullet in his brain are questions less frequently asked than the question of unwritten law. Had she a right to kill him?

If her story is true, it is a new plea of the appeal to the unwritten law for justification. There were no chorus girls, champagne suppers, or hereditary degeneracy in it. The woman did not kill the man because he had betrayed her, or because he was tired of her. According to her story, she was a pure woman, a good wife and a good mother, and she shot Phillip Ferreo because, not content with ruining her home and happiness, he still followed her, intent on ruining her soul or taking her life.

Testifies Through Interpreter.
In short sentences she told her tragedy. Her little daughter Anita, four years old, who played an important part in precipitating one of its saddest scenes, sat with Mrs. Fiorelli, the court interpreter, who translated Mrs. Anselone's confession and whose testimony forms the basis of the whole case for the prosecution. As Mrs. Anselone gave her testimony her little daughter became restless, and the mother frequently halted to smile at the child and speak to her. At last the little girl began to cry for her mother, and after being taken to the corridor for a short time was allowed to go to her mother, who then held her in arms for most of the afternoon. Once, however, she got down and stood beside the stenographer's desk, staring curiously at the exhibits for the State which lay there, a revolver and several bullets.

Mrs. Anselone told of coming to America with her baby two years after her husband, and of going with him to live with her brother and his wife, to which house Phillip Ferreo soon came as a boarder. Ferreo first tried to make trouble between the brother and his wife, and threatened to kill the man if the woman would not yield to him. He made threats to Mrs. Anselone, four times, at one time showing her a revolver and saying: "By this gun you

WOMAN SLAIN.

MARKS ON JOSEPHINE MALONE'S THROAT MADE BY FINGERS.

Maniac Theory Advanced—Clayton Woman's Husband Acts in Janesville Double Mystery.

Janesville, Wis., Jan. 28.—Five of six leading physicians who re-examined Josephine Malone's body this afternoon said marks on her throat and neck were made by fingers. Dr. St. John disagreed and intimated the marks were not there when he made his examination with a microscope Saturday. Dr. Gibson, who helped in Saturday's examination and was present to-day, accounts for their presence by saying the body on Saturday was in a semi-frozen condition, and that the embalming fluid, and the drawing from the tissues developed the marks, then not noticeable.

District Attorney Fisher thinks the death suspicious enough to warrant the employment of a detective. He says the county should investigate both the Malone case and that of Madeline Clayton, whose death was similar, and whose body was found across the river, a hundred yards away from that of Miss Malone.

William and Frank Malone, brothers of the dead woman, said she was murdered, and consulted an attorney with a view of forcing the police and District Attorney to take action. City Marshal Appleby is the only official who believes the death resulted from suicide. He sees no need for an investigation.

Frederick Clayton, husband of the dead Chicago actress, arrived last night and is aiding in solving the Malone problem, stating that he believes its solution will mean the clearing up of the mystery of his wife's death.

The theory advanced by the District Attorney and relatives of Miss Malone is that the woman was the victim of a maniac, who choked her and threw her, while alive, into the river. One of the persons suspected of the crime was brought to the morgue to-day, but he showed no evidence of ever having seen the woman before and thought he was invited there to aid in the solution of the death as a detective.

A Milwaukee detective, who arrived this afternoon, stated he did not believe the woman went into the river of her own will.

Just what action will be taken is doubtful, as District Attorney Fisher, while expressing a theory of foul play, does not believe there is sufficient evidence yet to call a coroner's jury, and has no funds at his disposal to employ a detective.

It is possible the Malone family will employ an investigator to work under direction of the District Attorney.

GETS REVOLVER AND KILLS HIM.

She then told of arming herself with a revolver which her husband had left at a meeting Ferreo one day shortly afterward. He taunted her with the success of his plans, and in her anger she drew her revolver in the crowded street and shot into the ground at her feet. Ferreo ran, and a policeman took the gun away from her. She then bought another revolver, which she used so effectively.

"The day that I killed him," she said, "I saw him from my window peeping up and down the street in front of the house, so I called in my little one. After I had called her in, 'Mamma, I want some bread,' so I started out to get a loaf of bread at the store. I went the rear way. As I went down the steps a neighbor said that my cousin who had caused my husband to leave me was walking up and down by the alley. As I walked across the yard the door to the ally opened and Phillip came toward me. 'Do not be frightened. I want to talk with you,' he said. I told him to take himself away from my sight."

"Then he began to curse, and said that he would kill me, and made a motion with his hand toward his hip pocket. I did not think what I did, but I was sure he was going to kill me, and I threw up my hand with my revolver in it and shot. Then I dropped the revolver and ran, without even knowing if I had hit him."

State's Attorney Fletcher cross-examined the woman for over half an hour, without shaking her testimony, and will continue the examination this morning.

Convicted at Former Trial.
On her first trial, before Judge Kersten, she did not go on the stand and tell her story, and was found guilty of murder and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary. The severity of the sentence, following closely verdicts of acquittal for wealthier women defendants on the grounds of the "unwritten law," roused a protest against club women, headed by Mrs. Frederick Freer, and a new trial was granted by Judge Kersten on the ground of error in the record. Mrs. Anselone is represented by Bernard P. Barasa.

CHILD TELLS OF ATTACK.

"That was Saturday night," continued the witness, "and the next morning, Sunday, as soon as my little one awoke she went to her papa and said: 'Papa, Phillip shall not come here again, because last night he grabbed my mamma by the hair and beat her.' My husband was angry, and asked me to explain why Phillip beat me. I said he beat me because he was trying to force me to eat with him. My husband did not believe that, and I asked him to get Phillip, and ask him before me if that was not the truth. About 7 o'clock my husband came in with Phillip, and then he said to him, 'I want to know why last night you beat my wife.'"

"Have you eaten with my wife? If you have really done it, I will may take her. I do not want her."

"And Phillip said, 'I will take her.' I began to scream. 'You have betrayed me. It is a lie, and I hope some one will kill you.'"

"Then Phillip said again that he had eaten with me, and my husband said, 'Then you may have her; I don't want her.' Then Phillip struck at me, but my husband struck me first, and they both beat me, and my husband left, and I have never seen him since. Before Phillip left SAVED HIS SON. Father Crushed to Death by Locomotive at Staten Island.

New York, Jan. 28.—John Gladys, a machinist, lost his life at Great Kills, S. I., to-day in saving that of his eleven-year-old son. The boy and his father were walking along the tracks of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company, when the little fellow stepped directly in front of a moving train. Seeing the peril in which the boy had placed himself, Gladys rushed after him and had pushed him out of danger when he himself slipped on the ice track and fell directly in the path of the engine. He was so badly crushed that he lived only a few minutes. The boy was unhurt.

FINE NEW ORGAN IN ST. JOSEPH'S FOR WEST RIDING. Looks as if Mayor Stewart Would Be It.

Although Mayor Stewart shakes his head wisely and denies it when asked if he has his eye on the West Hamilton nomination for the approaching elections, his friends have another story to tell. During his reign as Hamilton's chief magistrate he has been commended at times for his independent attitude on certain questions, and this year he will be a bid to the Tory administration.

A fine new organ has just been installed in St. Joseph's Church, and is to be opened on Thursday evening of this week by a recital by Mr. Harry J. Allen. The instrument was built by the Warren Church Organ Co. of Woodstock, and cost, complete, $2,000. It is a very beautiful piece of workmanship in highly finished quarter cut oak, the front pipes being richly decorated in gold and colors. It has a radiating, executive pedal board of the American Guild of Organists pattern, a detached console with roll top, communal windchest, and is operated by an electric motor. REWARD FOR GOOD SERVICE.

Police Commissioners Appreciate P. C. Smith.

Doctors Said to Abuse the Ambulance Privilege.

Prolonged Absence of Major Prentice and P. C. Canary.

The first business of the Police Commissioners at noon to-day was the appointment of a chairman for the coming year. "Not for mine," said Mayor Stewart. "I'm your pard there," smiled Magistrate Jelfs. "I suppose I'll have to accept," said Judge Snider, as he traded chairs with the magistrate, who was chairman last year.

The case of Henry Smith, police constable, who alone captured two or three men who had broken into Horey's drug store a month or so ago, was brought up, and the chief recommended him strongly. He has to serve over two years before he receives first-class pay, and the chief asked the commissioners to top the time off. The commissioners agreed to take a year off the second-class time still to serve. This will make a difference of 10 cents a day in Smith's pay.

P. C. Barrett and Brannon were also recommended for consideration for their clever and brainy capture of copper wire thieves. They were recommended by Woodman Bros., owners of the wire, and this letter was put in the minutes.

The case of William Canary, who has been away for over a year with tuberculosis, was taken up. He has not been drawing his salary, but if he retires will get $1,000 from the benefit fund. The case was laid over, and before it comes up again Dr. Roberts will be asked to make a final examination of Canary and report on his condition.

Several requests the chief made for new patrol boxes and the placing of a call gong at King and James streets were granted.

The Police Benefit Fund Trustees asked that the officers' pay be increased 2 per cent., the same to go to the Benefit Fund. This is an annual request, and was turned down, as usual.

Re the Chief's request for more horses for the ambulance, the Chairman stated that in his opinion the ambulance calls were work for the Hospital, not for the police. The police were not able to do what the size of the force would warrant an outsider in expecting.

The Chief stated that the abuse of the privilege was being manifest, and it would serve the doctors right to lose the privilege. This was laid over.

The illness of Sergt.-Major Prentice and his prolonged absence from the force was dealt with in the same way as Canary's case.

The building of new cells was a topic that occupied considerable time, but as the Commissioners were on the point of turning this matter down, the Chief stood up.

"I don't like to draw comparisons," he said, "but look at the equipment and stations the firemen get." They get whatever they ask for.

The Mayor did not say a word in reply.

The Chief's annual report will be found on another page.

DREW A REVOLVER.

John Thornton Had His Head Cracked, However.

A man who gave his name as John Thornton and told the police he lived at 283 York Street, was placed under arrest this afternoon, charged with pointing a revolver at the proprietor of the Union Hotel, Hughson and Hunter streets. The police do not know the particulars, but Thornton is said to have suddenly drawn the revolver. Fearing he was going to shoot, men in the bar rushed at him and disarmed him. Thornton was evidently struck in the mix-up for he had to be taken to the City Hospital to get some stitches put in his head. He was arrested by Constables Cruickshank and Sharp, and is in the cells charged with pointing a revolver.

THIS IS TOUGH.

Tory Organizer Could Not Be Health Chairman.

Between drilling refractory aldermen into line and being worried with rent bills the Tory club and Charles H. Peebles, the new organizer, seem to be having troubles of their own these days. Mr. Peebles desired very much to be Chairman of the Board of Health this year, but although he is Tory organizer, he could not drum enough of the members of the Board into line to support him. It is said he secured the promise of W. H. Judd and Mayor Stewart to support him, but neither of these turned up at the organization meeting, and Frank Quinn, who was Chairman last year, was re-elected without opposition.

MURDERED HER.

Percy Boyne Confesses He Killed Mrs. Cornelia Welch.

Wanted Money to Take Young Woman to Buffalo.

Boy of Eighteen Tells Detroit Police How He Slewed the Woman.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 28.—Percy Boyne, a boy of eighteen, of Woodville, Ont., to-night confessed to the local police that he is the murderer of Mrs. Cornelia Welch, who was found dead in her room here three weeks ago.

Early to-day Boyne was brought before Chief of Detectives McDonnell. He admitted he was in the horse on the night of the murder, that he saw the woman slain, but that another man did the deed. He would not give this other man's name to the police.

The confession covers forty-two type-written pages. It is not given out in detail, but briefly as follows: "I went to the home of Mrs. Welch at night to rob her. I had made arrangements to go to Buffalo with a young woman of the city, and had not the necessary funds, so I turned up my mind to steal from Mrs. Welch. Mrs. Welch was writing a letter. She finished and asked me to get her a stamp. I said I had one, and she said she would buy it. She went to the kitchen and I entered the kitchen. I turned on the light and caught hold of her throat. She called to the dogs. 'Sick 'em,' but they did not mind.

"I put her head under my left arm and hit her with my right fist. Soon she stopped yelling and I dropped limp. I got a strap and apron and tied her hands and feet. Then I carried her into a bedroom and threw the body on the floor, putting a pillow under the head. I searched her pockets, and found $15 and a pair of diamond earrings. I locked the door and left. I stayed at a hotel all night, and next morning met the girl I had made arrangements with and went to Buffalo. I tried all day to see the woman, but finally sold her jewelry, and rings to jewellers, for $25. I stayed in Buffalo two days and then went to Toronto, where I stayed with a cousin for a day, and then went to Woodville.

"I saw many newspapers in Woodville telling of the mysterious murder in Detroit, but did not let on that I knew anything about it.

"Two days before my arrest my mother came down in the morning while I was eating breakfast. She was pale and haggard. She came over to me and laid her arm on my shoulder. 'Percy,' she said, 'I had an awful dream last night, and I can't get over it. I dreamed that you murdered some one and stood before me with blood on your coat. The murdered man or woman lay at your side. Percy, what have you done?' I laughed."

The clue given the police which resulted in Boyne's arrest was furnished by Miss Rose Lavick. She roomed with Mrs. Welch, and was in the house on the night of the murder. She got up about 11 o'clock and went through the house. She saw Boyne in the hallway talking to Mrs. Welch. When she went out for her breakfast she saw nothing in disorder. When she returned she saw the doors locked. When she came back a second time she found officers guarding the house and was refused admittance. She then went to Chief McDonnell to get a permit to get her clothes, and was held.

The girl told the police of Boyne's presence in the house, and it resulted in his arrest. The Bible was presented G00W00 Tmm-gwv emf emf emf emf pany here. He made the confession soon after she gave it to him.

GIFT OF A FARM.

Dr. James Douglas's Handsome Present to a Quebec Asylum.

Montreal, Jan. 28.—Dr. James Douglas, of New York, has made the Protestant Hospital for Insane at Verdun a present of the farm on the east side of their present property, which is valued at $42,000.

The donor of the property is now living in New York, but is a native of Quebec, and is a son of Dr. James Douglas, who was prominently identified with the Beauport Asylum. Dr. Douglas has exhibited a lifelong interest in the work to benefit the insane, as it is indicated by his present gift to the institution at Verdun.

Friends interested in the work of the hospital had for some time been anxious to increase the frontage of the Verdun property, as it was so narrow as to make it practically impossible to build any wings to the buildings.

Hearing of this, Mr. Douglas came to the institution's assistance and the purchase of the adjoining farm of seventy acres was closed.

A CRIPPLE CURED.

Helpless and Bent With Rheumatism—Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I was a helpless cripple. I was bent in form and could not straighten up. Crutches were my only means of moving about. I tried many medicines, but they all failed until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—they cured me."

George Schaw, of Short Beach, N. S., made the above almost startling statement to a reporter a few days ago. Mr. Schaw is now a well built man, strong and broad shouldered. Like thousands of Nova Scotians, he is a fisherman, and is consequently exposed to all kinds of weather, just the conditions to set the rheumatic poison in the blood at work.

Mr. Schaw adds: "It is impossible to overrate the severity of the attack. The trouble was located in my back and right hip. I had to quit work and was mostly indoors. There was a time when I never expected to stand erect again, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills straightened me up again, not only that, but they made me strong, hearty man you see me to-day. I can never describe the awful pain I suffered before I used these pills. I tried many medicines and had treatment from several doctors, but to no avail. My legs became so stiff that in order to move at all I had to use crutches. Finally the doctors decided that I was incurable, and told me they could tender no further assistance. I continued to suffer day and night, and then came the turning point of my life. A friend from a distance came to see me and it was from him I learned that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were a great cure for rheumatism. At once I got a supply and began to use them. The first indication that they were helping me was when the pain grew less severe. In a few weeks more the swelling in my legs and hips began to leave, then my joints seemed to loosen up, and then it was not long until my crutches were thrown aside and I could straighten up. Then I began to go out doors and soon was able to resume my work as well as ever. Since that time I have never been troubled with rheumatism or lame back. I can tell you my neighbors were all astonished at my cure; they had all thought I would always be a cripple."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism by going straight to the root of the trouble in the blood. They make new rich blood that sweeps out all the poisonous acid and soothes the tangled nerves. That is how they cure all troubles rooted in the blood, such as anemia, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, general weakness and the special ailments that only girls and women can suffer. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

New York, Jan. 28.—The Herald's Berlin correspondent cables as follows: "I hear that for a cause which I am unable to ascertain Mr. James Bryce has the intention of resigning his position as Ambassador. A diplomat whom I saw this morning, and who knows the conditions at Washington, prophesied that in the event of Mr. Bryce going Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, the British Minister of Persia, would surely be his successor. Fun for Times' Readers

A Mere Detail.

Just after his ordination a young minister of Richmond was given the opportunity to conduct the morning service in an Episcopal church in that city.

He was extremely nervous and got through the service with much difficulty, says Harper's Weekly. "I was rather masterful," he remarked, afterward, to a member of the congregation, "but I flatter myself that I pulled through without a mistake."

"I must admit that you did well," responded the parishioner. "In fact, the service could not have been much better conducted; but it was the first time I've ever known the evening service to be given in the morning."

Why He Refused. Little Wallace came in one day from his play to find his mother entertaining a visitor with a baby. The baby was a cunning, curly-haired lot just learning to walk, says the Brooklyn Eagle. Wallace appeared much interested in the little one, but when asked to kiss it refused very decidedly. After the visitor had departed Wallace remarked to his mother: "Mamma, I think that was a real nice baby."

"Then why wouldn't you kiss it, Wallace?" asked his mother.

"Because, you see, mamma, I didn't know whether it was a girl or a boy, and of course I wouldn't want to kiss a girl."

"Yes," answered the proud mother of the four boys, "these are all my chickens."

THE RADIAL'S CASE.

MR GRAHAM'S POSITION REGARDING MUNICIPAL RIGHTS.

He Will See That the Rights of Municipalities are Safeguarded—Radial Bill Will be Passed, But Will be Subject to Retroactive Legislation.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—At the conclusion of the conference held here to-day, with a view to arriving at some satisfactory understanding as to the respective jurisdictions of the Dominion and Provincial Parliaments in the matter of granting railway charters, the following agreement was made by railway companies, municipalities, etc. Hon. G. Henderic stated that the general attitude of the Province was summed up in the request that the Dominion Parliament should pass a law declaring that all electric lines in the Province should be subject to Provincial control, except as regards crossings and rates.

Hon. G. P. Graham stated that the Dominion Government took the view that it was not the business of a railway to be considered a tax of demand on the Dominion and the provincial authorities; rather the basis of separation should be the functions which the railway performed. The whole difficulty was to arrive at a dividing line.

In any event, he said, whatever agreement is reached at a conference to be held at a future date, no opening will be left in the legislation by which the railway companies may be empowered to impose on the rights of municipalities. "That is certain. The rights of the municipalities will be thoroughly safeguarded."

He also stated that any bills to be introduced would be proceeded with, whether an agreement was reached with the Province or not, but any such bills would be subject to the retroactive clause of the agreement to be arrived at. The Minister of Railways seemed quite hopeful that in the near future the whole subject would be amicably settled.

SHOT HIS LITTLE SISTER.

Boy Near Rochester Killed Child With Shotgun.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 28.—In the absence of his mother from home this afternoon Wm. McBride, a twelve-year-old boy, put on a hat, his father's, loaded a shotgun with cartridges of buckshot and blew the head off his four-year-old sister, Viola, who had been left by her mother strapped in a high chair.

An older sister, also at home, told the Coroner that she had seen the child struck with the gun and even pointed at her.

At last, moved by the elder sister's fright, the boy took up the body, put it into a blanket and carried it behind a barn, where he hid it. When asked by the Coroner why he did this, he said, "Well, she was dead, and I thought she needed to be in a cold place."

The mother, Mrs. Emma McBride, is a widow, and four of her eight children are in an institution in Buffalo. Her husband was killed some months ago in a train accident at Fairport.

A LOVERS' QUARREL.

ENDED IN DEATH OF BOTH AT PITTSBURG.

Mary Cozzini Stabbed Dominic Polcina Through the Brain, and He as He Fell Mortally Wounded the Girl With His Revolver.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 28.—A quarrel between two lovers at Ambridge, near here, to-night, ended in the death of both, each inflicting a fatal wound upon the other. The victims were Mary Cozzini, eighteen years of age, and strikingly beautiful, and Dominic Polcina, twenty-five years old.

Their courtship began in Italy, and Dominic came to America three years ago to prepare a home, sending for the girl last October. He is said to have been jealous almost from the day of her arrival, and when she delayed the wedding from time to time he became frantic. To-night he visited the girl at the home of her sister. They talked a few minutes and the girl fled from the kitchen and locked herself in her room.

Polcina followed and looked open the girl's door. She ran down the two flights of stairs and fell dead on the kitchen floor. Others in the house rushed to the upstairs room, where Polcina died just after they reached him.

FACE BURNED AND CUT.

Fillmore, Sask., Jan. 28.—Edward Anderson, homesteader, living twelve miles northeast of here, was found dead at Chief school house on Sunday morning. His horse was entangled in a wire fence, and the man's body was lying across the front of the buggy, with one arm above the right eye and a bruise on the left cheek. There was a gash two and a half inches long in the throat. His cap was found a mile east. Deceased had no relatives, and he was 35 years of age. He came from Iowa. His coat and mittens were bloody, but there was no blood on his shirt and vest. An inquest will be held.

Application for homestead entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency. Entry by proxy may be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

An application for entry or cancellation made personally at any Sub-agency office may be wired in to an Agent or Sub-agent, at the expense of the applicant, and if the land applied for is vacant on receipt of the telegram such application is to have priority and the land will be held until the necessary papers to complete the transaction are received by mail.

In case of "persuasion" or fraud the applicant will forfeit all priority of claim if entry has been granted it will be automatically cancelled.

An application for cancellation must be eligible for homestead entry, and only one application for cancellation will be received from an individual until that application has been disposed of.

Where an entry is cancelled subsequent to institution of cancellation proceedings, the applicant for cancellation will be entitled to prior right of entry.

Applicant for cancellation must state in what particular the homesteader is in default.

A homesteader whose entry is not the subject of cancellation proceedings, may, subject to the approval of Department, relinquish it in favour of father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister, eligible, but to no one else, on filing declaration of abandonment.

DUTIES.—A settler is required to perform the duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, and to acquire title in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father or mother, if the father is deceased or if homesteaded by a minor, residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs means a meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with the father or mother, land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

GREEN'S DEATH AN ACCIDENT.

Coroner's Jury Could Place Blame On No One.

Dead Fireman Fell In Running at Critical Moment.

Other Firemen Considered the Wall Quite Safe.

The inquest into the death of Roy Green, the fireman who was instantly killed a week ago Monday night at the fire at the south end street car sheds by being buried under a falling wall, resulted in a verdict of "Accidental death while in the discharge of his duty, and no blame attached to anyone."

At one time it looked as if the jury intended to fix the responsibility on some person, as they called the Coroner back and wanted more evidence to clear up two points: How the fire originated and who was responsible for the ditch being there and the depth of the ditch.

Coroner McNichol, who was in charge, told them that the origin of the fire had nothing to do with the cause of death, and that as the ditch was on private property it did not matter if it was forty feet deep.

The jury brought in a verdict a few seconds after this.

Thomas Dunford was passing on Hannah street, and saw fire coming from the back end of the building. He ran to Hilton's grocery and sent in the alarm to the police, who, he supposed, sent it on.

Chief TenEyck was next called. He said he was late getting to the fire, as he was out with an alderman. He arrived a short time before the accident, and said when he got there the building was a goner. His attention was drawn to two houses on fire on Charlton avenue and Locke street. He gave a detailed account of the fire from then till the wall fell. Hearing a noise suddenly, the chief turned round and saw the wall falling, and saw two men running out from the runway into which the wall was falling. Captain Aitchison told him Green was under the wall. The chief said he did not notice anything wrong with the wall at any time.

The chief said he did not see the King William street company in, and they were there when he arrived. They had apparently used their own judgment as to a suitable place to fight the fire from. It seemed to him that Green fell, and was buried before he could get up.

Alexander Johnson, sen., said he saw two men fall out of four, who ran when someone shouted "Look out." He did not see what tripped them, but saw them fall. He closed his eyes as the crash came. Witness was watching the wall, but had no idea of what was happening. Dr. Baugh gave medical evidence.

Captain Robert Aitchison said on reaching the fire his company laid a line into the north alley beside the building. They were playing a stream on the King William street company in, and they were there when he arrived. They had apparently used their own judgment as to a suitable place to fight the fire from. It seemed to him that Green fell, and was buried before he could get up.

Alexander Johnson, jun., saw the wall falling and waited for no more. He heard the shout, and saw the men running from the hose, which they dropped. Michael Galtier said he gave the warning when he saw the wall falling.

Mr. John Gillespie also testified to what took place when and after the wall fell.

Now For Boys' Clothing at Oak Hall.

To-morrow morning a big sale of boys' suits and overcoats will start at Oak Hall, and will be run on similar lines as the one just applied to the men's department.

Four hundred and fifty boys—large and small—suits and overcoats have been selected for clearance, no matter what price, from $7.00 down to $1.00. On Thursday the price for your choice will be $7.00, and the price will drop 50 cents each day until Feb. 13, when it will have reached $1.00 for any garment left.

On the last day of the sale of the men's goods, there were only seven overcoats and two suits left, all in small sizes; but good sized men squeezed themselves into them early Tuesday morning.

A PROGRESSIVE COUNCIL.

The regular weekly meeting of Crown Council, 333, Royal Templars of Temperance, was held in Green's Hall, corner King and Catharine streets, on Monday evening, there being a large attendance of members. After routine business a musical and literary programme was rendered, refreshments served and a pleasant social time then observed.

WRECKED IN SOUTH SEAS.

Nova Scotia Sealers Endured Great Privations.

London, Jan. 28.—Nineteen Nova Scotia sealers of the schooner Baden Powell were landed at Liverpool to-day. They left Nova Scotia on Sept. 6, 1907, for South Shetland Islands, where they were wrecked. The crew roared to Pelee Island, a distance of 70 miles, where they remained three weeks, enduring great privation. They were then observed by a schooner, which conveyed them to the Falkland Islands. Thence they were sent to Montevideo. Four of them married and settled down in the Falklands.

Mid-Week Services Much Appreciated—A Party Held.

The patients appreciate the mid-week services very much, and when, for any reason, they are omitted, it is a great disappointment. The work here is an important home mission, and should not be neglected, and with the large number of patients resident at present, the meetings should be well attended. It is hoped that nothing will prevent their being held regularly in future.

On Wednesday evening of last week a pleasant time was spent in the hall, the occasion being the assistant nurse's birthday celebration. Parlor games and guessing contests took up the fore part of the evening. Miss Beatrice Strudy being the prize winner in each of the contests. After lunch, an impromptu musical programme was given, which was a very enjoyable part of the entertainment. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Wyatt, Mr. Hunt and Mr. Steven, each of whom kindly responded to hearty cheers.

There is no scarcity of snow here, and the snow-plow has to be brought into use several times a week to clear the walks.

PROF. SEYMOUR.

Large Gathering Enjoyed His Work Last Night.

Prof. W. P. Seymour entertained a large audience in Association Hall last evening, his subject being "Phrenology." He took as his special subject, "The Right Man in the Right Place." He spoke of the man who sometimes gets into a position of trust, and how he will fall sooner or later, as a result of incompetency. Prof. Seymour considered that a man must be right in his make-up of temperament, and mental balance, to be a success in any position. If a man holding a public office be incompetent, the community in which he lives must suffer materially.

Following this address Prof. Seymour provided some amusement for the audience by hypnotism. Some of the subjects were extremely funny.

Prof. Seymour is staying at the Terminal Hotel, and is giving readings in phrenology as a very moderate rate.

BUY THE WEST END PROPERTY.

Mountain Drive and Park Scheme Takes Definite Shape.

Board Wants Appropriation of $18,000 This Year.

Talked of Discharging Inspector of Tree Trimming.

By deciding to close deals for several pieces of property the Parks Board yesterday afternoon practically assured the success of the mountain drive and park system, which will extend from below the east end incline to near the golf links on the west. The options which the board took up yesterday means an expenditure of $7,251, and comprises the property required between Queen street and Garth. West of Garth the board has the site donated by W. D. Platt. East of Queen street is the Government land, which the board will shortly make an effort to secure control of, and east of this is the Beckett drive, which it is expected will some day be turned over to the city, and complete the drive to James street. Ald. McLaren secured the options on the west end properties, and the board expressed its appreciation of the time he devoted to it and his success in the matter.

The options accepted were as follows: W. R. Turnbull, $1,000; J. V. Tretzel, $2,000; each of these being five-year payments; Mrs. Mullins, $1,251, two payments; Mrs. McClelland, $330; H. A. White, $337, each one year payments, and J. J. Scott, $1,400, five-year payment.

T. H. Pratt has been working on the east end properties. The board discussed some of the estimates secured, and expects to have things in shape to deal with the matter at the next meeting.

Needs $18,000 This Year. The estimates for the year were struck, and the commissioners think that they cannot get along with less than $18,000, made up as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Includes salaries for H. Marshall ($1,000), W. Dunham ($730), Searies ($504), Temple ($504), Findlay ($85), Treasurer ($150), Secretary ($200), Total ($3,163), Labor account ($2,000), Miscellaneous ($250), Dundrum debentures ($2,718), Museum ($700), North End Park ($500), Plants ($694), Works account ($1,700), Feed account ($250), Lighting ($500), Water ($300), Coal ($300), Grand End Park ($500), Insurance ($75), Mountain drive debenture ($1,250), Stuart & Long, first payment ($1,000), Mountain property west end ($1,800), Mountain drive ($500).

Last year the board had an appropriation of $16,600.

Wanted to "Bounce" Nichol. The matter of tree trimming caused some discussion, and one of the commissioners wanted to present Market Constable George Nichol, who has been employed by the board as an inspector, with a walking ticket. One of the telegraph companies wrote, sending a list of streets where trees were brushing against their wires. Commissioner Wild explained that a more care should be taken in tree trimming, and said that in some cases the trees had been butchered and the board blamed. It was explained that Mr. Nichol was appointed inspector of this work in 1904, but he receives nothing for doing, and he was prepared to dismiss Mr. Nichol, on the ground that the work was not properly and satisfactorily done. Commissioner Wild, however, thought he could straighten the matter out with Mr. Nichol, and Superintendent Parks Marshall, Mr. Hope consented.

Wants to Open Quarry. John Stuart, son of John the Board purchased some land west of the Platt property, appeared before the board and said he had a right to cross the Platt property to the ravine. He asked permission to use the roadway through the ravine, as he wants to buy the loose stone and open a quarry on the Colquhoun property. The commissioners listened, but took no action.

Buffalo for the Zoo. A letter was received from Hon. Frank Oliver, Ottawa, saying that the board could have the loan of two buffalo from the Government herl, on condition that it signed a bond for $1,000 that the Government would be bound to batting into each other all the time. Commissioner Bruce jovially suggested that this would be a good drawing card. Commissioner Tees thought that if one bull could be secured from the Government and a cow purchased in the States it would be better, and the matter was left in his hands.

Moore & Davis renewed their offer to sell fifty feet, a continuation of Tees' street to Dundrum Park, at $14 a foot. The board will likely make an offer for the land.

The City Solicitor will be consulted, and if necessary the board will be represented when the Hamilton, Waterloo & Guelph Railway plans come before the Railway Board on February 24.

ORONHYATEKHA'S NIECE. Lillian Washburn, whose Indian name is Ge-ja-ge-you, a niece of the late Dr. Oronhyatekha, the leading lady in the presentation at the Gaiety Theatre, Toronto, this week, entertained her aunt, Princess Viroquois, the late doctor's favorite sister, who is well known in Toronto, between the acts at last night's performance. Miss Washburn was brought up by the princess, and on her arrival here telegraphed to Toronto. Oronhyatekha's sister arrived last night and watched her niece perform from a seat in the wings. She will remain for a week.

FROZEN TO DEATH. James McLean, Well Known Around Barrie, Found Dead. Barrie, Jan. 28.—James McLean, an indentured man, was found frozen to death this afternoon in the unoccupied premises of the Dyman Foundry Company. It is supposed he went in to sleep. How long he had been there is not known. He was 37 years old, and had been committed to the House of Refuge several times. Leaving each spring, he wandered over the country doing odd jobs.

himself heart and soul into the part and gave one of the best performances of his life.

There was no child for the firemen to save, but they saved for Sothern a part that brought him new fame and that now is standing his son in good stead.

"A Message From Mars." It is not expected that all of the human family is going to be reformed of its selfishness. That there is need of radical reform with the majority of people there is no denying. Theatregoers were so much pleased after witnessing a performance of "A Message From Mars" on a previous occasion that they still have fresh in their memories the convincing lesson taught by this play against the besetting sin of selfishness.

At the Savoy Theatre. Dainty Gertrude Carlisle, as the saucy village cut-up, and Sager Midgley's fat yokel, in his hilarious comedy sketch, "After School," at the Savoy this week, kept another large audience in ripples of laughter last night and earned Mr. Midgley and his pretty partner a real ovation. The whole sketch is so delightfully refreshing that one is apt to agree with Mark Twain, who has described it as the funniest thing on the stage.

There is bright, breezy dialogue, fast singing, and dancing in abundance; in fact, enough entertainment is crowded into the time the sketch occupies the stage to make it in itself well worth a person's while to visit the theatre this week. Millie Spellman's troupe of trained bears, seven in number, is an exceptionally attractive added feature, and the bears well deserved the generous applause that greeted their performance last night. They are a well-trained lot of animals, going through their tricks with but few commands, working willingly and quickly, and doing many feats that call for careful training. Although it is essentially a drawing card for the younger folks, it will interest the older ones as well. In "A Heathen Idol," Marty Healy and Beatrice Vance have introduced a rather novel idea that provides fifteen minutes or more of rollicking fun. Billy Broad, the Wandering Minstrel, is another of those who uncoils several good laughs with a bright line of jokes and songs. A real clever comedy act by Aldo and Vanmerson; a clever little Irish skit by O. T. Fiske and Nellie McDonough; Kennedy and Wilkins, one of the best dancing teams through here this season; Jimmie Rosmore, singing comedian, and the pictures are the others.

Military Theatricals. G. Company, of the Ninety-first Regiment, will have a military theatrical night in the Conservatory of Music recital hall on Thursday of next week, Feb. 6th. The programme will consist of the one-act military drama, "Our Bitterest Foe," two scenes from Sheridan Knowles' "The Hunchback," and a new adaptation of the comedietta, "The Area Belle."

Last Night's Show. "Fascinating Flora," a musical comedy in two acts, was the attraction at the Grand last evening. The scenes were laid in Paris and New York, where conservatoire of music, a stockbroker's office and Manhattan Beach hotel make the setting. There is enough consistency in the story to furnish lively and amusing situations, of which advantage was taken by the company.

The comic opera favorite, Adele Ritchie, as Flora Duvall, played the title role. This is not the first time she has appeared before a Hamilton audience and her work last evening only increased her popularity. Her voice is sweet and her gowns are works of art. Indeed, she is said to be one of the best dressed women on the American stage.

Miss Ritchie's support is well cast and includes, among others, George A. Schiller as Alphonse Allegretti, in love with his voice; Sam Edwards, as Gulliver Gayby, in love with Flora; James E. Sullivan as Prof. Ludwig Wagner in love with his money—Frank Rushworth as Jack Graham, in love with Dolly; and Frank W. Sha as Baron Reynard, in love with the girls.

Ada Lewis as Winnie Wiggles, in love with her prospects, deserves special mention. Few, if any, could excel her in this comedy role. Not only what she says, but the manner in which she says it, makes laughter irresistible. Sadie Jansell proved clever and interesting in her imitations of Anna Held, Eddie Foy and Ethel Barrymore, while Laura Jaffray as vivacious Fifi helped to keep the ball of mirth rolling.

The costumes of the chorus were unique in some respects, and the scenery and stage appointments pleasing.

Between the Acts. "The Futurity Winner," which is one of the headlines at Bennett's next week, introduces a sensational race between three horses on the stage. Thoroughbred Kentucky mares will be used and special mechanical effects similar to those used in the Ben Hur production will be installed for the race. This act has all the excitement of the close finish, and is considered the most ambitious imitation of a horse race ever attempted within the limitations of a stage.

"Human Sliders" is the bill to be offered by the Earl Burgess Stock Company at their special matinee performance at the Grand on Friday afternoon. It is said to be one of their best plays.

and has the advantage of the sage advice of practical men, who may be said to have learned all that is worth knowing. Bob Barry, a Lancashire wrestler, is one of the best of good guides, and gives advice that Rogers materially profits by.

Rogers' bouts with his wrestling partner, Ben Eason, occupy thirty consecutive minutes, and appeal to the expert as an exceptionally fine exposition of wrestling as a fine art. There are no periods of rest. It is one continuous run of quick changes, in which Eason, conspicuously Rogers gains the first fall in the catch-as-catch-can style. Meanwhile, there is a variety of deadly holds, and a sharp exclamation from Eason that cannot be construed into joy as the result of an arm-lock or some such trifling (?) hold, that betokens a short stay and a merry one—i. e., a fracture or suspended animation. It is something far more serious than a display."

BORDEN MOVES AN AMENDMENT

Censures Government For Neglect in Making Treaty.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Shows That He Chose Better Way.

Foster on the Fence on Japanese Treaty.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—The discussion on the Japanese immigration question was resumed in the House to-day by Mr. Borden, who moved an amendment to the motion submitted a week ago by Mr. Lemieux, censuring the Government for having neglected to embody in the treaty with Japan a clause restricting immigration. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in a brilliant speech, defended the policy which had been pursued by the Government, and contrasted it with that advocated by the Opposition. While the policy of the latter was to obtain a restriction of Japanese immigration by hostile legislation against a friendly power, the policy of the Government was to obtain the restriction by the voluntary and friendly action of Japan itself. Mr. Foster devoted two hours to a criticism of the Government's attitude, but concluded with what was practically an endorsement of it. The debate was continued until a late hour.

At 2 o'clock this morning the discussion was being continued by Hon. Mr. Lemieux.

International Fisheries.

Replying to Mr. Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said informal negotiations had been carried on with the British Ambassador at Washington on different subjects affecting the relations between Canada and the United States. One of these questions concerned inland fisheries. It would be recalled that when the Conservatives were in office an attempt was made to secure a uniform regulation on the Great Lakes. That regulation was under consideration at the present time. Then there was the question of the distribution of water powers near the international boundary. He understood that Mr. Bryce was coming to Ottawa with a view of discussing these and other questions with the Government.

Japanese Immigration.

Mr. Borden, resuming the debate on the Japanese immigration question, maintained that in justifying the good faith of the Japanese Government Mr. Lemieux had done violence to the facts. He had given on behalf of the Japanese Government, and therefore need not have been respected, or they were not what the necessities of the country demanded. The Government had got Canada into a very serious difficulty, and in order to extricate it the Postmaster-General had invoked the support of the British Ambassador at Tokio, and any success Mr. Lemieux had achieved was largely due to that support. Referring to a lengthy review of the negotiations between Canada and Japan, Mr. Borden read an order in Council dispatched by the Dominion Government to the British Secretary of State on the seventh of May, 1905, recommending that in the treaty with Japan there should be a proviso similar to that contained in the treaty between that country and the United States with reference to immigration. In February, 1906, the British Ambassador informed Lord Salisbury that the Japanese Government were willing to agree to that stipulation, and on the 19th of March, 1906, the Japanese Government consented to the admission of the treaty of the other self-governing colonies of British Empire.

The Premier's Position.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that while he took issue with Mr. Borden, both up and down, because he presented a clear line of demarcation between the policy of the Government and the policy of the Opposition on the questions. In the object which both parties had in view he saw no difference; all the difference was in the method. The policy of the Government, he said, was to obtain a restriction of Japanese immigration to our shores by hostile legislation of this Parliament, with all the consequences of hostile legislation. The policy of the Opposition was to obtain a restriction of Japanese immigration, but by voluntary and friendly action of the Japanese authorities themselves. That is the clear line of demarcation between the two policies. He had believed, and he believed many others had believed, that at the bottom of the antagonism in British Columbia was the labor problem, but they now knew that there was another consideration which extended far beyond the labor problem. The population of British Columbia was small, and there was a well-understood apprehension that if the current from Asia was allowed to come in free and unchecked the balance of power might pass from one race to another. That was a problem which no Government in this country could afford to ignore; it was a problem which had received the attention of all Governments. A problem difficult at all times and under all circumstances, it had been made doubly difficult—ten times more difficult so far as Japan was concerned—by the fact that Japan had suddenly risen to the proportions of a first-rate power.

Sir Wilfrid drew an eloquent picture of the evolution of Japan, and of her rise to the position of one of the world's great powers. It was to the credit of Lord Lansdowne, he continued, that of all the diplomats of Europe he was the first to recognize the possibilities of the change in the condition of Japan, and such was the importance he attached to that condition that he suddenly broke away from all traditions of British diplomacy, that Britain would not be entangled in any foreign alliance, and concluded an offensive and defensive alliance with Japan, one result of which might possibly be that in the event of a war threatening British interests in the Pacific the fleets of Britain and Japan would be seen weighing anchor together in the harbor of Vancouver. That was a condition which had not entirely ent Government in 1905, deliberately abandoned any such proviso or stipulation, although its great importance was twice called to their attention by the British Government during the course of the negotiations; and, having entered into the treaty in 1907 (which brought in to force in Canada the treaty of 1894 absolutely and without reserve) the Government secured its ratification by Parliament in 1907. That the ratification of the said treaty of 1907 was almost immediately followed by a great influx of Japanese laborers into Canada. That in the opinion of this House Canada should not enter into or accede to any treaty which deprives Parliament of the control of immigration into this country. That this House, while expressing its profound appreciation of the friendly intentions and courteous assurances of the Japanese Government, and while declaring its sincere desire for the most cordial relations with the Japanese people, desires nevertheless to record its strong protest against a policy under which our wage-earning population cannot be protected from destructive invading competition, except by entreating the forbearance and aid of a foreign Government.

Mr. Gallher said British Columbia wanted the restriction of all Oriental immigration, and the closer it was the better pleased would be the people of that Province and their representatives in Parliament. He did not think the government of Japan was altogether bent on coming to the fountain head of the Dominion Government and inquiring whether the immigration of so many Japanese laborers was satisfactory, but he was prepared to accept in good faith the statement of the Postmaster-General that the restrictions agreed to were satisfactory. He had seen it stated in the press that immigration would be restricted to 1,000.

Mr. Lemieux—That statement is made without any authority.

Mr. Ross assured Mr. Bristol that the British Columbia members did not mean to do anything to do on the question. The Opposition must do that, having now taken a position directly the opposite of that of a year ago, when the treaty was being ratified. The Opposition had approved of and urged, without asking for assurances or seeking for the ratification of the treaty. Mr. Ross defended the Government's position as one which the people of Canada would command.

Mr. Cocksbutt argued that the Government were not justified in entering into the treaty last year on a commercial basis. The influx of a large number of Japanese was too heavy a price to pay for the small amount of trade Canada could hope to develop with Japan.

Mr. Smith (Nanaimo) said he was prepared to support the Government proposals. The arrangement he contended, would maintain trade relations with Japan and at the same time secure a restriction of Japanese immigrants. The reason that the Government did not enter into the treaty in 1907 was not because of other international trade relations of much greater importance. Circumstances had changed since then and what was a good reason in 1894 or 1895 was not a good reason in 1907. As the clause secured by the United States in the treaty with Japan was not a restriction of Japanese immigrants, but a restriction of Japanese immigrants, Mr. Smith contended that the Government had no hesitation in acceding to the request with regard to certain races, but when it came to Japan the Government had to say that they could not comply with that request. They were pressed to renew the Natal Act, which provides that no people would be admitted to British Columbia unless they could speak some of the languages of Europe. "That was a direct slap in the face of our ally, Japan," he declared. "As the Government did not agree to it, but then we entered into negotiations with the Japanese authorities themselves through the instrumentality of Mr. Nossie, their representative in Canada, and represented that though there was an alliance between Great Britain and Japan, they must know that there were difficulties as to their people coming as immigrants, that perhaps there would be clashing between the two races."

"We represented to the Japanese authorities that we expected them to restrict immigration, and I am happy to say that we were successful in this, and that the Japanese authorities consented to restrict immigration."

"It was a fact," said Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "that in the years following the ratification of the treaty of 1907 there was scarcely any immigration from Japan into British Columbia."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier—Surely more than one thousand. Two thousand landed, but two thousand did not remain, and if the hon. gentleman wants more conclusive evidence on this point he can go to the fact that not one word of complaint came from British Columbia. There was, he proceeded, a treaty between Britain and Japan in which the Dominion might of her own free will be included, and the time came when she desired to be. The leader of the Opposition had stated and had quoted from a minute of Council to show that the late Conservative Government had a policy on this question, namely, inclusion in the treaty of a proviso similar to that contained in the treaty between Japan and the United States as to laws with regard to trade immigration, etc. This minute was sent to the Colonial Secretary, and by him referred to Sir Ernest Satow, British Ambassador at Tokio. The latter in a communication in February, 1906, to the British Government, reported, in substance, that the Japanese Foreign Minister, who while expressing the willingness of the Japanese Government to agree that Canada might signify her adhesion as a party to the treaty between Britain and Japan with the stipulation that it should not affect the Canadian law with respect to immigration, added a qualification.

That qualification was most important. It was that a clause should be inserted providing that the treaty might be terminated on either side giving six months' notice. This would have meant that the moment Canada passed restrictive legislation Japan would have immediately given notice for the termination of the treaty. The British Ambassador made it quite clear in his dispatch that the reservation made by Japan had in view "unfriendly legislation" that might be passed by any British colonies becoming a party to the treaty. He also stated that undoubtedly any such legislation passed by the colonies would make the Japanese feel that in the eyes of the world they had been placed on a par with the Chinese, and that they had rendered the treaty inoperative from the beginning. Sir Wilfrid Laurier went on: "The moment that we have negotiated such a treaty with such a provision we would have been forced to introduce legislation to restrict Japanese immigration, and from that moment the treaty would have been doomed."

The Daily Fashion Hint.

Hat of black chip smartly trimmed with black and white pompons and long white quills.

escaped the attention of the Opposition, and it was a condition which the Government had had before their eyes all the time. It was not to be expected that old feuds, old antagonisms, would disappear in one day. They knew by the experience of the world that antagonisms, especially those which had a racial basis, were slow to die, and they must reckon accordingly. They had tangible proof of it when within a year of the alliance the request came from British Columbia for a law of exclusion against the Oriental races. The Government had no hesitation in acceding to the request with regard to certain races, but when it came to Japan the Government had to say that they could not comply with that request. They were pressed to renew the Natal Act, which provides that no people would be admitted to British Columbia unless they could speak some of the languages of Europe. "That was a direct slap in the face of our ally, Japan," he declared. "As the Government did not agree to it, but then we entered into negotiations with the Japanese authorities themselves through the instrumentality of Mr. Nossie, their representative in Canada, and represented that though there was an alliance between Great Britain and Japan, they must know that there were difficulties as to their people coming as immigrants, that perhaps there would be clashing between the two races."

Mr. Fisher twitted Mr. Foster with having, after a two hours' speech, concluded with a cordial endorsement of the Government's policy. Mr. Foster had stated that Japan had honorably lived up to her assurances, and yet in Mr. Borden's resolution there was the implication that Japan had not lived up to her obligation.

Mr. Heron and Mr. Kennedy were followed by Hon. Mr. Lemieux, who regarded the resolution as a subterfuge. It was cleverly designed, and while some might not so think, others did think that exclusion was its aim. The Opposition on this matter was in striking contrast to the claim of that party to a great imperial party. Their attitude, if adopted, might seriously affect the British-Japanese treaty.

Quebec, Jan. 28.—In full view of perhaps a dozen spectators, a ten-year-old boy named Ernest Larose was attacked and fearfully lacerated by a huge mastiff at the Palais, in this city, about 10 o'clock this morning. The unfortunate child is in a very critical state, and at noon was still unconscious. That he was not killed outright was due to the owner of the enraged canine rushing to the rescue himself and battering the brute's head with a stick of wood until he was rendered unconscious and ultimately slain. One of the boy's hands was completely bitten off.

2000 PRISONERS HELD IN POLICE PRISONS AND BARRACKS AT LISBON.

Republicans Have Made Another Attempt to Capture Premier Franco—Plot to Take King Prisoner—Regiment of Infantry Disarmed.

New York, Jan. 28.—The Herald has received the following cable despatch from Madrid: Letters received here to-day from Lisbon and statements made by travellers arriving at the frontier from the Portuguese capital indicate that a most serious state of affairs exists in Portugal, in spite of the official denials. The Republicans have made another attempt, it is stated, to capture the Premier, Senor Franco, whose residence is still guarded by cavalry; the guns of the 1st Regiment of Artillery have been diverted of their breech locks by the officers; the rifles of the 16th Regiment of Infantry have been taken away from them, and a plot was discovered on the part of these two regiments of infantry to capture King Carlos in the Royal Palace. A strict censorship has been established at Lisbon, all the newspaper correspondents have been expelled, and the frontier is closely guarded. The streets of the capital are almost deserted, people who gather in groups are promptly dispersed by the police, and many arrests have been made, those taken into custody including two captains of police. In the police prisons and barracks there are more than two thousand prisoners, the guns of Fort Buen Suceso are trained on the River Tagus, instead of landward, and troops are sleeping beside their arms, and the Council of Ministers remains in permanent session. Premier Franco has forced the King to suspend the constitutional guarantees, and a large number of arrests have followed the suspension. Captain Arthur N. Burns has been appointed Secretary of the Toronto Club.

TOMMY BURNS' WIFE TALKS OF JACK JOHNSON.

Champion's Helpmate, Now in Detroit, Says Her Husband is Bound to Defeat Black Man Though She Draws Color Line.

Detroit, Jan. 29.—"He would never fight Jack Johnson if I had the chance to decide it. But, then, Tommy has a mind of his own, and he's set on meeting and beating the negro boxer. I'm so certain of it as I ever was certain of anything that he will sign articles in New York, when he lands from London and will be bound to a match before he starts for Detroit and gives me a chance to talk to him about it."

"Don't think, too," she continued. "How was he so cross the day before the fight that it was worth one's life to speak to him. When he is on edge for a fight he's just like a big bear, growling and not pleased by anything. It's always that way when he's ready for a hard fight."

"He told me," she said, "that he would sign to meet Johnson in a sixteen-foot ring, and would make him jump out of the ring and take the public this. But Johnson can stop talking about what terms he will fight Tommy on. Tommy will dictate this part of the match, and will make sure that he isn't made the medium of giving Johnson a chance to pick up a lot of money for coming in and taking a beating."

Mr. Burns brought back pleasant memories of England, and about the swiftest looking English bull pup that has been seen around here in some time. She is dividing her time between the education of the pup and study of the culinary art. "For the sake," she says, "I want to stop globe trotting, and to settle again. That's better for both of us than running round the world on boxing tours."

ACTOR HACKETT TELLS OF HIS HUNTING TRIP.

With Four Friends and Six Guides He Has Rid the Dominion of Three Wolves—Even the Whiskey Froze in the Desert of Snow.

New York, Jan. 27.—There are three less wolves in the Canadian wilds than there were before James K. Hackett shouldered his trusty rifle, loaded his flask and started for Kippewa Lake. At government prices each pair of wolves' ears bring $15, so that in a pecuniary sense the actor-manager does not feel overpaid for braving a climate where twenty degrees below zero is regarded as a sizzler.

Mr. Hackett, four fellow members of the Wolf Hunt Club and six Indian guides arrived safe and sound from their dalliance with a temperature of forty-five degrees on the nether side of the thermometer, but in travelling from Montreal in the sleeping coach Sunday night Mr. Hackett contracted a severe cold. So, as he says, what is the use of trying to work up any glory on the freeze-out plan?

The real object of Mr. Hackett's trip to Kippewa Lake was recreation, although the Canadian Government is good enough to pat on the back all intrepid hunters who help rid the country of the deer-destroying wolves. Once in the wild region, at the extreme northern terminal of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, Mr. Hackett and his companions travelled two days by sled and snowshoes and pitched tepees in the midst of a desert of snow. Then an awful thing happened. The whiskey froze. Then another awful thing happened. The alcohol in the stoves froze.

The party needed the stoves to thaw out the whiskey. They needed the whiskey to thaw out themselves. By dint of excellent teamwork the deer-hunt consummation was attained. For a radius of five miles the party then set their traps. Also they stewed the snow with poisoned meat. When absolutely necessary they met the foe face to face with rifle and knife. Three of the pesky wolves bit the dust—or rather the snow—when Mr. Hackett pulled the trigger. One of the Indian guides, after a desperate fight, killed a lynx.

NOTTER WON FOUR.

McGinnis' Jockey Rode Well at New Orleans Yesterday.

New Orleans, Jan. 29.—Jockey Notter's riding was the feature of a good day's racing at the City Park yesterday. The McGinnis rider had four of the seven winners to his credit at the finish of the card, and in two instances outdistanced his fellow-jockeys. The card was a good one, and had for its star event a handicap at a mile and one-sixteenth. This event attracted a good class of milers, and was won by Carthage, with Notter in the saddle. Juggler, the B. and O.N. gelding, was easily best of the pair, but Notter outgeneraled McDaniel when the finish came.

SOME SNAPSHOTS AT SPORTS AND SPORTSMEN

A meeting of all persons interested in athletics, and who are anxious to see Hamilton represented in the Olympic games at London next summer, is called for next Wednesday night in the Royal Hotel.

Several fairly good two-year-olds have been shown at New Orleans and in California this winter. The New York Sun notices Lee Rose, a bay gelding by St. Avenius—Lavena, who has won his three starts with much ease, is said to be the best youngster seen so far on the coast.

Attention is drawn to the notice of the annual Canadian amateur boxing championships that are to take place in Massey Hall, Toronto, next month. Following the precedent set in many countries, notably in England, the governing union is conducting the competition itself, a fact which should warrant the success of the undertaking.

A national pugilistic commission, empowered with the same authority that the National Baseball Commission possesses on the baseball field, and the A. U. among the amateurs, is the latest dream from James J. Corbett, former heavy-weight champion. James claims the game has gone to the bad, but is confident that proper supervision would bring it back to its former high standard.

Regarding the Hamilton-Toronto hockey match in Toronto on Monday night the Toronto Telegram says: "Hamilton deserved to win and played what little combination was handed out. Both teams checked as closely as the law allowed, but they played a clean game, and at least the speed of the contest was, though a little marred by this close working, still there were bits of play that were open. At that the visitors did not show the improvement they promised when pitted against the Toronto A. C. seniors here the first game. Then they had speed and signs of good combination, but it hasn't developed as well as it might. Perhaps the close working of the Toronto stopped them. At any rate there was little in evidence."

ON ESSAY WRITING

By J. B. Robinson at Barton Street Y. M. U.

A very successful meeting of the Barton Street Young Men's Union was held last night. N. E. Zimmerman occupied the chair and an interesting discussion on trusts was started. The speakers were Messrs. Walker, Elkington, Mumery and Bryers. Mr. Bryers made a strong speech against trusts, dealing with their lawlessness, and their conspiracy to raise prices.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. J. B. Robinson, Principal of the Model School, was then introduced. Mr. Robinson gave an excellent address on the principles of essay writing. Every member present was delighted with the direct, lucid exposition of this subject. A humorous reading was given by the president, entitled "A Run on the Bank."

Next Tuesday evening there will be a debate on the subject, "Resolved, That Trade Unions are Detrimental to the Welfare of a Country." The affirmative will be taken by Messrs. J. Bryers and C. Elkington, and the negative will be upheld by Messrs. J. F. Walker and A. L. Hancockfield. After the speakers have finished the discussion of the subject will be open to the whole meeting.

ST. PAUL YOUNG MEN

At St. Paul's Young Men's Guild's regular meeting, which was held last evening in the church school room a debate was held. Messrs. Findlay, Junior and Murray upheld the resolution that "The Senate of the Dominion of Canada should be abolished." The negative side was upheld by Messrs. Brown, Sloane and Gow. The judges gave their decision in favor of the negative. A couple of pleasing variations to the evening's programme, St. Paul's Guild is increasing its membership, and the meetings are becoming more interesting. The season which has just opened promises to be a very successful one. Preparations are being made for a series of very enjoyable meetings. All young men are invited to attend. The regular meeting nights are the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

COMING FROM CASS CITY.

It is expected that relatives of Washington Ritter will arrive some time to-day from Cass City, Michigan, for the purpose of viewing the body of the unknown man who was killed on the Grand Trunk near Mimico. The body is at Blackford & Son's undertaking establishment. It looks as if Ritter's relatives were basing their fears on a false supposition.

Notices of Births, Marriages and Deaths which are inserted in the Daily Times also appear in the Semi-weekly Times. 50c first insertion; 25c for each subsequent insertion.

DEATHS

THE COMPANY WILL MAKE CITY AN OFFER

ring in the papers yesterday saying that City Engineer Barrow would be able to supply a large number of men with work when the installing of the new water works system on the Beach was begun on Monday, nearly a hundred of the unemployed gathered in the City Hall corridors this morning. City Hall officials say that some of the foreigners smoke all chewing tobacco in their pipes, spit all over the floor, and make the air around the City Hall corridors so thick that it is almost impossible to cut it with a knife. As a result of this an agitation is on foot to have Relief Officer McMenemy shifted to the basement, although Mr. McMenemy declared he had nothing to do with the men being there. As a matter of fact, the contractors, Mercer & Lovejoy, employ the men, and not the engineer.

Another case of smallpox was reported to the Health Department to-day, the victim being a child named Campbell, whose parents reside at 110 Sanford avenue. Dr. Roberts says the child was not attending school. This case was also traced to the Goodale family. A stir was caused around the City Hall to-day, as a result of a report that two men suffering from smallpox had been waiting around the Relief Officer's door yesterday. The Medical Health Officer said there was no truth in this. He said that a man who had come in contact with Webb, the smallpox patient on Catharine street, but who was immediately vaccinated, was taken to his office by a doctor. There were three small pustules on the man's face, and he had what might be classed as modified smallpox. The man is under quarantine and the doctor says there is no danger from that quarter.

The special committee appointed to confer with east end mountain residents regarding the water supply for that portion of the mountain, will meet a deputation of the property owners to-night and discuss the proposition.

The city claims that J. Clendening, who has a connection with the Sherman avenue sewer, owes it $20 rental, and ordered the connection cut off unless the money was paid. S. D. Biggar, acting for Mr. Clendening, paid the money under protest to-day.

We Are All Interested.

It is astonishing how many homes there are in and around Hamilton without musical instruments. It is surprising how quick the average piano buyer is in taking advantage of legitimate bargains. This has been proven every day this week by the number of instruments sold by Gourlay, Winter & Leeming, 66 King street west, during the progress of their "5-day sale." However, the stock has been replenished and those still looking for first-class instruments will do well to call at 66 King street west before purchasing. Just think of purchasing an organ for $7.50 or piano for $15, both guaranteed to be in first-class shape. Go and see them.
