CHAPTER II.

Rath's eyes did not move for a moment, then he slung the painter of the canoe over the thole of the boat and stepped into her.

"Thank God!" exclaimed the lad, again. "But—but is it real? Is it only one of my dreams? I have dreamed so often that we were on shore, that someone had picked us up! Speak to me! Oh, why don't you speak, and say that we are saved?"

It clasped its hands, and looked up at Rath piteously; and Rath met the gaze steadily for a moment; then, at the "we," he looked round the boat and saw that the sailor lad was not alone. Another figure, dimly outlined under a tarpaulin, lay in the stern sheets.

He stooped and drew the tarpaulin aside—then let it fall, and sprang back. For the figure and face were those of a woman. He knew they were, because he had seen pictures of them in the few books which he possessed.

He stood like a statue while one could count twenty, then solemnly, gravely, he stepped into the canoe, unfastened the painter, and paddled towards the shore.

The lad in the boat gazed after him with an amazement which gradually gave place to despair.

"Oh, come back! come back!" he cried. "You are not going to leave us? Oh, don't! don't! We shall die—we are dying! Save us! save us!"

The woman in the bottom of the boat stirred and moaned, and the lad turned to her in a frenzy of despair.

"Mother, there was some one who came—but he has gone. He could have saved us—but he has gone again. We must drift on the rocks, for I am too weak to use the oar now—too weak for anything!"

The small thin hands went up to the white face, and a cry forced the quivering lips, as if it had forced itself out against the owner's will.

It struck Rath in the back, so to speak, and went straight to his heart; but he set his mouth firmly, and paddled away swiftly and steadily.

There was a woman in that boat, the creature his father had charged him to shun. The boat would drift into the current, the current would take her to the rocks on which no boat could live for longer than a quarter of an hour. There would be an end of the woman, which was right and proper, for why should such a dangerous creature not die?

It was hard that the lad with the pale thin face should die also; but he shrugged his shoulders, a trick he had caught from his father—it could not be helped.

He reached the shore, ran the canoe up the beach, and called Carl. But the dog would not come. It stood on the very edge of the water, staring in the direction of the boat, and whining softly. Rath called it again and again; but, for the first time, the dog displayed disobedience; and though it turned its head in a pleading, apologetic manner, would not budge; and Rath, with his eyes turned resolutely from the dim figure in the boat, walked slowly but firmly into the hut.

He threw himself on the bed and closed his eyes, and with the phlegm of his training and solitary life, even tried to sleep; but he failed in the attempt. The pale face, the voice so soft and musical, yet so clear and penetrating, haunted him.

"I wonder whether she will drift on the Mermald's Rock or on the Casquet?" he mused. "There's no harm in seeing. No! I'll not go. He'll cry to me to save him. Ah!"

He sprang out of bed as if struck with an idea, and, flinging open the door, turned to the beach and launched the canoe.

The boat had got into the current by this time, and was perilously near the rocks. The lad still sat on the thwart, but his face was hidden in his arms. He was dazed by exhaustion, or paralyzed by the approaching death.

Rath paddled up to the boat and called:

"Hi!"

The lad raised his head and turned it slowly and with a dull apathy.

"Come in; step lightly," said Rath, bringing the canoe alongside.

The lad glanced at him, and then bent and touched the woman.

"Mother," he said, eagerly, "he has come back. Try and rise; he will take you into the canoe. See, mother. Ah, try and rise. Come!"

The woman raised her head, but Rath pushed off from the boat.

"No!" he said, sharply and decisively, "not the woman; but you may come."

Two great eyes shone like stars from the pale face of the castaway.

"Are—you—mad?" the indignant voice demanded. "Why will you not take her?"

Rath shook his head.

"She is a woman," he said, quietly enough. "I won't save her; but you're different. Come; the boat will be on the rocks in another minute."

The great eyes regarded him with amazed terror.

"It is all a dream; there is no one there," he said as if to himself. "It is only one of my dreams. Yes; I—I am falling asleep, and the end is near. We are going to die. Oh, cruel! cruel!"

The words cut Rath as if they were so many lashes. The blood rushed to his face, his eyes blazed, and he ground his teeth. Humanity was fighting against prejudice within his heart.

Suddenly Humanity won. With something like the snarl and snap of a dog he bent forward, and with a long stroke of his paddle drove the canoe alongside the boat again, sprang on board, pushed the covering lid aside, and seizing the oar, rowed the boat

Children Hate Oil, Calomel And Pills

"California Syrup of Figs" best for tender stomach, liver, bowels—tastes delicious.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

round the rock. To do this he needed the strength of a Hercules and the skill of a trained seaman. Rath appeared to possess both, and the boat was forced away from the rocks to the shore.

The castaway sat and watched him breathlessly; then suddenly gave a cry, for Rath remembered the canoe, and dropping the oar, leapt on board.

The lad in the boat, thinking that their rescuer had again changed his mind and again deserted them, began to wring his hands and gaze at the terrible rocks; but Rath seized the canoe, slid in over the stern, paddled to the boat, made the boat fast, and once more came aboard and put the boat's head to land. The boy who crouched, shivering at his feet, looked up at him with a kind of dazed admiration.

"How strong you are!" he murmured, faintly. "You are just like a fish, or a great seal! Oh, I want to thank you—but I can't speak. There is something in my throat!" and he turned his head aside.

Rath said nothing. A lad who has lived on an island with only one companion in his solitude is not loquacious.

Presently the keel of the boat ran over the sand, and Rath jumped out and drew her well ashore.

"Jump out!" he said.

The boy stood on the edge, then staggered, and Rath caught him and swung him ashore; then he was actually about to push the boat off to sea again; but, with a cry, the castaway lad stopped him.

"No, no! Oh, indeed you must be mad! And after being so kind and noble!" he added, reproachfully.

"Mother, come quickly! Lean on me. Quick!" he whispered, for there was that in Rath's face which made him uneasy.

The woman rose and staggered to the boat's side; Rath would not help her, but stood grimly with the painter in his hand; but when the boy and the woman were on shore, he pointed in the direction of the hut. But the woman was too weak to walk.

"Let us rest a little while," pleaded the castaway. "It is so good to feel the firm earth again; I could almost kiss it!"

Rath stared at him, then strode off to the hut—he rarely ran, but when he did he ran like a hare—and returned presently with a small stone jar which he handed to the boy.

"Give it to her," he said.

The jar contained the small quantity of brandy which had been kept for some such occasion; and the boy poured a few drops of it between the woman's lips.

It gave her strength enough to move, and she and the boy followed Rath to the hut. He flung open the door, not ungraciously, but with the air of one courteous on compulsion.

"I'll light a fire. She can have my bed—and there is one for you. I will give you something to eat."

The fire was soon burning brightly; the woman lay back on the rough couch which had been so lately occupied by the woman-hater—strange irony of events!—and the boy busied himself in a weak and weary fashion in helping Rath, who, indeed, needed no help. The dog sat in front of the fire, blinking at one and another of the human beings with a grave curiosity and kindly interest. Rath made some soup and some corn-porridge; the woman was too weak and exhausted to take more than a spoonful; but the boy ate some of the soup, and Rath as he watched him saw a faint, delicate rose colour creeping into his face. Rath glanced from him to a small square of looking-glass which reflected his own face, and wondered at the difference.

The boy got up presently and stoic to his mother.

"Thank God, she's asleep!" he whispered.

He himself yawned as he spoke, and Rath—really as if he had been brought up in the best society—rose at once.

"I'll go," he said, gravely.

"Go?" The boy looked around.

"Oh, I've got your bed! And I am turning you out. I'm sorry. Don't go. I'll sleep outside—anywhere!"

Rath shook his head.

"It's no matter," he said. "I often sleep outside. I've got a hollow tree. Stay where you are. The dog will stay with you. Bide there Carl! If you should want anything to eat, you'll find bread and meat and some eggs in that cupboard. Good-night."

The boy from the boat held out his hand, and Rath, who had never shaken hands, stared at it.

"Won't you take my hand to say 'Good-night'?" said the lad, and a flush rose to the pale, tired face.

Rath took it—his own hand quavered it up—held it for a moment, then, with something like a frown, dropped it and strode out.

CHAPTER III.

He slept for the remainder of that night in a hollow tree; but his sleep was an uneasy and broken one. He heard the faint but clear cry of the lad; was haunted by the despairing eyes; felt the touch of the small hand. When he woke in the morning, he went slowly to the hut. Carl came out to meet him; the castaway boy was standing at the door, looking out at the sunlit sea with a hand shading his eyes. At the sight of Rath he gave a little cry of relief and pleasure.

"Oh, I'm so glad to see you!" he said.

A Remedy
For All Pain

"The efficiency of any drug" says Dr. C.P. Robbins, "is known to us by the results it obtains from use. I am able to control pain and disease by means of my preparation. We certainly are warranted in its use. One of the principal symptoms of all diseases is pain, and this is what the patient most often suffers to be free of. Nothing to relieve his pain. If we can arrest this promptly, the patient is most likely to be cured. I have used largely in my practice is Anti-Lumbago Tablets. Many and varied are their uses. I have put them to the test on many occasions and have never been disappointed. I found them especially valuable for headaches of malarial origin, where quinine was being taken. They appear to prevent the bad after-effects of the quinine. Anti-Lumbago Tablets are also excellent for the headaches from improper digestion; also for headaches of a neuritic origin, and especially for women subject to pains at certain times. Two Anti-Lumbago Tablets give prompt relief, and in a short time the patient is able to go about as usual. These tablets are obtainable at all druggists. Ask for Anti-Lumbago Tablets. They are also unexcelled for headaches, neuritis and all pains.

OFFICIAL.
LONDON, April 13.
The Governor, Newfoundland:
The French Government reports that a German counter-attack on Les Eparges was repulsed during the night of Sunday and Monday.
The Russian Government reports the repulse of great enemy forces in the direction of Rostokl on the 10th, and the development of a violent battle in the region of Uszok Pass, which the enemy still holds. Russians repulsed attacks on the front of Rosochaz-Otravzeyk-Rozlanika. The enemy held Height 992 since the 9th, but Koslowa and the adjoining positions remain in Russian hands.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.
PARIS, via St. Pierre, April 13.
There is but little to add to last night's communique. During all day of the 11th, fighting continued in Belgium and also in France, in Albert region, in Oise, in Aisne and in Champagne. As there has been no new fighting between the Meuse and Moselle since our success of the 8th, we have made good that inaction to reorganize the positions which we had taken in previous fights.
On the occidental border of Le Pretre Wood we have repulsed two German counter-attacks, which were completely broken up by our infantry and artillery fire. On the 10th we captured five machine guns and a bomb-thrower in Ally and Le Pretre Woods.
Official.—At Eparges during the night of the 11th and 12th, after cannonading and gun fire, the Germans sent forward at 4.30 a.m. a counter-attack, which has been repulsed. In Ally Woods and in Pilrey region, violent artillery duels. No infantry fighting occurred. In Le Pretre Wood yesterday at 8 p.m. an attack attempted by the enemy, was easily repulsed during the night. At 5.20 a.m. a German dirigible threw seven bombs on Nancy. One of them fell near the civilian hospital, and another near a school. Two fires caused by the bombs were rapidly extinguished.

GENERAL WESTERN ACTIVITIES.
PARIS, April 13.
British airmen have bombed Bruges and a number of railway lines that run through West Flanders. Missiles were dropped upon the German concentration camp at Bruges on Monday. Much damage was done to railway lines, thus hampering the movement of the German troops and supplies. The German army in Woevre has been reinforced with thousands of recruits drawn from the fortress of Metz.

DUNKIRK, April 13.
President Poincare and the Minister of War left here to-day for Paris after a visit of three days with the French and Belgian troops in this vicinity. The French President had a long conversation with King Albert of Belgium, at the Belgian headquarters. He was received by Queen Elizabeth.

AUSTRO-GERMAN OFFENSIVE.
PETROGRAD, April 13.
Emperor Wilhelm is personally directing the operations of the Austro-German armies in the Carpathians, according to a semi-official statement issued here to-day. This attributes the sudden offensive of the Teutonic troops in the Stryj region to the arrival of the Kaiser at the front, and an order from him to cut through the Russian left wing, in order to force the abandonment of the attacks being made upon the Austro-German positions at Uszok Pass. The Bourse Gazette's correspondent at Lemberg telegraphs that the Austrians, previously reported on the verge of complete retreat, have launched fierce attacks upon the Russians, along the Stryj, Opora and Swica Rivers. To oppose these, a re-arrangement of the Russian forces has been found necessary. Reinforcements are being rushed to this region, where the Austrians captured Hill 992, a dominant strategic position, by a night attack. General Alexander Linsingen, of the German army, with 280,000 soldiers, is conducting the Stryj region of operations, having superseded the Austrian commander there.

TENSION INCREASING.
GENEVA, April 13.
German frontier officials are still detaining all freight belonging to Italian lines whose shipments back to Italy were stopped last week. Reports received from the German-Italian frontier towns say that tension between the two countries is increasing.

REPORT OF NAVAL BATTLE UNTRUE.
LONDON, April 13.
Reports of a naval battle in the North Sea off the Norwegian coast, are declared unfounded.

WAYFARER TOWED TO PORT.
QUEENSTOWN, April 13.
The British steamer Wayfarer, 6,222 tons net, recently torn by explosion when about 50 miles off Scilly Islands, was towed into Queenstown to-day.

A NEW YORK STORY.
NEW YORK, April 13.
Advices were received to-day from London to the effect that among the 110 persons who lost their lives by the sinking of the British steamer Falaba, were some thirty British officers, going to join an expedition against the German colony of Kamerun, in Western Africa. This information was contained in a statement issued in London by the Elder Dempster Company, owners of the Falaba, shortly after the vessel was sunk by a German submarine in St. George's Channel on March 28th.

GERMAN AERIAL THREATS.
CONSTANCE, April 13.
"We intend to attack London with two squadrons of five dirigibles each, regardless of any losses that may be incurred. We do not expect to make any great aerial attacks until all the new units are ready, which will be about August." This statement was made here to-day by one of the aides of Count Zeppelin. The German air fleet now consists of 1,366 units, of which thirty-five are dirigibles. On July 15th we will have, perfectly ready for action, ten armoured airships of a new type, capable of carrying two tons of explosives. These dirigibles will be so equipped that they can undertake long expeditions. When Emperor William orders a spring offensive, we will be in a position to employ aerial tactics which will cause consternation among the Allies. It will be impossible for the enemy to cross the German lines without dropping like flies. It is admitted by Zeppelin's assistant, that far heavier aerial losses have been suffered since the beginning, than had been anticipated. Nine dirigibles have been put out of action since hostilities began, but these have all been replaced.

WILHELMINA'S CARGO.
LONDON, April 13.
The British Government has agreed to purchase the cargo of the American steamer Wilhelmina, and to compensate the owners for loss. An agreement to this effect has been reached between the Green Commission Company of St. Louis and the Government.

ORDERED TO LEAVE.
THE HAGUE, April 13.
It is announced semi-officially that the German steamer Mah, which had been lying in port at Flushing since the war began, left there yesterday for Antwerp. The Dutch Government, it is asserted, discovered that the steamer was communicating with wireless with the German submarines and ordered her to leave.

RUSSIANS CONTINUE THEIR SUCCESS.
PETROGRAD, April 13.
The following official communication from the general headquarters was issued to-night: On April 11th and 12th the battle of the Carpathians developed with great intensity from the direction of Bartfeld to the direction of Stryj. Corps advanced on both banks of Ondawa, south of Stropko. They captured several heights to the northeast of Telepoch, and gained a victory in the direction of Uszok, where after extremely heavy fighting, the heights in the region of the villages of Bukovichi, Benef and Vyzokontzy, fell into our hands. We captured in this section 2,700 prisoners, including 53 officers. We took one gun and twenty machine guns. On the heights south of Volosate, especially in the region of Kozulouka, the enemy delivered impetuous attacks with great strength. All of them were repulsed with enormous losses to the enemy. In Bukowina on an extended front in the direction of Zalaszczek (north of Czernowitz) the enemy on the night of the 11th delivered a furious attack in impenetrable darkness and torrential rain, but everywhere our infantry who met the attacks with the bayonet, maintained an upper hand. On the front west of Niemen we repulsed several German attacks. In other sections along our whole front, collisions between reconnoitering detachments have become more frequent.

SEE THE THANHOUSER TWINS.
The Nickel Theatre is the centre of attraction these days. Everyone likes to attend each show because they know they will see the best in movie pictures there. There is nothing too good for the Nickel. Patrons want the best and the manager gets nothing but the best on the market. To-day there is a grand show; one of the finest ever given. There is a very strong two-part Vitagraph production, entitled "The Wheat and the Tares." This is a most interesting story, with James Morrison and Dorothy Kelly in the leads. Another exceptionally good film is "The Pendulum of Fate" in which the Thanhouse twins are seen to advantage.

Mld. Regiment

Giving Good Hockey Exhibitions at Edinburgh—Trimmed the Canadians.
By the English mail just to hand we learn of the continued success of the Mld. Regiment continues to meet with. At a big hockey match held at Haymarket Rink between a Newfoundland team and a Canadian team, the former won by 15 goals to 0. The Newfoundlanders comprised the old Crescent team with the exception of Lieut. Bert Tait. Commenting on the exhibition a Scotch exchange says: "Play, which was fast and clean, showed clever combination. The nimbleness and feistiness of some of the contestants was remarkable. Almost all the players have represented Newfoundland against Canada. Lieut. Tait represented Oxford on more than one occasion against Belgium, France, Germany, Austria and Switzerland."
Another hockey match between the Crescents and Fieldians of the Mld. Regiment occurred and resulted in a win for the Crescents by 9 goals to 8. Lieut. Rendell was referee. For the Crescents, L. C. Ralph Burtham, Corpl. Max Churchill and Lieut. Herbert Berder were prominent, while for the Fieldians Lieut. Tait and L. C. R. Stick did splendid work.

German Campaign in the States.
Yesterday we referred to the campaign being carried on by Germans in the United States to influence public opinion with a view to bringing pressure to bear on President Wilson to force him to follow out the dictates of Germany in reference to the Great War. The great objective of the campaign is to obtain from the administration an order prohibiting Americans from manufacturing or selling arms and ammunition to the Entente Allies. Mr. Wile, a correspondent of the London Daily Mail writes in this connection:—
"For six months following the outbreak of the war, roughly up to February 1, the Germans waged a 'campaign of education' through the country at an expense believed to be not less than £200,000 a month. That represents to date a total outlay of nearly £1,500,000, which exceeds by £200,000 the greatest 'fund' ever raised for national political purposes in the United States during the celebrated McKinley campaign conducted by the late Senator Mark Hanna against Mr. Bryan in 1896. Mr. Roosevelt's campaign in 1912 cost only £100,000, and with the new requirement to publish campaign contributions it is doubtful whether more than £400,000 or £600,000 will ever again be spent on the election of a United States President. The Germans in their six months of crusading have therefore broken the campaign fund record in America."
Not only are the Germans trying to foment opinion against the Entente, but they are going further and organizing political clubs with a view to influence politicians by threats of loss of votes of German-Americans.
It is a question how long the non-German-Americans will stand this kind of thing.

Naval Fables.
This war has been productive of many fables about naval fights. The most sensational and unfounded was circulated at the beginning of the war. LONDON BUDGET.—GREAT FIGHT FOR THE GATE OF HUNGARY.—RUMOR THAT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT WILL MAKE THE ENTIRE BUSINESS OF THE MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES A GOVERNMENT MONOPOLY, AND MANUFACTURE AND SELL ONLY LIGHT BEERS.

LONDON, To-day.
Two gateways into Hungary still remain barred, despite the tremendous hammering by Russian forces and as Beskid Pass is the less important of the two strategically, further advance into Hungary hangs upon the possession of Uzok Pass, where the invaders are meeting with a most stubborn resistance. Several days ago the Russians captured a position which gave them the command of the road leading to the rear of Uzok Pass, but since then the Teutonic Allies have checked the movement in this direction. The importance of the Carpathian operations is indicated by the half-hearted actions reported from other sections on the long eastern front, where even a counter offensive in East Galicia, which evidently was planned to divert the Russian efforts from the Passes, seems to have been prosecuted with little energy. The people of the Dual Monarchy are said to be greatly cheered by the number of German reinforcements passing through Budapest on the way to the Carpathian front to take part in operations which are now believed to be in charge of the German general staff. The whole campaign in the east pivots on Uzok Pass, where the Austro-German forces are in such great strength that the efforts of the Russians to reach the Hungarian Plains are likely to be prolonged. In the West the French apparently are satisfied with their recent successes between the Meuse and the Lorraine frontier and claim only to have come into contact with German entanglements in this region. Official German reports assert that determined attacks by the French have been repulsed along this section. Probably no session of the British Parliament since opening has been awaited with keener interest than the sitting which will begin to-morrow. "Dry" England, unknown except for a period of two years, 150 years ago, is not beyond possibilities, but the Government has not given the slightest official hint as to what action may be expected in its undoubted determination to attack the problem of restricting the consumption of alcoholic liquors. Several days ago an opposition paper published a forecast of the Government's plan which it asserted contemplated prohibition of all liquors except light beer, which would be manufactured by the Government, which declared that the entire business of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors is to become a Government monopoly.

RUSSIAN WEDGE MENACED.
PETROGRAD, To-day.
The German commanders in the Eastern war theatre have effected another of their rapid sics, made possible by superior railroad facilities, and despatches received from Lemberg to-day intimate that the Russian invasion of Hungary through the Carpathians might have to be temporarily abandoned. The Russian wedge moving southwest and south of Przemysl to the Carpathian passes is now menaced on both flanks. Immediately following their offensive against the Russian left wing in Stry region, the Teuton allies have begun an advance in force eastward from the Dunajec River to strike the Russian right.

LONDON, To-day.
It has been decided by the Master Bakers to advance the price of bread to seventeen cents a quarter loaf. A quarter loaf weighs four pounds.

ITALY SUPPORTS SERBIAN CLAIM.
LONDON, To-day.
After prolonged negotiations, says the Daily Mail's Rome correspondent, Italy has agreed with the Entente Powers to support the Serbians' claim to an outlet on the Adriatic coast.

DESTROYER'S SCOUTING EXPLOIT.
LONDON, To-day.
Reuter's Tenedos correspondent telegraphing on Tuesday says: The British torpedo boat destroyer, Renard, entered the Dardanelles yesterday on a scouting mission and ran up the Straits at a high speed for over ten miles, penetrating the waterway probably farther than any of the British ships have yet done. A heavy fire was directed at her, but the destroyer was not hit. The British battleship London which followed the Renard into the Straits drew most of the enemy fire. The battery bombarded by the Triumph, on Saturday, apparently is permanently out of action. The weather is rainy and murky, hindering aerial reconnaissances.

EXTENDING GREENFELL WORK.
NEW YORK, To-day.
A broadening of the scope of work among fishermen on the Labrador was indicated in the annual report of the International Greenfell Association

PROPHETS.
By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Slivash."
A prophet is a man who is able to say "I told you so" and prove it. He is a man who wears his hindsight before; who is able to read the future as readily as if it were a Walt Mason prose poem; who can write a book of interesting history beginning with the day after next year and can then sit around at ease waiting for time to catch up with him.
"Prophecies are as old as history but have been steadily deteriorating for thousands of years. In biblical times there were great prophets who could not only tell what was going to happen in the next generation but would linger along and see that it came true. Nowadays, however, about the best a prophet can do is to put his prophecies a long way ahead and live on his reputation, discreetly retiring from view before history hurls him the cruel, raucous ha ha.
A batting average of .001 is very good for a modern prophet. Still people are very easily satisfied nowadays. If a prophet makes 1,000 guesses and one of them comes true he rises to great honor and his book goes into the 11th edition in two weeks.

There are three kinds of prophets to-day; those who prophesy for revenue only; those who are in a state of continual shudder over what is going to happen in 1920; and those who are trying to figure out whether the public can stand them in office another term. Joe Cannon, Bill McKinley and Charley Curtis are the greatest American prophets to-day. They came out of the cyclone cellar last year and ran for election on the Republican ticket. Senators Burton, Root and others who retired to said cyclone cellars, just after the storm blew over should take a correspondence course in plain and fancy forecasting.
The greatest war of history broke loose last year but very few prophets were on the job. Madame de Thebes of Paris was the only one who discovered it heading in from the dim mists of the future and as she has been prophesying it regularly for twenty years anyway she was bound to win if her health and endurance held out.
Most of our modern prophets are engaged in trying to discover which way the price of wheat and various stocks are going to jump to-morrow. This is why prophets are so poor and must be avoided so carefully when one has money to lend. The men who make money on the price of things to-morrow are not the men who find out the future with a jimmy and find out; they are the men who manufacture the said prices to-day.

PADS AND FASHIONS.
Sleeves are usually full length. All-black hats are again smart. Organdies are so sheer as to seem diaphanous.
Very smart motor coats are in checks.
The one-sided jacket is again fashionable.
New serge suits are trimmed with self-folds.
Exquisite gowns are being made of voiles.
Silk blouses are more than ever decorative.

Sealing News.
Dublin, April 5.—A band of the Irish Guards, which even a few months ago would have received an unfriendly greeting anywhere in Ireland, arrived here yesterday on a recruiting tour, and was enthusiastically cheered as it marched to the Mansion House, playing "St. Patrick's Day." The bandmen were received and welcomed by the Lord Mayor and sheriffs.
There was another remarkable scene here when John E. Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, reviewed 25,000 of the Irish National volunteers, and in a speech said that of the Nationalist and Ulster volunteers who had organized to fight one another, more than 50,000 were not fighting side by side on the Continent, or training to go there.
Limerick also has altered its opinion of the British army. Officers, who during the week secured 300 recruits in Limerick, were heartily welcomed by the people, and the recruits were lustily cheered when they presented themselves.
Perhaps for the first time in Irish history such scenes have been witnessed, and certainly there has been a change from the days when an Irishman who joined the army was shunned by many.

STRUCK SMALL PATCH.—LOST CHANCE OF KILLING BULK BY LACK OF GUNS.
Copy of message received by Job Brothers & Co., Ltd.:—
S.S. Beothic, April 14th, 1915. "Struck small patch at noon, estimate patch at 5,000, sent men out, fully ninety per cent. took to the water; whitecoats more plentiful as we go Northwest, could have shot four thousand this afternoon if we had ten guns; took 500 to-day; all well."
WINSOR.

TO MARINE & FISHERIES DEPARTMENT To-day.
Change Islands—Wind S.W., foggy; ice 8 miles off yesterday; 5 punts out, killed 10 young harps; no steamers to be seen.
La Scie—Wind S.W., raining; ice 8 miles off shore and open, moving south rapidly, bay clearing fast.
The new styles certainly favor the custom dressmaker.

McMurdo's Store News.
WEDNESDAY, April 14, 1915.
We have still a fine selection of Willard's Forkport Chocolates, but they are going rapidly, and if you want a specially nice box of Chocolates come along at once. Judging by the large number of these high-class sweetmeats we sell, it is pretty evident that our St. John's public are becoming increasingly convinced that only the best is good enough in the way of chocolates. Willard's Chocolates keep up their quality all through their varieties.
If you want to know about Sutton's Seeds, send to us for one of our Catalogues. They are gratis and post free.

Mr. Allen's Concert

Mr. Allen's programme for Thursday's Concert offers an hour or two of exceptional enjoyment. No one trains boys' voices but like Mr. Allen, and he has done nothing better than the work he has put in his choir, so that the opportunity of hearing the Cathedral Choir is one that no one should miss.

Bonaventure's Seals

The S.S. Bonaventure, Capt. Bob Bartlett, finished landing her seals last night. The specification of her cargo is—25,913 young harps, 72 old harps, total 25,985 seals; gross weight 575 tons, 6 cwt., 13 lbs; net weight 552 tons, 11 cwt., 1 qr., 12 lbs; gross value $52,886.25 less damage skins $300; net value $52,586.25, less one full share of $194.96; $52,391.49, one-third for crew; 270 men each shared $64.68. The crew were paid off this forenoon. The average weight of young harps was 49 1-3 lbs. Capt. Bartlett's share comes to approximately $2200.00. The amount paid for young fat was $4.75 a cwt. and for old $3.55.

Suitable Recognition

Yesterday afternoon, Capt. Patrick Kane, of the Western Fire Station, was awarded a first class favorable record together with a cash allowance for conspicuous bravery during the fire at Melin Noah's store on Saturday night last. While the flames were in full progress Capt. Kane rescued an aged lady from an upper room in the building, which at the time was threatened with destruction. We congratulate Capt. Kane on his bravery, and are pleased to know that his good work received recognition from the Fire Department, of which he is such a faithful official.

Here and There

LOCAL ARRIVES.—The local from Carbonar via Broad Cove, arrived in the city at 12.50 p.m. to-day. WEATHER.—It is calm and foggy along the line of railway to-day with the temperature ranging from 30 to 45 above. STEPHANO LEFT.—Word has been received that the s.s. Stephano left New York at 11 a.m. to-day for Halifax and this port. CLEMENTINE HERE.—The bark Clementine, Capt. Parsons, arrived in port yesterday afternoon after a run of 35 days from Barbados. She brought a cargo of molasses to Alan Goodridge & Sons. STILL AT CHANNEL.—The S.S. Terra Nova, Capt. Wm. Bartlett, is supposed to be at Channel yet, as no word of her leaving there either to come on to St. John's or resume the sealing voyage in the Gulf has been received. ESTABLISHED INNOCENCE.—An eighteen year old domestic was before court to-day charged with the larceny of a purse containing $3.15. She established her innocence to the satisfaction of Judge Knight and was let go.

What the British Navy Has Done.

Mr. Archibald Hurd draws an amazing picture of what the British Navy has done, in the Fortnightly Review.

A BOTTLED FLEET. "The High Sea Fleet of Germany has been 'contained' in its home ports without respite; not a single German battle squadron has been at sea.

CAPTURED MERCANTILE MARINE. "Five and a half million tons of German shipping and one million tons of Austro-Hungarian shipping have been driven off the seas or captured. Germany's mercantile marine ranked second only to that of Great Britain; for some years she held the blue ribbon of the Atlantic; she was Britain's most serious rival in every sea, and had practically captured from her the trade on the west coast of Africa and with Brazil and Argentina.

OVERSEA TRADE STRANGLER. "The overseas trade of Germany and Austro-Hungary has been strangled, owing mainly to the ubiquity of British sea power. In 1913 the foreign trade of Germany amounted to £1,021,400,000, and of this about 70 per cent. was ocean borne. The foreign trade of Austria-Hungary in the same year was valued at £256,562,000; 50 per cent. of this trade was probably ocean borne. Consequently Germany and her ally have been de-nied, by the loss of their sea communications, trade of an aggregate annual value of £863,260,000; half of this gigantic total—£431,630,000—would represent the fine which the British Fleet, in association with that of France in the Mediterranean, had imposed on these two belligerents since war broke out if all sea traffic had been stopped. Some trade in neutral bottoms has, however, been carried on, and the net loss has probably amounted to about £400,000,000.

COSTLY COLONIAL EMPIRE LOST. "The German colonial empire has been almost entirely destroyed. On these possessions, representing five times the area of the Fatherland, Germany, down to 1908, had spent £56,990,000, and the outlay in the subsequent six years having been at the rate of approximately £1,500,000 a year, she must have spent upon her colonies altogether £66,000,000. Almost all the results of this expenditure have been lost to Germany, owing to the isolation which British sea power imposed when the war opened, and the subsequent overseas expeditions which were undertaken by Britain and her Dominions, and by Japan.

A MILLION DOLLARS HELD UP. "There were about 40,000,000 persons of German, Austrian, or Hungarian nationality, or origin, resident in foreign countries when the war opened. At the lowest estimate, 1,000,000 of these who are of military age would have crossed the seas to fight in Europe for the barrier imposed by British men-of-war. In this way the supreme naval Power made no inconsiderable contribution to the strength of the allied armies. This million of additional men might have turned the scale decisively in the early period of the war.

FORETOLD! "On the other hand, the British fleet, while denying to the enemies the use of the seas, has secured to the British peoples and our allies uninterrupted ocean communication with the markets of the world, with the result that the inhabitants of the United Kingdom have been able, in the phrase of the moment, to carry on "business as usual"—or very much as usual."

FORETOLD! The memorandum of the German Navy Act of 1900 was not far wrong when it foretold that:—"An unsuccessful naval war of the duration of even only a year would destroy Germany's sea trade, and would thereby bring about the most disastrous conditions, first in her economic and then, as an immediate consequence, in her social life."

Quite apart from the consequences of the possible peace conditions, the destruction of our sea trade during the war could not, even at the close of it, be made good within measurable time, and would add to the sacrifices of the war a serious economic depression."

Famous Russian General

FORCED BY ILLNESS TO QUIT. Petrograd, April 2.—Retirement from active service of one of Russia's most distinguished generals is a regrettable blow in the tide of Russian success.

Gen. Ruzsky, who made his mark early in the war by his magnificent conduct in the Galician campaign, taking Lemberg and defeating the combined Austro-German armies, has latterly been responsible for another great Russian success, namely at Przasnysz.

A rescript by the Emperor, worded with unusual warmth, and the appointment of Gen. Ruzsky as a member of the Upper House, indicated the honor in which the General is deservedly held.

Ill-health is the sole cause of his retirement, which ought to have taken place long ago, but the general held on as long as he felt able to fulfil the responsible duties of his position. For a long time he has been suffering from internal cancer. Now that the German raid from East Prussia has practically liquidated, he has surrendered to this unconquerable malady and retired with every token of honor and affection.

UNITED STATES MAKES CLAIM. Washington, April 5.—On behalf of the owners of the American ship William P. Frye, sunk by the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, the United States Government, in a note made public to-day, has asked Germany to pay an indemnity of $228,059.54, which represents the cost of the vessel, the freight charges for its cargo, and damages resulting from being deprived of the use of the ship.

Inasmuch as the cargo being British owned while en route, no claim for damages was presented by the previous American shippers.

Vancouver Poor Loot the Stores.

Vancouver, B. C., April 7.—Owing to the fact that the city has no funds to allocate to relief purposes, resulting in the abolition of the bread line out-of-works lined up last night on Hastings street and commenced to loot many stores in the vicinity. A hurry call for the police was sent in, and the attitude of the crowd, composed chiefly of foreigners, looked ugly. At times the police had difficulty in keeping the crowd back and attempts were frequently made to rush the officers.

Five arrests were made and the police anticipate this is only the beginning of trouble, which may culminate in serious riots.

Arrangements have, however, been made to cope with any disturbances and the services of the mounted force will be brought into operation should circumstances demand it.

OUR GREATEST SAILORS AND SOLDIERS.

A number of distinguished experts were asked by the Strand Magazine to cite the name of our greatest sailors and soldiers. When these lists were collated, the names which won the highest places were:

The ten greatest Sailors—Nelson, Drake, Elcke, St. Vincent, Hawke, Rodney, Anson, Howe, Collingwood, Hood.

The ten greatest Soldiers—Wellington, Marlborough, Roberts, Cromwell, Wolfe, Moore, Wolsley, Clive, Sir Chas. Napier, Clyde.

How to Help Without Money.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

One of the most pitiful things to me about the "submerged tenth" is their helplessness even to be helped. Many of those who most painfully need the assistance of the charitable organizations meant especially for them cannot take advantage of this assistance because they lack the education and familiarity with affairs to find out about them and use them.

For instance, I once lived in a city where there was a free dental clinic for children.

The woman who drove away a Wolf With a Washboard.

My washerwoman was a widow who was trying to keep her family of three small children together by transforming a thousand dirty garments or so a week into clean ones. Pennies come slowly and painfully out of the wash tub; dollars are milestones. One morning my washerwoman who is usually as cheerful as if she weren't trying to drive away a very vicious wolf with no better weapon than a wooden washboard, appeared looking rather downhearted.

I asked her the reason. "My littlest girl got a dreadful toothache. I take her to the dentist but I can't get any money to pay him. I don't know what I shall do."

"But Olga, there's a place in town where you can get your little girl's teeth fixed for nothing."

A light flashed across her tired face, then went out.

A Toothache and No Money for Relief.
"I hear something about that," she said dully, "but I don't know where it is and I don't know how to get there. I can't read the signs on the cars and I'm afraid to go to the city. The dentist, he wants me to pay him a dollar and a half for Gretchen's teeth and I ain't got it."

You can imagine how delighted I was with the privilege of seeing that Olga and her little girl found the free clinic and if you have ever had the pleasure of helping anyone as genuine as my heroine of the wash-tubs you can imagine how touchingly sincere her gratitude was.

Just the other day a woman told me that she had helped a poor woman whose husband was in jail to get help from the city. She had a right to this relief but she did not know enough of our customs to apply for it and she had been struggling along by herself on the verge of starvation for two months.

It's Up to You and Me.
It seems to me that this is one of our duties, yours and mine—to acquaint ourselves with all the agencies that help people and, when an opportunity comes, to go out of our way to bring the need and the supply together.

We may not be in a position to give much money to those whom the accident of birth or circumstances have given lives of unspeakable toll and deprivation, but we can help justify our own comfortable lives by giving them all the benefit of our greater knowledge.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured me. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

TURN BACK U. S. CORRESPONDENT.

Amsterdam, April 5.—The war correspondent of one of the largest newspapers of the United States was turned back yesterday by the Germans in his effort to get within the Kaiser's lines, with the information that he only escaped punishment because Germany "wants to avoid any conflict with the United States."

The correspondent crossed the frontier last Saturday from Holland, and was working his way westward. He succeeded in getting as far as Ostend, where he was arrested and taken to the Dutch frontier, after being held twenty-four hours. The German officer who escorted him to the frontier seemed to regard his release as an act of extraordinary clemency.

Germans Bitterly Disappointed

WITH THEIR ZEPPELIN AIRSHIPS.

Air Fleet Was Built for Purpose of Destroying Britain's Capital.

London, April 5.—A "neutral observer," writing in the Times of his latest visit to Germany, says:—

"The Germans are utterly disappointed with their Zeppelins. London, they repeat, must be bombarded. Not all, but a majority of the Germans are glad to hear of the killing of English citizens no matter whether they are women or soldiers, but London is the place they aim at and want to destroy."

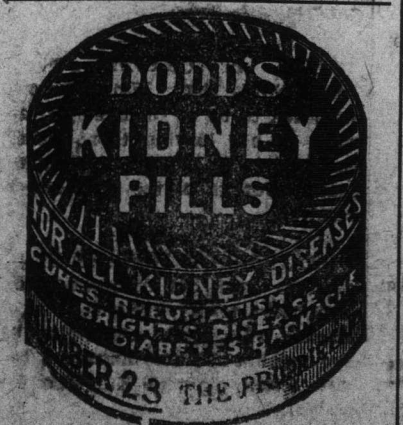

"It is fully realized now that the German army will never be able to enter London because they understand at last the impossibility of landing an army. At the end of 1912 Germany possessed more than 20 airships of different models. What the exact number is at present nobody outside the highest military circle knows for certain. I had the other day an interesting conversation with a business man who holds a patent for the manufacture of a special article necessary for Zeppelins. He said:—

"Even I do not know the exact number and present strength of Germany's air fleet, but I cannot believe that it has increased since the beginning of the war. On the contrary, I am of the opinion that we have just been able to replace our losses, which have been much greater than were expected. But the coming six months will enable us to build fifteen to eighteen new Zeppelins of a greatly improved model, better armed and able to carry more than two tons of explosives."

"This air fleet is most likely being built for the purpose of reaching London. That city will not be approached by one or two airships but by many, and quite regardless of possible losses. If we have not yet made an attempt on London it is because our Zeppelins needed special improvement, as shown by experiments during the war. It is also of the highest importance to the leaders of the aerial expedition to have before they start an exact knowledge of the meteorological conditions. It has hampered us greatly that English authorities have not sent out any news about the meteorological conditions since the war began."

"If the war lasts another year I should not advise you to remain in London, and, if you do, remember my warning. But, personally, I do not think there will be any Zeppelin raids in London before late in the summer."

There is a decided fancy for black and white in Paris.

Our Volunteers.

Five volunteers enlisted with the Reserve Force yesterday making a total of 1,576 enrolled to-date. The names of yesterday's volunteers are:

Jas. Murrin, Spaniard's Bay.
Mark Butler, Clarke's Beach.
Geo. Baker, Clareville.
Willmet Williams, Dildo, T. B. Rd. Walsh, Holyrood.

Yesterday the men of No. 2 Platoon held a bathing parade at the Institute and the distribution of "kit" was continued. Recruiting will still be continued daily, with the object of forming F Company.

Furness Boat

Seventeen and a Half Days From Liverpool—Over Four Days Jammed in the Ice.

The Furness Liner Roanoke, Capt. Williams, arrived here at 6 o'clock last evening from Liverpool, after a tedious and eventful trip which occupied seventeen and a half days. She brought 50 packages of mail matter and 535 tons of cargo but no passengers.

The ship left Liverpool on March 26th and at the outset conditions were as moderate as could be expected. An occasional gale, though only of short duration, was experienced. The Roanoke was barely eleven days out and was only 50 miles to the eastward of St. John's when she struck the ice and became jammed. The ship had to remain there for over four days, unable to budge, as the ice was very heavy and tightly packed. Numerous seals were sighted from the deck of the ship and if a seal was around would get a load. However, when the ice-pack loosened and the Roanoke got clear Capt. Williams altered his course and went southward, skirting the ice. On Saturday and Sunday last a strong N. W. gale was encountered with a heavy sea and very little headway was made. Monday morning the ship ran into dense fog and was practically stopped, lying off Cape Race, until yesterday at noon when the fog bank lifted. Two icebergs were sighted yesterday coming along the Southern Shore.

This is the first visit of the Roanoke to St. John's but Capt. Williams was here before as mate in the Tobiasco.

At the House.

TUESDAY, April 13th.
 In more than nine cases out of ten the questions asked the Government for information are unanswered," said a member of the Opposition side, and a feature of last evening's session was the number of questions asked and the number of answers in course of preparation.

Mr. Jennings presented a petition from Twillingate, referring to the killing of sheep by dogs and asking that measures be adopted to compensate sufficiently owners of sheep that are destroyed, or amend the dog law. A largely and influentially signed petition, strongly supported by the members of the district, was presented by Mr. Stone protesting against the appointment of Mr. Somerton as Magistrate at Catalina and neighbourhood and asking that he be removed and given a Government job somewhere else.

The report of the Hospital Commission has not yet reached the Government, said the Prime Minister in answer to a question put by Mr. Coaker; also in reply to another query, the Premier said that the Heart's Content and Grate's Cove Branch railways would be completed about the end of the coming summer.

In connection with the Election, petitions the Prime Minister stated that the Judges of the Supreme Court were paid $200 each, in the case of each petition and that he would supply more information in regard to the matter at the next sitting; he also replied in answer to a question that on account of services rendered at the Hague by the late Sir James Winter a claim was brought against the Colony by the Winter Estate and that the lawyers engaged were: for plaintiffs Messrs. Furlong and Winter; for defendants the Attorney General and F. J. Morris, K.C.

The Prime Minister said he had not made any claim against the Government. Continuing, the Leader of the House said that as to Mr. Morison he did not know his intentions, but he had not made any claim on the Government. Continuing, the Leader of the House intimated that other information asked for in relation to the Hague; the Commission appointed to consolidate the Statutes and the office of the Minister of Justice was being prepared.

The fine imposed by Magistrate Bonning on Joseph Walsh, Lamaline, has been paid and the amount refunded, answered the Prime Minister to a question put to him.

Mr. Kent asked about expenditures of public monies on Bell Island, the Colonial Secretary and Minister of Public Works replied that answers are being prepared.

Mr. Morine suggested a saving of time could be effected if questions were numbered and the Ministers' replies asked for by a reference to the number.

The Finance Minister's notice of motion to move the House into Committee of the Whole to consider certain resolutions in reference to the disposition of duties on the estate of deceased persons, was deferred.

The Logging Bill and the Bill relating to the Sale of Fish on the Labrador Coast were read a second time, as was also the Local Affairs and Stalling Bills.

Mr. Morine asked whether the latter bill was prepared by the Commission of Enquiry or was the Commission responsible for the verbiage.

The Prime Minister, the introducer of the Bill, replied that the Bill was prepared by the Attorney General and the Solicitor of the House and many suggestions in the Bill were taken verbatim from the report of the Commissioners.

The Bill relating to "An Act to Amend the Customs Act, 1898" was deferred.

The Bill to Naturalize Aliens made progress in Committee, which will sit again.

The Bill respecting Patents and Trade marks passed the Committee without amendment.

Mr. Devreux resumed his speech on the Address in Reply. His remarks were principally from a "patriotic standpoint, though he emphasized that economy was false and dangerous for a Government, the same as an individual, at this important juncture.

The Address in Reply then passed, after which Mr. Jennings gave notice to bring in a bill to amend the Saw Mills Act; Mr. Dwyer gave notice of question to ask the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to lay upon the table of the House details of expenditures in St. John's East from January to June last year.

Mr. Kent asked the Finance Minister for the Auditor General's Report. The last item for the day was by no means the least important. Mr. Hickman rose and gave notice of motion that on Friday he would introduce a resolution expressing the desirability of the Government bringing in a Bill prohibiting the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors in the Island of Newfoundland.

The House closed at 5:50 p.m. to meet again at 3 this afternoon.

In Royal Bondage.
 The Crescent Picture Palace is showing a first class programme today made up of drama and comedy to suit the ladies and gentlemen who patronize the popular Picture House.

"In Royal Bondage" is a great Pathé feature in two reels, being the story of a Royal lover and his bride. "The Cryer" is a fine drama produced by the Selig Company. "A Man's Path" is another good drama acted and staged by the Lubin Company. "Seligettes" is a film of comical cartoons by a noted cartoonist. "Bunny's Scheme" is a rich Bunny comedy with John Bunny and Flora Finch; the greatest laugh producer of the season. See Bunny to-day and have a good laugh.

Not the Time to Discuss Peace

Says Suffragette Leader.

London, April 7.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst announced to-day that the Womens Social and Political Union and the other suffrage organizations in Great Britain and France had decided not to participate in the forthcoming Womens Conference at the Hague to consider the question of peace. In this connection the British militant leader said:—
 "This movement is well meaning but mistaken. Those running this conference have no political influence. Pro-Germans are working hard in this direction here and in neutral countries and much German money has been circulated in America, but this is not the time to talk peace."

First Steamer To Leave Old Quebec

Quebec, April 5.—The first steamer to leave port this season for commercial purposes is the Savoy, which left Sunday morning for north shore and Anticosti ports with freight, passengers and mails.
 The Government ice breakers are continuing their work above Three Rivers. The Montcalm reached Sorel Saturday night while the Lady Grey is still at work about Three Rivers widening the channel between the ice banks of the shore. The C. G. S. Belchasse left Quebec yesterday and is now at Three Rivers working with the Lady Grey.

SYMPTOMS.
 A man can read an almanac, and learn that he is sick; then he will groan about his back in which he's found a crick. Before he reads that book of dole, he never knew a smart; he was a hale and healthy soul, with sunshine in his heart. But now he hangs about his coop, his head bent to his knees; he has the symptoms of the croup, of hoof and mouth disease. A man as sound as Adam's ox, when "symptoms" get his goat, will purchase nostrums by the box, and send them down his throat. Of grievous aches and pains he'll whine, as sunny days go by, and go into a slow decline, and of his symptoms die. The "symptoms" fiend will cough three times, and to the druggist skip, and blow for dope his hard-earned dime, and say, "I have the grip!" And when his cough has pulled its freight, "I still am sick," says he; "my present symptoms indicate I have the housemaid's knee!" Our cares are much like pains and aches which keep that fellow sore; the most of them are flimsy fakes—just symptoms, nothing more. We wear away our little lives, and weep and walk the floor, and read our beads and beat our wives for shadows, nothing more.

WILL REMIT DUTY ON GIFTS SENT TO MEN AT THE FRONT.
 Ottawa, April 5.—Sir G. H. Perley, acting Canadian High Commissioner in London, has been notified that the British Commissioners of Customs and Excise have been authorized to remit the customs duty on gifts sent to the United Kingdom from the Overseas Dominions and intended for free distribution during the war, provided: (a) That the gift is from the Government of the Dominion concerned, or is vouchered for by such Government as being intended for free distribution and not for sale; (b) That the goods sent are intended for the use of sick and wounded soldiers in hospitals, or of Belgian refugees, or for the relief of distress in the United Kingdom; and (c) that they are addressed to hospitals and convalescent homes, which the War Office or Admiralty declare to be properly accredited by them, or to a central authority to be provided by the Board of Customs for distribution to refugees in authorized depots under the authorities direct control, or to an agency for relief of distress approved by the committee on the relief of distress.

The S. S. Morwenna, which was engaged up to recently running between New York and West Indian ports, came here last evening from New York, the run taking over six days. The ship would have arrived earlier but for being detained by thick fog which was met on approaching Cape Race. She brought a full general cargo including deck load and a large American mail.

When she finishes unloading, the Morwenna will go into dry dock here for a thorough overhauling, after which she will run on the Red Cross route making alternate trips with the Stephano so far as is known at present.

Victims of the Bayano.

An inquest was held at Douglas this morning on the bodies of three victims of the Bayano disaster. The bodies were picked up by the trawler Norse twelve miles south-west of the Mull of Galloway. Two of the bodies were identified as James Geraghty, leading seaman, of Mortlake, and Arthur Gray King, sergeant in the Marines, of Southall, Middlesex. The third body was not identified, and the inquest upon it was adjourned. A verdict of "Death due to exposure" was returned in the case of the others. —Evening Chronicle, Manchester, March 19.

Evening Gowns
at Reduced Prices!

While many of the larger social functions are—on account of the war—conspicuous by their absence this season, there are never-the-less many smaller affairs which take place where a really smart gown is not only admissible, but really necessary.

¶ We are offering a limited number only of Evening and At-home Gowns and Blouses, in combinations of Silk and Net, Satin and Lace, Charmeuse, Ninon, Voile, etc.—in very beautiful designs and in different sizes. These Gowns and Blouses are copies of French and American models, and, owing to the depression in trade, are to be sold at heavy reductions.

¶ This week presents an excellent chance for you to purchase a dainty Evening Gown for the coming Easter festivities at actual cost.
