CHAPTER XXXII. MISS HURST ARRANGES EVERYTHING FOR EVERYONE.

Over this excellent-intentioned labyrinth of words Sydney turned dazed. What to set right, what to leave unexplained, she could not sift out. Deeply resenting then chill and pale, she was able only to thank Miss Jean disjunctly for her expressed interest, interrupted by a brisk "Don't say a word about that. Our obligations are equal as a sister on to Gilbert. He was naturally taken up with my prospect, and appeared to pay no attention to yours; kept walking at the other end of the room, and didn't answer once till I said, 'Really, Gilbert, you ought to wish Miss Grey prosperity in marriage or anything for her good prospects!'"

So ended Sydney's last lengthy conversation with Miss Hurst. For during her remaining days at Wynstone, if the slated fiancée was not holding chatted converse with Mr. Babbington, Mr. Hurst's frocks or Horry's food or Bella's boots, or some willingly anticipated duty demanded her time, and Sydney was left weary leisure in which to chafe her spirit more and more miserably. Useless incumbrance, despite all her cravings to serve them, no matter how cruel the wrench. One hour she longed to be away; another, the prospect of him who all unendingly had drawn forth her love, never to be given back, the foresight of his isolation, sympathy only too potent with that night fall of some of his desolate sorrow, and leaving him seemed impossible. But very soon decision was imperative.

"My brother's friend is not to be put off!" Miss Jean announced the third morning of Mr. Hurst's absence. "Of course I open Gilbert's letters. Here is one from that Mr. Drayton, and he means to look round, as he calls it, the end of this month or the beginning of next. He wishes for no answer. May not be at home to receive it. Which is all very well, but how does he know if I can receive him? There are the rooms—"

Sydney gathered up her resolution! She would be gone before Richard Drayton came. "My holiday was to have been asked for soon," she said. "Of course now you will not want me back after it. Let me leave directly. I will write to—where I shall stay, and you will have books enough then for your guest."

And to this Miss Jean, inclined to be provoked at her continued reticence, agreed somewhat stiffly, and Sydney took the initial step toward departing by writing briefly to Jacob Cheese that in one week's time she would be with him at Stillcote-Upton.

CHAPTER XXXIII. "FAREWELL"

The next day Mr. Hurst came home. Sydney saw him nearing Wynstone, very erect but surely aged, with a face would be worth a larger sum. "An opening at last," thought Sydney, bitterly, "and she must not help him to use it!"

It reads like irony, does it not, Miss Grey? was Mr. Hurst's comment, as if he saw what passed within her breast. "Still, this lifts me out of a beggar's estate! For that release I have to thank you. This will take me from Capel Moor without further encroachments on my sister; so again I thank you."

"You, too, are going?" "Yes, to find my level among others as sightless as myself. I am to make one of Mr. Montague Carle's household. To learn, and to teach, and to get my daily bread under his orders. Mr. Babbington suggests this scheme, my sister desires it."

"I accept it. It means to the only human end my life may know. My sister's relief, I thank God for that."

To Mr. Montague Carle! Under his roof, his rule, hard, grasping, grinding, vulgar, intolerable! Sydney glowed, trembled, in angry revolt.

"You can never go there," she cried, passionately; "it is cruel!"

"No, no! They see no cruelty in it. Like me, they see the necessity."

"But—fighting this fact—Miss Hurst spoke to me of something else for you."

"Ah! to undertake, named as I am, for leaves and fishes, what I never counted myself fit for, in more capable days. No, this is better than that. I had a friend once, Miss Grey, a Robert Vaughan, who always held that solace of some sort lies at the end of the road called straight, however narrow, however rough it might be."

"Sydney's eyes filled fast. Heaven send he might so find it! "There was"—very slowly—"an hour when I forgot this. Henceforth I must forget it no more. When Jean, in her great sisterly goodness, would to keep me with her—idle—yielded; for I had no right to risk money of hers in seeking advantage for myself I might never secure. That way was narrow enough, but peaceful too. Now things are altered. Brighter times seem come for Jean. It would be unjust for me to mar them. So I turn out—late enough—on the rough way."

(No calm could hide how he was suffering. Her tears fell quick and silent. Oh, to comfort him, to comfort him!) "I would not have tired you with so much about myself," he had to be very careful of each word now—

"Only I would fain have my—Babbington—of so many months remember me fairly. At least as no worse than I am." He broke off abruptly. Sydney could barely muster voice to answer him.

"I will remember most, Mr. Hurst, that you taught me very much. That while you let me learn of you I grew almost to forget some great troubles."

"Troubles which may be nigh done with now," he returned; "for, mechanically repeating the sentences he had drilled himself in, "Jean tells me what she sees in store for you. If she is right there is assuredly one cause for—for us—to be glad at this break-up!"

Glad—was he? Best so a thousand times. And yet a momentary faintness surged over her. Outside Miss Hurst was heard. "Here, Davis, this is the luggage. Be careful of it. We have no time to lose." Sydney moved nearer Gilbert Hurst.

"Then I can only bid you—good-bye," she said.

He leaned against the chimney-piece; his usual fashion, as she first saw him at Wynstone. Her own hand she held forth in farewell. He knew it, but kept his arms fast folded. For honor, or reason, he must act the churl.

"Good-bye," he repeated, motionless. "Miss Grey!" cried his sister without; the door opened; a rush of flower-scented air filled the room; it closed, Sydney was gone.

She never remembered clearly that walk to Capel Moor station with Miss Hurst. Belle Babbington ran out from the manor and claimed to join them. Davis brought a great bunch of white stocks as a valedictory offering from his "mistress." Miss Jean kept up a stream of mysterious offers, to write anywhere or do anything for her benefit, and waited suitless from the tips of her fingers as the train moved off; but all this, with the hot midday journey which ensued, seemed only like a dream, herself an automaton moving through it.

They were nearing Stillcote-Upton when she roused from breathing space to pain once more. To pain, and to dim hope, struggling against reader unbelief in the dictum Gilbert Hurst long before she later, at St. Clai's had learned of their mutual master, Robert Vaughan.

But even that was destined to more conflict.

Her destination reached, she traversed a sleepy little Stillcote, guided by landmarks Jacob had pointed out last autumn. Past the lodgings of his clerical days, where her father went to and fro each morning; down the quaint, irregular High Street, where shop-folks stared at her, so evidently a stranger; by St. Clement's, the rectory, overshadowed by the buttressed tower; by St. Art's, where quail-roses peeped at her from the old walled-in garden; and so toward Jacob's dwelling.

She looked up at his bay-window, longing for the old man's smile—the only one in the world she could now count upon. He had not written back to her, but she never doubted his ready welcome. How much she would have to tell him—how much to withhold!

On Miss Ambler's shining knocker she sounded a summons, modest enough, but it set the echoes flying down the old town, and brought in immediate response a small, rosy-cheeked handmaid, with very red eyes.

"Mr. Cheese, miss!" ejaculated Nancy, as, too tired to wait for invitation, Sydney entered while asking for him. "Oh, didn't you know, miss? Hadn't nobody sent you word of it? Why?—recklessly crumpling a clean apron over her face—poor Mr. Cheese! he died o' Thursday, miss, an' they've buried him only this very mornin'!"

Just Folks

WISH I WAS A MAN 'COZ THEN I needn't go to bed till ten. An' I could stay an' listen to the talk the way the old folks do. Then I'd know what it is they say. The times they make me go away. An' Pa says 'Bud just disappear. This isn't for a boy to hear.'

WISH I WAS A MAN, AN' I could have a second piece of pie Or anything I wanted which For little stummocks is too rich. Then I could pass my plate an' they would have to serve me right away. Of if I didn't eat my bread. There never would be nothin' said.

WISH I WAS A MAN GROWN UP. So's they'd put coffee in my cup instead of milk, an' I could do the very things I wanted to. An' go down town with all the men An' telephone 'em now an' then At night they shouldn't wait for me 'Coz I would not be home to tea.

WISH I WAS A MAN, AN' I would never have to ever cry. 'Coz men, as far as I can see, Aren't never gettin' hurt like me. An' nothin' seems to pain them so They've simply got to let it show. My Pa says men must suffer, too. But I don't think they really do.

Where Colours Come From.

Every boy who has a box of paints wants as many colours in it as possible—ultra-marine, Chinese white, vermilion, crimson lake, and so on.

Have you ever wondered where all these different colours come from? Both sea and land—animals, fish, vegetables, and miners—contribute their share of pigments, as the foundation of the colours is called.

The tiny cochineal insects produce varying shades, from deepest crimson to palest pink. Turkey red is obtained from the madder plant, which grows in India.

Yellow gamboge is another vegetable product, being prepared from the sap of a tree growing in America and the East Indies. This sap has a bright, yellow colour, and is rather sticky.

Discovered by Accident. That lovely hue, Prussian blue, is made in quite an extraordinary way—by fusing horses' hoofs and other animal refuse matter with impure potassium carbonate. As may be imagined, its discovery was accidental; it would not have occurred to anyone to experiment with these substances.

Ultramarine is perhaps the most beautiful of all the many shades of blue; it is obtained by burning the lapis-lazuli stone, which comes principally from China, Tibet, and Chitl.

Another blue is indigo, used chiefly as a dye; it is made from a plant which grows in Central America and the West Indies. As soon as the blossoms appear, the plant is cut to the ground and the stems dried. New shoots spring up quickly, so that two or three harvests are taken in a season.

Various kinds of earth and clay give colour. In the neighbourhood of Stona, in Italy, is found the brown earth called Raw Stona. When burnt it becomes darker in shade, and is termed Burnt Stona.

Yellow and blue ochre are natural clays or earths; they are worked in Devonshire and Anglesey. Some are fine enough in their natural state to need nothing but washing before use.

Opium-Fish Camouflage. Real Indian ink, strongly enough, is prepared from a recipe of which the Chinese possess the secret; its chief constituent is supposed to be burnt camphor. Chinese white has nothing to do with China, being a preparation of zinc.

The blacks comprise ivory-black and bone-black, both made from chips of ivory.

Sepia has an interesting derivation. It is the fluid ejected by the cuttle-fish when it wishes to conceal itself from its enemies. As the fluid spreads in the water, it serves the same purpose as the smoke clouds with which Zepplins surrounded themselves during the war.

From minerals we get vermilion and scarlet. Cinnabar, the ore from which quicksilver (or mercury) is drawn, also provides vermilion; while a lovely shade of scarlet is given by iodine of mercury.

THE right kind of a start in the morning cuts a big figure in the kind of work you do. And has a lot to do with the figure on your weekly pay-slip, too! You've probably discovered how an early get-up sets your mind just right to tackle the tough job and give it all you've got! And by noon—well, the job wasn't nearly as hard as it looked.

So when your Westclox says: "Make it snappy, old boy!" it's really talking right into your pocketbook. The Westclox habit has helped many a man climb higher on the company pay-roll. A Standing Example.

The United States and Canada had their acute differences, extending back to the bitter-boundary dispute of 1841. Then there was the later one of '64-40 or '68' the fisheries dispute, Alaskan boundary dispute and others. Public opinion on both sides of the boundary ran high in each instance. But common sense prevailed. Good judgment settled what Europe under somewhat similar conditions always insisted should be determined by hot blood. To-day there is still peace along a mere geographical boundary line extending across the continent for a distance of 3,000 miles and the most friendly relations between the two Governments and the whole peoples which they represent. Is it possible to exaggerate the importance of the lesson?—Syracuse Journal.

100,000,000 Pounds Spent in Relief.

English Unemployed Costs Enormous Sum -- Value of German Ships Surrendered--Second Lady M. P. Elected to Commons--Ulster Parliament Adjourns Till November.

VALUE OF SHIPS SURRENDERED.

PARIS, Sept. 23. The value of ships surrendered by Germany is fixed at seven hundred and forty-five million gold marks, in an official communication issued by the Reparations Commission. These vessels were turned over to the Allies in execution of the Versailles Treaty, which calls for the replacement, ton for ton and class for class, of all merchant ships, good fishing boats, lost or damaged during the war.

CHURCHILL AND UNEMPLOYMENT.

LONDON, Sept. 23. The Right Hon. Winston Churchill, Secretary of State for the Colonies, today received a deputation from Dundee, dealing with the unemployed situation. The Colonial Secretary said that since the signing of the Armistice the British Government had spent 100,000,000 pounds in relief. This, he said, was unparalleled in any country in the world, and added that the situation in America now, as regards unemployment, was infinitely worse than in Britain. The British Government, Mr. Churchill said, would have a final decision next week, and he had every reason to believe that it would then be decided what special assistance must be given to areas where the unemployment problem is exceptionally acute.

ADJOURNMENT SHORTENED.

BELFAST, Sept. 23. Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, announced here today that the Northern Irish Parliament would adjourn next until February as had been expected, but to the end of November, with special provision that the Speaker should, on advice of the Ulster Cabinet, be authorized to call an emergency sitting when necessary.

U.S. PEACE TREATIES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. Favorable report on all peace treaties between the United States and Germany, Austria and Hungary was ordered today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

LADY ASTOR REINFORCED.

LONDON, Sept. 23. Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, Liberal, has been elected to the House of Commons for the South Division of Lincolnshire, in succession to her late husband, Tom Wintringham. She will be the second woman to take a seat in the Commons, Lady Astor having been the first. Mrs. Wintringham received

2,386 votes. Sir Allan Hutchings, Coalition Unionist, 7,336, James George, Labor, 3,878. Women took a large part in the election campaign.

U.S. RATIFICATION.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. It was made known officially today that President Harding's administration would raise no objection to the ratification of the treaty with Germany, with a reservation providing that there could be no United States participation in foreign bodies, provided under the Versailles Agreement, without expressed authorization by Congress. At the White House it was said that the President had not yet seen the text of the reservations, approved today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, but that as far as the principle involved was concerned, he favored some such reservation. As a member of the Senate, Mr. Harding was one of those who supported similar reservations when the Treaty of Versailles was under consideration.

IN ENGLISH ONLY.

TORONTO, Sept. 23. The Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows in session here, has endorsed the action of the Legislative Committee in pronouncing against allowing subordinate Lodges to work in other than the English language.

A CHINA-PORTUGUESE TROUBLE.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 23. Warfare is imminent between forces of the Chinese Southern Government and Portuguese at the Macao Seaport and dependency of Portugal, 35 miles west of Hong Kong. A controversy of long standing, growing out of Portuguese efforts to reclaim land along the waterfront, has culminated in firing on the Portuguese Police launch by Chinese soldiers.

DISCUSSING MANDATES.

GENEVA, Sept. 23. Debate on a resolution, urging the Council of the League of Nations to work for an early settlement as to the terms of mandates for former German Colonies between the mandatory powers and the United States, was opened in the League Assembly today by Madame Bugge Wicksell, of Sweden. She expressed dissatisfaction with the offers of Great Britain, France and Belgium to allow the Commission on Mandates to examine into the administration of territories under their charge and urged the passage of the resolution.

HUNGARY WARNED.

PARIS, Sept. 23. Hungary must in the near future completely withdraw from Burgenland or West Hungary, awarded to Austria by the Treaty of Trianon, or be forcibly expelled by the Allies, she was notified today by the Council of Ambassadors here.

NOTED AVIATOR KILLED.

ETAMPES, France, Sept. 23. Captain Bernard de Romanet, noted French aviator, and holder of the world's speed record for one kilometer, was instantly killed here today while taking part in the elimination races for the Deutsche De Lamerthe Cup.

LABOUR PEACE DEMONSTRATIONS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. Labor organizations in Great Britain, France and Japan were asked to join in "world wide demonstrations for disarmament" on Armistice day when the Armament Conference assembled, in cables sent out today by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

RUSSIA'S THREAT TO RUMANIA.

RIGA, Sept. 23. A note demanding that Rumania surrender General Makno, Anti-Bolshevik leader in Ukraine, together with his followers as "criminals," has been dispatched to Rumania by the Soviet authorities, as announced in a wireless message from Moscow today.

LAST WEEK'S FAILURES.

TORONTO, Sept. 23. Failures in Canada and Newfoundland during the week ended yesterday, total forty, according to Dun's bulletin, as compared with 13 for the corresponding week of last year. Five were in Newfoundland.

REFUSED TO ACT.

BELFAST, Sept. 23. The Marquis of Londonderry, Minister of Education of North Ireland, said today that the reason Catholics were not represented on the committee which is drafting the Educational Bill, enforcement of which, it is asserted, will prove the first real test of the new Parliament, was that Cardinal Logue, who was approached by the Marquis, declined to ask for the nomination of four Catholic representatives. The Marquis said that several leading Catholics in North Ireland were subsequently approached by him, but that they declined to accept nominations.

SEARCHING PASSENGERS.

DUBLIN, Sept. 23. For the first time since the proclamation of the truce in Ireland, passengers arriving here from Holyhead, Wales, were searched today by Auxiliary Police, who also examined their baggage for arms. Searches also were made at Kingstown on the arrival of the mail boat from Holyhead. No arrests were made.

PICKED UP AT SEA.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. Thirty shipwrecked sailors have been picked up in the Atlantic by the steamship Cabo Cruz, which wireless her owners today that she would dock here on Sunday. No details were given in the message. The steamer left Veville, Spain, on September 7 for this port. In marine circles the belief was expressed that the sailors were picked up on September 14 or 15 after the great gale that swept the Atlantic. At that time the Cabo Cruz was probably about sixteen hundred miles out from Seville on the Southern trans-Atlantic course.

THE SPREAD OF DISORDER.

LONDON, Sept. 23. Bethnal Green is another London borough which has decided to follow the leader of the borough of Poplar and refuse to levy local taxes for the London County Council. Councillors of Poplar meanwhile are still "more or less languishing" in prison, although indications are that there is much less general interest in their welfare, even on the part of their low tax-objecting neighbours than there was when cheering crowds greeted them when they were apprehended by the sheriff's officers. The attitude of the Borough Councillors, whether right or wrong, has revived the suggestion that these London Boroughs, so far as Municipal government is concerned, should be abolished, and their duties taken over by the London Council. Borough Councils have been shorn of many functions already by the County Council, but many citizens on the ground of local patriotism would regret their entire disappearance, although the prestige of Borough Councils has greatly declined recently. It is pointed out that the present demand for equalization of local taxes among London Boroughs can hardly fail to bring also a demand for the concentration of authority. To that extent the Councillors of Poplar, Bethnal Green and other offending Boroughs are striking a blow for their own extermination.

"Over the Top and the Best of Luck."

To The National Sports Committee, St. John's.
Halifax, Sept. 24.—Newfoundland goes over the top to-day determined to win and ready to subdue the pack of the Maritime Provinces. Our team is in the pink of condition and full of confidence and hope. We fully realize what we represent, and only trust the optimism of our home folk will be sustained. There are 71 entries in the events this afternoon. Mr. Peppy, M. F. Aylward, Claude Hall and Mr. Moskie here, and their cheering spirits keeping our morale well up. The Newfoundland Track Team has been asked to compete in the indoor sports here on Monday and Tuesday, but have decided not to attend until we know the outcome of the meet this afternoon. Chester, and the other absent and inspiring message from Aye and Grace on behalf of A.A.A. and National Sports Committee.
GOODLAND.

The Wanderers' Sports Take Place at Halifax To-day.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—To-day our men compete at Halifax in the Wanderers Sports. While naturally we all hope that they will be successful, we should not be disappointed if they are not. So far as we know these men are the best runners Newfoundland has. They are going to compete against men who, while amateurs, have the experience of professional men who have competed under similar conditions before, whereas our men will be new to the crowds, the track and the game. The track is a cinder one. Our men have run on a grass course. Then there are a thousand and one little tricks with which our men are not familiar which may mean the difference between winning and losing. These men of ours are pioneers. They are sent up to gain experience. This is only the beginning. If they win it will be wonderful. If they lose it will be only what one should expect. They are paving the way for future runners. If, in a few years, with the experience of this and the years to come, we get to the top it will be because Fred Phalen, Tom Butler, Harvey Skirving and Jack Bell have made the start. The B.I.S. Football Team are to-day the Champions of Newfoundland. They were also Champions last year. I can remember the first year they organized when the betting was how many goals they would be beaten. Had it not been for Mr. Justice Kent and Mr. Phil Moore and others getting on the field, knowing they were going to be licked and taking their thinking like men, the B.I.S. Footers might not to-day be top of the League nor the B.I.S. Athletic Association be one, if not the finest, in the country, having as members our best all-round sports Freddy Phalen and Jack Bell the champion long distance runner. The Association should now go into the Hockey League and participate in other sports which will be beneficial not only to the Athletic Association but also to the Society by holding out other inducements for more men to join. As the first players in the B.I.S. Football team made possible the success of last night and last year, so our men participating in today's sports may help to make possible the success of our men in future years. Get your another reaps but win or lose Newfoundland has been put on the map in athletics. Our men have been exceptionally well treated. There are all sorts of newspaper men at Halifax from Canada and the United States to the boat race. Our men's photographs are in the Canadian and American papers and at last the American contingent is being taught that there is such a place as Newfoundland and that its people do other things than catch and eat fish.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. W. B. ATRIE

Harbor Grace Notes.

Schooner "E. D. Bailey," Captain Osborne, having had repairs effected, is now ready to come off-dock when the time is favorable and will get away first opportunity.

S.S. "Sebastopol" from the Northward, arrived in port yesterday morning and after discharging some freight left port again, having made a short stay here. Considering the wind and weather which have been experienced of late and which this boat has to contend with, a very good run was made this trip of the Sebastopol.

Mrs. Arthur Webber (nee Miss Isa Whitman) and child go out by this afternoon's train to the city to connect with the S.S. "Rosalind" en route for Halifax. Mrs. Webber has spent the summer here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whitman and friends. We hope her stay in the home town has been enjoyable and it will not be long before she will come this way again.

All are pleased to see our old friend, Mr. O. V. Travers out on Water Street again, after being a little indisposed, which necessitated his staying indoors for a few days, and we hope he will keep up his general good health and well being for many years to come.

Mr. H. Herman Archibald went out to the city by Monday afternoon's train and returned again on Wednesday, having made a short business visit.

Mrs. J. A. Whitman's many friends are sorry to learn that she has been in a delicate state of health for some months past, but trust that there will soon be a big improvement in her condition, which will bring her back to health again.

Trade has been very slow during the past week, and not much business is being done in town. The unfavorable change in the weather, no doubt, has a great deal to do with the making of things look even more depressing and to put on a rather gloomy aspect. We are hoping that when the returns come in from the fishery, business in general, will brighten and trade become more brisk.

Quite a number of Masons motored from here on Wednesday to Heart's Content, where a new lodge was to be inaugurated on that date, and returned again in the wee small hours of the following morning.

Danish schooner "Nepturn" arrived in port yesterday afternoon from Denmark.

W. A. Munn, Esq., of St. John's is to town to-day and leaves again by this afternoon's train.

Schooner "Riviera," which was at the Government wharf discharging coal for Mr. Thomas Walsh, has removed up to Riverhead and will finish discharging her load there.—COR.

Logan Berry Wine.

United States buyers are now in Vancouver, B.C., buying up in advance British Columbia logan berries for supplying their logan berry wine, favoring and cider factories. Prohibition in United States has created a great demand for fruit juices, and the juice of the logan berry has taken a foremost place. Newfoundland partridge berries, marsh berries and blue berries have no equals anywhere in juice producing properties, and there should be room for a considerable export in these valuable products.

"Swimming."
When I go swimming, who will take
Their stand beside the silver Lake,
To watch each graceful stroke I make,
And revel in the fun?
When I go swimming, who will share,
The same delights and freshness rare,
Which wait for those who time will spare,
When day of toil is done?
When I am floating on the tide,
Who will remain so close beside,
All year and may be slowly glide,
Around, and round again?
No cushion'd lounge could ere combine,
To give such ease when I recline,
The pleasure and the gain.
When I go diving, who will stand,
Upon the dry and driest land,
To stop and ponder if command,
Of muscle and the deep?
Can he stand by those who try,
In time so short as mystery,
Whilst those who linger idly by,
Drift into realms of sleep.

Anglo-Saxon Race.

The British Empire is the product of the political genius of the Anglo-Saxon race. It is that, and that alone that has made such an empire possible, and no other race has ever existed nor exists to-day capable of such an achievement. The qualities which have made Britain such a successful mother-country are just those regarded as the peculiar attributes of her own constitutional monarchy. In particular may be mentioned the virtues of self-effacement and readiness, when the welfare and interests of the Empire seem to demand it, to subordinate her own will and desires to those of its other parts, and to sacrifice cherished plans and ideals in part or wholly, when it is evident that an endeavour, to realise them would be productive of friction and ill feeling would perhaps even lead to war. The magnanimity and large mindedness which can respect national rights and tolerate local differences of opinion is also worthy of mention. As Mr. Rudyard Kipling said of her great King, Edward VII, Britain, "mightily schooling (her) strength to the use of her nations, rules as not ruling."

ELASTIC BANDS.
In making constitutional changes it is the British way to move cautiously and tentatively, feeling the national pulse at every step, finding out just how far it is wise to venture and attempting no more. Constitutions cast in a rigid mould do not appeal to Britain who holds that governments are made for men and not men for governments. She prefers those of a more elastic order, that can change with circumstances and adapt themselves to altered conditions and the new needs of men as they arise. The British constitution has seemed rather to grow of itself, naturally, than to be the work of man. "You are defining life itself when you are defining the British Empire, you cannot do it," said Mr. Lloyd-George in one of his illuminating phrases, that seem to, as it were, flash the truth by searchlight.—The Empire Review.

HUNDREDS of MEN ARE NOW WEARING BENGALINE TIES.

And why not? When men first heard we were selling Ties for 50c. they doubted. "Thought they were old stock—stoddy material—a catch somewhere. They didn't expect to get a Tie for 50c. that would outlast a $1 Tie. They got a surprise—so did we; we sold them by the dozen on Saturday. There are still some choice Japanese patterns left—a windowfull.

During the past four to six months, margin trading has been largely professional, that is by brokers, pool operators or syndicates, who simply "make" prices in a great many cases, but just now the tide is turning—the price trend is upward and the big buying is being done by investors—the general public.

PYORRHEA AGAIN.

Pyorrhoea is so insidious that we want to repeat again and again our former warnings against it. It is not painful as a rule, and that very fact makes it all the more dangerous. Watch for those bleeding gums, they are your warnings. Do not give your body a chance to absorb poisons that come from bad teeth or diseased gums. Anything from a headache to a serious illness may result from your neglect. Pyorrhoea is a dreadful disease.

Corroboration.

Some days ago in this column there appeared a leading article captioned "Brightening Up," the purpose of the same being an endeavour to show and to prove that times were not quite so bad as some people would have us believe, and that future prospects looked fair. If the tenour of that article had any effect on local conditions, and if it were received in the spirit in which it was written, that is sufficient reward. To point the way to brighter and more cheerful avenues of life should be a prime duty, and though there are days when the sun is not seen being concealed from sight by dark clouds, yet the orb of day is behind the veil and will shed its beneficent rays upon the earth. Brighten up is a good motto for everybody to observe and cultivate. The worst is not always to come. Sometimes it has passed. Prosperity is not always fleeing from our harbors and ports. Very often it is coming in our direction, and yet we do not realise it, frequently making attempts to drive it away by force, failing to recognise it when actually in our midst. Newfoundland can come back, if guided aright. No country in the world possesses the powers of recovery from disaster and recuperation from depression in the same measure as Newfoundland, as past history has shown. If the future then be promising—and there is no reason to doubt it yet—grapple everything in sight that will conduce to the rebuilding of trade. Outsiders tell us that we are improving, and materially, at that. Let us show that they are not false prophets.

Messrs. Farquhar & Co., Ltd., of Halifax, are constantly in touch with Newfoundland and have their fingers on the pulse of our trade at all seasons. Their business connections on the South and West Coasts are extensive and it is part of their office routine to know exactly all the inside happenings of commerce as it relates to trade with Nova Scotia. Neither member of that firm would make a statement off hand. The evidence before them must be indisputable and conclusive, ere they commit themselves to a public expression, or an expression for publication. That being the case, the conversation recently had with these gentlemen by a representative of the Maritime Merchant, of September 15th, (printed beneath), is ample corroboration of our own arguments that things are brightening up in good old Terra Nova.

NEWFOUNDLAND IS IMPROVING. "We spent a half hour this week at the office of Farquhar & Co., Limited, mostly asking questions and getting answers to them with regard to the condition of things in Newfoundland.

"Both Mr. Farquhar and Mr. Rowlings said that things in Newfoundland were improving, that it now looked as though there would be a fair catch of codfish in the colony, and that the world would be ready to eat it once it was ready to be taken. 'Three months ago,' said Mr. Rowlings, 'the supply houses at Newfoundland were faced with a difficult problem. Fish prices were low, holdings of old stocks of fish were large, and the cost of fitting out fishermen for a new catch at that time, very expensive. In face of such conditions, many queried whether it would be wise to make new advances to fishermen. However, there was a general decision to do so, and now it looks as though the following three things were going to happen: (1) that stocks of old fish were going to be fairly quickly cleaned up; (2) that the catch of new fish would be moderately large; (3) that the price for new catch would show fishermen a small margin of profit.

"During the past six weeks," continued Mr. Rowlings, "Newfoundland's position has improved materially in so far as expectations are concerned, and unless there is some world upheaval, economic or political, it seems to me her outlook may be considered fairly cheerful from now onward. Of course it will take her some time, perhaps a couple of years to entirely recover from the effect of the readjustment period, during which she was a great sufferer; but she is wealthy in one of the world's greatest foodstuffs, codfish, and each decade as world population increases, should see a bigger demand for this and other things which she has to sell. Newfoundland is a good country, but she has had a streak of bad luck for the last twelve months, some of it caused by bad legislation at home, the balance by bad conditions abroad. Let us hope in both connections that her troubles are now over."

America Gets the Business

While Newfoundland Marks Time. The newspaper Jewish Day (New York) contains the following despatch:—

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The American trade with the Soviet Government of Russia for the past six months amounted to $15,000,000.

Cochrane Street Centennial Church.

Rev. C. M. Johnson, B.D., the newly appointed pastor of Cochrane Street Methodist Centennial Church, will preach at both the morning and evening services to-morrow. Mr. Johnson although only a few weeks in the city, is fast becoming very popular with the members of his congregation, quite a number of whom he has already visited in their homes. The services at Cochrane St. are free to all. Short sermons, special singing, bright services. Come and bring a friend with you.

Belvidere Collection.

To-morrow the Annual Collection for Belvidere Orphanage will be taken up in all the Catholic Churches throughout the city. At present over 170 little orphans are being looked after by the good sisters in charge of the institution and are receiving the necessary education to fit them for the battle of life. The expense of supplying food and clothing for this large number is very great, and as the orphanage depend almost solely upon the generosity of the public for its maintenance, it is hoped to-morrow's collection will be a record one, and the good sisters will be encouraged in their good work on behalf of the fatherless and motherless little children. It is scarcely necessary to state that the obligations of the institution are much greater this year than ever before, and there will be, no doubt, a generous response to the Orphans appeal.

Masonic Club Dinner.

The members of the Masonic Club are having a dinner at Wood's West End Restaurant, on Thursday Evening next 29th inst., when the prizes won in the recent Billiard Tournament will be presented. A very enjoyable evening's entertainment is anticipated, the programme being in the hands of several well known artists. All who contemplate attending this function, should give in their names to the Secretary on Monday.

Women Commit Larceny

Two women were charged before Judge Morris this morning with the larceny of goods from the stores of Jesse Whiteway and John Anderson. They were allowed to go on suspended sentence of 30 days and had to find bonds for $100. In passing sentence His Honor said that, beyond some very notorious characters, he had never had women before him previously on such a charge. He took into consideration the fact that both the defendants were married and had several children, but warned them that if they ever appeared before him again they could expect no leniency. All the property stolen was recovered.

Prominent among Xmas Gifts for men this year will be hand knitted Silk Ties. Materials for these are now opening at BISHOP'S Showroom, consisting of Silks, Instruction Books, etc.

Another Robbery.

Last night another daring robbery was made on New Gower Street when the store of Mr. Embery, situated near the West End Fire Hall, was entered and a quantity of goods stolen, including in which were two watches, a number of sleeve links and 10 bottles of beer. The police are working on the case and it is hoped will make a capture, although at the present rate of burglaries they cannot be expected, with the force at their command, to cope with them. It is expected that a capture in connection with the robbery of the wedding presents from a residence on Cochrane Street will be made very shortly.

McMurdo's Store News.

SATURDAY, Sept. 24. Owing to the changeable weather colds and sorethroats are very common, and for the latter trouble Wampole's Paratonic Throat Pastilles are of acknowledged value. A few of these lozenges sucked at frequent intervals throat or quinsy and restores the sufferer to perfect health. Fifty tablets in a bottle—35 cents. Think, the new soap dye, can be had from us in all the favorite colors. Price 25 cents a pig.

Committed for Trial.

The man Hiscock, charged with breaking an entrance into the King Cafe, was committed for trial to the Supreme Court by Judge Morris this morning. Hiscock, who is being represented by Mr. G. W. B. Ayre, was allowed-bail, Messrs. A. George and J. Martin acting as bondsmen. The case will come up for hearing during the October sessions.

No Reduction Expected.

Those who are expecting to see $10 flour this fall are likely to be disappointed, and according to one of the best informed flour dealers in the city, much less than $12.00 flour need not be looked for. In support of this statement we were informed that yesterday Secretary Hoover issued a bulletin advising the American farmers to hold their wheat for higher prices.

Killed by Rats.

A shocking tragedy recently occurred at Main River, St. George's where a child has just died from the effects of rat bites. This news was conveyed in a message to the Deputy Minister of Justice which reads as follows:—"A female child of William Benoit, 8 months old, died at Main River, Nfld., at 9 o'clock, from effects of rat bites." No further particulars have come to hand.

IN CHAMBERS. (Before Chief Justice.) S.S. Rosalind vs. Ship Gladys M. Hollett—Judgment.

It is ordered that judgment be entered for the plaintiff for $3,000, of which sum $500 is to be paid the Captain, $700 to be distributed amongst officers and crew, exclusive of pursers and stewards, in such proportions as the Captain may deem equitable. Costs to go to plaintiff. Mr. J. Fenelon for plaintiff. Mr. Hunt for defendant.

It will be remembered that the Gladys M. Hollett was caught in the ice last winter and was towed to Burin by the Rosalind.

Steamers Arrive.

S.S. Okaloosa being towed by S.S. Monroe appeared off port shortly after noon to-day. Both ships made harbor and anchored at 5 o'clock. The Monroe dropped her towing rope on getting well in the bay and the Okaloosa proceeded under her own steam, although her propeller is damaged. The tug Mouton, John Green and Haro went outside the Heads in case assistance should be needed.

Message From Halifax.

The following message was received by President Ayre of the A.N.A. from manager Goodland of the Halifax team. "Thanks for the good work. The boys are going over the top with a bump to-day. Bell, Thomas came soon and had trout. Running better than ever. Smiles and shakes to all our pals at home. The last word leaving, the best of luck."

Mistaken for a Moose.

First Fatality in the New Brunswick Woods. St. John, N.B., Sept. 15.—The first fatality of the hunting season occurred early on Friday evening, when Halburton Brown, aged 20, died within an hour after he had been shot in mistake for a moose in the woods about two miles from St. Martin's. John Holland and Graydon Gilchrist, both of St. Martin's, and the latter a brother-in-law of the dead young man, both fired in the direction of Brown, but which of the two rifle bullets struck him, causing his death, has not yet been ascertained. The two parties were not together. Holland and Gilchrist heard what they described as unmistakable calls of a moose. Later they heard something coming through the woods and concluded it was a moose. One of the men fired at what he thought was the moose's head and the other at what he thought was the moose's hind quarters. One of the bullets struck Brown in the abdomen. Brown with two other young men were walking quietly through the woods when they heard a "big bang." Brown fell wounded by their side.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.

Custom, and the First Use of Buttons.

The other night, happening to pick up an old, dusty book, I came across a lot of odds and ends, stray bits of news that seemed unusually interesting. Among other items there was one on the first use of buttons. Now, here was a bit of information regarding a custom so long established that we scarcely ever think of it at all.

It was the custom of our early ancestors, when wrapping themselves in their mantles of skin, to hold the right edge with the left hand and to insert a thorn fastening with the right hand. This was the custom of buttoning garments from right to left established. Women have always followed this custom, but men in general have adopted the reverse method for this reason.

When swords and knives were used by fighting men, they were necessarily worn on the left side and drawn with the right hand; the coat buttoned from right to left was found to interfere with the freedom of the right hand, so the buttoning was changed from left to right, and has been the custom ever since.

Modern wearing apparel, which calls for the use of many buttons, has found its way to nearly every part of the world, but there are still parts where it is not used.

For instance, it will be a long time before Samoa and other islands in the southern seas will need a department store, either for men or women. There, buttons and all other accessories to dress are not needed. The men of Samoa wear a strip of cotton cloth fastened from the waist to the knee; the women wear the same garment— if it may be so-called—and over it a chemise reaching to the ankles. Simple, isn't it?—but then, the climate doesn't call for anything warmer.

On the other hand, countries like Canada and Newfoundland, where the climate is colder, demand a warmer covering for the body. That is why clothing assumes such an importance in these countries—the climate demands warm clothing, and custom insists on style.

Intelligent anticipation of essential needs in clothing—style as to quality, variety and price—is one of the cardinal policies of the Royal Stores. At the threshold of a new Fall and Winter season, this store is in a position to offer substantial price advantages on all goods for personal and household wear.

Waylaid Rink Foreman.

A man was charged with being drunk and disorderly in the Prince's Rink. The Secretary of the Rink said he saw the defendant on skates, in the centre of the rink, getting in everybody's way. When the foreman interfered, the accused hit him. Later, with some of his friends, he set on the foreman and beat him up, knocking three teeth out. The foreman of the rink gave similar evidence and said he had to be escorted from the rink by policemen. Defendant's counsel entered a strong plea on his behalf. His Honor, however, said that nothing could justify defendant's action and fined him $10 or 14 days.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

WANT MAYFLOWER IN. BOSTON, Sept. 23. Urging reconsideration by Canada Trustees of the International Fishermen's Championship Cup, of their barring of the schooner Mayflower as an American defender, resolutions were unanimously adopted by the New England Fish Exchange to-day. They were subsequently endorsed by the Board of Governors of the Boston Fish Bureau. The resolutions said the Mayflower is a bona fide fishing vessel, and in every way conforms to the requirements of the Dead of Gift governing the contest.

BUFF IS BANTAM CHAMPION. NEW YORK, Sept. 23. Johnny Buff, of Jersey City, United States flyweight champion, won the world's bantam weight title to-night, when he received a judge's decision over Pete Herman, of New Orleans, at the end of their fifteen round bout. Buff weighed 118 1/2 pounds and Herman 117 1/2 pounds.

50 SPORTSMANLIKE.

The Boston schooner Mayflower was entered to-day for the elimination trials to be held at Gloucester on October 12, to select a United States defender of the fishing schooner trophy. This action was taken by J. Henry Hunt, President of the schooner Mayflower Association, in the face of a formal vote of United States race committee at Gloucester, to-day, to accept the ruling of the Canadian Trustees of the trophy barring the Mayflower from competing. The committee is expected to pass upon the entry shortly.

OVER FIVE HUNDRED DEAD RECOVERED.

MAYENCE, Germany, Sept. 23. More than five hundred dead have been recovered from the vast ruins of the Badische Plain at Oppau, and it is considered certain that three hundred persons still are missing. Two thousand wounded, four hundred of them seriously, are scattered in temporary hospitals for miles around the scene of the explosion, which on Wednesday made waste of the big plant. All sentries of the French military post in the plant are missing. It is roughly estimated that the material damage exceeds $1,000,000,000 marks.

TO COPE WITH UNEMPLOYMENT.

LONDON, Sept. 23. The Government has adopted a policy of attracting trade revival in Great Britain, by giving actual financial assistance to some—perhaps many—big projects in view, but which has not yet been worked out in detail, says the Daily Mail. The plan, according to the newspaper is vaguely formed. It is based on axioms that the cost of production must be reduced, and that for a time, much of British trade must be conducted at a loss. The whole proposal is part of the Government's plan to cope with unemployment, and forms in addition, co-operation between the Government and local authorities, manufacturers, traders, bankers and organized labor.

FLUCKY MESSENGERS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. The pluck of two messengers of Drovers' Bank, to-day, blocked an attempt at holdup, when three armed men attacked them as they were delivering ten thousand nine hundred dollars to a business house in the vicinity of Third Street and Broadway. One of the would-be robbers was captured.

U. S. COMMITTEE ACCEPTS.

GLoucester, Mass., Sept. 23. The United States Race Committee, which has in charge the selection of a defender for the international fishermen vessel championship trophy, won last year by the Esperanto, to-day voted formally to accept all rulings made to date by the Canadian Trustees of the cup. The principal of these rulings was that by which the Boston schooner Mayflower, originally selected as the United States defender, was barred from the race.

LIVELY TIMES IN BELFAST.

BELFAST, Sept. 23. Beggars' riots, as Belfast is known, for several hours tonight was in turmoil, as a result of an attack on tramway track workers from the Falls district, which occurred this afternoon. The centre of hostilities was in Sinn Fein areas, called "Short Strand." Rifle and revolver shots were incessant. During the disturbances military and police were kept busy.

THE CROSSES BY THE WAYSIDE.
 "Hold them thy eyes before my closing eyes."
 In travelling through the by-places of the country, it is not unusual to see near the roadside a cross. The sight of this sacred emblem arouses interest as well as respect; and the traveller finds himself in a passive mood as he stands by. To make any enquiry about these crosses would not be necessary; as the average person is fully aware of their meaning at such places, and they know that their purpose is to mark the spot where somebody perished or died under tragic circumstances. In our own personal rambles through the country we have seen several of these lone crosses, and for a moment or two, we have paused, and stood by them, and indulged our better feelings.

The story which these crosses tell is that of suffering and loneliness, and finally death. They tell of the man or perchance the woman, or it may be the children, who got astray in the snow storm or in the darkness of the night, and falling to find the path, they at last fell exhausted; and there expired. The suffering of such cases is those may never be known; but whatever the ordeal may have been, or whatever the weariness of the lonely hours, there is consolation in the thought that the victims of these tragedies died in the faith. Their last thoughts were no doubt, centred in the cross, and in their dying moments they mentioned the name which is above every name. In their journey they had missed the path which led on to safety and to home, and they looked around in vain for a light, or listened in vain for a human voice. They missed one path, but found another. None had used to console them in their dying hour, nor were there any gentle hands to minister to them, but their faith answered their need, and in the darkness they yet beheld the light.

MARKS OF TRAGEDY.

The busy world may not know much of these lone crosses, nor may the average traveller, bustling along, stop to think of their meaning, but they have a meaning all their own. They tell in grim eloquence that the spot which they mark was for a moment or two, or perhaps for an hour or two, the scene of a tragedy. They tell us that when the storm ceased, and the darkness and danger had passed, that kind searchers lighted upon the spot, and there saw before them the body of the one for whom they searched. They further tell us that when all the sad duties of the situation were performed, and friends had done their best, that these friends completed their good deeds by making a cross, and erecting it upon the spot where fell their neighbour. Not a very great act, say we? Perhaps not; but without doubt, a becoming act, and a Christian tribute to our common faith. The cross has in all periods of the Christian era been used as an emblem of Christianity, and in whatever place it has been erected, or under whatever conditions it has been used, the meaning has been the same. In the big cities we see it upon the piazzas of the great cathedrals, in smaller places we see it on the steeple of some humble parish church; but in both cases it stands for the same high ideal. It stands for hope and is emblematic of life everlasting. And so with the lone crosses by the wayside; they too, teach us a lesson—the lesson of faith, and of hope, and of the future; and though only a few see them, and though but fewer may heed them, their lesson is none the less true, and none the less pathetic. Those crosses by the wayside always appealed to the writer; but since the great war they seem to fill a bigger place than before; for they remind us of:—

"Flinders fields were popples blow

From the lone crosses by which we passed in our tour along the Salmoner line, to Flinders fields, may be a long stretch of the imagination; but in soul and thought the lesson is the same, and has been the same, and will be the same, until the restitution of all things comes, and the whole world bows in penitence at the Cross.

IN PERPETUAM MEMORIAM.

The circumstances of the fatalities, which the wayside crosses mark, may not be known to the present generation; as many of them took place when travelling was much more dangerous, and much more lonesome and isolated than it now is; but these crosses reverently remind us, that the friends of the victims of these tragedies respected their memory, and as an expression of their respect, they marked the spot, where they expired. Thus they have perpetuated their memory, and also the tragedy of their death; and thereby tell some traveller of the present, what befell some fellow traveller of the past. The tribute may not be very great, nor the little cross be very elaborate; but it is a reminder of some be-lievable way-farer, or of some storm-bound wanderer, who fell in the struggle, and who, when all earthly hope failed, found hope and life in the Cross. This is the meaning of the crosses by the wayside. As they tell their story, and as an occasional passer-by, sees them, and pauses to look at them, there is a tender cord touched, and a sympathetic thought awakened. And all this is quite proper. It is just as it should be; for even though it serves no great purpose, it is not in vain. Oh, No! The crosses by the wayside are not in vain. They tell of more than a tragedy; but they tell of hope, and they point to Eternal Life; as saith the poet:—

"Hold thou thy cross before my closing eyes, Shine through the gloom and point me to the skies."

"Why, of course, my love! How could I possibly forget that this is our wedding anniversary!" he said.

"No, it isn't. That is three months ahead," she responded, coldly. "This is the day on which you promised to take the afternoon off from the office and beat the rugs."

A worthy couple in a country district had a boy who was supposed to be dumb, for up to his seventh year he had not spoken.

One day he and his father were busy in the fields. It was very hot, and the father paused for a drink of water.

As he was imbibing from the jar, the boy said, "Make haste!"

In astonishment the man lowered the jar from his lips and gazed at the boy.

"Why, lad," he exclaimed, "you're talking! Why didn't you speak afore?"

"Nowt for to say!" replied the boy.

One morning, when Billy woke up,

"Are you a Micmac Indian?" I started at my questioner for a moment to see if he were in his right senses. (He was as you'll find out later.)

"No," I replied, "neither do I grace the wigwams of the Chocwaw nor am I a Blackfoot medicine man. I don't breed rabbits with pink eyes and I get my hair cut twice a month. Is that all you want to know?" It was his turn to gape. "No, sir," he said. "I don't even want to know what you told me. I'm here to take the census." "Your pardon," I replied, bowing gracefully, "I thought you were either a representative of 'Who's who' or the 'Lunatic at Large.'" I then proceeded to answer the more legitimate questions he had to put to me.

After he had gone I began to think of the funny experiences a census taker must have. I even began to wish that I could get a similar job for a day or so. Imagine the fun in getting some girls to tell their ages. I wonder in how many cases would one get the correct answer. Very few, I expect. And what would some people say to the question "are you a Micmac Indian?" I doubt if they would all take it as quietly as I did. Picture a staid but testy business man, interrupted in some important occupation, and asked "are you a Micmac Indian?" It would be a case of either an ambulance or an undertaker for the poor Census taker, I fear. Then think of the question, "What is your occupation?" Consider for a moment, the amount of amusement one could get out of that. What occupation would a professional burglar put down? Surely not his right one. Of course, the inmates of the Penitentiary are included in the census. What a diversity of occupations would one find there. And also at the Lunatic Asylum. There you would probably find every occupation under the sun, from thought reader to emperor. I really think I will apply for a census taking job in 1921.

NO "SCRIPTS" NEEDED.

We have prohibition but without intonation.

"TIT BITS" FROM "TIT BITS."

It was a sleepy village, and its fire brigade was anything but up-to-date.

One night a fire was announced by the violent ringing of the alarm bell, and the sleepy brigade arrived at the scene of action to find the burning building a mass of smoke. No flames were visible from the outside.

The captain made a careful survey, then he lit his pipe and started to smoke.

"We'd better leave it alone 'til it burns up a bit," he said. "Then we'll be able to see what we are doing."

The old man regarded his last unmarried daughter critically.

"Let me see, Alice," he reflected, "young Smythe has been calling on you regularly for six or eight months, hasn't he?"

"Yes, father," smirked Alice.

"Well," continued her parent, "if he asks you to marry him when he comes to-night, tell him to see me. Understand?"

"Yes, dada," giggle Alice; "but suppose he doesn't ask me to marry him?"

"I'm!" reflected papa. "In that case just tell him I want to see him."

Brown: "I'm sorry to see you so unwell. Have you seen the doctor?"

Smith: "Yes; I'm having three baths a day."

Brown: "What ever for?"

Smith: "Don't know; doctor's orders. He gave me some medicine and told me to follow the directions on the bottle, which read, 'One tablespoonful to be taken three times a day in water.'"

"Do you know what day this is, John?"

"Unpleasant recollections of previous memory lapses flashed through John's mind. He wouldn't be caught this time!"

"Why, of course, my love! How could I possibly forget that this is our wedding anniversary!" he said.

"No, it isn't. That is three months ahead," she responded, coldly. "This is the day on which you promised to take the afternoon off from the office and beat the rugs."

"Well," said the boy, "isn't it funny that one of my toes is so much larger than the others; I had 'em all at the same time, didn't I?"

A boy with a large mouth walked into a music-shop to buy a mouth-organ. He was shown every make of mouth-organ in the shop, but still was not satisfied.

A schoolgirl was required to write 200 words about a motor-car. She submitted the following:—

Women in Politics.

A Canadian exchange says that 1,250,000 women voters will be added to the lists at the forthcoming general elections, and for this reason and their numbers and influence, women voters will be sedulously cultivated by the "mere man" politicians. The Prime Minister of Canada has made the announcement that should his Government be returned, he will have the British North America Act amended that women can be nominated for the Senate. And yet in Newfoundland certain ultimate politicians and party followers in the House of Assembly would prevent the women of this colony from receiving the franchise. Queer isn't it?

Flinds Money Stolen From Sells-Floto Circus and Two Robbers Captured.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 16.—Deputy sheriff early to-day shot and captured two men believed to be robbers, who stole $30,000 from a ticket truck of the Sells-Floto Circus here Friday night. Practically all the money was recovered from the robbers' cache, which was found by a farmer late yesterday while hunting in nearby woods.

Marconi Showed the Way— and Furnace Pipes Must Go

1897—Signal Marconi announced Wireless Telegraphy. 1921—Enterprise Foundry announced Pipeless Heating.

MARCONI showed that sound waves could be carried through the air—that wires were unnecessary. The modern heating engineer has shown that HEAT CAN BE CARRIED THROUGH THE AIR—that PIPES ARE UNNECESSARY.

With the entire heating system IN THE CELLAR, out of sight and out of the way—WITHOUT A PIPE through floor or wall, to clutter the home and mar its beauty—WITH NOTHING at all in the house but the Enterprise heat—you can have EVERY individual room at a PERFECTLY EVEN TEMPERATURE, and that temperature exactly what you want it. Pipeless Heating makes your home a snug and cozy nest of comfort.

The Pipeless way is NATURE'S WAY. Stiffness is unknown. All the while the air is circulating—coming and going on its rounds. Although its motion cannot be felt, it is travelling from room to room. CIRCULATING THROUGHOUT THE ENTIRE HOUSE, making its way back to the furnace to be cleaned by heat, washed, moistened and re-warmed.

The Enterprise Furnace does the work of THREE OR FOUR STOVES with HALF THE FUEL, and a fraction of the labor. Behind the home of dirt and dust, gives you an ALL-WARM HOUSE and a COOL CELLAR, suitable for storing fruit and vegetables. The Enterprise Pipeless burns ANY KIND OF FUEL, and so much less of it, that in a short while it will give you back in reduced fuel bills its entire initial cost. Its installation is simplicity itself—A SINGLE DAY is all it takes to put it in—a hole is cut to fit the register, the furnace is set up and lighted.

ENTERPRISE PIPELESS FURNACE

Pipeless facts mean money for you. Write for our FREE booklet today. We will send it to you with a self-explanatory chart that will make it easy for you to draw a simple lay-out of your home. From this our heating engineers will be able to see your house exactly as it is and send you plans showing just where your furnace should be placed and how easy it is for you to have all the comfort and luxury that has long been the lot of only the city dweller. The BOOKLET, CHART and our ENGINEERING SERVICE are ALL FREE. There is neither cost to you nor obligation to buy. Read the testimonials, remember the guarantee and write today.

Would Not Part for Twice the Price.
 "I could not believe that an apparatus of this sort, in the centre of the house, could distribute such equal heat in ten rooms, but now I believe it. This furnace uses very little fuel and there is no dust or smoke in the rooms, as is sometimes the way with the pipe furnace. I can recommend this system to all who are interested in it. I would not do away with it for twice the price paid."

Fishery News.

(Trade Review)

The Labrador fishery is now drawing to a close and the stationers are making preparations to get off the Coast before the stormy weather sets in. There are two steamers and fifteen foreign sailing vessels loading fish for market at the different harbors between Battle Harbor and Macovic. Last year there were 19 sailing vessels and two steamers. One steamer and five sailing vessels have already sailed. The voyage on the whole has been fair and the pleasing future of it is that nearly all the stationers have done well. The floaters that went to the North struck the fish late and will not average up so well as those that put up in the harbors south of the Parryards. The total catch of the season (about 190 vessels) will be better the average, unless the weather allows them to remain on the Coast late in October. Last year the total shipped direct off the Coast to market was 167,078 quintals. Ten cargoes went to Malaga, five to Greece and the other six to different ports in Spain and Italy, after calling at Gibraltar. Of the 21 cargoes including two steamers, Messrs. Baine Johnston & Co. shipped two, P. Templeman five in schooners, and part of the S. B. Elgins cargo, Ryan Bros. one, R. D. McRae two, J. W. Hancock two, Job Bros. & Co. one, (14,329) in S.S. "Suf-jeld" Lazo & Co. one, John Roche & Sons two, Monroe Export Co. one, W. H. Greenland one, Lewis Dawe one, and G. & M. Gosse one, Munn, Murray and Templeman shipped 11,325 quintals by the S.S. Elgen. This year the total will be considerably larger than this and all will have gone forward, at least two weeks earlier, as the weather between the 15th of August and the 15th of September was ideal for making fish. While the direct shipments from the Coast will be greater than last year, the quantity brought home to Newfoundland in the floaters will be less, for two reasons; there are about 50 schooners less than last year fishing on Labrador this season, and the hundred schooners that went to Muford and Ryan's Bay will, from present reports, average only about 500 quintals each, as against 700 in former years.

Sportsmen Return.

A number of sportsmen who went out at the opening of the shooting season returned home by last night's train. Messrs. T. McGrath, McNamara and Brehm who were on the grounds at Avondale were amongst those who arrived. They had well filled bags, and report game fairly plentiful, but the weather unfavorable for shooting.

Last Duel Fought in St. John's.

The following description of a well known occurrence—at the time—is taken from Notable Events:
"On this day (Sept. 25, 1873) was fought the famous duel between Augustus Healey and Dennis Dooley for the love of a prominent city belle. The encounter took place in Fort Townsend Hollow, and the seconds were F. C. Burnham (buyer at Knowling's) and the late Thomas Allan. Fortunately the bullets had been removed from the pistols and no injury was done. Dooley fainted, but Healey stood his ground. The love-stricken combatants tried the more natural weapons—the fists—"behind John Casey's barn," and Healey won the day. It is interesting to note right here that the cause of the quarrel, a short after, married another man. (This usually happens). The appended verses are part of a song made on the occasion:
"On Friday last at half-past two,
Two love-bestricken chaps,
Up in Fort Townsend Hollow
Met for satisfaction raps.
One of them Gus Healey was,
The other Dooley Din.
Came over here from Heart's Content,
Miss "Blank's" green-heart to win.
John Sullivan, the bobby top
Turned six policemen out,
And wheeled to the pistolizing sound
Right around to the left about.
With pistols lowered beneath their arms
They bled to Casey's farm
Where Dooley Din got well-cold off
Behind John Casey's barn."

Ominous for Meighen.

DOES IT PAY TO RETAIL SUGAR?

Grocers who have figured out the cost of retailing out of a barrel say that bags, twine, time plus loss of weight amount to from 75 cents to one dollar per hundred pounds.

FIGURE IT UP YOURSELF. STOP LOSING MONEY. STOP GUESSING AT YOUR PROFIT. BUY LANTIC AND KNOW YOUR PROFIT.

If your clerks agreed to work in your shop on holidays putting up sugar in bags for you to retail and further agreed to supply the bags, the twine and to pay you for all lost weight if you would pay them one-half cent for every pound of sugar put up, you would consider such a deal a good one for you.

Understand now, you would only have to pay your clerks 1/2 cent per pound on all sugar put up. For this half cent your clerks would supply everything required and in addition would pay you for any shortage of sugar. Whilst your clerks would be doing this work they wouldn't be getting any pay other than the half cent per pound on sugar. You WOULD accept a proposition of this sort, wouldn't you? Shoud shay show.

Well that's the Lantic Sugar proposition, we shall supply you with the finest and cleanest and best sugar in 2 pound and 5 pound packages, guaranteed full weight, at one-half cent (50 cents per 100 lbs.) over the price of sugar in barrels. The usual difference is 75 cents, but we're doing it now for 50 cents.

If you're a BUSINESS MAN you'll sell Lantic in packages, because it is the only sugar which can be retailed at SURE profit. It's better for you to make a half cent on Lantic than to lose a quarter cent on retailing out of a barrel.

Physical Development

And its Bearing on Health and Strength.

By GEE.

EVERYDAY COMPLAINTS.
As I have already promised readers of this column, to-day I am giving an article on the cure of Insomnia, which should be invaluable to a great many people, and if any should fail to get results, just drop me a line, regarding same.

INSOMNIA.
There is no trouble more readily susceptible to suggestions and exercise of the will than this terrible complaint, and if you, dear reader, are troubled with Insomnia, and this method eradicates it, then I think you will be quite satisfied with what you have learnt through this column. The sufferer from Insomnia, on retiring for the night, and having undressed just before getting into bed, should sit down and to himself or herself:

"I have just arrived at the end of a successful day. There is nothing for me to worry about; and if I do not sleep I shall certainly injure my chances of sleep immediately. I enjoy good health—my exercises, etc., have put my system in perfect working order, and I have nothing to occupy my mind whatever on getting into bed—simply sleep."

Once the mind starts turning over different events in bed there is no telling when you will succeed in falling asleep. It is, therefore, obvious that all subjects should be dealt with before getting into bed, and if there should, by any chance, occur to your mind something which you do not feel satisfied about, something you feel inclined to think about, dispose of it there and then, then get into bed and sleep. It is well to perform exercises at night and tire the body, and as long as you do not overdo it, this will be of material assistance to you. Of course in a case of this description there is no reason why all practical aids should be thrown to one side. A rather high pillow may give good results. There should also be plenty of ventilation in the room. Mental excitement must be carefully avoided during the whole night, like supper on no account indulged in, and whilst a healthy tired state may lead to sound slumbers, extreme fatigue must be avoided. A glass of hot milk, too, will prove of value to the sufferer taken just before getting into bed. Common sense methods as above, combined with the forms of suggestion described, should cure the worst case of Insomnia, providing ordinary conditions of life be observed in order to make a cure possible and permanent.

NERVOUS DISORDERS.
Nervousness—Fear. — Many persons suffer from this complaint in its many forms. The improved physique and health, consequent on the regular performance of exercises, will lead to the banishment of these troubles in time, but here again we may call to our aid the will. The experiments I have referred to will have convinced the reader that he has gained control over his will, or at least has improved the command he previously enjoyed over this force. It is highly necessary that some improvement, however slight, be gained in some respect for this confidence obtained. Once you have applied your newly discovered power to everyday life, such as firmly resolving that your day's work shall prove easy of performance, that you will go through same without being fatigued, and good results have appeared exactly as anticipated, then you must allow the mind to dwell on this conquest, and thus induce belief in the power of the will, and the stronger the will will become, and success more certain of accomplishment.

By means of the nervous system the relations between mind and body are carried on. Dr. Carpenter likens the human organism to "a key: instrument from which any music it is capable of producing can be called forth at will."

Excessive anxiety of mind, indulgence in emotions, such as grief, fear, etc., results in bodily and organic weakness, while pleasurable emotions such as joy, etc., stimulate and are restorative. These mind conditions may be governed and controlled by strength of will.

The advice and instructions given, the intelligent reader may easily apply and adapt to any special individual requirements. Under the principle is thoroughly understood, remarkable results may be achieved in many ways. In conclusion the power to success lies within yourself. WILL YOU USE IT? It is no use bemoaning fate or wasting time in vain regrets. Be up and doing.

In Mexico the land is owned by comparatively few persons and some of the estates are enormous. The typical farm is not of 100 acres, but of 1,000,000 acres. "Don't worry about that, gov'nor," remarked the old salt to whom the remark was addressed. "I expect there's a leak in one of them."

The Halifax Sports.

Amongst citizens in general great interest is being centred in to-day's sports at Halifax in which our local representatives Phalen, Bulter, Skirving and Bell are taking part. This is the first time that a recognised team has been sent to represent Newfoundland, hence all will be looking forward for the results of the various contests. Under the able management of Messrs. Goodland and Thomas, the team has done excellent work in practice, and are confident of making a good showing. Through the courtesy of Mr. H. A. Saunders, Superintendent of the Anglo American Telegraph Co., a bulletin board will be placed outside the window on McBride's Hill to-night when the results of the Sports and the positions of our lads will be given out. The news of the team's achievements should be received not later than 8 p. m. and will be posted promptly.

The following telegram was sent to our boys at Halifax:

Successful Newfoundlander.

The Daily Gleaner, Fredericton, N. B. gives a brief biographical sketch of a member of the graduating class of I.N.R., in which we notice the name of "Rosalind Taylor, Fike, B.Sc. in Forestry," son of N. Fike, Esq., Grand Falls, Nfld. "Ron" has made a good record since attending Mount Allison University four years up to 1916, when he went overseas. Was severely wounded at Etaples, France, and upon doctor's examination found unfit for active service. Returning to home he was then officially discharged, and finding no employment in St. John's or Grand Falls, where work was supposed to be found for returned men, he left the colony. He has been two years at the University of New Brunswick and graduated with honours, and has secured a position with the Canadian Dept. of Forestry at Asherville, Sask. We congratulate Mr. Fike on his son's success, and for the splendid work his boys did in the past war. Chesley A. going with the C.E.F. serving as a Gunner, badly gassed, but "stuck it out" to the end. Ralph and George went with "Ours—George to fall at Beaumont Hamel, and sleeps now where the "poppies grow, row on row," and Ralph to return safe, resuming his position in the office of the A.N.D. Co., Grand Falls.

More Burglaries.

On Thursday night a West End Dry Goods Store was entered by burglars and a quantity of goods were stolen. The thieves gained an entrance through a side window. This is the second time within a fortnight that this store has been robbed.
 Yesterday at dinner hour, a West End office was entered and over $200 were taken from the cash drawer. The office staff were away at the time. There seems to be no cessation to this burglary epidemic and the detective force is kept working overtime.

Promenade Concert.

The promenade band concert given by the C.C.C. in the Prince's Park last night attracted a very large gathering, over 1100 hundred people attending. Large numbers of those present engaged in dancing, both old and young participating. Capt. Bulley and his talented musicians gave a full change of programme last night, the concert numbers being especially good, and brought forth many encores. The dance music was up to the usual high standard, and a very enjoyable evening was spent by all. Monday night another of these enjoyable concerts will be held, when it is expected there will be record attendance.

 The labour question and division of work to the best possible advantage, was discussed at yesterday's emergency meeting of the Municipal Council. A communication from the Minister of Public Works was read, stating that the expenditure on new road connecting the Topsail and Waterford Bridge Roads, would be investigated.

Obituary.

CHARLES BLANCHARD BLACKIE.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Charles Blanchard Blackie passed away at the General Hospital. Probably no man was better known throughout the country. For a score of years his duties brought him in contact with men of all districts, and it is a standing testimonial to his character that by employers and employed alike he was held in the highest esteem and friendship. His duties were both responsible and difficult, but he performed them with such tact and efficiency as to smooth the rough edges, and avoid the angles. Born forty-four years ago in Annapolis Royal, the old town which so recently passed through the furnace, and where his parents still reside, he was educated there, and on leaving school joined the staff of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, with which to the day of his death he was identified. In 1904 he married Miss Josephine McGrath, sister of Sir Patrick McGrath, Mr. T. R. McGrath and Mrs. C. F. Taylor of this city. About a month ago Mr. Blackie was taken with illness, which from the first assumed a serious character, so that severely though the blow has fallen upon his family, its imminence was realized. Mr. Blackie's friends were many, by all of whom his passing will be deeply regretted. His genial smile and pleasant greeting will be greatly missed by those with whom his duties brought him in frequent contact. To his widow and son, Charlie, a student at St. Bonaventure's College, the Telegram expresses the general sympathy. Funeral took place from his late residence, Kimberly Row, Henry Street, this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Could any father or mother, remembering the sheltering care given to their own dear ones, refuse to give an extra dollar to the upkeep of these little ones?

If he who "gives to the poor, lends to the Lord," won't you fathers and mothers who love your own dear little tots, please remember kindly the BELVIDERE ORPHANS on Sunday next.

Please Give Them All That You Can Spare!

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

FROM ASSURED PREJUDICES.

The lady next door, whose husband is in a business which makes it necessary for her to do a great deal of entertaining, was much upset the other day because the children had the measles and she would not be able to entertain important persons who were to town. "Will it be so unfortunate. He is so awfully pointed. Of course it can't be but it is most unfortunate. He is under so much stress on entertaining in his own home, you know, and this man who is the most important of all will have to go to the and I don't believe we can get good accommodations for him." "Surely," I said, "he will understand how it is and not blame you.

Judges are queer things and often rest on perfectly absurd and perfectly illogical bases.

Here is an experience which particularly impressed that fact upon me.

A Favourite Indoor Sport of Auto Owners.

We were engaged in a discussion the other day of the kind of a car we should buy next. That is the indoor sports in which all auto owners (even if they haven't money enough to maintain their present car) can always indulge.

The name of a certain car was mentioned. "I've never liked that," I said. "Why," asked its champion. I couldn't say. I really knew nothing about it, had not even ridden in one. I had to dig down in my subconscious mind before I found the reason and what do you suppose it was? The car had the same name as a man whom I do not think highly of.

Isn't that ridiculous? But I do not think such slender basis for prejudice is uncommon.

One of That Make Was a Hideous Color. While we talked of cars I traced my prejudice against two others and found that in one make I had had a most unhappy trip (not the fault of the car but of extraneous circumstances). And all I know about the other car was that the only specimen I have come in touch with is owned by a person I do not like, and painted an objectionable color.

Maybe I am particularly prone to prejudices but I have never had that name. It is my suspicion that we are all somewhat that way—that is, prone to absurd, subconscious prejudices which, if we traced them back to their source, we should immediately root up in shame at ourselves.

Try it some day with some of your prejudices, and see.

THE QUIET LIFE.

When village clocks are striking nine, I to my room repair, and on my downy couch recline, and throw some nightmares there.

And people say, "You miss so much, who sleep the hours away! You should wake up and keep in touch with night life, which is gay! There all the live wires are on deck and heads play jassy tunes, and you should through the village trek, and blow in some doubtless." The lights are glaring, white and red, throughout the noisy night, but I have parked myself in bed and there I'm sleeping tight. And in the morning when I read the night-life tales of crime, I say, "A man must sleep, indeed, to have a high class time. Bill Jimson had his pockets picked while looking at a game, and Jasper Jinks was badly licked for smiling at a dame. I see that Boggs, whose car's a treat, it has such wondrous power, was pinched while coming down the street at forty miles an hour. And Mike was knifed and Pete was shot by gangsters, it is said; why should a man through dangers trot when he can sleep in bed. By night all perils are loosed, and evil runs amok; same is the night who goes to rook, when curfew's hour has struck."

A Clever Piece of Thieving.

On September 24, 1916, a man called at the office of a well-known ship-owner of Marselles, whom he had casually met at a cafe a few days before, and told him that he knew of some jewels worth, at least six thousand pounds which were to be sold for £600. The shipowner mentioned the matter to M. Giraud, a jeweller, and the two agreed to find the money, and share the profits. M. Giraud then went to see a man named Roland, who was said to have the jewels, and who was staying at the Hotel des Alpes. Roland showed him the gems, and after handing over the £680, M. Giraud placed them in his pocket. At that moment two men entered the room, declared themselves detectives, took the jewels from Giraud, and arrested him and Roland. They were taken to the Palace of Justice, where Giraud was told to wait on a bench by which a gendarme was standing; the other man having charge of Roland outside. After waiting some time on the bench, Giraud asked the gendarme when the detective was coming back, and when he was to appear before the magistrate. The gendarme replied that the man who had left him sitting there had merely asked him the nearest way out; then Giraud realized that he had been robbed of £680. On inquiries being made at the Hotel des Alpes, it was found that Roland had only taken the rooms a few hours before M. Giraud had called upon him, and neither he nor the two "detectives" were ever found.
