CHAPTER LIV.

"I will not," he promised.

"Accept my best thanks," she said, holding out her hand to him. "I knew there was something radically wrong; I am happier and easier, now that I understand what it is. You have done me a service. Farewell!"

He thought of her a hundred times. He wished that he had detained her, that he had forced her to send for her friends. He reproached himself until the end of his life, and yet he had not been to blame.

"You look better to-night, Leah," said the duchess. The deadly pallor had left the fair face, and there was a smile in the dark eyes. "I feel more at ease about you."

Leah smiled to herself. She was better because she was drawing nearer to the golden shore.

There followed two quiet, peaceful, and happy weeks, of which Hettie liked to think afterward. It struck her at times that Leah looked weak and ill, but she made no complaint.

News came from England that Sir Basil had been returned member for the county. The duke and duchess were delighted. Hettie was pleased, and talked more about it than she talked of anything else.

Leah went to her room; the sun shone bright and warm, and the air was full of the perfume of flowers. She was tired, with a peculiar feeling of longing for rest which was new to her, and her senses had been suddenly sharpened. She could see further; she could hear with almost painful distinctness. She had a letter to write, but the feeling of fatigue was so strong upon her that she was hardly inclined to commence her task. "I will do it at once, and then it will not trouble me," she said to herself. She went to one of her jewel-cases which was kept locked, and which opened only with a peculiar key. From it she took the small ring case that Sir Basil had given her, and drew from it the old-fashioned wedding-ring with which she was to have been married. But, as she lifted it from the case, it snapped and fell in two in her hands. Whether it had been put away in some awkward fashion, or whether some one in looking over the jewel-case, had taken the ring out, accidentally broken it, and replaced it without mentioning the fact, she could not tell. She was not superstitious, she did not think it an omen or augury of evil; but it gave her a terrible shock. She trembled as though some great disaster had occurred. She had intended to write to Sir Basil, and return him the ring, leaving the letter to be handed to him. Now it lay broken in two—the ring that had been worn by so many faithful wives, that had been given by so many loving husbands—the ring that she had received with such loving trust and confidence—the ring that she had hoped to wear until she lay dead and Basil took it from her.

It was broken now, like her love, her heart, her life. What would Basil do? she wondered. Would he have it mended? Would Hettie ever wear it? She had never shed a tear since she had found that Basil did not love her, but her eyes grew dim as she looked at the broken ring. She kissed it as though it had been a living thing and understood her action.

A broken wedding-ring is never a pleasant sight, and is always supposed to be an omen of misfortune, but there was something unutterably sad about this. It signified so much; the heart of the girl to whom it belonged was broken as surely as the wedding-ring which lay before her snapped in two. She took the two halves and folded them in a sheet of paper, sealed it, and addressed it to Sir Basil, then she drew towards her a sheet of paper to write the letter which she felt was to be the last she would ever pen.

will be here to-morrow, Edward," Lady Marcia observed. "The arrangements have been made for some time for a flower bazaar to be held in Swinford Meadows, behind the park. The clergyman is very anxious to make a success of it, as the church is in need of funds. You do not object?"

"I? Why should I? I left my affairs in the hands of my steward—I left the conduct of everything between you and Collins, Marcia. I am not so selfish that I wish to be a spoilsport. I hope that the flower show will be a great success. Let the vicar have the choicest blooms we can afford."

"And," Lady Marcia continued, "Gladys has promised to preside at one of the tables."

"To sell flowers to idiotic young men!" The earl looked annoyed. "I confess that that does not please me, but it is too late to draw back. I understand what these affairs are. A worthless flower from the hands of a high-born beauty commands a ready sale at a fabulous figure. Flower shows and bazaars are legal swindles. Marcia, I will escort Gladys to the flower show. My sudden appearance will cause a little sensation, but society will receive its dues from me later on!"

He seemed pleased at the prospect; there was a smile on his face, a springiness in his step that Lady Marcia had missed for many years.

The next morning he had the servants before him in the hall. They were almost all old faces. Many had grown gray in the service of the Howards, and dreamed of a cottage on the estate and a modest pension.

My lord spoke to them kindly, and asked them to welcome him home again. He had returned to stay. He did not want any noisy demonstration, but he proposed a garden fete for the servants any day they liked. It might be a grand affair, and they were at liberty to invite their friends. My lord would bear the expense, and the grounds were at their service. Let it be in one or two weeks. He would leave the arrangements entirely in their hands.

They were too well trained to give vent to their feelings noisily, but their faces beamed with pleasure, and the butler thanked the earl in a neat little speech.

Lord Howard was surprised to find himself feeling happier and more youthful. He had the painting of the lost lady of the house—his sainted wife—restored to its rightful place in the magnificent gallery.

He looked at it reverently, and he fancied that the smiling eyes were filled with fond approval!

Then he thought of his beautiful daughter Gladys, and murmured, rapturously:

She is the most peerless girl in all England!

He sat in silence for a little while, then muttered, passionately:

"Why need she ever know! Surely the evil fate that has pursued me will not darken her young and innocent life! How many times have I wished that I had no child! Bah! I defy the croakings of superstition; they shall no longer weigh upon my spirits, and from this day I commence a new life!"

Early Days of the British Navy.

Like the days of "Good Queen Bess" over, and the glorious story of the defeat of the Spanish Armada was a large page upon history's page, our story began to go down as steadily as it had previously risen. The Earl of Arundel, who was still High Admiral, was growing old and careless, and James I. came to the throne, and his management of the navy was a sad failure. Naval punishment at this time were both cruel and excessive. For sleeping on his watch a sailor was lashed to the bowsprit of his vessel and left to die of exposure and starvation. Knocks on the head, scolding with hot irons, and new whippings were all in vogue. Many of the events took place during the reign of James I., including adventures like the Bombay pirates, explorations, and the capture of Charles I., the Navy was in a state of decay. Admiral of the Navy, Sir John Eliot, affirmed that "his was the honour of the and loyalty of his drooping." When the Civil War broke out, after Charles I. carried his high-handedness too far, discontent was so prevalent in the ranks that hundreds of sailors quitted service, and offered themselves as volunteers. After the tragic death of the Protector, Oliver Cromwell, as Protector, a great deal to raise the status of the Navy, and under his rule much of the drunkenness, cruelty and crime was wiped out. Naval life became a more orderly and a haphazard episode in a life, and pay was much improved. Naval law was then modified in a way that was named "The Thirty-nine Articles of War." These were strictly enforced, and led to the establishment of law and order where chaos had reigned. The expenditure on naval affairs during the period was enormous—£2,600,000 in one year. No sailor was worn either by officers or sailors. Slops consisted of a uniform of white, and each man dressed to his own taste. Henry VIII. had introduced a naval uniform which was discarded during his reign, but it gradually disappeared entirely. The first frigate built in a British shipyard was launched on June 8, 1648, the "Constant Warwick," thus introducing a new era in naval architecture. After Cromwell's death, the navy was added to be his endeavours to the nation, and had risen entirely from the weak state in which he left it.

Famous British Novelist.

On June 9, 1870, there passed away one of the greatest of English novelists—Charles Dickens—the "Prince of Writers." Although even in these days Dickens appeals to us as a great writer, not in the latter years of his life he was a great reader or reciter of his own works. He had much dramatic power, a fine presence, and all the gifts of the natural born actor. In 1858 when he went to Ireland, he visited the North of England, etc., and he was enthusiastically received. His second series commenced in 1859 when he visited the Scottish coast, and also Norwich, Lancaster, St. Edmunds, Cheltenham, Carlisle, Plymouth, Birmingham, Derby, Torquay, Preston, Ipswich, Manchester, Brighton, Colchester, Newcastle and Chester. When he went the halls were packed to overflowing, many hundreds waiting to obtain admission. So great were the readings that Dickens a third series in 1864, and that, the whole country through. It might be said that at St. James' Hall, London, the next at Bradford, then Edinburgh, then Glasgow, then Liverpool, then back to Glasgow, and then on to Manchester, London, and then all over the world. The success was greater than that of the previous ones, and in 1867 he went to America for a fourth series. The scenes of enthusiasm which took place in all the great cities of America have never been approached since at any similar event. He waited outside the halls all day in the bitter cold in order to get in advance and the people went crazy with enthusiasm. He was received by the President, Grant, over to Canada, and then to America. On his return to England he commenced his last reading series in 1870—and these were, if anything, more popular than any before. Out of his readings alone in two years he made £20,000. There is no doubt that the tremendous strain upon his health and led up to the illness which caused his death at the early age of 58. When it was known there was sorrow throughout the whole speaking world. It was as if a great bereavement had befallen the nation.

THE RAILWAY.

The Minister of Justice is reported in the proceedings of the House of Assembly on Tuesday last as having made the statement that the programme to be submitted to the House on Monday next by the Government would embody an arrangement for running the railway from that date—June 12—until June 30, and that a further temporary agreement would have to be made with the Reid Nfd. Co. to operate the road up to that date. In dealing with a statement of this nature it is certainly bordering on perplexity to determine whether or not the Reid Nfd. Company are parties to it. The Opposition member for St. John's West, Mr. J. R. Bennett, was quite correct when he said that the whole thing looked to him like a Chinese puzzle. It is more than that. It is a jigsaw problem but that the onus of solution is upon the Government there is not the shadow of a doubt. The expiring period of the present temporary agreement finishes at midnight on Monday next, June 12. After that, what? Assuming as an hypothesis, for the sake of argument, that the Company will not consent to any further temporary agreement after that date, what will happen? Will the whole service be tied up again, as last month, or will the Government enter upon the premises of the Company and forcibly take charge? Such a course may involve the Colony into a costly suit at law. The Prime Minister has said that the Government will take over the railway, but that it will not be run under government control. Just what is meant by that declaration is not quite clear. Does the Prime Minister intend to buy out all the Company's interest in the railway? If so then that question could have been settled by the House of Assembly on Tuesday last without the necessity of further adjournment. Whichever way the situation is viewed the Government appear to have the worst end of it, and no amount of outside legal opinion, no matter how expert, can change the face of the situation. It is high time that the trade took thought. At this season of the year the Colony cannot afford to be deprived of railway facilities, yet the drifting policy of the Government is destined to place the people in an exceedingly awkward position. The situation is dangerous and must be handled with due regard to the peril that menaces if the railway is closed down for any period. The whole subject is a domestic one and must be considered as such. The obligation of unravelling the tangle of dispute is upon the Government. Through their interference the Colony has gotten into a hole from which only Government intelligence—if there is any such—can extricate it. To the lay mind the Legislature can only arrive at one of two conclusions. The country must either make a settlement with the Company or be prepared for arbitration with all its long drawn out delays. And it may be that while the latter, should that alternative be accepted, is passing through all its tedious phases a general tie-up of the whole system of land and water transportation may ensue. Can this really be afforded in the hope of an agreement of award—which may amount to millions—indeinitely, with all carriage of passengers and freight abandoned? Or should it not be the duty of the Government to negotiate a settlement of all the differences existing on the best possible basis? The voice of the people should be heard on this matter. It is upon them that the weight of payment, no matter which way an adjustment is brought about, will ultimately fall.

Sympathy From a Contemporary.

With the suddenness almost of a tragedy, the death of Mr. William J. Herder, proprietor of the St. John's Evening Telegram, occurred at noon on Sunday, 28th May, last. Deceased but recently returned from Bermuda where he had been on a trip from which it was hoped he had received considerable benefit. Mr. Herder had been looked upon as the "King of Printers" in Newfoundland. He entered the printing business when he was fourteen years of age, and for some fifty-nine years he has been most devoted to the Art Preservative of all arts. Born in St. John's on 6th October, 1849, he was in his 73rd year. To the bereaved family the Western Star extends its sincere sympathy.

Anniversary of Great Fire.

On June 9th, 1846, St. John's was destroyed by a fire which broke out at the premises of a cabinet maker named Hamlin, on Queen Street, and devastated the whole city. Two artillery men lost their lives in exploding a powder train, and there were many other casualties and hair breadth escapes. The only houses doing business at that date, and still continuing, are those of Job Bros., Bowring Bros., and Balne Johnston & Co. The Governor of that day was Sir John Harvey. Out of sixty large mercantile warehouses, Newman old premises at Riverhead alone remained.

Express Passengers.

The following passengers arrived at Fort aux Basques on S.S. Kyle at 8.05 a.m. to-day, and are now on the incoming express, due here to-morrow afternoon:—G. and Mrs. Rodgers, Mrs. A. Weir, Mrs. M. Boland and daughter, G. Coffin, Miss R. Hayes, Miss E. Tucker, Miss C. Kennedy, Mrs. S. Parsons, W. G. Eddy, J. P. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Joy, Miss M. E. Joy, John Mercer, Miss M. Lindsay, Mrs. E. Colshaw, Miss E. Lacey, Miss A. Lenfield, Thos. H. Skinner, F. Skinner, S. and Mrs. Harris and daughter, Mrs. S. Milley, Miss C. Milley, Miss M. Duley, C. Gale, Miss M. March, Miss C. O'Quinn, E. G. Back to Hospital.

CHINESE MURDER ENQUIRY DELAYED. We Fen Game, the accused in the Murray Street Murders, has been sent from the Penitentiary to the hospital on the advice of the prison doctor. His physical condition is still very weak. As there are no criminal sessions until the fall, the inquiry into the charge of murder against We Fen will probably be delayed until August. By that time he should be fully recovered from his self-inflicted wound.

The Railway Problem.

Company Directors Meet Executive. President H. D. Reid, Solicitor C. O'N. Conroy and Mr. Forbes, a director, formed a committee from the Reid Newfoundland Company to meet the Executive Government for a conference on railway matters this morning. The Company is not likely to consent to an extension of the present agreement for temporary operation until June 30th, unless the Government will make a settlement in accordance with the Company's requests. The Government's sole alternative is to pay the balance of the guarantee provided in last year's agreement which terminates on June 30th, and to compel the Company to default if it refuses to operate. The Prime Minister, it is believed, does not favour paying this balance, but there is apparently no other course open to him.

Women who were searching the town for a good Baronet Satin in Black or White, can now be supplied at BISHOP'S. New Silks arrived Wednesday, including Shantung Silks at one dollar, one-forty-five and one-seventy-five a yard.

Confagration Destroys Cattle and Timber.

Two forest fires raged along the north side of the Humber Arm last Thursday, and were fanned by the sixty-mile gale which sprang up about noon that day and continued for several hours. The upper fire started at Hughes Brook, somewhere about the Fisher Farm and rapidly spread over considerable area. The outer fire started at Gillis's and is thought to have resulted from sparks of a fire, used in that vicinity that day for boiling a kettle, lodging in the turf and being fanned to a blaze by the gale which sprang up at noon on Thursday. The fire spread rapidly and in a short time it had covered miles of territory. It followed principally the route of logging operations in that vicinity of late years, being fed by the large quantity of dry brush which lay in its track. C. E. Parsons had his logging camp destroyed together with a quantity of hay. Cattle and horses perished in the confagration, but all the houses of the settlement escaped. John Blanchard and Joe Blanchard lost each a horse, and the remains of one cow—the owner of which is not known—has been found, and several other cows and oxen are missing, and some which have been located were badly burned and are expected to perish.—Western Star, June 7.

The fourth shipment of Ladies' Spring Coats was opened at BISHOP'S Wednesday morning. There are many good reasons why BISHOP'S have sold so many Ladies' Coats this season; the chief reason has been that of much lower prices than anywhere else in town.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, JUNE 9. For hot weather use McMurdo's Cream of Lilies stands out prominently as one of the best preventives of sunburn and tan. A little rubbed on the face, hands and neck before going into the sun will go far to prevent any unpleasantness; for though it vanishes instantly its protecting effect is potent. Cream of Lilies may also be used at night, after exposure to the sun, and is remarkably cooling and soothing. Cream of Lilies Soap is also an excellent complexion soap. Price (Cream of Lilies) 30c. a pot; Cream of Lilies Soap, 35c. a cake.

There is a big Sale of Women's Shoes on at BISHOP'S this week at prices from three dollars and twenty to four dollars and ninety a pair. The values offered are without doubt the best obtainable.

Orphans' Aid Club.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING. The regular weekly meeting of the Orphans' Aid Club was held last evening at the office of the Vice-President. Hon. Dr. Mosdell occupied the chair and all the members were in attendance. The personnel of the Club is: President, Hon. Dr. Mosdell; Vice-President, Hon. E. D. Blanchard; Secretary, Counsellor Dowden; Treasurer, Mr. E. B. Stafford; Committee: Messrs. F. Dayer, F. Reid, E. Chafe, C. E. A. Jeffery, B. Parsons, S. Thomson, T. J. Seymour, E. Snow, R. Silverlock, P. Fearn, E. Lawrence, J. M. Carberry, J. Scammell, M.H.A. As the Telegram stated recently, the sole object of this Club is to assist the little fatherless ones. That the members will be successful is certain. At last night's meeting various matters were discussed and the various sub-committees reported favorably. Although organized but a short while ago a great amount of work has already been accomplished, and there is every reason to believe the club will realize its motto: Ten thousand dollars by the end of the year.

The Price of Salt.

SELLING AT 28 PER HHD. The current price of fishery salt is $2.20 per hhd., although it is stated that firms are selling at $2. It has, however, been purchased for cash at below the current price. The price of the commodity has declined a little from what it was a couple of weeks ago, due no doubt to the arrival of several large cargoes and the decline in freight charges. There has been a drop of five shillings per ton on the freight charges of recent arrivals. Freight on earlier shipments amounted to about 15 shillings per ton.

Cruiser for Sale.

IF NO PURCHASER WILL BE SUNK. The cruiser Lobelia has been hauled from her berth on the South-side and moored at the Dock premises. It is understood that one of the boilers which was sold last year to the Reid Nfd. Co. will be removed and placed in the Dock pump house. The Lobelia, which has been a white elephant to the Government, will be sold if a purchaser can be found. Otherwise she will be scrapped. An offer for the other boiler has been made by a local shipping firm and should it be accepted the engines will also be removed and the ship sunk as a breakwater.

Prospects Poor.

Yesterday evening a message to the Department of Marine and Fisheries from Bonne Bay stated that two or three traps had fair catches; others took no fish. To-day's message says the prospects are poor and there has been no change since last report.

Tennis Meeting.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED. The annual meeting of the St. John's Tennis and Croquet Club was held yesterday afternoon in the Club Grounds, Forest Road. The financial report was presented and showed the Club to be in a flourishing condition. Mr. Brian Dunfield presided over the election of a committee which resulted in last year's officers being returned. Mr. W. Angus Reid is President, Mr. J. Paterson, Secretary and Miss Lander, Games Secretary. The courts will open next week.

No wonder Billy Clifton is "Surprised." The audience got some eye-openers in "Madame Sherry."

Convict Evades Capture.

Kitchener Edwards, the young escaped convict, has so far evaded capture, and very little hope is entertained of getting him. The search still continues in the district in which Edwards is supposed to be hiding. There is a possibility that he may get aboard some schooner and escape to an outpost.

The final test of popularity is public approval. Ask anyone who saw "Madame Sherry" what they think of it.

British Empire Steel Contract.

WILL EFFECT STEEL PLANT AND COKE OVENS IN NEWFOUNDLAND. LAND.

SYDNEY, N.S., June 8.—In return for a nominal royalty of 25 cents per long ton on all iron ore mined, the British Empire Steel Corporation has undertaken to construct in Newfoundland before 1928, a plant capable of producing 100,000 tons of iron, or pig iron annually, according to an agreement between the corporation and the Newfoundland Government made public here.

The corporation further undertakes to erect coke ovens and to expend $2,000,000 in Newfoundland before 1928. All materials used in the construction of these plants are to be admitted to the Island duty free. The companies—Dunfries and Scott—are granted certain rights as to tax exemptions and water power grants. The 25 cent royalty is to continue in force until December, 1940. However, should the companies fail to carry out the construction program agreed upon, or should they fail to expend $3,000,000 in Newfoundland before 1928, an export tax of one dollar per ton will be imposed by the Newfoundland Government upon all ore mined and shipped to any part of the world except Nova Scotia.—Montreal Daily Star.

IN LOVING MEMORY. Of our dear mother, Mrs. Frances Haynes, died June 10th 1921, at Catalina. It's just a year ago to-day dearest mother. Since we kissed your cold, cold lips, And saw you borne 'out from our midst. But God's own Angels, they were there. To bear the soul away. To share the joys of Heaven. It was God's will for you to die. No more will you come to, Your once loved home; Or clasp your husband's hand. No more will your children know A fond mother's love and care. You were the one that helped us most. And all our troubles helped to share. Home is dark, and friends are few. Dearest mother how we think of you. The Popular Earle Williams at the Nickel

"IT CAN BE DONE" IS PICTURE THAT SHOULD PLEASE.

"It Can Be Done" is the visualization of a popular magazine story by Frederick J. Jackson, author of many fascinating stories that grip the attention and hold the interest from the first flash to the final close out. Earle Williams has never assumed a role that became him better or one which offered him more in the way of dramatic expression than that of the young author of "It Can Be Done." The story is different from the average photoplay and deals with a timely subject which is of vital interest to all people. Love, adventure, intrigue, suspense and surprise are the elements interwoven by the author into this unique, pulsating, human document. It will appeal to the admirer of the detective story as well as those who enjoy real dramatic expression.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

REAL AND IMITATION.

"A high degree of exclusiveness is only attained by do nothings and only appreciated by know nothings."

What a mix take people make when they think their aristocracy and superiority by being very exclusive, and rude to all "common people."

At an Inn where I once stayed there were two middle aged women who made an interesting contrast.

Stare an Insult.

One of these women was exceeding ly aloof. She did not even say good morning to people when she passed them in the hall. She always sat at a table by herself. She had a way of looking at people with a scrutinizing, disagreeable stare that was a positive insult. If she had been a man some other man would surely have knocked her down for it. She plainly intended to convey the impression that she preferred solitude to having anything to do with people so much beneath her. Nobody had the slightest desire to intrude on that solitude for no one liked her.

The other woman was reserved but gracious. She always said good morning pleasantly to all her housemates. She did not spend much time in the common living room but when she did she was courteous and gracious to everyone. Everyone liked her except one or two people who had wanted to be more intimate than she cared them to be, and had been offended by the screen of her dignity and reserve.

She Wasn't Because--

I fancy the first woman thought she was giving a picture of a gentle woman obliged by reduced circumstance to live among common people. As a matter of fact she couldn't give such a picture because she did not know anything about gentle-women. She had been able to pretend she did until someone who knew her chanced to come to the inn and recognized her. It then came out that she had been a waitress in a restaurant who, after a struggle to prevent it on the part of his family, had married an elderly man of good family and some money. His people had refused to receive her and she cut herself adrift from her own. He had died, hence her aloneness.

The other woman who was gracious and pleasant to all was a real gentleman from one of the finest families in the state and had actually known and luxury.

The Difference Between.

The difference in their manner was the inevitable difference between the real and the imitation gentleman. The real gentleman is reserved but she is never rude.

The imitation gentleman is rude because she does not know how to be dignified and reserved and at the same time gracious and well bred.

We've all met both kinds and though we may have been fooled for a time it was never for long.

Towed to Port.

RUDDERLESS FRENCH BANKER.
The three-masted French schooner Rouze, arrived in port last night in a disabled condition from the Grand Banks. The vessel was towed to port by the French hospital ship Jeanne d'Arc, which is attached to the home fishing fleet. The Rouze had her rudder carried away some days ago. She reports fish plentiful and has 1700 quintals on board.

Southern Shore Fishery.

Along the Southern Shore hook and liners are reported to be doing well with fish. At Petty Harbour the boats are making fairly successful trips. Mr. Dan Chafe being high liner with 40 quintals for one boat. As yet there is nothing doing with treps.

Damage to Extent $250,000.

INSURANCE ONLY $115,000--BONNE BAY'S LOSS $135,000.

Not for over twenty years has any community of the West Coast been visited by such a destructive conflagration as that which swept Woody Point, Bonne Bay, last Thursday evening, and wiped out almost the whole of the business section of that town. The fire started at 6.10 on Thursday evening, and is thought to have been caused by a spark pitching on the roof of Halliburton's old shop, about the centre of the business district. Fanned by the 50 to 60 mile gale which was blowing at the time the flames spread rapidly, and within the short space of one hour from the time the first smoke was seen, every structure for a distance of 500 yards was razed. The burnt district extends from S. Taylor's store in the southwest to W. Parson's store in the northeast, the flames having spread to both lee and windward. The second building which fell a victim was three hundred feet distant from where the fire started. Sheets of flame leaped into the air and were carried across the Arm to Norris Point and beyond to a distance of over three miles, and a part of a deed from the Court House was afterwards picked up over four miles away. Fortunately men at Norris Arm were placed and fought the flying embers, thus saving that locality from a fate similar to that of Woody Point.

In all fifty-eight buildings as well as all wharves and other structures along the waterfront were destroyed, including S. Taylor, coal store and a small dwelling; Coen, shop and dwelling attached; Cox, store; Garcin, shop and one store; Butt Bros., shop and three stores; Halliburton, shop and five stores; Hollahan, shop, three stores, two dwelling houses, and new shop just completed but not stocked; Rose, lower shop and one store; Government warehouse; Bank of Nova Scotia; Custom House; Court House; Preble, dwelling, shop and four stores; Telegraph and Post Office; John E. Roberts, dwelling and three stores; Chas. Read, dwelling; Ed. Roberts, dwelling; J. W. Roberts, store; Wm. Wheeler, store.

Mr. Read, the telegraph operator, lost all his personal effects, the accumulation and savings of many years. He managed, however, to save the telegraph instruments. M. Jenkins, the Customs officer, also lost all his furniture.

The only landmark standing in the fire district is that of the vault of the Bank of Nova Scotia, which was left uninjured. Lobster cans and other fishing supplies were destroyed.

Many people came from Norris Point and other parts and assisted in fighting the fire, and the women of the place proved themselves true heroines, bringing water in buckets to the men and in other ways assisting in fighting the flames, and it was only by the almost superhuman efforts of all that the ravages were stayed. Though S. Taylor's shop escaped destruction much of his stock was damaged. The total amount of insurance covering the lost properties amounts to $115,000. This amount is divided among a number of companies, that by the Phoenix of London totals $20,000. It is estimated the loss cannot be replaced for less than $200,000--Western Star, June 7.

Save the Children Fund.

ONE HUNDRED PER CENT. CANADIAN.

The following appeared in the Toronto Saturday Night, under date of May 13th, 1922.

"The charges made by some English publications against the administration of the British 'Save the Children Fund,' elicited a reply from Lord Weardeale, which clears the air to some extent, but at the same time gives no indication that the chairman was a man with any business instincts, nor did he operate in a business way, in either the collection of funds, which pays a heavy tribute to the publicity agent, nor in the selection of those from whom he purchased through the agent. However, that's now an old story as Lord Weardeale has resigned the chairmanship, and it is in other and it is to be hoped more competent hands."

"It is to be feared that the criticism directed against the internal management of the British 'Save the Children Fund,' has possibly had a detrimental effect upon the Canadian 'Save the Children Fund,' which is another movement and operated in quite another way. First of all our fund, under the administration of Col. Herbert J. Mackie, who acts as President and who is giving practically all of his time to it, is a hundred per cent. Canadian. Ever dollar collected is spent in Canada, for foods and other necessities. These are earmarked and sent to the famine areas, where they are distributed to the children by British and Canadian officials. The only connection between the two funds is that the machinery created for distribution purposes by the British is taken advantage of by the Canadian Committee.

"The Canadian 'Save the Children Fund' is now feeding daily 75,000 youngsters, and after close investigation we have every reason to believe that it is being done in a most efficient manner. It is hoped that thru additional funds this number can be raised to one hundred thousand; with the certainty of being able to continue the feeding so long as it remains necessary.

She could eat anything--without indigestion or sleeplessness

FOR a long time she had been troubled with gas after her evening meal. The distress was most painful after eating potatoes or other starchy foods, of which she was very fond.

Then she started taking two cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every night between her evening meal and bedtime. She poured about a half cup of boiling hot water over the yeast cakes, stirred them thoroughly, added a little cold water and drank.

She found she could eat anything and sleep splendidly afterward.

Thousands of men and women are finding that Fleischmann's Yeast corrects stomach and intestinal troubles. It promotes the flow of bile and pancreatic juice. It is rich in the appetite-stimulating vitamin, so that appetite is always kept normal and you are protected from indigestion.

Add 2 to 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast to your daily diet. You will find that your whole digestive system is greatly benefited. Place a standing order with your grocer. He will deliver it regularly.

It's Flavor that Makes the Meal!

And the sauces that the Libby chefs have adapted for you give flavor to the simplest dishes.

It may be eggs, or macaroni, or a cheap cut of meat—an unusual and delicious sauce will make it something you eat with delight and remember with pleasure—because of its flavor.

LIBBY'S CATCHUP and CHILI SAUCE are made from red, ripe tomatoes, grown in the fertile soil of Kent County, Ontario, picked when they are mellowed by the sunshine of long summer days, then rushed to the nearby Libby kitchen.

Here in sunny rooms the tomatoes are cooked with fragrant spices, onions, sugar and the best vinegar—cooked for hours until all the flavors are blended through and through.

Now the sauce is ready to give an appetizing relish to your steaks and chops, or a new piquancy to the meat gravy you serve with your roasts.

Your grocer has, or can get you, Libby's Catchup or Chili Sauce. Use it with your cold meat teas and note how quickly the second helping is necessary.

The delightful flavor of Libby's Beans is due largely to the wonderful Sauce prepared by the skilled chefs. Have you tried them?

"Bumps" That Upset Aeroplanes.

THRILLING ADVENTURES IN THE CLOUDS.

"Bumps" are the jerky movements sometimes felt by those who travel in aircraft. They are due to air disturbances, and may cause the machine to rise, drop, or tilt up.

Until recently, when a machine experienced a falling bump it was generally thought to have fallen into an air pocket—a thin place in the atmosphere—which was believed to be deadly dangerous to the pilot. We know now that "bumps" are harmless, though occasionally terrifying to the inexperienced passenger.

In England and Northern Europe "bumps" are very rarely of a severe nature (according to Major Blake). They are encountered when passing over hills, and, generally speaking, the more hilly the country, the more an aeroplane is bumped. Hot weather intensifies "bumps," and on calm, cool days these air disturbances are rarely encountered.

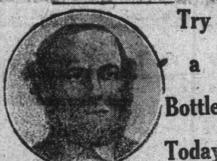

OVERTURNED IN MID-AIR.

In hot countries, such as Egypt and Mesopotamia, these air disturbances are much more frequent and much more violent. I have, several times, when flying over the desert, been suddenly shot vertically into the air for distances of between 500ft. and 1,000ft., the sensation experienced being like that of ascending in a very rapid lift. On at least one occasion in Palestine a machine was turned completely over in mid-air by one of these disturbances.

One point known to all pilots and most air travellers is the fact that certain localities always have definite bumps in the same places, though these vary in intensity according to the type of weather prevailing.

Thus one frequently receives a downward bump when crossing streams or lakes, particularly when at heights of only a few hundred feet. Woods also frequently produce bumps, and very severe bumps may be experienced when flying under a thunder cloud.

Some day, perhaps, these permanent bumps will be charted. Meteorological experts who are beginning to take an interest in these disturbances would like to know definite spots where permanent bumps are felt; whether such bumps cause a machine to rise or fall; the upward or downward velocity and extent of the bump; the exact area over which the bump may be felt; and the type of country where it is observed.—Tit Bits.

His Fair Fare.

A violin cello player of massive proportions chartered a cab, and, having ensconced himself and his unwieldy instrument inside as best he could, he instructed the Jehu to drive to a house in a fashionable square near by.

On arriving at his destination, the musician, after depositing his violin-cello on the pavement, tendered the cabman a shilling.

"Erel! What's this?" demanded the driver, in disgust.

"A shilling, my man. Your legal fare," replied the patron, haughtily.

"That's all very well. I know a shilling's my legal fare for carrying you," answered the cabman; "but," casting a malevolent eye at the bulky instrument reposing on the pavement, "what about that there fute?"

Surprised Himself.

An Irishman, who was to return to his native land by a certain steamer, arrived on the pier just as the vessel was starting—in fact, she was already on the move.

Taking a flying leap, he covered the intervening space of six or eight feet at a bound, but tripped on alighting and hit his head, temporarily stunning himself.

When he recovered his senses, the vessel was a couple of hundred yards at sea.

"Be jabers!" he exclaimed, not realising what had happened, "what a jump!"

"The ending of my story has been completely spoiled by careless proof-reading," complained the angry author. "So?" replied the publisher, soothingly.

"Yes, exactly so," rejoined the author. "I sit at the conclusion where the judge looks down at the detective and asks: 'Are you pendleton King?' What does the printer make him say?"

"The famous detective snatching off his beard replied: 'I am.'"

Wonderful.

A number of candidates for the police force were being examined by a doctor the other day, and a pretty stiff examination it was, too. At length it came to testing the men's sense of hearing, and said the examiner:—

"Do you see this watch?"

Candidate: "Yes."

Examiner: "Do you hear it tick?"

Candidate: "Certainly; quite plainly."

Examiner: "Stand farther back."

Candidate retires three paces.

Examiner: "Do you hear it now?"

Candidate: "Yes."

Examiner: "Wonderful! This watch has not been going for a fortnight."

Acquitted.

A young man was charged with loitering suspiciously at a railway station. The magistrate said sternly: "This young lady says you tried to speak to her at the railway station."

"It was a mistake," pleaded the accused. "I was looking for my wife's young niece, whom I've never seen, but who had been described to me as a handsome young lady, with golden hair, well-cut features, the complexion, perfect figure, beautifully dressed, and—"

With a charming blush the principal witness against him interrupted.

"I don't wish to prosecute this gentleman, sir," she said to the magistrate. "Anyone might have made the same mistake."

Is Radio a Fad or a Fixture?

The present radio craze has occupied and is occupying the attention of all alert publishers and editors. Unprogressive, indeed, is the newspaper which does not have a "radio department," some held within a column, while others occupy several pages of some special weekday or Sunday edition.

Two questions seem to be uppermost in the minds of editors: "Is radio a fad or a fixture?" "What effect is radio going to have upon the newspaper business?"

Of course, no flat and unqualified answer can be made to either of these questions. The fact that concerts, speeches, messages of various kinds, can be picked out of apparently thin air, has appealed to the imagination of many, with the result that radio receiving sets have been in great demand than the supply. And great strides are being made in the perfection of its use, which suggest unlimited possibilities for it in the future. All these factors have kept radio much to the fore and have set newspaper men—progressive as they must be in all new things—to thinking of its relation to their business.

BOYS THE BACKBONE.

Among what may be called the layman of radio—those not engaged in selling radio apparatus or stock in radio corporations and not engaged in the use of radio—it seems to be generally agreed that the present radio craze is a fad. The boys of the household in the various cities of our land have found a new outlet for their mechanical learnings, in the building and perfecting of radio sets; these boys are the backbone of the radio popularity of to-day. The novelty of it all has appealed to some of the older generation and instruments have been installed to satisfy curiosity or appetite for something new. But the results from receiving sets cannot be claimed to be a finished product. There are many interferences with the music or other sounds which the "wild air waves" are saying. It is, therefore, hard to believe that this "imperfect" product will long make a widespread and lasting appeal. This is not intended to detract from the wonders already accomplished by radio, but is merely a recognition of those factors which radio experts themselves admit they are trying to overcome. In other words, radio must be vastly perfected if its present popularity is to take a permanent and widespread hold.

BROADCASTING.

Newspapers, of course, were quick to recognize the growing popularity of radio and the necessity of giving space in its columns to the new thing that had taken hold of the public interest. There came naturally radio advertising to accompany the radio news and features. All of that was a natural development for the newspapers and was properly within its field of endeavor. The next step has been the establishment by some newspapers of broadcasting stations, from which concerts, speeches and news bulletins are sent. Admittedly, such activity is outside of the newspaper's usual and direct function. Of course, the idea is to increase the prestige of the newspaper and to show its alertness in meeting proper demands.

In the opinion of many newspaper publishers and editors, it is going outside of the newspaper's business. They take the view that the newspapers did not establish the movie theatres when the public took up the movies, build street railways or establish motor bus lines when there was popular demand for increased and improved transportation facilities. Very properly, they have furnished the news and used features about the movies and they have successfully advocated better transportation by showing the needs. They have stuck to their proper business, while helping in every proper and legitimate way the meeting of popular demand for movies or transportation—and many other things—by those identified with these lines of business activity.

NOT NECESSARILY.

Admittedly, the live newspaper must keep abreast of the times. But that does not mean they must engage in every new activity which the public takes up. The public's new interest, in each case, has its proper reflection in the columns of every newspaper, as has been demonstrated in the case of the automobile, the movie theater, the boys and girl scout movement, the investment market. And what will advertisers say of the newspaper which establishes a broadcasting station and announces it will broadcast the news? Will he not say that the newspaper itself recognizes that its news appeal has been awakened by the sending out of its stock in trade—its news—free, and therefore, is not desirable, as an advertising medium. And already there is talk about sending out "bargain" announcements directly by broadcasting stations established by the big stores.

ONLY AS NEWS IS OF VALUE.

Outside of the news value of radio, newspaper editors and publishers should look more to radio as a means of transmission of news for publication as at present. There was a time when news matter was sent only by "pony express" and the greatest news enterprise was shown when such relays of ponies were made to transmit the news from the scene of its happening to the place of publication in the shortest possible time. Then came Mr. Morse with his telegraph instrument, which revolutionized news transmission. While the same revolution may not legitimately be expected from the wonderful working of the radio instruments, modern suggests possibilities which need the attention of every enterprising news gathering organization. The latest development in the radio field are to be watched, with the news transmission predominant.—Newspaperman.

What Women Love.

DARING DRESS AND DANGEROUS DIVING.

Two or three films have "featured" Annette Kellerman, the famous swimmer and diver, but her previous screen-work is eclipsed in "What Women Love," a novel picture throughout most of which the "Australian Venus" appears in diving or athletic attire.

The beauty of the under-water scenes will never be forgotten by those who witness them (writes the Film Critic).

Miss Kellerman's frolics among the reeds at the bottom of a lake, and her pranks beneath the boat of a fisherman whose bait she steals and whose boat she rocks and turns about, is a comical and beautifully photographed episode.

A few may object to the semi-dress scenes on a yacht, but Miss Kellerman's expert skill covers so much that most people will enjoy the whole picture.

Dive from Ship's Mast.

What women love—according to the film—is "rough treatment," and this the heroine gets in abundance. The thin story shows how a noodle of a man, in order to gain the love of an athletic girl, takes boxing lessons from a sea-captain who, later, persuades him to kidnap the girl.

On a schooner to which she has been carried, the captain forgets himself, and the hero knocks out his tutor with the very blow he had taught him to practise. To escape from her assailant's clutches Miss Kellerman dives 160ft. from the ship's mast and fights the villain in the sea.

A light, amusing entertainment, "The Charm School," is, in some respects, a fascinating picture. The stage play of the same name was, however, far more interesting.

The drawing power of the film lies in the charm which radiates from a bey of beauties and the personal attraction of the handsome hero who inherits a girl's school and conducts it with surprising results.

Wallace Reid is quite at home in the role of principal of a school swarming with pretty girls who sigh and "make eyes" at him.

Episodes enacted, alternately, in sunny Devon and the grim desert wastes of Egypt in war time are outstanding features of "The Four Feathers," a British adaptation of A. E. W. Mason's novel.

The story of a soldier who, because of his cowardice, receives four feathers from his friends and sweetheart, and redeems them by an act of heroism in the battle area, is interesting, though it is not nearly so impressive as the book.

Harry Ham gives a clever interpretation of the coward-hero, whilst the natural beauty of many scenes and the thrills provided by Arab crowds lift the picture above the commonplace.

The drawing power of the film lies in the charm which radiates from a group, and essentially English—a type of comedy rarely screened but sadly needed.

Four men elect to spend a holiday in a caravan. Filled more with good cheer than with breakfast (a "scrap" affair), they start off in a van that has been their best days, to the wonder and amusement of suburban residents. But—man proposes and a caravan disappears!

Mishap follows mishap. The horse runs away, the van is stolen by tramps, the men are stranded miles from anywhere, and only in bathing suits; they are chased by a bull, the van is recovered, then destroyed by fire. In the end the men (and the horse) return home by train!

That is all the story, but the four men (Gordon Hopkin, Manning Haynes, Johnny Butt, and Donald Seagrave) unravel their misfortunes in such true-to-life and humorous fashion that the end of the film brings regret.—Tit Bits.

Who Will Capture Him?

It will be a very lucky deed who captures the heart of the Duke of Devonshire's young son. He is a clever, well-read, wonderful and diplomatic assembly of his studies at Oxford to the War Office under the name of John Cowans (he was not then so old enough to go to France) so is back at Oxford now working the B. A. degree, and is almost to take his class honors. His maternal grandfather left him some like a million pounds, and with of the obligations of the hand family this really makes him very rich. But what is infinitely important is that he is blessed with those personalities that attract one with whom he comes in contact. It is hoped that he may come to stand for Parliament soon.

An Island Hermit.

LIVING ALONE FOR THIRTY YEARS

The story of a modern Robinson Crusoe who for thirty years has lived on a lonely island in the Arafura Sea, between Australia and New Guinea, is told by Mr. W. Somerset Maugham, the playwright, who has just returned from a fifteen months' tour in the East.

"I had chartered a lugger for a cruise in the Arafura Sea," he said, "and I was asked to drop a bag of rice on the island for this old hermit.

Refused to Leave.

"I learned on the way from those who had already seen him that he was shipwrecked thirty years ago, and with fifteen other men reached the island in open boats. They lived on the island for three years before they were sighted by a passing ship.

"Of the sixteen only five were then alive, and only four were taken away—for the fifth, the old man living there now, refused to leave.

"He told the rescuers that during the three years he had spent with the other men on the island he had seen horrible things that he wished never to live among his kind again.

"During the thirty years he has been on the island," added Mr. Maugham, "the old man has lived on chickens, eggs, fish, and fruit.

"During the war he was left alone for five years, for no ships passed his way, and he was reduced to living entirely upon what the island could produce."

Duval's Hoard.

Full of wild romance is the tale of Duval's hoard on the Rock of Percé, which lies off the coast of Gaspe Peninsula, province of Quebec. So many people have lost their lives in trying to climb up and recover the treasure, supposed to be hidden there that the legislature of the province has passed an act forbidding any one to try to scale the height without permission.

"Sammies" Prefer Coblentz.

"Bingen on the Rhine" have been to some extent altered. The soldier of the Legion who was dying in Algiers want to get back to the Rhine. The American soldier is already on the spot and wants to stay there. He has been garrisoning the Coblentz district for upwards of three years, and he would have been called home long ago, except for a very complicated dispute, with too many ramifications to enlarge upon, as to when Germany is to pay Washington for the cost of his keep; a dispute which has been expressed in the once famous lyric Another One Gone.

The old story that when the English and French faced each other at the battle of Fontenoy the French commander gave a fine example of Gallic chivalry by exclaiming: "Messieurs les Anglais, fire first," has been proved to be entirely untrue by a French writer, M. Pierre Varenne. The story is founded on a misquotation. What the French commander really said was: "Shoot the English first, gentlemen." As a matter of fact, it was the English who fired first, killing fifty-two French officers and six hundred men.

Forty-Three Years in the Public Service--The Evening Telegram

Sudden Death.

EX-COUNCILLOR COLLAPSES IN SHOP.

Mr. S. H. Peet, the well known blacksmith and ex-Councillor, died suddenly in the workshop of Messrs. T. J. Duley, Ltd. yesterday afternoon. The deceased had been in the shop chatting to Mr. Geo. Dwyer, after he had completed his work, when without any warning, he collapsed. Medical assistance was quickly summoned, but when the doctors arrived, Mr. Peet was beyond all human aid. Death was due to heart failure.

Son of the late William Peet of Nottingham, England, deceased was born in St. John's in 1854. He followed the trade of blacksmith and after serving his time, formed a partnership with Mr. Joseph Miller. After the fire he built his own shop on George St., which he shortly turned into a lucrative business. He was actively interested in matters affecting the welfare of the community, and during his two years of service in the Civil Commission, rendered valuable assistance. An active member of the L. O. A., he was a Past Master of Leeming Lodge and had held various other offices. He was also a member of the Masonic Fraternity and the Conception Bay British Society. He leaves to mourn him, a widow, formerly Miss Christina Clifford, daughter of the late James Clifford, five sons, Messrs. William J. and Charles of Ayre & Sons, Chesley at F. Smallwood's, Albert, an employee of the Reid Nfd. Co., and Ernest, now at Alberta, Western Canada; also two daughters, Mrs. H. B. Butler, of Chicago, and Mrs. Maud Griegnon, of Boston. District Inspector Peet of Curling is a brother, and another brother, Mr. William Peet, of Lansing, Mich., also survives. An only sister, Mrs. Thos. Walsh, of Springdale, N. D. E., is also left to mourn. For the sorrowing family there is widespread sympathy in their sudden bereavement. The funeral takes place tomorrow afternoon from his late residence, Brazil's Square.

Obituary.

ELIZABETH RYAN.

On Tuesday, 23rd inst., God's silent but pitying Angel, Death, again appeared in our midst and bore away to receive the reward of long suffering, patiently borne, the soul of Elizabeth Ryan, in the 23rd year of her age. She was of a gentle amiable disposition and, never during the seven years of a lingering illness, was she known to murmur, but was always sweetly resigned to God's Holy Will. Truly, "Thou hast all seasons for thine own, Oh, Death," but what more fitting one than Spring, in all his beauty and promise, to usher this pure young soul into the "glorious summer sunshine of life immortal." Her funeral took place on Thursday, 25th, and her remains were followed by a large number of people to the little cemetery on the hillside, and there the sweet winds of summer will chant her requiem. She leaves to mourn their sad loss, a widowed mother, four brothers, and three sisters, to whom the writer joins with the community in offering sincere sympathy. Requiescat in pace.
St. Vincent, May 29th.

To Avoid Collision.

CAR TURNS OUT OF ROAD.
Mr. Callan, the manager, and two members of his company met with a slight motor accident yesterday afternoon near the Church of England Cathedral. In order to avoid a collision with a car crossing down Church Hill, they turned into Gower Street and collided with a pole damaging the car. The young ladies sustained slight injuries which prevented them from appearing in last night's performance. We are glad, however, to state that they have fully recovered and will appear this evening as usual.

S. S. Home Reaches Bonne Esperance.

The S.S. Home reached Curling at 4.35 p.m. on Sunday from her first trip to the Straits of Belle Isle for this season, says the Western Star of 7th inst. She reached Bonne Esperance and reports the Straits full of ice. The Home left Curling last Tuesday midnight and made all her ports of call along the Newfoundland coast. At Flower's Cove she found it impossible to cross the Straits owing to the field of ice, so she came back as far as Port aux Choix and went across from there to Labrador Coast south of the ice foe. Here she landed Whiteley and crew. The ice extended right across the Straits and was packed so closely to the land that the ship was unable to proceed further north. She brought along a few passengers and a big mail.

Aged Man Found Dead.

A message was received yesterday afternoon by the Deputy Minister of Justice from Magistrate Sullivan of Baine Harbour containing the following sad intelligence:—"Anthony Hynes, aged 80, was found dead at the foot of a cliff at Parker's Cove. An inquiry will be held."

Women's Missionary Society Convention.

YESTERDAY'S SESSION.

The morning session opened at 10 o'clock with devotional exercises, after which helpful and inspiring papers were read by Mr. George Peters, Miss G. Parsons and Mrs. Bugden. The quiet half hour was conducted by Rev. R. J. Power, M. A., of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. He chose for his subject: "To the Roots." We must get to the roots of the work. During the past few years the call had been for men, money and enthusiasm. We have not got at the roots. There are symptoms of a disease, a disease deep-rooted, which is want of faith. I would bring before you fundamentals of this missionary enterprise. Do we believe that the world needs a Saviour? Doubt on this question will spoil everything. If we are not sure, why waste our time and money? Do we believe the Bible? "The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked." "The wages of sin is death." Sir Oliver Lodge says that the modern man is not at all troubled about sin. Perhaps that is why they do not believe in Missionary enterprise. Some believe in education as the saviour of the world, others in social services, better homes, better cooking, etc. Social services won't do. Salvation is found in none other than Jesus Christ. Does the Church to-day believe that? That was the faith of the disciples. That is true for all nations. Some believe that this religion is all right for us, but that for foreign countries their own religion is best suited for the climate and customs of the people. What would you think of one missionary for this country and another for India and another for China? Christ is the Redeemer for all. All outside Him are wrong. Have we any responsibility in this matter? What are we going to do about it? You can have nothing to do with it, turn your back upon it, or you can feel the claims and then satisfy yourself by doing as little as possible. You can listen, and yet deny it, or leave the church or go to a meeting every two months. But this will not do. Your life, your soul, your all must be in it. Only this will be acceptable. Many give less to the support of Missions than the average smoker spends on tobacco, or what a lady spends on her spring hat. St. Paul gives us this message: "He hath committed unto us, the word of reconciliation, the glorious gospel." If the world is to hear this message, it must be through us.

AFTERNOON.

The afternoon session opened with devotional exercises, after which followed reports from the District Superintendents, as follows:—Carbonear, Mrs. J. Maddock, Northern, Mrs. J. Peters, for Mrs. Omond, Western, Mrs. C. Howse, St. John's, Mrs. C. Hutchings. All gave excellent reports. Mrs. Curtis, Honorary President, gave reminiscences of the W. M. S. work twenty-five years ago, and expressed her thanks to the ladies for their great kindness to her during her illness. The delegates were then favored with a beautiful solo: "The voice of one crying in the wilderness," by Miss S. Soper. This was followed by the branch hymn. Mrs. S. Sain, Superintendent of Christian Stewardship, read a paper, with which all were delighted: "A woman and her purse plus prayer, personality, persistence." After this Miss W. Pike sang a solo, "My Task," most effectively. Mrs. E. Joyce, Strangers' Secretary, then gave a most charming talk on the work done in Newfoundland by this department, telling how it had grown since its commencement two years ago. She closed with some helpful suggestions to the members of the society. The Convention was then favored with a reading by Mrs. L. Mews: "My little wild rose," also "I looked for the Master," the latter by special request. Mrs. Lavell then introduced the new study book, written by a Canadian, Dr. J. L. Murray, who has wide experience in missionary work. The session closed with the vesper hymn, and benediction by Mrs. Curtis.

EVENING.

At the evening session the chair was taken by Mrs. C. H. Johnson. After devotional exercises an anthem was beautifully rendered by the Cochrane St. Choir. Miss E. Parsons then read the report from the Circles, in place of Miss Wilson, and also the report from Bands, both of which were very encouraging. Miss Burt, Treasurer for Circles and Bands, then gave her report. Miss Garland, and Miss G. Maunder then sang a duet. Mrs. Lavell then addressed the large gathering. Her message was from the field. The text that I like to think about in connection with this subject is "Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, for they are white already unto harvest." Years ago the church went with fear and trembling to the field, not knowing what course lay before her. That is still true to-day. There are three fields, China, Japan and Canada. In the West Province of China we have a responsibility of ten million souls. We have planted a growing colony, which is going to regenerate the rest of the Empire. In October, 1891, I saw the first party sail on the "Empress of Japan" for China. Among the party was one of my dearest friends. What a task for such a small company? And now we have ten stations, eighty-one out stations and two hundred and forty missionaries. Mrs. Lavell went on to speak of the difficulties overcome and of the different feeling which now exists in the minds of the Chinese toward our missionaries. The second field is Japan, some 50,000,000 of the Chinese toward our missionaries in Japan is superfluous. This is not true, for scarcely one per cent. of the people are Christians, and the life of the nation has not been touched. True it is that they have been educated along commercial and scientific lines. But they have not had education in its highest form. Japan has been compared with a bunch of flowers that has no root. In order to supply the root, we have to send them cultured and highly educated teachers. Canada is the third field and just as important as the other fields. Were we to neglect it, we would be like a mother who left her own family to attend the needs of other people's children. Banners and awards were then presented by Mrs. Lavell. The first banner went to the Adams' Cove Mission Band, the second to Grand Falls, and the third to Heart's Content. The Circle awards, a Life Member's Certificate and Pin, was presented to Grand Falls. Two little girls from the Mission Bands, Norma Burt and Phyllis Driscoll, presented a bouquet to Mrs. Lavell from the Circles and Bands and two others, Lillian Puddister and Annie White, presented her from the Auxiliaries with two views of local scenery. Mrs. Lavell thanked the donors for their kind gift, and said she never would forget her visit, as she had received nothing but kindness since she had come. Mrs. Lindsay was then presented with a lovely bouquet of sweet peas, stocks, and ferns, by Mrs. Howse and Mrs. Maunder from the outport delegates. She closed with words of thankful appreciation. The session closed with the singing of the hymn "Oh Master, when Thou callest," and Rev. C. H. Johnson pronounced the benediction. During the evening a resolution by the Courtesy Committee expressive of thanks and appreciation to all who had contributed to the success of the meetings was presented by Miss Hall and unanimously approved.

ST. BON'S SPORTS, Wednesday next, "Past and Present" Relay Race, promises to be the feature of the day. The "Past" include three former Senior Champions, C. Eagan, 1918; E. Phelan, 1920; and W. Skinner, 1921. Jimmy Kielley, who starred in the Johnson Shield Competitions, can travel some also. The "Present" are out to maintain the supremacy established in 1920 and 1921—June 9, 11.

Why Grandpa is So Popular

GOOD health and good humor usually go hand-in-hand. The sufferer from torpid liver, indigestion or irritated bowels cannot easily maintain a happy countenance and a cheerful disposition, whether young or old. The grandpa represented in this picture has succeeded in maintaining his good health and good spirits by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to keep his blood rich and his vitality at high water mark. Men and women of advancing years are learning more and more the benefits to be obtained by the use of this great restorative. It seems to supply exactly what elderly people require in order to keep feeling well and happy. Mr. D. F. Armstrong, R.R. No. 3, Mallorytown, Ont., writes: "Through overwork and an extra amount of mental strain, I became very nervous and nervous. I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and they certainly seemed to touch the right spot. I almost seemed for a time as though I fairly lived on them, and I can recommend this treatment to anyone requiring a medicine of this kind. I am now over 61 years old." ("Sworn before me at Mallorytown, this 7th day of March, 1921."—D. S. Clow, J.P.)

Houses! Houses! Houses!

Now is the time to make some good investments and not to let the value of property increase. I have the following property for sale on very easy terms: Five houses on Bannerman Street (no reasonable offer will be refused as this estate must be realized); one three-apartment house on Cochrane St. City brick, all fitted up with toilets and sinks in each tenement; ground rent only twenty dollars per month; one house on Belvidere Street, fitted up with all modern improvements, suitable for two tenements or can be made to suit one family; one house about two miles from the city; other properties too numerous to mention. Terms of payment made easy. Apply to

WILLIAMS-BARRETT.
 Marriage of Miss Hattie Williams of Trinity Bay, and Mr. Alexander Barrett, son of Mr. Barrett of this town, was solemnized at St. Peter's Church, yesterday (Tuesday). The officiating minister was Rev. W. E. R. C. Smith. A large gathering of friends were present, and the ceremony was a most interesting one. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Williams, and the bridesmaids were Misses Williams, Barrett, and Smith. The groom's best man was Mr. Williams, and the ushers were Messrs. Williams, Barrett, and Smith. The ceremony was held at 10 o'clock, and the wedding breakfast was served at 12 o'clock. The bride and groom were accompanied to the altar by their parents and other relatives. The ceremony was a most beautiful one, and the bride and groom were both very happy. The bride wore a beautiful white gown, and the groom wore a dark suit. The wedding breakfast was a most delicious one, and the guests were all very happy. The bride and groom were both very happy, and the ceremony was a most beautiful one.

Fashion Plates.

A DRESSY COSTUME.

3518-3908. Just to prove that Fashion is not all a thing of straight lines and "slip on" styles comes this attractive gown, with its broad vest and "apron" drapery. This is a very unique model and one that may be developed in any of the materials now in vogue. Foulard in one of the new patterns is here combined with crepe. One could have this design in gingham and organdy, or in plain and figured voile.

The Waist Pattern 3518 is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. The Skirt Pattern 3908 is cut in 6 Sizes: 25, 27, 29, 31, 33 and 35 inches waist measure. To make this style for a medium size and of one material will require 6 1/2 yards of 40 inches wide. As illustrated vest, collar, cuffs and drapery will require 2 1/4 yards. The width of the skirt at the foot is about 2 1/2 yards.

TWO separate patterns mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps.

A GOOD SCHOOL DRESS.

3914. The smart collar and long waist effect makes this design very becoming to growing girls. It will develop well in chambray with plaid or check gingham for collar and cuffs, or in serge, or gabardine if a warmer dress is desired.
 The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 4 yards of 33 inch material.
 Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

NOTE:—Owing to the continual advance in price of paper, plates, etc., we are compelled to advance the price of patterns to 15c. each.
