The decessed achieman was born on the 12th of May, 1909, and was consecutivy in the similath year of his age at the inne of his death. He succeeded his father as fourth Earl in April, 1942. His Lordship's family was elevated to the peerage in 1756. The de-ceased, who does not appear to have taken a very conspicatous part in public affairs, will be succeeded id bis fittles and estates by Henry Bentinck Viscount Boyle. change in the formation and mode of action in the committee so as to give it a broader basis.

Mr Drake moved that the report be adopted, and together with the rules, objects and constitution of the Society, with a list of the subscriptions and docations, be printed. He congratulated the Society on its progress and was sure that their co.operation in the good work would be of very great advantage, as their efforts would only be of a spasmodic obstracter otherwise. They must rely entirely on the exertions of members, and he hoped they would soon be able to free themselves from outside help. The schools and various objects connected with them, the Indian missions and the support of the Church generally, were objects worthy the greatest exertions on the part of all. Rev Dean Cridge could only re-echo Mr

Drake. The meeting to-day had an air of business about it, and the well known character of the gentlemen present was an eargest of future success. The Society was not likely to fail in its objects, as its base was on a rock as firm as that on which the Uhurch was built. It was the duty of those in England to send the gospel abroad, but how much more was it the duty of those who were in immediate contact with the people requiring their aid. The progress already made by the Society was encouraging, and he hoped it would continue to progress. He seconded the resolution of Mr Drake. The resolution was then put to the meet.

ing and carried unablimously. His Honor Chief Justice Needham rose to offer the next resolution, to the effect that the Society and the Church generally in this Colony, tenders its warmest thanks to those friends in England who have so generously contributed to the Columbian Mission fund, and it is earnestly hoped that these kind efforts will be continued, so that the various missions established by the Bishop may not be allowed to fail. We were greatly indebted in this Colony to the Columbia Mission fund, which had sent to this Colony between £30,000 and £40,000. It was owing, no doubt, in a great measure, to the high esteem in which our Bishop was held on the other side, that enabled himself and friends to accomplish so much. We had here a wide field for the labors of the Church, and it would be long before we could go alone unaided, and we therefore hoped the Mother Oburch would continue that aid. We expressed our gratitude for past favors with a lively sense of favors to come. The efforts made by the Charch here, were far from discouraging, they had created the skeleton. They had placted Missions that were producing very promising results. The Indian Mis-sion at Cowichan was attended by an average of between 60 and 70 and we had Indian Missions very much larger. We should not talk of the rewards of our labors, but whether Hons Wood and Carrall supported the solution.

Hon Trutch had only to say that in the Lands and Works Department every facility was afforded to any one desiring to obtain information of the nature indicated by the member for New Westminster; maps and plans of every portion of the Colony already surveyed were always open to inspection, He would, however, be glad to have any practicable suggestion on the subject by which such information could be more readily conveyed to intending settlers.

Hon Pemberton-Farmers were very careless in sending in the returns of their stock, &c , hence, it was very difficult to compile statistics for the various portions of the Colony. He would recommend that some mode of enforcing a proper return being made should be instituted. as such statistics would form the most valuable portion of the information to be afforded to intending settlers.

Hon Alston would recommend, in view of some system for obtaining the necessary statistics being arrived at, that a pamphlet be printed containing all the necessary inform mation, and distributed as might be thought likely to serve the purpose proposed.

Hon Holbrook-Immigrants would soon be coming by the overland route, hence not by Victoria; an office should be established on the Mainland with all the necessary facilities for placing such information at the disposal of the public. Hon Helmcken-Immigrants were mythin

PAID MEMBERS. Hon Humphreys moved that his Excellency the Governor be respectfully asked for the Returns of monies paid to elected or selected members of the Legislative Councils of British Columbia, since their formation, and to whom paid. He thought the information would be useful and instructive in any future measure the Government might think fit to take in the matter.

Hon Helmcken hoped the House would not vote in any shape or way for such retures.

Hon Robson-A great deal had been said both inside and outside the House on the subcontained the usual amount of misrepresentations. It might be said that such a resov lution involved a leeling against a member who was absent, but that was not sufficient reason, as that member would be placed in a proper position by the production of these returns

Bon Carrail-The information was rendered necessary in consequence of the rancour which had been created by the debate on the subject on Friday night last and the manner in which certain gentlemen had been villified by the press ; they were styled blood suckers and so forth; he thought the information should be granted; he would support the resolution.

Hon Ring supported the resolution.

Hon Crease would like to see the resolution withdrawn; if hon members were affected by what appeared in the public press they were thinner skinned than the members connected with the Government. He did not see that the resolution would do any practical good ; he had been in many Councils and had always seen a request such as he then made complied with; be again begged the hon member to withdraw his resolution. Hon Humphreys was not very thin skinged, he pressed his resolution on public grounds

Hon Ball had never heard any complaints as to irregularity of the steamer's trips; he knew she always accommodated her movements to the despatch of the Cariboo mails.

Hon Helmcken-The motion was en tirely out of order; the item for the contract referred to had been duly considered in its turn when the Estimates were before the House and the subject could not be re-opened.

Hon Young must rule the motion out of order; the House had expressed its opinion upon the subject already.

Hon Holbrook moved that a sum be recommended to be allowed for the convey ance of the mails per steamer between New Westminster and Yale.

Hon Ball-If there was any grievance in the matter it must be redressed by the contractor who carried the mail between those points; the Government had nothing to do with the steamers as the contractor subsidized them.

CENTURIES . ago a wise man wrote. "there is nothing new under the sun." Individual experience satisfies most of us that this is in general true. Much may be new to individuals that is not new in reality. If we carefully analyze that which is put forth in the world today as new and original, we find that it has only the semblance of novelty, not at hand from whom to obtain writs. the reality. It is made up of many things which in their individual forms are old and familiar. A new idea contains after all merely the elements of old familiar bygone thoughts. The combination alone is new, the elements themselves are not. Society, education, habits and surroundings combine to form men's ideas on most subjects. When we ponder over a matter that interests us, we may arrive at what we may be pleased to call a new idea, but if we go back to all the varied sources from which we have derived our information respecting it, and restore to them severally the fragments of thought we draw from them, we often find nothing remaining with the real impress of originality upon it. Newspaper writers are seldom in a position, particularly when discussing questions of public importance, to advance anything that is really new in itself or to make suggestions purely original. On public questions, a journal ist should seek to represent the sound views of the thinking portion of the commanity. To do this faithfully he must needs discuss such questions with many. When the time for writing arrives, the writer finds that the well-considered plan he is about to develop is not his own. It is the result of many, perhaps widely different suggestions from numerous persons, and so all claim to originality on his part is extinguished. Like the preacher or the lecturer he often does no more than give shape and expression to ideas that in a vague and nudefined shape have been present at some time to the minds of many of his readers. His best schemes for political reforms are merely new applications of old and well known princip'es. Our Sunday morning cotemporary charges us with plagiarism. He asserts, substantially, that the scheme for remodeling the County Courts which we unfolded in two articles recently published in our columns, is claimed as an original one by us-while he says, in point of fact, it is an original one of his. The first point is not asserted in the articles referred to, and is willingly dis-Mr. Bates performed his part remarkably mit that the scheme may have been new to our oo'emporary, but it was not so in reality. We are exceedingly glad to be in a position to say that it is a comparatively old and familiar scheme with many gentlemen of the city who have taken an interest in the question. To them we willingly ac knowledge our indebtedness for many useful suggestions in connection with the matter. The article of our cotemporary merely states in a very bald and concise way what we have advocated more fully. He has mooted a long thought-of reform-and lightly touched upon its principle; we have worked out the details. The result is, neither can claim the merit of originating it ; but we have endeavored to put it in a practical shape. And now, having disposed of the charge against us, we feel bound to say that we are glad our cotemporary differs a little from us as to the details of the measure. He suggests three alterations only-First, he is in favor, of dispensing altogether with the Chief Clerks, Chief Justice's Clerk and one of the three Registrars. Next he is in favor of retaining the Magistrates in office, giving them the position of Deputy or District Clerks; and lastly, he advocates giving them power to hear and adjudicate cases involving sums not exceeding $50. We may say of the whole of these suggestions, that they are not expedient because they could not be carried out without incurring extra expense and disarranging the whole fabrie. As to the first point, it will be remembered that one part of the duty of Registrars, as proposed by us, is to act as Registrars of Titles. Now this can be done properly only by professional men, and one must reside for that purpose at New West-minster, the other at Victoria. A world ! third, therefore, is absolutely necessary for the Cariboo District. A Chief Clerk for each Court is also indispensable, because the numerous duties that would otherwise fall upon the Registrars, such as registrars of titles. taxing costs, registers of Joint Stock Companies, etc., could not be efficiently performed by them. There whereas our proposition is to appoint being gifted with ubiquity, could not be in more than one place at a time, and the convenience of suitors requires that they should always have a Deputy plicate the system ; and further, that intricate points may as easily arise in a case involving a small amountas in one for a larger sum. A wrong decision in a case of $50 may as much affect & poor man as an erroneous judgment on a $5000 transaction may inof yesterday contains a communication from a suitor in a County Court of the Colony, who considers himself aggriev. ed. If the facts of his case be as stated by him, the instance affords ample ground for the above objection. We are as anxious as our cotemporary that the expenditure of the as a due regard to the public service will pay them well, amalgamate offices so as to give them plenty to do, and by careful supervision see that they do their work. In conclusion, a word or two as to compenaating retiring officers. We put the mat er in the alternative: Either give them other offices, such as we suggested, or compensate them by lands and money. We do not advocate compensation unless the change cannot be made without it. If compensation must be made, then, we repeat, let it by the gift of lauds or money, or by giving them such positions as we suggested. To offer them Deputy Registrarships in rural districts, as our cotemporary proposes, would savor of insult to men who have occupied the exalted and responsible positions of Judges. Wednesday, Feb 3

THE THEATRE-Last evening, before a full house, Shakespeare's beautiful tragedy of Romeo and Juliet" was successfully presected, the leading actors making most happy impressions upon the minds of the audience, who frequently interrupted the performance with loud and long-continued applause. In relation to the playing of Mrs Bates, we increase in admiration with each change of character. Her conception of the role of Juliet is perfect; her intonation and gestures convey the true meaning of the poet's verse

Eight thousand natives are said to have been killed. As no particulars have arrived, it is not known how much credence can be attached to these rumors. The British Admiral, who is one of the most noted officers for gallantry in the navy, has evidently determined to settle matters at Formosa, and there is no doubt there has been a heavy engagement.

MINERAL LANDS BILL.

Hon Crease-There were so many alterations and amendments in committee to the bill as it now stood that he thought it prudent to withdraw the bill in order to add and arrange the amendments, when it would be re-submitted to the committee.

Hon Helmeken-It would be better to fix the price first, and then the bill could be withdrawn as desired.

Hon Carrall proposed that the price of the first 1000 acres should be one dollar, for the next 500 acres two dollars, and for the remaining 1000 acres or any less quantity five dollars per core for coal lands; patents for grants to be issued as soon as the payments were made.

Hon Young suggested that the first hundred acres should be one dollar, second hugdred two dollars, third bundred three dollars, fourth bundred four dollars, and fifth hundred five dollars, at which price it would continue up to the limits of the quantity allowed to a company. Hon Alston concurred in the opinion that five dollars per acre should be charged for the first 1000 acres and ten dollars per acre for the remaining 1500 acres. He conferred to being influenced by the petition on the subject which had been before that House, but since the remarks which had fallen from an hon member in relation to the petition he had been deprived of that sheet anchor, as he felt with the Council that the petition was valueless.

Hon Helmcken proposed five dollars per acre for the lee simple, without any Government supervision.

Hon Trutch moved that five dollars per acre should be charged for the first 1000 acres and ten dollars for all above 1000 acres and ten dollars for all above 1000 acres up to 1500, or 2500 in all; provided that if the company have expended $10,000 beneficially during the period of prospecting, then the Government to give a free grant of Hon Helmcken proposed the prices should be $2 50 and $5 in lieu of $5 and $10 respectively, in the above motion.

REDUCTION OF DUTY ON WHEAT.

Hon Holbrook brought forward a resolution recommending that the duty on wheat be reduced to 15 cents per 100lbs. The ment be recommended to appropriate $250 present rate of duty on wheat was most anomalous because manufactured flour did not pay a proportionate amount of duty. He would demonstrate that very simply, for agement would be given to home manufacture, a most important consideration in good government.

Hon Ring proposed an amendment that wheat should be admitted duty free.

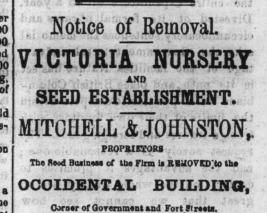

Hon Drake moved the previous question, which, after some discussion, was carried Hon Drake moved that the Governor be equested to send down an Ordinance altering the duty on spirits manufactured in the Colony, from $1 to 50 cents a gallon. and to amend the Excise Ordinance. Distillers desired to make their spirits from barley, which would give a great impetus to agricul-ture on the Island, but they found that they could not get more than $2 per gallon for their spirits when manufactured, and as the actual cost was one dollar, and the duty one dollar, there was no margin left for profit, hence they would be compelled to stop the manufacture; but if the duty was reduced to 50cts they would be enabled to compete with manufacturers on the other side, who only paid 50cts a gallon duty.

Hon Heimcken supported the motion as, if we don't supply the whiskey the Ameri-cans will do it for us, and we may just as well have the money from this source as our neighbors. It would be better to reduce the daty on our own liquor, than be forced to en-gage a large staff of Custom house officers in preventing the contraband trade from the shures of Paget Sound, Hons Davie, Robson, Carrall and Havelock spoke in favor of the motion, and hons Crease and Trutch against ; on division, the resoution was carried. Ayes, 10; noes, 7.

The balcony scene was charmingly rendered, and the last scene of the fifth act, where tragedy runs riot, and a hecatomb of victime is sacrificed, was delineated well and with thrilling effect. He came lately from the States, was received into society as a most eligible young gentleman, joined the church, sang in the choir, drank tes and ate rolls with the old ladies, and played oroquet with the young, and finally succeeded, by his many fascinations, in winning and marrying a lovely girl of one of the fine families. The wedding was celebrated with great eclat, and the bride received earnest congratulations on possessing the affections of such a wonderful husband. Sometimes he would spend the evening in a private parlor where he would charm them with his entertaining graces, and soon after his leaving, the lady of the house would miss a bandsome gold watch; in other houses where he called or dined, choice things of value, such as card receivers, papkin rings. fancy inkstands, etc., would magically disappear about the time that he would, until the was caught in larger stealing operations, and every one had to acknowledge that he abso-intely had the most 'taking' ways in the ders, Carrall, Humpbreys, Hamiy, O Reilly, Alston, Trutch, Crease, Wood, Bell, Davie, Drake, Pemberton, Young (presiding.) Hon Walkem introduced a protest against the adoption of the resolution as passed on Friday last relative to payment of members, on the ground that two of the members elect had voted in favor, when they were personally interested.

Hon Crease thought it right to say that although he voted for the resolution as passed. it did not meet the views he had always entertained and had expressed yesterday in the House, against commercing the practice, of having paid members. What he sheuld like to see was, that such a liberal allow-ance should be given to the up-country members onlyf, or travelling expenses, as such allowance would be of material assist-ance to them while giving their time and brains to the country. It was proposed at such a late hour and in the midst of so much confusion that there was no opportunity of changing the resolution into such a shape as would more nearly express what he thought was right and just under the circumstances of the case. As to the protest, he should vote against it, as it proposed to make a prece-dent, that anything besides the legal impedi-ments under the Orders in Council or the Orders of the House, should prevent any member from voting upon any subject. Hon Holbrook protested against the pro-test placed on the books by certain members in relation to the Urown Salaries; no proceeding having taken place to which the protest could be referred, it should not consequently have been received. A most amusing discussion ensued, during which several members attempted to speak day. Meesrs H P Walker and L Lowenberg at once. A vote was ultimately taken, serieatim, as to whether the protests should be confirmed.

and they were all equally deserving. Hon Ball-Such associations should be supported by public subscription ; af the exibition at Yale they collected $700 or $800 in a little community like that; and he thought in a town like this, with a large population, they should not ask the assista of Government.

Hon Wood-The Government should encourage associations having for objects the establishing of our superiority for particular descriptions of produce, as Barley, Hops, Fruit, &c. He was sure if our advantages in that respect were better known we should not be long without population.

WERKLY COLONIST CHRONICLE. AND

British Colonis Weekly AND CHRONICLE. Saturday, February 6, 1869

The respectfully-worded and numerously-signed memorial presented to his Excellency the Governor yester. day, which prays that the Government may be pleased to direct the immediate opening of a trail to the Blg Bend, Kootensy and Perrie Creek diggings via Eagle Pass, is entitled to favorable consideration. From the American side we hear of crowds of miners from Montana and Oregon gathering on the frontier awaiting the return of Spring to cross; of merchants and packers with heavy stocks forming depots for their goods at the inland towns of Oregon and Washington Territory, preparing to transport stocks across the frontier at the first break-up of winter to possess themselves of the rich traffic which must naturally arise from the influx of a mining population of several thousands to the new diggings. To the centre of these new mines-though more distant than ourselves-the Americans ties on the American continent might have a good, well-travelled trail. For not imitate the example of the Zollverein two or three years they have enjoyed of the German States." the cream of this Kootenay business, leaving only the skim-milk for our colonists. True, a circumlocutionoffice sort of trail was opened by our Government, which wound around Osoyoos Lake and Fort Shepherd, and through American territory; but that was before the practicability of the Eagle Pass, was demonstrated by the Hndson Bay Co. A road opened through this pass would save many miles of travel and enable goods from British Columbia to reach the heart of the diggings in advance of goods from the other side, A few thousand dollars would open the new route and the revenue derived from the increased not quite reimburse Government for the entire expenditure within a year. Divested of its formal phrases and circumlocutory sentences the memorial asks the Government to take advantage of the facilities Nature has set in its path and place British Columbians in a position to compete within the limits of their own territory with tcreign traders and foreign goods. The request surely is a reasonable one ; and the advantages it promises to confer on the whole Colony are so eat that we cannot see how any but a favorable answer can be returned. It may be urged in some quarters that $100,000 in temporary loans made at 1 per cent. per month,require to be met by this year's revenue; but what class of bondbonders are clamorous for their money? Who has expressed a willingness to part with bonds that bear so bigh a rate of interest as ours? If there be any so silly, we have not heard their names. British Columbia Government bonds are actually in demand to-day in this market at a lower rate of interest than that paid on the temporary loans; and were the Government to fund the debt, say for seven years instead of paying it off, it would experience no difficulty in disposing of its bonds immediately at 10 per cent. Thus 2 per cent. per annum would be saved, and the possession of sufficient funds ensured for the next seven years to intersect the Colony with roads and give employment to hundreds of laborers. There is not the slightest shadow of a reasonable excuse why work upon the Eagle Pass trail should not be commenced forthwith. Money is plentiful, the rivers are open, and the weather is so mild that trailcutters can the summer season. THE exact position of reciprocal relations between the United States and Cana, as seen by our neighbors, is set forth in the accompanying extracts from Mr Secretary McCulloch's report to Congress :- " Since the abrogation of the treaty of June 4, 1854, between the United States and Canada, no favorable opportunity for a reconsideration of the commercial relations of the two countries has been presented. Canada has yet to consolidate a political confederation with the other English colonies and possessions on this continent, and until the hostility of Nova Scotia to that measure is removed, and the concurrence of Northwest British America is secured, the authorities of Ottawa are in no situation to make an adequate proposition to the United States, in exchange for the great concession. for an exceptional tariff, on our northern frontier, in favor of leading Canadian staples. On the other hand, until the United States shall have fully matured a system of duties, external as well as internal, the Secretary would be indisposed to favor any special arrangement which would remove any material lative control. -Meanwhile, a Canadian policy for the enlargement of the Welland and St Lawrence canals to dimensions adequate to pass vessels of one thousand tons burden from the upper lakes to the Atlantic, will doubtless be regarded by the Secretary as warranting an authoritative comparison of views between the revenue system of the respective countries make their markets mutually available, render the frontier as nearly an imaginary line as possible. There certainly seems no just reason why all communi-

In a subsequent part of the same debate, an amendment being offered touching the quantity of land to be allowed companies mining for silver and the baser metals other than coal, he was referred to the petition which he had just endorsed, when he glibly replied that that document was no authority, as he had positive proof that some of the persons signing-for example Mr Barnard and Mr Nelson-had affixed

To retain this traffic for London, Mr Waddington proposes to construct a road through British North America. The book embodies a part of the able paper read by the author before the Royal Geographical Society, where his views were well received by the leading statesmen and commercial men of the United Kingdom. Accompanying the book is a colored map with the route proposed to be followed laid down, from which it would appear that Mr Waddington pronus of the road. The book may be had at Hibben & Co's.

you word. Scientific men have mooted the idea. and Sir Roderick Murchison favors it. that these recent discoveries have unfolded the site of the Ophir of Holy Writ which is supposed to have been at or near Sofala. Certain it is that there are traces where some of the miners have at present been engaged, of mining having been very ancient and extensively carried on, and according to report the ruins of the city itself have been found. Indeed, old books of travel allude to the existence of these ruins, so that it is no new discovery any more than the existence of the precious metals are. The chief difficulty which the scientific fraternity experience in asserting positively that Solomon's ships brought their treasures from South Alrica and not from Arabia, India or Abyssinia (whence the Queen of Sheba came) as various authorities have from time to time contended, lies in the fact that they are said to have brought "Peacocks' feathers." whereas, peacocks belong to the Ind, and not to Southern Africa. We have ivory per. and apes in abundance (the latter being common to most countries), and so far as the huge "Almug trees" of which Solo mon made the pillars of the Temple, are concerned, they argue that there is good reason for supposing that these were none other than "Ebony trees," which are said to grow in Moselekatzes country to an enormous size. Sir Roderick, I believe, surmounts the peacock difficulty by assum ing that in the original no distinction was known between ostrich and peacock feathers Let Hebrew scholars admit, he says, that the words were synonymous. and everything else that we glean from the 10th chap. of the Book of Kings coincides with r cent developments, and points to the Sofala of South Eastern Africa as the place that Solomon's ships traded to for the treasures of Ophir. am writing from memory and cannot recall the name of the first Lord of the Admiralty who controlled the Naval the following reply :--- "No-householders-Department, but the time the ships took debt free-three times the amount-defendant Department, but the time the ships took would also favor the supposition that they must have gone a greater distance than heretofore supposed. Herain, (that was the name of the Royal Controller) sent his navy to Ophir every three years. I conclude my comments on the gold fields by enclosing the particulars of an assay of a piece of quartz made by the assayers to the Bank of England, showing 1185 ounces of gold and 60 ounces of silver to the ton, but the knowing ones are not misled by such startling figures. It is an easy matter to select specimens that will assay largely.

The indefatigable and clever old "Waddy" has, I see, made some influential friends at home, and while still monnted on that bucking horse, the "Bute Inlet Scheme," is doing good for your Colony generally. He deserves to succeed, and I hope he may not only get his own restive animal through, but that the "Iron Horse" may soon follow. His capital letter to the COLONIST on his visit to the Circumlocution Office presided over by the Secretary for the Colonies, found its way into our Colo nial Press.

I hope Messrs H. and L. both enjoyed their risit to the centres of civilization on the Atlantic, and that, under their careful and judicious management the COLONIST, which has outlived the stormy days of opposition and competition, may prove sufficiently remunera-tive to enable them to take periodical holidays of a similar nature. Legal Interest.

EDITOR COLONST :--- If I err in saying that in the absence of any special agreement as to the rate of interest, it is fixed by the law in this Colony at 15 per cent per annum, some one of your readers learned in the law will I hope correct me.

In a case recently tried before Mr Sanders, at Clinton, he decided that the creditor had a right to fix the rate of interest at 3 per cent per month, and that the half yearly charge of interest in current accounts furnished to the debtor, was legal evidence of a contract. This I take to be a sample of British Columbian law. The defendant gave notice of appeal and named two sureties residing in the locality the constable at Clinton telegraphed to his Worship at New Westminster and received to pay telegrams." There is another illegal decision; the law says double the amount is sufficient, and surely the defendant is not to pay for telegrams rendered necessars, by the absence of the magistrate. The meaning of the telegram is simply this: The law says you may appeal, but I say no! Illegality is law in this favored district.

A MAN SHOT AND KILLED BY HIS OWN Son .- A terrible shooting affair occurred in Chebalem Valley, Yambill county, Oregon, recently, which resulted in the death of Mr Matthe w Hall, by the hands of his own son, Presley Hall. We copy the particulars as far as learned from the Portland Commercial: "The father and son, it seems, had had very high words early in the morning, when the old gentleman ordered the son to leave the com, which he shortly did, and was soon followed by the father. A few minutes after a gun shot was heard, an I soon after another. The wife of Mr Hall then rushed into the sleeping department of a hired man, who had not yet risen, and exclaimed that James, the son, had shot and killed his father. The man sprang from his bed, jerked on his trousers, and had just reached the front door when he met Matthew Hall, who came staggering in, and expired in his arms. At last accounts, the son was in the hands of the officers, and had been committed to jail to await his trial. This is a terrtble shock to the community. DIAMOND, GOLD-THE ANCIENT OPHIS. The subject most canvassed here a present are the continued discovery of valuable diamonds, an indisputable factbut which, strange as it may appear, attracts but little attention abroad, and indeed among the majority of the colonists themselves; since the researches are confined to the natives-and the existence of gold fields some distance up the interior-The latter caused some sensation at first. but the excitement, like most other gold fevers, has considerably subsided. I see you have alluded to the Victoria Gold Fields in the COLONIST, and I should have sent you some account of them long ago, only the information regarding them has been, and still is, so indefinite that I have been waiting for something more substantial to found my statements upon. Dr. Livingstone was the first to point out the existence of an auriferous tract of country in the region referred to; but a German explorer, one Herr Manch, subse-quently visited the locality, and his re ports were so glowing that a few adventurous characters immediately started for the New El Dorado. Several exploring parties, properly organized, have since we can barely hazard an opinion of the value of the discovery ; suffice it to say that at present we are not told of allovial diggings being found, and only know that numerous gold bearing quartz reefs have the steamer Emma, from surveying the ship been noticed, some of which are reported Great Pacific at Utsalady, W.T. They re- to be very rich. To one who has had port that the vessel received severe straining any experience in a gold country it is on the trip up from San Francisco to Puget somewhat amusing to see the eagerness with which some sanguine spirits are determined to brave all obstacles and difficulties, and rush up to the land of promise to make their "pile"-as if quartz reefs could be made to disgorge their treasures as easily as a clam bed at low water. How did you leave them, and B-----p, the lawyer I used to meet at B-x-n's Hotel, and ----Well, 1 needn't repeat the whole of our conversation, but what surprised Capt Jane (for that was his name) the most was when I told him I was then a proprietor of the COLONIST and handed him a file to read. We became chums, and the court found that the abandonment and destruction of the vessel and cargo was occasioned by no default of the Master or bis officers but by the spontaneous ignition of the coals laden on board. Since then numbers of similar cases have occurred, and some think the heat of last summer in England caused the coal shipped to be so gaseous and inflam. mable. Beyond Dr Seddall, R E, whose name I have mentioned in previous letters, I have not come across any other Pacific face or acquaintance in this Colony. The other day, while seated in my office, a tall good looking Commissariat officer walked in and claimed my acquaintance. He said he had been told by his brother, who had been at Vancouver Island, to look out for a Mr -----, who was somewhere at the Cape, but the only directions be could give him were that he was an amateur actor and a jolly good fel ow. His own name was Rushton, he said, and from the directions given him there could be no doubt that I was the man he was looking for. Of course I 'caved in' at once, as there was no disputing the description.

The child died, David arose and accepted the situation. In this way we have been obliged to accept the situation ; not because we like it, but because we cannot work miracles, and earthly means have been exhausted. If the gentleman means "Have I accepted a situation ?' I answer, ' No. In August last Sir John A. McDonald offered me a seat in the Cabinet, with £1,500 a year. Quebec papers say the Canadian Government is endeavoring to exclude entirely the French language. Many accounts have been returned from Ottawa because they were written in French. THE MINING BILL 'Drags its slow length along' in the Council. Yesterday hon Mr Alston, speaking for the Government in the course of a few remarks in opposition to an amendment offered by a popular member ber, said he felt pain in stating that the mining petition had been invalidated by the member from New Westminster, who had declared that it was signed by parties who had never read it ! The remark fell like a pall upon the Council; and the guilty member, who so far as he can, has dug the grave of popular measures, hung his head and had never a word to say in reply. The cardinal points of the bill were completed yesterday, and it was referred back to the Attorney General to be 'put into shape.' Mr Crease will have difficulty in recognizing his own child.

Its unrivalled excellence for couples and colds, and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary disease, have made it known throughout the civil-ized nations of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among them who have not some personal experience of its effects - some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the suble and dangerous disorders of the throat and langs. Hon Wood could not allow the observations of the hon member who had just resumed his seat, to pass unanswered, as he had spoken in disparagement of the system of free education which formerly existed on this Island; although he intended to give the Bill his support, he differed in one point from the hon gentleman who brought it forward. Whether the local rate, which really meant the same thing, he thought it a public duty to educate the paople. What he objected to was that certain of the committee, not that he expected to be successful, but in order to see who were the friends of the system.

In the United States there were no grants to denominational schools; they had school rates applicable to Hon Helmeken did not rise to oppose the this particular purpose. We cannot The education proposed to be afforded at set ourselves up to be wiser than the these schools did not go far enough, it only designed to track the mere rudimente; at present the colony could not afford to do better. What they must think of now was were vicious in principle. Free schools must recollect the small number of people Ball, Drake, O'Reilly, Pemberton, existed in Var couver Island, but they and the small amount of money that was to had proved a complete failure, the spare. As far as Vancouver Island was machinery was defective and within a concerned, free schools proved a failure because the Government did not give the money voted; the school system must fail going back to what was dead and baried, and the tombstone the hon proposer of the the grant. The teachers are, and bill had tried to erect enunciated that Gov-always were, dissatisfied both with the ernment free schools was a failure. The board machinery was the old tale over again; his experience of Boards was, that as so that the people may be enabled to cation are supposed by the public to shoulders of one or two individuals huwever; competent they may be for the duties they not say, neither the Board nor the entirely omit to attend to them. He would Government have been in anywise to propose that the Board be strack out; the blame. That act is a failure necessars Governor in Council was the proper head of ily from the inherent viciou-ness of a system of education because he could be made responsible. Boards bad no responsibility. Government was as well able to take care of the school funds as a Board, and as well able to appoint school teachers and to attend generally to the supervision as a Board. To give the power into the hands of a Board was to give the Government an excuse for neglecting education, thus the Government skirks its duty. The Government could manage everything connected with education more cheaply than a Board, and keep the accounts without expense to the colony at all. One of the officials could attend for carrying out the spirit of the Act. $10,-000 was the whole amount appropriated for schools. A superintendent would have to be ap. pointed, who would have to visit all the schools once in every year; he would have to go nearly to Cariboo and all over the Colony. The superintendent's salary and traveling expenses would be about $2000, or one-fifth of the en. tire sum appropriated for the support of Education throughout the country. For that sum two or three schoolsmasters might be provided. They would be able to judge from that whether it would not be better te do without a special superintendent. Government has paid officers all over the country who might be made to enquire into school matters and report to the Government. They could examine into the cause of all complaints. Government could depute a half-dozen of its officers to examine as to the working of the lish, such as reading and writing and the first local Boards, whose duty it would be to see rules of arithmetic. Of course those seeking a the schools properly carried on. The local Boards were elective, and would take a great interest in the scheme. As to the appoint-ment of nine members to the Central Board, he did not see where they could be taken from, as they could not be expected to come all the way from the extremes of the Colony. grant was placed upon the Estimates He did not see that the bill would do better and hence by means of taxes or by a for them than the free school system. There for them than the free school system. There were 425 children in the entire Colony; and if they paid one dollar each, that would not amount to much ; but from that amount they must except those who could not pay, and who must attend charity schools. Hon members must see how such a system would fail in rural districts, where they could not calculate on more than twenty children, particularly

The people were not so thin-skinned as one hon member had stated; children had been admitted free to schools where he had been, and did not think it any degredation. He hoped they were not going to make this a great question of education, but that they would decide what was best for the Colony.

Hon Walkem-The Free School system would apply better to this Colony than to any other place that he knew of ; he did not think gentlemen could make the present bill work, as boards were always failures. It was always the case with any Boards that had come within his experience however great their capital; many instances could be named where companies that would otherwise be successful languish simply for want of attention on the part of the Directors. A Board would have nothing to sacrifice; they would take the whole burden of Education to let it fall into confusion for want of attention. But even with the prospect of such a result he did not think a Board could be found. Governa ment should be answerable for such a thing as this. It is well known that there are many children on this Island who are peculiarly situated as far as parentage is concerned, and unless some system can be created to admit of their being educated free they would never be educated at all. The best thing would be to give these poor creatures the means of providing for themselves by giving them a good education.

Hon Davie would go with the provisions of the bill as far as possible, but as it stands it would certainly prove a failure. The Metchon sin road was twenty miles long, and he did not see how such a district could be provided with schools, as the parents, principally farmers, had not cash enough to provide themselves with common necessaries, as the road was in such a state that they could not bring their produce to market. Education should be compulsory, and a general system involving that provision would be the best.

Hon Drake had listened to the objections adduced against the bill, and these he had reduced to two In the first place, it was the question of Boards. He thought that objection might be obviated by the addition of 3 or 4 members of the Government to assist at their deliberations. Such an arrangement would secure to this House the right to call for returns, and would ensure the administra. tion of the system unexpensively. It would be necessary to arm the Board with power to enforce the rate if necessary. The unquestionable duty of everyone was in the support and dvancement of education. There was not a single district in this Colony where persons of education could not be found who would undertake the instruction of the young of the district ; the of 20 or 25 dollars per month was a great consideration to them, and for that they could instruct the young in the early part of the day and give all the attention necessary to their farms afterwards. All that would be required would be the instruction of the young within a radius of four or five miles in the rudimentary branches of Engmore liberal education would be sent to the public schools. The Government aid must be confined to the extent of the public funds appropriated for that purpose; he hoped the time might come when the funds applicable to such a purpose would only be measured by the requirements for educational purposes, and those of the most liberal character. The Colony was still in its infancy; it was true there were faults to be found with Boards, but present circumstances rendered them neces. sary, and he at least would bow to the desires of his constitutents. One or two of the clauses of the bill might be more liberal, but the amendment of such faults might be left to a future time and the whole bill could be amend. ed or improved as the nature of the period would indicate. Hon Robson-The bill, under all the circumstances, was very creditable to the gen, tlemen who had drawn it up. The complaints

move an amendment when the bill was in district a school; the bill provides for that but in education he should not recommend more than the infusion of a certain number of officials on the Board ; they would form a connecting link between the grantor and the grantee of the funds. He did not bellere in the free school system, under that system lurked the lack of self reliance. He supported the bill because it supplies a uniform system so necessary in all countries. He never wished to see the Governor in Council precluded from giving aid to denominational schools; many people object to send their children to God. less schools where God and religion was excluded. The bill was a sort of compromise that he felt sad and humiliated to contemplate as confessing the necessary of excluding religion.

Hon Pemberton suggested the addition of some arrangement by which the advantages of a reformatory might be combined with instruction. Hon Holbrook supported the bill, but he regretted the absence of aid to denominational schools; religion was a necessary education.

Hon Alston felt glad the objections few.

the voluntary system because the poor schoolmaster might get the one half from the Government, but he would find it very hard to get the other half from the farmers-perhaps he would never get it. He would allow the salaries in proportion to the districts, because listle defects might easily be removed in comthe schoolmaster in town would be able to get the half from all his scholars ; and they would always exceed in number those of the country schoolmaster. Then the schoolmaster in the rural districts might be quite as well educated do better, having poorer scholars. By ar-ranging the salaries to suit the districts, it would give the schoolmaster an interest in the attendance of the scholarst There was nothing in the bill by which the payment of fees could be enforced, as it was entirely a voluntary system. The bill would not succeed in its present form ; either Government must pay the whole expense of education, or the lowl Boards must be empowered to collect the fees. Perhaps the alterations would be better mada in Select Committee. Hon Carrall said he would support the bill before the House; he was in favor of free schools; but the free school system was a failure in this Colony. The grant for the whole Colony was only the amount which had previously been granted for Vancouver Island slone. There were a great number of applications for school grants, and the present bill gave them the best way of getting out of these applications. He did not think the free school system would be applicable to the Mainland; and the idea of placing the management in the hands of Government and officials would not work, as he did not think the members of the Government took much interest in the subject; their seats were all empty; a Board would therefore be nenessary, AGovernment member had said that he did not care for public opinion as expressed in the public journals-then, what effect would the representations of popular members in that House have upon him i

If the Board was deemed impracticable, the management of public instruction should be placed in the Department of Lands and Works. He was sure the Chief Commissioner would that should be sought. To allow clergymen take the fostering care of any system of Edto visit the schools to discuss religious matacation which might be decided upon into ters with the pupils would be to inaugurate a his charge, as he would take great pleasure in teaching the young idea how to shoot. It behoved the Councel to make the $10,000 go Hon Orease would support the second read-ing of the bill. The Government could not as far as possible. He was not a parent-but he did not know how soon he might be qualified for that position:

Hon Havelock supported the bill as the most ance in supporting the common school feature practicable measure at present. He would of the bill which left out religious instruction; limit the grants to schools in proportion to he conceived that education without religion the number of children. Where a school was was in many cases worse than ignorance. He desired, the bill offers assistance to those who had no wish to allude to the subject as a matdesired, the bill offers assistance to those who desire to help themselves. The system of free schools was impossible in new countries; he was in favor of such a system where it was possible to adopt it; but the present state of our finances does not permit us to carry out the free school system. He did not see with that system how they could give to every instance in connection with a Board of Health; for want of a common school system through out the Colony were very general, and the importance of the subject of education entitled this bill to support. He cordially agreed with the main features of the measure, and any mittee. He did not see why Boards should be deemed unnecessary, on the other hand, the bill did not empower the local Boards to enforce the payment of rates, which he thought a very great defect. Local Boards must be clothed with power to raise taxes in any way for the purposes of education, and he recom-mended before all the imposition of a tax on real estate as the best mode of raising the necessary funds. In Nanaimo, for instance, the great bulk of the property belonged to a wealthy company in England and it would be a great hardship if the Local Board, by such non-residence, were unable to raise the necessary funds. In relation to remarks of hon member opposite (hon Wood), he would say that there was not a free school in Canada; the understood system in Canada was opposed to free schools; it was true legislation in Can nada tended towards free schools in a restricted sense and also to make them compulsory they legislated there on the principle of help. ing those who helped themselves. To throw free education open to everyone was a serious priaciple, it caused people to forget the ad. vantages that were bestowed on them and rendered the parents careless as to the attendauce of the children at school. There could be no doubt that making the parents pay one-half the cost of educating their children was the true principle. The bill before them took up that ground with a little elasticity to meet the requirements of the Colony. He did not think a farmer could teach school; schoolteaching was a profession like the law or physic. There were objections to a Central Board, but he would give the Local Board power to hold the property of the schoels, and the Central Board could thus be dispensed with. He did not think the common schools was the place to impart religious instruction; it was in the Church or Sunday-school where
