MUST RETURN THE $1000

JOHNSON AND HEWITT HAD NO INTENTION, SAY THE JURY.

Justice Falconbridge Has Something to Say Respecting Various Phases of the Case, and Suggests That an Investigation Would Probably Bring Out Important Facts.

It took the jury exactly forty minutes to find a verdict for the plaintiff for the full amount claimed in the writ brought by John Inglis against A. T. Johnson and A. L. Hewitt to recover $1000, advanced by plaintiff to the defendants for alleged influence in securing the contract for the English firm for the engine of the Street Railway Company.

His Lordship in his charge to the jury said: "This case is a somewhat exceptional one, and I am glad that it is so, although I would judge from what transpired in the witness-box yesterday that there may be circumstances where an official investigation would not be out of place. It is very close to the borderland of a class of cases where the plaintiff would not, in law, be enabled to make a complaint. If the contract had been made with the city and Hewitt had been an alderman it would have been a gross immorality when it was made, and the plaintiff, knowing what the money was paid for, could not bring suit. This case is peculiarly close to one like that. Leaving out the illegality of the contract, however, the question for you to decide is whether you believe the plaintiff or the defendants. Unfortunately, there is no independent testimony, Worthick, the agent for the Inglis Company, having died since the negotiations between the parties were opened.

A lamentable state of affairs when a man like Mr. Inglis who, presumably, ought to be able to sell his goods at a fair rate, finds it necessary to pay over a large sum of money for influence to get a contract.

Here His Lordship reads the receipt given by Johnson to Worthick, and continued: Johnson says the word "retainer" is his word; it is a singular word here. One could understand how a man like Johnson, who is a good talker, and probably an original lawyer in his line, might have a retainer in that line. If he understood English one could understand his having a retainer in this case, but he himself says he doesn't. Then what is the retainer for? The document says, "For influence used as agents." Notice the plural, who are the agents? It is suggested by the plaintiff's counsel that it means the defendants. It is fair to Mr. Hewitt to say that he knew nothing of the agreement between Johnson and Worthick; he did not see it until this suit began, Johnson put in Hewitt without his knowledge.

Johnson says he visited Inglis a few times, a very trivial matter, no labor or money was expended. What were they to do? Johnson says nothing, except that and getting Hewitt. Hewitt says he saw Mr. McKensie incidentally, and spoke to him about the contract. It is only fair to Hewitt to say that he was not then an alderman.

The Verdict. His Lordship pointed out to the jury that they might find in $1000 against the defendant Johnson, as he received all the money, or, if they were of opinion to return a verdict for $500 against each, as Hewitt acknowledged receiving that sum, or they might find in $1000 jointly against both defendants. He also pointed out that, if the jury found the payment had relation to the influence of Hewitt as an alderman, that was a corrupt act in law and precluded the plaintiff from recovering.

The jury found against the defendants jointly for the $1000. Stay of proceedings was asked by defendant's counsel and granted. The question of costs was reserved.

HAD NO HOPE OF RECOVERY.

That Was the Doctor's Verdict, But the Patient Is Again As Well As Ever.

The wonderful value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in all cases arising from poor or watery blood, or shattered nerves, is proved by the fact that they cure whatever medicines fail, and in scores of cases restore the patient to health after doctors had said there was no hope of recovery. Such a case is that of Mrs. William Arnot of Buraside Station, Man., who says: "I was very low and weak when I was advised to try your Pink Pills. My system was run down, my blood had turned to water and the doctors who were attending me told me that there was not much hope of my recovery. As the doctors could do nothing for me, I went to Winnipeg for three months. Not getting better I returned home, and was so weak I could hardly move about. I then got six boxes of your Pink Pills, and by the time I had taken four of them I was gaining rapidly. I continued the use of the pills and am now a new person, feeling as well as I did twenty years ago. I have recommended the Pink Pills to many others, and have seen beneficial results from their use in their cases. I cannot recommend them too strongly, and I trust that under God's guidance some other sufferer may find as much benefit as I have derived. Thousands bear equally strong testimony to the great healing powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all dealers, or sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE SANITARY BONDS.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The Treasury Department has issued a circular, inviting sealed proposals, which will be received by the Treasury Department until noon, Nov. 21, 1894, for U. S. 5 per cent. bonds, in either registered or coupon form, dated Feb. 1, 1894, redeemable in coin at the pleasure of the government after 10 years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest payable in coin at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, payable quarterly. Bidders whose proposals are accepted will be required to pay 20 per cent. in gold coin or gold certificates, upon the date of their issue, and to pay in like coin or certificates an additional 20 per cent. at the end of each 10 days thereafter, until the whole is paid. The denominations of the bonds will be $50 and upwards. The total issue of bonds, in pursuance of this notice, will not exceed the sum of $50,000,000.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

Traded a Wife for a Suit of Clothes. Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 13.—In the Police Court this morning Richard Floyd and Dick Almond were arraigned for robbery. Both are residents of Ottawa. Almond is married, and in the evidence brought out it was shown that Almond had sold his wife to Floyd for $15 or its equivalent. A written agreement was signed by both parties. The equivalent consisted of a new suit of clothes, which Almond wore while pleading in the dock.

NEW DEATH REGULATIONS.

Dr. Bryce Reports in Favor of Having All Death Certificates Issued by Municipal Health Officers.

A deputation from the Ontario Undertakers' Association, with Mr. W. B. Callaway of the C.P.R. and Mr. F. J. Slaters of the G.T.R., conferred yesterday with a special committee of the Ontario Board of Health, composed of Dr. Bryce, Governor and Cassidy, on the subject of the transportation and disposal of the dead. The result was that Dr. Bryce formulated a report embodying various reforms, which will be submitted to the Board of Health and afterwards, it is hoped, come into effect as an order in council.

The effect of the proposals will be to do away wholly with the present system of having a body on the certificate of an ordinary practitioner. No corpse will be eligible for burial, or for transportation by railway, unless accompanied by a certificate of death from the Medical Health Officer of the municipality or the district.

These measures will entail some inconvenience at times no doubt, but it is thought that they will provide additional safeguards for the community at large. At the present time in Western Ontario deaths from "chokes in the throat" are too frequent, for instance, and if the new regulations come into effect it will be the duty of the Medical Health Officer to investigate all suspicious certificates and find out whether the death be due to typhoid or some other contagious disease.

It is thought that at the present time many bodies are being buried and transported on trains contrary to the law re contagious diseases, owing to the dishonesty of family doctors.

In the country districts where possibly no health boards exist, it is proposed to obviate inconvenience by empowering the official in the nearest adjoining municipality to issue certificates.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS.

How They View the Fable of the Rich Man and Lazarus.

About three hundred people crowded McMan's Hall, corner College-street and Brunswick-avenue, to listen to the interpretation of the parable of the "Rich Man and Lazarus," as given from a Christian Science standpoint. The speaker, Rev. Isabella M. Stewart, handled the subject, first on the line of the parable being quoted by Jesus to meet a phase of self-righteousness in the Pharisees, whom it was addressed at that time, and second on the line of it being applicable to most just the same condition of poverty, will spend money in order to get elected. Now, let us reflect, and what conclusion do we come to? And yet, everything is as it is allowed to go on year after year, and when a very small portion of wrongdoing is, by the mere accident, discovered, a stir is made, a decision given, everybody is satisfied, and things still go on as before.

Of course, there are many men in the council, all honor due to them, who fearlessly and with honesty, keep to the promise they have made to serve the city faithfully. But do these men form the majority? Are there enough of them in the council to-day to fight the different "cliques" and hold their own?

The whole system is bad. Do away with the aldermen. The city should be in the hands of three commissioners, with the City Engineer under them, the Mayor to be one of the commissioners. The Mayor, of course, would be elected in the usual way. The other two commissioners should be men of independence, of integrity and of means. The city could afford to give such men $5000 per year, and the city would be managed the same as any commercial institution and on a business basis. The sooner this is done the better.

A STANDARD OF HER OWN.

Dr. Bryce Reports in Favor of Having All Death Certificates Issued by Municipal Health Officers.

The last case for the calendar at the Criminal Assizes was reached yesterday, and the presentation of the grand jury will be made when court opens at 11 o'clock to-day. Nell Beaton was acquitted of the charge of burglary; as was William Taylor of indecent assault. Through his solicitor, Mr. H. J. Scott, Q.C., Manager Stair of the Academy of Music asked for a postponement of the action brought against him for alleged exposure of indecent posters, in order that similar posters, displayed in the streets of London, Eng., might be procured as evidence.

Crown Counsel Kerr opposed the motion on the ground that it must set up our own standard of morality and not be governed by what they do in other cities. Chancellor Boyd, however, thought it only just to the defence to grant the stay, and the case was accorded over to the next Assizes.

Queen v. Ruston, rapt, will also stand over to the next court, owing to the absence of material witnesses.

COSTLY DOCTOR $100.

His Busy Shift Knocked Down and Injured An Old Lady.

The Civil Assize jury decided yesterday that Dr. F. A. Campbell must pay Mrs. Agnes Lander, Louisa-street, $100 damages for injuries inflicted by the shaft of the doctor's buggy on March 1. The accident occurred at Yonge and Sherbourne, the old lady being run down by the doctor, who was driving south in Yonge-street.

Emerson Green, a corporation employe, asked for $5000 damages from the Street Railway Co., as compensation for being struck by a trolley at the Union-street subway on Aug. 7. The litigants each accused the other of negligence. The case was given to the jury, but His Lordship reserved to Mr. Laidlaw, the company's solicitor, the right to apply for a non-suit, in case a verdict was given to the plaintiff.

Toronto and Its Civic Government.

Editor World: Has anyone seriously thought over the system of municipal government and of the way the affairs of the city are carried on? Is there any corporation or business firm in this or any other city who would allow its affairs to be managed in a similar way? And does anyone believe that a number of men (some of them far from well-to-do) will give their time so many hours per week for the sole benefit of their fellow citizens? Is this human nature? What is more, some of these men, generally the poorest, will spend money in order to get elected. Now, let us reflect, and what conclusion do we come to? And yet, everything is as it is allowed to go on year after year, and when a very small portion of wrongdoing is, by the mere accident, discovered, a stir is made, a decision given, everybody is satisfied, and things still go on as before.

FROM NORTHERN NORWAY

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY MADE IN THAT FAR-OFF LAND.

The Wonderful Remedial and Nourishing Properties of Cod-Liver Oil—A Priceless Gift From the "Land of the Midnight Sun."

There has been nothing discovered by medical science to take the place of Cod-liver Oil. It is somewhat singular that there should be obtained from the livers of cod-fish, a nourishment and remedial agent which cannot be supplanted by some other food medicine, but, nevertheless, such is the undisputed fact.

How Cod-liver Oil was discovered is not definitely known. It is certain, however, that up in the cold regions of the north the natives long ago made use of all parts of the fish they caught, and that possibly be made available for food, and it is probable that the Lapps of Northern Norway have known the virtues of Cod-liver Oil for a century. They found that in Cod-liver Oil were nourishing powers not possessed by any other food or medicine within their reach, and they were not slow to avail themselves of the benefits of a substance so easy for them to obtain.

About fifty years ago, the medical world in civilized countries became impressed with Cod-liver Oil, and by close observation and experiment, physicians found that Cod-liver Oil could be made a wonderful help to their profession. The result of investigation proved that after fasting, the oil was taken into the system, it became an emulsion, just as milk is an emulsion of butter. This knowledge required twenty years ago in the appearance of Scott's Emulsion, which has now become a world-famed preparation.

Scott's Emulsion has taken the place of Cod-liver Oil, that is in its raw state. Scott's Emulsion and Cod-liver Oil are of course, one and the same thing, except that in Scott's Emulsion the taste of the oil is completely disguised and all the objections advanced by a nervous person with a weak stomach are entirely overcome. Scott's Emulsion saves the digestive organs the work of converting the oil into an emulsion, but it does not result in any unnatural process of digestion and assimilation.

Scott's Emulsion aids the digestion of other foods in the stomach, and is then passed on and assimilated in the natural way. Anything which is either digested or assimilated in an unnatural manner should be taken only on a doctor's prescription.

The endorsement by physicians of Scott's Emulsion is no bombast or buzz combe. In all diseases or unhealthy conditions indicated by excessive wasting, Scott's Emulsion aids medical science more than any other nourishment. Scott's Emulsion helps a dispeptic person by aiding the digestion of other foods, and to a person who is failing in health it gives increased energy and promotes the making of solid flesh and gives vital strength. It enriches the blood, makes new lung-tissue and overcomes all wasting tendencies.

In cases of inflammation of Throat and Lung, Scott's Emulsion has no equal in power to afford quick relief. It cures the most stubborn cough, soothes and cures sore throat, and overcomes all the early stages of consumption.

In the wasting of the vital elements of the blood, Scott's Emulsion is a good food. It is a household name, and is almost useless to refer to Scott's Emulsion as a nourishment for babies and children. The name is a household word in hundreds of thousands of families where there have been thin babies and children who were thin and pale. Scott's Emulsion it insures a healthy growth. Scott's Emulsion is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1. Pamphlet mailed free on application to Scott & Lowe, Belleville.

A New Shortening

If you have a sewing machine, a clothes wringer or a carpet sweeper (all new inventions of modern times), it's proof that you can see the usefulness of our new things.

Is a NEW SHORTENING, and every housekeeper who is interested in the health and comfort of her family should give it a trial. It's a vegetable product and far superior to anything else for shortening and frying purposes. Physicians and Cooking Experts say it is destined to be adopted in every kitchen in the land. This is to suggest that you put it in yours now. It's both new and good. Sold in 3 and 5 pound pails, by all grocers.

IS THEIR HEAVEN NO MORE.

CANADA NO LONGER A REFUGE FOR CROOKS.

History of the Two Extradition Treaties Between England and the United States—Some Interesting Criminal History Recalled—How Card Sharps Fleeced Defenders and Embezzlers.

Detroit, Nov. 12.—During the past ten years, the Canadian Governments have enacted a great many temperance laws which, in a measure, were felt by the hotelkeepers in Windsor; but, when, in 1890, the Parliament at Ottawa entered into an extradition treaty with the United States they dealt a blow at the hotel business in the frontier city that meant the loss of thousands and thousands of dollars. Prior to the passage of this treaty Windsor was the Mecca of the hoodlums and crooks of the United States. At a minimum, a man given in this city every five years ago one of the burnt-cork artists asked the difference between Detroit and Windsor, and the answer was that, while the former was the City of the Straits, the latter was the City of the crooks. And it was even so.

Before the treaty went into force every hotel in the city had its usual quota of guests, who were in Canada seeking rest and repose that the laws then guaranteed them. They were all classes, from the dapper butler and the well-to-do, to the common every day crook who would give a safe or pick a pocket in the most artistic manner. It was an easy matter to pick them out at the hotels, although the aristocratic contingent, which meant embezzlers, defaulter and forgers, for a time after reaching their haven of refuge generally kept under cover. The custom derived from skippers was so large and so lucrative that the hotels and the rooms especially apart for them, and so situated that a stranger had just as much chance of finding them as the united States would have of gaining entrance to a Masonic lodge. The rooms were situated in a part of the house overlooking the river, so that the occupant could at all times have a view of the country that was yearning to receive him back again. In order to gain entrance to this room a couple of others had to be passed through, but in each case of these a sentry was established who gave signs of any approaching danger. The numbers of these rooms never appeared on the register, nor on the call-bell annunciator. It is true the room had the latter accommodation, but the number dropped was a different one than the number of the room. These places of refuge were only for the higher class of sojourners, and while they remained under cover they were not in the least afraid of the law. Many of them soon became more bold and mingled with the rest of their compatriots. Many and many a defaulter has come to Windsor, who, while he was at his home, would shun a burglar, safe blower or pickpocket as he would a leper, and a few weeks become the cronies of some of the worst men in this line.

Misery Loves Company.
It was the old story of misery loving company. Many of the aristocratic class were fleeced by the plebeian contingent of the crook colony who, while they were in acquaintance, would introduce the great American game as a means of winning away the time. Windsor could offer but few attractions, and in consequence poker was in full swing, and in many cases the stakes ran up into the thousands. It was the case of "easy come, easy go," to the high-toned thief, and he was choice picking in the hands of the wildest card sharps in America. They called him "easy," and when the last dollar had been secured cut him and the next heard of him was that he had so "shortly" departed with thousands of dollars had returned penniless and surrendered himself to the authorities.

With this immense class of crooks, whom William Pinkerton once said to the writer were the remnants of the criminal class of the world, it might be thought that they would ply their vocation in Windsor. But it was just exactly the opposite. Tom Bigelow, king of the crooks, was living there, and Windsor was his home. He was the head of the colony, and he did more to preserve the law than all the detectives in America could do. His orders were that they must obey the laws while in Windsor, and the man who did not do so soon found himself behind the bars. Other enterprising information given by Bigelow to the late Chief of Police Bains. No man ever "rattled" on Tom Bigelow but that he regretted it, and while he always stood ready to help any member of the fraternity, he never forgot a wrong.

Criminal Paradise.
Prior to 1842, before which time no extradition treaty existed between Great Britain and the United States, criminals of all classes experienced a sense of freedom, which was most conducive to the unbridled practice of their particular specialty. A Canadian murderer might cross the border and defy the Canadian officers of the law, while the American forger found a haven of rest in Canada, and in return the Canadian burglar once across the line might, without fear of molestation, enjoy the fruits of his ill-gotten gains. For years previous to 1842 the English authorities had been anxious that an extradition treaty should be concluded with the Americans, but the latter refused. In 1841, several of the large American banks were duped by a clever band of forgers, who succeeded in cashing simultaneously at New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond and New Orleans over half a million dollars of American bonds. Seven of the nine forgers skipped to England and were located there months afterwards. The United States Government was anxious to secure these men, because of the great pressure brought to bear on it by the influential bankers. The English authorities refused to give these men up, and seized the opportunity to press for an extradition treaty. The result was that in 1842 a treaty was signed, making murder, piracy, arson, robbery and forgery extraditable. This did not affect men guilty of manslaughter, counterfeiting, embezzlement, fraud, perjury, kidnapping, abduction, burglary or theft. The effect of this treaty, although limited in extent, was found to be most beneficial. A thought great expense was incurred in securing the extradition of a prisoner, who had the right of trial in the country when found. Murderers and robbers came and went just as before, but were occasionally caught, tried and extradited. Hoodlums, perjurers, embezzlers and common thieves came and went as usual, however, and laughed at the authorities on both sides of the line. March 21, 1850, another treaty was concluded between England and the United States, providing that these offenses should be extraditable: Murder, or assault with like intent, piracy by the law of nations, arson, robbery, forgery, or utterance of forged paper, manslaughter, counterfeiting or utterance of counterfeit or altered money, uttering or bringing into circulation counterfeit or altered money, embezzlement, larceny, receiving any money, valuable security or any other property, knowing the same to have been embezzled, stolen or fraudulently obtained; fraud by ballot, banker, agent, factor, trustee, director, member or officer of any company made criminal by the laws of both countries; perjury or the subornation of perjury, abduction, kidnapping, child stealing, burglary, shop breaking or house-breaking, revolts on shipboard, injury to vessels at sea, etc.; assault on shipboard or high seas; piracy, slavery or slave trading, and participation in said crimes, providing such par-

GAVE THE GAME AWAY. And the Chips That Flashed in the Daytime Are Not Picking at the Brokers' Feet Now.

Many drovers who attend the cattle market are distressed because the action of the police has put a stop to a little private game of poker which they have been in the habit of enjoying on the premises of John Holland, in Wellington-street, known as the Drovers' Exchange. The place was formerly a licensed hotel, but a number of drovers and others have been in the habit of enjoying a game of poker there. Among the party was James Dobell. The other night Dobell claims that Holland, who was acting as banker, declined to redeem $20 worth of chips, which he had purchased. Dobell accordingly lodged an information against Holland, and he appeared at the Police Court yesterday, charged with keeping a common gaming house. The preliminary examination will be held Thursday.

A Cousin of Sir John Macdonald Dies Suddenly.
London, Nov. 13.—James Allen Walker, aged 85 years, a cousin of Sir John A. Macdonald, across Sunday morning in his usual good health, and went to church. Mr. Walker ate a hearty dinner, spent the afternoon at home and about 10 o'clock went to bed. He had retired about half an hour when one of the household heard loud moaning in Walker's room, and on investigation found the old man suffering intense pain and gasping for breath. A physician was summoned and arrived in a very few minutes, but it was too late. Walker breathed his last shortly after he was discovered to be ill. Mr. Walker had been a resident of the city for only a year, having come from Ottawa. The disposal of the remains has been pending the arrival from Ottawa of Lieut.-Col. Macpherson, extra aide-de-camp.

A Wise Precaution.
A Detroit man, with goose hunting occasionally without any great detriment to the live stock of the forests, though perhaps some to the live stock of the fields, concluded not long ago that he would organize an expedition of two and make a foray. So he consulted his office boy.

"I say, Tommy," he said, "how would you like to go out on a little hunt with me?"

"I don't know, sir," responded the boy in some doubt. "I'd have to see mother first."

"All right; ask your mother and let me know in the morning."

"The next morning the boy saw the gentleman."

"Well," he inquired, "what did your mother say?"

"She said," replied the boy very innocently, "that I might go if you would take somebody else along with us to do the shooting."

It Was Safe.
"I suppose," said the would-be contributor to the editor, "that you are bothered a good deal by being offered jokes that have been printed already?"

"Yes, that is true."

"Well," said the caller, as he produced a manuscript from his inside pocket, "here is one that I will guarantee is original. It has never been in print."

The editor read it, and replied: "I'll tell you something else about this joke."

"Well, sir."

"Not only has it never been in print, but it never will be."—Town Topics.

Not One of His Victims.
A janitor of skyliffs (gruffly).—"What are you doing in the vestibule at this time of night? Are you one of the tenants?"

"Tom De Witt."—"No, I'm not! See you'd better be civil or I'll break your head."—Life.

THE BOND QUESTION

Once More the Subject of a Protracted Wrangle in the Council - Edinburgh Tender to Be Accepted.

The new well-known bond question was once more the subject of a protracted wrangle at the meeting of the City Council last night.

The report of the Executive Committee was also before the council.

The committee recommended that the action of the council, as contained in report No. 29, amended in council, be rescinded and the committee be authorized to consider the question of whether, in the financial interests of the city, it is better to issue bonds for the purpose of debentures in the future, and that no sale of debentures take place until this policy is settled by the committee and council.

Ald. Shaw argued in favor of the acceptance of the Edinburgh tender, and thought the report of the Executive was a reflection upon the council and moved that it be struck out.

Ald. McMurrich, as an amendment, moved that it be referred back.

On a division, Ald. Crawford, Graham, Hallam, Frankland and the Mayor voted in favor of the amendment.
