Washington, March 5.—That a money policy which would be tantamount to ex-sterce would be implied by the house was said yesterday by Walter W. Burns, a former congressman.

New York, March 5.—Two new robberies in the financial district, in which bogus messengers escaped with $100,000 worth of bonds and securities, were reported last night.

These thefts indicate that the fake messengers are working under an "organized intelligence system," according to officials of the surety company which suffered through the robberies. The fact that the "messengers" possess the information that they do indicates, they added, that "leaks are taking place within the stock exchange houses."

Theft of securities, Mr. Dooley declared, have occurred from Jacksonville to Toronto and from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

New York, March 5.—It was rumored at police headquarters last night that Jules Aronstein, alleged chief plotter in recent Wall Street bond robberies, had surrendered on the Canadian border, near Niagara Falls, to three detectives from New York to get him.

Assistant District Attorney Dooley said that he had heard nothing about Aronstein, and that so far as the district attorney's office was concerned, the present whereabouts of the "messengers" was a matter that was causing little or no worry.

The winds that prevailed in the rear of the storm piled up drifts of snow, interfering with railroads in some regions. Relief is expected in the central states today with a moderating temperature by Saturday. In the northwest, however, the weather forecast said the cold will moderate to only a great extent for the next two or three days.

The third provides for the appointment of an expert scientific commission to determine the relative roles of human and bovine tuberculosis.

DENEKINE IS ELIMINATED IN SOUTH RUSSIA

British View of Operations of Last Week

Entire Collapse of His Resistance Regarded as Matter of Short Time and Would Revive Fears of Menace to British Interests in Middle Asia.

London, March 5.—The complete elimination of the forces of Gen. Denekine in South Russia, has been brought about, according to expert interpretations of the war office advisers of the last week's operations. With the Reds in possession of portions of the Tikhoretskaya-Petrovsk railway, Gen. Denekine's only lateral means of communication by which it would be possible to ship troops to the weakened points of his line is paralyzed and contact with the Caspian fleet is imperilled. The Red cavalry and armored trains now are concentrating on the railway centre of Ekaterinograd, making worse this feature of the situation.

Paris, March 5.—It was learned yesterday that the French government will make determined opposition to any revision of the treaty of Versailles that would modify its claims on Germany. The attitude of the French government, according to the official point of view, is in perfect accord with the sentiments of the new chamber of deputies. It is held that any further concessions by the French government to Germany would not be tolerated by parliament, and if made the government would be overthrown.

GREAT NEED OF DIRECTOR HERE

Fletcher Peacock Puts Building Matter in Second Place

Field in St. John of Large Possibilities and Practically Is Untouched — Future of Hundreds of Boys and Girls Involved — Suggests Big Vocational High School.

For the benefit of between 1,200 and 1,400 boys and girls of high school age, who are not in school, Fletcher Peacock, director of vocational training for the province, said yesterday St. John and Fredericton should organize a big vocational high school with a specialty teaching staff.

Speaking of vocational work here he said that the great need at present was a director or supervisor competent to control the work and carry through from what had been a most successful start.

This director, said Mr. Peacock, would find a field here practically untouched, with remarkable possibilities for development. The success encountered in connection with the night schools here was indicative of the interest in the matter and the fact that so comparatively few boys and girls pursued a high school course showed the necessity of giving them instruction in industrial, commercial, agricultural or other branches of training.

This was at Woodstock and its course was being followed with close attention by other counties. Three other counties, Kings, York and Westmorland, had already taken action favorable to the project.

Mr. Peacock said he greatly hoped to see a beginning made towards a day school here next fall, even if only in temporary quarters, under a skilled director.

At present he said the attendance was keeping up well at the evening classes, but the work had advanced to such a stage that the services of a director were imperative, particularly to oversee the training and to help the teachers organize for proper treatment of their subject matter.

Among the ideas proposed in connection with the work for next year was a night class for teachers to enable those having practical knowledge of their trade to impart that knowledge in the proper way to pupils. During the coming summer at Woodstock, from July 6 to August 6, there was to be a special summer school for vocational teachers at which quite an interesting programme would be carried out.

In connection with the local work, Mr. Peacock spoke of a visit being made at present to the city by A. H. Whitman, a graduate of the Nova Scotia "Tech," and

Y. W. P. A. Chooses Miss Fairweather as New President

A resolution was passed condemning the Hearst publications and another pledging the members "buy in Canada" as much as possible.

Miss Boyer reported on supplies of fruit for the soldiers in the St. John hospital. Miss Dodge reported for the committee having charge of the dance in the garden serenade's success and Miss Barber for the Anti-Tuberculosis Society committee. Various charitable gifts were made by the meeting towards deserving cases. Miss Borden and Miss Coffee were appointed a committee to arrange a concert. Miss Dodge held arrangements for a series of dances after Easter with a committee from the Y. W. P. A.

Miss Alice Fairweather, by acclamation, was elected president of the Y. W. P. A. at its meeting in the G. W. V. A. last night. Miss A. Brock's resignation having been received with great regret. Miss Fairweather in accepting the presidency of the society for which her efforts have been most faithful, uniring and abundantly successful, asked the same support that had loyally been given to her predecessors, urging the members to remember that the committee for which the soldiers fought had still great need for earnest workers.

Miss Brock was made an honorary member of the executive, and it was voted that six rose bushes should be sent her for her garden as a token of appreciation of her work for the Y. W. P. A. and of the regret felt at her enforced retirement. Miss Fairweather occupied the chair last night, and was accorded a most hearty greeting as president.

Announcement was made of Dr. Robertson's forthcoming lecture and members were asked to bring judges when attending it. The sum of $10 was voted to the Rockwood Comforts Club towards a memorial to be presented to six soldiers; and $5 was voted to Miss Allingham to be used to buy gifts for sailors in hospital.

The election of officers, made necessary by the appointment of Miss Fairweather, the former first vice-president, as president, resulted as follows: First vice, Miss C. Dodge; second vice, Miss Sheldon; third vice, Miss W. Upham; member of the executive, Miss Mellick.

Thin, Nervous People Need Bitro-Phosphate

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous wreck; that is, they are nearly always thin, weak, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symptoms due to nerve starvation will disappear.

Eminent specialists state that one of the best things for the nerves is an organic phosphate known among druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve-builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

By strengthening the nerves, weak, tired people regain energy and vigor, thinness and anguinity give way to plumpness and curves; sleep returns to the sleepless; confidence and cheerfulness replace debility and gloom; dull eyes become bright and pale, sunken cheeks regain the pink glow of health.

CAUTION:—Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, also wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food so much so, that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks. Those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh, should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

ALL FOR THE LOVE OF A LITTLE BOY

Pauline Frederick's Emotional Talents Demonstrated in "Bonds of Love" at the Imperial. A domestic drama with the old subject of second wives, widowers, step-mothers and all the other gossip points the talkative ones delight in rehashing, is now running at the Imperial in "Bonds of Love" in which Pauline Frederick again proves herself the ideal emotional actress.

H. W. BORING, a well-to-do Kansas farmer, says he has gained twenty pounds in weight and is in better general health than he has been in years since taking Tanlac.

"Since Tanlac has overcome my troubles I have gained twenty pounds in weight and am in better general health than for years past." This was the straightforward statement made a few days ago by H. W. Boring, a prominent and well-to-do farmer living at Overland Park, Kans.

"During the two years I suffered I tried everything I knew of to get relief, but nothing seemed to reach my case until I tried Tanlac. My appetite was poor and my digestion was so bad I could hardly retain my food. Nothing agreed with me; in fact I was almost a confirmed dyspeptic. My whole system seemed to be out of shape. I would have pains across the small of my back so bad at times I could hardly move around."

"My nerves were all unstrung and I would become up-set at the least little thing. I seldom slept well at night and, finally, became so weak and run-down that I lost weight rapidly. I was also troubled a great deal with catarrh and of mornings had to spend a half hour or more clearing up my head."

"This is just the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac and it certainly has been a blessing to me. It just seemed to be made especially for my case. I improved from the very first. My digestion now is perfect and regardless of what I eat I never suffer any bad after effects."

"The pains across my back have entirely disappeared. The catarrh has left me, too, and my head is perfectly clear. I am no longer nervous and rest well every night. I have regained my lost weight and am feeling better and stronger than I have in years. I am going to keep Tanlac in my house so it will be handy at all times."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Company and by the leading druggist in every town.

I. O. D. E. MEETINGS.

At a meeting of the Duke of Rothesay Chapter, I. O. D. E., last evening in the Consolidated school at Rothesay, a resolution condemning the Hearst publications was passed. Miss A. M. Puddington was appointed delegate to the provincial chapter in Fredericton and Mrs. Heber Vroom delegated to represent the chapter at the national meeting in Toronto.

Mrs. J. Pope Barnes, regent, presided at a meeting of the Royal Standard Chapter, I. O. D. E., at the home of Mrs. Daniel Mullin last evening, when a resolution against the Hearst magazines and papers was passed.

The sum of $100 was voted to be sent to the Municipal chapter as the Royal Standard chapter's subscription to the war memorial and the sum of $12.50 was voted towards the passage money of a soldier's wife that the St. John chapters are assisting to return to England. Five councilors were appointed to represent next month and five new members were put up for nomination.

YOU LOOK OLD WORN OUT TIRED OUT!

While the Cause Differs, the Condition is the Same. Your Local Druggist Guarantees Vinol to Restore Your Old-time Strength and Energy.

Why do run-down, anemic, over-worked, tired-out men and women continue to drag around in this condition, unhappy themselves and making every one around them unhappy, complaining about their condition, when we guarantee VINOL, our non-secret cod liver and iron tonic, to create a hearty appetite, aid digestion, induce sound sleep, make rich red blood, and in this natural manner create vim, vigor and energy?

There are thousands of men and women in Canada, once run-down, anemic and sickly, who are now strong, hearty and well, all owing to VINOL.

Mrs. James Stuck, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, says: "I suffered from general debility and a nervous breakdown; I was depressed, weak and tired all the time. A neighbor told me about Vinol, and after all other medicines had failed to help me, VINOL built me up and made me well. I heartily recommend VINOL."

For all run-down, anemic conditions, weak women, over-worked men, feeble old people and delicate children, the druggists guarantee VINOL to make rich red blood and build you up or return your money.

HELPING THE MEN WHO FOUGHT

A Story of a "Lonely Soldier" and Prompt Meeting of His Case by Salvation Army.

Sergeant Watson has been a British soldier for twelve years. In 1909 he was stationed in Egypt. Later, he was transferred to India. In 1914 he returned to England and went to France. Here is a copy of his letter which reached Toronto on Feb. 29, at the offices of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment.

Sir,—By the time this letter reaches you I shall no doubt be on my way home to Canada. I am a regular soldier in the imperial army, just finishing my twelve years. Soon after I enlisted (in England) my mother and family came out to Canada while I was in Egypt. That was in 1909. I came home to England in 1914 to go to France. I was lucky enough to go out with the 1st Battalion, London Regiment, and was sent to Mesopotamia through the Persian Hills (90 miles) to Baku in the Caucasus against the Turco forces with the colonials. We were driven back to Baghdad. They asked for volunteers to proceed to Suera, just before the armistice. I went with the British military mission. We just recently returned to England, having come through Canada.

I am now being repatriated to Canada. I will be a stranger in a strange land as my mother died about a year ago. I should very much like somebody to help me in regard to employment. I am one of the genuine lonely soldiers and will appreciate any help you can give me.

Recently, this is the story of a British soldier to whom should be offered every opportunity to make a home. Realizing this the letter was sent to the Citizens' Registration League. Dr. A. H. Abbott is its secretary. Other information in the letter told the name of the boat and its sailing date. The letter arrived just one day previous to the day Sergeant Watson was due in Toronto.

We telephoned the Salvation Army," said Dr. Watson, when asked what steps were taken. "The letter came to us in the morning and the man was due at 3.40 that night. A Salvation Army officer met the train. He took Sergeant Watson to the Salvation Army Hostel at King and Church streets. He made him comfortable and at home. Now, a job is being secured that will pay him from $5 to $7 a day."

"Does the Salvation Army help you like that often?" was asked.

"Help—that isn't the word," Dr. Abbott replied. "In the first place the Salvation Army is absolutely reliable and has made the promptness of our relief work a possibility. In fact, they figure so largely in our work that it is difficult to pick out special cases. There is no service too big or none too little. They take hold of the job with a will and carry it through to a successful conclusion."

Note—Watson is not the man's right name.

ISLAND OF TRAU RICH IN FOLKLORE

"Trau is conspicuous proof that history, like lightning, may strike where least expected," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

The story of Trau's annals extends to a period before the time of Christ, and its past has been eventful, but none the less had any marked bearing on the course of the world's history. The other day a few United States patriots were put ashore there to help preserve order; and this object lesson on what the League of Nations entails may mark the new world order that the Paris peace conference outlined for the United States to accept or reject.

THE HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNAE MEET

The High school Alumnae members were the guests of the directors of the Y. W. C. A. and Mrs. T. H. Commerford for their most enjoyable meeting held last night in the Y. W. C. A. recreational centre in King street east. The president, Miss Jessie Lawson, was in the chair and there was an exceptionally good attendance, all greatly appreciating the hospitality of the Y. W. C. A. An excellent programme was given under the direction of Mrs. H. Lawrence, who chose the subject, "Canadian Literature." F. B. Ellis contributed a very fine reading from Robert Service's poem, "The Lone Trail." An entertaining guessing contest closed the programme and was the cause of much amusement as well as some deep thinking.

Some very interesting announcements were made. One referred to a lecture which is to be given by Captain Arthur Hunt Chute—under the auspices of the Alumnae, and another to the annual tea, for which final arrangements were made. It was decided that the tea should be held in the German street institute and that the proceeds should be devoted to the High school Alumnae memorial scholarship. The Irish evening which was to have been held in March was arranged to take place in April, the place to be decided later. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Charles Bayne a member of the crew of a small coasting schooner, was taken to the General Public Hospital about 12 o'clock last night. He had caught his leg broken in an accident on board the schooner and was taken immediately to the hospital. He was resting comfortably at an early hour this morning.

WAS IT PLOT TO DESTROY JERUSALEM?

Jerusalem, March 5—Evidence of a Turkish plot to destroy Jerusalem rather than allow Lord Allenby to occupy the Holy City, is said to have been found by the discovery of huge quantities of explosives concealed here by the Turks. While clearing out the cellars in Jerusalem British troops found hundreds of shells, airplane bombs, hand grenades, and several tons of cordite, dynamite and detonators.

From a kitchen eleven thousands of rounds of small-train ammunition, bayonets and revolvers were taken.

SAYS PROHIBITION ACT DOES GOOD

Magistrate Ritchie Speaks on It in Police Court

A Railway Porter Is Fined—More Evidence in Cloth Case—Wm. Campbell's Interference With Police Proves Costly.

The police court session was a busy one this morning. Several postponed cases were taken up, besides the morning docket.

Bailey Young, a porter on the C. P. R., was charged with bringing liquor from Quebec into New Brunswick, also with having liquor in his possession in St. John. He pleaded guilty to both charges and was fined $200 or six months in jail. In speaking about the prohibition act, the magistrate said that while in conversation with a man recently, this subject was brought up and the act was discussed. The magistrate upheld the act, but his friend seemed rather disposed to denounce it, his reason being that it was constantly being violated. His Honor said, "Was that any reason why it should be repealed. Would a line be drawn through the commandments given to Moses on Mount Sinai because ever since they have been violated from time to time?" The magistrate said the act was doing good.

A case against the three lads charged with stealing three webs of cloth valued at $1100, the property of Hoffman Bros. Main street, was resumed. Annie Dorothy Perkins, who is employed in the store of Hoffman Bros, said that on or about January 25 she found the store door unlocked. It was not damaged, but when the key was put in the door opened before the latch turned. On going inside she noticed an empty space in the fabric where the blue cloth had been previously.

George Cook of 14 Frederick street extension, a salesman, said one of the accused went to him and wanted to know if he would buy some cloth. After thinking the matter over he decided to buy, and in a few days the accused brought the goods over.

George Chatterton of 2 Barker street said that one of the accused called at his shop about a month ago and asked him if he wanted to buy some cloth and later the accused delivered the cloth and received $10 for it. The witness said he was rather reluctant about taking the goods, but on second thought he did so. The case was postponed until Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. W. M. Ryan appeared for the prosecution, while J. A. Barry, E. S. Ritchie and E. J. Henneberry were counsel for the defence.

William Campbell was charged with being drunk, interfering with the police, attempting to take a prisoner from the police, assault and use of threatening and profane language. Policeman Thomas, who made the arrest, said that while going along Union street at the corner of Hazen avenue and Union street he arrested Arthur Belyea on charge of being drunk. As he was proceeding along Union street he said he encountered Campbell, who demanded that the policeman let the prisoner, struck the policeman and endeavored to take the prisoner from him, at the same time using abusive, threatening and profane language. He said he handcuffed him and took both men to the police station. Fines of $8 or two months for being drunk, $8 for using profane language, and $8 for resisting and assaulting the policeman were imposed, making a total of $24.

The Morris case was resumed this morning and the accused was sent up for trial. When asked if he had any statement to make he pleaded not guilty. Bail was refused. W. M. Ryan appeared for the prosecution, while Scott E. Morrill appeared for the defence.

One man charged with drunkenness was remanded to jail.

WILL BE DESIGNED BY A ST. JOHN MAN

Moncton to Have a New Church Costing More Than $100,000.

Moncton is to have a fine new church and in the hands of a St. John man has been placed the task of designing the edifice and preparing the plans. Charles L. Archibald of this city is now working on the plans for the new Highfield Baptist church in the railroad city which, when completed, will cost between $100,000 and $125,000.

The building will be of brick with stone trimmings and will be of square Gothic design with two towers in the front. The foundation will be of concrete and the Sunday school, consisting of sixteen class rooms, will be placed in the basement. The congregation, of which Rev. Mr. Cochran is the pastor, have been using a hall for their services for some time. The new structure will be one of the finest in Moncton.

Mr. Ryan has been connected with the financial department of the Central Maine Power Company for the past year, and it is understood that he has severed his connection with that company and will enter the firm of Beyer & Small, investment brokers and bankers, Portland, Me., of which his brother, Keith Ryan, is manager.

Mr. Ryan is a returned soldier who served with the C. E. F. overseas for more than three years with the 20th Battalion in France. He was formerly a resident in Hampton but since returning from overseas his business has taken him to Maine. His father, J. J. Ryan, D. D. S., returned a short time ago from Paris, where he was a prominent dentist for many years. It is understood that Doctor Ryan will open his summer home in Hampton and the family will spend the summers there. Mrs. J. J. NO other President during my adult lifetime has presented so baffling a problem. declares Charles H. Grasty, veteran newspaper man and friend of President Wilson, introducing an unusually authoritative discussion of Mr. Wilson's personality in the Atlantic Monthly (Boston). He says:

When at the beginning of 1910, I acquired control of the Baltimore Sun, I learned that President Wilson might soon be leaving Princeton University. It at once occurred to me that here might be found the scarcest of all men, a great editor. I went to Princeton immediately and saw President Wilson. I found that I had entered the field for his services against the powerful competition of the Democratic party leaders of New Jersey. The matter was not yet settled, however, and I returned later to Princeton on the same errand. Mr. Wilson had made his choice. I recall the vivid impression he made upon me as he sat facing me in his library. All the while, in my mind's eye, I was seeing him in the White House and when I went home that night I said, "I have taken my stand with the man who will be the next Democratic President."

He looked the part and of course the Governorship of New Jersey was a spring-board for the nomination. Mr. Grasty saw and heard from the President between 1912 and 1917. Mr. Grasty admits:

Mr. Wilson has lived too much with himself. He does not submit himself to the corrective processes of association, which, not unreasonably, puts him in for a lot of criticism. He does not call to his side all the first-rate men who are available. He admits it frankly—he plays a lone hand.

Doesn't Consult Others

He loses by lack of assistance and by holding aloof from consultation. But when he reckons up gains against losses in the great game that he is playing, he believes that he comes out ahead by following the bent of his own temperament.

This is far from saying that he repels advice. Quite the contrary is true. It is friendly.

After seeing him at Paris, I would expect him to succeed, if upon his resignation from the Presidency at sixty-four years of age, he took the highly improbable step of entering the field of industry. In a large executive position, like that of the presidency of the Steel Corporation, I confidently believe that he would make an unprecedented success. The adventuring and magnitude of trying to do a good turn to the other fellow is a regrettable accident deprived him of his right leg, but his intellect is agile and his perception keen.

The things for which Mr. Wilson is complained of are mainly the defects of his great qualities. If a big matter is in hand, he is so concentrated upon it that he overlooks the little matter. He has the keenest and truest sense of what is real, irrelevant cuts him to pieces. When he is at work on a thing that engages his interest, he is like a bound on a scent. Waste of time or any kind of lost motion is like poison to him. A member of the "Big Four" once said to me: "Wilson works. The rest of us play, comparatively speaking. We Europeans can't keep up with a man who travels a straight path with such a swift stride, never looking to the right or left. We cannot put our own habit of rambling a bit on the way."

"Plays to Mankind"

What he can do, and likes to do, Mr. Wilson is tireless; but he is very indolent about what he is not proficient in. He is not a judge of men, he has not the fair for it, and it is something that is not a matter of analysis.

The "shabby treatment" accorded General Wood may have been grounded in the "needs and exigencies of the war," while that final detail, the offer of an obscure post in the South or Hawaii, is hypothetically credited to Secretary Baker. As for the case of Colonel Roosevelt:

If the President had been an emotional man, he would have met Roosevelt with hands outstretched. But to my mind his failure to respond in a "plainable" on grounds other than "of magnanimity. When the "shabby" presented himself, the President put him and his possible value through a coldly intellectual process of assessment, and his conclusions were in accordance with his judgment of what would best promote the interests of the country in the war. Again he failed in the importance of and does not possess the emotional qualities to correct his reckoning.

Then we have a striking consideration of the President as a man with the great gift of appealing to mankind in the mass. This same Woodrow Wilson:

The President who shuts his eyes, stretches out his hand, and touches the man nearest, who shall thereupon be Cabinet Minister, who stumbles in his dealings with Congress, and who is generally helpless in the grind of office, rises to a great height as a statesman. His near sight is defective, but when he looks up and out, no man sees further or more clearly. He lacks the "spirit of the herd," but no other man in public life is more in touch with the spirit of mankind. He frankly "plays to mankind."

He has perspective, he is always looking far ahead. He cannot see the trees for the woods. The little things by the way do not distract him, for they escape his attention. If his life and health are spared, a man of such vision in combination with such extraordinary practical qualities will go far, whether as President or as an unofficial leader.

Architect Price
Is An Ulster Man

ULSTER has recently had a big innings in Toronto. The delegation from the historic Irish Province has been here on its itinerary, and Mr. G. F. W. Price has been promoted to City Architect.

The new chief was born in Belfast, 12 years ago, and received his early education at Coleraine Academic Institution, afterwards Toronto Public and High schools, and the Methodist College, Belfast, and Municipal Technical Institute of that city.

He served his apprenticeship as an architect with Mr. E. J. Lennox, and was later employed as draftsman in the offices of the following firms: Edwards and Webster, and Darling and Curry, of Toronto, then with Le Hommedeau and Son, of New York.

Working on the building of the City Hall for about four and one-half years, Mr. Price, fifteen years ago joined the City Architect's department in the capacity of an engraver and was later appointed assistant City Architect and chief inspector. While in this latter position he had personal charge of the inspection of over two hundred million dollars' worth of work.

For the past ten years Mr. Price has been a keen student of fire prevention and during that period he has represented his department at different conventions on the subject throughout the North American continent.

With his staff and among his colleagues he is very popular, and has the enviable reputation of trying to do a good turn to the other fellow. A regrettable accident deprived him of his right leg, but his intellect is agile and his perception keen.

Becomes Editor of Vancouver Sun

A. E. Darby, who joins the staff of the Vancouver Daily Sun, has had considerable experience as an editor and political writer in Canada, and the Old Country previously. He was born in Sheffield, England, in 1880, the son of W. Evans Darby, D.D., LL.D., who may be remembered by many Canadians in connection with his activities for international peace and arbitration.

Early in his career Mr. Darby identified himself with the political issues of the day, taking an active journalistic part in all political and economic subjects. He joined the Free Press in 1912, and associated himself with John W. Dufour, editor-in-chief of that paper. The editorial columns of the Free Press have been recognized as a big factor in influencing and building up Western Canada, so that Mr. Darby's association with the Sun will no doubt prove a boon to Coast journalism and add considerable prestige to this vigorous young paper, which has made such wonderful progress during the past two years. Surrounding himself with a group of active young men, Mr. Cromie, owner and publisher of the Vancouver Sun, has in the past two years built up the morning paper situation in Vancouver in such a way that it is regarded by newspaper men as a very fine property.

ONCE A NAVAL OFFICER IN CANADA, HE DIES AS BLACK ROD

Admiral Sir H. L. Stephenson, After Distinguished Naval Career, Filled an Office Which Is One of the Empire's Institutions.

BY ANTHONY MAGENIS.

THERE are still a large number of Torontonians and others along the lake shores of the River St. Lawrence who remember the Fenian disturbances on the frontier in the 'sixties' of the last century. They also remember that the Imperial Government sent a naval force to patrol our inland waters, under the command of that "swell of the sea," as he was jocosely termed, Captain Algernon Frederick Rouse Dorey, whose orders used to be issued or "given," as he termed it, "on board H.M.S. Aurora," a thirty-five gun frigate at Quebec. This officer, afterwards Admiral on the Pacific station, and in later years was an active explorer, and in the Egyptian war in 1882. As an admiral he commanded on the Pacific coast later on.

His friends in Canada will learn with regret of his death, announced a few days ago. Admiral Sir H. L. Stephenson died in an honorable post, one in the personal gift of the British Empire, the Duke of Devonshire. This office is one of admiralty, having been created by Edward III. six hundred years ago, as

DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE NEVER MISSES A GAME OF HOCKEY

It is questionable if any more ardent hockey fan can be found in the Dominion than the Duke of Devonshire. His Excellency never missed a game in the capital this season.

Dr. Schurman's remark in his letter of resignation to the Board of Trustees of Cornell that he always held that the chief executive of a great institution should not retain the post more than 25 or 30 years is bound to cause debate. He acted on his belief by resigning at the end of 23 years.

Majority Wisdom

"YOU don't mean to tell me you ever doubt the wisdom of the majority?" "Well," responded Senator Sorghum with deliberation, "what is a majority? In many instances it is only a large number of people who have got tired of trying to think for themselves and have decided to accept somebody else's opinion."—Washington Star.

It is questionable if any more ardent hockey fan can be found in the Dominion than the Duke of Devonshire. His Excellency never missed a game in the capital this season. Every match he is one of the things that has made him a strong favorite among the sporting fraternity of Ottawa.

In company with members of his staff and usually with two of his daughters, either Lady Dorothy or Lady Rachel Cavendish, the Duke occupies the vice-regal boxes for all the games in the professional league. He is rarely late, in fact, only once so far this season has he not been seated when the puck was faced. His entrance, accompanied by members of the Government House staff, is the signal always for a demonstration. The band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards strikes up a few bars of the National Anthem, the players stand at attention, following which the Duke and party seat themselves, while the boys in the "millionaires' row" sit and vociferously shout, swinging their bodies in unison with the music.

The box occupied by the Governor-General is located on one side of the arena, where the games are staged. It commands a first rate view of the ice.

Recently Viscount Admiral Jellicoe of the British Admiralty, when a visitor in Ottawa, faced the puck at a game. He attended in company with the Duke, and both His Excellency and Admiral Jellicoe shook hands with the players and vociferously shouted, swinging their bodies in unison with the music.

They have become an eagerly anticipated feature. The Duke and Duchess of Devonshire receive their guests at the Rideau House Lodge, following which all who skate, adjourn to the ice. Some of the costumes worn by the ladies at these affairs are highly picturesque and contribute to a striking display when the ice is crowded.

Few previous Governor-Generals of Canada have been so keen on sports as the Duke of Devonshire.

SAM LANDERS IS AT LAST REWARDED

Labor Leader in Hamilton Becomes Superintendent of a Cemetery.

A PICTURESQUE CAREER

Fought and Worked in France, But Met Defeat in Political Battle.

By JOHN A. SAXON.

THAT the loom of life weaves many unexpected and inexplicable designs is rather strikingly shown in the varied career of a well-known Hamiltonian, Sam Landers. Everybody calls him Sam, so the diminutive implies no undue familiarity—who from lowly beginnings has risen to the Burlington heights of cemetery superintendent, an honor undreamed of even by himself until a few weeks ago. But of the intervening years? What a story the shuttle tells of the great loom's weaving!

Born Levy in an American city, his father added Samuel to his name, but coming to Canada, and he has lived in Hamilton thirty or more years. Sam took the added surname of Landers, and to Hamiltonians he has been known as S. L. Landers, more particularly Sam. A good-looking chap, with no facial resemblance to his race, rather to be taken for an Italian or Spaniard, and possessed of a large fund of geniality and a capacity for making friends, Sam got along from the start. Leaving the faith of his fathers, he for a time associated with the Salvation Army, even to the extent of playing a cornet in his band, and he wasn't a bad cornetist, either.

Of an active and progressive turn of mind, he soon joined up with Labor and took a prominent part in the movements, particularly in the Trades and Labor Council. By day he was a buttonhole worker in the W. B. Sanford factory, by night and every spare moment he was hustling for his fellow-workers. One of his duties was the editing of a Herald Weekly Labor page, which he instituted and carried on quite successfully. His spare time was called attention to his journalistic abilities and he was offered and accepted the position of editor of the Garment Workers' paper, the New York Herald. He took him away from Hamilton for some years, but he did not lose touch with his home town. Retiring from the trade paper, he settled again in Hamilton and took up various organizational duties for the Canadian Workers' strikes, including the settlement of several strikes, notably the Chicago dispute.

All this time a lively and persistent boy he was at the helm of the Black Rod. He felt strongly the need of a weekly Labor paper in Hamilton, and determined to start one. His planning eventually resulted, some eight or nine years ago, in the establishment of the News. News was a paper better than any that had been published in Hamilton, and he is abundantly able to back up various organizations, including the settlement of several strikes, notably the Chicago dispute.

His War Record

His war came on, and with a soul alive to help right the wrongs committed by Germany, Landers entered the lists as a campaigner for recruits. Over, and as anxious to go as any fiery eighteen-year-old, he couldn't get the obnoxious medical board as a member of the Committee made frequent addresses and aided in sending others by his stirring words. But all the time he had it in him to get by in front of the other members of the party, and dresses quite inconspicuously, his customary winter apparel being a black fur coat with Persian lamb collar and fur hat.

It is the custom in many Canadian camps during intermission and during the time occupied in cleaning snow from the ice, for spectators to toss pennies on the ice for the many small boys who haunt the rink and who help clear off the snow. The Duke enjoys this sport of seeing the boys dig for the coppers as they stick to the ice, and often throws coins himself to the youngsters. The pennies being warm, coming from one's pocket, have a tendency to adhere to the ice and the efforts of the lads to separate them cause the spectators endless amusement.

Hamilton city fathers have a singularly delightful way of rewarding defeated candidates or citizens whom they wish to honor but hardly know how—they appoint the unfortunate ones on the Cemetery Board! Mr. Landers was thus "honored" last year, being in the second class of the order; but was he down-hearted? Not at all. He tucked right in and made a fine committee man. And he was rewarded. Superintendent Rutherford resigned, the board thought Sam Landers the right man for the vacant place and appointed him.

The citizens like Sam for his cheery ways and his pluck and wit and well.

Salvation Army Chief's Fine Work

FIVE strenuous years in the life of Commissioner W. J. Richards, chief of the Salvation Army in Eastern Canada, have just come to a close. They include the "war years" during which time the army saw one of its greatest periods of usefulness.

Commissioner Richards is a forceful man. If he is short in words he is long in action. And at the close of his five years in Canada his message is one of gratefulness, of optimism as revealed in these words: "God has been very good to us and under His gracious hand we have accomplished much, but it is very little compared with the needs and opportunities that are before us. Let us all unite in seeking from Him enlargement of vision, extension of capacity and continuance of grace so that we may see and be equal to the demands that the world makes upon us as followers of the Saviour who died for all."

These are the words of this man of action to his people, written by the same hand that has grasped countless weary men along life's pathway and cheered them on to final victory.

During the five years more than 11,000 persons are recorded as having sought salvation at the Salvation Army penitential forms. Notwithstanding the losses due to the war—and many comrades made the supreme sacrifice—there are to-day nearly two thousand more names on the soldiers' roll than there were in this territory five years ago. Notwithstanding the separation of Canada East from Canada West, the dividing line being Port Arthur, which took place in July, 1915, there are now in active service in the East only 41 fewer officers and employees than there were in the combined territories five years ago.

On the more material side of things, there has been progress made. In the field report two very striking indications of financial advance are given. In 1914 the self-sufficiency total for the combined territories was $43,720; in 1915 for Canada East alone was $75,591 and the return from Harvest Festivals have been doubled.

The success of the Red Shield Drive last year when $1,500,000 was raised for the Army's Military and Reorganization work was another significant indication of the standing of the organization in public confidence. In fact it is stated that the financial position of the Salvation Army in Canada East was never before in so sound and satisfactory a position. This, however, does not imply an over-abundance of funds for the Salvation Army, and always will be a race between opportunities for usefulness and the means to meet them—with the former always in the lead.

If all the various departments—and there are many indeed—the same spirit of effort has been recorded.

This service has been rendered under the leadership of Commissioner W. J. Richards. His five years in Canada have been five big years for Canada.

J. F. Kramer to Make Yanks Stay Dry

ASKED if the law prohibiting all beverages containing alcohol could, in his opinion, be enforced, John F. Kramer, the first prohibition commissioner ever to be appointed by the United States Government, said recently:

"There is not a particle of doubt about it. The law will be obeyed in cities large and small, and in villages, and where it is not obeyed it will be enforced. There are laws against theft and murder and yet men steal and kill one another."

To a New York Sun interviewer Mr. Kramer told something of his early struggles: "I was born fifty years ago on my father's farm in Ohio. We had 100 acres of land at first and purchased sixty acres more as our family of ten children grew up and could help with the work."

"By trade, my father was a carpenter. He built houses and barns for our neighbors, but gave up that business during my boyhood. Being the eldest son, I looked after matters at home during his absence. I could do man's work, almost, at the age of twelve."

The Anti-Saloon League of America was founded at Oberlin, Ohio, in 1855, and from that day forward the question became one of dry politics versus saloon controlled politics.

Prof. Robt. H. Goddard

New U.S. Ambassador to Italy

Commr. W. J. Richards

THIS Clark College pedagogue claims to have designed a high-power, high-climbing rocket, which holds the eager attention of the scientists who are anxiously awaiting the official tests of the earth-to-moon rocket.

Prof. Goddard, who is now in the fifth permanent office of the Order of the Garden founded by that great Water-Monarch, in imitation of the Round Table of King Arthur, of misty historic, and almost allegoric fame. The first on the long roll, which ended the other day with the death of Sir H. L. Stephenson, K.C.B., was William Whitehead, who received the princely remuneration, even allowing for the difference of money values of twelve pence per diem. Every British Order of Knighthood, with one exception, has its usher bearing rods of some differing colors: Black, strangely enough, for Ireland; Green for Scotland; Scarlet for the Order of the Bath; Blue for that of St. Michael and St. George, and Purple for the new Order of the British Empire. But "the" Black Rod is inseparably associated with the British Crown and Parliament, and, as a consequence, there are Cadgers of the Black Rod all over the Empire. In Canada we have our own officer in the person of Col. Chambers, a military man of local service, and, at the same time, in some degree combining the naval as well as the military element with his office as he belongs to the family of the Captain Chambers, R.N., who commanded the fleet at St. John's, Newfoundland, during the revolutionary wars which ended with the birth of the U.S.A. This officer and some others were detached from the fleet at Quebec at the request of Sir Jay Carleton, and promptly cleared the "enemy" out of the waters operated in. He had previously served in the great siege of Quebec by Wolfe in 1759. It is understood that Captain Chambers and a brother officer, named Shanks, invented the central buoy now so valuable under certain marine conditions.

goods have been cancelled or not completed, owing to the fact that the high price of dollars would have left no profit on the resale of the goods here. Any wholesale cancellations of export orders would have a serious effect on the banking situation in the United States, for her system is based to the extent of 60 per cent on bills and 40 per cent on gold. Therefore, if orders for goods for export are cancelled, how can the bills drawn against these goods be met on maturity? The only means of doing so would be a forced sale of the goods. If the bills are not created against them, this will put a very effective check on exports to Europe, and will produce the very object we wish to attain, namely, restrict imports and bring down prices.

WENT TO WINNIPEG.
Edward Boscin, who has been in the head of one of the departments in Manning Bros' factory in St. Stephen for twenty-five years, left Monday evening for Winnipeg, where he is to assume a responsible position in a large candy factory conducted by the Hudson Bay Company.

THIS MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

Both Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Steele, Ala.—"During the Change of Life I had hot flashes, was nervous, run down, and had sick headaches for two or three days at a time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am much stronger and better in every way than I was. My daughter's health broke down last June from teaching school without a rest, and she has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the Blood Medicine with good results. She is much better and teaching now and I give your medicine the praise. You are welcome to use this letter for the benefit of other suffering women."—Mrs. F. A. GAINES, R. F. No. 1, Steele, Ala.

Women who suffer as Mrs. Gaines did should not hesitate to give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial, as the evidence that is constantly being published proves beyond question that this grand old remedy has relieved much suffering among women.

For confidential advice write Lydia E. Pinkham, Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their forty years' experience is at your service.

Canada

The Logical Home of Great Industry

Industrial Canada is already a robust reality. But, measured in terms of the future, it is still young and undeveloped.

In the days to come, the world's industries will be concentrated even more than now around the reservoirs of important raw materials.

That is why the Canada of tomorrow is bound to be the home of great industries—the factoryland of the future. For within the confines of the Dominion are the forests, the mineral lands, and the unlimited water power which are the conditions that make industrial growth inevitable, when directed by restless human energy.

It is because the seeds of growth are imbedded in so many of Canada's enterprises that they are worth investing in.

When you turn your money into bonds or preferred stock that may be outstanding for many years, it is not enough that the company be prosperous now. You must know that the corporation whose securities you buy has a future.

The securities we offer are those of corporations developing necessary industries and rendering definite services in a growing market.

Let us explain how you can best buy a share in Canada's well being in the days that are ahead. Securities sold upon the partial payment plan. A small initial deposit, followed by regular monthly payments, is all that any ambitious man or woman requires to become a share holder in Canada's prosperity.

Like a Tidal Wave Heart Disease and Nerve Troubles Sweep The Country

Probably at no period in the world's history have heart and nerve troubles been so prevalent as they are today. The heart can't stand the stress and strain of this busy, bustling age and the rare and worry, the anxiety and activity of business life constitute a serious drain on the nervous system.

The business of this work-a-day world goes with such a rush that the stoutest hearts and strongest nerves break down under the strain. On the first approach of any breakdown of the system Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills should be taken. The reconstructive power of these pills on the heart and nerve system is simply marvellous.

Mr. W. A. Wright, Hopewell Ave., Ottawa, Ont., writes: "After suffering for some time with my heart, I consulted a number of doctors, but got no relief. However, I read that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills had done for others, who had had the same symptoms and thought I would give them a trial. Believe me, six boxes cured me completely. I am feeling fine now, and can attend to my work every day. I can recommend your pills to any one suffering as I did."

Boils are simply a breaking out of bad blood, and anyone who has suffered from them, knows how sick and miserable they make you feel. Just when you think you are cured of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your misery. All the poulticing and lancing you can do will not get rid of them.

When the blood is purified, cleansed and vitilized, by Burdock Blood Bitters, the boils will quickly disappear, your misery is at an end, and health and strength come back again.

Mr. Robt. Johnson, Barkway, Ont., writes: "I have suffered very much, during the last five years from boils, having as many as five at once. I tried different remedies without any relief. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after taking just one bottle I have had no more boils."

FURTHER COMMENT ON THE MOVIES

Discussion of Censorship Matter in Boston - Several Viewpoints.

(Specially for The Christian Science Monitor.) The person who would insist with any warmth that the moving pictures didn't need some kind of gentle curtailment of their exuberance might fairly be considered non-existent. Even the fur-coated producer himself who is so certain that he knows always has known, and always will know exactly what the public wants through long experience and knowledge of human nature, air—even he, if you get him in a corner and make friends with him, would probably admit after a time that some of his rivals' output needed attention either within or without the palace of production. The man in the street, totally inarticulate and largely indifferent, grants and grows and stays away as long as a week at a time after a particularly bad experience; and as for the few who possess any artistic conscience, they have been "had" so often that in self-defense they have learned something about the business and positively refuse to be lured, unless they have some sort of an idea of what they are going to see. Without prejudice, therefore, it can be admitted that there is basis for the contention that the movies are not exactly perfect, and that somehow, or in some way, it would be a good thing to supervise them, much in the same way that morals and manners have to be supervised, when they take the air between their teeth and fences in their stride. So the problem filters down into a question of ways and means and not of years and days, although the producer rather over-vehemently vociferates that the public is the only proper censor and that he alone should be entrusted with the task of commending or condemning them by means of his presence or absence at their sardine.

The Man in the Street. But with all due respect to the democracy involved, it will not do. The man in the street knows no more about the moving picture art than he does about any other kind of art, and he never will, so long as there is no one to show him, and the producer has divined what he wants in his most pathetic mood, and gives it to him with both hands, because it would cost a good deal more to give him something better. So he labels the frankly vicious "red-blooded" as an appeal to robust masculinity, and appreciates nonsense about studios and virtuous models as artistic, to appeal to that ilk, and when there is nothing whatever to be said about it, red, white or blue, he sends it out under the aegis of the star actor, hoping it will not return to him void of profit. The result of it is that the movies, to put it mildly, are not making the progress as an art which they might do. The orgy of production has glutted the channels of the commonplace, and hardly a trick has spilled into the pools of art. If the censorship is going to be any good it has got to change this. It is no good denying that the present deplorable state of affairs has developed under the censorship, so the censorship per se is nothing to chuckle about or strive after making more drastic, unless there is going to be a radical change for the better in its plan of campaign. Censorship at Paul. Up to the present the censorship has been too much occupied with cutting out the "winner of the girls' swimming race," so to speak, because she wasn't dressed for the street, and then permitting fifty minutes of vice and "rain-glow" because it thinks that this is what the man in the street's dreams are made of—which goes some distance to show that the censor has not had a much better idea of what the public wants than his friend the producer. The censorship is due for a spring cleaning, with some of the Commission's cobwebs out of the way it would be easier to see the larger issue. The sets of printed rules could then be hurried and each film judged on its merits and according to its motives. This would begot moral courage, and moral courage would not be content with obliterating occasional inches; it would return the whole "eight massive parts" to the manufacturer with a statement of its misdeed and an added rider, "Don't do it again." Then when films appeared which had ideas and ideals, even if they did include slightly unconventional things the censors might look upon them as promises of better times and "vive all their friends to go and see them. All this would give the producer confidence after a time. He probably wouldn't like to see the "Don't do it again" because they would hit his pocket; but they would be grand experiences for him, and the approval of his better attempts would soon lead him to make them exclusively. And that inevitably brings the situation down—or up—to the personnel of the censorship, whether it is national, state, or parochial, and it is possible to imagine that national would be the best because it would be easier to get the highest qualities of character—and they are needed. There is a great cry for more women have made such a mess of it, but it is not essentially a sex question. Anyone may have the artistic understanding and the sympathies that are necessary, and anyone may not. The moving picture play is still an art; it has been horribly degraded, but it is to an art that it must return and as an art it must live if it is to live at all. So artists should be members of the all-censorship boards. The right kind have a better proportion and perspective about certain things than other people, and they have so long ago outgrown the verdict of "the fool of the family" that there can be no excuse for ignoring them. The artist could be treated to record the crimes of artistic anachronism as well as those of moral deviation, and his training would preserve his equanimity before the "winners of the girls' swimming race." Both producer and censor lack a sense of humor, and both take themselves too seriously. The one gets positively facetious at times, with his little list of "shut-out notes," and the other completely insufferable in his claim to know what the public wants; but in a sense, art and humor they might be brought to understand each other, and to work together instead of against each other, for the man in the street's benefit. Enjoyable for the Layman. Just think of the good man in the street in such circumstances. He would not know what was happening to him, he would be having such a good time, and that thing if he could pay his modest money and see movies that were rather more beautiful and artistic than he had ever seen before, rather more amusing than he had conceived possible, movies that were cheerful without being mawkish, and gay without being glibious! He would not worry what had become of educational vocation or pseudo-scientific swat-the-fly. He would never even remember the vice and vainglory with their "red-blooded" substitutes and as for the "stars in their courses," they would have to bring along something better than their own effulgence for him ever to look at them. He would just laugh and grow fat—not to say educated—and he would call for his sisters and his cousins and his aunts to some and do likewise; and while they were on the way he would run home for his children, whom he had been afraid to take to anything but the trite ever since they were old enough to ask questions. And the joke about the whole thing is that if you get the right kind of censors and gave them the right kind of powers, they would save the public and the producer enough money in one year to endow schools for playwrights, producers, censors and all, in every state and province on the continent. CANADIAN CHOCOLATE COMPANIES WILL BE ABSORBED BY BRITISH. (Montreal Herald.) Announcement of the incorporation of J. S. Fry & Sons (Canada) Limited, at Ottawa, with a capital of $1,000,000, gives confirmation to a report in business circles that the British cocoa trust, as it has been called, is planning to absorb some of the leading Canadian chocolate factories. Cadbury's and Fry's, according to one informant, have united in England with a capitalization of $2,000,000. Since the outbreak of war they have left severely the competition of the Canadian manufacturers whose chocolates became very popular in England, and although the exchange situation has diminished this competition for the time being they feel that it is necessary to take steps in self-protection—hence the decision to take over one or more Canadian factories. Admission that negotiations are taking place was made by several Canadian companies whose heads were interviewed and the manager of J. S. Fry & Sons, while declaring that he had no statement to make at present, confirmed the admission by stating that "nothing is settled yet." The amalgamation would serve the double purpose of reducing Canadian competition in Great Britain and American competition in Canada.

TWO HANDICAPS TO PRODUCTION

Clothing Makers Encounter Small Deliveries and Uncertain Labor Costs.

(Toronto Globe.) Clothing manufacturer is being carried on under rather unusual conditions. Deliveries of piece goods from British mills are not steady enough to admit of maximum production. It frequently is the case that when relatively small shipments of worsteds and woolen tissues come forward to the manufacturer they are sent immediately to the shrinking department and then rushed through the processes of manufacture. The planning of work on lines that would be followed if ordinary conditions obtained has been found impossible, and this, it is claimed, has increased operating expenses. Uncertainties both in regard to raw materials and labor are handicaps to the trade. Manufacturers cannot be sure that labor costs at the time they enter into contracts to supply goods will be the same when they actually undertake to fill the contracts. There appear to be only two methods of meeting this situation. One plan is to take orders subject to price revision if labor costs rise before the orders are filled. The other way is to book orders at open prices; the latter plan has been followed by quite a number of clothing manufacturers during the last fall season. Some manufacturers have announced their intention of abandoning this method if at all possible, since it is most unsatisfactory both to buyers and sellers. A condition of stability in the labor market would be a much more satisfactory condition but the practical attainment of that object does not appear to be in sight at the moment. Prices of piece goods have been strengthening, according to British advisers, and the fine goods such as are in demand cannot be secured in sufficiently large quantities to meet trade requirements. The fact that British mills have booked orders to the full extent of their capacity as far ahead as the beginning of 1921, at open prices, indicates that makers of worsteds occupy quite a strong position. Travelers representing clothing manufacturers are taking to the road in the next few weeks with samples for fall delivery. The fact that manufacturing costs may change between the present and the delivery dates makes it difficult to fix prices definitely in advance.

LUMBER MARKET

New Brunswick Scantling Quoted at $52 in Boston—$65 Is Base for Dimension Stuff.

Boston, March 4.—Prices are very firm in all branches of the market for northern and eastern lumber. Quotations of less than $65 base for dimension have become so rare that to all intents and purposes there is now only one price. For New Brunswick scantling $52 seems to be the general price. There are large buyers here, however, who say that among their producing friends in the provinces there appears to be a growing disposition to add $2 to this price. To induce any retailer in this neighborhood to pay $54 would at this writing probably be quite impossible. The great Maine manufacturers of course are now as they have been for some weeks very independent. They would scorn a bid of $52. The dealer in 2x8 at present is rather limited and there is quite a variation in the prices asked for it. Some sellers say it is almost impossible just now to secure more than $55 while others call it foolish, because quite unnecessary, to shade $54 and a few good salesmen declare that there is no trouble about finding people who will pay with $55. It is still hard to speak positively about the price for either 2x10 or 2x12 as there is so little business in these sizes. The prices for lumber immediately following are those at which retailers can buy of the wholesale trade. Spruce prices refer to lumber, 8 to 20 feet in length. For every two feet or fraction of two feet over twenty feet $1 is added when the sale is of dimension lumber. Spruce Lumber—Retail Shipments. Dimension 8 in. and under, $65; do 9 in. $68; do 10 in. $67; do 12 in. $69; random, 2x8, 2x8, $62 to $64; do 2x6, 2x7, $51 to $53; do 2x8, $53 to $55; do 2x10, $55 to $58; do 2x12, $55 to $57; spruce covering boards, 5 in. and up, $50 to $52; matched spruce boards, clipped, $56 to $57; hemlock boards, 10, 12, 14, 16 ft. $50; furring, 2 in. $2 to $3.50. Shingles, Laths, Caspboards. Shingles—Extras, $8.50 to $9; clear, $6 to $8.50. Laths—Common, 1 1/2 in. $16 to $17; 1 3/4 in. $15 to $16.
