

The Union Advocate

Established 1867.
NEWCASTLE, MIRAMICHI, N. B.
WEDNESDAY, Oct. 28, 1896.

Merric Societies.

MEET AS FOLLOWS—

NORTHERNBURY LODGE NO. 17 A. F. & A. M., in the Lodge room on the evening of the second Tuesday of each month at 7 o'clock.

NEWCASTLE DIVISION NO. 45 S. of T., in the Temperance Hall every Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

COURT MIRAMICHI NO. 165 I. O. F., in their rooms, Masonic Hall, on the evening of the fourth Tuesday of each month at 8 o'clock.

NEWCASTLE BOARD OF TRADE, in the room in the Bazaar building on the evening of the first Monday of each month at 8 o'clock.

ANCIENT ORDER OF UNITED WORKMEN, Miramichi Lodge No. 11, in the Lodge room on public holidays, first Tuesday in each month at 7.30 p. m.

"NO SUBSTITUTION" L. O. L. No. 47, in their lodge room on the first Friday of each month at 8 o'clock.

DERBY.
COURT HARTLEY NO. 150 I. O. F., in Foresters' Hall, Derby, on the evening of the 3rd Thursday of each month at 7.30 o'clock.

Organization.

The meeting held in St. John last week in the interest of the Temperance party and for organization seems to have been very successful. Speeches were delivered by Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. Geo. E. Foster and others. The following were elected officers: President—Senator Wood. Sec. Treas.—J. D. Hazen.

Executive—Responsible, George Moffat; Gloucester, Theodore Blanchard, M. P.; Northumberland, James Robinson, M. P.; Kent, J. D. Phinney; Westmorland, J. H. Campbell; St. John, W. H. Thorne; and Dr. Morrison; Charlotte, A. J. Todd; Sunbury and Queens, G. J. Worden; Carleton, J. K. Fleming; York, Walter MacFarlane; Victoria, John Cottigan.

A resolution of thanks was passed to Sir Charles Tupper for his address for which he briefly returned his thanks.

Personal.

The UNION ADVOCATE invites all its readers to contribute to the items under the head of "personal." If you or your friends are going away on a holiday trip, or if you have friends visiting you drop a card or line to this office.

Master Ernest Moore, youngest son of Mr. Joseph H. Moore, of Point du Chene, formerly of Campbellton, was shot in the face on Tuesday, on Point du Chene beach, near his home. The wound is not serious but painful.

Mrs. Francis Bookler, of Newcastle, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. G. DeMille, of Moncton, for the last three weeks, has returned home.

R. R. Ritchey, Esq., Police Magistrate for the city of St. John, was in town on Tuesday morning.

Rev. W. B. Thomas, of Derby, was in town yesterday.

Miss Annie Keating left by Tuesday morning's express for Matheson, Mass.

Miss Jessie Fairley, of Campbellton, is visiting Miss Nellie Clark.

Mr. H. H. Pitts, editor of the Reporter, Fredericton, was in town yesterday on his way to Campbellton to visit the Orange Lodges there. On the previous evening he organized an Orange Lodge in Chatham. Mr. F. O. Peterson was elected Worshipful Master and Mr. E. N. Ruddick Secretary.

Mr. Hiram Bell, of Amherst, is visiting his former home here.

Miss Cole, of Campbellton is visiting friends in town.

Obituary.

Mrs. Peter Harris, an old and respected resident, died at her home in Docktown, on Saturday, Oct. 15th. She was born in the year 1805 and was the daughter of the late William Mitchell, one of the first settlers on the Miramichi. Peter Harris, late husband of the deceased, was born at Port Hope, Ontario, and will be remembered by many friends. Mrs. Harris was in the 89th year of her age and was well respected by all who knew her. She leaves a family of six children and a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn their loss. Her remains were laid in the old family burial ground, and the service was conducted by Rev. M. P. King.

Much sympathy is felt by Mr. Hugh Lamont and his family in the loss of a loved son and brother after a lingering illness. The deceased, Alex. M. Lamont, was a bright, well informed and intelligent young man, a graduate of a business college and employed in the well known firm of Messrs. Jordan & Marsh, Boston. Last summer he was taken ill with pleurisy and his father went to Boston and brought him home. He gradually sank until his death occurred on Thursday last. He had been converted some time previous to his illness and was patient and resigned to the will of his heavenly father. His remains were followed to their last resting place in St. James' Church burial ground on Sunday last, by a large number of sympathizing friends. The services at the grave were conducted by Rev. James Murray.

Funeral to Mrs. Orie.
Several of the W. C. T. U. delegates from Chatham and Newcastle and delegates from friends of Mrs. R. S. Crisp called to see her, and learning that she was the twenty-first anniversary of her marriage, and some of them remembering her well when she came a bride to Chatham, which was Mrs. Crisp's first circuit as a married man, spent a very pleasant evening in the home, and left a nice remembrance of the occasion in the shape of a pair of handsome vases presented with other articles of bric-a-brac to Mrs. Crisp. It may be mentioned that some favorite songs were sung by Mrs. Crisp of Newcastle, and Mrs. Pallen of Chatham, which were highly entertained to the company present. Many took advantage of the opportunity of giving Mr. and Mrs. Crisp a call, and many old acquaintances were renewed.—Transcript.

The Northumberland County Teachers' Institute.

The 23rd annual session of the Northumberland County Teachers' Institute met in the Temperance Hall, Chatham, on the morning of Thursday, 15th of October. The following were elected officers for the coming year:

President—J. M. McKenna, B. A.
Vice-President—Miss Beattie M. Creighton.

Sec. Treas.—Miss Anna G. McIntosh.
Miss Fraser, J. J. Clark, and the members of the Executive Committee.

The following teachers were enrolled:—
F. P. Norton, Mary Gjerdt,
Isabella Falconer, Anna G. McIntosh,
Alice M. Irving, Addie McKenney,
May Donovan, M. R. Benn,
Alice Loggie, Addie H. Swanson,
Lottie Troy, Beattie M. Creighton,
Beattie McKenney, Ellen M. Deane,
Ellis Gray, Sarah Curran,
J. J. Clarke, M. C. Sutherland,
Mary A. Coughlan, Maggie Mowat,
V. C. Wright, Sophie McDonald,
Ida Hamilton, Kate McDonald,
Kate McDonald, Matilda M. Kendall,
Mary Kearney, Mary Kirby,
M. G. Daughney, Mary Gordon,
Catherine McLean, Beattie McKenney,
Christina Fraser, M. C. Arsenault,
Gusie Harriman, Madeline Richard,
Lizzie Cameron, Mary Watson,
Lizzie McKenney, Clara Flanagan,
Laura Murphy, Florence Flood,
Emily Fleiger, Maria Forbes,
Miss Harrison, Maggie Dunnet,
Annie Simpson, Elina Noble,
Martha Hackett, Sophie Flanagan,
May Harvey, Edw. J. Lozier,
Maggie Robertson, J. J. McIntosh,
George A. Wathen, Eugene Connolly,
Lizzie M. McIntosh, Agrippina Utison,
Mabel M. Daly, Annie Morrison,
Josie Clouston, Rebecca Chisham,
Rebecca Noble, Lillian Underhill,
Emily Blake, Gertrude A. Dickson,
Annie Craig, Bella Clancy,
D. L. Mitchell.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Miss McLean distributed butterflies for examination. The pupils found the body to be in three parts—head, thorax and abdomen; wings attached to corset, and covered with dust, the coloring matter; the body, wings, etc., transformed since we saw it as a caterpillar. She compared the different stages—1st egg, 2nd larva, 3rd chrysalis, 4th butterfly. The uses of caterpillars are to feed birds, one bird destroys 1,000,000 caterpillars in three months. She finished the lesson by comparing the different stages of the butterfly to different stages of human life.

Mr. McCreesh thought the lesson excellent as Miss McLean made the children do the work, and only supplemented it. Our educational methods exercise the faculties, and development follows. The teacher must have the knowledge first, and then stimulate the pupil to acquire knowledge for himself. The paper was favorably commented upon and discussed by Dr. Inch, Mr. McKenna, Miss Curran, Mr. Mitchell and others.

QUESTIONS BOX.
Dr. Inch next answered questions from the Question Box. In answer to the question—"Should left-handed pupils be taught to write with the right hand?" Mr. McCreesh answered, Yes. In answer to "To what extent may monitors be employed in schools?" Mr. McCreesh said he believed in it, as the children liked to be taught and he thought it was rather in regard to it. Dr. Inch's attention had been called to it, and he would give it his attention at the proper time.

TEMPERANCE TEACHING.
Mr. Mitchell introduced several members of the W. C. T. U., and the Institute was addressed by Mrs. Salter, who extended the greeting of the Society to the Institute. She asked the teachers to daily inculcate principles of Temperance in their pupils.

In reply Dr. Inch said that all teachers were in sympathy with the Temperance reform, and were doing all in their power to inculcate the same in their pupils.

Mr. McCreesh said that any moral reform that had women for advocates was almost sure of success.

THANKS TO DR. INCH.
A vote of thanks was then tendered Dr. Inch for the assistance he had rendered the Institute.

In reply, Dr. Inch said he was to him a great pleasure to attend, and he thanked the Institute for their kindly recognition of his presence, although it was rather in the line of his duty. When all things were considered he thought greater progress had been made in this Inspectorate than in any other, and he was rather in the line of his duty. When all things were considered he thought greater progress had been made in this Inspectorate than in any other, and he was rather in the line of his duty.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

invitation, and his efforts to be with them. The Institute feel deeply indebted to Dr. Cox for his continued interest, and express a sincere hope that he will be able to be present with us on some future occasion.

TRUTH TEACHING.
How to train pupils in habits of truth in Arithmetic, 2nd in Grammar, 3rd in Geography, 4th in History, 5th in Reading, 6th in Drawing, 7th in Writing. In review work they would reduce the number of classes by putting several together. The teacher must have the knowledge first, and then stimulate the pupil to acquire knowledge for himself. The paper was favorably commented upon and discussed by Dr. Inch, Mr. McKenna, Miss Curran, Mr. Mitchell and others.

QUESTIONS BOX.
Dr. Inch next answered questions from the Question Box. In answer to the question—"Should left-handed pupils be taught to write with the right hand?" Mr. McCreesh answered, Yes. In answer to "To what extent may monitors be employed in schools?" Mr. McCreesh said he believed in it, as the children liked to be taught and he thought it was rather in regard to it. Dr. Inch's attention had been called to it, and he would give it his attention at the proper time.

TEMPERANCE TEACHING.
Mr. Mitchell introduced several members of the W. C. T. U., and the Institute was addressed by Mrs. Salter, who extended the greeting of the Society to the Institute. She asked the teachers to daily inculcate principles of Temperance in their pupils.

In reply Dr. Inch said that all teachers were in sympathy with the Temperance reform, and were doing all in their power to inculcate the same in their pupils.

Mr. McCreesh said that any moral reform that had women for advocates was almost sure of success.

THANKS TO DR. INCH.
A vote of thanks was then tendered Dr. Inch for the assistance he had rendered the Institute.

In reply, Dr. Inch said he was to him a great pleasure to attend, and he thanked the Institute for their kindly recognition of his presence, although it was rather in the line of his duty. When all things were considered he thought greater progress had been made in this Inspectorate than in any other, and he was rather in the line of his duty.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of Teachers' Institutes, and the great benefit to be derived therefrom, particularly by teachers who are to a certain degree cut off from communication with other teachers.

Dr. Inch, Chief Sup. of Education, next addressed the Institute. He began by emphasizing the necessity of

