DISARMAMENT OF THE BOERS PROCEEDING SATISFACTORILY

Government Guards Surrender in a Body.

GENERAL DEWET SUPERINTENDS

How the Formalities Are Conducted The Women Feel Bauly-Kruger Says He Will Stay in Holland.

PROCEEDING SATISFACTORILY. London, June 8.-The war office has received the following from Lord Kitchener under today's date: "The disarmament of the Boers is proceeding satisfactorily, and good spirit is displayed everywhere. Yesterday 4,-342 rifles had been surrendered up to Dispatches received by the Associated Press from Pretoria confirm the statement made in Lord Kitchener's communication to the war office, and say that the whole staff of the Transvaal Government, with a bodyguard of 50 men, surrendered last Saturday.

THE FORMALITIES.

The following formalities are observed when Gen. Botha, Gen. Dewet, or when any of the Boer commandants accompany the British officer who has been detailed to receive surrenders: The Boer leader goes out to meet a commando and returns at its head. The Boers who come in are generally dressed in dilapidated clothing, but have a smart and soldierly bearing. The Boers who are to surrender are assembled, and the Boer leader delivers an address to his men. urging them to listen to the British officer who has been detailed on this work. The British officer then makes a speech to the men of the commando, in which he informs them of the admiration of King Edward and the British nation for the gallant struggle and the brayery of their people, and promises that the British authorities will do their utmost to help them re-settle on their farms. A meal is then provided for the Boers, at which the formal surrenders occur. In many such instances the Boers have cheered King Edward, and they have sometimes expressed surprise, that no army was sent out to receive their surrenders. The Boers are allowed to retain their horses and saddles, and the majority of them appear to be glad that the war is at an end, and that they will now be able to rejoin their families. Among the men who surrendered to the British authorities at Balmoral, Cape Colony, were four Americans, who will granted free passage to Delagoa Bay. WOMEN FEEL BADLY. A few of the Boer women are still inveighing against surrender, but the general feeling among them is in favor of making the best of the situation.

Mr. Kruger declares that he will end his days in Holland. A striking sign of the altered situation in South Africa is that Lord Milner, the British high commissioner, rode from Pretoria to Johannesburg to resume the sinking fund arrange- Bible from a biographical view, by last Sunday, accompanied only by two ments.

staff officers. DEWET SUPERINTENDING. Gen. Christian Dewet is personally superintending the surrenders of the Boers in the Vredefort, Orange River Colony, district.

Gen. Schalkburger, former acting president of the Transvaal, who is the guest of the governor of Natal, Col. Sir Henry Edward McCallum, at Pietermaritzburg, in an address to the burghers in the concentration camp, asked them to make the best of the situation and to forget and forgive the past. He pointed out the uselessness prisoners on parole.

and hopelessness of continuing the struggle, urged the Boers to accept, and act in accordance with the terms of surrender, which he intended to uphold. He desired them to work for the Mexican war broke out he enlisted the good of South Africa.

QUESTION OF SUBSISTENCE. The arrangement for the disposal of the surrendered burghers are almost complete. No large concentrations will be allowed in the outlying districts, owing to the difficulty which might arise in feeding the people. Those burghers who can subsist on their farms will be given ten days' rations and allowed to begin their new life immediately. Those who are unable to subsist on their farms will be permitted to join their families in the camps and remain there until their homes are once more made habitable and all others will be divided among the various camps. FRATERNIZING. The London Times' correspondent at Johannesburg says the fraternization which has already taken place between the Boers and the British augurs well for the future, and the delegates who came to Pretoria to sign conditions of peace cannot complain of the reception accorded them on the enrollment as citizens of the empire. The lack of demonstrative enthusiasm at Pretoria and Johannesburg, he says, shows the progress made in the settlement of the country. Both towns are far removed from the din of war. and the concluding of peace only implies the sudden acceleration of progress already achieved. Already in both cities there is a close approach to normal conditions.

THANKSGIVING. Throughout the dominions of the the principal towns of South Africa. thanksgiving services for the return of peace were held today. Lord Kitchener attended a thanksgiving service at Pretoria, at which 6,000 British troops board. were present.

STARTING ANEW. The work of reconstruction will soon be begun under the masterly hands of Lord Kitchener and Lord Milner. The immediate prospect is bright, since the soldiers and burghers are fraternizing, and there is universal joy over the cessation of hostilities. The South African millionaires do not conceal their apprehensions over the contingencies of the future, when the language question, as compromised, will tend to reanimate the Dutch elements with ambition, and when the release of prisoners will strengthen the resources of the intriguers, especially in Cape Colony, where the indefinite suspension of the constitution and the the Biblical work done in the board administration of the largest South African state by Lord Milner as the dipessimistic, since the exemption of the tended that if this work could be interests to the certainty of carrying the burdens of the various loyalist in-demnity funds, and the slump of South done in the schools of Ontario? A PLOT DISCOVERED. London, June 9.-In a letter from Pretoria, dated May 18, the correspondent of the Daily Mail says that the previous Thursday 60 arrests were made there as the result of the discovery of an extensive plot to blow up the government buildings and Lord Kitchener's residence and to spike the guns in the artillery barracks. The parties concerned in this plot, according to the correspondent, were lawyers, chemists and Boer and Dutch

THE BIBLE IN THE SCHOOLS

Its Adoption Urged, Not as a Doctrine, But That Pupils May Memorize Portions.

Sarnia, June 9. - Saturday morning greetings were received by the London Conference from the W. C. T. U. and the Toronto, Hamilton and Bay of Quinte Conferences. The scrutineers British Empire, and especially in all reported that Revs. A. L. Russell, C. T. Scott, Jos. Philp, E. N. Baker, Jasper Wilson, J. R. Gundy, C. W. Brown, A. H. Going, A. K. Birks and W. R. Young were elected to the examining

The memorial committee reported that, though not approving of all that the memorial of the London district contemplated, they would express approval of the enactment and enforcement of a law requiring the daily reading and teaching of the Bible in connection with the devotional exercises in the public, high and normal schools, and a law requiring the pupils to commit to memory the more suitable portions of Scripture, and receiving marks therefor in this as in other parts of their literary work. Rev. B. Clement objected to the proposal to require pupils to commit portions of Scripture to memory, and moved that the clause dealing with that feature be struck out. Rev. A. C. The London Conference did not contend for the teaching of doctrine, but simply for the memorizing of the Scriptures. What objection could there be to this? Thousands of boys in Ontario now knew nothing about the Bible, and there was an in-tense desire on the part of the leading educationists of the province that the culture of the boys and sirls shall be of the heart, as well as of the mind. The suggestion of a leading educationist that we could well afford to take some of the other studies out of the curriculum, rather than to exclude the Bible, was quoted with hearty approval by Mr. Allin. The Rev. Stephen Bond feared might be defeated by overloading their methods, and disclaimed any idea that the government would select any but suitable portions of Scripture. Rev. Robert Thompson favored making the Bible a text book, and it appeared that the commitment of portions of it to memory would tend in that direction. TRAINING POLICE DOGS. The education and training of these dogs is full of difficulties, and can only be accomplished with the greatest patience. Harsh treatment, especially the whip, will not help, but hinder this process of learning. He must be taught to find tramps and thieves, to attack them and prevent their flight without injuring the prisoner. Hi first lessons are taught him with the aid of a stuffed body. This dummy is brought in the position of a man crouching down as if hiding. Soon the dog will learn that he is expected to attack him; he learns to see an enemy in the crouching figure, and now comes the hard task of teaching him not to bite. In the further course of training he is taught to throw down a man by simply jumping at him and holding him on the ground. After the lessons with the dummy figure, the training begins on a living model, and that is generally at first the trainer himself. The dog is, however, securely muzzled for first few weeks and in about four months he may be taken out "on and fed, and on duty always wear a wire muzzle and stout leather collar studded with sharp nails, which makes it impossible to grab the animal by the throat to choke him. Promptly at 10 in the evening he goes to work, and long before the time there is a joyful barking among the canines, in antici-pation of the work before them. The dogs are attached to certain officers with whom they make the rounds. As soon as the suburban districts are reached the officer frees him from the restraining chain, and he systematic search of the gardens sur-rounding the residences. Every hedge, bits of shrubbery, dark corners —in fact, any place where a human being might be able to hide—is caresearched by the faithful animal, and woe to the stranger found! cases where an innocent person was "held up" by one of these police dogs are indeed very rare. At 6 in the morning his day's-or, rather, night's work is finished The results from the use of these dogs were so gratifying after the first few months that the authorities of Glient decided on a larger appropriation for the training of more animals. The entire expense of keeping the dogs amounts to no more than 1,500 francs—about $300—a year, while the value of their service can hardly be estimated in money. The fact is, how-ever, that burglaries decreased over 60 per cent since their introduction.

A. J. C. Smith, who has a kennel of English bloodhounds at Ann Arbor, has, with the assistance of M. C. Peterson, been training them for criminal work, with good results. At a recent test these dogs trailed their man, who had taken a circuitous and misleading route, covering a distance of five and a half miles, and located him in 22 minutes. The experiments conducted in Ann Arbor have shown that the dogs would be invaluable in tracking

VOUR foot sole is curved and soft.

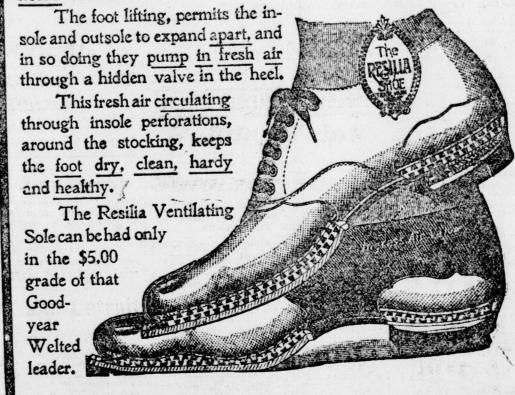

Your shoe sole is flat and hard. Walking with such a foot sole on such a shoe sole, is like sleeping on a plank, instead of on a mattress. Cut open an old shoe at its most comfortable stage, and you will find its insole shaped by wear, to ball and heel, great toe, and

You will also find it burnt up and eaten, through accumulated sweat, which must have gnawed the foot, when it so ate the leather. The Resilia Sole, is placed between insole and outsole, instead of the usual scrap leather filling. It is an elastic spring centresole, which collapses and shapes up round foot-curves like an old shoe, the first moment it is borne upon.

The foot sinking into the sole, at the very time the bail of the foot spreads, makes the shoe a size larger inside, when the foot needs most room.

On Jordan's Banks.

The traveler in the Holy Land will witness few sights which will interest him more than that of the Russian pilgrims at the annual Epiphany ceremonies on the banks of the River Jordan. A week before the festival itself crowds of these Slav peasants are seen trudging along the Jericho road, with every imaginable kind of haverack and carry-all on their the Jericho road, with every imaginable kind of haversack and carry-all on their backs. Some of the pfigrims are old and weatherworn, others young and cheerful, while a few, overcome by sleep and fatigue, are lying prone along the roadside. But somehow the whole lot, young and old, managed to reach the banks of the river in good time for the ceremony. and old, managed to reach the banks of the river in good time for the ceremony. They spend the night, perhaps, in the Russian hospice at Jericho, where they simply huddle together like a flock of sheep. Before dawn the rooms are empty, and the whole crowd has gathered on the bank, where Greek priests, who will presently drive a most lucrative trade, await them. The principal articles sold are branches of trees from various sacred spots, stones from the Mountain of Tempitation, hard by, plants from the sacred spots, stones from the Mountain of Temptation, hard by, plants from the wilderness, and rosaries with olive-stones for beads. To whatever religious value is claimed for these articles the Russian peasants implicitly give credence and willingly pay their money to obtain them.

During the hours immediately preceding the ceremony the motley crowd is occupied in prayer and silent devotion. To many pilgrims this occasion is one of the greatest life can bring, namely, to the properties of the control of the greatest life can bring, namely, to the leaves of the leave To many pilgrims this occasion is one of the greatest life can bring, namely, to be permitted not only to visit the Jordan, but actually to bathe in its sacred waters. Suddenly chanting is heard, and the crowd quickly opens to let a procession of purple-clad ecclesiastics pass to the waters, then the pilgrims close in again, and station themselves along the banks, eager and watchful. And now, quite reverentially, a jeweled cross is laid by the patriarch on the surface of the stream to bless it, and no sooner does the sacred symbol touch the water than a dive is made into it by the enthusiastic crowd, which splashes and prays and wallows and dips—altogether a strange scene. Such is the baptism, and the longer it lasts the greater the merit the pilgrim will enjoy. All dripping with water, each shroud is now wrung out and stowed away to serve as the cerecloth when the pilgrimage of life is over and the body is ready for the grave. As the traveler rides away the next day to Jerusalem he will see these childlike peasants, bedraggled with mud, and fatigued by constant sleeplessness, plodding along toward the Holy City, chanting and singing as they go, and leaning on their sticks of reed. But there is now a smile on their faces, and joy in their hearts, for have they not bathed in the waters of Jordan?—London don Traveler.

AMERICAN IDEAS

Variety of Opinions From the United States Press.

A LESSON TO UNCLE SAM

Ho Should Offer Filipinos the Same Privileges as the Boers Got.

[Chicago Tribune.] If the Boers have been stubborn the British have been stubborn also. Nothing but that stubbornness which has served them so well on many other occasions could have carried them through a conflict which involved heavy taxation and immense loans and put to a severe strain their military resources. While England is a great state and the Boer republics were small states, it was no small thing for the former to be able to carry on a contest so many thousand miles from home in a country of boundless spaces and to overcome in spite of the incapacity and blunders of some generals a brave and obstinate foe. It is not strange that England is rejoicing. The Boer republics have been blotted from the map, but the Boers remain. Where civilized men of one race are subjugated by civilized men of another race a spirit of undying hostility appears. The Irish are unreconciled still.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.]

On the whole the terms of settlement are as satisfactory to both sides as could have been looked for under existing conditions. That they are so lenient to the Boers is due to their stubborn resistance, and in that way the apparently hopeless struggle of the last year or more has been well repaid. But for the determined battle against overwhelming odds and the readiness to fight to the point of annihilation rather than submit unconditionally, the conditions in the agreement of Sat urday would never have been granted. Besides, the plucky resistance of the Boers has won the admiration of the British people, who now glory in the stubborn courage and endurance of their "Boer brothers" and "fellow citizens and subjects of the King."

[New York Post.]

We are very hopeful that the example in South Africa will hasten the advent of a more conciliatory policy in the Philippines. International relations are nowadays of great influence in such matters. Nothing can be done in a corner any more. If there has been a competition between Great Britain and the United States, to see which could exhibit most of the bitter and blundering spirit of imperialism, there may be now a rivalry in peace-making. Certainly we cannot any longer justify our obstinacy in the Philippines by the stubbornness of the English in South Africa. They have acted at last almost in the temper of Gladstone, who was said to be the only English prime minister that ever allowed himself to be guided, in foreign relations, by his heart as well as his head.

[Detroit News.]

[Boston Traveler.]

Whatever the peace terms, the Boers have won more from the war than can the British. The veldt farmers have demonstrated themselves superior to the British soldiers in both pluck and strategy, while the heroism of the Boer race has been given a lasting memorial. In their loss of the independence for which they fought they deserve sympathy, but for their deeds they command and have won glory. Great Britain's chief heritage of the war is debt and the loss of the esteem "Highlands of Ontario." A publica- of liberty-loving people.

immigration, the spirit of South Africa, though inspired by the progressive Anglo-Saxon, will always be the spirit of the Boers.

[New York Sun.] To England peace is more than welcome. The price she has paid in money for the establishment of her authority over the South Africa republics is enormous, and the loss in precious lives she has felt more keenly still. She has again shown her building tenacity in clinging to her purpose and has managed to "muddle through"

[New York World.] It is a great precedent in peacemaking. The most impressive feature of it is that Lord Salisbury, stalwart Tory as he is, has deemed it a stroke of statesmanship not only to treat with the representatives of a resisting people, but to pledge them in definite terms the substitution of civil for military rule and "representative institutions leading up to self-government."
The most competent students of our own problem in the Philippines, like President Schurman of Cornell, are convinced that if only the people of those islands were given similar cefintion to give them self-government we casion for such tremendous loss of life speedily celebrate "peace as occurred at St. Pierre. with honor.

INVESTIGATING PELEE OUTBREAK

The Scientific Examination Will Take Months.

A NEW LAKE WILL BE FORMED

A Third Part of St. Vincent Has Been Desolated-Means of Subsistence Gone.

New York, June 9 .- Capt. Barrie, of the cruiser Dixie, who has just returned from bearing supplies to the volcanic victims in the West Indies, said regarding the situation in the islands: "Conditions are not as had on Martinique as on St. Vincent, because on Martinique the people are fairly well supplied with everything, and there is no danger in future eruptions. Only a small area of twelve square miles has been devastated, but on St. Vincent the destruction extends over a third of the island. Plantations, orchards and everything have been ruined; the means of subsistence have been taken away from the people, and thousands are left in need of support."

CAUSE OF THE ERUPTION. Of the scientific results of the Dixie's expedition Prof. I. S. Russell, of the University of Michigan, said: overheated rock, bursting against the water near the base of the mountain, caused super-heated steam, and burst the mountain open.' Prof. Hill, who investigated the outbreak for the government, said:

"Months will be required for the final scientific decisions. We have had an eminently satisfactory trip. The rocks and volcanic matter which we have collected must be cut into sections and analyzed before we can give extended opinion for publication."

MEANS OF WARNING.

Prof. Hill advocates the establishment of scientific observations in the Caribbean district for the detection of the imminence of volcanic eruptions, so that human life may be saved-a scientific institution easily and economically founded and maintained. MAY SMOKE FOR MONTHS.

"I think Pelee will smoke and remain active for months," said Prof. Russell. 'It probably will be a case of Vesuvius over again. I hardly think Pelee will smoulder and blow up in one gigantic explosion. I believe it will quiet down and gradually die away. A new lake will form in the crater, tropical verdure will grow where there is now nothing but black gray ash. The people will build new villages and towns at its foot, and again hold their holiday picnics on its sides, and Pelee will remain quiet for probably 50 or 60 years. There should at least be a seismograph on every volcano-an instrument which records the tremors of the earth. It was operated by the Chinese centuries ago. The instrument would give the populace ample warning. The seismograph at Vesuvius for 35 years has done satisfactory and valite assurances of our ultimate inten- uable work. A steamer arriving yesterday con firms the report of activity. Kauai, which left Hawaii two days ago, reports a large column of smoke above the crater of Kilauea. The crater is always steaming and smoking more or less, but is at present reported to be sending up much more than the usual amount of smoke.

The Prohibition League.

London, Monday June 9.

The London Prohibition League embraces a very small proportion of the temperance element of this city; but doubtless the majority of its members. Will agree that sobriety of language is to be desired as well as sobriety in other things. We advise these moderate members to exercise a censorship over their literary committee. The letter sent to the city press on Saturday displayed little of the virtue of temperance. Nor is this the only instance. On the eve of the recent election this ral, he will not rest until he has literary bureau purchased space in a city newspaper, and filled it with such intemperate denunciation of the old political parties, that a clergyman of London rebuked the authors from the London rebuked the authors from the selves lucky if he has not profited by pulpit. Mr. Daly, who has shown restraint and good temper, must have to go and hoist the Union Jack on top blushed when he saw his own picture in this Billingsgate frame. Again, this same literary bureau caused to be circulated in London a Toronto publication called the Liberator, which surpassed in rancorous abuse any party an interesting subject of study, is this took a sheer without any warning dijournal, not excepting the London Free same Englishman, with his eccentrici-Probably a very few of the members of the League were responsble for these campaign methods, which were strongly disapproved by the great body of the temperance people.

We repeat that the object of those who promoted Mr. Daly's candidature was to strike a blow at the Ross Government. They make no secret of it now; and hundreds who voted for Mr. Daly have since discovered it. We are not concerned as to the identity of the | innings. two or three gentlemen who waited upon him, and pressed him to enter the field; the fact remains that promfnent Conservatives, supposed to be his word, would knock you down on lifelong prohibitionists, quietly encouraged the movement, and then deserted to their own party. Mr. Daly was fed with the assurance that Conservatives and Liberals alike, were flocking to his standard, and he was so far misled that on more than one platform he predicted his own victory at the polls. The expected happened. The Liberals redeemed their pledges on election day while all but a handful of the of government. while all but a handful of the Conservatives whom Mr. Daly had also "Worshipping his old monarchy, derelied upon, betrayed him and betray- voted to his old institutions, but rav- whaleback, striking her a trifle aft of amidships, and cutting half way through the pig. No one alleged that these gentlemen belonged to the Prohibition League; but they have which are indispensable to the pros- in 80 feet of water, resting on an even always posed as prohibitionists; they were among the Conservatives who by their presence at prohibition meetings, gave strength to the movement for an independent candidate; and in the end, like most of their fellows, were found on Mr. Beck's platform, working for an anti-prohibition leader and an antitemperance party. Ald. Winnett's versatile mode of canvass we have already referred to; soliciting Liberal votes for Daly and Conservative votes for Beck.

Why should the leaders of the Prohibition party in this city—and ap- acceptable than nothing. parently in this city only-wish to defeat the Ross Government? Would they have preferred to see the administration thrust on the Province a prohib-1tory law without a reference to the present state of public opinion? They must have known that a prohibition bill would have been rejected by the Legislature whose members had no mandate from their constituents to support a measure involving such tremendous moral and material consequences. It is all very well to say that the Premier as a prohibitionist should have "dared to be a Daniel," and "dared to stand alone," but the temperance cause would have been frreparably damaged by the overthrow of the Government, for that would have been the immediate result. The Government took the only practicable advised by eminent temperance leaders and public men, among them Sir Leonard Tilley, Senator Aikin, Senator Allan, Hon. George E. Foster, T. Dixon Crafg, ex-M.P., Senator Vidal and Hon. Mr. Flint. The conditions of the referendum do not satisfy some of the militant prohibitionists; but they have been pronounced fair and just by leaders of Christian thought like Rev. Dr. Potts, Principal Caven and Rev. J. A. Macdonald, and by the great organ of the prohibitionists, the Montreal Witness. When such authorities have accepted it, it would seem wisdom on the part of the prohibitionists to close up their ranks, and if they have faith In their cause, collect their energies for the work of winning votes for a prohibitory law, instead of wasting these energies in trying to wean votes from a temperance government. The prohibitionists throughout the Province have on the whole shown good judgment in this respect, and in only two or three constituencies have they mixed in politics. We believe the great majority of Liberals who voted for Mr. Daly did so in perfect good faith, and from conscientious motives, and we believe they now see that those who put themselves at the head of far in the matter of temperance legisthe movement, sacrificed the interests of temperance in their anxiety to strike at the Government. It is to be hoped estranging a mass of citizens who, while doubting the efficacy of prohibition, are sincerely temperance men, and have been always ready in the past to join hands with the prohibitionists in trying to circumscribe the evils of the liquor traffic as far as possible within the limits of the present

In an Amercian newspaper the other day he analyzed "The Real Englishman" with his usual cleverness and humor. It is worth reproduction:

"The Englishman does nothing by halves. His favorite adjective is the adjective thorough. The more difficulties he has to surmount the more he feels in his element. He is a curious mixture of lion, mule and octopus. We have some experience of him on the Continent.

"If we take an Englishman to visit the ruins of some old castle or cathed- bers of the crew had time to get out of thrust his nose into every nook and cranny of the place, and climbed the most crumbling walls at the risk of

That is his little weakness, and one which makes him somewhat inconvenient; but if you piers fifteen minutes before the colliwant to be successful in this world, the first thing you have got to learn is how to make yourself at home everywhere. "Truly a strange being, and always ties, his contradictions, his sterling qualities and his amazing fads.

TWO VESSELS LOST LAKE SUPERIOR

The Steamer Hadley Collided With Whaleback Wilson.

NINE PEOPLE WERE DROWNED

Big Freighter Sank in Less Than Minute-Canadians Among the Lost.

Duluth, June 9 .- The whaleback steamer Thomas Wilson, of the Pittsburg Steamship Company's fleet, loaded with ore and bound down, was struck by the steamer George G. Hadley a short distance from the piers at Duluth harbor Saturday morning and sent to the bottom before nine memtheir bunks to save themselves.

The Thomas Wilson sank within a minute after being struck, and it was only by the smallest chance that the Hadley, bound up, and loaded with coal, did not also find a berth on the bottom of Lake Superior and carry with her many members of her crew. When the Wilson passed out of the sion she took a direct course down the lake. According to the story of the survivors of the Wilson the Hadley rectly into the whaleback steamer. She struck the Wilson just a trifle back of the amidships and her bow must have gone half-way through the Wilson. The Hadley recoiled from the shock with her bow stove in.

HOW ACCIDENT HAPPENED. luth, was met by a tug and given orders to go to Superior. At this time wno saw there was a crash, a shower of water, cries of warning and the Wilson went "In politics possessing two virtues down to the bottom of Lake Superior

The crew of the Wilson, a few seconds before the crash, could be seen throwing off their clothes preparatory to jumping into the water. As the boats drew nearer several jumped, and one man aboard the whaleback, with great presence of mind, threw over life preservers to those who had made the plunge, and the next instant he, too, was thrown into the water by the crash. The Hadley seemed to recoil after the shock. The hole in the whaleback made by the Hadley's bow must have been 50 feet wide and permitted the hold to fill almost instant-For an instant it appeared as though the Hadley was supporting the Wilson, and then, as she broke away, the whaleback took a plunge and disappeared, carrying with her that part of the crew which was below off watch. Two men who were on the deck jumped just as the Wilson took her header and were seen to strike the life-saving crew and the tug Annie L. Smith when they arrived on the scene a few minutes later. PLUNGED BENEATH THE WATER.

The plunge of the Wilson released the Hadley, and the latter boat swung back with a tremendous jerk. As the whaleback went beneath the water she spouted like a submarine explosion from the compression of the air in her. The Hadley's steering apparatus seemed to be paralyzed after the collision. She swung around in a circle several times and seemed utterly helpless. a few minutes it was apparent that the Hadley was going down, and the crew on her could be seen stripping themselves and lowering boats. Some of them got into the boats, but when the Hadley sank to within a foot of her deck she seemed to cease sinking for a few moments and the men clambered back on the boat. The race of the life-saving crew and the tugs for the wreck was thrilling. The Hadley would not have made the shore had it not been for the tugs. The life-saving crew picked up the men in the water. The Hadley had a mile and a half to go, but she made a gallant fight, although sinking every foot of the way. She landed on the bank just to the southward of the South pierhead, and there she sank in 24 feet of water. She lies decks-to, with her upper works only visible.

ABOUT THE TWO BOATS. The Wilson went down in 60 feet of water, and is a total loss. She belonged to the steel trust, and was worth about $100,000. The Wilson belonged to the whaleback type of boat, ever built. She came out of the West Superior shipyard just ten years ago, ment, "not to speak of a hollow tooth, and was 308 feet long by 38 feet deep. Her tonnage was 1,713.

The Hadley has probably had more had luck than any steamer now in service. She was built in 1888 for the man whose name she bears. With him on board, the Hadley came near being lost the first season in a Lake Superior gale. Early this season the steamer was so badly shattered in another Lake Superior gale that $15,000 had to be expended in fixing her up. This was her first trip since coming out of drydock after that disaster. She is owned by Col. W. P. Rend, of Chi-Her master is Capt. M. today that he was watching the tug Smith, which had brought orders for him to turn to the natural entry. He made no explanation of his share in the disaster. Sworn statements of both crews are being taken, preparatory to litigation which will undoubt-edly follow. The Hadley has on board 2,900 tons of coal belonging to the

Pittsburg Coal Company. POSITION OF THE WRECK. Major W. L. Fisk, in charge of the lake survey, received the following dispatch from Capt. Gaillard, engineer at Duluth: "Whaleback steamer Thos. BEAUTIFUL IN OLD AGE

Preservation of Youth Is a Borrowed Art.

Congenial Occupation a Great Preservative.

[Geraldine Bonner in San Francisco Argonaut.] Lately the vigorous efforts beauty has made to stand off old age must have rather softened its coming. There is no shock about it now. At 30 one does not throw up the sponge. In fact, ladies of 50 are still firmly clutching it with one hand and rubbing out wrinkles and rubbing on hair dye with the other. Nobody grows old gracefully, for no lady grows old at all. There does not come a day in the life of the modern beauty, as there did in that of the Riccardi's bride, loved by the Medici duke, who, looking in her glass, saw her glory gone .-

the lip's red charm, The heaven of hair, the pride of the And the blood that blues the inside

The preservation of youth-or its atattempted preservation—is said to be an art borrowed from the French. The women of other lands became exasperated of the stories from France of charmers of mature years, like Ninon de l'Enclos and Mme. Recamier. Now some miserable journalist of an inquisitive turn has under-taken to put all the French actresses famous for youth or beauty in the witness box, and make each one tell what is her receipt for preserving And to everybody's horror, the both. French actresses, almost to a woman, refute the theories they have been living for, have not a word to say for new receipts for creams, do not allude took place is that the Hadley, when a short distance from the canal at Duluth, was met by a tug and size of the short distance from the canal at Duluth, was met by a tug and size of the short ones, and even are inclined to give the go-by to such respected fetishes as fresh air and the Salisbury cure. Sarah Bernhardt the deep to the old ones, and even are inclined bury cure. Sarah Bernhardt, the dean of the society of elderly ladies who look young, flies in the face of every accepted rule. Air and light she ab-hors and sedulously shuts herself out from, spending from eleven to twelve hours in the day at the theater "with-"Beauty sleep," that we've all been brought up to think is the great preto bed at three in the morning and rising at nine. Fatigue stimulates her, she thrives on it. She eats no meat, but as many as ten eggs a day, and drinks nothing but champagne-and at 60 she looks 30.

For sale youngest; Jeanne Granier, who never thinks of her health, the healthiest, and Bartet, who takes no regular meals and eats when the spirit moves her, the most poetic and charming. There is but one inference to be drawn, and that is that the interest and inspiration of their work must be the real source of their prolonged youth. It is only just becoming known that occupation, not carried to excess and of a congenial sort, is one the greatest preservatives health and mental vigor. The old idea that after middle age long life was to be insured and the mind kept fresh by a slackening of labor, much rest and a gradual easing of all mental effort, is now an exploded theory.

BAYLEY'S

SOCIALIST GORDON'S CASE

Is to Come Up Again on Tuesday for Hearing.

First Indictment Was Quashed on Technical Grounds Only.

Hamilton, June 9 .- At Osgoode Hall, on Friday, E. E. A. Du Vernet, for L. M. Gordon, the nominee of the Socialist Labor party in Hamilton, at the recent provincial elections, moved for order for certiorari to bring up conviction of applicant for unlawfully obstructing the public street by inducing a crowd to gather there, and for purposes likely to create a breach of the peace. Order was made, on consent, quashing the conviction, without costs. This decision is taken to mean that the offense, not being covered by the city bylaw, is not a matter of summary jurisdiction, but one of common law, and to be proceeded with by indictment, and as Gordon had not been put on his election, the conviction was quashed on this technicality. The second case against this man Gordon and Roadhouse will then be asked to elect, and the case will be tried as for an indictable offense.

Had Nervous Prostration

Was Very Thin, Weak, Nervous and Run Down-Fully Restored by Using

There are few diseases more difficult to cure than nervous prostration. Before the discovery of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food doctors usually gave some stimulant to whip up the exhausted nerves and quicken the heart's action.
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food acts in an entirely different way. It gradually and naturally creates new nerve force, and builds up your system. You can prove that it is benefiting you by keeping a record of your weight while using it. Mrs. S. W. West, Drayton, Wellington county, Ont., writes: "About two years ago I got terribly run down, and became a victim of nervous finally prostration. I had no appetite, seemed to lose interest and ambition, and could scarcely drag myself about. Hearing of good results from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I used three boxes with great benefit. In a short time I gained eleven pounds, and as I was very thin when I began to use the remedy I was very proud of the increase of weight.

"Then the following spring I became rather poorly, and they again built ne up, and gave me such a good appetite that I wanted to eat nearly half the time. I was so pleased with the cure the Nerve Food brought about may use this testimonial in order that others may learn of the good there is in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.'

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is sold at 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

SHAH WAS DELIGHTED WITH MUSIC MACHINE

Clever Invention Pleased His Mightiness More Than All the Bands.

Berlin, June 9 .- The Shah of Persia took more delight in hearing an American music machine, of which there is one at the Persian legation, than to listening to all the crack military bands. His majesty sat in his shirtsleeves for hours enjoying the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" and other airs. From time to time he handed the operator Persian cigarettes.

The Shah found the climate of Germany diagreeably hot. He spent most of his time indoors, in his shirt-sleeves and sat at an open window fanning himself and inexpressibly shocking a large military contingent which was bidding him farewell and whose ideas of propriety never admit that a gentleman may be seen in his shirt-sleeves. The shah is equipped with a letter of credit for 3,000,000 marks, which sum. since he and his entire retinue are the emperor's guests, has scarcely been touched. THE BOER LEADERS'

Urging Them to Accept Their Fate and Thanking Them for Their Gallant Struggle.

Pretoria, June 8.-An open letter of the Boer leaders to the burghers, in which the burghers are counseled to loyal acquiescence in the peace agreement, is an eloquent and pathetic document, in which they thank the burghers for their noble sacrifices, and express their sympathy for the bereaved. The letter concludes as follows: "Now that there is peace, and although it is not a peace such as we longed for, yet let us abide where God has led us. We can with clear consciences declare that for two and a half years our people have carried on the struggle in a manner almost unknown to history. Let us now grasp each other's hands, for another great struggle lies before us, a struggle for the spiritual and racial prosperity and welfare of our people. Casting aside all feelings of bitterness, let us learn to forget and to forgive, so that the deep wounds caused by this war may be healed."

The document is signed by Mr. Schalkburgher, formerly acting vicepresident of the Transvaal, and Gen. Louis Botha.

LETTER TO BURGHERS BRITISH OFFICERS GET A ROASTING PILES IN NEW PROCESS

tary Education.

Brought to Light-Systems of Woolwich and Sandhurst Condemned.

London, June 7 .- The report of the committee on military education and training of the British army was issued today. The committee's report, which is based on the evidence of the officers themselves from the commander-in-chief downwards, fills 48 printed pages with caustic criticism of the existing system. The witnesses were unanimous in saying that junior officers were lamentably deficient in military knowledge, the desire to acquire knowledge, and in zeal.

The committee finds that the young officers will not work unless compelled to do so, that "KEENNESS IS OUT OF FASHION," and that "It is not correct form." They declare that many officers do not possess common elementary education, and plaintively protest that officers ought "at least to be able to express themselves clearly and consistently in their own language." The report condemns the system of both Woolwich and Sandhurst, where the instructors having no inducement to teach the cadets, still less to work. With a view of diminishing the expenses of officers belonging to cavalry regiments, the report recommends that polo tournaments, regimental coaches, and keeping hounds be forbidden.

THE REMEDY. Perhaps the penultimate paragraph is the most important of all. "So long as mediocrity is permitted to pass muster," says the committee, ability meets with no substantial re-commendation it is useless to hope for any valuable results from verba amendments to the regulations. Nothing but inducements in the shape of certain rewards for good work, either in peace or war, can raise standard of knowledge through the commissioned ranks.' PROMOTION BY MERIT. The committee therefore recommends an "honest system of promotion by merit, following up on tests honestly conducted, and honestly reported on.' The report plainly hints that officers can hardly be expected to work so long as the present system of advancement through social influence is in vogue, or so long as efficiency has nothing whatever to do with the lection of officers for desirable appointments.

Fire Sale a Success

Our opening day of the fire sale was an immense success. Everybody delighted with the bargains secured.

We closed today for the purpose of marking down another large lot of slightly-damaged Ø FIRE GOODS. Ø

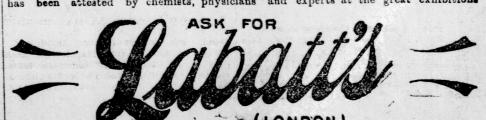

Nothing particularly wrong with them, but could not be placed on regular sale again when we go into our newly-built store. You should inspect, as we will open again with the second lot of Fire Goods on TUESDAY, JUNE 10, AT 8 A.M. We have plenty of bargains left, and with the addition of many articles marked down during Monday's inspection, there are better opportunities left. Don't miss the sale! Everything in Tinware, Enameled-Ware, Washing Machines, Screen Doors and Windows, Refrigerators at less ion that Lord Kitchener, now a full general, deserves all and more than all the rewards he has received. Lord REGISTERED IN ENGLAND. Kitchener not only completed a campaign of a most arduous and exhausting kind, but he concluded it with an honorably and satisfactory peace. His qualifications to the command of the army in India or any other army are indisputable, but his departure from South Africa will be deeply deplored, for he has won the confidence of Boer as well as Briton. His influence would be more efficacious in the restoration of order than forty thousand men. KING EDWARD VII. HEARTILY CHEERED

By the Boers Who Are Laying Down Their Arms.

CAPE COLONY REBELS COME IN

Relations Between the Two Classes of Boers May Be Long Embittered.

London, June 9 .- Lord Kitchener, in a dispatch from Pretoria, under today's date, announced the surrender on Saturday and Sunday of 2,500 rifles, of which 448 were handed in by Cape Colony rebels. The remainder were principally from Gen. Dewet's men. The British commander added that the cheers given by the Boers for King Edward were hearty.

A STRONG CONTRAST.

Bloemfontein, Orange River Colony, June 9 .- A strong contrast to the good feeling between Boer and Britain is the bitterness existing between the burghers who are surrendering under the peace terms and those Boers who surrendered during the campaign. When the Boer leaders came to Bloemfontein previous to the conclusion of peace, they curtly refused to shake hands with those who had previously surrendered. The general belief is that relations between these two classes of Boers will be embittered for a long time.

NO SECRET COMPACT. The suggestion that Lord Kitchener, with the connivance of the government, entered into a secret compact with the Boers to induce them to surrender, was denied by the government leader, A. J. Balfour, in the House of Commons today. Mr. Balfour declared that so far as the government was aware no pledges and no assurances were given by Lord Kitchener which had not been PART L-CHAPTER I. That "fine feathers make fine birds" so self-evident an adage as to admit of no dispute by the most argumentative of cavillers; but that fine feathers make happy birds is a different story altogether, and one which will bear a considerable amount of discussion pro

Up two pair of stairs in vonder large London house poised over a box of fragrant mignonette, and commanding the comparatively extensive view of the square gardens, hangs a shining gilt birdcage, with bath and sanded floor complete, perches for exercise, trays for hempseed and other delicacies, a graceful festooning of groundsel, and a lump of white sugar between the bars. Prison, forsooth! it's a palace; and would its inmate, that bright yellow canary-bird, sing so loudly, think you if she wasn't happy? Don't we know that the bravest voice and the noisiest laugh are unerring indicators of heart's-ease and content? At least, the world is well satisfied to take them as such; and surely plenty of birdseed, and sand, and groundsel, and white sugar, are an equivalent for that imaginary blessing which men term liberty. 'Tis a sad heart that 'sighs for the wings of a dove'; the canary don't want any wings, she has no use even for her own glossy yellow pair; and for liberty, why, she wouldn't know what to do with it if she had it. 'Tis only on a day like this, when the May sunon a day like this, when the May sunshine bursts forth into somewhat of summer warmth, when the tender green leaves, as yet unsmirched by London smoke, quiver in the breath of spring, and the fleecy clouds dance against the blue sky over Beigrave-Square, that the cage looks a little narrow and confined, that the vagrant life of yonder dirty sparrow appears somewhat enviable. It must be joyful to be free to perch on the area railings, or to sip from the muddy kennel, and twitter away at will over chimney and housetop, into the fraover chimney and housetop, into the fra grant hedgerows and sunny fields of the pleasant country. But then he is but a common sparrow, after all, while she is a delleate canary—noblesse oblige, indeed, in many more ways than one. What thinks her high-born mistress, what thinks her high-born mistress, the Lady Gertrude, an earl's sister and a sovereign's god-child? With the wholesome fear of Burke and Debrett before my eyes, I suppress the proper name of the noble maiden. Shall I involve myself in an action for libel at the suit of a distinguished family? Shall I pander to the morbid taste of that numerous and respectable class who make I pander to the morbid taste of that numerous and respectable class who make it their especial study to identify the persons of the aristocracy and chronicle their deeds? Vade retro—be it far from me! The titled daughters of England are classed and ticketed in certain catalogues published by authority, with mercantile fidelity. With the same accuracy that is at once his pride and his profession, in measuring her off a thousand yards of tulie for the trimming of her ball dress, can John Ellworthy, the mercer, calculate to a day the age of Lady Hildegonda Vavasour. Her ladyship is debarred by the remnants of feudalism from the very birthright of lowlier women, never to exceed sevenlowlier women never to exceed seven-and-twenty. Like those high-bred Arab steeds which the children of the desert offer for purchase to the Feringhee, there can be no concealment of her age or her performances; and she is sold, so to speak, with her pedigree about her neck. Be gentle with her in her new capacity; like all thorough-bred animals the is staunch and resolute for good and

A planoforte occupies the corre-sponding recess at the other side of the sponding recess at the other side of the doorway. A piece of music lies open on its stand; it is an oratorio of Handel's—a deep, solemn and suggestive strain, such as to sit and hear with half-shut eyes, from which the tears are not far distant, calls up a vision of the shadowy future and the mournful past, of the bruised reed and the aching heart, of heave and fears and bitter course. hopes and fears, and bitter sorrow, and humble resignation, and the white-robed angels leading the poor penitent home. She is not all frivolous, you see, my she is not all frivolous, you see, my ady Gertrude, though the canterbury Lady Gertrude, though the canterbury by the side of the instrument contains the "Ratcatcher's Waltz," and the "Pray Don't Polka," and other refined and popular music of the modern school. Her book shelves too, bear a strange mixture of literature, light and heavy, ancient and modern. No Byron, no Tommy Moore. A quarto Milton, we dare not say "thumbed," but worn and frayed by the taper-white fingers, and holding even now between the pages of Satan's rebellious peroration a single thread of hair, denoting that, while Justine dresses the silken locks, Lady Gertrude is no less busy than her handmaid with the inner culture of that haughty little head. A voluminous Shakespeare with notes, a translation of Herodotus, Swedenborg's transcendental lucubrations Euclid which she cannot ware oorg's transcendental lucubra-cuelid, which she cannot undertions. Euclid, which she cannot understand, but perseveres at from sheer obstinacy, even to the hopless and utterly futile task of learning him by heart; Schiller, in the original whom she doesn't care much about; Tennyson's "Maud," that she would never confess she cries over like a child; sundry excellent works of reference on chemistry, ontics gradory and other soils. optics, geology and other sciences; two or three odd volumes of sermons, new and stiff in their binding, as if but rarely consulted, and a French novel, doubteristited, and a French novel, doubt-se contraband, and having no business ere. By the way, what is the intrinsic erit of this species of literature? Why it gradually becoming so popular in ngland? Is it that the less scrupulous renchman hesitates not to paint phases life which British conventionality af-cts to ignore the while they may the fects to ignore, the while they move the mainsprings of every-day society? or is that he has a happy knack of describ-ing gracefully the mere trifles we all now so well, and imparting an additional charm to the interest every readfeels in matters with which he is mself familiar, as we see a farce run after night, wherein a man eats mutton-chop on the stage, or goes bodily then and there in full sight audience? Whatever may be the attraction, there is no doubt that these works are day by day more generally read, notwithstanding their questionable taste, their doubtful morality, and undisquisitions blushing disquisitions on sentiments which at least we don't write about on this side of the channel. Perhaps there may be something in the language after all, and we may opine with Billy Fudge

"Though the words on good manners in-I assure you 'tis not half so shocking in French." [To be Continued.]

WOODSTOCK DREW FIRST BLOOD The large crowd of spectators who witnessed Saturday's lacrosse match saw the local team beaten by the visitors from Woodstock. At no time during the game did the London boys succeed in securing a lead, but not until the final quarter, when Woodstock gained their last two goals, putting them four points ahead, did the London rooters despair of landing the match. As it was they went home with saddened hearts, but satisfied that they had witnessed a fast game and still confident of the ultimate success of their favorites. The Seventh Regiment Band headed a procession of carriages, containing the players, to Tecumseh Park, and enlivened the intermissions between the quarters with catchy music.

It took just five minutes of play in the first quarter to enable the visitors to score their first goal on a straight shot by Rider; but four minutes afterwards London tied the score, the ball going into the net without a scuffle in front of the goal. Cornwall, June 9 .- The home team outclassed Montreal in the opening game of the N. A. L. A. The visitors only scored the tenth and fourteenth games, the final score being 12 to 2 in favor of Cornwall. The game was a clean one from start to finish. Cornwall and two Montreal men were ruled off for minor fouls. Eastwood, of the Cornwall team, was the only man hurt. He received a bad cut accidentally from Haynes' stick in the thirteenth game, and had to retire, Montreal dropping a man to even up. The match was a very pretty exhibi-tion of lacrosse, and Montreal seemed to have more of the game than the score indicates. Their defense field, however, was very weak, and here Cornwall was strong. They are playing great ball in the Wholesale League these days. The Carling-McClary game at Springbank on Saturday was one of the warmest contests seen during the season. The outcome was doubtful until the last very well, and the fielding, though not Catharines getting their only tally of the most finished kind, was very scored two, and in the last four, the during the week in the meeting of the McLachlan. They were pretty evenwork. The errors made during the game were not of a costly nature. Nearly 2,000 people witnessed the game and showed keen interest in it through-

The second game surprised the fans. Southams must have buckled to last week, as they showed all kinds of improvement and did clean work. Their outfield has been reinforced, and each man did good work. Smith pitched an excellent game. The other team, the London Printing and Lithographing Company, still need bracing up and abundance of practice. The result was and Rowell

He is named Ivanhoe, and is a large bay, with a blaze face, and up to a year ago a very docile disposition; of late, however, he has grown irritable, and almost vicious toward strangers; to his master and the children he is the same as ever. He bears on his right flank 000. > A great change has come over the spirit of New York turf writers regarding the starting of Mr. C. J. Fitzgerald. A year or two ago it was their wont to sneer at him as "this Canadian," and it was more than hinted that he gave Martimas his Futurity by the length of time he kept the youngsters at the post. Now, seemingly, nothing is too good to say of Mr. Fitzgerald, who, it will be remembered, started on his career by a decidedly lamentable exhibition at the Woodbine, writes "Pop" in the Toronto World. It is the New York Sun that, speaking in praise of the no-recall system-which Mr. Mars Cassidy has magnificently scored with both at Toronto and Hamilton-says: "Mr. Fitzgerald has earned the confidence of the public, and his work with the barrier cannot be much improved upon." Messrs. Whitney, Keene, Mackay, Featherstone, Belmont, Hitchcock and others all term the no-recall system a pronounced success, and it is certain of the same mind is the public, whose patience is not now taxed, except between races, when the delay at times seems a little bit too long.

ARGOS LEAVE FOR HENLEY TO.

MORROW. Toronto, June 9.-Lou Scholes, of the Dons, and the members of the Argonaut Rowing Club's eight, who will compete at the Henley Royal Regatta, will leave Toronto tomorrow on the 2 o'clock boat, for New York whence they sail on June 11 for Liverpool. Mr. Scholes, who is entered in the race for the diamond sculls, will be accompanied by his father, and they are confident of securing the prize, notwithstanding the fast scullers the Canadians will compete against. With Joe Wright as stroke oar, the Argos are pulling faster than ever before and such a good judge as Fred Hall states that, like Lou Scholes, their chances are good.

ATTACKED BY THE BEASTS Savage Pets Make an Onslaught

Two Men and a Woman Attached to a Show Seriously Injured.

On Their Trainers.

Cleveland, June 9 .- Three animal trainers attached to an animal show had thrilling experiences here Saturday with their savage pets, and as a result one man, the lion trainer, Jos. McPhee, is fatally injured with great holes in his abdomen made by the teeth of a lion. The others injured are Herman Wedder, whose right leg was fatally crushed by a bear, and Madame Morelli, whose right arm and side were lacerated by a leopard. The animals had been shipped from Boston to this city, and were surly and ugly. They were being transferred from the railway cars to their cages when the casualties happened. Wedder was the first to be injured when he entered the cage of a big bear, which received him with a swipe of his immense paw, knocking him to the floor, where the bear pounced upon him and fastened his teeth into his right leg, tearing off so large a chunk as to make necessary, surgeons say, amputation of the injured limb. Madame Morelli, who entered her cage of leopards, was received in a similar manner to Wedder, only that one of her pets leaped upon her shoul-der and lacerated her right arm se-verely. Madame Morelli was lying on the floor when the attendants came to her assistance, and with pikes drove the spotted beast off, not, however, without its making another attempt at the woman's life, for, just as the door was about to be closed between the animal and the woman, the leopard again made a leap at her. HORRIBLY LACERATED.

The lion tamer, McPhee, was watching the transfer of the lions from the car to their cage, and because they refupsed to move promptly he entered the cage. He had hardly entered be-fore a great beast leaped upon him, pinning him to the floor. The lion placed his great paws upon the fallen man's breast and tore his right leg in a fearful manner, the tendons being pulled from the bone. The efforts of the attendants to and physicians who were called say that he is surely fatally injured. Male Valets.

A new manifestation of the servant question is the substitution by women while traveling of a valet or a trained nurse for a lady's maid. "You don't mean to tell me," cried a conservative elderly woman to her up-to-date granddaughter, "that women in good society put a man into the place of a lady's maid?" "Certainly I do," was the calm re-joinder. "Just as they prefer often-times the man milliner, dressmaker, habitmaker, tailor and hairdresser. "Of course, the duties of a woman's 'valet and a lady's maid are not exactly the same, but the principal difference seems to be that those of the valet are more inclusive." One reason for the rise of the valet spend six months or more every year away from home and travel without male escort has increased tremendous-ly of late and that few who can afford it consider their traveling equipment complete without a lady's maid. As a result the supply of lady's maids is short of the demand. Therefore, valets are employed as a substitute. The average lady's maid is not a good traveler. Neither is she resourceful in emergencies, and she is not quick to promote the comfort of her employer under unexpected condi-She shines only within the boundaries of the boudoir, and is generally considered a treasure if she no more than keep the clothing of her mistress mended and brushed, dress her hair, assist at her toilet, and pack and unpack her trunks. In return for these services she gets anywhere from $30 to $50 a month. Indeed, some women go so far as to say that outside of the private apartments of her mistress the lady's maid is more of a hindrance than a help while traveling, whereas the valet may be depended on for many services, such as running errands, carrying sachels and bundles, interviewing porters and baggagemen, and bearding the railroad ticket agent in his den. He is also willing to engage his own quarters and meals without bothering his mistress, is not over particular as to softness of his mattress or the quality of his food, and last, but not least, does not complain of being lone-

He can pack trunks, not excepting the bonnet-box, those who know him best declare, even more skillfully than a woman; and, without breaking down under the strain, he will keep the gown, boots and shoes of his mistress immaculately brushed, dress her hair, and on occasion fetch and carry hot water and meal trays-a task a lady's maid rejects with of-fended dignity.

In short, the woman's valet, who must by no means be confounded with the man's valet, is a remarkably useperson, and because of the satisfaction he is giving he seems to be in a fair way to become popular.-Chicago Chronicle.

Thanksgiving Services in St. Paul's and Other Churches.

KING AND QUEEN TAKE PART

And Wore Joined at the Cathedral by Others of the Royal Family.

London, June 8 .- The noisy jubilation with which London has resounded for the last week was succeeded today by more subdued, although not less impressive, public demonstrations of thankfulness for the return of peace in South Africa. The thanksgiving services in London today were typical of the services held throughout the empire, but the presence of King Edward and other members of the royal family at the principal devotional service in London and the progress of the royal personages to and from St. Paul's Cathedral through cheering thousands of British subjects and visitors in London, gave thanksgiving day in the metropolis the added feature of a notable historic occasion.

MORNING PROGRAMME. The programme of this morning was not intended to be accompanied by special estentation. King Edward and Queen Alexandra did not pass through the streets even in semi-state, but rode to St. Paul's in an ordinary landau, drawn by four horses, accompanied by postillions and outriders. Only those members of the royal family who reside in Buckingham Palace accompanied their majesties. The Prince and Princess of Wales and others proceeded to St. Paul's separately, but by the same route as did their majesties. The King and the Queen were joined at the cathedral by the Prince and Princess of Wales and many other distinguished personages. Although the weather was chilly the streets for the entire distance from the palace to the cathedral were thickly lined with people, who bared their heads and cheered as the royal family

THE KING WARMLY GREETED. King Edward, who wore the uniform of a field marshal, was greeted with enthusiasm, and his majesty, the Prince of Wales and the other princes were busily engaged in acknowledging salutations from the crowd. Lord Roberts, who drove with his wife and daughters, was one of the most conspicuously greeted with cheers. At Temple Bar officials of the city of London, for the first time since the jubilee of the late Queen Victoria, awaited the sovereign in state. The lord mayor of London, Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, presented the sword drive the lion off with pikes had no of the city to his majesty and uttered effect, and seemed only to infuriate a loyal welcome. The King returned a loyal welcome. The King returned the sword, smiled, bowed and simply I. Their majesties estered the cathedral to the accompaniment of the hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," by the organ and the choir, and the throng of worshipers rose and heartily joined in the singing. The cathedral organ is that the number of women who at this morning's service was reinforced with brass instruments. A notable feature of the musical service was the rendition of a "Te Deum" composed by the late Sir Arthur Sullivan for a thanksgiving peace service. Following the thanksgiving collects, at the request of King Edward, the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past," was sung to the tune of "Old Hundred." The sermon by the Bishop of Stepney was short and simple, and was preached from the text, "The blessings, of peace." The service was concluded with the singing of the National Anthem. The members of the royal family returned from the cathedral to Buckingham Palace by way of the Victoria embankment, and King Edward and the other royal personages received ova-tions all along the route. AT BERLIN. Berlin, June 8.—The thanksgiving service for the conclusion of peace in South Africa, held in the English Church here today, was attended by the members of the British embassy at Berlin, Andrew D. White, the United States ambassador, and John B. Jackson, secretary of embassy.

Subdued, and to all appearances vanquished in one, it makes its appearance in another direction. In many the digestive apparatus is as delicate as the mechanism of a watch or scientific instrument, in which even a breath of air will make a variation.
