THE AMERICAN TARIFF

Will be an Issue in the Next Campaign

—The McKinley Bill Will Probably Stand.

NEW YORK, March 13.—"The tariff will be one of the leading issues in the next national campaign," United States Senator Eugene Hale, of Maine, said yesterday. Mr. Hale does not think the Senate will modify the McKinley tariff at the next session of Congress.

This state of affairs naturally is very severe on numerous villages which depend almost entirely upon the towns in their neighborhood, for supplies of food and fuel; in fact, in case of a number of these small villages their isolation is already causing considerable anxiety, as actual starvation stares them in the face and could the weather not moderate shortly should be weather not shortly should be weather not should be weather not shortly shou

London, March 13.—Efforts in the direction of sending supplies of food to the isolated villages of Devonshire and Cornwall are being made, but the snow-storms impede the work of rescue, for such, in fact, it is. In addition to the enormous losses suffered by the farmers in sheep and cattle, which have either been frozen to death in the fields or which have been smothered beneath snow drifts, large

THE BAIT QUESTION.

Commenting on a Gloucester dispatch announcing the fitting out of the largest salt fishing fleet that ever left Gloucester for the Grand Banks, the St. Johns Herald says: They can only get bait in the waters of this colony, and therefore we have the key to the situation. If we give them balt they will be successful. Their catch will be large and the demand for our fish small. If we give them no bait they must be unsuccessful, their catch must be small and the demand for our fish large. Let us but cling to our bait and soon, we will have no competition upon the banks. Surrender our bait and the fishermen of all the continent will be aided to destroy our fishing grounds as they have their own.

sheep and cattle, which have either been frozen to death in the fields or which have been smothered beneath snow drifts, large numbers of herees have perished in a like manner. The farmers and villagers, as a result of the storm of the last few days, are living on their reserve stocks of bacon and ham and are turning to their hen rocets and pig houses for a further supply of food. Many of the laborers and artisans, however, have no such, resource as a stock of food to fall back on, and are aiready suffering severely, with the prospect of further and increased suffering in the future. In the majority of villages and the smaller snowed-up towns all the shops and schools are closed.

A CURIOUS INCIDENT.

One of the curious incidents of the storm was the snowling-up near Exeter of one of those old-fashioned four-horse coaches which still do duty in many parts of England. The passengers were compolled to camp by the roadside near the snowbund coach. They built a large fire, improvised a rude hut made of branches torn from trees, and kept up their spirits as best they could. When, after 48 hours of this distressing experience, the passengers were rescued, they were in a pitiable condition. So terribly did the ladies suffer that a number of them are now at Dousland confined to their beds and under constant medical treatment, while several of the male passengers suffered almost as much from the exposure and want of food which they endured.

BRITISH LIBERALS.

London, March 14.—Mr. Gladstone has been in consultation with Mr. Morley, Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Sir G. O. Trevelyan on the scope of the Liberal electoral platform, and is preparing to announce it at Hastings. It is learned that home rule, with a definite exposition of the questions of Irish representation in the Imperial Parliament, and land and police relations to the Irish Government continues to hold the front rank. Mr. Schuadhorst (Liberal), the ablest and clearest headed of the electoral wire-pullers, estimates that Mr. Parnell's following in the next Parliament will be reduced to ten. Tim Healy's calculation gives Parnell eight supporters. Mr. Gladstone, thus assured of the support of an Irish phalanx of 73 steady adherents, deems himself ready to resume and complete the legislation for Ireland.

The remaining planks of the Liberal platform are: "One man, one vote," including general reform legislation, free elementary education, amendment of the labor laws, with the abolition of the law of conspiracy; equalization of taxation, with reform of the death duties; amendment of the factory acts as affecting children, and measures to assist rural laborers to acquire holdings.

The expectation increases that the general elections will be held next autumn. The real life has gone out of the present session.

The real life has gone out of the present session.

It is significant of an early dissolution of Parliament to find the Conservatives suddenly becoming warm champions of rural workers. Collings "Small Holdings" Bill, when debated in the House of Commons, met with unexpected acclamations from the Tories. Mr. Chaplin, who has hitherto been a bitter antagonist of any proposal to assist the rurals, announced his conversion to the Collings scheme and promised a Government bill which would do better than the Collings measure. The debate all round had a strong flavor of dissolution and appeal to the country. The expectation increases that the general elections will be held next autumn. The real life has gone out of the present session.

It is stated at Dublin that vincent Scully, the Parnellite who unsuccessfully contested for the seat in Parliament representing North Kilkenny against Sir John Pope Hennessey, the McCarthyite, will contest for the seat representing North Sligo, made vacant by the death of Peter McDonald. PARNELL AND KITTY.

The Deposed Leader Losing the Confidence of His Friends. The Deposed Leader Losing the Condense of His Friends.

LONDON, March 14.—Mr. Parnell's absence from the House of Commons on Thursday, during Mr. Balfour's narration of the distress in Ireland and the relief measures adopted by the Government has caused intense surprise in Ireland. Parnell mysteriously vanished on Wednesday. It transpires that he traveled to Brighton and stayed at Walsingham Terrace with Mrs. O'Shea. He remained secreted until 6 o'clock when he appeared in the House of Commons, and after remaining two hours returned to Brighton. A messenger boy has called at the House of Commons daily has called at the House of Commons daily the Bannar Menell's Bonnar lows:

By Mr. Clancy—From the County Council of Kent, for the Torrons system of Council of Coun his cause.

The worst feature of Mr. Parnell's feud with the Nationalists develops as the fight becomes fiercer. The attitude of partial respect toward the clergy disappears, and thinly-veiled insolence, sometimes openly reviling, characterizes the speeches of the leaguers. Whatever be the issue of the struggle, the shock to the moral and religious sense of the people is irreparable. Parnell issued his manifesto last evening. It is addressed to the Irish Americans, and is principally composed of an appeal to is principally composed of an appeal to Irishmen in the United States for assistance. Irishmen in the United States for assistance. He defends his position, and declares he aiways worked in the interest of his bonded countrymen, although often misconstrued. The manifesto is a great disappointment to Parnell's friends, who havi thought he would exonerate himself in relation to Mrs. O'Shea. That lady, however, is not referred to in the document. Parnell appeals to his fellow countrymen in America to once more assist him in quelling mutiny and disloyalty to Ireland and in securing a really independent Parliamentary party, so that we may make one more, even though it be our very last effort, to win freedom and prosperity for our nation by constitutional means.

MORE FATAL TH AN WAR!

"That dread disease, whose ruthle Withers the beauty's transient flower."

Withers the beauty's transient flower."

De Quincey said of consumption that it was the "Murderer of the children of hope." This dread disease is the greatest calamity that afflicts the children of men. It is worse than war. War is a mere outburst of passion which, when it has glutted itself with blood, lets the world grow beautiful crops out of the rich sub-soil it has made. Consumption knows no pause, but marches on, dealing death silently but more fatally than all the armaments of the world. That cough, that hectic flush; that eye that is far too bright; the form that is becoming so shrunken—these are said and fatal signs.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer exeruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the sytem. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and conver the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion of Dyspepsia.

A deterioration of quality in their brands would not alone destroy the structure upon which they have spent their time, money and labor, but would result in a loss of that confidence the public have favored them with that money again spent in advertising to introduce new brands could not purchase. Therefore, is it to be supposed that any sane business man would be so foolish as to destroy in a short time what it has taken so doing to establish?

Their brands, "Cable," "Mungo." "El Padre" and "Madre e Hijo" are undoubtedly the best value, the safest and most reliable smoke, and cost no more to the consumer than cigars of much inferior quality. Why smoke other brands or permit dealers (for the sake of additional gain) to sell you those that you are in most cases unfamiliar with?

The W. A. M. A met at 10 o'clock at the Chapter House pursday morning. Ars. Millar presided a the absence of Mrs. Baldwin, owing t the illness of the bishop. The meeting was very largely attended, 123 members answering to their names, while many more cam'n afterwards.

The report of the Board of Management meeting, held "bishopstowe" March 11, was read and slopted.

The report of the Education Committee was then read and the following resolution, moved by Mrs. Newman, seconded by Mrs. Hoyt, was pot to the meeting and carried after some discussion: "That the report of the Education Committee be adopted, and that a copy of the same (with the exception of the James referring to the location of the funne home in London) be forwarded to the various diocesan boards for their consideration and adoption," after which the meeting adjourned.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mrs.
Complin for her hospitality, and to other ladies of London for their kindness; also to Mrs. Weir for her paper which was read yesterday, and to Mrs. Millar for the efficient manner in which she presided.

After a few words of kindness and encouragement from Mrs. Millar, the meeting closed with the benediction. The Bible

Miners Say They Must Steal or Starve

Zanesville, O., March 13.—Work at the coal mines at Rendville, Hocking county, has been suspended for several weeks. The miners are destitute, and families of many of them suffering for many of the necessaries of life. Yesterday 50 of them proceeded in a body to McCoy & Williams' store, broke it open and carried of 30 barrels of flour and several hundred pounds of meat. They made no attempt to conceal their identity, but said thay had to iteal or starve. Active measures are being taken to inquire into the wants of the people and relieve the suffering.

Pitrsburg, March 13.—As a result of the great stagnation in coke and iron affairs throughout the country the Pennsylvania Railroad, Baltimore and Ohio, Pittsburg and Lake Eric, Pittsburg and Western and Pittsburg and McKeesport roads have been making large reductions in their working forces.

their candidate, they will seek to upset the election. They have also written the secretary of the Law Society, notifying him that such ballots are illegal, and that they will object to their being counted, and further calling upon him to send another ballot to the profession. It is claimed on behalf of the early ticket that this is merely a "crorbach," and that votes already posted are still good.

It appears that the secretary trusted too much to the members of the profession being acquainted with the act relating to the election of benches, which distinctly states the time during which votes should be sent in. He has accordingly asked the postoffice authorities to retain until the 23rd inst. all envelopes addressed to him marked "voting paper," so that the papers may not be received by him before the legal time. It appears as well that many of the lawyers were not acquainted with the law, and retered them.

THE LAMENT OF "AN OLD CON-SERVATIVE." "An Old Conservative" writing to the Free Press bitterly complains of the management of his party in this city. He thus perates the Besses:

berates the Besses:

"In our city we have a Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association, who, in the matter of drive whist parties and mock parliaments, are very successful, and we have the Liberal-Conservative Association. It seems to be comprised of ex-mayors, aldermen, etc. Who outside the charmed Adermen, etc. Who outside the charmed circle knows the entrance password? Some, it know, that have in the past been favored by being allowed to enter have retired disputed. Our member has necessarily spent for the last eight or ten years most of his time in Ottawa, and it seems he has depended upon the advice of the Grand Moguls of this association. There is no necessity for saying that he has leaned on a broken reed."

that in future that sort of unfairness should be stopped. As if to emphasize the points which he makes, the correspondent adds:

"As an old Conservative I am sorry to have to express my candid opinion that the Conservative Association as a body is responsible for the late defeat. They have apparently studiously ignored the staunch members of the party and their protests, and they gloried in parading the converts and manufacturers, forgetting that it is the people who elect the member, and the old adags, that you can bring a horse to the water, but you cannot always make him drink."

The revelations are very instructive and the admissions refreshing. "An Old Con-servative" voices the impression of the ma-jority of the London public when he says "it is the people who elect the member."
To that fact, and to that fact alone does Mr. Hyman owe his majority. The result have been the same even if the would have been the same even if the Bosses had not foisted Mr. Carling on the constituency. The electors of London had rather tired of Mr. Carling, but they had even less respect for the policy that he re-

A measure so grossly un-just, so calculated to defeat the alleged object for which it was created, and withal so expensive, cannot continue in a free country. THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

A recent pamphlet by Dr. John S. Bill-ngs, of the United States army, deals with the important subject of public health and municipal government. Yet it is in many cases not possible for men to know what causes produce disease, and perhaps in more cases it is not possible to detect the presence of the not possible to detect the presence of the causes. It is always difficult, Dr. Billings causes. It is always difficult, Dr. Billings cause. It is always difficult, Dr. Bill emanations from a ceas-pool, or the water from a polluted well, have produced such a definitely injurious effect upon the health of those within the sphere of their influence with as to justify municipal interference with vested rights in property, or the exaction of damages for sickness or death produced by them.

This implies that dusing the last five years there have been each year in the city of Philadelphia over 4,000 deaths and 7,000 cases of sickness which were unnecess. ,000 cases of sickness which were unnecessary. "Allowing $25 as the cost of each death for funeral expenses, etc., and $200 per year as the cost of medicines, medical attendance, food and nursing for a sick person, we find that about $1,500,000 were lost to the citizens in this way each year without counting indirect damages due to loss of labor, etc." And in comment-ing upon this serious loss entailed upon individual citizens, Dr. Billings asks this pertinent question: "If heavy death rates indicate heavy sickness and heavy demand upon the public purse, and if pure mand upon the public purse, and if pure water supplies, good sewerage, clean and well-paved streets, etc., are known to be among the best means to diminish sick-ness and loss of life, and to make a city at-

Spring Humors, whether itching, burning, bleeding, saly, crusted pimply, or blotchy, whether of the skin, scalp, or blod, whether simple, scrofulous, or hereditary, are now speedily, permanently, and economically cured by the Cuticura Remedies when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. The almost miracious cures daily effected by them prove this. No statement is made regarding them not warranted by the strongest evidence. They are, in truth the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times. They are absolutely pure, and agreeable to the most sensitive, and may be used on the youngest infant and most delicate invalid with gratifying and unfailing success. Cuticura, the great skin cure, instantly aliays the most intense itching, burning, and inflammation, permits rest and sleep, soothes and heals raw and irritated surfaces, clears the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, and restores the hair. CUTICURA SOAP, the only medicated toilet soap, is indispensable in cleansing diseased surfaces. CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood and skin purifier, and greatest of humor remedies, cleanses the blood of all impurities, and thus removes the cause. Hence, the Cuticura Remedies cure every humor of the Spring, from the simplest facial blemishes to the worst case of scrofula. Sale greater than the combined sales of all others.

Mr. George Anderson, of Greensburg, Ind., furnishes an example of what one brood mare will accomplish when given an opportunity. Some years ago Mr. Anderson became the owner of a mare by Iron's Cadmus, and for a number of years bred her to Pilot Duroc, one of the best horses in Indiana at the time. As a result he sold four geldings out of this mare for $1,750—all of them untrained, and still has two elegant brood-mares out of her, and by Pilot Duroc, that are worth quite a saug little fortune, and they in turn are producing valuable colts each year. After an expenditure of $7,000, the members of the Boston Curling Club will probably be forced again to put their hands in their pookets to the tune of a couple of thousand. Open fee rinks do not suit this climate, says the Boston Herald.

Mr. John Saunders, of Galt, has challenged Mr. Wm. Shedden, of Woodstock, to a figure skating contest for any amount from $25 to $100. Mr. Shedden has accepted the challenge, and the contest will take place at the Galt rink at an early date, provided there is suitable weather. It is a singular fact that of the many many of the horse business few ever leave it. Call to mind those who within your knowledge have engaged in the business of handling or raising horses and see how few have been able to tear themselves away from its charms. Certainly not all have prospered, but they have clung to their idols nevertheless, perhaps hoping for better days, or if with race horses awaiting a lucky stroke that will bring them out all right. The mothers' States have themselves treated the tent can dren when suffering and sick. The mothers' favorite remedy to day is Paine's Celery Compound, a scientific preparation and entirely vegetable, and one which cannot harm the most delicate constitution. A mother says: "Last spring my little girl, 4 years old, had a bilious attack; but the constipated bowels, aching head, bad smelling breath and furred tongue readily yielded to a few doses of Paine's Celery Compound, and she quickly regained brisk health." This grand restorer is the safest and best for all children. It is particularly adapted for the little ones, causing them to regain strength rapidly, gives them appetite, makes them sleep soundly and naturally and harmonizes their whole network of life. Mothers of Canada, do not fail to procure this valuable compound for your this noble animal which seems to take strong hold of those who devote their attention to it—and not always to their benefit either. This has marked the history of the human race from the earliest times, and the devotion was never stronger than at the present day. And it must be admitted that none of the brute creation are more worthy the admiration of man than is the horse.

"Wives and Daughters," edited by Mrs.
John Cameron and Miss Ethelwyn Wetherald, is a publication that shows how our Canadian cousins are marching on in their day and generation to the great empire and beautiful land of men and women. We live at present in the men's world; we hope never to live in the women's world, though we think it would perhaps be fully as good as the men's; but one bisected globe is sufficient. What we want to see is the men and women's world, and its luminous ord rises even now above the horizon. This new monthly will help to hasten that luminary toward its proper place in the zenith, for the new magazine conserves the home idea, and tells how to make home what it should be in small and great affairs alike. It has a winsome kindliness of visage, itterances, and to Yankee women also if they will but have the wit and wisdom to subscribe Yours for a treaty of reciprocity,

Sam came shuffling back an interest of the having gone to turn up the nstant after, having gone to turn up the parlor lights, and Miss Marshall, glancing over her left shoulder as the portiere was again raised, saw that one of the men thus introduced beneath the captain's roof was the German Jew, Schonberg. in striving to restore the tone of general chat, did not see them at all.

It was an hour latter. The ladies had risen and betaken themselves to the front piazza; the men remained to smoke a cigar with their host. The absence of the legal uminary, oddly enough, had dispelled the tmosphere of gloom that hung for a few innutes about the lower end of the table. "And, now, do you know, colonel, my intition is very much in their favor."

"But is your intuition as well founded, lo you think, as long legal experience?"

"Well, your experience has been confined to the limited few that have come before courts-martial, has it not? My intuition covers the great array of their number—the ninety-and-nine. Now, I haven't any especial knowledge of the matter you seem to be investigating, Colonel Lawler, but I fancy that evidence such as Mr. Schonberg might give would have little weight before a court of intelligent men."

CHAPTER XI.

CHAPTER XI.

The week that followed the advent at Fort Ryan of the staft-officer from division head-quarters was one that the good people at the post have not yet ceased talking about. Lawler had remained in the garrison only twenty-four hours, and went back eastward without a word as to his intentions, and, to the surprise of even Colonel Morris, without having sent for or spoken to the man most interested in his coming—Lieutenant Hearn. This in itself was something that excited most unfavorable comment, for it was known that he had had long interviews with Mr. Abrams, the busy representative of the press, and that he had driven in town to spend some hours in questioning certain dubious-looking citizens presented to him one by one at the establishment of Mr. Schonberg. He had furthermore sent to the guard-house for Trooper Welsh—once again there in carcerated by order of Captain Cross, who as officer of the day had arrested him for attempting to slip across sentry's post the previous night. And once again, to the dismay of the cavalry officers and the unconcealed ridicule of the infantry battalion. Colonel Morris had directed Welsh's immediate release.

An Evening of Pleasure.

The social gathering of St. James' Church Y. P. S. C. E., held in the lecture hall last evening was an unqualified success. Rev. M. P. Talling occupied the chair, and discharged the duties of that office in his usual happy style. The energetic committee deserve great praise for the excellent talent they had provided for the occasion. It would be useless to single cut any special person or feature when all were so good. The encores were numerous, and were responded to with good nature. The contributors to the programme were: Solos, Messrs. Crone and Milligan and Miss Currie, Miss Wright and Miss Purdom; readings, Miss Cannell and Miss Burney; violin solos, Miss McDonald; double quartet, Messrs. Crone, Wright, Brown and McCormick and the Misses Summers and Miss A. Mitchell, Miss E. Summers and Mrs. Milligan acted as accompanists. Clark's Recitals.

Victoria Hall has seldom held a larger or better-pleased audience than that which assembled in the building Thursday night. The attraction was Mr. S. H. Clark, of Trinity College, Toronto, in an evening of recitals. Elocutionary programmes have always received good patronage in London; but few artists have been accorded greater favor than Mr. Clark. To speak of his effort it is sufficient to say that he was in excellent voice. The applause that marked the conclusion of each number attested the warm appreciation of the hearers. Mr. Clark's programme was pleasantly varied and afforded the elocutionist an opportunity of displaying his versatility. It included, exclusive of encores, the following:

ceauty of the human form is to-day exactly what it was in ancient Greece; it is the same through all the centuries, however blind we are to its characteristics through ignorance. The consensus of ages is a true verdict, and classic forms become safe models. Greek sculpture was wrought when the body received its highest cultivation, and was so beautiful as to be called divine.

This sculpture should be carefully and continuously studied, as well as pictures of good nude figures. They are to be made familiar that one may learn why they are good, why they deserve admiration. Most people fancy they admire these classic models, but it must be in imagination only, else why should they allow them selves to exemplify false standards of form, and positively distort their own God-given bodies?

Sassching for the highest standards of This sculpture should be carefully and bodies?

Searching for the highest standards of human form, we discover that manly beauty and womanly beauty differ essentially. It and womanly beauty dilier essentially. Lis agreed that the type of manly proportion includes a comparatively large head, wide shoulders rather square, a torso tapering to a contracted pelvis; while the whole may be seven and a half heads in height, or an additional half head added to the length of the legs, giving a particularly elegant feature.

On the other hand, fine proportions for a woman are a small head, shoulders rather aloping and narrow, the torso full and widest at the hips; while the front line from the sternum over the abdomen should whow first a gentle, and then a full outward curve.

same time take into consideration adaptations to climatic and social conditions.
Woman, particularly when she is beautiful, is the most attractive being in the world, and more pains should be taken to drape and dress her than with almost any other branch of art. I do not think that dress-making has ever revealed the esthetic beauty that is possible. We have had style and tashion, but we have never had what I regard as the highest forms of art in dress, and we never can have until such alime as it is regarded as a fine art, instead of now as a trade, and until the time shall some when women or men, who are dressmakers, shall be treated with the same conideration, socially or otherwise, as we teisy treat a painter or a sculptor.

The Room of the Invalid.

The Room of the Invalia.

The invalia's world is bounded by the four walls of his room, and the veriest trifle occurring within its limits is of far more importance to him than the most stupendous events of the outside universe. A picture hanging awry makes him thoroughly miserable; a twisted rug or a misplaced chair causes discomfort. If his room is stiff and bare, badly arranged or dingy, creation to him is shrouded in gloom.

Anyone waiting on an invalid knows how the monotony of meals taken in bed destroys the appetite and induces disgust of the most delicate fare, and this in spite of all the care which can be taken to make the appointments of the table dainty, and the bed clothing pretty and bright as well as perfectly pure and sweet. In the same way the embellishments of an invalid's room will become hateful to him, and the daily sight of the same furniture and wall-paper a burden greater than he can bear. At this state of weakness and enforced idleness the strong man cries out more than against bearing the most acute pain. It might, then, be a good idea to introduce occasional changes, as far as possible, into the room of the sufferer. To bring in new articles of furniture, and remove those already there to other parts of the house. That the furniture is older or not so handsome is slight matter; it is new and interesting to the weary eyes watching from the bed. A fresh table will become quite an object of curiosity, and afford conversation for days; and a differently shaped bureau will be an exciting direumstance.

A novel arrangement of chairs or pictures might have a good effect, and often an entire change of mantel ornaments would be a perfect godsend to the sensitive nerves on which the old ones have grated so long.—
[Harper's Bezar.

Young mothers often make the mistake in hurrying their babies to walk, and lasting injury is frequently wrought by not thing the child first creep and then walk, nature's own way and time. A child night to be allowed to take its own sime to sign to walk, and this will not often be store it is 12 or 14 months old. Even then do not allow it to walk very much for two or three months. Frequently mothers do not like to have their babies creep, as they soil their clothes so badly, and will begin to stand them on their feet and try to have them walk long before their bones are hard enough to have any strain put upon them, and the result is bow legs or crooked ankles, which sometimes the utmost care afterwhich sometimes the utmo wards will fail to straighten.

That Third Party.

The coustant presence of a third person at the fireside and table, says Mra. P. T. Barnum in the Ladies' Home Journal, is especially disastrous in the earlier years of wedlock. The presence of one who is "of ourselves" may often restrain what is worst in us; but alas! it always restrains what is best. There must always be in the most perfect unions and the best fordered lives some little friction which will once in a while find expression. The gentle protest with which, if alone with your husband, you would disarm his fractiousness, dies in your throat because of the third person. The loving caress with which you would close his lips and make him ashamed of himself, is as impossible to you as if you were paralyzed. If misunderstood, pride will not let you explain, and you retort indignantly; or, at best, keep silent with an aching heart, and in time you grow to hate that third person who may be an angel of light, but who is none the less eating holes in your marriage garment. It may not be possible, without neglecting a sacred duty, to have your house entirely to yourself, but I charge you, as you value your mutual love and happiness, be inflexible in your resolution to keep some waking hours out of every 24 when the fireside shall be sacred to you and your husband; when you can tell each other your thoughts, your hopes and fears, with no stranger intermedding with your joy.

on the other hand, shoulders rather aloping and narrow, the torso full and widest at the hips; while the front line from the sternum over the abdomen should from the sternum over the abdomen should how first a gentle, and then a full outward curve.

The conventional figure of the day is at variance with this type. Every effort is made to imitate masculine characteristics. The shoulders are thrust up high and square, or made to appear so; the torso is made to taper in, and everything underheaven is done to make the waist small. The front ise is forced to take an inward outwoe below the bust, and the side lines to form an awkward angle, in the hollow of which voluminous skirts are hung.

One should study soulpture with the new knowledge of these proportions most thoughtfully, till the rythm of the lines has fastened itself upon the memory. Studying the pictures of the best artists of every age, we shall find these principles everywhere demonstrated.

The charm of womanly proportion is in the long curve from armpit to ankle, which is so different from the beauty of a manly figure. The depression at the so-called waist line—only the meeting of two large muscles which in a beautiful woman should be slight—would better be ignored in the clothing, for the sake of the greater beauty of the whole sweep.

It is to be understood that the long leves are mostly worn with more or less low, pointed or square cut bodices.

This led the family to experiment with her, and it was noticed that craim tunes affected her, while others did not. Where the voice dwelled long on a note she would how in perfect unison; short notes would be exerted by barks, and between the two but little discord was produced.

Polly was generally a regular attendant it church, and occupied a seat by some member of the family, sitting unright and giving the closest attention to the sermon. When a song was sung by the choir that affected Polly's nerves, care had to be observed to prevent her from disturbing public worship, by a gentle admonition, as placing the hand on her head. So well trained was she that this always had the desired effect.

Dr. Parks, of the M. E. Church, delivered a lecture on Sabbath evening on "Dumh Animals," and extended to Polly, through the colonel, an invitation to be present. When they arrived the seats were nearly all filled, and the colonel was compelled to occupy one immediately in front of the bulget. By crowding up from the colonel, an invitation to be present. Polly is 10 years old and has a large family connection, nearly all of whom manifest the same musical peculiarity. A few weeks ago Mrs. Baker allowed Jo, one of Polly's offspring, to attend church with her at Athanta, Tex., where she was visiting. When the audience rose to sing the Doxology Joested his hind feet on the seat he had occupied and placed his fore feet on the bench in front of him. When the congregation started to sing the family were mortified to see Jo throw his head back and join in the tune with all the zeal and earnestness of the most devout Christian in the body.

"Her memory is as remarkable as her grasp of language and her power of speech, and probably is the chief source of her success in both these. She grasps an idea almost before it is given her, and once hers it seems to be ineradicably fixed in her memory. A few days ago a book of poems, printed in raised letters, was presented to her. She opened it and read the first poem over twice, reading it aloud as she passed her fingers over the lines. Then the book was laid away, and not referred to again until the next day, when it was found that she could repeat the whole poem of seven stanzas of four lines each without missing a word.

The services at the Evangelical Union Church, Selkirk, were, one Sunday recently, conducted by "Captain" Meggie Balmer, of the Salvation Army, in place of the minister, who was unwell. The church was crowded, and everything passed off smoothly, the "Captain" delivering an impressive and earnest address. It is understood that this is the first occasion on which a Salvation Army female cantain has stanzas of four lines each without missing a word.

Mr. Gladstone and the Sweeper.

[From the Christian World.]

A well-known London minister who got crushed in the crowd at the opening of St. Martin's Free Library by Mr. Gladstone, tells an anecdote of the ex-Premier's kindness of heart, on the authority of a former vicar. When Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Gladstone regularly attended this church. A crossing sweeper in the parish, who had been some time ill, when asked by the vicar if anybody had heen to see him, said, "Yes, sir, Mr. Gladstone." "Which Mr. Gladstone?" he was asked. "Why," said, "Yes, sir, Mr. Gladstone." "Which Mr. Gladstone?" he was asked. "Why," was the answer, "Mr. Gladstone himself. He often speaks to me, and gives me some-thing at my crossing. Not seeing me, he asked my mate, who was keeping it for me, why I was not there. He told him I was ill, and then he asked where I lived. So he came to see me, and talked and read to me."

Mr. James Halero, Swanbister, in the parish of Orphir, Orkney, has discovered on his farm an anotent urn and a small stone cist. The urn, which is of steatite, and assignable to the period of Norse paganism, is about sixteen inches high and fifteen inches wide, with a plain molding outside about three inches below the rim. The urticles were not found in a tumulus, but there is in the near neighborhood a circular building somewhat resembling an ancient Orkney broch, and rude stone implements have previously been found near the place.
