RESIGNED.

Perth, West Australia, Aug. 27.—Sir William C. F. Robinson, Governor of this colony, has resigned.

FIVE DROWNED.

London, Aug. 27.—Five men were drowned by the capsizing of a yawl at Skegness on the east coast of England yesterday.

ROUND THE WORLD IN A SLOOP.

Gibraltar, Aug. 27.—The little American sloop Spray, which arrived here some days ago from Boston, has started for Yokohama by way of Cape Town.

THE MADAGASCAR CAMPAIGN.

Paris, Aug. 27.—Advices received here from the Island of Madagascar announce that Gen. Duchesene captured Andriba on Aug. 22. The Hovas made a poor defense.

THREE MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS KILLED.

Berne, Aug. 27.—Dr. Schnurdreher, of Prague, and two guides fell off a precipice while ascending Mount Blanc, and all three were killed.

A SICK PRINCE.

London, Aug. 27.—A dispatch to the Central News says that the condition of Archduke Franz, nephew of Emperor Francis Joseph and heir presumptive to the thrones of Austria and Hungary, who is ill at a hotel at Meudel in the Tyrol is worse. Pulmonary catarrh in a serious form has developed and affects both lungs.

JAPAN'S NAVAL MOVEMENTS.

London, Aug. 27.—The Standard publishes a dispatch from Berlin saying it is reported that Japan intends to construct naval ports at Ominato in Aonori and Yeiko Bay in the Loochoo Islands. It is stated that the Mikado meditates sending a squadron of the best Japanese warships to cruise in European and American waters.

BRITISH NAVAL ESTIMATES.

London, Aug. 27.—The naval estimates adopted by the present Ministry show but slight alterations from the original draft prepared by the late Liberal Government. The number of men provided for is 88,850, an increase of 5,450 over the estimate of last year. Besides the expenditures under the provisions of the Naval Defense Act, it is proposed to lay out $5,393,642 on the construction of ships and $730,500 on armaments.

OBJECT LESSON FOR TURKEY.

London, Aug. 27.—The Chronicle prints a dispatch from Constantinople saying that Shakir Pasha, first aide-de-camp to the Sultan, who in June last was appointed imperial commissioner in connection with the reforms in Armenia, started in great haste on Sunday by a special steamer for the scene of his duties. Three British warships have been reported off Mitylene. Their approach explains Shakir Pasha's hasty departure. It is urged in influential quarters in Constantinople that the Dardanelles ought to be forced without hesitation, or otherwise British prestige in the east will be seriously endangered. The presence of a fleet will alone convince the Sultan that Lord Salisbury is serious in his insistence for reform in Armenia.

NEWFOUNDLAND AFFAIRS.

London, Aug. 27.—The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, answering a question put by Mr. Wm. Johnson in the House of Commons, said that the negotiations which have been going on between Canada and Newfoundland, looking to the incorporation of the latter into the Dominion, were now in abeyance owing to the indisposition of Canada to accept the liabilities of Newfoundland. In answer to further questions as to whether the Government would be able to aid in overcoming the financial difficulties which presented an obstacle to the union of Newfoundland and Canada, Mr. Chamberlain said: "Not if it means that the taxpayers of the country should be burdened with the cost."

DUTIES OF THE COMMANDER.

London, Aug. 27.—The Marquis of Lansdowne, Secretary of State for War, made a statement in the House of Commons respecting the changes ensuing from the retirement of the Duke of Cambridge from the post of commander-in-chief of the army. The marquis said that, like its predecessor, the Government intended to adopt the main principles of the Huntington commission, except that it preferred to retain the post of commander-in-chief, rather than chief of the staff, deprived of executive power, because it was feared that the latter would get out of touch with and lose the confidence of the army. The new commander-in-chief would hold his appointment under the usual rules, and would be responsible for the commissions, promotions, honors, etc., and also for the military formation, distribution and mobilization. He would be the principal officer to the Secretary of State for War, and would give general, as distinct from departmental, advice upon all questions affecting military policy. The commander-in-chief, with the other heads of departments, would act as a board to discuss matters referred to it by the Secretary of State for War, and promotions and appointments above the rank of major would always be submitted to the board. The duties of the chief of staff would be performed either by the commander-in-chief or under his direction. The consultative element would be provided partly by the board and partly by a War Office council, under the presidency of the Secretary of State for War, comprising the Under Secretary, the Financial Secretary and the heads of departments. Other officers may be especially summoned to attend the council, the Secretary of State for War would alone be responsible to Parliament, and all financial decisions would rest with him.

THE CUBAN REVOLT.

Paris, Aug. 27.—The Figaro, referring to the situation in Cuba, expresses the opinion today that it would be better for Spain to grant adequate autonomy to the island than to continue an onerous conflict, after which, even if victorious, she would be obliged to redress the grievances of the people.

Cadis, Aug. 27.—The Diario de Avigos, of Corunna, states that the Government will relinquish its intention of sending 25,000 additional reinforcements to the Island of Cuba in October, and adds that Captain General Martinez de Campos has declared that he will resign if the Government insists upon appointing a Lieutenant General for the Island of Cuba.

Madrid, Aug. 27.—Reinforcements of troops for the Island of Cuba have embarked at Barcelona.

ENGLISH ATHLETES COMING.

London, Aug. 27.—A large crowd of people gathered at the Euston railroad station this morning, to witness the departure of the London Athletic Club and Cambridge University teams for Liverpool, where they embark on board the Cunard line steamship Aurania, bound for New York to meet, respectively, the team from the New York Athletic Club and one from Yale University. A saloon cabin has been specially engaged for the athletes and was decorated with the Yale and Cambridge colors, a large flag, representing the New York Athletic Club, the colors of the London Athletic Club, together with a number of American and British flags. Fry and Fitzherbert, at last moment failed to appear, but the remainder of the two teams left London on their journey to New York in great spirits, full of eager anticipation and accompanied by the best wishes of their friends, who bid them most cordial farewells.

INTERNATIONAL GRAIN MARKET.

Vienna, Aug. 27.—The annual international grain market opened yesterday. The official estimates of the crops given in percentages are as yet rather incomplete. The most striking changes are found in Great Britain whose wheat estimates are 37 per cent, barley 30 per cent and oats 25 per cent worse than they were in 1894. France shows a decrease of 22 per cent in wheat and 20 per cent in rye and oats. Austria-Hungary is reported rather better in respect of wheat, but decidedly lower in rye. In Hungary barley is lower, but oats throughout the entire empire are better than in 1894. Bavaria shows a decrease of 35 per cent in wheat, 40 per cent in rye, 50 per cent in barley and 45 per cent in oats. In India the wheat crop is 6,278,000 tons against 6,923,000 tons in 1894. The United States shows 390,000,000 bushels of wheat, 21,500,000 bushels of rye and 24,267,000 bushels of corn. Canada shows 62,000,000 bushels of wheat against 53,000,000 bushels in 1894.

PECULIAR PEOPLE.

London, Aug. 27.—The spread of the ideas of the so-called "Peculiar People" has had such tragic effects in certain suburbs of London that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children has undertaken a test prosecution in the case of parents who allowed four children to die of diphtheria without medical attendance. Physicians testified that life would have been saved in each case by proper treatment. One of the elders of the sect named Harrod described their strange creed, which somewhat resembles occasional religious crazes in the United States. He said regarding the treatment of the sick: "We annoint with oil, lay on hands and have prayer of faith. We base our beliefs on the Epistle according to St. James principally." These means were adopted in the case of each of the deceased children, the witness performing the ceremony himself. He knew the accused and his wife to be a good father and mother. They were always kind to their children. The witness was generally called to cases of illness. He had performed the ceremony according to the Peculiar People's rites on other children suffering from diphtheria. They all got well. The judge asked:

"If you broke an arm or a leg would you have a doctor?"

"That could not happen," answered the witness. "I could break my arm, of course, but I mean that a person would cease to be a Peculiar if such a thing occurred, and our creed would not then affect him. A Peculiar does not break an arm or a leg. 'He keepeth all his bones. Not one of them is broken.'"

The accused parents were held for trial in the higher court. There have been fully a score of such unnecessary deaths within a few weeks.

THE DURRANT TRIAL.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 26.—Two more jurors were secured for the Durrant murder trial to-day, making 11 now in the box.

PALMYRA NEWS.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kenny, of London, are visiting friends and relations in this part and intend visiting in Chatham before they return.

Farmers in this section of the country are busy harvesting their bean crops, they expect a large yield. Corn is a good crop also, and there is a good show for fruits of all kinds in this part.

NIAGARA FALLS UTILIZED.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 27.—At 7 o'clock yesterday the Niagara Falls Power Company first turned on the electric power generated by their dynamos and turbines from the torrent of Niagara River, for commercial purposes. The current was transmitted to the works of the Pittsburg Reduction Company, which a few moments later opened for business with a score of men.

Common Sense vs. Will Power.

Much of the prejudice that has existed in years gone by against the Gold Cure for alcoholism has now happily passed away. Employers of labor and brains were at one time reluctant to believe that a man who had undergone the treatment was more worthy of confidence than one who had sobered up from force of circumstances or by will power. Now it is everywhere recognized that the man who has taken the treatment for alcohol at Lakehurst Institute, Oakville, has a sure passport to the public confidence, for the reason that the craving for liquor has been destroyed and thenceforth no will power is required. Common sense, a clear reasoning faculty, and the recollection of former bitter experience, suffice for all time to justify the confidence he thus inspires. That Wright Case.

Action Dropped Against Dr. Haight and Dr. Colver.

In Regard to the Committal of Thomas Wright to the Asylum.

They Emphatically Deny That They Were Parties to Any Conspiracy—Doctors Pay $250 Each.

The action which Thomas Wright, of South Norwich, brought against Dr. Collver, of Otterville, and Dr. Haight, of New Durham, for damages has been settled. It will be remembered that Wright was sent to the Asylm for the Insane at London some weeks ago, where his son, Newton Wright, of Woodstock, found him, and after certain regulations had been complied with, succeeded in having his father discharged.

The action for damages instituted against the two medical men, who gave the certificate, and against Albert Wright, the son on the homestead, alleged that a conspiracy had existed to land the old man in the asylum. It was stated that Albert had a deed of the farm and wanted to turn his father, who had a life lease, off the place. When he resisted this proceeding, Newton Wright claimed that his brother concocted a scheme to get rid of the father by having him sent to the London Asylum.

While the case has been settled amicably between the parties, the two medical men, whose names have been freely mentioned, claim that they have not been fairly treated. They strongly deny that there was any collusion between the parties and so far as they knew no conspiracy existed to send Mr. Wright to the asylum.

The doctors gave their certificates separately and they did so in good faith. Dr. Haight told a reporter that he had examined Mr. Wright as to his mental condition on three different occasions within two months, and until the last time refused to give the necessary certificate.

Dr. Buchan, assistant medical superintendent at the asylum, stated that the medical evidence was not strong, and this is corroborated by the evidence of the two Oxford doctors. The certificates were barely sufficient to secure Mr. Wright's admission to the asylum. But while this evidence was weak, the doctors claim that the evidence of Wright's wife was particularly strong.

There was also evidence, they allege, by the neighbors that Mr. Wright was eccentric, if not insane, as shown by another declaration made by Fred. Daikens.

Drs. Haight and Collver still maintain that their certificates were accurate and were not only given in good faith but they are still prepared to stand by them. If any mistake had been made it was merely an error of judgment, and they strongly resent the imputation that they had entered into conspiracy with any person to send a respectable citizen to the asylum.

With reference to the statement that Dr. Collver had written the superintendent at the London Asylum, stating that he regretted having issued the certificate, Mr. Robert Paxton, of Otterville, offers this explanation: He says Dr. Collver did not express any regret for what he had done, but at the request of Newton Wright wrote the authorities at London that he had ascertained that certain information furnished by the neighbors previous to the granting of this certificate was not altogether accurate. He felt it his duty therefore to write the staff disclaiming responsibility for the statements, and as Newton Wright had volunteered to take his father and provide for him in case he were discharged, the doctor suggested that, if possible, the wish of the son might be acquiesced in. Mr. Paxton states that there was no apology nor any expression of regret by Dr. Collver; he merely wished to set himself right with Dr. Buchan of the asylum by stating that the information given him before the certificate had been issued and which possibly influenced his judgment he learned since was scarcely true.

The settlement only includes the action brought against the doctors, who have paid $250 each. The legal proceedings against Moore and Johnston and Albert Wright are still in progress. —Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

On the Continent

Europe as Viewed by George C. Gibbons, Q.C.

Its Interesting Sights Seen by Canadian Eyes.

Harvest on the Field of Waterloo—Holland and Its Ditches—Old Cathedrals—Up the Rhine—Distinguished Fellow Passengers—Londoners Abroad.

Mr. George C. Gibbons, Q.C., accompanied by Mrs. Gibbons, has returned from a European continental tour extending over nearly two months. The Misses Gibbons remained in Berlin, where they will finish their education. Owing to the remarkably quick passage of the Campania, by which Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons returned, they were enabled to make the trip between Liverpool and this city in the shortest time on record. They sailed from Liverpool at 4:30 on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 17, and arrived home at 11:30 on the morning of the following Saturday. The best previous record in this line was held by Mr. R. C. Struthers, who made the trip in time to go to church on the following Sunday.

The travelers had a delightful time abroad, and met several Londoners, including Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mr. Sam Sterling and Mr. Harry Carling, who were then in London; Mr. Marsh, a former Londoner, also in London, and Mrs. George B. Harris and son Edward, who were stopping at Cologne.

"We sailed on the Lucania early in July," said Mr. Gibbons this morning when an "Advertiser" representative asked him for a few impressions by the way, "and stayed a week in England. The country was looking at its best. What strikes one about England, outside the delightful character of the country and its wealth of scenery, is the stalwartness and healthy appearance of the people. We went to a cricket match between Lancashire and Surrey, at which there were from 20,000 to 25,000 people present, and what struck me with astonishment was the wonderful fieldings. There has been a marvelous change in this respect within the last few years. Now the fielders in a cricket match vie with, if they do not surpass, the baseball men of this continent.

"The race tracks that I visited, especially that of Kempton, were most charming, and the horses strike one as being much larger and in better condition than the race horses of this continent. They seem to be able to run their horses with much more flesh on than is the rule here. The consequence is that they look much better.

"England is the most democratic country in the world. The Princess of Wales and her daughters attending the opera create no marked attention whatever, and the Prince of Wales at a race track goes about as an ordinary English gentleman would. Things are very different on the continent, especially in Germany, where the royal box at the opera is a very formidable affair, and every movement of the Emperor is chronicled and surrounded by pomp.

"We spent a week in Holland. It is a most charming country to visit; so different from anything one has ever seen. There are no fences whatever; the fields are divided by ditches, and there are canals everywhere, and boats conveying farm produce to market. We saw enormous numbers of Holstein cattle—fine big fellows. The dog is still used to a very great extent in hauling carts, and the women seem to do most of the outdoor work, both here and in Belgium, and in Germany. In fact, it is a remarkable thing that everywhere in these countries you see groups of women in the field and comparatively few men. The people of Holland are the most cheerful, contented and thrifty that I have ever seen. There seems to be no actual poverty or drunkenness, and we never saw a beggar. The cultured and educated classes are a most charming people. The commerce of Amsterdam and Rotterdam were a great surprise to me, as I think they would be to most "Advertiser" readers. The lovely city of The Hague, with its storage battery electric road, its splendid trees and magnificent residences, is a treat, and wonderful to see. The cathedral at Antwerp, with its marvelous Ruebens pictures, is the most impressive thing we have ever visited. The stained glass windows—the art which seems to have been lost in its perfection for centuries now—give a charm to the place that is indescribable.

"Brussels is a very fine city, and one is struck with the great number of fine residences, block after block, street after street—all fine and expensive houses—seems to point to a great accumulation of wealth here, as in Amsterdam and Rotterdam also. The great house or Temple of Justice in Brussels is the most magnificent in the world, and simply cannot be described in its immensity and impressiveness.

"We went to the Spa, the Belgium summer resort, where the Queen is at present. The air is very fine there, and the place is prettily situated, but it is not exceptionally interesting to a visitor. From there we went to Cologne, with its charming cathedral. From an exterior point of view it surpasses in architectural beauty any in the world: inside it struck me as being cold and cheerless, and not to be compared with that of Antwerp.

"The trip up the Rhine from Bonn to Mayence on a charming day could not have been more delightful. Castle after castle added interest to what nature had already made beautiful, and all day long the panorama was repeated in endless variety. The most marvelous sight to Canadian eyes was the cultivation to an immense height of the hills adjoining the river. These are laid out in vineyards. This is a great wine district, and the small grapes so grown make the noted Rhine wines.

"It would amuse a Canadian farmer to look at the continental fields as they appear in harvest time. No patchwork quilt could be more crazy in its outline than are the fields of grain. Little patches of wheat alternate with barley, oats, grass, then wheat again, in very irregular shapes, without any system and without any reason, so far as we could make out. We saw very few reapers, the old hand scythe being used in nearly every case, and where on an Ontario farm you will see one or two at work, on the continent the same work is being done by large groups of people. On the field of Waterloo, for instance, when we looked down from the mound on a fine summer day to where the final crash took place, twenty women were gathering up the sheaves of wheat."

"Berlin has now nearly 2,000,000 inhabitants, and has been made a great city by the present Emperor. The Tier garden or park is a most wonderful place. A few steps takes you from the bustle of the city into an immense Canadian wood about a mile and a half long and of varying width. The forest is only broken by bridle paths, walks and a few roads.

"The German officers impressed us as a particularly fine body of men, but the German soldier, so far as appearances are concerned, is not equal to the British. The public buildings are magnificent, and the opera is on an entirely higher plane than any other we had heard. The choruses were simply grand, every member is an artist, and the soloists do not, as here, provide the worst entertainment.

"In Germany, as on the continent, one is very much impressed by the family enjoyment of the people. Everywhere the families are together, and on Sundays a perfect stream of vehicles of all kinds loaded with German families of varying dimensions drive through the Tier garden and spend the afternoon listening to good music, drinking Munich beer together and enjoying their supper in the open air. Men, women and children drink the beer. It is very light and very sweet, sugar being very largely used in the manufacture.

"Coming home we had an exceptionally fast and extremely pleasant passage on the Campania. She, with her sister ship, the Lucania, are undoubted marvels of human skill in ship building. The most distinguished person on board was his Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, whom we found to be exceedingly agreeable and unassuming and evidently a very able man. He made himself very popular with all classes on board. The young Duke of Mariborough and Messrs. Bryce and Allen, directors of the Grand Trunk Railway, who have come out to assist Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson in reorganizing the Grand Trunk, were also passengers. These people were all very interesting, but not half as much so as the real boys in the smoking room, with whom we parted regretfully."

In England Mr. Gibbons heard Mr. Keir Hardie, the socialistic lecturer, speak, but was not very much impressed.

IRA HALLIDAY'S OFFENSE

Will Cost Him Six Months in Central Prison.

He Stabbed His Wife with a Butcher Knife—A Long Record.

Ira Halliday, of Teresa street, South London, was this morning sentenced by Police Magistrate Parke to six months in the Central Prison. He stabbed his wife in the back with a butcher knife and then skipped town.

The offense was committed on July 20, about noon. The previous evening Ira went home drunk and in a very quarrelsome mood, and the morning of the assault he had been drinking. When he returned home near dinner time he began to find fault with his wife, and finally threw a breakfast knife at her. It missed its mark, but struck Mrs. Moise (a sister of Mrs. Halliday) on the lip, inflicting a slight cut. As if to make amends, Halliday began to bathe Mrs. Noise's face, but was ordered away by his wife, who undertook the task instead. While she was in a stooping position the knife was sunk into her back about an inch.

"I cannot do anything but find you guilty," said the police magistrate, after Mrs. Halliday and Mrs. Moise had related their story. "Your record shows that you have been up over thirty times. Six months in the Central."

Owen Gillean, a little, short drunk, climbed half over the railing when he was called. He told the magistrate he had got out of jail just yesterday (Monday) morning, and had kept straight until night. Gillean was discharged, and left the court room with a hop, step and a jump.

Mr. John J. Hunt, of Hunt Bros., had seven small chaps up on a charge of damaging property. For some time boys have been in the habit of closing down the water gates in the mill-race and causing a stoppage of business. Great loss has been sutained on one or two occasions. Mr. Hunt, however, did not bring evidence to implicate the boys, and they were discharged with a warning.

The case of Moras Leff, charged with damaging his brother's property, occupied about two hours' time. The parties are Russian Hebrews, and as several of the witnesses could not speak English an interpreter was required. The case was dismissed.

WITH CLOSED DOORS.

Judge William Elliot Hears the Alleged Extortion Case.

Charges of Improper Conduct Made and Denied—Decision Reserved.

Judge Wm. Elliot heard the case of alleged extortion preferred by John Tracy against County Constable Luke Jeffries with closed doors this morning. Mr. James Magee was present on behalf of the crown. As published in Monday's paper, Tracy claims that Constables Robert Ward and Jeffries arrested a young lady and himself on Becher's Island, where they were taking a walk, and that it cost them $6 to regain their liberty. The evidence of Jeffries, Ward, Tracy and the young woman were all taken. From the story of the constables it appears that they were telephoned for because of the conduct of some persons on the island. They further claimed that Tracy and the young woman were guilty of unseemly conduct. This was indignantly denied by both Tracy and his companion. The detectives say it was pity for the girl and not money that induced them to allow the prisoners to go.

The judge reserved his decision.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF

PAIN CURED IN AN INSTANT.

Let Radway's Ready Relief be used on the first indication of Pain or Uneasiness; if threatened with Disease or Sickness the Cure will be made before the family doctor would ordinarily reach the house.

CURES THE WORST PAINS in from one to twenty minutes.

A CURE FOR ALL
Summer Complaints.

A half to a teaspoonful of Ready Relief in a half tumbler of water, repeated as often as the discharges continue, and a flannel saturated with Ready Relief placed over the stomach and bowels will afford immediate relief and soon effect a cure.

Internally—A half to a teaspoonful in half a tumbler of water will in a few minutes cure Cramps, Spasms, Sour Stomach, Nausea, Vomiting, Heartburn, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Sick Headache, Flatulency, and all internal pains.

Malaria in Its Various Forms Cured and Prevented.

There is not a remedial agent in the world that will cure Fever and Ague and all other Malarious, Bilious and other fevers, aided by RADWAY'S PILLS, so quickly as RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of Radway's Ready Relief with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water. It is better than French brandy or bitters as a stimulant.

Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

PERFECT DIGESTION

Will be accomplished by taking Radway's Pills. By their ANTI-BILIOUS properties they stimulate the liver in the secretion of the bile and its discharge through the biliary ducts. These Pills in doses of from two to four will quickly regulate the action of the liver and free the patient from these disorders. One or two of Radway's Pills taken daily by those subject to bilious pains and torpidity of the liver, will keep the system regular and secure healthy digestion.

Radway's Pills

ALWAYS RELIABLE.
PURELY VEGETABLE.

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. Radway's Pills for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Dizziness, Vertigo, Costiveness, Piles, and

All DISORDERS of the LIVER.

Price 25 Cents Per Box. Sold by Druggists or Sent by Mail.

Send to DR. RADWAY & CO., Montreal Canada, for Book of Advice.

Mr. J. H. Housser, manager of the Massey-Harris Company's works, of Brantford, was presented Saturday evening with an address and a gold-headed cane by the employes of the firm there. Mr. Housser, it is expected, is about to remove to Toronto.

A little girl named Jones fell down the side of the railway cut near the Stratford cemetery yesterday and broke her arm. She is a daughter of Robert Jones, of Detroit, and is on a visit at the residence of Alfred Haynes, Railway avenue. She is about 13 years of age.

Mr. J. J. Marr, of Southwold Station, has made his will, bequeathing $500 to Hunt's Methodist Church, Southwold; $500 to the Lynn Presbyterian Church, Southwold, and $6,000 to be deposited in some chartered bank in St. Thomas the interest to be paid yearly to the Thomas Williams Home.

Crown Attorney Clark, of Windsor, has received the evidence taken at the coroner's inquest on the body of A. F. Walker, Guelph, who was found in the river near Amherstburg two weeks ago. The jury found that Walker was murdered, and if the crown attorney finds that the verdict was justified by the evidence he will give the case to the detectives.

Early Saturday morning, during the thunder storm which passed over Sarnia, Mrs. Paul Wenino arose and went upstairs to close one of the windows through which the rain was coming. In retracing her steps she missed her footing and fell down the stairs, receiving a compound fracture of her right arm and otherwise being badly shaken up.

Mr. John Struthers, of Elma, killed a bear one day recently. They had seen signs of bear and lay in wait for him for a couple of nights, mounted in trees. Sure enough along came the bear and was sniffing at the tracks at the foot of the tree up which Mr. Struthers was keeping watch, when he spied him and bored him with a bullet from his 44. The carcass weighed about 200 pounds.

Margaret Quinlan, relict of the late Andrew Quinlan, of Brantford, slept away Saturday evening after a life of usefulness that had extended over the great period of 98 years. Deceased had lived in that neighborhood for 25 years, and a family of three sons and three daughters survive her, viz., Andrew, of Brantford; William, of Canboro, and James, of Castor; Mrs. J. Ryan, London; Mrs. Hanning, Cainsville, and Mrs. O'Heir, Stratford.

Saturday night about 11 o'clock the residence of Mr. Wilson, who lives on the tenth line of Moore, was discovered to be on fire. The family had retired for the night, and it was with difficulty they were aroused by the neighbors. Miss Annie Wilson had her face and one hand severely burned. Hardly anything was saved from the flames, and the house was completely destroyed. The family cannot account for the origin of the fire in any way, and the belief is impressed that it was a case of incendiarism. The loss is heavy.

On Sunday afternoon the funeral was held at Ridgetown of Mrs. Alexander Sinclair, one of the best-known pioneers of Western Ontario. She was born at Henryville, Lower Canada, in 1828. Her father, Samuel Bower, a Waterloo veteran, moved in 1836 with his family to Kent county, Ont. She taught school for a short time, and in 1849 was married to Mr. Alexander Sinclair, settling on their new farm, now bordering on the town of Ridgetown, where their home became a center for educational and religious influences. Her husband survives her, one of the few remaining pioneers of those early days. She leaves four children—S. B. Sinclair, M.A., vice-principal Ottawa Normal School; A. H. Sinclair, M.A., LL.B., barrister, Toronto; Rev. J. J. Sinclair, Thorndale; and Anna E. Sinclair. Her long, energetic life and self-sacrificing devotion to family and social duties made her many warm friends who deeply mourn her loss.

BRUCE COUNTY W. C. T. U.

Lucknow, Aug. 26.—The annual meeting of the Bruce County W. C. T. U. Convention was held here last week in the I. O. F. Hall. There were 56 delegates present from Kincardine, Walkerton, Paisley, Wingham, Teeswater, Mildmay, Chesley, Purple Valley and Lucknow. After devotional exercises conducted by the president, Mrs. G. W. Berry, the convention was brought to order at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Reports from superintendents of various departments were handed in and routine business transacted. A mass meeting was held in the opera house in the evening at which an excellent programme of a temperance nature was successfully carried through. Addresses were delivered by Mesdames Berry, Stauffer, Reed, and Miss Fisher. Music by Lucknow Orchestra Choir, Glee Club and the Misses Smalley, Smith and Armstrong, a recitation by Mrs. J. W. Armstrong, and a reading by Mrs. Tolmie, Kincardine, concluded the programme. On Thursday morning the election of officers was proceeded with, resulting as follows: President, Miss K. M. Fisher, Wingham; vice-president, Mrs. J. Ashcroft, Purple Valley; corresponding secretary, Miss Smellie, Chesley; Superintendents of departments were: treasurer, Mrs. Williams, Walkerton, also appointed. In the afternoon excellent papers were read on various subjects pertaining to the objects of the union, which gave rise to considerable discussion. Among other questions "Woman Suffrage" came in for a great deal of talk. It was urged to keep it before the people until it was carried. Another largely attended mass meeting was held last night with an interesting programme. Votes of thanks were passed to the members of Lucknow Union for their hospitality, and to the Oddfellows for the use of their hall.

The Scrap Bag

The disinclination of some men to move from the end seat of an open car is quite unaccountable. A man who in a closed car would rise from his seat on the entrance of one of the bloomer sex, and, raising his hat, offer her the place he has vacated, is as likely as not to remain obdurate if he occupies the coveted end seat in a summer car, and to compel a fair one to push and crowd by him at great inconvenience to herself and with something of a shock to her sense of propriety. One of these immovables received a not wholly pleasant lesson in manners a few days ago on a Dundas street car, when it stopped at the signal of a lame man on crutches. The end seater as usual did not budge from his place as the cripple attempted to get into the car. All that he thought fit to do was to turn aside in order to make way for the new comer, as he was assisted into the car by the conductor. Then Nemesis got in his work in fine shape, for the lame man, who was far from light in pounds, placed one of his crutches on the nearest foot of the end man, and bore his whole weight on it. There was a wriggle, an angry cry, and something more violent in the shape of verbal remonstrance, for the victim's foot was pinned to the floor beyond the power of release. The lame man slipped into a seat, and was profuse in apologies to the other for the accident, but a self-satisfied expression was in his eyes and he seemed to be at peace with all the world. The end man growled and grumbled, but an apology is an apology. When he quitted the car he limped badly. Perhaps the crutch did violence to a troublesome corn. It is to be hoped that it did, but if the end man is one thoroughly seasoned he will have learned nothing except to take care that his feet are out of the way the next time.

A short peanut crop is announced for this year. The news will cause a painful thrill of emotion to patrons of the professional baseball matches.

A country paper declares that "Mr. Johnson, a farmer of our village, on returning to his house the other day, found in his ground floor bedroom, the door of which had been left open, a cow, probably astray." The conjecture expressed in the last two words may be set down as, on the whole, a fair one.

Fame is what we think of other people; opinion is what other people think of us.

The hammock girl is out of date,
The carriage girl is passe,
The girl who rides the bicycle
Rules all the world today.
She flashes by with graceful speed,
As if she rode on air,
And, as she glides along, she finds
Admirers everywhere.

Let Bishop Doane and Bishop Coxe
Abuse her as they may,
The cycle girl is here brand new,
And she is here to stay.
She doesn't care how much they fuss,
For she knows she's all right,
And, even as they grumble, they
Must own she's out of sight.

So here's to the sweet cycle girl,
In bloomers or in skirts,
She's worth a dozen of the girl
That lounges round and flirts.
And here's a wish for Bishop Coxe,
A-railing on the fence;
That he may live and grow in grace
And some day have more sense.

Never was the value of hope as a curative proved more thoroughly than by experiment made on a consumptive patient in a city hospital. He was weighed each day after the scales had been "doctored" to show an increase of weight. The surprise of the man when he discovered that he was gaining in weight was pathetic to those in the secret. At the end of a week the man had really gained in weight. He took food, medicine and treatment in the most cheerful frame of mind, and at the end of six months was discharged cured, weighing 160 pounds.

DAILY HINTS TO HOUSEKEEPERS.

If your work is made more easy
By a friendly helping hand
Say so.

BREAKFAST — Peaches. Rump Beefsteak and Gravy. Warmed Potatoes. Rolls. Apple Sauce. Coffee.
DINNER — Stewed Veal. Mashed Potatoes. Macaroni. Tomato Sauce. Lettuce. New England Corn Bread. Fruit. Roll Jelly Cake.
SUPPER—Bread and Butter. Salmon Relish. Browned Potatoes. Stewed Peaches. Cookies. Tea.

BROILED MACARONI, TOMATO SAUCE.

Prepare macaroni as for baking, except the cheese; let it be thoroughlydone and well seasoned with milk, butter and salt. Plain tomato sauce is made by stewing fresh tomatoes half an hour slowly, then seasoning with salt, pepper and butter. Serve in separate dish from the macaroni.

Nothing preserves the trim lines of the figure as well as a princess gown, and we learn with joy that it will be a favorite during the coming season.

The gown shown is one of the new models. The neck decoration is a variation of the Marie Antoinette fichu, a happy adaptation since it conceals that portion of a princess gown which is usually unpicturesque—the few inches just above the waist line.

The gown proper is of green, while the yoke and sleeves are of flowered silk in reddish tint. The cascade on the bodice is formed of a plaiting of the green silk covered with applique lace. A stock collar of green has a large bow in the back, with streamers falling to the foot of the skirt—a veritable "follow-me-lads."

The sleeves are exceedingly quaint. The silk suggests that they might have been taken from the dress of a colonial dame, and the cut of the sleeves accentuates this idea. The very large puffs are plaited in at the elbow and end abruptly with a perky ruche.

MOURNING DRESSES.

The Duration of Mourning as Decreed by Fashion—Mourning Apparel Described.

All dresses for deep mourning are in black lainage and English crape during the first period, and black silk fabric and lace for the second; silk of violet, pansy, lilac, mauve, gray, black and white color for half mourning during the third period. Widows' mourning should be worn for a year and six weeks. Some even prolong the period to eighteen months. In the first case, lainage is worn during the first six months with crape; during the next six months silk and lace, and during the last six months half mourning materials. In the second case deep mourning, woolen fabrics and crape are worn for a year, silk and lace for three months, and half mourning for three months.

At the beginning of mourning, a long dress should be worn in the house with head-dress of crape. The English widow's cap, with a small, white diadem, is in favor just now. Trimmings of white batiste are also worn on the sleeves and at the neck. They are pleasanter wear than black crape trimmings.

Mourning for a father or a mother, father-in-law or mother-in-law, should be worn 12 months—six months wool and crape, three months silk, and three months half mourning. Mourning for a grandfather, grandmother, brother or sister, brother-in-law or sister-in-law, is worn six months; the first three months lainage, not too dead, and without English crape, but with black lace and jet passementerie and feathers for trimming. Half mourning during the last three months. Slight mourning is for an uncle or an aunt, and is worn three months. Black silk for six weeks and half mourning for the remainder of the time. All other mourning is optional, and is not worn longer than three weeks.

As for mourning for children, it was not worn at all formerly. For some years past it has become the custom to wear it, but only for one's own children. It is worn for six or twelve months, according to the age of the child which has died.

With regard to mourning worn by children, it should be white up to six years of age. Children above six years should be dressed in black, gray, or black-and-white, but less severely than grown up persons. It is the proper thing when attending funerals to wear black, although unconnected by relationship with the mourners. The foregoing are the latest styles for mourning dresses, according to the European edition of the New York Herald.

Fashion Notes.

For bathing suits the same serviceable serges, alpacas and flannels are used.

As to sea colors, blue serge is most serviceable, but black serge, with gay colored collar and kerchief, is much worn.

Long, pointed ovals are seen in sleeve buttons.

Belt buckles are a conspicuous feature in the present mode of dress.

A loose, well-cut corset with flexible bones adds to the attractiveness of the bathing suit.

A whim of fashion which amounts to a craze is the large collar of lawn, batiste, lace, chiffon, and embroidery which is displayed in such a diversity of styles in the shops, and worn over every imaginable sort of gown in the street.

Alpine hats of soft felt, in shade of brown and black and trimmed with a bow of silk ribbon and stiff quill or cock feathers, are worn for travelling and use in the mountains.

A change in the cut of our gowns which seems imminent, and originated in Paris, is the long shoulder seam.

Scotch winsey gowns have suddenly jumped into fashionable favor in England. The long-neglected material is now made in many shades, and is washable and unshrinkable.

Spanish lace shawls are among the fashionable evening wraps of the season, white predominating. It is surmised that not all of them were imported from Madrid.

What are called the wags' umbrellas are something new. They are made of black silk, with natural wood sticks and a silver plate on the handle is engraved:

WESTERN DAIRYMEN MEET.

The Quality of Western Cheese to be Kept Up—Cheese-Makers Urged to Have Exhibits at the Gananoque Dairy Show.

The executive committee of the Western Dairymen's Association met on Saturday, Aug. 24, in the secretary's office, London. There were present: President Pattullo, Woodstock, Hon. T. Ballantyne and W. F. Maclaren, Stratford, and John S. Pearce, London.

Considerable business was transacted by the committee effecting the future work of the association. A special committee was appointed to consider the whole question of milk inspection and instruction in the factories, with the view to bringing about a greater uniformity in the quality of the cheese made in Western Ontario. The report of the committee will be presented at the next meeting of the board of directors.

Some discussion took place regarding the dairy show to be held at Gananoque, Ont., on Oct. 1, 2, and 3. It was felt by the committee that as the show is being advertised as provincial in its character, an effort should be made to induce western cheesemakers to send exhibits. Arrangements were accordingly made to have 200 copies of the prize list distributed among western makers at once.

This show is held under the auspices of the Agricultural and Arts Association and is the first special dairy show ever held in Canada. And it is hoped that some of the best cheese factories in Western Ontario will be represented there. Four-hundred and sixty-nine dollars are to be given in prizes for cheese alone, with four prizes in each section, ranging in value from $15 to $30 each. Prizes will be given for both white and colored cheese, made between July 15 and 30, and Aug. 15 and 30. Entries close on Sept. 14 and should be sent to Henry Wade, secretary, Toronto, who will furnish prize list and entry forms on application. Prize lists and other information regarding the show, can also be had from the secretary of the Western Dairymen's Association, London, as well as particulars regarding the Dairy Cattle Show, to be held at Guelph on Dec. 10, 11, and 12, in connection with the Provincial Fat Stock Show.

It was decided to call a meeting of the board of directors, to be held in Toronto during the Industrial Fair, when it is expected that there will be a joint meeting of the directors of the Ontario Creameries Association, the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario and the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario, to discuss matters of mutual interest, affecting the wellfare of the dairy industry of the Province.

Entries in the dairy department of the Western Fair, London, close on Sept. 5. Cheese-makers who intend exhibiting should make their entries early. All cheese for exhibition at the Industrial Fair, Toronto, should be in place not later than noon on Wednesday, Sept. 4. Cheese for the Western Fair should be on the grounds on Sept. 12.

A PARALLEL CASE.

People in Detroit Are Interested in a Great Resemblance in Two Cases.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 26.—Much interest has been manifested here over the recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent, of Ottawa, from Bright's disease by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which is now in universal use, and many people have a clear recollection of the similar case which occurred in London, Ontario, not long ago, namely, that of Mr. Wm. Langley, who for some time was an inmate of Harper's Hospital here and was operated upon without effect by several Detroit physicians. It was owing to this connection with Detroit and the long accounts published in the press that so much interest was taken in the case, and led to such an enormously increased sale of the medicine.

A LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron, states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half-bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

TAMPERING WITH MILK.

Cheese Factory Patrons Fined for Skimming and Watering Milk.

During the past few weeks T. B. Millar, inspector and instructor for the Western Dairymen's Association, has visited the Summerville, Carthage, Evelyn, Grand Valley, South Dumfries, Bennington, Burgessville, Hawkesville and Belmont factories. Beside giving instruction in cheese making he also inspected the milk supplies at all these places.

There seems to be more tampering with milk this season than usual. This may be due to the severe drouth early in the season in many places, which caused a shrinkage in the milk supply, thus making it very tempting for the unscrupulous patron to add water to the milk-can in order to keep up the usual supply. It may also be due to the fact that the price of cheese this season is also low, when those who supply milk to the factories are sorely tempted to take off the cream, or to add water so as to make up in this way, if possible, for the shrinkage in price.

The law, however, does not recognize these excuses in dealing with dishonest patrons. If they are found guilty of watering or skimming milk supplied to any cheese factory—and they always are when the inspector gets after them—they must submit to the punishment attached to the offense.

The following are some of the recent convictions effected by Inspector Millar:

James O'Brien and John Lamont, patrons of the Summerville cheese factory, were summoned to appear before A. McFarlane, J.P., Otterville, and were each fined $5 and costs, the former pleading guilty to the charge of sending milk from which cream had been taken, and the latter being convicted of sending deteriorated milk.

Before J. E. Terhune, police magistrate, Listowel, James O'Grady and his son John O'Grady, were convicted and fined $25 and $10 costs each for sending deteriorated milk to the Carthage cheese factory.

Mrs. Ann Brown and Geo. Towers, patrons of the Grand Valley cheese factory, pleaded guilty before Squire Osbourne, of Grand Valley, to the charge of sending deteriorated milk, and were each fined $5 and costs.

At Linwood, Ont., before A. Boomer, J. P., John Hair pleaded guilty to the charge of sending deteriorated milk to the Crystal Springs cheese factory, and was fined $10 and costs.

John Miller pleaded guilty before Police Magistrate Field, of Woodstock, to the charge of supplying deteriorated milk to the Burgessville cheese factory, and was fined $20 and $2 85 costs.

London, Tuesday, August 27.

The school trustees of Toronto have resolved to extend the school holidays. These trustees are very foolish. What more enjoyable weather for studies could be wished for than that now prevailing. It is certain that in this matter the Toronto trustees have not consulted the wishes of the mothers.

The Montreal Star heads a telegram from Winnipeg, chronicling two fatal accidents, "Festivals in the Far West." We are all liable to err, however.

Keir-Hardie, the British Socialist leader, now on a visit to this continent, may be erratic in many respects, but he has a level head in regard to one point of public policy. He says Britain will not go back to high taxation as a means of escape from her political ills. She tried "Protection" once, and it brought her workpeople face to face with beggary, when they were not so numerous, by many millions, as they now are. The workers are not so foolish as to wish to repeat the experiment.

The Chatham Planet says it is because Mr. Patterson, M. P. for West Huron, is in poor health that he takes the Lieutenant-Governorship of Manitoba. Down in Ottawa, during last session, the Conservative M. P.s made no secret of the fact that Mr. Patterson's health had nothing to do with the compact by which he got the promise of the Governorship of Manitoba. The sole reasons for his retirement lay in the fact that his seat in the Cabinet was wanted for another one, while it was known that Mr. Patterson could not again be returned for West Huron.

Vice-President Stevenson of the United States, who has been on a tour through Canada and Alaska, has returned home. "The wonderful beauty of the scenery," is his verdict, "both on the C. P. R. and in Alaska, cannot be described in an interview, or even in a book. It must actually be seen to be properly appreciated." An increasing number of tourists will, year by year, render a similar verdict.

If every high tax M. P., afflicted with a tired feeling, has to be provided with a lieutenant-governorship, the Provinces will have to be vastly multiplied.

The Hamilton Spectator (Conservative) is decidedly downcast because of the tremendous falling-off in the Conservative majority in Westmoreland. It says:

"The result of the Westmoreland election cannot be encouraging to Sir Mackenzie Bowell. Will he accept the verdict of Vercheres, Antigonish and Westmoreland, and abandon his attempt to coerce Manitoba, or will he go on in spite of all warnings?"

And, as if to emphasize the facts, it addresses the following open letter to the Conservative leader:

"Sir Mackenzie Bowell—Dear Sir: If you lose 1,400 majority in every constituency in Canada, your friend Laurier will have the biggest majority on record."

An early Dominion general election is looked for in some quarters, and the men in power at Ottawa are certainly making many preparations for the conflict that will bring about a much needed change for the better. In other circles the belief is entertained that the office holders will delay the verdict as long as they possibly can. The wise will get ready for the fight. Then, whether it comes sooner or later, they will have nothing to regret.

John Morley, being out of politics, is at work on a history of the union of England and Ireland, using the secret papers in the Government archives for the years from 1795 to 1805. As this is a period about which there has been much discussion, the contribution of so noted an investigator as Mr. Morley will be awaited with interest.

They have language difficulties in the old world also, but the use of English seems to steadily increase. At Tashkend, in Russian Turkestan, English has been substituted for German as an obligatory study in the high school, while at Riga, on the Baltic, Lutheran pastors have been ordered to give up German and use Russian in their correspondence.

The late Professor Huxley is shown to be not so much of an agnostic as many people at one time believed him to be. Prof. Alex. Macalister, writing of the late Professor in the new number of the Bookman, says that Huxley once said to him, "I would have the Bible taught and read in every school, but not interpreted by clerical or professional interpreters," and in one of his essays he gives his reason for this. "By the study of what other book could children be so much humanized and made to feel that each figure in that great historical procession fills, like themselves, but a momentary space between the eternities, and earns the blessings or curses of all time according to its efforts to do good or hate evil, even as they are also earning the payment for their work?" The followers of the Professor and the Christian world at large will read with interest these lines, which have been engraved upon his tomb:

And if there be no meeting past the grave,
If all is darkness, silence, yet 'tis rest.
Be not afraid, ye waiting hearts that weep,
For God still giveth His beloved sleep,
And if an endless sleep He wills so best.

But why these "ifs"? The Bible gives no warrant for them.

WHEAT IN EVIDENCE.

The National Policy has made the price of wheat in Canada 15 cents a bushel higher than in the United States.—Montreal Gazette.

The market quotations of the Gazette do not bear out its statement. Within the last few days, in fact, new wheat was offering in Toronto at 64 cents. On the same day in Oswego, about the same distance from export outlet, No. 2 red was quoted at 75 cents. Except in times of scarcity, when the speculator has the consumer at his mercy, the British market rules the price the world over.

All the N. P. does is to prevent the farmer getting a fair return for his products, which he must sell at prices fixed by free competition

IS IT PROTECTIONISM?

To the Editor of the London "Advertiser:"

The impression seems to prevail that the embargo laid on the importation of Canadian live stock into Great Britain, though its ostensible reason is fear of disease, in reality is protectionism in disguise. Those who know the honorable character of British officials will be slow to adopt the suspicion. But supposing the allegation to be true, have we much ground for complaint? While we lay protective duties on British products, can we find much fault with the British farmers for protecting themselves directly or indirectly against ours?

Warm Rejoinder to Rev. Dr. McKay from Hon. David Mills.

Inconsistency Charged Against the Woodstock Divine.

Mr. Mills Keeps to Dr. McKay's Original Charge Against Himself and Associates.

The Question of the Right to Prohibit Yet Unsettled.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser":

In your issue of Thursday there is a letter from Rev. Dr. McKay, in reply to a former letter from me. The interview which your reporter had with me and the letter with which I before troubled you, were not designed to discuss the question of prohibition, but to answer certain calumnious statements and charges made by him against me and against other representatives in the House of Commons, who belong to the Reform party. The doctor, in his last letter, complains that my former letter fills the space of four columns in the "Advertiser," and does not deal with some other subject than the one I set out to discuss. My letter was a little short of three columns. This is but one more illustration of his repugnance to accuracy of statement, his habit of exaggeration, and the fatal facility which he has acquired of making declarations at variance with facts.

Dr. McKay says I have not said what I would do in reference to prohibition. Many years ago an old gentleman went to a funeral, and when the service was over he exclaimed in disgust: "I have listened to a sermon an hour long, well enough in its way, but there was not one word in it about the Oregon question, though everybody is talking about it, and it may, at any moment, lead to a war between England and the United States." The doctor's criticism is equally beside the subject of controversy which he has evoked, and which he seems anxious to abandon. What he challenged was not what I might do or say hereafter, but what I had done and said already. But let me ask him what right has he to interrogate Reformers? A deserter from his party for reasons which he would not care to avow, no answer we could give would lessen his hostility or placate him. Having left us himself, he desires to persuade others to follow his example, and to form with him a mercenary army, that might aid our opponents in the day of battle. He will find but few Patrons, and still fewer Prohibitionists, ready to join him in so desperate an enterprise as the one upon which he has set out.

Dr. McKay condemns me for not supporting Mr. Flint's motion. He condemns Mr. Flint for proposing it, and says that he is not entitled to the confidence and support of Prohibitionists. He condemns Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Sutherland, not for their votes, but for their silence upon an abstract motion made during the latter part of a midsummer session. He, their self-appointed judge, and accuser, passes upon them all his sentence of condemnation. All Reform members have gone astray; they have sold themselves for votes and for money to the liquor-sellers! There are none good among them, no, not one, except John Charlton. He, having shown signs of contrition, and having made confession to the doctor, has been discharged on suspended sentence. His relations with him, hereafter, will depend on his ability to take a hint, and to govern himself accordingly.

Let me, Mr. Editor, begin with this last matter first. What was the doctor's charge against Mr. Charlton and others? That having been summoned to appear before him and his coadjutors, to receive instructions and to obey them, they had the audacity to refuse. Mr. Charlton's answer in effect was, "I must dwell among my own people." This the doctor maintained illustrated the evils of party, and then he declared there was not one among them all that would honestly stand by prohibition—not even Mr. Flint. This being the case, he was compelled to go forth from the old parties, as Abram had gone forth from Ur—to begin his political life anew for the regeneration of his country. But in his letter of the 20th inst. he informs us that he has had new light; that the members are not all so incorrigibly bad as he had averred. It was in his wrath that he said they were all untruthful and dishonest. Since he so spoke he had received new light. He says:

"There are a few noble men at Ottawa, I gladly admit. Among these none stands higher in the estimation of the Christian people of this country than John Charlton. And what does he say about this question? Just what I say. Here are his words, recently published over his signature: 'I welcome the evidence furnished by your resolutions that temperance organizations in Ontario intend to watch closely the actions of their representatives upon temperance questions, and to hold them to account for the same. This great issue has too long been a political stalking horse, and its importance warrants the demand that it shall be treated honestly and seriously.' Thus speaks John Charlton, a Christian statesman, who knows well what he testifies. I could not wish for a stronger indorsation of my charge that this great moral issue of the prohibition of the liquor traffic is not 'treated honestly and seriously' by our Ottawa politicians."

Upon the receipt of this letter of approval, Mr. Charlton is once more restored to the doctor's favor. Let me ask him what he proposes to do with his new combination in the riding of North Norfolk? Does it mean the doctor, like his ancient predecessor, is not to prophesy ill concerning the Reform candidate in that constituency?

Let me make plain to your readers what Dr. McKay's real position is upon the question of prohibition, and they will see that he is by no means as zealous in fact as he is in print. There is at this moment a law in every part of Canada that sanctions prohibition—the Canada Temperance Act. It is brought into operation in Prince Edward Island. It is left dormant here. A majority, Dr. McKay says, in this Province of 82,000 was recorded in favor of prohibition. Why has not the example of Prince Edward Island been followed? I know what many of the friends of prohibition say, but what answer does he make? Why is the law which was considered useful seventeen years ago allowed to remain a dead letter? The doctor speaks about the large prohibition vote in Oxford. Why is there not prohibition in that county? The law authorizes it. The doctor will remember that it was tried once before. He knows that every such law requires the moral support of the public and the active aid of municipal and other officers. He will remember at that time he voted and canvassed for an opponent of prohibition, and against an active and conscientious supporter of that measure. He supported Mr. McLeod, and he opposed Mr. Crawford. What defense has he to make for his conduct on that occasion?

The doctor cannot have forgotten another circumstance. Prohibitionists generally were opposed to the Liquor Prohibition Commission, which lasted so long, which cost so much, and which accomplished so little; but he was of a contrary opinion. He thought there was so much doubt as to the propriety of such a policy, that he wanted not only to see the commission appointed, but he desired to become a member of that body. He sought appointment. He canvassed various parties for their influence and support. I am told that he approached a prominent Conservative—a former opponent of Sir Oliver Mowat—and offered him his support in a subsequent election if he would secure for him (the doctor) a place on that commission. Was that struggle for place due to disinterested devotion to the cause of prohibition? What doubts had Dr. McKay then that it required investigation to remove?

Much as the doctor is devoted to the war against the liquor traffic, has he not maintained that the lecturer was entitled to his reward, and has he not refused to lecture when that reward was not forthcoming? Now, I don't say that $20 a night is an extravagant demand; but it is only to an earnest friend that it could wear the appearance of disinterested philanthropy. And may it not lead the ordinary elector to suspect that others beside camp followers are very strongly impressed with the notion that he who helps a party should be handsomely rewarded for the aid which he renders?

As a disinterested observer, I am of the opinion that the doctor is not in a good position to level charges of corruption and mendacity against Reformers. I do not know of any instance in which Reform members have deserted their principles for the votes or the money of liquor-dealers, nor have they done so for the money of any other class. They have never lagged behind public opinion on the question of temperance reform, and no man of good sense will say that it would be to the social or moral advantage of the community for them to go beyond what public opinion will honestly uphold. The Reformers have no intention, nor will they make their principles articles of merchandise.

Dr. McKay set out by saying my vote was wrong, my statements were inaccurate, and in the reason I assigned for my action I was knowingly dishonest and untruthful. I have before shown that these charges exhibit not only an ignorance of both law and fact, but a desire so to remain. If it were the doctor's interest to deny that twice two are four he would readily do so. In proof of this let me call your readers' attention to this paragraph:

"Hon. Mr. Mills evidently feels very sore over my exposure of his hypocritical excuse for voting against prohibition in Parliament. He says that he knows more about the question of jurisdiction than I do. I readily grant it. But the more he knows about jurisdiction the worse for the plea he puts forth. He knows that a considerable number of the highest legal authorities in the Dominion some time ago prepared very carefully seven questions re jurisdiction, and that not one of these seven questions implies any doubt as to the power of Parliament to prohibit. He knows further that some years ago the subject was before the Privy Council of England, and no member of that council expressed a doubt on this point. And yet knowing all this, he urges the plea that the power of Parliament is doubtful, and is now before the Privy Court!"

Let me once more point out how the question stood last session. The question of jurisdiction had been argued, and had been taken by appeal to the judicial committee of the Privy Council. The last published judgments that had then appeared were those that had been delivered in our own Court of Appeal. The chief justice pointed out that prior to the union much of our municipal law embraced local trade and commerce, and must be held to be embraced in the power to create municipal institutions, and the inference is that prohibition by the Federal authorities could not rest upon their jurisdiction over trade and commerce, as this grant must mean interprovincial and foreign trade only. Mr. Justice Burton pointed out that the Privy Council had based their judgment in Russell and the Queen upon the residuary power to legislate for the peace, order, and good government of Canada. But this residuary power can't be invoked against any express grant of power to the Provinces, and once it was made plain to the judicial committee that the power to prohibit belonged to the Provinces under the jurisdiction—municipal institutions—it would be held to be an exclusive jurisdiction, for a residuary power conveys nothing where the subject is granted expressly to another body. His words are: "I come, therefore, individually to the conclusion, although the point has not as yet been passed upon by the judicial committtee, that under the term 'municipal institutions,' the Legislature's power to prohibit was included; and if the power, the exclusive power, to deal with the question." And again he says: "Thus, prima facie in the Russell case under the words 'peace, order, and good government of Canada,' the power would exist to pass a prohibitory liquor law, but whenever you find in section 92 'municipal institutions' interpreted as we are interpreting them, the right of the Dominion to legislate upon the subject is displaced." Let me ask Dr. McKay, have you read these judgments? If so, then you did know these seven questions had raised the question of Dominion jurisdiction in so far as that of the Provinces was exclusive, and you did know that the reason I assigned for my vote was upheld by these judgments upon the questions to which you refer, and you are endeavoring and you have endeavored to mislead and to deceive. Dr. McKay says in the paragraph I have quoted that years ago the subject was before the Privy Council of England, and no member of that council expressed any doubt on this point. I don't know, neither does he. The council deliberates in secret, and if there are any differences of opinion these differences are not disclosed. Now, I have pointed out again and again that the judgment of Russell and the Queen was based upon the residuary powers of the Dominion. The power to legislate upon the subject of prohibition exists somewhere. It is not expressly bestowed, it is included in these residuary powers. The Supreme Court held that it was expressly granted to the Dominion by the jurisdiction over "Trade and Commerce." By several judgments since in the Privy Council that ground has been cut away. The Privy Council declined to place the jurisdiction upon that ground. They rested it upon the residuary powers, because it was not shown to them that it had been expressly granted to the Provinces. The man who argued the case, though a great lawyer, was a stranger to our local institutions. All these matters are disclosed in the judgments upon the questions submitted, and with these judgments before him Dr. McKay informs your readers that there is no doubt about the power of Parliament to enact a prohibitory liquor law.

At this moment nothing is settled. It is possible that the subject of jurisdiction will be found to be divided, and that Provincial authority, so far as it extends, will be found exclusive. In such a condition of things, your readers can well understand how preposterous it would be to legislate. People have not forgotten the confusion, the disorder, the litigation and the costs which grew out of the Dominion license legislation. The damages against the country amounted to more than a quarter of a million of dollars, which the people paid. Had there been legislation upon the subject of prohibition, covering the whole ground, the confusion, the conflict and the costs would not have been less serious. And when the judgment is finally rendered, I think this will be clearly seen. At all events, so far, the decisions warrant this conclusion; yet in the face of these judgments, contradicting what Dr. McKay affirms, he has the hardihood to say that he has exposed my hypocrisy. No; he has not exposed what did not exist, but he has exposed his ignorance, when he set out, of the legal difficulties which surrounded the question, and which at the outset might have served as some excuse to an ill-informed and suspicious mind. He is now better informed, and that excuse can no longer avail him. He now knows that his accusation against me is unfounded. He now knows the reason, which he has assigned in his last letter, for making it, is not supported by the facts. The judgments of the Court of Appeal contradict his assertion. Dr. McKay has not exposed my hypocrisy, but he has exposed his own readiness to make, without scruple, unfounded charges. He has shown that in his estimation calumny, as a weapon of controversy, has as much value as truth, if he can but make it effective. He has shown to the whole country that the weapons which he prefers are not such as can be employed to promote good government, to alleviate distress, to redress wrong, or to defend a just cause. They have been drawn from another armory, in the keeping of those who hate the light, and have been shaped and tempered by the passions that debase, but they are the weapons which he prefers to employ, and with which he seems to be most familiar.

Rheumatism Cured

Mr. Byron Crandell

"In July last I was taken with rheumatism in its worst form. Local physicians treated me, but their remedies did not give me any relief. I was advised to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial, which I did. I take great pleasure in stating that two bottles gave marked relief. Continuing regularly with the medicine, I am now cured. While afflicted I was frequently obliged to use crutches. I cannot recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla too highly. BYRON CRANDELL, engineer at Water Works, Toronto Junction, Ont.

A GRAND SPECTACLE.

The Parade of 25,000 Knights Templar in Boston.

The Finest Ever Seen There — Great Crowds.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 27.—Seven hundred and fifty thousand people saw the parade of over 24,000 Sir Knights Templar today, and with one accord pronounced it the grandest pageant ever seen in Boston. People were everywhere—in the streets, on the sidewalks, on the roofs of buildings and street cars, climbing to tops of telegraph poles whenever the vigilance of the police and linemen was relaxed for a moment, in wagons and drays, on seats in the side streets, and on hundreds of grand stands, large and small, along the route. Never in the history of ancient Boston has a greater host of strangers crowded in the city's gates, and for many years the spectacle of today will be the precedent with which great gatherings in New England will be compared.

It was a good-natured crowd, and, considering its size, was well handled. At the depots the crowds were of almost suffocating density. From every State commanderies began to arrive at an early hour, and thousands of spectators came with them. The railroad men were completely overwhelmed by the magnitude of the crowd. Everywhere within a radius of twenty miles of the State House the day is practically a holiday. Most of the factories in near-by cities are closed, and the operatives helped to swell the horde of people who watched the procession. The lines of the parade were formed in thirteen divisions in a column of double sections. The first division included the representatives of the Grand Commanderies of the United States, and aides from the most prominent commanderies of America. The other twelve divisions were made up of commanderies from 33 States, numbering between 200 and 300, and representing an aggregate marching force of 15,000 men. The procession began to move at 10:30 a.m. As the great body of knights moved down Commonwealth avenue, amid cheers and the salutes of 10,000 people, the spectacle was inspiring. The music of 100 bands and the applause of thousands of people filled the air; gaily bedecked horses pranced at the head of each division, while the contrast of the dignified black cloth of the uniforms, the waving of rich plumes and bright silver and gold emblems, which are conspicuous in the templar uniforms, combined to present a scene that was pleasing and impressive.

BOLD BURGLARS

In Waterloo—Enter Four Stores, But Get Little.

Waterloo, Que., Aug. 27.—Burglars made a bold raid on the merchants of this town last night by entering and ransacking four stores and trying to effect an entrance to the fifth. They apparently began their work at Pierre Hubert's general store, working north along Main street west to E. & P. Gates' hardware store, G. W. Gilmour's general store and A. E. Driberger's drug store. They were heard in nearly every instance, but the noise was attributed to either rats or cats until they reached A. C. Gilmour's store. From the electric lights three distinct shadows of men with iron bars prying at the door could be seen. Mr. A. C. Gilmour was called from the back of the store, where he was sleeping, and on sticking his head out of the window and shouting the burglars quickly disappeared in the dark, taking with them about $3 or $4 in small change, secured from among the tills.

THE WESTMORELAND ELECTION.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 27.—Total returns from Westmoreland give the majority for Powell (Con.), 694. Compared with the 1891 vote, the Liberal vote increased 950 and the Conservative vote decreased 550. The Liberal gain was mostly in the English districts. The Conservative vote increased in the French districts.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT HAMILTON.

Hamilton, Aug. 27.—J. B. Burnes, aged 74, of 196 Hannah street west, Hamilton, while crossing the track of the Hamilton and Dundas street railway at the corner of Queen and Hannah streets was run down by the engine and fatally injured. Both legs were cut off.

KILLED BY A YELLOW JACKET.

Bellefonte, Pa., Aug. 27.—A yellow jacket yesterday stung John Horner upon the lip while he was working in a field on his farm. That was 9 o'clock in the morning, and immediately the lip began to swell, Horner suffering awful pain. He grew worse rapidly until 5 o'clock, when he expired.

THE A. O. F. DEMONSTRATION.

Guelph, Ont., Aug. 27.—The A. O. F. held a demonstration of various events here yesterday in honor of the High Court meeting. Bands were in attendance, and a number of drilled corps from Hamilton, Stratford and Galt. The first-named carried off the first honors for fancy drill. The two-mile open bicycle race was won by Dunbar, of Stratford; L. Rowen, Guelph, second. One mile open—Frank Barber, Guelph, first; V. L. Clark, Guelph, second. The day's proceedings were brought to a close by a grand band concert in the evening.

PARENTS AND STUDENTS

Are becoming each year more interested in the study of the fine arts. In fact a family of any pretension to culture has a piano. It is, therefore, right that parents should know where good tuition can be had at reasonable fees. The Misses Proudfoot, N. Barron, H. Paterson, J. Steele, B. Moore and Mr. A. L. Lawrason are all pianists and instructors on the piano of exceptional ability. They all teach at the Conservatory. Mr. Barron, the principal of the Conservatory, guarantees satisfaction in their teaching, for they all consider no effort on their part too great to induce the pupils to work with self-interest and determination to excel. Students need not be advanced in knowledge or years to study the piano with the principal, Mr. Barron.

Physical Culture is one of the main studies at the Conservatory. It is under the care of Miss Ina Harriet Bacon (late of Boston). Miss Bacon comes to London with the highest credentials, both as to personal worth and artistic ability. An invitation is extended to any ladies to call on Miss Bacon at her own private room at the Conservatory any time during the morning for one week, from Sept. 9, where she can be consulted free.

THERE IS NOT a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify this danger with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—a pulmonic of acknowledged efficacy. It cures soreness and lameness when applied externally, as well as swelled neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial claims to public confidence.

GETTING READY

We realize that we have only about two weeks more to get our New Goods in array for the Fall Season. Of course we are always receiving goods even after the season is fully open. Our business is so great that we have to reorder many lines to meet the demand. It is impossible to tell which lines will be the most popular, and it is only when the goods come to hand and are seen by our customers that we find out which to repeat. The new fall goods are coming to hand and as they come they are being opened up ready for inspection. We ask our patrons to visit our stores now, even though we are scarcely prepared to show all we would like. Those who cannot make a selection from the goods now in are requested to wait until the stock is complete, when we expect to have the choicest collection of Dress Goods, Millinery, Mantles, Capes and General Drygoods ever brought to London. It is not necessary for us to state that we are leaders in the above lines. Everybody knows that.

A GOOD TIME

To decide on what you want for the Fall Season is now. Think over your requirements and come to us when you have fully decided. Perhaps you know the kind of cloth you want, but are not settled as to the style of garment. Get one of our New Idea Fashion Sheets. It will help you. Any pattern shown in it can be bought for 12c. Other patterns not so popular cost twice that amount.

We have received our first shipment of Feather Boas. They are going very quickly. Wish we had twice the number. The colors left are pink, blue, white and white and black.

A Winnipeg dispatch says: The body of George A. McFarlane was on the express today en route for Ailsa Craig, the former home of the deceased. The late Mr. McFarlane was prominent for many years in Virden, and his death was very sudden.

The Epworth League of the Melrose Methodist Church held their annual harvest home on the parsonage lawn on Friday evening. A very enjoyable and profitable time was spent, the proceeds netting $63. At the close of the programme Rev. T. T. George presented Mrs. Powell with an elegant rocking-chair on behalf of the league.

The Queen and Disestablishment.

In is generally believed that the Queen usually insists upon exercising her prerogative as regards the appointment of bishops, and it is significant that she recently sanctioned the appointment of Dr. Percival, who is a strong disestablisher, to be see of Hereford. There is reason to believe that her Majesty, though the titular head of the Church, would not regard the severance of the Church and the State as a shock to the foundation of the throne. In her last published work, "More leaves from the journal of our lives in the Highlands," there is a very remarkable passage which justifies the statement we have just made. Her Majesty says, "I saw Dr. McLeod before dinner. He is greatly alarmed for the Established Church of Scotland, as he fears that an attempt will be made to pull that down also (this was just after the disestablishment of the Irish Church), though, thank God!" the Queen adds, "there is no difference of form or doctrine there, and were this to happen the Free and United Presbyterians, with the present Established Church, would become one very strong Protestant body." It is evident, therefore, that the Head of the Church does not consider its connection with the State as essential to its existence. The passage we have quoted is exceedingly interesting, as showing the Queen's capacity for taking an independent line of thought on a question of supreme political significance, and in opposition to the views of her famous court chaplain in Scotland, who is generally believed to have exercised great influence over her.—The New Age.

World's visible increase, 562,000 bu; wheat east of the Rockies, decrease, 1,366,000 bu; Pacific coast not given. Europe and afloat, for Europe increased 1,928,000 bu. Corn, increase, 1,364,000 bu; oats, increase, 1,257,000 bu.

Looks as if predictions of frost might be realized in the Northwest. It is colder and raining a little. If it clears off frost is almost certain.

Strength in grain is helping provisions. The strength in September comes from light receipts, estimated for tomorrow.

Liverpool—Wheat and corn unchanged.

World's exports of wheat last week were 6,981,000 u.

There is a fair demand for September corn; Lester and Logan are causing the firmness.

BRITISH GRAIN TRADE.

London, Aug. 27.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: The supplies of English new wheat have been small. The London quotations were: White, 26s @ 29s, and reds, 25s; old wheat has been scarce at 24s @ 29s, and foreign has fallen 6d. California wheat cargoes have fetched 25s 9d, and No. 1 hard Duluth, 25s 9d. Corn has been depressed; mixed American for January shipment has been offered at the record price of 16s 6d. Barleys have been weak, the cheap feeding sorts having declined 6d.

Today there was a better tone. New English wheats were held for 28s, and foreign wheats were firmer. Corn for future shipment was held for 3d advance. American flour fell 6d and English flour was steady. Oats dropped 3d and barley was weak.

—Mrs. Santo, Maitland street, has obtained a permit to make alterations in her Dundas street terrace. Wm. D. Thomas, Piccadilly street, will build a $4,600 residence at the corner of Piccadilly and Colborne streets.

—The many friends of Mr. Dan Fraser, son of Mr. Wm. Fraser, for many years connected with the Fraser House, Port Stanley, will be glad to hear of the success of a very painful operation performed on him last week for the removal of a growth from his forehead.

—Mr. T. G. Davey and wife, South London, arrived home from England at 10:15 a. m. today. Mr. Davey proceeded to the cemetery to see the body of his little daughter, who died during his absence, and whose remains were kept in the vault. The funeral will probably be held tomorrow.

—Mr. E. Wyatt, lately teacher in Brick Street School, Westminster, was the recipient of many congratulations yesterday for having secured a second-class certificate in six months. Mr. Wyatt writes for a first next year. The "Advertiser" hopes he will get there.

—Grand Master Alex. Thomson, of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows, announces that their appeal to the Manchester Unity for the re-establishment of fraternal and friendly relations has been successful, the Grand Annual Movable Committee, held in Swansea recently having unanimously passed the following: "85. That the Canadian Order of Oddfellows have the privileges extended to them which they possessed previous to the Hull A. M. C., viz., by being supplied with the quarterly password, and that a list of the lodges of such order be printed in the list of the lodges of the Unity." This is in response to a strong appeal by Grand Master Thompson.

GOING RAPIDLY AHEAD.

Three Large Gangs Working on the Pavement.

Shortness of Rails and Finder Irons—Laying the Ties on Ridout and York Streets.

To-day was the busiest day yet among the men employed on the pavement work. The steam roller is puffing merrily along the north side of Dundas, west of Richmond. Rails have been laid from Wellington street to King, and this afternoon a large force of men began to lay the concrete foundation of the pavement on the east side of Richmond street, between Dundas and King.

The trolley poles have quietly made their appearance on several of the streets in the limit proposed to be electrified this fall, and a large number of ties have been deposited on Ridout and York street west, preparatory to digging up the roadway for the new line.

The Street Railway Company have finished laying what rails they have on hand and are now awaiting the Montreal shipment, which were started on their way west this morning. They will be here tomorrow. The company is also short of binder irons.

The rails are laid directly on the concrete, and will not be placed on ties.

The materials for the new motor cars continue to arrive daily.

NO DELAY FOR CUSTOMERS.

London Furniture Manufacturing Company's Works Will be in Full Operation on Thursday.

The break-down of the big engine of the London Furniture Manufacturing Company will not interfere with the company's filling the orders of its numerous customers throughout Canada. Already, Manager Graves has provided for the establishment of a temporary engine to drive the machinery while the stationary engine is being repaired, and the entire works of the company will be running in full blast on and after Thursday morning next.

Mrs. Evans, 355 Princess avenue, in another column announces the reopening of her boarding and day school on Sept. 16. As now is the time for considering the place to obtain the best results for the season's studying, young ladies, judging from the past reputation of Mrs. Evans' school, would do well to apply to her for particulars. *

The rooms and halls occupied by the London Shorthand School, have been thoroughly renovated preparatory for the fall term which begins Sept. 3.

Young men and young ladies contemplating business life will do well to attend this school, as their instruction in Book-keeping, Shorthand and Typewriting is both practical and thorough. This is the only school in the city where pupils receive the entire attention of an experienced male instructor. *

A serious outbreak of diphtheria very recently occurred in a family residing in Grey county. Out of eight cases five have proved fatal, and the other three patients are slowly recovering. Dr. Bryce, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, will investigate the cause.

Another Drowning.

Norville A. Tulley Meets Death in the Thames,

A Short Distance East of the Waterworks Property.

Had Been Camping There for Some Weeks—His Canoe Upset—The Body Discovered.

Following so closely upon the recent double drowning near Springbank, the news of another accident in the same vicinity caused a great deal of surprise and regret in the city today.

The victim this time is Norville A. Tully, a young man of 20 years, who, with his mother, lives with Mr. A. S. Abbott, ex-city clerk, 227 Queen's avenue. For some weeks Tully has been camping on the north side of the river, and almost opposite Wonderland. As companions he had Wm. Clark and a Mr. Shannon, and the trio spent their time pleasantly in boating, fishing, etc.

About 1:30 this afternoon, according to eye-witnesses, they started out for a ride in his small canoe, which he was thoroughly competent to handle. He had not gone far, however, when the little craft upset, and the occupant was thrown into the water. His cries soon brought several to the scene, including his two companions. The latter immediately set out in a boat, but before they reached the boy he sank for the last time.

After the relatives of the young man had been notified of the calamity, a searching party was formed and the body soon afterwards recovered a short distance from where it was seen to go down.

Norville Tully was the only son of Mrs. Tully, 227 Queen's avenue, a daughter of Mr. A. S. Abbott. He was a member of the Queen's Avenue Church choir, and was highly respected by his many friends. The blow will be very hard on his mother, who has been in very delicate health for some time.

He was one of the first to institute search for the unfortunate Warwicks, and succeeded in locating the first body. Tully was expected home last night, but for an unknown reason delayed his return.

The Secret Out.

"O, there is another man here," he acknowledged, "one of the passengers who stumbled along with me in the storm. He has gone upstairs; I suppose there is some kind of a room up there."

"Haven't you been to see? What is the use of being in a hole like this and not making your investigations. Where are the stairs?"

"I have not taken the pains to look. I am content to take the good the gods provide."

"You are not 'Q the curious'" laughed the other. "I never stay in a spot five minutes without knowing it from top to bottom. That's my business," he explained; "and more than that, it is my nature."

"Q?" repeated the doctor, vaguely.

"My name. Short for Query. Living interrogation point I am called."

Cameron eyed him, saw he was like no man he had ever met before, and dropped all hope of controlling him.

"It's an odd name and a not to be envied nature," he observed, "but that is no affair of mine. If you did not have it I suppose you would not be useful as a detective."

"There you have it, sir. And to be a good detective is meat and drink to me, and more. I have ambition to take Mr. Gryce's place when he is laid up. There are those who say I will. But all this is not supper, and supper is what I am after; so here goes for a peep into the rooms above, for there is certainly nothing here."

He would have gone and Dr. Cameron could not have stopped him without invoking the very suspicion he was desirous of avoiding, if at that moment there had not risen shouts from without and a harsh voice crying:

"Hurrah! here's old Harvey's hut!" Which exclamation was followed by a noisy rush and the blustering of wind, as three men staggered against the door and knocked it down in their frenzied entrance.

It was an irruption like that of the Goths and Vandals, but it served as a diversion to the detective, and this was much to the now thoroughly agitated doctor. Taking advantage of the excitement, he managed to steal away, and ere long found an opportunity to hastily mount into that region of mystery and darkness, amid whose depths lay hidden the man whose name and identity it had now become the one imperative necessity of his life to conceal.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

The space into which he stepped was perfectly dark, but trusting to his knowledge of such places, he knelt down, and feeling for the ends of the ladder, discovered that they were fastened by hooks to an iron rung set in the floor, and that they could be easily detached, and the ladder drawn up. He accordingly took advantage of this fact to cut off communication from below, and laying the ladder down in the hall which appeared to be just long enough to receive it, he proceeded to strike a match, satisfied that the prying Q, as he called himself, would not be able to follow him.

The flame given out showed that he was in a narrow hall flanked by two doors. Trying the handle of one, he found that the key had been turned in the lock, and concluding that it was in this room that Molesworth had found refuge, he passed to the other and succeeded in opening it just as his match went out. Striking a fresh one, he took a short survey of the apartment in which he found himself, and perceived that it was, as near as he could judge, dining-room, kitchen, and larder combined. He also saw there were candles on the tall mantelshelf, and hastily lighting one, he experienced for the first time since he left the cars, the feeling of reality that accompanies the sight of everyday objects.

And yet the apartment thus revealed, was by no means of the ordinary type. Like everything else about the curious structure it bore the impress of oddity, and though comfortable enough, had the look of a place into which a woman had never stepped. And indeed I believe that Dr. Cameron found out afterwards that this was the case: that the house had been built, furnished, and inhabited without the counsel or presence of the softer sex; that it was indeed a hermit's cell, and as such was eschewed by all persons of a companionable disposition.

The owner, however, though peculiar and unsociable, was not without some taste and admiration for the beautiful. In this anomalous room, for instance, where pots and pans confronted a huge sofa, and a shelf full of curious books, there was a bronze figure of such exquisite proportions that it caught the eye of this uneasy man and awakened something like a pleasurable sensation within him. Then the andirons on the hearth, and above all the tile upon which they stood, were fine enough to have graced a dwelling with decided pretentions of elegance. And what was perhaps the strangest feature of all, each and every object was to all appearance in its own place, and was, as far as one could judge by such a light, scrupulously neat.

All this seen, though not perhaps as fully noted as I have suggested here, Dr. Cameron crossed the hall again to the opposite room. Anxious to communicate with Molesworth, yet fearing to risk any seeming collusion with him, he stood for a moment hesitating whether to knock or call, when, suddenly the murmur of voices rising from below, grew perceptibly louder, and fearing to attract attention by his light, he drew back into the room from which he had come and shut the door.

But no sooner had he done this, than he felt an inexplicable uneasiness. Something seemed to be going on in the hall beyond which he ought to see, and though he knew such fears were folly, he finally succumbed to them sufficiently to reopen the door, when to his real astonishment—for he had expected to see nothing—he perceived the good-humored visage of the very man whose surveillance he was endeavoring to escape, protruding upwards through the trap.

"Hallo!" cried that gay and easy personage; "there is nothing like a light body and a curious mind. One more boost there," he shouted down to the man on whose shoulders he evidently stood. "So! Now your hand, governor," and by the aid of Dr. Cameron, who did not dare to withhold his assistance, much as he would have preferred to have tripped the man back into his hole, he finally clambered up through the trap and landed on the floor at Dr. Cameron's side.

"Well, here I am! No flies on me, governor," was his first exclamation. And he flashed about him a piercing look which, while different in its character from that of Mr. Gryce, was yet fully as acute in its way. "You see I smelled fodder or thought I did, and finding that the fellers below were willing to trust me as a scout, I followed your example. But how did you get up here? You had no man's shoulder to get up by, and—O, I see, a ladder, And you pulled it up after you, eh? A mean dodge, governor," he laughed, "mean."

Dr. Cameron, who by this time had called together his wits, laughed with a very tolerable simulation of mirth.

"Do you think I was going to run the risk of a poor night when I could have a good one! This room will accommodate itself very nicely to the wants of one man, but it would not do so well for the three I saw come in down below."

"O, I don't say but what you understood yourself. Only"—he was peering about in closets and boxes while saying all this—"now I'm here I think I'd better stay. I'll just curl up on the floor there and give you no more trouble than a bug in a rug. O, I don't snore; I'd never do for a detective if I did."

"Have you found anything to eat?" inquired the doctor, putting the best face he could upon the matter.

"No," growled the other, with a slam of the cover down on a crock he was examining. "Crums of ginger-bread and a jar of pickles, with flour in plenty and beans by the quart, but nothing cooked, not even crackers. Well it's a tough spot, this."

And going to the trap, he called down:

"No go!" On my word of honor there isn't anything here worth a bird's pecking at. But tomorrow we'll have beans; there's half a bushel here—uncooked."

The answers he received may be easily imagined, but they did not provoke him. He had a word for everyone, and though he raised a fresh storm of suspicion when he announced his intention of remaining where he was, he met their various innuendoes with such display of wit, and lent such a sparkle of light-heartedness and mirth to what might possibly prove a very serious situation, that the babble of voices soon grew still and he was finally allowed to carry out his projects—if he had any—without opposition or interference.

Meanwhile the doctor was picturing to himself the dismay of Molesworth, imprisoned in darkness and ignorant of just how much danger he ran of being discovered and forced from his retreat. Though perfect silence reigned in the spot where he stood, probably with his ear to the panels, Dr. Cameron was well aware enough of the character of his present companion to be certain that he would not let that closed door remain much longer untried.

And the event soon proved his suspicions correct; for almost with the disappearance of his companions, Q glanced inquiringly at the doctor with the remark:

"That other one must have been as smart a man as you. He is in there, I suppose?"

"I don't know, but I have every reason to think so. As he is not in this room he must be in that. I hope he is warmer than we."

"I'm going to build a fire," exclaimed the mercurial fellow.

And thus was he again diverted from an investigation which might have led to results the most dreaded by the doctor. And so the evening merged into night.

STILL UNBROKEN.

Deadlock in the London West Council Continues

Over the Debenture Issue—Reeve Macdonald's Challenge—Wants to Go to the People on the Question.

The five members of the London West Council are in exactly the same position as they were a week ago on the question of consolidating the debenture debt of the village. Reeve Macdonald and Councilor Moore are strongly in favor of it, as they assert it would allow the rate to be struck at 23 mills on the dollar. The chief magistrate of the village, however, Mr. Macdonald, has three members of the board opposed to him, Councilors Hamilton and Andrews and Deputy Reeve Murdock. That was the condition of affairs a week ago; it was the same old story at the meeting in the school house last night, when the councilors had as an audience three small boys and the janitor.

It was nearly 8:30 o'clock when Reeve Macdonald began to review the situation to all the board, except the deputy, who appeared on the scene rather late. His remarks were along the same line as before, and were to the effect that he had refused to sign the bylaw striking the rate at 26 mills, as carried in the council, because it would not make ample provision for the sinking fund. The lowest possible rate which could do this without consolidation would be 32 mills, therefore he would sign a bylaw fixing the rate at 32 mills, or another to consolidate the debentures and fix the rate at 23 mills.

There was a little talk about boodling, and how much had been done in the past. Little scraps were mentioned, when the reeve stated his desire to get out of the quandary, and urged the board to work in harmony in the future.

Mr. Murdock had failed to find any villager who was in favor of the reeve's plan, and he favored tiding the difficulty over till the next elections, when it could be discussed before the ratepayers.

All this time Councilor Hamilton had been "mum as an oyster." It looked as though his opposition to the reeve was going to fall through, until, with a shake of his head, he told Reeve Macdonald that he (the chairman) could sign the bylaw or not, just as he pleased.

"Now," responded the reeve, "a quarrel is what I hate above all other things. We've always been friends—"

Mr. Hamilton—Oh, yes, we have.

Mr. Macdonald—I tell you what I'll do. Tomorrow morning I will put into the village treasury sufficient money to pay the cost of a new election. You do the same thing. We will both resign our seats and run for reeve on the debenture question, and we will continue friends whoever wins.

The reeve's challenge was termed "a childish piece of business" by the deputy and Mr. Hamilton, and the latter said if he (the reeve) signed the 26 mill bylaw he would be elected in January all right.

"You bet, I would," was the reeve's reply, which made everybody smile.

"Oh, yes, said Mr. Hamilton," but if I were running against you I would have a different returning officer from last election.

This remark was denounced in some quarters, as the village clerk, John Simpson, had acted in the capacity last year.

The meeting then broke up, as there seemed no possibility of a surrender on either side. Something will probably be done on Tuesday evening next, at the regular meeting, as the tax collector is anxious to secure the rolls, which cannot be made up until the rate is struck

Parnell, Carrothers, O'Meara, Jones and Wm. Heaman, Wm. Bowman, Engineer Graydon, Superintendent Woolatt, and Engineer De Gurse, of the Lake Erie and Detroit River Railway, and Treasurer Pope, who acted as secretary in the absence of City Clerk Kingston.

The appointment of an inspector for the stonework on the two new bridges near St. Thomas was the first business. Mr. Wm. Beddie was appointed, as he was recommended by Messrs. De Gurse and Woollatt on account of his satisfactory work with the Lake Erie company in the past.

An application from C. F. Hanson for an appointment as inspector of steel on the bridges was laid over.

Engineer De Gurse recommended the board to pay Mr. Wm. Baty $450 for his right of way over the company's tracks near Pond Mills. There was a ravine 78 feet long at that point, the bridge over which would soon need renewing, at a cost of $3,000. If the right of way were purchased the ravine could be filled in for $550, thus saving the city about $2,000. The recommendation will be adopted, providing Mr. Baty can prove his right of way.

Under the company's rights, under section 24 of the agreement, Mr. De Gurse asked that the city make permanent the wooden trestle near Mill Ponds, the wooden truss bridge over Dingman's Creek, the trestle over the small ravine eleven and a half miles south of the city, and the trestle over Zavitz's Pond, about two miles north of Port Stanley; also that the iron bridges spanning the Thames and Kettle Creek be strengthened.

"Have you made any estimate of the cost of the work?" asked Mayor Little.

"Yes," replied Mr. De Gurse. "We expect it will cost about $17,000—$1,000 for the trestle at Mill Ponds, $1,000 for the wooden trestle over Dingman's, $3,000 for the work at the ravine, $11,000 for the trestle at Zavitz's Pond, and $1,000 for strenghening the two bridges."

The recommendations were referred to Messrs. Frank Leonard, Wm. Bowman and Mayor Little, to consult with the engineers and report back.

Then again the company also want a new freight station, a roundhouse and a turntable, plans for which were submitted by Engineer De Gurse. At present there is a pending arbitration between the M.C.R. and the Lake Erie as to the terms on which the former should be allowed to run over the road. This led Ald. O'Meara to ask if the Michigan Central was going to stay.

Mr. Woollatt replied that he did not think they would.

Ald. O'Meara understood that the M. C. R. did not use their roundhouse to any extent, and he wanted to know if an agreement could be arrived at whereby the Lake Erie could run their engines into it and save the city the expense of a new building.

In reply to another question, Mr. Woollatt said the M.C.R would take up their tracks on Bathurst street if they pulled out. He understood they would quit if they could not get into the city for almost nothing.

Ald. Heaman—With the amount of freight they are bringing over the road now, there is no fear of them leaving.

"Until the arbitration is settled it would be madness to let a contract for any new buildings," said Mayor Little.

Pending a settlement, therefore, tenders only on the plans submitted will be called.

The question of recovering the fees voted themselves by ex-Mayor Essery and others of last year's directors was sent to the council. City Solicitor Meredith presented a letter on the subject, stating that on account of the irregularity of the Port Stanley bylaws it was difficult to say whether or not the fees could be collected. He asked if a test case should be made.

Nature's Voices.

To the discerning ear Nature has many voices. She has a message in the sweet tones of the brook as it rushes down the hillside in ocean's moody voices, now rippling with gentlest cadence upon the golden sands, anon in deep boisterous voice as she lashes the beach with foam. Then the voice of trees which the laughing winds bear to our ears, of sunshine and shade, of hill and valley, of bird and flowers. But she comes in pain, too, the voice of the aching, stinging corn speaks impressively, but Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor removes the worst corn in 24 hours, painlessly, and without leaving sore spots.

A race was recently rowed at Deal, England, between four four-oared crews of boatmen over 60 years of age. The winning oarsmen averaged 70 years, while their coxwain was 85.

ARRESTED IN TORONTO.

Police Authorities Make a Mistake and Are Asked to Pay $10,000 Damages.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—John C. Savage has instructed his attorneys to begin a suit against the authorities of Toronto, Ont., for $10,000 for false arrest. Mr. Savage says he was standing in the Union depot when a police officer in uniform came up and placed him under arrest. He protested against the outrage, and exhibited letters from prominent men, but the police refused to pay any attention to these or to allow Mr. Savage to communicate with his friends at the hotel. The next morning they evidently came to the conclusion they had made a mistake, and allowed Mr. Savage to go. Mr. Savage's Toronto attorneys write to him that such practices are too frequent there.

London and Environs

—Vacation season will soon be over.

—The night air is full of the promise of fall.

—The stone work on the new Port Stanley bridges will be commenced today.

—Mr. John E. Harvey, of Alynmouth Ind., is in the city attending the funeral of his sister.

—Messrs C.B. Hunt and E. R. Cameron, of the London Electric Company, were in St. Thomas yesterday looking over the ground before putting in a tender for street lighting.

—The inaugural run of the season of the London Hunt Club will be held tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock from Glenmore. The early morning runs, which became so popular in the spring, will be followed largely.

—The members of the city police force now indulge in regular revolver practice at the police station. Chief Williams offered a handsome prize for the first bull's eye, and the honor fell to Sergt.-Major Adams.

—At a recent meeting of the Quarterly Official Board of the Queen's Avenue Methodist Church, on motion of Mr. Thomas R. Parker, seconded by Mr. Thos. McCormick, Mr. A. C. Vaughan was unanimously recommended to the district meeting as a candidate for the ministerial work.

—In the D. R. A. meeting which began at Ottawa on Monday Private Robson, of the Seventh, in the Hamilton Powder Company's match, scored 32 out of a possible 35, winning $5. Staff Sergt. Goodwin, also of the Seventh, for the McDougall challenge cup (possible 50), made 43 points, winning $4.

—The social secretary of the Salvation Army writes in the War Cry: "London shelter is at present in charge of a man as cute as a "Fox," one who will leave no stone unturned to make things go in that beautiful city. The S. A. has lots of friends here who are much interested in our work, and who are always ready to lend a helping hand."

—Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, president of the Grand Trunk Railway, now on an inspecting trip along the system, and soon to be in this city, is to be married early in November to the Hon. Violet Mostyn, eldest daughter of the late Hon. G. C. Mostyn and the Hon. Mrs. Mostyn, and sister of Lord Vaux, of Harrowden.

—A bylaw has been given its first reading in the Woodstock Town Council, "preventing any person, firm or corporation, from putting or placing on any street, square, alley, lane, bridge, or other communication, any glass, iron, tin, nails, tacks or any other substance whatever that does, would or might cause damage to any bicycle or animal." Might be adopted in this city.

—Rev. Canon Richardson, of this city, preached at the Church of the Ascension, Hamilton, on Sunday. The Times, referring to the canon's presence in that city, says: "In his morning sermon Canon Richardson referred to the fact that it was exactly eighteen years to a day since he preached his farewell sermon at St. Thomas Church here, before going to his present charge. Since leaving he had not, up to the previous night, spent a night in Hamilton. The coincidence suggested his text, "Remove not the ancient landmarks which thy fathers have set up." Both his sermons were particularly fine efforts.

INNOCENTS HANGED.

Interesting Stories Told by Detective Murray.

St. Thomas, Ont., Aug. 27.—J. W. Murray, the veteran chief of the Ontario detective force, who, with Detective Fairbrother, of this city, worked up and were successful in convicting Welter and Hendershott, was here for two days last week, and to a reporter said:

"It was a matter of gratification to the detectives who worked up the case, as well as to the judge, jurors and others that the condemned men had made a full confession of their guilt before being executed. It, of course, removes any shadow of doubt which might have existed in the mind of any one as to their guilt. But don't you know that it is almost impossible—indeed an actual impossibility—to convict an innocent man of murder? In all my experience, which has not been a short one, I have never known or heard of an innocent man having been convicted of murder.

Mr. Murray then proceeded to relate the facts of a couple of cases on record in England where innocent persons were convicted.

A gentleman with a valet carrying a large sum of gold in a bag arrived at a hotel on the Oxford road, London, and put up for the night. The room next to his was occupied by two men, one of whom during the night heard groans in the adjoining room. He awoke his companion and they went into the gentleman's room to find the hotel-keeper with a dirk in one hand and the bag of gold in the other and the gentleman dying. They seized the hotel-keeper and bound him. He was arrested, tried, convicted and hanged. Before the execution he made a remarkable confession. He said he had been haunted by the bag of gold all night and had gone there with the intention of robbing him, but that when he got to the room he found that some one had already done what he intended to do. He said he did not murder the man, but intended to do so, and deserved hanging.

Some time afterward the gentleman's valet, on his death bed, confessed that he had murdered his master. He said he had barely time to kill his master and not time to get the money when he heard some one approaching and escaped to his own room.

The other case is a much more remarkable one, if true, and it is recorded as a fact. Two brothers slept one night in separate beds in the same room. During the night one's nose began to bleed and he could not stop the flow. Finally he went outside and walked down to the sea shore to bathe his nose in the salt water. Walking on the beach he stumbled on a party of West India smugglers unloading their goods. Smuggling was then punishable with banishment to Van Dieman's Land, and the smugglers, afraid the man would give them away, put him on board their boat and took him to Barbadoes in the West Indies.

The marks of blood were seen in the bedroom, and his brother was arrested, charged with murder and convicted.

PROFIT IN HER PLAGUE.

The Rabbits of Australia to be Exported for Food.

The Australian Secretary for Agriculture has received a letter from Mr. Berry, of the Agent General's office, that it is expected during the coming season that the price of rabbits will be from 10d. to 11d. each. The charges for dock dues, cartage, and commission at London are about 1d. per rabbit, and to Hull or any other manufacturing provincial cities about one penny extra. He adds: "There is not the slightest doubt that a very large trade indeed is open to Victorian rabbits in the great manufacturing districts, such as Leeds, Manchester and Sheffield, where all the members of a family work at the mills, and therefore have not much time to spare for cooking. Rabbits can be easily cooked, and are accordingly much favored by mill workers, and it is no unusual thing when rabbits are cheap for them to be the sole local meat food eaten by the family during the week." He strongly urges Victorian shippers to take a small profit in order to assist in pushing trade in rabbits in these districts.—Melbourne Argus.

A Nice Distinction.

Mr. Story, the sculptor, who began life as a lawyer, tells a good anecdote which illustrates the fact that the emphasis which punctuates has as much to do with determining the sense of a sentence as the meaning of the words. Once, when he was called upon to defend a woman accused of murdering her husband, he adduced as one of the proofs of her innocence the fact of her having attended him on his death bed, and saying to him when he was dying, Goodby, George!" The counsel for the prosecution declared that ought rather to be taken as a proof of her guilt, and that the words she used were, Good, by George!"—Tid Bits.

Germany's War Chest.

Perhaps the only instance in which gold has been withdrawn from circulation and deliberately rendered useless by locking it up where it can neither be seen nor handled, except by a few highly placed Government officials, is that of Germany which maintains at the fortress of Spandau a literal war chest. But its contents after all do not exceed six millions sterling, and such an amount would make little appreciable difference if returned to the general circulation of the world.

Hon. Edward Blake and Mrs. Blake arrived out by the Parisian. Both are in excellent health. They will remain in Toronto for a few weeks. Then Mr. Blake will sail from San Francisco, where he goes to act as umpire in an arbitration case in connection with the Midland Railway of New Zealand. He expects to return to England by January next via the Suez Canal. Regarding his future prospects, it is understood that Mr. Blake intends adhering to his letter of acceptance of nomination addressed to the electors of South Longford, in which he declared that he would act in his present capacity during the present Parliament.

Importance of Beginning Early.

"Bill Arp" is one of the most entertaining writers in the Southern press of this country, and he has recently been impressing upon the youth of America the desirability of life insurance. He says:

"Life insurance is the best savings bank in the world for a young man. He gets it so cheap. Now, here I am, old and poor, and am carrying only $2,000 on my life, and it costs me $175 a year, and it is a hard struggle to meet the premiums. I began only five years ago. Too late! Too late! But I must hold on until I whip the fight. I'll whip it sure if I hold on, for old Father Time is backing me. If I had begun at 21 or 25 the premiums would have been about $40, and the dividends would have been paid on that long before this. I heard a man say the other day that he paid on $10 000 for twenty years, and now has a paid-up policy and draws dividends on it just like it was stock in a bank. I wish I had done that when I was a young man. Wouldn't it be glorious if I had such a document for my wife and the girls!"

The Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Company issues policies to young men at such low rates that a $5,000 policy costs only $85 a year, and the dividends thereon have made it a paid-up policy for $6,000 at the expiry of twenty years. After that period cash dividends are paid every five years, and the policy increases in cash value from year to year. Ask A. N. Udy, office in C. P. R. building, corner Dundas and Richmond streets, to show you one of these policies. 82c ywt.
