Death of the Celebrated Actress Mrs Scott-Siddons.

London, Nov. 20 .- Mrs. Mary Frances Scott-Siddons, the celebrated actress, died at Paris yesterday. She was one garded the election of McKinley as died at Paris yesterday. She was one but the beginning of the end of a of the most beautiful women on the struggle which has been going on in stage in her day; was a lineal descendant of the great "Tragic Muse," Mrs. Siddons, her father, William Young Siddons, being the George, the eldest son of Mrs. Siddons. Mrs. Scott-Siddons was born in 1844 in India, where her father was a captain in the British military service. Upon the death of her father she returned to England with her mother, and settled in Somersetshire, where they resided several years. She was then sent to Bonn, where her education was completed. It was the custom of the institution where she was a pupil to give dramatic performances at the close of the term. The young girl witnessed a performance of "Atholie" on one of these occasions, and at the close part in the next performance, which was granted. Six months later she made her debut in German comedy, and her performance was remarkable. On leaving Bonn she took up her residence at Winchester, where, at the age of 17, she met Lieut. Scott, a young naval officer, to whom she was married in 1862. She made her debut in 1866 at the Theater Royal, Notting-ham, in the character of Portia, in her famous great-grandmother also first appeared upon the stage. She made her debut on the London stage as Rosalind, and achieved the greatest success of her career. In 1868 Mrs. Scott-Siddons came to America, and made her debut as a reader at Newport, R. I. In October of the same year she gave successful readings at Steinway Hall, New York, and finally made her first appearance on the stage in this country at the Lyceum Theater at Boston. For fifteen years past she had lived in retirement.

> THE KENNEL. A DOG PALACE.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 20,-Dudley E. Waters is building a handsome dog house, probably the largest and finest in Michigan. It will be a frame structure 20 by 30 feet, and a story and a half high. The floors will cement. The house will have a fully equipped kitchen, where the food for the dogs will be cooked; hot and cold water, steam heat, gas lighting and other modern improvements. Waters is a fancier of St. Bernards, and has a kennel of ten. Not-withstanding their rugged appearance, great size and wealth of hair, St. Bernard dogs, as puppies, are very delicate, and have to be raised almost weather as any other breed.

INTERNATIONAL FIELD TRIALS. aged stakes in the international field McIvor, jun.; captain not yet elected. trials were completed yesterday. The first brace put down were Misfortune, owned by Graydon (London), and Daphne, owned by W. B. Wells (Chatham). They both did fair work, Daphne plied to Barry's challenge to row for finding a bevy and proving steady to the championship. He will not go to flush, as did also her mate. The next England unless he is allowed fair exbrace, Dash Antonio (Bangham, Windpenses, but if Barry will come to Cancor), and Cleopatra (Wells, Chatham), add he will row him for any amount, did excelent ranging, and in other respects showed to advantage. Dick was not in his usual form for bird work. He was winner of the Derby and all-aged last fifth games of the championship chess year, and great things were expected match resulted in Steinitz and Lasker of him this time, but he was off in winning one game each. The score is nose. Lock (Bangham, Windsor), and now 45 to 1 in favor of Lasker. Lucy (Davey, London), were next put down, and did capital ranging. The last brace in the series was Iris (Wells, Chatham), and Maud (Stagman, Toronto). These two ranged fairly well. In the second series Luke and Dash went down. Both pointed a bevy and were strong when taken up. Dick and Look made a good point on bevy, the latter repeating his work at another stage of the run. Dick shared in the honor of the final. Cleopatra and Daphne went down, the latter pointing a beyy and being followed well by her mate. Cleepara, who did not see her mate, made a point also on singles, outclassing Daphne, and did beautiful bird work. There then went down Dick and Dash on scattered birds; Dick pointed one, and roaded to a flush. The latter dog displayed a rather poor mose, contrary to his usual

JOHN R. GENTRY SOLD. New York, Nov. 20.-Before the largest crowd ever seen at a horse sale in this country, and after a most sensational auction, John R. Gentry, the champion harness horse of the world, passed into the hands of Lewis 3. Tewksbury, of this city, at $19,900 at Madison Square Garden last night. The auctioneer was Mr. Bain, of Lexngton, Ky., who sold him here last February, when Wm. Simpson was the purchaser, at $7,600. A cheer went paced the three fastest heats ever accomplished—2:03 3-4, 2:03 1-4, 2:03 1-4—had lowered the harness record to 2:01 1-2, and had covered a mile against time in 2:00 1-2—a second faster than any other horse ever accomplished the distance in harness. Bids came in with such rapidity that the auctioneer could searcely keep track of them. Four, six, eight, ten, and eleven thousand dollars were offered from different parts of the house, with scarcely breathing time between. But the real battle was to come when the struggle narrowed down to two-Louis W. Wormser and Louis G. Tewksbury, both New Yorkers. Mr. Wormser came into the battle with $12,000, and the crowd applauded. Promptly Mr. Tewksbury went $500 better. Thus the battle continued between the two to $16,500, which was Tewksbury's bid. Then there was a pause, followed by day, where they intend to reside in fua round of hand-clapping, which greeted Wormser's jump to $18,000. Mr. Scarcely had it died away when the yorite rise of $500. There was another short pause, and Wormser shouted $19,500, being a raiser of $1,000. Then Tewksbury raised it $400. Mr. Tarte's Declaration.

Why French-Canadians Have Not Progressed.

Bids Them Give Up Isolation and Get Education.

Montreal, Nov. 20.-Hon. J. I. Tarte has sent a letter to his paper, Le Cultivateur, in which he says that the days of the French element in Manitoba are numbered, unless a radical change is at once made among them. The first step is to introduce better education. The French of Manitoba, he says, must enter into the intellectual and commercial progress of the age, and this can only be done by education. The policy of isolation followed in the past has been almost Mr. Tarte says: "I regret to say so, clares That They Might Do Better Than to "Show Off" - A Good Catholic Better Than a Bad Protestant, Bays the Evangelist.

New York, Nov. 19 .- A feature of the evangelistic service at Cooper Union was the presence of a very large number of young persons. Another was the pronouncement of Mr. Moody against "mission churches" and his attack on the women who had been "showing off" at the recent horse show. Mr. Sankey opened the service with singing, having returned from Philadelphia, where he had in-augurated a revival on Monday night. All joined in the hymn, "Moments by Moments!

Mr. Moody continued his series of sermons on "The Holy Spirit." Beginning his discourse, he said:
"My friends, a man who was here yesterday has written a letter asking if the report appearing in a newspaper to the effect that I received $600 last week for conducting these services receive $1,000 for conducting them this week. I wish it were true. I would then divide it among the poor. But, unfortunately, it is not. My friend, the Rev. Mr. Dixon, may possibly have the money, and perhaps he is just waiting an opportunity to present it to me, but I do not think I will meet with so pleasant a surprise. If I get

Mr. Mills and the Senate. Various Conservative papers are beating Hon, David Mills for accepting a seat in the Senate of Canada. They assert that when he was in the House of Commons he was in favor of the abolition of the chamber. There is no warrant for this assertion. Mr Mills' objection was not to a second chamber, which all nations of the first class possess, but to the manner of filling up vacancies in that body. And did he not have good grounds for his objection?

This is the way Mr. Sam Hughes, Conservative M. P. for North Victoria, ADVERTISER PRINTING CO wrote when he wanted officials dismissed in order to make way for Conservatives: "I want the office vacant as soon as possible, and shall then name you my man. Meantime, kindly bounce them." We agree with the Halifax Chronicle in the conclusion that the three words of the epistle-"kindly bounce them"-knocks the "business is business" letter into the shade.

Toronto Week. For a third of a century The Adveriser has been a potent influence in Western Ontario; we heartily congratulate it on its deserved success in the past, and wish it and its founder abundant prosperity in the future.

The complete novel in the December ssue of Lippincott's is"The Chase of an Heiress." by Christian Reid. The scene is in Santo Domingo, a region hitherto unfamiliar to fiction. "The Whipping of Uncle Henry" is a tale of Georgia before the war, in that original and effective vein which is peculiar to Will N. Harben. Pauline Shackleford Colyar tells a Thanksgiving story of "Two Old Boys." "How Timmy Saved the Piece," by Livingston B. Morse, ecords a remarkable event in theatrical annals of the humbler sort. The thods of "Shutting Out the Sea" are set forth by George Ethelbert Walsh. Macdonald writes on "The Land of Taffy," the other name of Wales. "The Evolution of the Poster" is traced by Agnes Carr Sage from the beginnings of advertising, so far as known. Jean Wright has a lively essay on "Flirtation as a Fine Art." The poetry of the number is by Elizabeth Crooks, Grace F. Pennypacker, Emma C. Dowd and Arthur D. F. Randolph.

The publishers of McClure's Magaine announce a Christmas number of quite extraordinary quality, both in its reading matter and its pictures. Ready=Made There is to be a richly printed cover, decorated with one of Botticelli's most famous Madonnas, specially redrawn Clothing by Henry McCarter; reproduc some famous frescoes by Melozzo da Forli, in illustration of a Christmas poem by Harriet Prescott Spofford; and some new and especially important views of Palestine, made under the addition to this, every contribution will be fully illustrated, and among the contributors will be Rudyard Kipling.

Dr. McPhedran, Dr. Wilson, Dr. Oldright and Dr. Fraser appeared on be-half of the medical profession and asked that surgical instruments and appliances and medical books be put on the free list. Surgical instruments were not made in this country, and there was a duty of about 30 per cent

THE SEED TARLET

The seedsmen were represented by Messrs. George Keith, S. E. Briggs, J. A. Simmers, J. Goodall and Robert Rennie. They want clover and grass seed, on which there is now a duty of 10 per cent, put on the free list. They explained that ten farmers needed the seed to one who had it for sale. It cost the Canadian seedsman 16 cents per pound to send seed by post, whereas the American can ship it for 8 cents per pound. They also ask for a tax of 25 per cent on American catalogues. Representatives of the Dominion Millers' Association were next introduced. They asked that the duty on grain and flour remain as at present, and expressed themselves as opposed to reciprocity in farm products.

Publishers and wholesale stationers were heard. Among the recommendations made were these: 1. That fashion magazines be allowed in free to book- wered with free medical advice for any sellers, as they are now to subscribers: 2. That that regulation providing that books for public libraries come in free of duty be amended, so that duty should be paid on all books purchased by libraries, and a rebate allowed on certificate being forwarded to Ottawa. 3. That books for college purposes be brought in by bookbought by colleges direct. 4. That prayer-books and hymn-books be subject to the 6 cent a pound rate. A deputation representing the twine clad. Don't muffle up with a and netted goods industry, asked that the existing duties on fish-lines of the trade be continued; that in some outlying ports gilling twine is admitted free, while a duty of 20 per cent is charged in Toronto. Representatives of the Dominion Furniture Manufacturers' Association asked for the retention of duties as at Chicago, Nov. 19.—Wheat holders experienced a disappointing session of the market today. Save during the first 30 minutes, when there was remarkable strength, due mainly to persistent bulling, the tone was depressing, and the direction of prices downward. Liverpool furnished the discouragement, first by advancing only about half as much as we did yesterday, and later by losing the gain and declining almost as much more. The weakness here was the greatest near the close, when the announcement was made that the bulletin dispatch from Halles, of Paris, estimated the French crop at 27,00,000 bu more than the dispatch from Halles, of Paris, estimated the French crop at 27,00,000 bu more than the average for ten years. The cash demand here and at the seaboard was still reported good, but the future market failed to respond to the intelligence. Closing Paris and Berlin cables were higher, and Antwerp was unchanged to lower. December wheat opened from 78½c to 78c; sold between 79c and 76½c, closing at 77½c, 1½c under yesterday. Cash wheat was 1½c lower. Corn declined ½c to 1c, and oats were ½c to ½c lower for May and ½c to ½c for cash. Provisions were nominal.

The leading futures closed as follows:

A GREAT FRUIT GROWER'S FAILURE.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 20.—J. T. Before the Girl Found Out That Had a Wife and Family.

Toronto, Nov. 20.-James Allen, 184 Teraulay street, no doubt considered himself a very lucky man yesterday in the police court, and if the stories told of him there are true he is one of the meanest men on earth.

About five years ago Mary Love, a domestic, met a man on the street who gave his name as James Thomp-son. He paid her a great deal of attention for two years and promised to marry her. He kept postponing tne date of the marriage from time to time. In the meantime he was borrowing her hard-earned wages, which he promised to invest at 6 per cent for her. She trusted him implicitly, not only with her money, but her honor. Last spring she had a child in St. Michael's Hospital, of which she claims he was the father. claims he was the father.

The deceived woman finally found out that Thompsan was none other than James Allen, a married man, with six children, who lived on Teraulay street. She went to his house and asked for him. Mrs. Allen slammed the door in her face. She then demanding payment of the money loaned, and got an answer from Allen, stating that he knew no such person as Mary Love, and that he was a "respectable married man." Later on he said that she could not prove her claim, and that he would fight it. He denied being the father of the

MEN OF FAMILY AT SCHOOL.

A Novel Institution in the Metropolitan City-Its Pupils and Routine.

There is a school in this city, says the New York Sun, that is in session every day in the week, except. Sunday, and two nights beside. The students have no recess. There is no stated hour for instruction, although it is understood that the day pupils are expected to be at their desks from 9 o'clock a.m. until 5 p.m., and the night pupils from 7 until 9. AFTER TEN YEARS SUFFERING

Two Box Oure

MILVERTON, 28TH JULY, 1895. Gentlemen,—For the last ten years I had been troubled with kidney disease, being so bad at intervals that I could not lie in bed at night nor stoop to the ground.

I had tried all the remedies I could find without effect, but heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and procured a box.
I am most happy to say it for my own sake as well as for others that I am perfeetly cured after using four boxes.

Something to Remember At this time of the year many thoughts enter the minds of people what to give for a present, Photos are the most acceptable. Friends and relations are always happy when they receive a photo. It is time to give us a sitting.

"Yes, I am sure, Geoffrey. I have never tried to analyze the affection which I have always cherished for you, but I know, now, that it has not been of that calm nature which a sister would feel for her brother. Gladys, dear as you are to me, I could better face a sepatration now, than such a regret by and bye."

"What kind of a position would satisfy your conscientious scruples, Geof-frey?" Gladys osked, demurely. "I would not feel willing to take you from a home of affluence to one of poverty-you must never miss the luxuries to which you have been accustomed," he said, thoughtfully. "Do you expect to find the treasure of a Monte Cristo somewhere?" his companion asked, in the same tone as before.

"Oh, no; I expect to provide a home and competence by my brains and hands; but it will take time—" "How much?"

"How many?" "Flive or six, maybe, if I am successful; more, if I am not; I shall start off to 'seek my fortune' just as soon as I can take my degrees." "Meantime, what is to become of your humble servant?"

My father and mother began life in an humble way, and built up their fortune together. I am of no their fortune together. I am of finer clay than they or you; if I am not calculated to share your burdens as well as your pleasures, I am not worthy to be your wife at all." Gladys concluded, with an energy and decision that made Geoffrey regard her with surprise decision that made Geoffrey regard her with surprise.

"Why, Gladys, what would people think of me if I should ask you to marry me before I could provide you with a comfortable home?" he asked.

"I do not expect you will do that; but comfort and elegance are not necessarily one and the same. With the comfortable home provided, we will begin life together, and win our luxuries and elegance hand and hand; it is not a mutual love where one gives all and the other nothing."

"My darling, I had no idea there were such intensely practical ideas in this small head of yours." said Geoffrey, laughing, but with a very tender face.

"Had you not? Well, then, perhaps, I may astonish you again some time," she returned, laughing, too.

"But." she added. "I think we are both rather premature in our plans, considering that we have two years more of school before us. Besides, it is time I was getting ready to go home with you, and we must not sit here talking any longer."

Later in the day the lovers returned to Brooklyn, where they were received with many smiles and significant glances, for both August Huntress and his good wife were greatly delighted by the prospect of a union between these two, upon whom all their fondest hopes had so long been centered.

"Geoff! did papa say that," cried the young girl, growing crimson again.

"Yes; those very words. Uncle August is a kingly man, and his permission to speak to you has raised me from the depths of despair to the very heights of joy."

"Oh, Geoffrey, what an ardent figure of speech!" laughed the happy girl.

"Indeed, it is not a figure at all, you sweet, brown-eyed fay. I did not sleep a wink last night for wretchedness of mind."

edness of mind."

"And all for nothing, Geoff."

"It was the fear of losing you, my darling. When I saw you so admired in these very rooms last night, I said to myself, Someone else will win her before I have any right to speak; so, after lying awake all night, I desperately resolved to make a clean breast of everything to Uncle August. If he had told me he was unwilling to give you to me I should never have come to Brooklyn again."

have been happier at your coming, I have been lonely, and have drooped whenever you went from home, and I can understand now why it has been so," Gladys answered, dropping her head again upon her lover's breast. "My own darling! How wonderful it is that this priceless boon should be granted me to crown all the other good gifts that I have received," he said in a thrilling voice; then added.

"Surely the name that my father has bestowed upon you will do very well, will it not?"

"That was just what he also said, dear; but will the mystery that enshrouds me never make you uncomfortable or unbearers?" fortable or unhappy?" "No; I am well content with you just as you are."

"But—have you never thought that there may be some story of wrong of shame, even—connected with my early life? If we should discover it to be so, some time in the future would you not regret having given yourself to me. Gladys, dear as you are to me, I could better face a sepatration now, than such a regret by and bye."

Her bright head drooped lower to hide the crimson in her cheeks, but there was no shrinking from him, as there must have been, had not her heart responded to his appeal.

"And yet, I know that you are far dearer to me than a brother could ever be," she confessed.

> Oh, my love, the future looks very bright before us, though the next two years will seem very long to me."

> "Why, Geoff! I thought study was a positive delight to you," Gladys returned, in surprise.

> "I would not feel willing to take you from a home of affluence to one of poverty—you must never miss the luxuries to which you have been accustomed," he said, thoughtfully. "Do you expect to find the treasure of a Monte Cristo somewhere?" his companion asked, in the same tone as before. "Oh, no; I expect to provide a home

'Years, perhaps."

"How many?" "Five or six, maybe, if I am successful; more, if I am not; I shall start off to 'seek my fortune' just as soon as I can take my degrees."

"Meantime, what is to become of your humble servant?"
"You?—why, Gladys, you will have your home and your friends, the same as now." "And you will be out in the world comewhere, working for me?"

said, sitting erect and turning her gaze full upon him. "Of course; that is to doesn't it please you?"
"No. I am no hot-house plant, that "No. I am no hot-house plant, that requires a tempered atmosphere in order to thrive and grow. Do you think that I can afford to let you spend the best years of your life away from me, toiling to give me luxuries, while you deny yourself even the comforts and companionship of a home? My father and mother began life in an humble way, and built up their fortune together. I am of no finer clay than they or you; if I am not calculated to share your burdens as well as your pleasures, I am not worthy to be your wife at all." Gladys concluded, with an energy and decision that made Geoffrey regard her with surprise.

decision that made Geoffrey regard her with surprise.

"Why, Gladys, what would people think of me if I should ask you to marry me before I could provide you with a comfortable home?" he asked.

"I do not expect you will do that; but comfort and elegance are not necessarily one and the same. With the comfortable home provided, we will begin life together, and win our luxuries and elegance hand and hand; it is not a mutual love where one gives all and the other nothing."

"My darling, I had no idea there were such intensely practical ideas in this small head of yours," said Geoffrey, laughing, but with a very tender face.

"Had you not? Well, then, perhaps,

"Had you not? Well, then, perhaps

I may astonish you again some time," she returned, laughing, too. "But," she added. "I think we are "But." she added. "I think we are both rather premature in our plans, considering that we have two years more of school before us. Besides, it is time I was getting ready to go home with you, and we must not sit here talking any longer."

Later in the day the lovers returned to Brooklyn, where they were received with many smiles and significant glances, for both August Huntress and his good wife were greatly delighted by the prospect of a union between these two, upon whom all their fondest hopes had so long been centered.

Mantles to see is to admire,

To admire is to desire—that's one way to put it. Another way would be to say—Come and see how much cannot be seen elsewhere. We might also sing this song—Our prices play a disagreeable tune to competition, What we do say, and stand by, is that we can give you the largest assortment, the newest goods, the very best value.

Millinery IF THAT FALL HAT OR BONNET

Is not bought yet, come and see what we can do for you. We have made special efforts this season to procure the most original and artistic creation, in Hats and Bonnets of the leading artists in Paris, London and New York. Everything that is required in millinery trimmings is here, so that, if you cannot be suited with our ready trimmed, our best efforts will be directed towards making one to your order at the lowest possible price. We are aware of the temptation to give a fancy price to millinery stocks. This store marks everything in this department, as in all others, at common sense, reasonable prices.

that way the little misunderstanding -The London piano-tuner, Joseph E. Gilbert, was before P. M. McDougall, of Wallaceburg, yesterday, and pleaded guilty to the abduction and seducion of a girl belonging to that town. Gilbert was arrested here several months ago for non-support, and after making a settlement with his wife, he went to Wallaceburg. While there he became very intimate with the wife and daughter of his boardinghouse keeper, and finally the trio went to Detroit. Gilbert was brought back, and on being arraigned was given 23 months in the Central Prison. Mrs.

Gilbert is still living in this city with

"A LION'S HEART" TONIGHT. Of the many new plays that will tempt the theater-going public, none comes more highly spoken of than does Mr. Carl A. Haswin's romantic production of Shirley and Landeck's magnificent English drama, "A Lion's Heart." This play has received the highest encomiums of both press and public in New York last April, when it was first produced on this side of the Atlantic, and again this season, as well, in Boston, and other cities. Its story deals with an Shoes and Rubbers. It would make affair of the heart, and is said to be you nervous to give our prices in plain figures here. So call and see us
