MURDOCK EXONERATED IN HOME BANK CHARGES

Noted London Physician, Dr. F. C. Eccles Dies Early Today

MINISTER OF LABOR IS FREED OF ALL BLAME

Charges Laid by E. Guss Porter in Bank Withdrawals Disproved.

VOTE STANDS 14 TO 8

Parliament Committee Exonerates Murdock After Careful Review of Evidence.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, June 12.—By a vote of 14 to 8 the privileges and elections committee of the House of Commons today adopted a Liberal amendment finding that the charges against James Murdock minister of labor were not proved but entirely disproved.

The amendment was moved by W. M. Gorman, Liberal member for Welland, and followed a motion moved by E. Guss Porter, Conservative member for West Hastings, that the charges against Mr. Murdock be proved. In charges made by Mr. Porter in the House of Commons, Mr. Murdock was accused of having used information obtained as a cabinet minister in withdrawing $4,000 from the Ottawa branch of the Home Bank two days before the crash. The vote on the Government amendment was: For—Hon. Jacques Bureau, minister of customs; Ethier (Liberal, South Brant); Hamlin (Liberal, Welland); Hammill (Liberal, Muskoka); Jacobs (Liberal, George Elgin); Johnston (Conservative, East York); Kelly (Liberal, Cape Breton North); Kyle (Liberal, Cape Breton South); Logan (Liberal, Cumberland); Macdonald (Conservative, defense); Morrison (Progressive, Weyburn); Semsmith (Progressive, Lennox and Addington); Vign (Liberal, Lotbinière)—fourteen.

Against—Brown (Progressive, Lisgar); Hon. Hugh Guthrie (Conservative, Hants); Hanson (Conservative, York-Sudbury); Miss MacPhail (Progressive, Southeast Grey); Porter (Conservative, West Hastings); E. R. Ryckman (Conservative, Stewart); Stewart (Conservative, Hamilton); Stewart (Conservative, Leeds)—eight.

The committee then adopted the motion and the Government's Progressive vote with the Liberals, two including Miss MacPhail, voted with Conservatives.

As soon as the vote had been taken (H. A. Stewart, Conservative, Leeds), moved that a minority report be appended to the resolution.

Chairman Archibald replied that the minority report could be presented as an amendment when the motion for concurrence in the report of the committee was presented to the House of Commons.

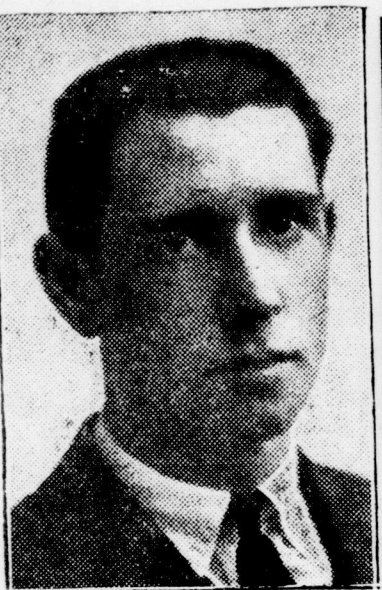

Mr. Porter said that the practice was to make the minority report an annex to the majority report, but Liberal members objected.

Mr. Stewart then moved that the minority report be presented as an annex to the report of the committee, but the motion was ruled out of order.

Murdock is Aroused.

During argument, E. B. Ryckman, Conservative member for East Toronto, declared that Mr. Murdock "is convicted," if I may use the word, by his own refusal to say that it was not.

HAMMOND DISCHARGED IN MANSLAUGHTER CASE

Court Finds Evidence Not Sufficient To Send Truck Driver to Jail.

Finding that there was no evidence to send him for trial, Magistrate Graydon discharged George Hammond on a charge of manslaughter laid last month in connection with the death of little Tommy Crewe, who jumped from a go-cart on the sidewalk directly in front of a truck driven by Hammond on Regency street on the afternoon of May 15.

"There was no omission of duty and no unlawful act," declared the court after hearing the evidence this morning. "He could not have anticipated the child would jump out of the go-cart on to the road."

Mrs. Crewe, mother of the child, Mrs. Velma Tillson, Dr. C. W. Pennecook, Violet Donaghy and Mr. Hammond repeated the evidence they gave at the coroner's inquest, which Hammond was absolved from all blame in the accident.

Crown Attorney Albert M. Judd represented the crown and questioned all witnesses. Hammond was not represented by counsel. He has been out on bail since the death of the youngster.

A. H. Wheatley Presides and Mayor and Others Welcome Visitors.

TELLS OF FIGHT

Sixteen Millions Expended in Effort To Secure 44-Hour Week.

A. H. Wheatley, president of the London Typographical Union, presided for the opening ceremonies, which featured this morning's session of the 13th annual convention of the Ontario and Quebec Conference of Typographical Unions.

For the first time in the history of the union there is present at the convention a fraternal delegate in the person of George R. Burnett, Montreal vice-president of the Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union. A fraternal delegate is also expected to be present from the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders.

The delegates, to the number of about 40, were welcomed to London in a brief speech by Mayor Wenige, who in the course of his remarks, intimated that he was not entirely unacquainted with the printing business, having been a printer's devil with the Detroit Courier some years ago.

"While we have had our labor troubles in London," said the mayor, "they have usually only reached the embryo stage; we have had few strikes."

Such a peculiarly happy condition was accounted for by London's first officer by the fact that 85 per cent of the citizens owned their own homes.

"It is a recognized fact that the people have a stake in the community they take more interest in the affairs of the community. While we do not claim to have the best city in the world, we do claim that we have a good city to live in, a real good city."

Offers Aid.

In conclusion, Mayor Wenige proffered his good offices to secure the release from jail of any delegates who might happen to be run in during their stay in the city.

Arthur Ford of the London Free Press intimated that while he had never been much of a supporter of the U. F. O. government, he believed thoroughly in the U. F. O. principle of co-operation. "We must have more co-operation in both buying and selling between both employer and employee," he said. "If we are to make this world a better place in which to live."

"If the mayor makes good in getting any of you out of jail, I'll promise to keep your names out of the paper," concluded Mr. Ford, amidst an outburst of laughter.

Mr. Ford was followed by H. B. Muir, managing director of The London Advertiser, who tendered a hearty welcome to the union, which he characterized as being all the more sincere because of the thorough-going respect in which the union is regarded by each and all who know anything of its aims and achievements.

Mr. Muir discussed the question of apprenticeship as it pertained to the union and declared that the young men apprenticing themselves to the craft were of exceptionally high calibre.

DR. ECCLES DIES TODAY AFTER LONG SICKNESS

London Loses Great Citizen in Passing of Veteran Physician.

SPLENDID RECORD

Founded Amasa Wood Hospital and Brought Advanced Methods to City.

Dr. F. R. Eccles, for years one of the city's most prominent physicians and surgeons, died at his home 258 Princess avenue at 3:12 this morning.

Dr. Eccles, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks, was 83 years of age, and until he retired eight years ago enjoyed a wide practice. He had the distinction of introducing the first advanced methods of surgery in the city and although a surgeon, he carried on an extensive general practice.

Dr. Eccles was born in Warwick Township, County of Lambton, and gained his early education in the Sarnia grammar school. Later he taught school. Entering Toronto University medical school he graduated in 1887, studying in New York part of the time. He commenced practice in Arkona and after nine years left that village to take a post-graduate course in the old country for over two years. He was a graduate of Royal College of Surgeons, England, and held the degree of fellowship in the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh. He was also a fellow in the Obstetrical Society, London.

Returned To London.

Returning to London, Dr. Eccles soon became one of the city's most prominent physicians and citizens. He was professor of physiology at the University of Western Ontario medical school for several years, later becoming professor of gynecology.

Dr. Eccles' splendid service to the school was fittingly recognized when he became dean of the faculty of medicine. He was an authority on the diseases of women and was much

TRUE BILL RETURNED IN CASE OF VIZNEAU

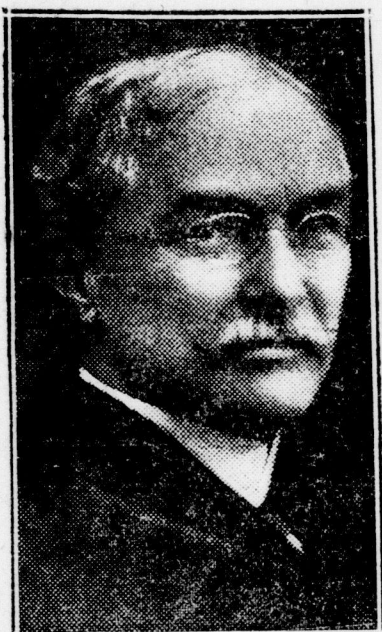

Port Francis, June 12.—A true bill was returned against Joseph Vizneau, charged with the murder of Mr. and Mrs. John Sward, April last, by a grand jury here yesterday. When arraigned Vizneau entered a plea of not guilty.

The evidence dealt with the finding of the bodies of the Swards, G. Wilson, a crown witness, told of finding empty shells at the home of the Swards and also at Vizneau's home. Wilson declared he was suspicious of Vizneau and kept the shells "to allay any suspicion, for fear of lynching."

The trial continues today.

M. Doumergue had announced that he was not a candidate before the caucus, but that he would stand for the office in the National Assembly when it met at Versailles tomorrow for the election of a president.

SAVANT SAYS MONKEY GLAND THEORY ONLY MYTHOLOGY

Waste of Time and Energy. Dr. C. McWilliams Tells Society.

RECORD OF FAILURES

"Youth Is Youth, Age Is Age. Never the Twain Shall Meet," Sums Up Views.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, June 12.—"Youth is youth and age is age, and never the twain shall meet." This paraphrase sums up the conclusions of Dr. Clarence McWilliams in delivering the "one-two" to the monkey-gland rejuvenation theory before today's session of the annual convention of the American Medical Association. Dr. Williams comes from New York City.

The physician's final characterization of the monkey gland theory, in a detailed discussion of the subject, he attacked the entire field of foreign tissue grafting, insisting that the grafting of skin or organs from other animals, or even grafts taken from another section of the body, will most certainly be null. Between animals of the same species, even, there are unknown biological differences that prevent the survival of the transplanted arteries. Rejuvenating human beings by the grafting of monkey glands is simply mythology.

Hundreds of Merry-makers Gather at Springbank Park For Separate School Picnic

Throngs of Happy Children Arrive on Each Carry For Day of Sport.

BASEBALL GAMES

Afternoon Program Taken Up With Races and "Eats."

Favored by glorious weather, happy success attended the annual outing of pupils of London's separate schools today. A crowd of nearly 1,000 was at Springbank Park this afternoon, and it was a day in all the year to be remembered. Picnic lunches, softball, races and the mechanical amusements, too, provided the school children with a complete program of fun and sports. It was happily planned and successfully carried out.

Early in the day the first special cars of the London Street Railway arrived at the picnic center, and the crowd was increased all through the morning until at noon there were around 500 folk there. Through the noon hour others came, and this afternoon special were taxed to their seating capacity. In many cases picnicers enjoyed both lunch and supper, with excellent and mechanical amusements.

There were pupils from De La Salle High School and from St. Mary's, St. John's, St. Martin's, St. Michael's, St. Peter's, Sacred Heart, St. Joseph's and St. Angela's schools. Good attendance was reported by all.

Summer Toes.

Boys in summer togs, wearing school colors and caps, and girls with seasonal frocks of colorful organdies and gingham, were accompanied by trustees of the separate school board, teachers of the various schools, and by parents. Many mothers came with little children just of school age. It was a crowd of all ages, colorful, merry and care-free.

During the morning two games of softball were played. At noon the boys were divided into two teams, necessary to accommodate all. When the crowd had been swelled by late arrivals the sports of the afternoon were run off, and prizes were distributed among the victors in each. Trustees and teachers acted as officials in the competition.

Good Game.

Boys of two teams at De La Salle High School provided a good game of softball, in which the first year students made a good finish, and defeated Grade VII by a score of 12 to 12. Some hard hitting and also good playing was witnessed. Muzan hurled for the victors, and Tillman was the catcher. For Grade VIII, Fitzgerald and Player did the battering work. Seven innings were played before the verdict was given.

In a nin and tuck race, St. Mary's school girls were victorious at the end of the girls' nuns of Sacred Heart School. The fixture was interesting from start to finish, with a sea-saw score all the time. At the finish it stood 11 to 10 for the girls of St. Mary's. Helen Kinsella and Nellie Johnson formed the battery for the winners. Irene Holland pitched and Mary Cook was catcher for Sacred Heart School.

DEFENCE DEPENDS ON INSANITY PLEA

Corps of Alienists To Examine Leopold and Loeb Today.

Associated Press Despatch. Chicago, June 12.—Preparations for the trial Aug. 4, of Nathan E. Leopold, Jun., and Richard Loeb, millionaires' sons, confessed kidnappers and slayers of Robert Franks, school-boy, began today with insanity experts.

Beginning today, a corps of alienists and psychiatrists, in charge of Dr. James Whitney Hall of Chicago, will examine the youths in their cells without the attendance of jail guards or prosecutors. Although defence attorneys declared the defence had been given insufficient time to prepare for the trial when the date was set yesterday, it will begin at once to lay the groundwork for its insanity plea, it was indicated.

Meanwhile the prosecution continued to question witnesses before the grand jury relative to the mental states of the accused.

PROHIBITION AGENTS ARRESTED BY POLICE

Enforcement Officials Explain Presence in Chicago Negro Apartment.

Associated Press Despatch. Chicago, June 12.—Nine prohibition agents, including Major H. C. Ridgeway, group director, were arrested by police yesterday in a raid on an apartment occupied by negroes. The police declared after arresting the prohibition agents, that they found the latter in the apartment witnessing an entertainment by negro men and women. They declared that no one else was present. Two bottles of whiskey were found in the flat, according to the police report.

The federal officers, on the other hand, reported to chief Field Agent Charles W. Versell that they were seated in the rear of the apartment, not even being aware of the presence of women in the place. They said that they had learned that the flat was a distributing station for bootleg whiskey, and that they were there for the purpose of apprehending expected shipments of liquor.

DOCTOR STATES INSULIN HAS PROVEN REAL CURE

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, June 12.—Insulin cures diabetes and does not merely arrest the disease, according to Dr. Alan Brown, professor of children's diseases in the University of Toronto, who says that valuable work done in the laboratory of the Hospital for Sick Children proves this fact.

At the annual meeting of the Diseases of Children, which opens tomorrow, a paper will be read which will give definite evidence of the effect of insulin.

The case of a little girl is instanced who developed diabetes and for the past two years had been treated with insulin. The disease was certainly arrested and, apparently, normal health regained. Last winter the little girl had a tubercular accident and died as the result of an injury to the head. Twelve minutes after death the pancreas was removed from the child's body and showed evidence of healing and renews.

DEPOSITORS THINK PLEA WILL NOW BRING AID

McKeown Report Justifies Government Reimbursement, Declares Committee Counsel.

WHITE'S OPINION

Former Minister of Finance Fails To Agree With the Royal Commissioner.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.

Toronto, June 12.—Members of the Home Bank depositors' committee are quite jubilant over the report of the royal commissioner, Chief Justice McKeown, who finds that had an audit been made under the bank act in 1916 or 1918 it would have forced liquidation or amalgamation and that their money would have been saved.

They believe that the bold facts reported by the chief justice, principally that the deposits were used in paying dividends in those years when representations as to its condition were made, leave no other course open to the government, than to come to the assistance of the depositors in pursuance of the petition presented, which led to the appointment of the royal commission.

Claims Charges Proven.

W. T. J. Lee, K.C. chairman of the depositors' committee and associate counsel for them, and R. J. Laughtlin, K.C., counsel for the depositors, declared in interviews with The Advertiser today that the allegations of the depositors had been fully proved, and that the duty of the government was clear.

Shown the press despatch containing a summary of the report of Chief Justice McKeown, the Home Bank inquiry, Sir Thomas White said to The Advertiser that he would await the copy of the verbatim report before deciding whether he should make any comment upon it or not.

"So far as I read from your issue," said Mr. Lee, "it seems to be an absolutely complete win for the depositors. Chief Justice McKeown has found that in 1916 and 1918 the bank could have been taken over by some other bank, or by amalgamation, or it could have been closed up and all the depositors' money saved from 1918 up."

He also finds that no representations were made to Sir Henry Drayton or Mr. Fielding. Of course, we knew that, he must find that—there was nothing to warrant anything else."

Referring to the facts reported by the commissioner as to the payment of dividends out of depositors' money, Mr. Lee said, "Dividends have been paid since 1916. There was not a year from 1916 to 1923, except 1918, when they made any money, probably only $8,000, and not sufficient to pay dividends at all, and yet they paid them."

White's Opinion.

Sir Thomas White today, commenting upon the report, said: "As to the commissioner's finding on the facts, as he was authorized to do under the inquiries act, I have no comment to make. In this regard the report adds nothing to information already possessed by the public and widely discussed by the press."

"As to the statement of the commissioner that the condition of the bank, as revealed by representations, Please See Page 4, Column 5."

Toronto Magistrate Declines To Commit Brothers On Charge of Intimidation

FORCED WEDDING CHARGE FAILS

Toronto Magistrate Declines To Commit Miller Brothers For Intimidation.

O'NEIL TESTIFIES

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, June 12.—Magistrate Jones in police court today refused to commit David Craig Miller and his brother, William, for trial on a charge of having intimidated John T. O'Neil at the point of a revolver into marrying their sister, Marion Miller. The two brothers, it was alleged, had engaged a taxicab driver to call for O'Neil at his home on the pretext that he was to go to a house on the outskirts of the city to play a saxophone at an entertainment.

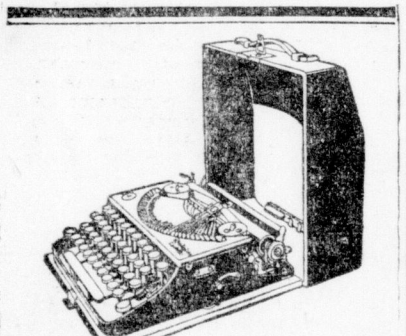

The taxicab was stopped on a road leading out of the city, and it was alleged, the two brothers had entered the automobile and compelled O'Neil to accompany them to the house of a minister where the marriage ceremony took place. In his evidence today O'Neil declared that although neither of the accused had touched him forcibly with their hands, they had forced a revolver into his ribs. A toy revolver was produced, and O'Neil identified it as one similar to the one he had seen in the hands of William Miller. O'Neil stated that the taxi driver was in the cab all the time, but that he did not appeal to him for protection believing that he was in league with the brothers. Asked if he had protested at all during the whole affair, O'Neil replied "No, because I was so scared."

Mother's Vain Hat Hunt Ends With the Dying Sun Lo! She Returns Hairless

Carries Off London Marathon Championship For "Hard Day in City."

FAMILY DISTRACTED

Search From Morn Till Night Ends in Sprint For Barber.

The marathon championship for a "hard day in the city" went yesterday to the woman with long hair who set out bright and early in the morning to buy a hat. Roteau, in her mind was a conviction that she must have a new hat to wear to the Canadian Club garden party. Her last year chapeau had done remarkably well with a trig veil for the street, but the glow of early summer sunlight and the discerning eye of other femininity required a more exacting choice with which to grace the university lawn. So when the shops opened the lady was on hand. When the shops closed, those on hand were the family doctor, two extremely anguished daughters, a distracted husband, and Mother went home in tears and without either hair or hat. When she had recovered sufficiently to speak, the sad tale lost nothing in the telling. In her efforts to properly grace the garden party, Mother had been, one after another, to every hat shop in the city. She had been presented with cloche after cloche—silk cloche, straw cloche, drooping cloche, tall military cloche, tricorn cloche—everything and all were cloche! Unfortunately mother still had the beautiful hair that when father married her was her crowning glory, and father's admiration during the harassed years of matrimony had not declined the slightest.

Refused to Descend. But mother's hair, though it may have eased the way to marriage, came most obstinately when it came to cloches. The lady, suitably fitted hats, which cling so smartly to the shingled head, absolutely refused to descend any further than the utmost rim of mother's broad Grecian forehead, a state which boded extremely ill for the success of the garden party.

The cloche question exhausted and with most unsatisfactory results, the distracted shopper found that the equally distracted salesladies had nothing to offer other than umbrella and warm-fleece raincoats, and over, stamped indelibly in every shred of straw and every inch of silk.

"We can make you a hat, madam," the clerks had offered, bringing out a style book with a very handsome and very remote hat of cool summery millan and flowers thereon pictured.

"But," supplemented mother, "you absolutely cannot have it before the early part of next week, and I must have a respectable hat, not for a respectable woman, and not for silly children with bobbed hair, before 3:30 this afternoon."

By this time, mother had lost her temper and it was quite clear she had forgotten her own daughters, whose years were not in the girlish teens, but whose hair was most decidedly not only cut but smartly shingled.

"This season, madam," explained the outwardly patient clerk, "the majority of our youthful (cutting in the cashmere here) hats are being made for women with bobbed hair. More than half the women in London, you know, now have bobbed hair."

Up to this time, mother had been seeing a sort of dim, indistinct blue, like the green lawns of the university in a remote, cloudy distance. Now she saw red, pure bold red, without a shadow of redemption.

Father or no father, grown daughters, no grown daughters, off would come that hair. It did.

An hour later, curled and marcelled beyond all hope of recognition, she reached home, thought of the garden party utterly abandoned, the hat question given up in despair, and mother herself given over to anguished shrieks of lamentation for her hair.

But today she bought a cloche. Father is happy once more and so are the daughters. Mother's friends are exclaiming how youthful she looks, and mother herself explains with the calmness of one whose mental processes are not only card-indexed but refrigerated.

"Well, you know, I had such difficulty in buying a hat!"

PEANUT KING IS HAILED TO COURT

Peter Doing a Land Office Business at Springbank Park.

"Peter, the peanut king," who fought the local police to a standstill before bowing to defeat regarding the right to sell goobers on city streets, placed his goobers jauntily on his head this morning and has been playing his trade in the county, having paid $5 for a pedler's license.

Pete's crown, however, is perched for an awful wallow, according to the jealous purveyors of monkey food in the Springbank Amusement Park, but this will not be demonstrated one way or the other till tomorrow, when he will come before Magistrate Hawkshaw on a charge of obstructing traffic at Springbank and also with being a public nuisance.

Pete knows the value of a strategic position, and has parked his push-limo road between Springbank and the amusement park. The business he has been doing for some days has been perfectly scandalous, according to the fellows who are standing in helpless opposition. They complained to the trustees of Byron police village, who have inflicted a large tax on them while Pete goes free as the air from any such payment.

High Constable Wharton was sent for, and in company of a reporter made the trip to Springbank at noon today. The king was holding court with a vengeance. Half a dozen eager youngsters, attending a separate school picnic, crowded around his highness, all anxious to transfer their money to him in return for a bag of peanuts or popcorn. In between sales, the "king" peeled an orange, but he didn't have much time to eat it as business was brisk. The village constable, Leola Griffiths, was appealed to, and the party went on to the home of Wesley Merriam, J.P., who has sworn out an information against Pete to appear tomorrow.

But what cares the goober emperor? He will make enough money today to pay a dozen fines and will on his past record, find some means of evading all the township and county laws that were ever designed.

Howden Softballers Fall Before City Hall Athletes

The city hall softball aggregation, one of the mightiest in the league met and defeated with supreme ease yesterday the Howden outfit, with a score of 24 to 8. In spite of the difficulties of city hall surroundings and the cramped atmosphere of their daily environment with its anti-sunshine, attitude toward things in general, the men from the hoary ruin played like men, and cut a swathe as wide as a Tammany Hall politician's connection through their opponents. Nothing could withstand their energetic onslaught. Refreshed by a thousand years of sleep in the old pyramid on Dundas and Wellington streets, they were not to be thwarted in their determination of expressed in the long winter evenings to wipe the floor with the Howdenites, and right royally they cut the ice to suit the referee. The hills around the Thames Park diamond, where this classic of the turf was run, for it was more run than swat, echoed to the thunder clouds above with the cheers of the winners' pals and the hoots and groans of the other chaps' friends. The welkin rang several times and of rancid fire alarm when the two dozen were reached. Next Monday the kings of the night as they call themselves, owing to the prevailing darkness that surrounds them at their daily slumber, will tackle the International Harvesters on the Federal Square, their own camping ground, as it were, and the

LACKS CLEVERNESS TO BE GOOD THIEF

Maxwell Gray, Lobo, Is Remanded on Two Charges of Fraud.

PLEADS GUILTY

"I guess I'm not clever enough to be a good thief," stated Maxwell P. Gray to city detectives when confronted with more evidence regarding his operations among local wholesale tobacco firms. Gray had the material, but the "smoke" screens with which he endeavored to hide his movements were not so good.

Gray pleaded guilty in police court yesterday to two charges of fraud, having obtained tobacco on two occasions from S. Manness, which he said had been ordered by country storekeepers.

This morning he pleaded guilty to a similar charge laid by W. H. White, manager of Scales & Roberts, and will likely appear tomorrow on a charge of having obtained tobacco from M. Masurek & Co. on June 9 valued at $26.

According to police information, Gray attempted to get tobacco from Scales & Roberts via a letter in his railway "uniform." He was not successful, but came back again a few days later, on June 10, and obtained goods valued at $40.07, when, he stated, were of Mr. Willis, a storekeeper at Bow Wood. He signed the name of E. A. Smith to the order and mentioned the name of a customer at Denfield.

Detectives found a further memo on an order for which Jonathan Hall of Parkhill was to pay. It is not known as yet whether he cashed in on this order or not. This would be a total of five different orders since the total of the different orders the young Lobo man had put through. A Dundas street tobacconist told The Advertiser today that Gray had attempted to sell him several large quantities of tobacco, stating he was giving up business and wanted to get rid of the stuff. He was told to take it back to the firm he purchased it from and he would be allowed for it.

Gray was remanded for sentence till next Wednesday on today's charge. He will also be sentenced on the other charges at the same time.

LONDON POSTAL MEN TO DISCUSS REPORT

Local Employees Will Decide on Course at Tomorrow's Meeting.

The London postal workers will attend a meeting tomorrow evening at 8:30 for the purpose of discussing the report of the civil service commission concerning the revision of civil servants salaries.

Lawrence Graham, president of the London Postal Workers' Association, stated today that no definite stand had been taken as yet. Each member of the organization will have to be consulted on the issue before any decision can be made.

The whole matter will be threshed out at the meeting, and the action taken will not be known until the men have been heard. As there has been a considerable amount of dissatisfaction among the men regarding the report of the civil service commission, it is expected that the meeting will be largely attended.

HEAD CAMP OF WOODMEN WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY

Head camp of the Canadian Woodmen of the World will be held in London on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

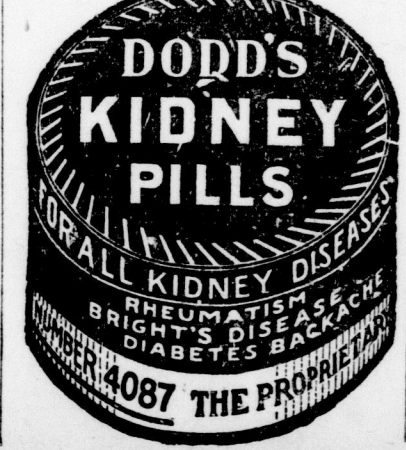

The camp program is being arranged for by Clair Jarvis, head consul commander. It includes a banquet for the delegates, who are expected to be present to the number of 85, at Port Stanley on Wednesday evening.

Though the camps are held only every other year and the meetings are supposed to be held in different cities, this is the third consecutive convention to be held in London.

NEW GOLF COURSE OPENS SATURDAY

Thames Valley Grounds Are Ready After Careful Preparation by Commission.

Thames Valley golf course, the new grounds of the public utilities commission, will be formally opened for play on Saturday afternoon.

According to announcement made this afternoon, four of the district's most expert players will engage in a foursome. Chairman Vining of the commission, if he is recovered from his present illness, will drive off the first ball. Then opportunity will be provided members to use the course for play if they so desire.

Announcement of the opening makes successful the forecast of officials when work was started scarcely more than six weeks ago. Work has gone on at a good rate and the course will look fine for opening day. There is only about half of one hole unsuitable for play. This will be cleared out as soon as possible, and grass put in.

Rapidity of the work is a tribute to the commission and workmen. During the past week progress has gone on at a good rate and the course will look fine for opening day. No definite announcement regarding the players in the exhibition foursome could be secured this afternoon.

MORRIS GOOTSON SURE OF ENOUGH WITNESSES

Morris Gootson was in police court again this morning, but merely as a spectator.

"Got something snappy for us today, Morris?" asked the reporter. "Not today," said Mr. Gootson. "You fellows give me lots of news every time I come up here."

"How many witnesses have you got for your case tomorrow?" was the next question.

"How many have the police got?" asked Morris cautiously. "Five," guessed the reporter. "All right I'll have 15," said the irrepressible Gootson. "I'll have enough to make the case sure."

Mr. Gootson is charged with a breach of the health act by allowing bones, alleged to be older than the ark, to accumulate at his establishment at the foot of Maitland street. There will be a large battle to see him fight his "stewch battle" in London police court tomorrow.

Elderly Man Springs Surprise on Staid Assessment Commissioner.

TELLS OF LIFE

Bread Cast Upon the Waters Returns To Him in His Old Age.

Scene—The assessment department office.

Time—Some weeks ago. Enter elderly gentleman with request for exemption from income tax assessment.

Conversation as follows: Commissioner—Age? Ans.—Sixty.

Married? No, single.

What is your income? I haven't any.

No investments? No.

Well, how do you live then? Son keeps him.

"My son keeps me."

"Your what?"

"My son."

"But you said you were a bachelor."

"Well, so I am, but in my youth I cast my bread upon the waters and it has come back to me in my old age."

The commissioner was interested and asked for an explanation.

"It was in this way," the old gentleman went on. "A long time ago, when I was a young chap, the girl I loved died, and I was left all alone. She was passionately fond of children, and so was I. I had nothing to do but cry. Then one day I saw a dear little chap across the road who was an orphan running down the street right in the path of a buggy coming along. I grabbed him and after we grew quite fond of each other. Well, the outcome was that I adopted him and he became my lawful son. So that's how an old bachelor of 60 has a son who keeps him."

"I am quite without money of any kind and as I said, my bread that I cast upon the water in my youth has come back to me at last."

Shake Hands. The commissioner shook hands with this unusual applicant, and walked back to his office with a smile at the little incident that had made such an extraordinary break in his dull office routine.

He looked up the facts of the case the next day and found that the man who loved children was right, and that the facts were correct. His faith in human nature which is subject to the greatest test in the world—meeting people who want tax exemptions—was strengthened.

SINGLE MEN NOT EXEMPT FOR ILLEGITIMATE CHILDREN

In the light that comes to the mills of the revision court for income tax exemption there are always one or two asking for an exemption of an allowance to take care of illegitimate children. Now the commissioner points out, that while the law allows an exemption in the case of married men for this purpose, providing they are actually paying for the upkeep of these children, that single men are not exempted and must pay income tax assessment on the full amount usual.

Depositors Believe McKewon Report Forecasts Substantial Reimbursement

LONDON SOCIETY MEETS NEXT WEEK

Louis Dambra, President of City Depositors, Confident of Success.

PROMPTNESS PRAISED

Officials of the local organization of Home Bank depositors find in Judge McKewon's report, tabled in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, what they consider very substantial support of their claim that the depositors should be reimbursed to the extent of the eight and a half million dollars deposited after 1915.

Judge McKewon's report is on findings of the royal commission appointed by the Dominion government to investigate the failure of the Home Bank.

Louis Dambra, president of the local organization, declared this morning that he was sufficiently encouraged by the report to expect a reimbursement of most of their money, 25 per cent of which they have already obtained.

Mr. Dambra conferred at noon with the secretary of the association, and it has been arranged to call a meeting of the depositors next week. H. H. Higginbottom, secretary of the depositors' association, and came east from Calgary at the commencement of May to work in the interest of the depositors. He is expected to bring first-hand information concerning the report, and will also be in a position to make a prediction on future prospects.

There is no doubt that local officials consider this report the most encouraging sign yet offered that they will recover losses sustained in the bank failure. They highly commend the promptness and despatch of the royal commission appointed.

FINE NEW GUARDS FLAG RECEIVED AT CITADEL

Insignia Will Be Presented to No. 4 Quarters, Salvation Army.

A new Salvation Army guards' flag has been received at the Clarence Street Citadel from headquarters, Toronto. It will be officially presented to the corps in a few days.

The new flag carries a red border with a blue field. A design in the middle of ground of blue shows a guard troop.

The insignia shows the lamp, the eye, the book, and the Indian clubs, signifying the four-fold purpose of the guard movement—salvation of mind, body, and others. In the scroll beneath the crest are the words "to save and to serve."

The flag will go to Oak Street Citadel, No. 4, as soon as the arrangements for the presentation are completed.

BETTER HOME IS URGED FOR LONDON VETERANS

Former Alderman Terms the Present Quarters in City Hall "Disgrace."

The need for a suitable home for the veterans of the great war has never more urgent than at the present time, says ex-Ald. P. J. Watt. He argues that the city should live up to its promises expressed or otherwise to the returned men, and that either the city or a body of the citizens should provide the means to get a decent home for the boys.

"Look at that place they call the 'Dug Out' under the city hall away down below the street level, a disgrace. Mind you, the mayor did the best he could; it was all he could do when there were no funds available to give them the cellar, but it's a shame that the boys should have to stow away down there like rats."

"In nearly every other city in the Dominion a club has been erected in honor of the G. W. V. A. or some other veterans' association, and what's more it has been a place where they could get a good meal and have meals if they wanted."

YOUNG BRIDE REFUSES TO GO WITH MOTHER

Toronto Woman Remanded to Jail—Arrested in Early Morning.

A young bride of 21, who was married on May 15 last, apparently agreed to disagree with her husband in Toronto, and started for home and mother yesterday morning. She arrived in the city safe and sound, and started out last night to look up some old friends.

At 1 o'clock this morning she was seen by a policeman in a garage and told to go home. At 2:15 she was seen by the same officer walking the streets in East London, and refused to either go home or give any information about herself, which landed her in the police cells on a charge of vagrancy.

This morning she appeared in police court, her mother being sent for. The girl absolutely refused to go home with her mother on condition that she do what she was told, and preferred to be remanded to jail for a week. Her husband will likely arrive before that time, and it is expected that a reconciliation will be effected.

SIX ARE INJURED AS AUTOS COLLIDE

One Car Turned Over Twice, But Occupants Were Only Scratched.

CARS IN DITCHES

Special to The Advertiser.
Stratford, June 11.—About 10:30 o'clock last night in an accident on the provincial highway about three miles west of Mitchell seven persons narrowly escaped death when a car owned by Albert Pauli, this city, crashed into another owned by W. J. Currie, also of this city, which was standing on the roadside, while the owner was repairing a tire.

Mr. Pauli's car, a light touring model, turned over twice before it landed upright, minus three wheels. In the ditch. Five occupants, two men, two women and a child, were thrown clear of the vehicle, all escaping injury except for a few scratches.

Mr. Currie was behind his car, lowering the jack when the collision occurred. He was knocked back and the car passed partly over him and then went head-first into the ditch. A young lady in the vehicle was uninjured.

Mrs. M. Rigg was re-elected president of the Stratford branch of the W. C. T. U. at the regular meeting held yesterday. Other officers are: Vice-president, Mrs. G. S. Edgecombe; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. Murch; recording secretary, Mrs. W. Weitzel; treasurer, Mrs. C. Brown; auditors, Miss Jean Hyde, Mrs. W. Weitzel.

One of the largest shipments of butter to leave Stratford has been made by the Stillman's Creameries, Limited, which recently sent a consignment of one and a half tons of pasteurized creamery butter to Philadelphia.

A delegation from the Rotary Club waited on the park board last night to ask for the use of Lakeside Park for the pageant to be held at the end of this month. The request was granted.

A letter was received from A. Neal & Son, florists, offering to start a flower bed in the new park extension along William street, if the board would permit the use of the land. The offer was favorably received.

The boys' work board of the city is arranging a "retreat" meeting to be held at Montet's Grove on Wednesday afternoon, June 18.

COUNCILLORS ARE URGED TO SALLY FORTH AT DAWN

The daily dozen for aldermen, is the latest hot weather slogan of Mayor Wenke. "Mens Sano in Corpore Sano" is his motto, and he believes that only in a fit body can there be a mind alert enough to take care of the city's business.

"Nobody can be really well," he argues, "unless they get enough exercise, and unless a man's fit and alive he isn't fit to be an alderman, that's obvious. Now, I get up every morning and do five or six miles on the road outside the city before breakfast on my wheel and by children come too. If I can do it the others can. It doesn't matter whether a man is busy all day at a desk or whether he is a salesman or serves behind a counter or is a professional man or anything else, he needs exercise, and if the council will follow me each morning I'll act as instructor."

THEY HAVE A FEW THERE, BUT PERHAPS "NO AS MONY"

As illustrating the difference that exists in the popularity of automobiles between this country and the old land, ex-Ald. P. J. Watt tells the story of a newly-arrived Aberdonian, of whom he asked the question: "Are there many cars in Aberdeen as there are here?"

After a long time spent in deep cogitation, the youth answered: "Well, yes, there's a few there, but the bishop has yin, and the minister has yin, the doctor has yin, and so has the bailie. Na there's no quite as many as here."

"EAT PLENTY AND REDUCE AS WELL"

Birmingham Doctor Has Good News For Fat People—Addresses Session.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent.
Chicago, June 12.—If you are fat, you can grow thin, and at the same time eat plenty of good food and enjoy life. This cheerful news for heavyweights was delivered to the American Medical Association at today's session of the annual convention of the association here today by Dr. James S. Mc Lester of Birmingham, Ala.

"The effort of many obese people," said Dr. Mc Lester, "to avoid all starchy foods and to eschew all sweets is without reason. Carbohydrates are the source of energy for the maintenance of body temperature and in overwhelming measure for the production of work. Not only are simple sugars when craved with their proper caloric value, of no harm, but when taken at the proper time they will permit the patient to stick to the ribs longest. If we would hold the patient down to a minimal intake and at the same time satisfy him, we should always add to the heavy meal a little dessert."

"Enough food to satisfy" was the slogan, with emphasis on food that tends to stick to the ribs longest. "It is not necessary to resort to freak diets," said Dr. Mc Lester, "in order to accomplish a reduction in weight. It is simply a matter of eating right, rapid reduction, considering three to six pounds a month, a satisfactory result. The patient should be given special attention to the use of water in the treatment of various diseases in the form of baths and packs."

Dr. Mc Lester, who is president of the North American Newspaper Alliance, is a native of Canada.

UNION OFFICIAL WARNS STRIKERS

C. T. Cramp, Railwaymen's Secretary, Will Have No Dealings With Rebels.

AUTHORITY FLOUTED

Associated Press Despatch.
London, June 12.—Charles T. Cramp, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, whose authority has been flouted by the striking power station workers and railway shopmen, with the result that London's electric railway system is disorganized, has issued a manifesto, declaring that he will have no dealings with such rebels in the union. He states that the present position is "a fight between order and mob law."

The public, while approving the sentiments of the secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, is inclined to ask why then have not the trades union leaders made earlier efforts to assert their authority.

Secretary Cramp has declared that almost every large union has been afflicted by rebellions, such as that now in the railwaymen's union, and this was exemplified in the recent Southampton dock strike in connection with which there was promiscuous warfare between the workers and employers waged despite the fact that the unions concerned desired to remain at peace. In this instance, however, certain unions acted promptly, and two of them went to the length of expelling the recalcitrant members. Similar expulsions took place over the boilermakers' dispute a short time ago.

From Woodland they will journey to St. Peter's where all the graves will be decorated. Mons. O'Connor will conduct the services in the place of Bishop Fallon.

A small fire broke out in the City Creamery, Dundas street, when lightning struck the wires outside the building and followed the feed line into an electric motor in the basement. The motor was a total loss.

Other serious fires occurred in the rain, which was the first of the warm variety, did inestimable good to the crops in the surrounding country.

CHURCH PREPARES FOR CORNERSTONE

Foundation Nears Completion at Church of Christ Disciples.

CEREMONY JUNE 25

Plans recently drawn up for the new Church of Christ, Disciples, would indicate the erection of a building of handsome appearance and exceptionally fine accommodation.

The church will replace the present structure at the corner of Dundas and Elizabeth streets.

At an estimated cost of $30,000, it is being built on the Elizabeth street lot which has been in the possession of the church for some time, on the east side mid-way between Dundas street and Queen's avenue. This has a frontage of 70 feet, with a depth of 110 feet. In size, the new church is 78 feet by 57 feet, and at present splendid headway has been made with the foundation.

Well Arranged.
The building has been splendidly arranged to accommodate all departments of the church work for a number of years to come. It will be embodied the latest approved ideas in arrangement and equipment, in accordance with the present size of the congregation and its probable future growth. The church auditorium, 48 feet by 51 feet, will be of sufficient capacity to accommodate 150 people. The seating will be arranged diagonally with the pulpit in the northeast corner, and provision has been made for choir and organ space on the left hand side. There will be two main entrances leading off Elizabeth street, in a covered porch, supported by two handsome pillars. A between these entrances the interior of the building will accommodate a courtroom. Convenient accommodation will also be provided for the baptistry, its dressing rooms, pastor's vestry, church parlor and choir room.

Large Basement.
A basement equal in size to the auditorium will include an auditorium and eight well-lighted classrooms, as well as sections of the room, primary departments, kitchen, boiler and fuel rooms, and ladies' and gentlemen's parlors.

The exterior of the building will be of classic design, and the interior finish will be of British Columbia fir. The walls will be of red brick.

The campaign inaugurated by the officers of the church will be a meeting with a splendid response from the congregation. The plans submitted by the local architect, W. Murray, have been approved, and the laying of the cornerstone will take place at a public ceremony on June 25. The committee are as follows: Rev. H. Versey, chairman; W. McVicar, G. B. Johnston, F. Ball, F. Deesley, R. J. Henderson, A. W. McVicar, F. Churchill, W. H. Dunn, A. Blackwell, and C. B. King, secretary. The contractors are Jones & Spry.

First Storm of Year Causes But Small Damage in City.

The first thunderstorm of the season struck the city yesterday. From noon on the dark, ominous clouds were in the sky, lightning played about the high buildings, and the thunder could be heard in the distance.

The damage by lightning that usually accompanies these storms was serious enough. The steeples on St. Andrew's Presbyterian and First Congregational Churches were struck, causing many burned and damaged shingles.

Along about 4:15 when the storm was at its height a flash struck a high tension hydro wire at Adelaide street and Hamilton road plunging the city into darkness for fully twenty minutes. Several other breaks occurred in the city's lighting system, but the hydro men soon had everything in working order.

A small fire broke out in the City Creamery, Dundas street, when lightning struck the wires outside the building and followed the feed line into an electric motor in the basement. The motor was a total loss.

Other serious fires occurred in the rain, which was the first of the warm variety, did inestimable good to the crops in the surrounding country.

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could barely do my house work and washing. I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do every thing that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAICHECK, 944 28th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the bottom of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

PARTY PLATFORM IS FULLY ADOPTED

Cheers For Coolidge As Report of Committee Is Approved.

WESTERNERS SILENT

Special to The Advertiser. Cleveland, June 12.—Senator Borah of Idaho was agreed upon by administration leaders here early this morning for the vice-presidential nomination.

Associated Press Despatch. Cleveland, June 11.—In a brief session, marked by a prolonged demonstration for President Coolidge, the Republican national convention tonight adopted its platform, as reported by the resolutions committee, and rejected the Lafolette plank presented by the insurgent Wisconsin delegation.

The chorus of "Noes" from the Wisconsin section when the question was put on the adoption were almost lost in the great convention hall, which had not finished reverberating from a tornado of "Ayes."

Charles B. Warren, chairman of the resolutions committee, read the platform as finally approved, and moved its adoption. Representative Cooper of Wisconsin presented the Lafolette platform, and spoke in its support. Mr. Warren made no extended argument against the Lafolette plank, merely reminding the convention that the platform as brought in from the committee had been approved by every member, except the member from Wisconsin, and that the committee's action might be considered a fair cross-section of the sentiment of the convention.

The platform out of the way in record time, the convention adjourned until tomorrow morning until 10 o'clock to take up nominations for president and vice-president.

Tonight's session, though brief and orderly, was noisy and colorful. The president, President Coolidge, in his study in Washington, following the convention proceedings by radio, must have heard the shouts and calls of "Coolidge," the tramp of the marchers and the predictions of party victory.

Wisconsin Jeered. Through all the demonstration for the president and the platform, the delegates from Wisconsin, who were in their seats, taking no part, and ignoring the cat calls, hisses, jeers and shouts directed toward them from the marching throng and from the galleries.

Election of senators and representatives who believe in Republican principles and acknowledge party responsibility is urged in the party platform.

This appeal constitutes the concluding plank which declares that the government functions best when the president is supported "by a majority in Congress of the same political faith, united by party principles and able by concerted action to carry out in an orderly way a definite, consistent and well-balanced program."

Other high spots in the platform are: United States adherence to the world court as recommended by President Coolidge.

Demand for speedy prosecution of all wrongdoers in official positions, and condemnation of those who "strive indiscriminately to besmirch the names of the innocent and undermine the confidence of the people in the government."

Declaration for rigid enforcement of the law, but without specific mention of prohibition.

Aid Basic Industries. Scientific readjustment of railroad rate schedules, with a view to encouragement of agriculture and basic industries, without impairment of railroad traffic.

Enactment of measures to place agriculture on a basis of economic equality with other industries, and government assistance in reorganization in the marketing system and in diversification of crops.

Progressive reduction of the taxes of all the people as rapidly as may be, and the placing of the federal tax system on a sound, peace-time basis.

Commemoration of the "firm insistence" of President Coolidge upon rigid government economy.

Settlement of foreign debts growing out of the war on the basis of the agreement concluded with Great Britain.

Reaffirmation of the belief in the protective tariff policy with a safeguard authorizing the president to adjust duties to prevent excessive taxes and too high customs charges.

Pledge to Soldiers. Give the wounded and disabled war veteran "that full measure of care guaranteed by an effective administration to which his patriotic sacrifices entitle him."

Improvement of the management of the government-owned merchant marine with a view to its ultimate sale to the American citizens.

Effecting and efficient development of oil, timber, coal or water-power resources only as needed, and only after the public need has become a matter of public record, "control with a scrupulous regard and ever vigilant safeguards against waste, speculation and monopoly."

Opposition to nationalization or the supply of coal is threatened by industrial conflict, to appoint a commission to act as mediators and to control distribution to prevent profiteering.

Development of a waterways system from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

Universal mobilization of man power and industry in time of war.

Approval of the general provisions of the new immigration law, and a declaration for the adoption of methods to make easier the assimilation of foreign-born.

Maintenance of a navy at the full strength authorized "by the letter and spirit" of the Washington treaty; no further weakening of the regular army, and the training of all members of the national guard and the reserves who may offer themselves for service.

Opposition to Philippine independence at this time, but willingness to leave determination of the question in the hands of Congress.

Government ownership of public utilities.

A declaration of faith in the eight-hour day for labor, and a pledge to continue endeavors to eliminate the seven-day, twelve-hour week.

"BOB" FERGUSON.

who will run for the office of councillor in the Canadian Standard Efficiency Training Boys' Council elections next week.

Reaffirmation by the party of its unyielding devotion to the constitution and to the guarantee of civil, political and religious liberty therein contained.

Enactment of a federal anti-lynching law and the erection of a commission to promote mutual understanding and confidence between the races.

Increased participation of women in party councils.

Miss Eva Gibson, R. R. No. 3, suffered a badly-cut lip and severe shock when the car she was driving was struck at the corner of Horton and Waterloo streets by an Oxford street car about 6 o'clock last night.

Miss Gibson was driving south on Waterloo street at a moderate rate of speed and the street car was going east on Horton at a fast clip. DANCE RECITAL PLEASES MANY

Miss Marion Stark Presents an Attractive Program at Central Collegiate.

LOVELY COSTUMES

The large audience which was present at the Central Collegiate Institute last night was delighted with the dance recital given by Miss Marion Stark and her class of thirty-two clever little dancers. The program presented under the auspices of Abbie Invidio, C. G. I. T. Club of the First Presbyterian Church, was skillfully arranged. There were six scenes in all. First of all came the Scotch dances, with their highland costumes and merry steps. The second scene transferred the audience to France, with its French ballet and graceful costumes. The third scene was reminiscent of Cossack Russia. Scene four found the dancers in old Madrid. Scene five was back in France again, but this time the dancers appeared in the state of dress and costumes of the Versailles court. And last of all came the rollicking steps of the Irish dances, and the scene was entitled "Brin Go Brin." Several of the dances were arranged by Miss Stark herself, and showed talent in creative work.

The dancing throughout was beautifully executed to music provided by an orchestra under the direction of J. P. Fitzgerald, while Piner Soutar and his Kilt Band played the accompaniment. Miss Stark appeared several times on the program, and was received with the customary enthusiasm.

Give Special Numbers.
Special numbers on the program included a clever Scotch song by Sam Munro; a vocal number by Miss Josephine Clancy; a vocal number by Miss Gladys Tullett; the "Salors' Hornpipe" by a group of Stratford girls; very fine violin solos by Robert Rennie; the Dutch Clog, a vocal solo by Gordon Knapp; a gypsy dance, Dixie; a skipping rope dance and an Irish air by the orchestra.

The main dance program was as follows: Scotch dances—Reel O'Tullock, Highland Fling, and a Scotch Reel; French ballet, La Belle Rose; a clever little toe dance by Miss Constance Stothers; Le Secret, Jingle Bells, Narcissus by the tiny tots, and the Dance of the Butterflies. In Cossack Russia—Gopak, Kaminka and Krakewlak, the latter beautifully danced by Miss Freda Freud and Miss Marion Stark. In Old Madrid—Spanish quater, Spanish Rhumba, given by Miss Gladys Tullett and Miss Marion Stark. Versailles Court—Old Court Minuet, Marie Antoinette, Pontalambert Waltz, Mlle. de la Roche, by Misses Kathryn Davies, Jean Sutherland, Dorothy Munro, Sam Munro, Gladys Tullett, and Marion Stark; Erin Go Bragh, Rhumba, by Misses Kathryn Davies, Jean Sutherland, Dorothy Munro, Sam Munro, Vera Pounder, Frances Riddell, Jean Semple and Kenneth Smith.

The home of Mrs. G. B. Anderson, Sen., was the meeting place of the Ladies' Aid and W. M. S. of the Presbyterian Church recently when over 50 women were present. The Ladies' Aid meeting was held first, the president, Mrs. F. R. Thornton, presiding. A committee was appointed to order a special communion table and pedestal for the church. The collection and fees amounting to $4.50 was received.

The W. M. S. meeting took place immediately after the Ladies' Aid. Mrs. Walter Oliver, the president, occupied the chair. Mrs. J. H. McKay gave the Bible reading and Mrs. D. E. Walker led in prayer. It was moved and seconded that each member donate 50 cents to the society to take the place of the money usually raised through a strawberry festival. Mrs. I. H. Macdonald and the president were appointed to secure a speaker for Women's Day in September. Mrs. Chalmers and Mrs. Walter Oliver were asked to visit each of the sick and shut-in members this month. Mrs. I. H. Macdonald read an excellent report of the provincial W. M. S. held recently in Hamilton. This report was one which the president of the provincial W. M. S., Mrs. J. D. Walker, had written for the press. Two splendid papers, based on the study book, "The Island Beautiful," were given by Mrs. F. R. Thornton and Mrs. Lawrence Skinner. Mrs. Thornton's subject was "What of the Future?" and Mrs. Skinner spoke on "Social, Intellectual and Religious Hindrances to the Christian Work in Formosa." These papers impressed every one with the great need for more workers for Japan.

Mrs. Chalmers, Mrs. H. Macdonald, Mrs. Walter Oliver and Mrs. R. A. McDonald were named a committee to gain information about sending the church's own missionary, Miss Lenora Armstrong, to Japan. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the meeting and a social half hour spent over the tea cups.

TRAFALGAR MOTHERS PLAN GARDEN PARTY

Mrs. Ed. Pellow Gives Inspiring Talk on Mothers' Club Movement.

"The Mothers' Club and What It Means to the Community," was the subject of an inspiring talk given last night before the members of the new Trafalgar Mothers' Club by Mrs. Ed. Pellow. The speaker traced the growth of the mothers' club movement from its early beginnings of kindergarten mothers here in London to its present Dominion-wide development. As a climax to her talk she gave a report of the meetings of the great Home and School Federation in Toronto, and pointed out how this organization had originated with the mothers' club idea evolved in London. As an example of the most beautiful incidents in the history of the movement, Mrs. Pellow told of how the Oshawa Mothers' Club had made the entire troussau of one of the school teachers who was to be married. The teacher had no home of her own, so the mothers' club acted as her mother.

The Trafalgar Club has decided to hold a garden party, probably in the school grounds, on Wednesday night of next week. Mrs. Ed. Pellow has been appointed general convener and has, on her committee, Mrs. Mennel, Mrs. Fred Barnard, Mrs. Charles Shaw, E. Little, E. S. Little, Mrs. Mary H. Switzer, Bruce street.

The Conservative Women's Association is arranging a supper to be held Thursday evening, June 19th, in the Conservative Club rooms. The arrangements are in charge of Mrs. E. S. Little.

A FINE COMPLEXION

Can Be Had Through Keeping the Blood Rich and Pure.

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter of concealing her vanity. It is an indication of the state of her health. Pallor in a growing girl means a thinning of the blood. Eruptions mean impurities in the blood. Mothers should be watchful of their daughters' complexions, and see to it that these signs are corrected—not covered up. When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time, she shows an inclination to the east, the listless and inattention to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply, but the physical signs are plain. The girls with a bad complexion, or who suffers from occasional headaches, who is easily tired, and restless after slight exertion, should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once. A good appetite, sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks follow the fair use of this medicine.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Shall the Woman With Wits Hide Her Brilliance or Let It Shine?—The Widower With Children, or the Role of Hanger-On; Which Shall the Spinster Choose?—The Jealous Husband.

Dear Miss Dix—In a recent article you say "The woman of wits cuts her throat with her own tongue." Now, I am considered witty, and what I want to know is whether it is a blessing or a curse, so far as men are concerned? Shall I stifle my gift or give it free play with men? I would appreciate your opinion. ADMIRER.

Answer: My dear girl, wit is like a candle in your house of life. You can light up the edifice with it or you can burn it down with it. It all depends on how carefully you handle it. There is nothing more delightful than the wit that plays like a lambent flame over dull subjects and makes them bright and interesting, and nothing so terrible as the wit that is like a scorching fire that scorches everything it touches. To be agreeable, wit must be good-natured and laugh with us. There is a vast difference between that and the cruel wit that laughs at us, and, unfortunately, not many witty people know this, and so they make enemies instead of friends and people fear them and avoid them.

This is especially true of women, whose wit is apt to be of an acid nature. Once they find that they can make people laugh by saying sharp and witty things, they cannot resist the temptation. They will make an epigram at the price of losing a friend. They will stab their nearest and dearest to the heart with a speech that cuts like a two-edged sword.

To say things that hurt is not only cruel, but it is the cheapest form of wit. Any one can do it who is unfeeling enough not to care for the pain he or she inflicts, for all of us are more or less human jokes, and there is not one of us who has not peculiarities that make us look like figures of fun when we are held up to derision.

This is why men don't like witty women. They realize that the woman who makes fun of one person will make fun of another, and that every one who comes near her is grist for her mill, and so they fight shy of her. Witty things, they cannot resist the temptation. They will make an epigram at the price of losing a friend. They will stab their nearest and dearest to the heart with a speech that cuts like a two-edged sword.

Men like jolly, good-natured, humorous women; women who see the amusing side of things, but they don't like sharp-tongued, sarcastic women. Therefore, if you wish to be popular, I earnestly advise you to swallow your witisms, even if you choke on them.

And never, never joke with a man about any of his weaknesses. No man has a funny bone that you can tickle with a little pleasant about himself. He takes himself seriously, and expects a woman to do the same.

Dear Miss Dix—I am thirty-five years old, and am in love with a widower of forty-two. We were sweethearts and loved each other when we were young, but through a misunderstanding we parted, and he married another woman. He was devoted to his wife and made a good husband, but she died and left him with several children. Now he wants to marry me, but my family are bitterly opposed to my doing it on account of the children, and can never say enough against this man, although they liked him very much until he wanted to marry me.

Now my father is old, and when he dies, I will be left with nobody but my brother and his wife, and I do not wish to live with them. I love this man and I realize that my chances for getting married are very nearly over. What shall I do? Defy my family and have a sweetheart again and a good home of my own, or shall I obey their commands and live a lonely life? LONELY WOMAN.

Answer: If your widower beau is a good, honest man and you are willing to face the difficult role of a step-mother, go along and marry in spite of your family. At your time of life you have a right to decide your own fate. You are old enough to have judgment and poise and to know your own mind, and neither your father nor your brother can judge what is best for you.

They made their own lives. They married to suit themselves. They have their own homes, and it is easy enough for them to say that you should be contented living in other people's houses, being a hanger-on in other people's families and eating your own way in business.

But you know that does not content a woman. She wants something more. She wants her own man, her own place in the sun, and she must have these to make her happy. And you are quite right in thinking that this is probably your last chance at domestic happiness.

But your family is right in one thing. A woman who marries a widower with children undertakes the greatest responsibility that anyone can assume, and she runs a terrible risk of finding misery instead of the happiness she looks for. All children are troublesome and trying. All children are impudent, and ungrateful, and unappreciative. All children require ceaseless sacrifice and inexhaustible patience from those about them. Mother love enables a woman to accept the situation without faltering, but it is a difficult thing for the woman to do who has no love for the children, yet who must put up with their badness and their unreason, who must listen to their noise and complaints, who must sacrifice herself without even a thank you.

Consider well whether you have the strength to do this or not. Not many step-mothers are happy, nor are there many happy step-children. But every now and then there is a woman, big-hearted, broad-minded, who really mothers another woman's children and whose step-children rise up and bless her name.

If you are that kind of woman, you can have this consolation: that in no other field of human endeavor can you do so much good as in mothering a lot of little half-orphaned children.

Dear Miss Dix—I am married to a man who is so jealous that he makes my life a burden to me. If my hair is freshly combed when he comes home in the afternoon, he thinks I have been running around. If I stay at home, he wants to know who I am expecting. If I go out, he thinks I am going to meet somebody. He marks my clothes so that he can tell if I have had them on. He counts the envelopes to see if I have written a letter, and if any of them is gone I have to account for it. He has no right to be jealous. I am a good, faithful wife. What would you do if you were in my place? B. L.

Answer: I would go while the going was good. The man is insane, and you are foolish to let him ruin your life by his espionage and tyranny.

CHAPTER VII
A Motor Trip.

The next afternoon the host of a motor reached Desirée as she sat knitting in a secluded corner of the garden. At the sound of the approaching motor a strained expression came to her face. It must be either her uncle and cousin or Bassino.

"Who is it?" Desirée asked in a frightened voice, before the servant had time to speak. "It's the English gentleman, ma petite."

There was no mistaking the look of welcome on the little face turned toward Wilson.

"So you're none the worse for your adventure?" he said, after greeting Desirée.

"No, And you, monsieur?" she asked shyly. "I'm always flourishing nowadays. More so than ever just at present," he added, smiling at her.

Then he put three packages on the seat at her feet.

"Considering you live so far away from civilization, I thought you wouldn't be offered the brought a few cakes," he continued.

"It's very kind of you. We don't often get nice cakes up here, not like the ones I have when I go to parties with my uncle and cousin." She bent over her gifts, touching them in the nervous, short-sighted way he knew so well now.

Wilson had arranged with himself to stay an hour, but it was nearly two hours before he rose to go. When he got up to go he said:

"I'm going to take you for lunch tomorrow. Countess, to Monte Carlo, so you can expect me around with the car about half-past ten."

"Oh, no. No, thank you," she said quickly, alarm in her voice. "He had been surprised at her refusal. Her every action said she liked him, that his attentions were welcome. He had a gift for gaining the confidence of anything weaker than himself, and when he turned this talent on the girl he loved it amounted to genius."

And Wilson, who had intended to have his quick alarm in her voice. "He had been surprised at her refusal. Her every action said she liked him, that his attentions were welcome. He had a gift for gaining the confidence of anything weaker than himself, and when he turned this talent on the girl he loved it amounted to genius."

Wilson expected more of a battle over the necklace than over the invitation.

To his surprise she arose at once. "I shouldn't like it to be stolen," my uncle would be cross. "I'll fetch it at once."

When she brought it he placed it in his pocket and left, promising to be back on the morrow.

The next afternoon Wilson was driving his car carefully up a twisted lane that led to the old chateau.

The host of his horn reached Desirée as she sat on the terrace, dressed and ready with a white cloak on a chair beside her. On this occasion she did not start and tremble. Somewhere within the house a clock had just struck half-past two, and she knew who the visitor was.

When she came out he helped her into the car, into the seat next the driver's. She arranged herself in the slow way he was accustomed to now, as if she had not the strength to hurry. Seating himself beside Desirée, he set off down the drive.

CHAPTER VIII
The Gilberts.

Late that night there was the sound of a car drawing up near the terrace, followed almost immediately by a loud knock on the front door, and a few minutes later the two Gilberts entered.

Desirée turned to meet the newcomers. "I hope you had a pleasant journey with this strike on?"

"A pleasant journey!" he snapped. "How could it have been a pleasant journey with this strike on?"

Eugene came forward, flicking his leather gloves playfully against his face, yet with a sting that streaked her cheek with red and made her wince with pain.

"Well, Bassino will be here any day now, my child," he said. "So, Desirée, you're twenty-one?" the Count broke in.

"Yes, uncle."

"And did old Froillet bring you the family heirloom, according to the terms of your grandfather's will?"

"Yes, uncle."

"Then let us have a look at it. I want to see what the de Mally curse is really like," he said, a parched, covetous note in his voice.

"I'm sorry, uncle, but it isn't here. There was a moment of tense silence.

"Isn't here? What do you mean?" he asked sharply. "I showed it to an English gentleman, and he said it wasn't safe to keep it here in this lonely place. He asked me to let him look after it until you came, so I did, because I knew you wouldn't like to have it stolen."

The Count de Gilbert just stared at the girl, but Eugene laughed. "You little fool! You little fool!"

"It proves the necklace was worth having, or this Englishman wouldn't have gone off with it," Eugene remarked.

Then he turned to his cousin. "Where is he staying, Desirée, my innocent?"

"I don't know. I never asked him." "I told you that necklace would prove a fraud, but it's even more of a sell than I expected," he said, this time addressing his father.

"Isn't you to be so angry, uncle," Desirée broke in. "The gentleman is coming here tomorrow afternoon, and I know he will give you the necklace when you ask him for it."

Eugene glanced at her sharply. "You seem to know a lot about him, Desirée. If you don't know his name and address, you prefer him to Bassino, eh?"

His comment brought a flood of color to her thin cheeks, and had the Count cried savagely. "The following afternoon when Wilson entered his paradise he found the serpent there. Eugene heard Wilson's approach. He glanced round and surveyed the newcomer in a supercilious manner.

inner pockets. Although her uncle and cousin had greeted him with affability and friendliness, he did not trust them. His one idea was to get the necklace fall into their possession, and the only excuse he could think of was to pretend it was at the bank.

At his reply there was a moment's pause, and the Count de Gilbert's throat jerked with a peculiar choking movement.

"We'll come around to your hotel for it tomorrow," he said, "at about 11 in the morning."

Wilson could find no excuse for keeping it longer. "Eleven will suit me all right," he said. I shall be quite glad to get rid of the responsibility and know it's in safe keeping."

"You must stay and have chocolate with us," the elder Gilbert went on. "Or tea, if you prefer it."

Wilson looked at Desirée, hoping she would second the invitation. Since the introduction she had not addressed a word to him, the sat with her eyes downcast, knitting, and every now and again her hands stumbled over the work.

Since Desirée did not second her uncle's invitation, Wilson rose to go. It was obvious that for some reason she wanted him to go.

"I'm sorry I can't stay," he said, "but I have to be back at 4:30. So say hello to his deities."

He went back to his car at odds with the whole world. As he turned out of the garden, he saw Desirée coming along one of the tangled paths. He stopped at once, for it seemed as if she had come purposely to waylay him.

"You won't fail to let my uncle have the necklace," she said anxiously. "It seemed to Wilson that counter influences were already at work, coming between him and his ideal."

There was a brief pause. "Can I see you tomorrow morning, quite early?" he asked suddenly. "Oh, yes," she said at once. "My uncle and Eugene are never here in the morning."

"Then you can expect me between 8 and 10, so that I can get back to him in time to deliver up your necklace."

He made a mental addition—"if necessary."

If Desirée declined to accept him, Wilson intended to keep the necklace. He would then see to it that it was put where the Gilberts could not get at it.

TAX ON GASOLINE AND RESOURCES

Assessment On Bus and Truck Owners Also Favored by Officials.

SHARE LICENSES

Canadian Press Despatch. Hamilton, June 11.—A tax levy on gasoline and tires and heavy assessments on bus companies and truck owners were advocated by municipal officials who addressed the special highways committee of the legislature, who held a session here today.

J. L. Squires, deputy minister of highways, presided in the absence of the chairman, F. G. MacDermid. Warden George D. Montgomery, Warden, thought reclassification of roads would be in the interests of the province, adding that in his opinion some roads were taken over as the result of negotiations by county councils, rather than from the consideration of the service they would render the community. The government should pay for the highways, he said, and buses should be taxed and a share of the revenue given to municipalities. He favored a gasoline tax. Dundas Council members declared that the province was overloading highways, and that it was a hardship for the people to pay for them. The municipalities should get a share of automobile licenses, they argued. Connecting links should be designated as highways, and the government would pay the cost, it was suggested. Dundas members would tax the bus companies heavily. They objected to one company being given an exclusive franchise to operate cars on any one highway, explaining that an efficient service could not be given by such a system, if adopted.

Controller Morrison, Hamilton, wanted insurance on bus and truck owners to protect the passengers and the public. There were cases where provincial highways paralleled suburban commission roads, he reported, which meant a waste of money. A tire tax was favored by Controller Morrison.

People of Wentworth were feeling the pinch in paying for roads, said Road Superintendent Lumden. The government should pay the total cost of maintenance, he thought. Mention was made of the serious damage being done the highway by heavily loaded trucks. Half load months for the protection of the roads was recommended.

EXPERTS DISCUSS CANCER PATIENTS

Euthanasia Treatment Causes Disagreement At Chicago Gathering.

Chicago, June 11.—A disagreement arose among the cancer specialists this afternoon when Dr. Evan O'Neill of Kane, Pa., advocated practicing euthanasia in the cases of incurable patients. He spoke on "Euthanasia for Inoperable Cancer Cases."

Dr. William Held of Chicago, however, took exception to Dr. Kane's assertions, explaining that euthanasia in simple terms means "easy death." "If we should act upon Dr. Kane's suggestion," he said, "and arrogate unto ourselves the divine right to extinguish that unfathomable something called 'life,' and should find tomorrow that cancer is curable, we could not recall them from the other side of the curtain. Have killed, for killing it is, and nothing else."

A new means of resuscitation, which has saved hundreds of lives and prevented severe illnesses, was described before the regular convention by Professor Vandell Henderson of Yale University. His theory is based on mixing carbon dioxide with oxygen when applied to persons affected by smoke or asphyxiating gases. Experimenters who had used said that the use of pure oxygen tends to retard respiration and often results in complete collapse.

The speaker then called mythology by Dr. Clarence A. McWilliams, New York surgeon, in an address delivered before the surgery section. Rules for resuscitation after electric shock were prepared by Wills MacLachlan of the National Electric Light Association, and Prof. H. N. Cole of Western Reserve University deplored the increasing use of cosmetics.

This generation of jazz was blamed for the increase in the prevalence of gonorrhea by G. N. McWilliams, who said half of the women and girls in the middle west are afflicted.

Three Thousand Swayed By Joy's Sceptre As Lobo Holds Annual Celebration

Old Boys' Reunion and Picnic At Poplar Hill Is Successful.

CHILDREN PARADE Baby Show and Races Feature —But Rain Spoils Baseball.

On a bright summer day 34 years ago, 500 happy children with their parents and their friends gathered about Campbell's Grove, to enjoy the first school picnic held at Poplar Hill. With each passing year the picnic has increased in popularity and attractiveness.

Yesterday over 3,000 supremely happy people gathered at the historic spot, forgot the cares of home and school and business, and just lived for a day of fun and frolic. From early morning until early evening a steady stream of traffic made its way to Lobo's Memorial Park, where school children and old boys of Lobo Township united to form one of the happiest groups of young and old folks that could be imagined.

Cars loaded with merry picnicers and heavy with hampers came in from all directions and parked wheel to wheel in a solid wall around the park, horses and buggies made their way through the lanes of trees and came to rest in the meadows beyond the park. Then everybody started right in to enjoy the day. The formalities were cast aside, introductions were unnecessary. It was just one happy family gathering.

Lemonade, Peanuts, Etc. Balloons, ice cream cones, lemonade, peanuts, huge bricks of popcorn, good things to eat, and loud pleasant folks to laugh with and talk to; merry jests for the youngsters, old stories of old times, and fond reminiscences for those who knew the picnics of the old days.

It rained, 'tis true, it rained in torrents for a little while, but that was only an incident. The sun shone brightly before and after the deluge, so that the cloudburst only served as a breathing spell, a slight intermission in the day's excitement. The grand parade of the school children was the first of the attractive events of the day. The boys and girls of eleven schools were marched in picturesque costumes and garbed in picture-book costumes, and the London Kilts Band. Here the fairy-like costumes of the children blended with the delicate tints of the blossoming trees to make a picture lovely in its sheer beauty and wholesomeness.

After the procession a space was cleared on the lawn among the apple trees and the races were run. A medley of cheering, laughing voices greeted each event as the kiddies ran off the foot, and the ever popular, side-splitting obstacle races.

Then It Rained. While this event held a crowd that was the largest of the day, the rain came between Delaware and Ilderton delighted a grandstand crowd of fans, who watched four innings of snappy ball.

And then it rained. Towards 3 o'clock the dark clouds that had been coming from the west rolled up in a bank of purple, streaked with flashing forks of lightning. Then the warning roar of thunder, the falling darkness, the scurry for tents, a sprint for the cars, a mad rush into the shelter of the ice cream booths or the grandstand, and the field was left free to the downpour. No one suffered, though, and shortly after four it cleared. The sun came out, and the papers played. The soft drinks and peanuts were again in demand. Children ran to and fro, and the sun shone brightly on the baby clinic tent, where the wallings spoke of the competition within.

Babies Were Priceless. Two marquees housed the priceless babies. There were chuckling babies that put forth tiny hands to clutch the uniforms of smiling nurses, babies so disinterested that they slept peacefully throughout the show, babies who showed the greatest pleasure for the whole program by crying lustily throughout the judging. There were girls babies and boys babies, and babies with curly hair and babies with hardly any hair at all, babies rocked to and fro, and babies who, mothers smiling contentedly, babies looking upon their future playmates and cooing brightly, babies so downright healthy that they could sit up on the doctor's face and said "Poo-hoo, poo-hoo!"

Ruth Bycraft, charming infant daughter of Mrs. E. D. Bycraft, was the first baby on the grounds. The little lady was indeed a beauty, a wee bundle of physical perfection and cheerful good nature. She was the first baby to be judged, and she was judged by the mothers, who were smiling contentedly, babies looking upon their future playmates and cooing brightly, babies so downright healthy that they could sit up on the doctor's face and said "Poo-hoo, poo-hoo!"

The prize winners were: Neil Gilbert McLean, Ilderton; second, Jack Graham, Komoka; class, seven to fourteen months, first, Lena Higgs, Hyde Park; second, Marion Hughes, Ilderton.

Dr. Harold Little was the doctor in charge. The child welfare department of London was represented by Mrs. J. L. Stapleton and Miss Fraser. The provincial board of health was represented by Miss M. J. Riddle.

Here Comes the Parade. In the parade of school children, Coldstream was judged the winner of the first prize, Bear Creek took second, Lobo third and Poplar Hill fourth. The judges were Col. B. Robinson, Ilderton; Major Snellgrove, Byron; and McGugan, Lobo; Miss S. V. Williamson, Union; Miss S. Switzer, Poplar Hill; Basil Wilson, No. 1 Union School; Miss Eva Bloomfield.

In the second contest, for schools of less than fifteen, Shipley, taught by Miss Annie Robinson, came first, and McDougalls, in charge of Miss Fern, came second. The first school picnic at Poplar Hill was held in 1890 in Campbell's Grove, just across the road from the present Memorial Park. It was there that the late Dr. M. Glass, a physician who practiced his profession

West Rejoices As Sun Shines

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, June 11.—Clear skies and higher temperature prevail throughout Western Canada today, and the farmers are rejoicing in the prospects. Agricultural authorities are of the opinion that the lateness of the season will prove necessarily a handicap to a good crop if weather is seasonably favorable from this time. All districts have had ample moisture for the time being.

for over thirty years in that district, helped to make the first picnic a success, and followed it up with thirty years of service on the school picnic board. Among those present today was D. T. Gray, who made the ice cream for the first picnic. Thirty gallons of ice cream was placed before the picnicers of Lobo Township, a lot in those days, but a mere trifle as measured by the truckloads that tickled the palates of the thousands of children who attended yesterday's celebration.

Rain Interferes. Delaware and Ilderton, both teams members of the West Middlesex Baseball League, began a game of ball despite dark, lowering skies. For four innings the game was as pretty an exhibition as could be desired, neither side being able to cross the platter, due to the fine twirling and the air-tight support accorded both pitchers. With darkness growing in the first half of the fifth inning Smith, the Delaware pitcher, wavered and his support wobbled. Ilderton pushed five runs across. Two were out when the rain arrived in a torrential storm. The game was called and the crowd fled in haste for shelter.

SEVEN-YEAR TERM FOR HOLD-UP MAN

George Trach Sentenced At Woodstock For Robbery At Beachville Plant.

Woodstock, June 11.—His Honor Judge Judd sentenced George Trach to a term of seven years in the Portsmouth Penitentiary on a charge of assisting in the holdup of the Standard White Lime Company at Beachville on December 3 last, when $3,400 was secured. Trach wept bitterly.

The accused, when placed in the witness-box, said that he lived in St. Catharines and was not in Beachville or Woodstock on the day in question. Regarding the robbery he staunchly denied having been implicated. Roy Martin, an employee of the New Central Garage, this city, swore that Trach purchased oil and gasoline from him a short time previous to the holdup. Miss Frances Lazenby and Thomas Meyer, who were in the office at the time of the holdup, said that a few minutes after they had made up the payroll, two men, with pistols in their hands, entered the office. The shorter of the two, whom both identified as the prisoner, took $200 from the safe and the payroll, amounting to $3,200, from a tray on the table. The taller man stood guard in the doorway.

Arthur Guzel, the crown star witness, who was arrested in Windsor several weeks ago for having failed to appear at the preliminary hearing, told that Trach asking for the use of his car that he may rob a lime company. Guzel requested permission to leave the courtroom, and then he did not stop till Provincial Constable Hugh Fraser shot him, by which time he had run behind a house, several hundred yards west of the court house. Guzel was rearrested and he was taken to Dundas tomorrow where he is to face a charge of having robbed a street car conductor in 1918.

Witnesses at the trial were: Thomas and Victor Fisher, of Fisher of Beachville; Roy Martin of this city; Arthur Guzel, Ford City; Charles Stevenson, Ingersoll; John O'Hock of Brantford; Edward Shearon, Ingersoll; Frances Lazenby of Ingersoll; James Todd of Beachville, and George Breury, Ingersoll.

H. J. DALY WAS UNAWARE OF CONDITION OF BANK

Brother-in-Law Declares Failure Came as Shock to President.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, June 11.—H. J. Daly, president of the suspended HomeBank of Canada, who died on Monday after a long illness, did not know of the shaky condition of that institution, according to a statement of his brother-in-law, Albert Middleton, to a newspaper here today. Mr. Middleton said that the news that the bank was about to close its doors reached Mr. Daly as a shock, while he was holidaying for his health, near Sudbury, Ont. The fact that the wife of the president just a few days before the suspension made quite a large deposit in the bank is offered as corroboration of the foregoing.

RUSSELL SCOTT CONFESSES MURDERING CLERK IN CHICAGO

Prosecution Demands Death Penalty For Former Ontario Stockbroker.

Chicago, June 11.—Russell Scott, who with his brother, Robert Scott, are jointly indicted for the murder of Joseph Maurer, clerk at the City Hall Pharmacy, entered a plea of guilty today before Judge William Lindsay, in the criminal court. The judge began hearing evidence to determine the punishment. The prosecution, resting upon the death penalty, even though the defendant is entering a plea of guilty. Robert Scott, the younger brother, has never been indicted. Charles H. Edison, the proprietor of the drug store, where the murder occurred, was fined $50 for contempt of court while testifying for the State Attorney Stanton, who is representing Scott, was cross-examining Edison, and among the questions he asked were the following:

"Isn't it a fact that Robert Scott sold whiskey for you by the case?" "No, sir," shouted the witness. He then asked him if it wasn't a fact that the Scotts had a highball in the place just prior to the killing and when witness shouted 'It's a d—' Judge Lindsay fined him $50 for interrupting. Edison said that he has not handled liquor of any kind in the store for over a year.

The Scott brothers went into the drug store on April 2 and herded the patrons in the prescription room into the basement. There was a scuffle upstairs and Russell Scott came running up the stairs, carrying a gun. He thereafter the shots were fired and the cash register was rifled of $350. Scott's parents live in Cleveland and he has been in the stock and bond business in Toronto, London and Windsor, until he went into bankruptcy.

Charles Edison, proprietor of the drug store, from the stand identified Russell T. Scott as one of the bandits who participated in the murder in the store. He told how bandits entered, how he was forced into the basement and of hearing shots in the room above. His testimony was corroborated by Floyd K. Pinkney, 223 Scott Ridge, 408 Oak Park, Ill., who was a customer in the store at the time of the murder. Pinkney also identified Scott.

CURB TERMINAL ELEVATORS.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, June 11.—Legislation to "curb" terminal elevators was urged in the House tonight by O. E. Gould, Progressive member for Assiniboia. Mr. Gould complained that the terminal elevators at Port William were making excessive profits.

POSTIES ENRAGED OVER DECREASE

Clerks Ask Resignation Acceptance or Transference To Another Department.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, June 11.—"Accept our resignations, or allow us to transfer to another department where we will not be obliged to accept a decrease of $200 each year," was the declaration of a group of postal clerks engaged in the inspection branch of the Toronto postoffice in a memorial sent to Ottawa tonight bearing on the recent wage award of the civil service commission, and approved by the Dominion government.

This memorial was the first official sign that all is not well at the Toronto postoffice, over the wage awards, but whether there will be a general strike is another question. There are murmurings and a general feeling of dissatisfaction over the award, and there is a very definite demand for further negotiations with the government.

Gordon R. Jackson, chairman of the railway mail clerks, the Canadian Postal Federation of Canada, who has been in Ottawa continuously since the negotiations with the government began, is the man who looked for the workers for leadership. A well-known railway mail clerk said tonight that with their maximum wage up to $3,000 a year, the postal clerks of one cent, railway mail clerks will be fairly disposed to accept the award in their instance. What action a move strike nature will have generally upon the federation cannot even be guessed at. At the present time each branch of the service is studying that part of the award which affects them, and it may be 48 hours before any statement is issued that looks like joint action.

RIDINGS CHANGED IN CITY OF LONDON

West Middlesex Remains In-tact As Ottawa Plans Readjustment.

SEVEN ABOLISHED

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, June 11.—Good progress is now reported from the redistribution committee, and it is expected that the bill will be ready for presentation to the House before long. A meeting of the general committee was held today, at which the progress made in a number of provinces was set before the full membership.

The most hopeful sign is the drafting of a tentative plan for Ontario in the sub-committee on that province. Owing to the fact that there are changes in over 60 of the Ontario ridings, the final work of all of the details is a matter of great intricacy, but it is likely that the sub-committee will come to a final decision in a few days.

The general arrangements as regards Toronto and Hamilton have already been made public.

In the case of London, the other chief city of the province, it is understood there have been considerable changes. Taking the whole country of Middlesex, a west riding is left unchanged, while East Middlesex and London are largely re-adjusted.

Plans before the sub-committee provide for the elimination of seven electoral districts in Ontario with the creation of seven new districts. The new electoral districts are: Northern Ontario—Kenora and Rainy River; Temiskaming South, Essex Peninsula—Essex West, Niagara Peninsula—Niagara, Toronto City—Three new seats. It is proposed to amalgamate the following districts: The two Elgins and Norfolk, Frontenac and Lennox and Addington to form one riding; Peterboro East and Peterboro West and Hastings West; Huron North and Bruce South to form one riding; Dufferin with Simcoe South; Ontario North with Ontario South and Muskoka; York East with the city of Toronto and York South.

Of the 82 Ontario divisions 26 only remain unchanged.

The redistribution situation, particularly in regard to Ontario, was it is understood, under consideration by cabinet today.

MEIGHEN AND KING RAPPED IN BRITAIN

Remarks Made On Lausanne Treaty Scored by London Paper.

Associated Press Despatch. London, June 11.—The Evening Standard, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, in an editorial on the gravest of the remarks of Premier Mackenzie King and Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, in the Canadian House of Commons early this week, during the debate on the Lausanne treaty says:

"The difficulties of a common foreign policy for the empire now are enormous, and while we must be reminded that the empire is a world power, rather than a world power, the Dominion must not get the stern geographical fact that makes the center of the empire vitally interested in the vicissitudes of Europe, which for some generations to come may still be the decisive factor in world politics."

The editorial is a thinking imperialist, in the main, a British necessity. We must get out of the habit of insular preoccupation and cease to imagine that our political decisions are limited in their effects to these islands. Otherwise misunderstandings will accumulate, and the solution of great imperial problems will become yearly more difficult."

PREFERENCE DISCUSSED.

Associated Press Despatch. London, June 11.—After-dinner oratory by high commissioners in London on other subjects, the Canadian high commissioner, Hon. P. C. Laing, who rarely expresses opinions on political matters in public, just now almost invariably is concerned with the imperial preference question, and disappointment is being expressed by the high commissioners of the dominions at the attitude of the home government towards the imperial economic conference resolutions.

"If the dominions fail to get the treatment to which they are entitled, there are plenty of other countries ready to give them," Sir E. Walter South African high commissioner asserted when speaking at a dinner last night.

Sir Joseph Cook, Australian high commissioner, at the same function expressed the opinion that preference was in the air, and he hoped it would come out in the rather thick atmosphere, and Great Britain would ease putting the dominions on an equality with foreign competitors.

Greater Than a Gerrymander.

The London Free Press can see only one thing in any attempt at redistribution, and that is a political gerrymander that will enable the King government to remain in power by eliciting and cutting ridings. It ignores the fact that there are representatives of three political parties at Ottawa on the redistribution committee, and that they have been in session for months trying to work out a system that will be fair to all concerned.

The Free Press quotes J. P. Moore as saying that the proposal to equalize the ridings of London and East Middlesex "is simply a crime." He continues that the people will be so incensed that both ridings will return Conservatives. From his point of view, then, there does not appear to be much to worry about.

Apart from the angle of political bias, has Mr. Moore any suggestion to make about equalizing the riding of East Middlesex, which, with a population of 27,994 by the 1921 census, has a member, while London, with 53,838 at the same census, has also one member?

A political gerrymander is the last thing anyone desires, nor should the word be used until the report of the committee has been presented, and it has become apparent that some such thing has been attempted.

Securing a fair redistribution of Ontario seats is in itself a serious problem. It is more serious in several ways than any political consideration can be, because by our present system of giving representation we work on the basis of population, which gives increased voice and power to the larger centers of population, and takes it away from the rural ridings and the smaller municipalities.

A proper conception of this problem makes the use of the word gerrymander and the persistent striving for political advantage fall clumsily into the background where they rightly belong.

The drift of population in Ontario in recent years has been away from the farms, away from the villages and away from many of the towns. It is not a desirable state of affairs from many angles. It is producing many of the unemployment problems that the cities have to face. It is making it harder for the farms to compete in the matter of securing labor.

The cities themselves are feeling the effect power of the districts around them is not as great as it was, and cities are no better off than the district which they serve. There are limits to the power of any center of population to take in people and sustain them, and cities now are holding too many people who are not performing any necessary service. They have managed to attach themselves in some capacity to the line between producer and consumer, and there they stay. In too many cases they simply make the producer get less and the consumer pay more.

When redistribution comes on a basis of population only, the seal of official approval is given to this movement from the land toward the cities. It makes the rural communities less powerful in the places where our laws are made and where the policies of the country are decided upon. It makes the people who have a real problem, out in these depopulated areas, less able to voice their case and secure the redress they are entitled to and which they must have if we are to secure a well-balanced scale of advantage between city and country.

The Advertiser considers that this question is so important as to take precedence over all others. It makes the idea of a political gerrymander for either party look woefully out of place. It is a national issue as opposed to a political consideration, and in such a case the national must take absolute control of the consideration. It can be frankly admitted that the question of protecting the rural ridings against the growing cities, when working on a basis of population, is a hard question to answer, but the fact that it is hard makes it all the more imperative that it receive its proper hearing. It must not be injured by the small party cry of "gerrymander" in advance of any official report from the committee.

No Monopoly On Real Royalty.

Prince Viggo of Denmark has married a New York girl, and for so doing renounced his right to the Danish throne because his wife is not of royal blood.

This is in keeping with the customs of the country, and that is the only point from which it can be tolerated.

It is out of keeping with 1924. The qualities of real royalty are greater than the accident of birth.

Real royalty is a quality of heart and mind; it is not the exclusive property of a few chosen families, nor is it confined within palaces or castles.

President Coolidge and Party Discipline

President Coolidge plans to clean house as far as the Republican party is concerned. Advice state that he has lost patience with many of the men who, while labelled Republicans, insist on "taking their own course in important party matters without regard to the wishes of the Coolidge administration."

President Coolidge is not the first political leader to face such a problem, nor will he be the last. Leadership today may or may not be what it was a few years ago, but the followers are certainly not as docile as they used to be.

In proof of this it is possible to turn to any country where an active system is in use.

France and Germany have such a plethora of parties that it is difficult to secure enough leaders of sufficient size to register the dominance or guidance of leadership on their erstwhile followers. In Britain the old two-party system has gone; the Liberals have two leaders, and there are more factions than that in the Labor party.

So President Coolidge has lots of company if he finds his men will not stand still long enough to let the political paint get dry. He finds his Republicans scampering off in lanes that are politically dangerous, and by the time he gets his shepherd's crook around their erring necks he learns that they have been worshipping false idols and eating meat that has been offered to strange gods.

If he feels strong in the saddle he may go ahead and rebuild the party fences; he may do so well that his people will nibble the dry grass of their own plot and never long for the green pastures of independence. But if he does this successfully he will become so much of a drill sergeant that he won't have any time left to be president.

That Orangeville Case.

Attorney-General Nickle has over-riden the finding of James Hales, K.C., Ontario license commissioner, in connection with the methods employed in an O. T. A. case at Orangeville, where boys from a high school were used by officers of the department in securing a conviction.

There was some conflicting evidence in the case, but the attorney-general saw fit to give the benefit of the doubt to the story of the high school pupils who bought a bottle of whiskey as evidence and then tasted it along with the officers.

Prosecutions under the O. T. A. cannot be carried on in this way. If the officers employed are not efficient enough they have no right to call in the aid of schoolboys, one of whom was under the age of 16 years.

We are inclined to believe that the attorney-general was right in his decision to do away with the services of the two officers involved.

Forgiving the Wife-Beater.

A foreigner in the Hamilton police court was convicted of wife-beating, and faced a sentence which would have included the lash and a jail term. He was saved by the plea of his wife, who stated that she wished to forgive him.

That woman is a foreigner, but possessed a spirit of forgiveness and the fine heart qualities of womanhood.

There may be some doubt about the advisability of forgiving a wife-beater; it might be much better for him to taste the sort of punishment he was accustomed to inflict upon a person not able to resist it.

Yet the plea of his wife, a foreigner, that he be forgiven stands out higher than all our conceptions of punishment and of justice.

That clubbing foreigner has a better wife than she has a husband.

Rum Runners Want More Pay.

Rum runners on the Atlantic coast want more pay. At present they are working for $1 per case landed, but now they want $2 per case. The reason assigned is that the government boats are shooting real shots at them, and they are in danger of getting hit. They argue that it is no fun getting hit with a shell.

The rum runners should appeal to their government to investigate their case. It would be scarcely less amazing than the appeal of an Ontario bootlegger to the courts at Ottawa that he should pay no income tax on the money gained in illegal business.

Note and Comment.

Prisoners in the county jail at St. Catharines may smoke while exercising in the yards. What an active lot there will be around the premises now.

A three weeks' quarantine faces those who enter Detroit without having been vaccinated. That will put a crimp in smuggling faster than any measure yet attempted.

Brantford City Council granted a permit to sell soft drinks on the market square. Brantford's city hall, on this same square, looks as though something a little stronger might help it.

A farm hand who worked near Chatham is charged with the theft of a wagon, two walking plows, a team of horses, sugar beet rack and other implements. It was surely an oversight on his part that he overlooked the barn and the driveway.

London Liberals are fortunate in having secured George W. Kyte, K.C., chief Liberal whip, as the speaker for Saturday night's rally at Hyman Hall. The Liberal whip is a well-informed man, a forceful debater, and well able to give an adequate report on the work of the session.

Printers of Ontario and Quebec unions start their sessions in London today. There will be business sessions and intervals for pleasure. May they have a good time, escaping the "lock-up," and may none of them be "off his feet." Let their views be "planer" than 72-point Gothic, having no blank lines in their form. And last, but not least, may they take Mr. Etain-shdlu-cmfwp and escort him for all time to come from this fair city.

J. F. Roberts, of Parkhill, has been appointed registrar and treasurer of the College of Pharmacy, Toronto. The one regrettable thing is that it will necessitate his removal from the town to Toronto. Mr. Roberts has been a good citizen of Parkhill for at least 35 years, and is of the type that make the towns of Ontario good places in which to live. Keenly interested in sports, "Jim" Roberts was an old lacrosse player; he served his town in many ways of municipal activity. He is one of the few remaining businessmen in town that the "old boys" knew and delighted to see again. Toronto gets a good citizen, but then Toronto does not need him as much as his own town of Parkhill.

MAY DAY

Once a year it is the custom to set aside one day as Memorial Day.

This was originally to keep the memory green of those who had died in war. The day has expanded its purpose, however, and has come to include those who have died from any cause.

It is of human nature to die. No man can escape the penalty of the common lot; as Victor Hugo says in his tremendous way, "Nous sommes tous condamnés." We are all under sentence of death and awaiting the executioner.

That nation has advanced far in civilization that respects the works and achievements of its ancestors. The progress of any people may be known by the character of its tombs. We are all living upon dead men's labors. The discovery of the sewing machine, the electric telegraph and other wonders is due to men now dead.

We are standing upon the shoulders of preceding generations.

Confucius said that the beginning of knowledge is to acquaint one's self with what has gone before. A little study of history would help many a man who thinks he has discovered some new truth. It would do him no harm and his fellows less, to know that a thousand years before he was born others had enunciated his idea and tried to carry it out.

The past is a great sea of wisdom from which we may all draw water.

Of course we do not have to go as far as the Chinese, and set up ancestor worship, but it is easy to fall into the equal error of despising our predecessors.

To those who have gone before us it is but right that we should give their due. Their wisdom and their experience may be of benefit to us. But we should live for the future.

Americans are accused of overvaluing their progeny and neglecting their ancestors. There is such a thing as living for those who are to come, at the same time not neglecting those who have preceded us.

Therefore the tulip and the rose may well bloom today over the dead, while out of their mold comes the lily and the hyacinth for those who are still to come.

It Spoils the Picnics

This be the time of year once more when folks have picnics every day, when them with crippled joints and limbs crawl from their hut to hop and play.

They call upon the folks they know to park a goodly slice of grub, they wander six miles from their home and stop beside some friendly shrub.

'Tis then the spirit of a child runs riot with a 62, who thinks that he can skip and hop like what he did in '82.

It is a pleasant thing to watch the youngsters gallop on the green, they have enough of life and pep to keep 100 pounds of steam.

The gay galoot with pants of duck, he is a treat unto the eye, he cracks his jokes, all six years old, he sits upon a custard pie.

And all the time there is one class who dread to see the program's pace, they know that each event therein brings nearer on the fat man's race. These portly souls take to the woods, and hide behind a burdock tree, a-dreadin' for to face the time when starters count out one, two, three.

At last they haul 'em from the bush, each puffin' carcass toes the scratch, a-cursin' at the thought of them who thought to picnic with this batch. And folks they stand upon the side, they grin to see this torture stuff, the fates would give ten bones apiece to swat 'em up and use 'em rough.

So there they go, those heavy men, as graceful as a flock of geese, and from each hide there oozes forth great chunks of life, and groans and grease.

Their speed is like a water cart, it is a mad and killing pace, the classic of a hundred years, this fat man's summer picnic race.

I'd like to catch the chap who first invented races such as that. I'd chase him with a big meat axe and beat him with a baseball bat. And then I'd find a padded cell and lock him in his rightful place, the sap head, lunatic and fiend who first called for a fat man's race.—ARK.

Growing Selfish Now?

(From the Great Bend Tribune)

The old-fashioned neighborliness and interest in others seems to be dying out. One Great Bend woman watched people going to the cemetery Memorial Day and there seemed to be an unusual number walking. And scores of cars whizzed by the pedestrians, most of them with room for one or two or more in them, and she saw only two cars stop while the driver offered pedestrians a ride. One woman trudged along for blocks carrying a baby on one arm and a lot of flowers in the other, and not an autoist stopped to offer them a ride. Three women went by, two of them carrying a big basket of flowers, and in the several blocks they remained in sight none of the man cars passing offered a ride. That couldn't have happened a few years ago. People were more generous then.

When 70 beats 50

Have you ever met these two men? They are real people, and their cases are well known to their friends.

One of them has just turned seventy. He is a genial, cheery individual, glowing with health, almost as active now as ever he was. His golf handicap is 9, and he plays to it.

EVER SINCE HE WAS THIRTY HE HAS TAKEN KRUSCHEN SALTS

The other, who is twenty years younger, is the sort of man who is said to be "too old at fifty." He is tired of life; you can see that by the lackadaisical way he goes about his occupations. Success has always eluded his grasp. He has lost the capacity for enjoying himself.

THIS MAN DOES NOT TAKE KRUSCHEN

The most interesting feature of these two cases is that nature originally endowed the younger man with the better constitution of the two; for the other actually started life with an inherited tendency to rheumatism and gout, of which he now shows no signs at all.

It is unnecessary to labour the obvious moral that the man who has acquired the healthy Kruschen habit can nearly always give points to the man who has not, in spite of the handicap of age and natural constitution.

Make the experiment yourself. Take that tiny pinch of Kruschen Salts—as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece—every morning in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. You won't be able to taste it, but in a few days you will begin to notice its effects. Your liver and kidneys will be gently, but effectively, stimulated to perform their proper function—regularly, adequately. All the waste matter that has been clogging your system will be removed. New, pure blood will be set coursing through your body; you will feel refreshed in body and mind, glowing with a new sense of health and fitness, you will be a different person altogether.

And then you will wonder how you ever existed in the old days before you began to take Kruschen.

Tasteless in Coffee or Tea

Put as much in your breakfast cup as will lie on a 10 cent piece. It's the little daily pinch that does it.

FEEL BETTER IN FEW HOURS OR NO COST!

This is the time of year when your liver becomes sluggish and your intestines become clogged up with poisonous waste. Your liver does not properly purify blood that flows to your skin. The result is sallow complexion, dark circles and pimples. As these poisons continue to flood your system, your resistance is lowered, you feel dull and tired and sick.

Make this test: Cleanse and tone your liver with Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup. Contains pure ingredients prescribed by Physicians. Helps nature strengthen your stomach, soothe tired and over-taxed nerves, brace up system and purify your blood. Notice quick difference in way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You too will be satisfied, as others have, or no cost.

Dr. Thacher's is sold and recommended by Dr. A. Mitchell, 114 Dundas St., Taylor's Drug Store, 330 Richmond St., half block south of Dundas, in London; J. W. Craig, in Dresden; E. M. Crow, thwaites and W. A. McIntyre in St. Marys; John E. Warner in Alvinston.

MRS. ARTHUR HARDY DIES AT WELLESLEY

Widow of Former Ontario Premier Passes Away in 77th Year.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 11.—The death occurred today at Wellesley of Mrs. Arthur Hardy, widow of the late A. S. Hardy, one time premier of Ontario. Mrs. Hardy was in her 77th year. For several years past, since the death of her husband, she had been living here in apartments.

She was a daughter of the late Hon. Joseph Curran Morrison, receiver-general in the government of Sir John A. Macdonald, and later judge of the court of appeal of Ontario. She lived in Brantford until the appointment of her husband to the premiership of Ontario at the head of the Liberal government in 1893. Since that time she had been continuously a resident of this city. Two children have predeceased her and two sons survive, Senator A. C. Hardy of Brockville and Dr. Patrick Hardy of Toronto.

The funeral will be held privately at 10 o'clock on Friday afternoon, with interment in Greenwood Cemetery, Brantford.

MORE BEER THAN EVER.
Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 11.—More beer and hard liquors were manufactured in Canada in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1924, than in any of the previous eight years. It is shown in a return brought down in the House of Commons today to a question.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, charcoal, drags and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, or milk, but the pure Bisurated Magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or take compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach, which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little Bisurated Magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow, and moreover, the continued use of this bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.—Advt.

A. Y. P. A. PICNIC IS HELD AT PORT

London and St. Thomas Organizations Unite in First Annual Event.

Anglican young people of St. Thomas joined with those of London yesterday in the first annual picnic held at Port Stanley under the auspices of the A. Y. P. A. local council. A serious storm in the city was responsible for an attendance greatly less than the 600 expected. Weather conditions were better at Port Stanley, but enough rain blew in off the lake to spoil the afternoon's sports, only a small portion of which were carried out. Sports were engineered by W. McCauley, president of the St. Thomas local council. Other arrangements were capably handled by Miss Lillian Moss and Mr. W. Duddridge, respectively, secretary and president of the London local council.

In the evening a number of the young people stayed for the garden party and social held at Hillcrest Inn, under the auspices of the Guild of Christ Church, Port Stanley.

Winners in the races were: Relay race—Evelyn Smith and W. Oke of London, O. Hastings and Irene Richardson of St. Thomas.

Blindfold contest—Winnie Dunston and H. Skellett, Thelma Bamford and Norman Campbell, all of London.

Balloon blowing contest—Constance Pearson and Myrtle Richmond of London.

Other races had to be abandoned owing to the weather.

ELECTRIFICATION OF C. N. R. URGED

Perth County Farmers Also
Call For St. Lawrence
Deepening.

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, June 11.—When the Ontario government agricultural inquiry board met in the city hall here this afternoon, it received a number of suggestions from Perth County farmers, who gathered to the number of 150. More intensive promotion of co-operative marketing was urged, while other suggestions included the establishment of a series of government egg-grading stations throughout the province, the electrification of the C. N. R. to give better shipping facilities between this district and Toronto, the bringing of hydro power through the rural districts at cheap rates, the deepening of the St. Lawrence, so that chilled beef could be sent overseas direct from Toronto, the establishment of cheese boards, and careful selection and treatment of immigrants.

John Ballantyne, a prominent milk producer, claimed that the price of cheese brought a hardship on the dairy farmer.

C. J. Newbiggin of Atwood, also a milk producer, spoke on the difficulty of storing feed for cattle for eight months of the year. Mr. Newbiggin is a member of a co-operative cheese factory at Listowel which handles the milk supply of about 100 farmers.

"We get about 16 cents a pound for cheese, and the consumer pays about 32 cents," he said. "Our last sale brought us 14½ cents."

Beef Cattle.

James More of Kirkton opened the discussion on beef cattle. He touched on the prices of 1922, when stockers were bought in the spring at seven cents, and sold it in the fall for only 7½ cents. In 1923, stockers were bought at 6½ cents in the spring and sold in the fall at 6 cents. Mr. More expressed the very urgent need for co-operative organization, through which such a situation could be relieved.

John Dunbar of St. Marys urged the deepening of the St. Lawrence, so that cattle could be shipped directly overseas from Toronto. He also urged that the Canadian National Railway be electrified, so that cattle could be shipped to Toronto in three or four hours, instead of a day, as at present.

Women's Side.

The case on behalf of the farm woman was very ably presented by Mrs. M. H. Switzer, who declared that there is unfair discrimination against the farmer, in that his products are watched more closely by the law, than are those of the manufacturer.

"If the farmer dilutes his milk or his maple syrup he is fined, yet a manufacturer of woolen goods could put 40 per cent cotton in his goods and sell it for pure wool, and a shoe manufacturer could put brown paper into boots and sell them for leather ones," she declared.

"The lot of the farm woman is a hard one," she added, pointing out that in addition to doing all the ordinary house work of the city woman, and looking after her chickens and other odd chores she often goes into the fields to help.

She said that a short time ago uncooked pork was sold by a St. Marys butcher for 65 cents per pound, while pigs at the same time brought the farmer 7½ cents per pound. Mrs. Switzer thought that such a difference between the two prices was obviously unfair.

Mrs. Switzer was warmly applauded when she declared with vehemence her feeling that those responsible for the failure of the Home Bank of Canada ought to be severely punished.

Egg Grading.

Chicken farming and its problems were dealt with by Col. T. G. Delamere of Stratford. He declared that the grading of eggs as now carried on is working a hardship on the farmers. He claimed that the farmer sold his eggs as "firsts," and these same eggs were then very often resold as "specials."

D. A. Dempsey was the chief exponent on the topic of mixed farming. He urged that anyone doing mixed farming should have a specialty, and declared that dairying was the root of mixed farming.

J. Goodwin complained that the farmers could not pass on the increased cost of farm machinery.

W. B. Struthers of Milverton, talking on immigration, quoted specific instances where immigrants had been brought here expecting $60 and $70 a month, and being disappointed, left the country.

Theodore Wagner, North Easthope, urged the abolition of all tariffs.

FIVE "FARM" FAMILIES TO ARRIVE NEXT WEEK

John Farrell of the Immigration department announced Tuesday that five "experienced farm families" would arrive from the British Isles next week. Two families from Scotland have already arrived this week, and no difficulty was found in securing positions for them.

Mr. Farrell stated that the demand for farm help was still quite strong and no trouble was found in getting jobs for immigrants.

BILL FOR CHURCH UNION IS AGAIN BEFORE HOUSE

Committee Finds Motion To Rescind Amendments Is Out of Order.

IS - REPORTED BACK

Unionists Will Now Wage Fight On Floor of House.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, June 11.—The bill to provide for the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Churches has now been reported by the private bills committee, and is again before the House of Commons. The bill has been amended by the private bills committee in a number of particulars, but the change which caused most debate was that union provides that the act shall not come into operation until and unless the courts decide that the Presbyterian general assembly had authority to agree to union and the bill is not beyond the jurisdiction of parliament.

Two efforts were made today to have this amendment rescinded, but both motions were ruled out of order. A motion was passed, however, to include in the report of the committee a resolution of the House to rescind, and this will bring the whole issue before the House, where the effort to strike out the amendment is to be renewed.

Ruled Out of Order.

This motion was ruled out of order by Chairman McGivern on the same grounds as he had ruled out this morning a direct motion to rescind the amendment. He explained, however, that the motion could be reported to the House as part of the proceedings of the committee.

Mr. Brown accordingly accepted the suggestion of the chair and the motion was carried. In accordance with this decision the report of the committee will include the following declaration, which is the text of the Brown resolution:

"Whereas one of the objects in seeking legislation in connection with the union of the negotiating churches was to avoid the possible application of the House of Lords' decision in the Free Church case to the Canada churches,

"And whereas parliament is the proper court to which citizens should appeal if their inherent rights are not clearly recognized in law,

"And whereas the assumption which underlies any appeal for legislation is that the laws as they exist are either not clear or not adequate,

"And whereas the Imperial parliament readily granted the legislation necessary to assure liberty of self-determination to the Church of Scotland,

"And whereas the amendments made to this bill by a vote of 27 to 23 members of the private bills committee sends the church to the very courts which the appeal for legislation was intended to avoid and thus defeats the purpose of the appeal of these churches,

"It is therefore recommended that the amendment to the preamble and Section 1A be deleted from the bill."

Reported To House.

After the motion to report the proceedings of the committee to the House had been passed, the bill was reported, and the committee turned the church union bill over to the House again.

The private bills committee this afternoon considered the section relating to the powers of the commission, which is to determine the equities of non-concurring congregations, and as had been proposed by the Presbyterian Church Association of non-concurring members of non-concurring congregations. Before this was reached, however, three additional subsections were added by the committee to section 9, dealing with non-concurring congregations. The first provided for non-concurring congregations to organize as a Presbyterian, Methodist or Congregational Church, so long as they do not use the name of any of the uniting churches, such as the "Presbyterian Church in Canada."

The second gave a minority of a certain size the right to demand a vote, if the official board of the church did not provide for it. The third provided that the result of the congregational vote should be certified within one week.

When the section in regard to the commission on equities was reached, J. A. Campbell, K.C., counsel for the Presbyterian Church Association, argued that it should be amended to recognize the rights of congregational minorities. He would not suggest that a minority of five per cent should be recognized, but it would be unjust if a minority of 25 per cent were driven out of house and home. He suggested, therefore, that the section should be amended to recognize the rights to compensation by "non-concurring members."

Aske Voluntary Action.

J. S. Woodsworth of Winnipeg, again urged his suggestion that the act should be amended to provide that a majority in the congregation might voluntarily grant compensation to the minority.

Mr. Mason had no objection to Mr. Woodsworth's suggestion, if it was left voluntarily. As to giving the commission authority to go below the congregation in awarding compensation, he said that had been carefully considered, and no one had been able to find a practicable plan. The first subsection was carried without including reference to the rights of "non-concurring members."

Mr. Campbell urged an amendment to the next subsection, which dealt with the membership of the commission. Three members are to represent each side, and three are to be umpires. He suggested that none of the umpires should be members of any of the negotiating churches.

Mr. Mason could not accept this. The subsection was passed without any limit on the choice.

A subsection was added to provide that the council of the non-concurring congregations should be held in St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, nine months after the act comes into force, unless another place and date is subsequently fixed.

Consider Claims.

Mr. Woodsworth moved an amendment that "the commission shall have power to take into consideration a claim on property by any substantial minority in a congregation."

It was rejected "on division," but without a recorded vote.

The action on the commission was then passed.

Section 21 of the bill, to provide for

of Hamilton, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario and Quebec Conference of Typographical Unions, the annual session of which opens in this city today.

The operation of the various church courts pending the organization of the United Church, was amended to exempt non-concurring congregations, but a proposal to exempt non-concurring members was rejected by the promoters of the bill and negative.

A subsection was added to section 3 to give any member of any of the negotiating churches the right to give notice of his intention not to become a member of the United Church and to declare that he shall then not be deemed to have become a member of the United Church.

A final amendment was passed to charge the federal commission on compensation with the duty of protecting the rights of all claimants on the benevolent funds of the negotiating churches who do not become ministers or members of the United Church.

To-day I saw

The Breath of the Avenue suggests a new version of the Slip-Over Sweater, which is destined to set numerous needles a-clicking on numerous summer porches.

The Monte Carlo Sweater, as this sweater is called, is a hip-length, V-neck, slipover, double sweater, made of fine Iceland yarn. It is horizontally striped in accordance with the summer's fashion mandates.

It's chief claim to fame is the fact that the bright stripes are veiled with a thin layer of knitted wool that softens and blends the colors, and lends to the whole sweater a cool, frosty look.

The instructions are very simple. You knit two sweaters separately, on the large wooden needles that knit such a porous, cool web, and make sweater knitting rapid business.

Make one sweater brightly striped, the other sweater plain white. Or make the two sweaters in any two harmonizing colors. Make them both in the simple V-neck slipover style, with about two inches of knit two, puri two ribbing at the hips, and sew the two sweaters together at the neck, hip and down the arm seams.

Choose your balls of Iceland yarn, and get your big knitting needles, in our Art Needlework Department. It will not take more than six balls (at 50c each) to make the two sweaters. And there is much interest in this new double sweater, because it is so cool and light looking.

NATIONALISTS SEIZE CAPITAL OF ALBANIA

Democrats Lose Bloodless Contest As Leaders Desert To Enemy.

By HIRAM K. MOTHERWELL.
By Radio to The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright.

Rome, June 10.—It is reported, though yet unconfirmed, that Tirana, the capital of Albania, fell into the hands of the Nationalists today.

This event, which completes a sweeping victory for the patriotic Democratic party, is said to have occurred without bloodshed. When Ahmet Zogu, feudal boss of the old government, marshaled his forces Monday in the market-place of Tirana, he discovered that all the leaders of his party had fled and nearly all his followers had gone over to the Nationalists.

Zogu asked the population whether they wished to resist to the last drop of blood, and they indicated that they decidedly did not, whereupon, according to a Bari despatch, he fled.

With the fall of Cavaia confirmed late Tuesday, all the gates of Tirana were opened.
