For two hours you will cut up in this way. Afterward you will be depressed."

WHAT CAME OF A LETTER.

My Dear Aunt Kate: I must tell you the good news. Right after receiving your letter, the day before New Year's I started in with new resolutions on the first of the year. I wrote, Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., as you requested me to do. I gave him all my symptoms, which were that I was tired, so tired—all the time and did not care to go anywhere, depressed and sad, and all ambition gone, backbone and a dragged-out feeling, could not sleep, limbs feeling numb and aching. I followed the doctor's advice, which he went to considerable pains to make plain to me—to rest every day—go out after lunch—complete relaxation—cultivate repose of mind, try not to worry, get as much outdoor air as possible, and practice long, deep breathing, expanding the lungs. Then for exercise, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, coupled with a wash he told me of. I must say that after following his advice for four months I feel perfectly cured and like a new woman.

International Bible Lesson for Tomorrow. Jesus at Jacob's Well—John 4, 5-14. Golden Text—"Whoever will, let him take of the water of life freely."—Rev. 22, 17.

We have in our lesson to-day the beginning of a great revival in Samaria, that was continued after Pentecost by Phillip the Evangelist; and the woman of our lesson was the first convert. Note the great opposites of character between her and Nicodemus, but the water of life—the Holy Spirit—was about to do for her as for him, and without it both would perish. Second Kings 17, 24-34, tells who these Samaritans were, and their jealousy and hatred to the Jews was heartily returned. Jesus' love to them compelled Him to go through Samaria and make Himself just as friendly there as amongst His own kin. He asks her for a drink. She is amazed at such a condescending request from a Jew to her a woman of Samaria—and a bad one at that. He tells her of the gift of God—water and Holy Spirit—which, if she knew Him, she would be asking Him for. Like Nicodemus, she is dark to the spiritual, so Jesus uses the same type—water—to illustrate the Holy Spirit's questing the soul thirst of this poor sinner, as He used it to the good Rabbi, Nicodemus, applying it differently. "Every one that drinketh of this water shall thirst again; but whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give shall never thirst. The water that I shall give him shall become in him a well of water springing up into eternal life."—R. V. She drank, and became a witness for Jesus, an ambassador for Christ, and many in that city were turned to the Lord. Read Isaiah 55, 1. Art thou drinking at this fountain? Why not?

A band of the Evangelical Union will leave Park St. Church at 8 a. m. to-morrow to open revival services at Jericho, South Raleigh, with three meetings for the day, and to continue during the week, at 8 and 7.30 p. m.

REASON NO 11 WHY YOU SHOULD USE Red Rose Tea

Because it is Reliable. Some one has said: "A single fact is worth a shipload of argument." A few facts: I introduced this tea to the public about ten years ago. In that short time the business has grown to such proportions that we now occupy the largest Tea warehouse in Canada.

This enormous business has been built up without extensive advertising. The merchants who commenced handling Red Rose Tea ten years ago are the most enthusiastic in its praises to-day.

The merchants who sell it, the people who drink it, have found that it could be relied on.

The brand, "Red Rose Tea," is accepted everywhere as a guarantee of the highest quality, and those who drink it are its best advertisers.

Ask some of your friends about it. T. H. ESTABROOKS, St. John, N. B. BRANCHES: TORONTO, WINNIPEG.

Park St. Methodist. Rev. G. H. Cobbleck, the pastor, will officiate at both services. The subject for the morning will be, "The New Covenant," followed by a reception of members and the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Evening subject, "The Great Question Answered." Advertisement for Ayer's Hair Vigor. Includes image of a woman's face and a bottle of the product. Text: "There is a reason, and the best kind of a reason, why Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the hair grow long and heavy. It is a hair-food. It feeds the hair and makes it healthy and strong. Healthy hair grows, keeps soft and smooth, does not split at the ends, and never falls out. Give Ayer's Hair Vigor to your gray hair and restore to it all the deep, rich color of early life."

To the Editor of The Planet:
Dear Sir,—There was a meeting of the East Kent License Board at Thamesville yesterday, Feb. 2nd, and the following resolution was passed:—
Moved by Richard Young, seconded by T. H. Tape, that at the meeting of the License Board to-day Mr. Thompson (a lawyer from Blenheim) addressed the Board on the subject of the Blenheim licenses. He said he came at the request of the Mayor of Blenheim. On being questioned he admitted that there had not been any resolution passed in Council authorizing him to do so. The Board realized that Mr. Thompson appeared as a private citizen and that the request of the Mayor was also as a private citizen, and as the individual members of the Board have heard many stories which conflict with one another, and as the Inspector declares that he would not recommend all of the applicants for license; be it resolved: that taking all the circumstances into consideration, that no action be taken. But, notwithstanding anything contained in the above, the Board are at any time prepared to grant licenses when it is shown to them that a majority of the ratepayers of Blenheim are favorable to the granting of licenses, whether in the form of a petition duly certified or a majority under a legal public vote.—Carried.
A. J. C. SHAW,
Chairman.

Feb. 2nd, 1905.
Will you kindly give space to the above in your paper, and oblige.
Yours very truly,
RICHARD YOUNG,
Harwich, Feb. 3rd, 1905.

PRESENTATION
The employees of the Chatham Manufacturing Company met at six o'clock last evening in the lower machine room of the factory and presented Stanley Ball with a gold headed umbrella and a travelling grip. The presentation was made by Miss Bessie on behalf of the employees. Mr. Ball made a suitable reply thanking the employees for their gift. Mr. Ball has been in the employ of the Chatham Manufacturing Company for 15 years, and he left last evening for Winnipeg where he will in future reside.

STRANGE CASE OF SUSAN TIPPING
She Sleeps for Seventeen Days and Puzzles Physicians.

The Melbourne Argus gives details of the strange case of Susan Tipping, who had a long cataleptic sleep at Gyneton. The girl's father, a miner, says that he never found the girl in any way different from other girls, and that she was inclined to be a little hysterical, and had only a few weeks before declared to him that she was growing afraid to go out in the dark alone. He did not think she had anything on her mind, save that she had been worried over the illness of her master, the late Mr. William Barker.

The following is Dr. Duncan's account of the case:
"Susan Tipping, a servant in the employ of the late Mr. William Barker, a strong, healthy girl, 18 years of age, retired to rest on the evening of Sunday, June 14, in her usual state of health. When her mistress called her in the morning she made no response, and all efforts at awakening her proved futile.

"Thinking that she must presently arouse from the stupor, Mrs. Barker felt some concern during the day, though she made several efforts to awaken her. Finding her in the same condition in the evening, however, she was sent for, and on my arrival I tried all the usual methods, none having the least effect. On the following day the girl was brought into the hospital, and a most careful examination made.

"No symptoms of any disease were discoverable, the pulse being regular and quite normal, and the breathing the same. The eyelids were firmly closed, and on forcibly opening them the eyes were found to be turned up and the pupils contracted as in normal sleep. The whole attitude of the patient was that of a peaceful and healthy sleeper. She was totally insensible to pain of any kind. The powerful galvanic shocks applied to her might have been applied to the bed on which she was lying, for all the effect they had. She was so thoroughly tested by other methods as to absolutely preclude any idea of malingering. The trancelike condition was one of genuine trance lethargy.

"As it was doubtful how long the condition would last, measures were at once taken to support her strength and assure her comfort. Feeding her by a stomach-tube passed through the mouth was first tried, but had to be abandoned because it caused vomiting. A small India-rubber tube was then passed through one nostril into the stomach. This was connected with a longer tube, with a funnel at the end.

"This method answered perfectly, and was kept in use the whole time the trance state lasted. Liquid nourishment was simply poured into the funnel in stated quantities. She was fed at regular intervals in this fashion with soups, broths, milk, liquid peptonoids, and beaten-up eggs. She was also given a stated quantity of water at fixed intervals. In this way her health and nutrition were perfectly maintained.

"Her trance terminated suddenly on the seventeenth day, and her first question, in regard to her master, was asked when her thoughts ran practically in the same channel as when she fell asleep."

Famous Vine in Royal Gardens.
While, in these days of widely diffused knowledge in relation to the production of grapes, many persons find it difficult to obtain well ripened clusters from comparatively young vines, it is extremely interesting to refer to a great vine planted 129 years ago and bearing a crop of some 1,000 bunches, the berries finely developed and as black as sloes.

This grand old vine is growing in the Cumberland Lodge portion of the royal gardens at Windsor, and is known as the Cumberland Lodge vine. It is one of the descendants of the famous vine at Hampton Court, which was planted 189 years ago, and it has outdistanced its venerable parent in dimensions, in vigor and in productiveness. Occupying a great glass structure 120 feet long by 20 feet wide, it spreads its luxuriant branches over a roof area of 2,400 feet, which is fully one-third greater than the area of the house occupied by its venerable parent at Hampton Court.

For so large a vine 1,000 bunches, weighing in the aggregate 1,500 lbs., is not a heavy crop, but the grapes are in every way befitting the royal table, and to overtax the strength of so old a vine would be unwise.

Constipation

Fruit is nature's laxative. Plenty of fruit will prevent Constipation, but you can't cure it. Why? Because the laxative principles of fruit are held in peculiar combination and are very mild. After years of labor, an Ottawa physician accidentally discovered the secret process by which Fruit-atives or Fruit Liver Tablets are made. He used fruit juices, but by combining them in a peculiar way, their action on the liver, kidneys, stomach and skin is increased many times.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" TABLETS contain all the medical properties of fruit—are a mild and gentle laxative—and the only permanent cure for Constipation, Torpid Liver, Sick Headaches, Bad Stomach and Kidney Troubles. All druggists have them. 50 cents a box. FRUITATIVES Limited, OTTAWA.

A SIMPLE CURE FOR PILES. Pile sufferers know that Ointments and other local treatments sometimes relieve but never cure. They don't remove the cause. There is a little tablet that is taken internally that removes the cause of Piles and cures any case of any kind no matter how long standing. A month's treatment costs $1.00, for Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid (a thousand dollar guarantee goes with every treatment). Hem-Roid is the discovery of Dr. Leonhardt, of Lincoln, Neb., one of the most distinguished and successful physicians in the Western States.

Free to any Woman who bakes her own Bread

Thousands of women are writing in every week for the "Royal Household" Recipes—they explain the new and easier way of making bread. Make a trial with the new Royal Household Flour, which is purified by electricity—you would not believe there could be such a difference in flour—these recipes are certainly worth asking for. Send a postal card to-day.

THE OGILVIE FLOUR MILLS COMPANY, LIMITED MONTREAL. I have been using your flour exclusively since I came to Canada, fourteen years ago, and have been using "Royal Household" since its introduction. To show you how I value it, my grocer lately could not supply me with it, and rather than use another brand, even temporarily, I sent to Kamouritz, twenty-five miles away, and had it brought to me by P. E. B., preferring to pay the railway charges rather than use an inferior brand. In fact, if I could not get it otherwise, I would ship it direct from the mills. I can always rely on having good bread when using it and nothing tends more to keep harmony in a home. (Signed) MRS. T. SMITH.

A SPY'S CLOSE CALL

Rescued From Impending Death by a Clever Newspaper Hiss.

On the battlefield of Antietam Mr. McClure met General William J. Palmer, then a captain, and strongly urged him not to continue his movements as a spy after Lee had crossed into Virginia, but the gallant young soldier gave no promise as to what he would be likely to do, and the very first night after Lee crossed the Potomac he was again in Lee's camp and brought back important information to General McClure.

Again he returned and entered the Confederate lines, and when he did not report after a week it was assumed that he had been captured and would probably be executed as a spy. He had been captured, was tried and condemned as a spy and sentenced to be executed, but he was saved by a clever newspaper device determined upon after a conference in Philadelphia between President J. Edgar Thomson of the Pennsylvania railroad, Colonel Scott and Mr. McClure.

It was decided that Washington dispatches should be prepared for all of the Philadelphia morning papers announcing the arrival at the capital of Captain William J. Palmer, stating in what particular lines of the enemy he had operated, and adding that he had brought much important information that could not be given to the public at that time.

The result was that Captain Palmer's identity was never established in Richmond, and his execution was thus suspended. In a little while, when some prisoners had been exchanged, there was a vacancy made in the list of the exchanged men by death. Palmer's friends had him take the place and name of the dead soldier, and he thus escaped and returned to the service.

ODD FACTS ABOUT COLOR.

One of Them Is That There Is No Food That Is Blue.

Did you ever notice that there is no blue food? We eat things green, red, yellow and violet; flesh, fish or plants in all the colors of the rainbow except blue.

Many deadly poisons are blue in color, such as bluestone or the deadly nightshade flower. The color stands in our slang for everything miserable and depressing.

But this is only one of a thousand queer facts about colors.

Heat a bar of iron and the particles of the metal are set in motion, shaking violently one against another. Presently the surrounding ether is set in motion in large, slow waves through the air, like the waves of the sea, until they break upon our skin and give us the sensation of heat.

The red-hot iron, getting still more heated, throws out other sets of waves, still smaller and more rapid—orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, violet, all the colors of the rainbow. The eye cannot tell one from another; the whole bundle of rays mixed up gives us an impression of white. That is the glow from white hot iron, and such is the light from the still greater brightness of the sun.

An Odd Court Incident. Sensational incidents are not uncommon in the closing stages of famous criminal trials.

The weakest living creature, by concentrating his powers on a single object, can accomplish something. The strongest, by disposing of his over-mastery, may fail to accomplish anything.

Worse Than the Upper Ten. "Only the upper ten go to your church, don't they?" inquired the plain person.

Her Strikes. Mr. Benedict—Do you know, my dear, I think we have a pretty good cook? How does she strike you? Mrs. Benedict—For more wages about once a week.

Her Query. Gardener—This here is a tobacco plant in full flower. Lady—How very interesting! And how long will it be before the cigars are ripe?—New Yorker.

A CRANK ON TEA.

Cyrus W. Field's Encounter With an Expert Tea Taster.

It may be that the millionaire is no more eccentric than humble mortals, and yet in the fierce white light of publicity it often seems so. Cyrus W. Field was never given to any of the expensive hobbies of other rich men. He did not dote on horses or yachts or pictures. But Mr. Field did like tea. He used to say there was only one man of his acquaintance who knew how to brew it, and that man was "Old Field."

Mr. Field seldom traveled in his private car, and none of his retinue of servants ever made tea for him. From his berth in the Pullman he rose early, as at home, and it was not an uncommon sight to see the gray old philanthropist half dressed and stirring about in a buffet car at daylight, seeking hot water with which to brew his choice young Hyslop, a canister of which was invariably a part of his baggage.

"Thirty-one years," said the tea taster, who was enjoying an annual income of about $20,000.

"Well, you had better give it up," remarked Mr. Field frankly. "You don't know how to make tea and you are too old to learn. Let me brew some of that stuff for you."

A Good Doctor. One day in Shanghai, says a writer in the Chicago Record-Herald, when I was feeling sick, I called a Chinaman to me and said, "John, do you have good doctors in China?"

The Siwash Indians on Puget sound make their living principally by fishing, but the Siwash buck does not condescend to go out for his evening meal of smelt or sardines with a hook and line as the white man does; he takes a long pole and for two feet from each end he makes a sort of comb of it by driving through it long, thin French nails, then he launches his canoe and goes out for a pleasant sail.

HUFFMAN'S CORNERS. The Willing Workers met and arranged for an oyster supper on Feb. 13th. The trustees of the church had a bee to draw wood purchased of Mr. Watson, Mull. Mr. James Morrow will be janitor for year 1905.

When Vessels Sink. What becomes of the ship that sinks in mid-ocean? If it is of wood it takes in the first place considerable time for it to reach the bottom. MARRIAGE BELLS OF HEAVEN

Invite You to Meet As the Bride of Christ—Your Own Should Be—Lead On, Sweetest Lead On! Even Now We May Hear the Wedding Chimes Ringing For the Nuptials of Heaven.

Quoted according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1893, by Frederick Dyer, of Toronto, as the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 29.—From an accidental reference to an ancient Oriental marriage custom the preacher in this sermon draws lessons applicable to modern life.

The marriage bells are chiming. The glorious robes of a kingly bridegroom and of his bride, the daughter of a queen, and the garments of her many bridesmaids are rustling.

Royal jewels are flashing. The most skillful of musicians are playing. And as the wedding march sounds forth the marriage procession is approaching the king's throne room.

Earth has beheld some wonderful wedding pageants. When the present Emperor William of Germany was married to the beautiful Princess Augusta Victoria.

Let us consider what makes them precious. They are the glory of our Lord. He will wear them in joy and gratitude for the sacrifices his people have made in his cause.

Let us consider what makes them precious. They are the glory of our Lord. He will wear them in joy and gratitude for the sacrifices his people have made in his cause.

Let us consider what makes them precious. They are the glory of our Lord. He will wear them in joy and gratitude for the sacrifices his people have made in his cause.

or wrinkles of any such thing, holy and without blemish.

Human imagination fails to conceive of a spectacle so glorious. Let us instead of dwelling on the marriage scene take but one detail of its beauty.

The royal robes of the Divine Bridegroom will be the most expensive of all garments. Costly was the wedding apparel of Louis XIV.

Now, what gold and silver and precious stones in dress mean to the western mind myrrh and aloes and cassia in a sense mean to the oriental mind.

Let us consider what makes them precious. They are the glory of our Lord. He will wear them in joy and gratitude for the sacrifices his people have made in his cause.

Let us consider what makes them precious. They are the glory of our Lord. He will wear them in joy and gratitude for the sacrifices his people have made in his cause.

royal purple of Christ's wedding garments. I am glad that even in heaven, when looking upon the Divine face of Jesus, we shall not be allowed for one moment to forget the enormous cost in money and blood of the marriage robes in which Christ will be clad as the bridegroom when he takes the church as his bride in eternal nuptials.

But, drawing near to the Divine Bridegroom, I find that Christ's wedding robes have a wonderful curative quality. Their touch is like the cool hand upon the fevered brow.

Oh, yes, they are more than that. Their touch gives spiritual and physical healing. It is like the healing power of Christ's earthly robe when the border of it was pressed just an instant by the forefinger of the poor woman who had an issue of blood for twelve years.

But have the royal robes of Christ a higher purpose than the mere protection of pain or of heartaches? If that be all the efficacy of these wedding garments of the Divine Bridegroom, then why let us have any gain and heartaches.

Let us consider what makes them precious. They are the glory of our Lord. He will wear them in joy and gratitude for the sacrifices his people have made in his cause.

Let us consider what makes them precious. They are the glory of our Lord. He will wear them in joy and gratitude for the sacrifices his people have made in his cause.

Vinous. The loving kiss which the Divine Bridegroom places upon the lips of his bride shall never become cold and indifferent.

From whence come these airs laden with odor of the myrrh and the aloes and the cassia of Christ's wedding garments? They come from the "ivory palaces of heaven."

Supposing you refuse to meet the Divine Bridegroom at the marriage altar of heaven, what will Jesus do? What will your loved ones, your wife and mother and father and little child, who have gone beyond what will they all do?

What Sulphur Does FOR THE HUMAN BODY IN HEALTH AND DISEASE.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crude, unpalatable, and widely used flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. W. W. Wilkins while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR A HAPPY MAN?

If So Find One Who Has Used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and Can Now Eat and Enjoy Three Square Meals a Day.

Thrice happy is the man who can take three square meals a day and enjoy every one of them. But in these days of bad teeth and quick luncheons how many people can do that? Can you? If you can't it's your own fault.

Modern science has overcome the handicaps of bad teeth, quick eating and scanty saliva. It has provided Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, the greatest help to the stomach ever discovered. They contain the necessary ingredients for digestion; to put it in brief they digest the food while the stomach rests and recuperates. That they are an easy and natural cure for all stomach ailments anybody who has used them will tell you. Louis M. Bourdeau, of St. Louis, N. B. says: "I recommend anyone who suffers from Dyspepsia to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I had it badly, and the doctors I consulted did me no good. Three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely."

EXIT HOT WATER BOTTLE

The use of asbestos by electricians in daily increasing, for it meets the most exacting requirements for purposes of insulation. Its latest application is to the "electrotherm," the new device which is already taking the place of hot water bottles in hospitals and sick rooms.

The electrotherm is a flexible pad of asbestos in which electric wires are imbedded. When these wires are connected with any source of electric current a constant and uniform degree of heat is generated. For this connection the socket of an electric lamp is ordinarily found most convenient. Where the heating current is not available batteries can be used.

This pad is found a great relief in chilliness, cold feet, etc., as well as in cramps and other local pains and general hospital practice. By its use the risk and discomfort of frequent changes of temperature incident to the renewal of ordinary applications are entirely obviated without discomfort.

By moistening it, which can be done without injury to the pad, it can be made to give the effect of a poultice or moist heat, especially if it is applied over one or two thick pieces of flannel. From the fact that it can be used by anyone with perfect safety and because of its simplicity and convenience it is most valuable for medical use. The regulation of the temperature is controlled by a conveniently placed switch.

Pads can be maintained at a temperature of 130 degrees, 170 degrees and 320 degrees Fahrenheit when covered with ordinary bed clothing, but these temperatures can be modified by the interposition of a blanket or raised by additional covering. This invention comes in several forms, from the simple pad for ordinary uses to the wicker-covered mats or footstools, and a capelike covering which will completely enclose the neck and upper part of the body.

AUTOGRAPH TABLECLOTH.

The autograph tablecloth is a fad of certain ladies who are clever with their needles and who also like to preserve the autographs of friends. One such table cloth is said to be of great interest. It belongs to a parliamentary journalist who entertains large groups of statesmen and other notabilities, and it is used on these interesting occasions. Just before the guests leave, the table they are to write their names in lead pencil on the dais, and at her leisure, the hostess embroiders the autographs in silk. Such a relic of the feast of the night ought to be handed down as a heirloom, and some day this queer collection of interesting autographs will probably be even more valued than it is by its present owner.

HUSBAND WHO SPENDS EVENINGS OUT

To make home the most attractive place in the world and themselves bright, interesting and cheerful is, alas an art which the majority of wives do not understand. It is for this reason that we constantly hear women complaining that their husbands absent themselves from home perhaps three or four evenings during the week. What is worse still, wives who are neglected in this manner generally attribute the failing of their husbands to a totally wrong cause.

As a rule a woman gets the notion into her head that it is lack of love and consideration on the part of the man she has married which causes him to stay away from home after business hours. It never seems to strike her that she herself may be somewhat to blame for such a state of affairs. And yet a moment's careful thought should show her that if a man roams abroad at night it is because he is better entertained away from home.

When a husband seems to prefer the glare of the outside world to the glow of the sitting-room lamp it is necessary that a wife should look around and discover the real reason for such a change. In nine cases out of ten she will find that his conduct is not brought about through lack of love at all, but lack of comfort and cheerful and restful surroundings. There are many husbands who deserve happier homes than they return to nightly. They go home after a day of burdens and soul-wearingly, only to take up each night a new set of cares and adjust an ever-increasing list of complaints they should never even hear of.

The wife who worries her husband with the hundred and one petty details of the household, refuses to recognize his right to "quiet moments," fails to make herself interesting or study his real requirements, is bound to drive the man she marries away from home.

It is not even sufficient that she should have a spick and span house in order to keep a husband at home. "I can't make out why Jack spends so many nights away from home," I once heard a wife with matrimonial experiences extended over a period of eight years, tearfully exclaim. "Everything is kept very nice and tidy in the home, and the children know that they must be quiet when their father comes from business. I pride myself upon the manner in which the meals are served, and even Jack himself generally confesses how pleased he is with them. And yet he only spends two or three evenings each week with me."

At first I judged this particular Jack rather harshly on account of his misconduct, but I could see no reason why he should desert his apparently attractive home so frequently. But ultimately I discovered that not only the wife was a martyr to neatness, making Jack feel afraid to do anything but what she ordered, but the wife was also a martyr to the annoyance it might cause her that she was a woman who made no effort to interest her husband.

After his evening meal and smoke, Jack would sit and mope, listening to his wife's story of the day's amount of work she had been obliged to do, the worries and annoyances caused by the children, all interspersed with threats of what she would do to one or other of the youngsters who happened at the time to get a little boisterous and disarrange something in the room. Hobbes, Jack had none, mainly because his wife made such a fuss about his photographic materials lying about the house shortly after they were married. Friends, he did not care to invite, because his wife was always complaining about the amount of extra work their visits entailed. Who can wonder that under such circumstances Jack found his greatest pleasures in leaving home for two or three hours during the evening and adjoining to the local club for a game of billiards or a hand of whist with more interesting companions?

A man must feel that he can thoroughly enjoy himself in his own quiet way, before he will stay at home on every possible night. If your husband feels like having a drink, smoke or game of cards with his friends, let him have it at home and do not drive

Can Eat Anything Now.

How many Dyspeptics can say that? Or perhaps you are dyspeptic and don't know it.

Have you any of these symptoms?

Variable appetite, a faint gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach, unsatisfied hunger, a loathing of food, rising and scouring of food, a painful load at the pit of the stomach, constipation, or are you gloomy and miserable? Then you are a dyspeptic. The cure is careful diet; avoid stimulants and narcotics, do not drink at meals, keep regular habits, and regulate the stomach and bowels with BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS, Nature's specific for Dyspepsia.

Miss Laura Chicoine, Belle Anse, Que., says of its wonderful curative powers:—"Last winter I was very thin, and was fast losing flesh owing to the run-down state of my system. I suffered from Dyspepsia, loss of appetite and bad blood. I tried everything I could get, but to no purpose; then finally started to use Burdock Blood Bitters. From the first day I felt the good effect of the medicine and am now feeling strong and well again. I can eat anything now without any ill after-effects. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, for I feel it saved my life."

him to seek such pleasure elsewhere by complaining about the extra work and trouble. Do not be selfish and expect him to listen to all your worries while you make no sympathetic inquiry about his own. Keep up above all, try to be cheerful and thus create an atmosphere of brightness in the home which, no matter how neat and tidy it may be, will otherwise be unattractive.

Many wives sorely try their husbands by their lack of cheerfulness or encouragement in their own. Keep up your spirits. This one failing alone has more to do with a husband's absence from home than almost anything else, for when a husband meets with no encouragement he naturally seeks solace elsewhere.

And finally, when the matrimonial knot is tied, do not make the mistake of supposing that dull monotony must now hold sway. Be the same immaculate and daintily attired woman you were before marriage. Keep up a perpetual courtship and do not allow anything to prevent your showing an absorbing interest in the man you have sworn to love, honor and obey. Tactfully humor him, and do not let any disagreeable five or ten years after marriage as you did during your honeymoon. It is by such means that a husband can be prevented from deserting the domestic hearth.—Woman's Life.

HOW ANTS SLEEP

During sleep the ant's body is quite still. Occasionally may be noted a regular lifting up, and setting down of the fore feet, one leg after another with almost rhythmic motion. The antennae also have a general quivering, apparently involuntary movement, almost like breathing. The soundness of summer was frequently proved by applying the feather end of a quill. The feather tip is lightly drawn along the back, stroking "with the fur." There is no motion, again and again the addition is repeated, the stroke being made gradually heavier. Still there is no change. The strokes are directed upon the head, with the same result. Then the feather is applied to the neck, with a waving motion intending to tickle it. The ant remains motionless.

Finally the sleeper is aroused by a sharp touch of the quill. She stretches out her head; then her legs, which she shakes also; steps nearer to the light, yawns, and begins to comb her antennae with her head and mouth. Then she clambers over her sleeping comrades dives into an open gangway, and soon has said "Good morning" to another hour of duty. Be it well noted, however, that she has gone to work, as she and all her fellows always do, not only rested, but with her person perfectly clean.

SIG TRANSIT.

When I am gone the sun will shine just the same, The flowers bloom, the seasons come and go; Nothing in nature will reverse my name, When I am gone.

When I am gone the throngs of busy feet Will not a moment tarry on their way; No one will know in all the crowded street When I am gone.

When I am gone, to dwell in better spheres For me a change, for me a new abode, But not a ripple in life's surface here, When I am gone.

When I am gone the sun will shine the same, The flowers bloom, the seasons come and go, And other months will dance about earth's flame, When I am gone.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS

The man who can accomplish the retort courteous can turn aside many an awkward accusation, and if he will be bitter so much the more deadly his point.

In the time of Charles II. in England, in an age of wits, the grand master of the art of retort was the crippled first Earl of Shaftesbury. "Shaftesbury" said the King to him one day, "I believe that thou art the wickedest dog in all my dominions." "Of a subject, sire, I believe I am," was the reply. While speaking against the Bill in the House of Lords, the Earl overheard an indolent Churchman say, "I wonder when he will have done preaching?" The orator whispered loud enough to be heard by all, "When I am made a Bishop, my Lord."

Dr. Garth, a witty physician of the Court of Queen Anne, had prescribed a nauseous dose for the great warrior, Duke of Marlborough. When the Duke objected to following the directions the sharp-tongued Duchess Sarah broke in by saying, "I'll be hanged if it does not cure you." "There, my Lord," interposed Garth, "you had better swallow it; you will gain either way."

Repairs has ever flashed brilliantly from the Bench, Lord Mansfield, the famous English judge of the second half of the eighteenth century, listened to an argument of the insolently proud Sir Fletcher Norton upon a case involving certain manorial rights. "My Lord," said Norton, "I can instance the point in person. Now, I have myself two little nanans." "We are well aware of that," said the judge, smiling kindly.

"Do you see anything ridiculous in my wig?" said a judge to the famous Irish barrister, John Curran. "Nothing but the head," flew back the retort.

The late Chief Justice Russell was hearing a trial for bigamy. "What's the extreme penalty for bigamy?" whispered a juror. "Two mothers-in-law," said Russell.

Although the law seems to be especially conducive to skill in fencing with words, the Church has supplied a large quota of men who delighted in the give-and-take of verbal warfare. The venerable Dr. Thomas Fuller, author of "The Worthies of England," however, met his match once when he propounded the following question to a certain Dr. Sparrowhawk: "Pray what is the difference between a sparrowhawk and an owl?" "Why," came the response, "there is a great difference. An owl is fuller in the head, fuller in the body, and fuller all over."

The eloquent Baptist divine, Robert Hall, had a caustic wit. A flippant young woman, having broken into his reveries in allusion to his fiancée, Miss Steel, by saying "Ah, sire, if we had but polished steel here, we might secure some of your attention; but—" "Madam," he replied, "make yourself quite easy; if you are not polished steel, you are at least polished brass."

"What are you going to do in life?" asked Cardinal Manning of a pert undergraduate at Oxford. "Oh, I'm going to take holy orders," was the airy response. "Take care you get them, my son," came from the prelate.

Horne Tooke is credited with this daring retort to George III., who had asked him whether he played cards: "Your Majesty, I cannot tell a king from a knave."

HAD BEEN THERE BEFORE.

Among a number of young men who appeared at the Brooklyn navy yard the other day for examination as apprentices was a clean-cut colored lad. It happened that they were all hurried through the gate in a bunch. The darky was stripped and questioned in the usual way, and finally was asked what trade he would like to learn. "Say, boss," he answered, "Ah don't want no work. Ah got a job on a Pullman car." "Then why the dunn did you let us strip you?" was the examining surgeon's amazed inquiry. "Why, Ah thought you was lookin' fo' mah razor."

GOING ONE BETTER IT DIDN'T LOOK LIKE IT

"Gentlemen," said the innocent-looking young man, "many people would be disposed to doubt some of the stories that you have been telling about the freaks of the wind, but I don't. The man who told how the wind took the roof off his and a neighbor's houses, exchanged them and nailed them down, has my unlimited confidence."

"It's every word true," remarked the individual alluded to. "I have no doubt of it. My father had an experience which will not permit me to be skeptical."

"Did he have a house blown down?"

"No; that wouldn't be anything extraordinary. He hadn't any house to be blown down. He had been lying at a hotel, waiting for his new residence in the country to be completed. All the material was lying out in the fields, and the plans were in a tool shed near by. When he went to look at the place one morning, he found that the wind had broken open the tool-house, secured the plans, blown the whole house up, cleaned the windows, and started a fire in the kitchen range."

"Then each man quickly rose, picked up his hat and went home. — Answerers."

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

The more a crowd of women can talk the less they have to say. Most people's strength of character is chiefly in their tongues.

There now are other fences which at first appearance look much like ours though they are much different in quality. By coating ours WHITE there can be no confusion among buyers. While this coating of WHITE gives Page Fence and Gates a distinguishing feature, it will also be a preservative as an aid to the galvanizing in preventing rust. It is now commonly known to everyone that even galvanized wire will, in certain localities, rust. In addition to these, we are making several other changes and improvements in our goods that will make them still better than ever, and still further ahead of all competitors.
