POETRY.

If I Were You.

If I were you, I often say
To those who seem to need advice,
I'd always look before I leaped;
I'd always think it over twice.
And then I'd heave a troubled sigh—
For, after all, I'm only I.

I'd ne'er discuss, if I were you,
The failings of my fellow-men;
I'd think of all their virtues first,
And scan my own shortcomings then.
But though all this is good and true,
I am but I; I am not you.

If I were you and half so vain,
Amidst my folly I would pause
To see how dull and light a fool
I was myself. I don't because—
(And here I heave a pitying sigh)
I am not you; I'm only I.

If I were you, no selfish care
Should chase my cheery smile away;
I'd scatter round me love and hope;
I'd do a kindness every day.
But here again I find it true
That I am I, and you are you.

I would not be so very quick
To take offence, if I were you;
I would respect myself, at least,
Whatever others say or do.
Alas! can no one tell me why
I am not you, instead of I?

In short, if I were only you
And could forget that I was I;
I think that little cherub wings
Would sprout upon me, by and by.

STORY.

A Last Hymn.

Uncle Frank had come from his home in Illinois to make a visit, for the first time in so many years that none but our older children could remember when he was with us last. But it took only a short time for the little ones to become acquainted. All were charmed by his interesting stories, his kindly, genial manner, and hearty participation in their amusements.

The week after his arrival had been a constant succession of pleasant surprises, for each day developed some new power of entertainment in our favourite uncle.

When Sunday came he had shown off our fine-looking relative at church with very evident delight, had listened to his interesting remarks before the Sunday school, and then, after our early supper, had gathered around the organ in the parlor to try and entertain him in return, and, possibly, to exhibit our proficiency in music with very innocent pride.

We had all inherited good voices from our father, who had taken great pride and pleasure in our musical training, until, from Emma, the eldest, to "wee wee" Mabel, our darling little 3-year-old, we could sing anything we ever heard.

To-night Louie presided at the organ with Emma beside her, and Arthur and Will at either hand, while Mabel was nestling in Uncle Frank's arms—her favorite resting-place.

She was a darling little pet with all—the youngest of our large family, and peculiarly dear, for two lovely little ones had died just before her birth.

Uncle Frank was strongly attached to her, for she bore the name of the beloved wife he had lost several years before, and of whom he never spoke save with tender reverence and tear-dimmed eyes.

We sung one after another of our favourite hymns, "Rock of Ages," "Whiter Than Snow," "Ninety and Nine," etc., until at last Louie played "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

We all joined in filling the room with the sweet music of the dear old hymn.

"Till all my sorrow's all be,
Ne'er my Dord to 'ee."
sung dear little Mabel in her clear, sweet voice, and with such earnestness in her baby face that Uncle Frank drew the dear child closer in his arms, and caressed the soft flushed cheek.

There was a pause after the last "Nearer, My God, to Thee," swelled out with our united voices; and a sweet, solemn hush followed, which was broken at last by Uncle Frank.

"That recalls one of the sweetest, saddest memories of my life," he said gently.

"Oh, tell a 'tory, Uncle Frank!" Mabel cried, climbing to her feet and laying her arm around his neck, her soft cheek against his.

"It was about another Mabel—a little older than you are," he said, returning her caress.

"Do please tell us about her," Lou said, and we all drew nearer in eager expectation of another of his interesting stories.

"It was one summer night, a year or two ago," he said, drawing Mabel to her old place on his knee. "I was returning from Peoria on a train well filled with excursionists for Niagara Falls; we were heavily loaded, and a little behind time, so were putting on all steam and rushing along through the darkness at a rapid rate.

"Near me was quite a large party who were very merry and social together. Two of them sat directly in front of me—a fine-looking man of about 40, and a little girl of some 12 or 13 years, evidently his daughter. She was a slender, delicate-looking child, and her face attracted me strongly; it seemed a reflection of heaven itself, it was so sweet and lovable in expression. In the mirror at the front of the car, just a little ahead of us, I could see them distinctly, and could not help watching, with growing interest, the lovely face of the child. She had removed her hat, and her head, with its masses of soft, wavy, brown hair, lay against her father's arm, while her eyes of clearest, deepest hazel were raised at frequent intervals to his face with a look of devoted love.

"The faces of both seemed familiar, yet I could not at first recall where I had seen them. At last it came to me—he was a physician from a neighboring city, who had attended my Aunt Mabel in a slight illness when we were visiting in his town a few years before and the little girl accompanied him on one of his visits. I had occasion to call your aunt by her name, and the doctor, looking up with a smile, laid his hand affectionately on the head of his child, saying: 'This is my Mabel.'

"I recalled hearing at the time that the mother of the little girl was dead, and so devoted were the doctor and his child to each other they were never separated except from absolute necessity.

"I observed them with renewed interest after recalling this, and noticed all the tender solicitude for her comfort on the part of the father and the confiding, devoted love of the child.

"As the hour grew late, and some of the party began to nod wearily, some one struck up a familiar hymn; their voices filled the car, and all brightened up under the influence of the music. Hymn after hymn was sung, until there was a pause after 'Sweet Beulah Land,' and I leaned forward and asked: 'Will you sing 'Nearer, My God, to Thee?'

"'Oh, certainly, with pleasure,' the little Mabel said, turning to me with one of her sweet, expressive smiles. 'It is papa's favorite, and mine, also.'

"One of the party started it, and clear above all the rush and roar of the train rang out the most beautiful of all our old hymns. Never had it seemed so sweet, so comforting, before:

"'Though like a wanderer,
Daylight all gone,
I sung the clear young voices as our train sped on through the darkness, and a slender rail between us and eternity.

"In the mirror I watched with pleasure the child before me. Her eyes were raised, and her face wore the rapt expression of a musical enthusiast and a religious devotee.

"There let the way appear,
Steps up to heaven,
She sang, and her eyes seemed looking straight through the shining portals into the Celestial city, and her face to catch a gleam from its radiance.

"Angels to beckon me,
Nearer, My God, to Thee,'

"In imagination I almost saw the angels beckoning the dear child, as I watched the glow of enthusiasm in the sweet face.

"The doctor was watching her, also, and a shadow of pain passed suddenly across his countenance. With a quick movement he drew his child nearer, as if to shield her from the glare of the sun, and would fain hold his darling back from their welcoming arms.

"On rushed the train; clearer and sweeter sounded the music.

"'Oh, if or joyous wings,
Cheerful, the sky,
Sun, moon, and stars forgot,
Upward I fly.'

"The glow deepened on the beautiful face, the eyes were filled with the light of holy rapture, of intense devotion, and on the wings of her enthusiasm I, too, was borne upward, when suddenly there was a terrible shock, a crash, the falling of heavy bodies, crushing into us and hurling us down from a great height. The lights went out, and through the darkness and terror, the indescribable confusion, echoed cries for help, shrieks and groans and prayers."

Uncle Frank paused as the memory of the terrible scene pressed upon him.

"Was it Chatsworth?" I asked as soon as I could command my voice.

"And how did you escape?"

"Yes, it was Chatsworth," he said. "I was saved miraculously, I scarcely know how; but I was only stunned and bruised, and was among the first to escape from the wreck."

"And 'twas pity 'tittle girl?" Mabel asked, her eyes fixed anxiously on his face.

"Oh, Mabel! little darling!" Uncle Frank said with deep emotion, clasping the dear form closer in his arms, "how can you understand that the other Mabel—the sweet little singer—was found under all that wreck, next day, clasped closely in the arms of her dear father. Death had come so suddenly that her face still wore the look of holy rapture—of sweet peace I had seen upon it last. Surely the angels had beckoned her, and the dear Lord had answered her unconscious prayer and drawn her nearer to himself."

A Boiling Lake.

There is a lake of boiling water in the Island of Dominica, lying in the mountains behind Roseau, and in the valleys surrounding it are many solfataras, or volcanic sulphur vents. In fact, the boiling lake is little better than a crater filled with scalding water, constantly fed by mountain streams, and through which the pent up gases find vent and are ejected.

The temperature of the water on the margin of the lake ranges from 180 to 190 degrees Fahrenheit; in the middle exactly over the gas vents, it is believed to be about 300 degrees. Where this active action takes place, the water is said to rise two, three or even four feet above the general surface level of the lake, the cone often dividing so that the orifices through which the gas escapes are legion in number. This violent disturbance over the whole surface of the lake and through the cones appear to the special vents, the sulphurous vapors rise with equal density over its entire surface.

Contrary to what one would suppose there seems to be in no case violent action of the escaping gases, such as explosions or detonations. The water is of a dark gray color, and having been boiled over and over for thousands of years, has become thick and slimy with sulphur. As the inlets to the lake are rapidly closing, it is believed that it will soon assume the character of a geyser or sulphurous crater.

Will Asiatic Cholera Follow?

Mr Joe Howard's theory that, one horror of a similar nature follows another to the number of three, has a chance for confirmation this coming summer if certain predictions prove true. First it was La Grippe: "A whim" the French define it. Second came deaths by scores from its after effects, or from the many atmospheric changes of the past few months. Severe cases of pneumonia, bronchitis, intense catarrh and general loss of strength were the results, until death was almost welcomed as a relief to the sufferers. So that this epidemic and its sequence has proven to be the most terribly realistic "whim" that ever infested this country. And now for number three; the theory is said to be advanced that the cholera is very likely to find fertile soil in the generally debilitated constitutions of our people resulting from the effects of such a winter and spring as has just past. Whether the theory of three will be confirmed in this case or not, remains to be seen. At any rate it behooves every person still affected by any of the complaints due to these climatic changes and epidemics, such as catarrh or bronchial troubles, to look well to themselves and see that every trace of the trouble is removed this present month; before the heat of summer still more debilitates their system. For years we have found that simple old remedy Johnson's Anodyne Linctum, used as directed, to be the most certain remedy for all forms of lingering summer colds, catarrh or bronchial affections, as well as a preventative and cure for all kinds of summer complaints. It is absolutely certain that a remedy that has survived for eighty years as Johnson's Anodyne Linctum has done, must have more than average merit. We suppose there is not a family in this county but what has this good old-fashioned remedy in the house. If there is, we advise them to get it at once or write the manufacturers, I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., for a pamphlet describing its various uses for the last eighty years. Now is the time. Delays are dangerous, and an ounce of prevention is worth many pounds of cure.

They were in a private box, and she was both pretty and prettily dressed. But she was in a bad temper because she could not see the stage.

"Why," said he, trying to mollify her, "did you not bring your opera glass?"

"I did, but I can't use it."

"Is it broken?"

"No, but I forgot to put on my bracelets."—St. James Gazette.

The Reason Why.

The other day two colored citizens met on the steps of the Capitol at Washington. One of them angrily exclaimed: "Misser Jones, if you doan' pay dem seven dollars de screws will be put on you powerful hard!"

"Now, doan' be unreasonin'," replied Jones, in a cajoling voice.

"But you's got money in de bank!" shouted the first.

"Yes, I know I doan' git a check on de bank, but I've got to get a blank check, borrow pen 'n' ink, put on my specs, write all ober de check, go down dar to 'dentify you, 'n' figger while I was in de bank some one'd be lookin' for me on de street to hire me at 50' dollars a day. Dese am de chief reason I doan' want to pay de money for de nex' two weeks."

Birds in the Window.

There is one piece of advice, says Olive Thorne Miller, writing in the Christian Union on the care of birds, that I should like to put into letters 40 feet high, and stretch from the Atlantic ocean to the Pacific coast—that is: never put a bird in the window! I rarely go into the street in the summer, or even on a mild day in winter, that I do not see unfortunate canaries hung in the window. Even if the sun is not broiling the brains under the little yellow cap, a draught is blowing all the time over the delicate body. People have been told a thousand times that they must not put a bird in a draught, yet how few remember that there is always a draught in an open window.

Preserve the Woodland.

Our country is notorious for wastefulness. One of the most evident and inexcusable of these wastes is so common that one cannot avoid seeing examples of it on looking out over the fields almost everywhere through a car window. The timber is cut off a piece of land with the intention perhaps, of seeding the ground with grass for pasture until the stumps rot. But the brush remains, and is soon overgrown with briars and weeds, while cattle find nothing eatable but the sprouts from the tree stumps, which they soon effectively suppress, leaving a hideous waste—a disgust to the owner and a blot on the landscape. If a wire or two had been stretched around the "chopping," there would soon have been a thick, handsome piece of woods again, annually increasing in value and feeding the soil. A late writer, commenting on the deplorable destruction of all the undergrowth and young timber land, by giving cattle the run of it and exposing the surface to wind and sun, so they, little or no water of rains is observed, puts in a plea for the boys (the best of all the crops of the farm), who find interest and enjoyment in having, now and then, some sport in hunting small game in well preserved woodland full of underbrush shelter. Preserve the woodland.

Bees and Pigeons.

An amusing experiment was recently made in Westphalia to determine the relative speed of flight of bees and pigeons. The race course through the air was three and a half miles in length. The bees were marked by covering them with flour, which doubtless in a certain measure retarded their flight, yet the first bee arrived at the winning post twenty-five seconds before the first pigeon, and three other bees came in before the second bird arrived. The speed of flight is not stated, but it is known that pigeons fly at the rate of fifty miles or more an hour, this seems to establish the fact that bees have a flight as speedy as that of our swifter birds.—Boston Herald.

This year is the 200th anniversary of the invention of the improved tobacco pipe—the bowl, the tube and the mouth-piece. Up to the year 1690 the only medium of enjoying the fragrant weed was by means of a cylindrical instrument fashioned from the crude clay and smelling of the earth earthy. The inventor of the present combination pipe was a physician, Dr. Villarus, of Vienna. The first tobacco pipe manufactory was established in 1690.

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JUNE 13, 1890.

Shall We Incorporate?

It is our desire to see Wolfville incorporated. We believe that it would be of great benefit to our town. The present manner in which our affairs are conducted must be very unsatisfactory to our people.

Our Orchards.

The prospects for our fruit crop now appear to be excellent. The trees are one mass of bloom and present a beautiful appearance, while the air is laden with the sweet perfume of the blossoms.

Dominion Finances.

The gross public debt of the Dominion, as shown by the statement prepared up to May 31st last, was $283,157,439 and the total net debt $233,749,336, making a decrease since April 30th last of $175,078.

Wedding Bell.

On Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock the little Episcopal church of this place was the scene of a happy event. Mr Harold d'Almaine, of Abingdon, Berks, England, and Miss Florie Starr, daughter of Mr Robert Starr, now of Wolfville, were united in marriage.

About Debt.

Certain persons in Canada are fond of making comparisons of the public debt of Canada with that of the United States, much to the disadvantage of their own country, says the Montreal Star.

Canada's International Exhibition.

The prize list of the Exhibition Association of St John, N. B., which is now in the press, will possess more than ordinary interest for our readers; we therefore take pleasure in giving a short summary of the sections and amounts to be offered.

In the live stock section they offer prizes amounting to $7,337, divided as follows: horses, $2130; cattle, $2835; sheep, $708; pigs, $492; poultry and dog show $1163; in addition to which $1750 is offered for the horse race competition.

The horticultural, apary, natural history, ladies' and children's departments, prizes amounting to $537 are offered. Messrs D. A. MacCaskill & Co., of Montreal, offer the following special prizes for carriages furnished with their celebrated varnishes.

The publisher of the Maritime Agriculturalist, Robt. Jarvis Gilbert, Dorchester, N. B., offers a silver (gold-lined) cup to be awarded to any son of a farmer residing in the Maritime Provinces, for the best essay written by him on the subject, "The Best Means of Inducing the Boys to Remain on the Farms."

The Association finding their building and grounds in the city unable to accommodate the number of applicants coming in have secured the splendid grounds and buildings of the Moosepath Driving Park Association, where the stock exhibit will be held, and arrangements are being made for rapid transit between the Exhibition buildings and these grounds during the Exhibition.

"Stray Leaves from Book of Wonders" is the title of a little book just published by Messrs Davison Brothers, of Wolfville. This book is composed of articles written by the gifted brother of the publishers, the lamented Leslie Loring Davison, a sketch of whose life appears as an introduction, and is published as a tribute to his memory.

Notes from Ottawa.

(By Our Regular Correspondent.) The visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall to the capital was made the occasion of great rejoicing in honor of the Queen's son. Thousands of citizens lined the sides of the streets and cheered the royal party.

The result of the Ontario local election was unexpected even by the winning party. It was expected that the Liberals would have a close shave, but they came into office again with a majority of 25. Three straight Equal Rights have been elected and fully half-a-dozen party men that had adopted the platform of the E. R. Assn. The Equal Rights polled 8000 votes in Toronto and 2000 in Ottawa, and between 25,000 and 30,000 in the province.

Dogs, &c.

"Mongrels, puppies, whelps and hounds Are dogs of low degree." The above beautiful lines contain the designation of some of the kinds, classes and breeds of dogs, which inhabit Wolfville and its vicinity.

Mail Contract.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the Postmaster General, will be received at Ottawa until noon, on Friday, 17th July, for the conveyance of Her Majesty's Mails, on a proposed Contract for four years, twelve times per week each way, between Auburn F. O. and Railway Station, from the 1st October, next.

Rev. James Buckley, after a long and successful career as a Wesleyan minister in this and adjoining Provinces, passed peacefully away at Halifax on Wednesday. He was a native of Hillsburgh, Ireland, and came to this country in 1820. He joined the Wesleyan ministry in 1837 and was at different times stationed at Wallace, Truro, Hopewell, N. B., Parrsboro, Bedouque, P. E. I., Sydney, C. B., Horton, Barrington, Lunenburg and other places. After becoming a supernumerary he settled in Guysboro, N. S., where he lived till four years ago. He leaves six children in Halifax, viz: Avery F. and Albert H. Buckley, druggist, and Mrs Braine, wife of R. T. Braine; two in Guysboro, Dr Geo. E. Buckley and James H. Buckley; and Revd. F. H. MES WALLACE'S RECITAL.—The recital by Miss Harriett E. Wallace, at S. of T. hall last evening, under the auspices of McClintock division, was attended by a large audience. Seven selections were given, and each of them was rendered in a finished and accomplished style, which reflected credit on the talented elocutionist and gave great pleasure to her hearers. The pathetic and the humorous were both embraced in the programme and were exemplified to perfection. Miss Wallace has a charming appearance and manner—has brought her art to a high pitch of excellence—and has a naturalness and freshness of style which cannot, and did not, fall to please. The scene from "The school for scandal," "The high tide," by Jean Ingelow, and "The first quarrel," by Tennyson, were well rendered and warmly applauded. "The milkmaid" and "The soldiers joy" were given with music accompaniment and were delightful, a remark, in fact, which can justly be made of all the numbers. HZ. Chronicle.

At the Driving Park.

A pleasant day's sport was had at the Kentville Driving Park on Wednesday. The attendance was fairly large and the horses appeared in good condition. The rain of the morning caused the track to be somewhat heavy, and in consequence the time in the colt races was not so good as it would otherwise have been. Mr Mason Griffin, of New Minas, acted as starter, and Messrs John Redden and Joseph Lyons, of Kentville, as judges. The first race to be called was for four-year-olds. In this race "Rocklight," owned and driven by Wells Rockwell, of Woodville; "Clay," owned and driven by J. W. Woodworth, of Centerville; "Caldbert," owned by W. C. Balcom, Hantsport, and driven by C. R. Bill, Jr., were started. After several times scoring the colts got away. The heat was a pretty one "Caldbert" coming in first, "Clay," second, "Rocklight" third, time 3:05. In the second heat the horses came in in the same order; time, 3:03. In the three last heats "Caldbert" and "Clay" changed positions giving the latter the race, 3:01 and 3 minutes. In the race for two-year-olds "Clay Boy," driven by C. R. Bill, Jr.; "Helena," driven by Alex. Mader; and "Frank James," driven by Wells Rockwell, were started. The order in which the horses got in in each heat was as follows: "Clay Boy" first, "Helena" second, "Frank James" third. This race was trotted in half-mile heats, best two in the three, time 1:45, 1:40 and 1:37. At 4:15 o'clock the 2:40 class was called. In this race "Gladstone," "Little Hope" and "Lily Bashaw" respended. "Gladstone" won in three straight heats, with "Little Hope" second, "Lily Bashaw" third; time 2:47, 2:45 and 2:46.

Presentation to Mr and Mrs Keddy.

The members of the senior class of the College who have been residents of Chipman Hall, on Wednesday morning before the closing, showed their appreciation and respect for Mr and Mrs Keddy by presenting them with a handsome berry dish and spoon in a silver stand. It was accompanied by the following address which was read by Mr L. J. Eaton. Mr Keddy responded in a suitable manner. To Mr and Mrs Keddy, In the name and on behalf of those of our class who have partaken of your hospitality for the last 3, 4, and even 5 years, I have the honor and extreme pleasure of presenting to you this little token, small though it is and in no means intended to fully repay you for the kindness and parental attention that we have received as your hands, yet you will please accept it as an expression of the kindly feeling and high esteem which we have learned to have for you both. Our immediate connection with you I suppose is about at an end now, we are no more to be the objects of your kind care but we ask as a great favor from you that whenever you look upon this or have occasion to use it you will think of your boys of '90 and be assured that they, one and all, are wishing you every success in your duties here and that the happiness which it is possible for you to obtain therefrom.

SUCCESS IN MARRIAGE.

The Sensible Views of an Extremely Sensible Woman.

Something About the Secrets of a Perfect Home Life—The Science of Good House-Keeping—How to Bear the Unpleasant Things of Life.

On the much mooted question, "Is Marriage a Failure?" a lady writes to the Chicago Inter-Ocean some remarks so sensible that we can not but quote them for the benefit of our readers:

A woman makes a failure of marriage unless she makes an effort to do a great deal more than is implied in her marriage contract.

It is supposed that the husband supplies the material for the home, and they are very rare materials indeed unless the wife takes hold of those means with the hand of a creator, building up out of them help and associations loved and needed by both.

As high as we must rate the accomplishment of good housekeeping, it is not all in the making of a home. I know a lady who was a marked failure as a housekeeper who was the idol of her husband and graduated to the world a family of accomplished and honored children.

It is the quality of recognizing and filling need that is the essential quality of success in marriage. Practically, if a man comes home from business with a headache, hungry for a bit of sympathy and love, and a good deal of quiet, and finds his wife in a raging excitement over an elaborate dinner, and is ordered to keep out of the way and amuse the children till the great proceeding is consummated, he is about as unfortunate as the man who brings a college friend home to dinner and finds his wife in wrapper and slippers deep in a French novel.
