The Sound of Wedding Bells

— OR —
Won After Great Perseverance!

CHAPTER IX.
CHAPTER X.

In one mass of confusion the dog-cart and its wild team collapse. Sir Hugh finds himself thrown out on to the mossy bank, and scrambles to his feet, shaken, but unhurt, perhaps because he is used to being hurled from his horse and otherwise knocked about. He scrambles to his feet and looks round with a sudden sinking at his heart, that dull throbbing of apprehension and terror which most of us have felt.

Where is Dulcie?
The leader is sprawling on the ground, entangled in the traces, the wheeler stands trembling and flicking the foam from his mouth; the dog-cart, minus a wheel and with broken shafts, lies over on its side. But Sir Hugh scarcely regards the total wreck, for there, lying with her head upon her arms, is the tall, slim figure, fearfully limp and straight, terribly still and—yes, dead-looking!

Hugh has seen many a comrade prone and dead upon the field on the morning after the battle, and has not shrunk, though full of sorrow, to approach him; but he shrinks and stands appalled a moment before this graceful, girlish form, and his heart falls him; but it is only for a moment; the next he turns to her, and kneeling down raises her in his arms. The face is white, the eyes closed, but "thank Heaven!" he murmurs, "she is alive."
Then infinite pity takes the place of infinite fear, he presses her closer to him and looks round eagerly for water.

Also! there is no sign of even a ditch; and the groom! Where is he?
With something like a groan, Hugh still holding her in his arms, rises and looks round. There is a keeper's cottage within a little distance, but for the life of him he cannot bring himself to lay her down and leave while he fetches assistance. There are no wolves, no ferocious animals of any description in Holme Woods, but he cannot force himself to relinquish the girl who, when conscious, is so proud and willful, now that she is unconscious and helpless—less so trustfully and quietly in his arms.
No! he will carry her. After all, she is not heavier than a soldier with his accoutrements, and he has often carried a fellow comrade off the field. So raising her that her head may rest upon his breast, he strides slowly and carefully away, bestowing not even a glance upon the horses—for all he cares, they may bolt to the moon; he has only one thought, and that is of Dulcie.

"Would to Heaven," he mutters, "I had not persuaded her to come! Has she come to Holme Castle to meet her death? That cursed will! Poor girl! poor girl!"

In the new-born pity which floods his heart, he loses all remembrance of the pettish willfulness, the downright ridicule which she had treated him to. She looks so still, so placid, so peaceful, and so exquisitely lovely, with her white face upon which the dark fringes of her lashes lie black and sweeping that all the past is forgotten, and for the present there are only infinite pity and tenderness. For all her slowness, she is no light weight. She is tall, and an inert figure is so much dead weight, and he pauses a moment to get his breath.

As he does so a slight shudder runs through her form, and he feels her heart throb against his; the next instant she opens her eyes and looks at him, dazed and bewildered, but conscious, and in his sudden thankfulness and joy he murmurs her name.
"Dulcie, my dear! Dulcie, my darling! Are you better? My poor darling!"

She does not understand for a moment, then her face flushes slowly, and she closes her eyes, and he fears that she has fainted again.
"Dulcie!" he whispers, kneeling on a rising bank and holding her in his arms, "are you hurt? Are you in pain? Speak to me if you can! Oh, my darling, I am so sorry!"
The words, the tone, the look, are so full of tenderness and love that Dulcie lies still, half-bewildered by the change in him. Can she be dreaming? Is this the stern, grim Sir Hugh, the soldier with the Victoria Cross? Dulcie does not know much of the poets; she has never read the line, that pregnant line:
"Staunch as a woman, tender as a man."

And the change in his manner startles her. Then she realizes that she is lying in his arms and on his heart, and the white face grows carmine.
"Where am I?" she asks, rather faintly. "What has happened?" and she makes an effort to liberate herself and rise, but Sir Hugh still holds her firmly, tenderly.
"Thank Heaven!" he murmurs, with a breath of relief. "Are you much hurt? Are you in pain anywhere? Try and see. I am terribly anxious."
She looks up at him, and as the remembrance of the accident comes back to her, a smile breaks upon her lips and shines in her dark eyes—Dulcie would smile at the stake—and with the smile a strange shyness and embarrassment. Why does he hold her so tightly?

"No, I am not hurt; at least I don't think so. Certainly I am not in any pain, excepting a few bruises. My head—"
"Ah!" he says, anxiously.
"My head is awfully heavy and dull. Do you think it is broken?" and she smiles again.
"How can I tell," she says, "while—while—you hold me?"
It is his turn to color now.
"I—I beg your pardon," he says, and he withdraws his infolding arms, but slightly and reluctantly. "Now," he says.

Dulcie rises and stands upright, and holding both his arms, and he, still on his knees, looks up at her; they make a charming picture, if they only knew it; but just now they are thinking of anything but graceful poses.
"No," she says, ruminatingly. "No, I don't think anything is broken, and I should know it, shouldn't I? But you?" with a swift, downward glance.
"I?" he says, impatiently. "I am all right, I fell on the moss; but you! I saw you lying there against that tree—"
"and he stops with something like a shudder as the remembrance of the white face and still form comes back to him.
She laughs softly.
"I am afraid I must have hurt the tree," she says. "I remember knocking against it; I think it was my head. After all, there is an advantage in being stupid, isn't there? My school-mistress always said I had a thick head, and I am sure, now, that she was right. But," after a pause, "I feel strangely tired!"

"Sit down," he says, and he pulls her arm gently; "sit down. You have been terribly shaken. Rest here, while I run and get you some water. You don't mind my leaving you? I shall be only a few minutes. Where can that fool of a George be?"
Dulcie sits down, and after looking at her anxiously for a moment, he runs off. Left alone, Dulcie sits with her hands clasped, her eyes fixed on the wreck; the leader is on his feet now, and he and his companion are nibbling at the grass as if nothing had happened; but it is not of the broken dog-cart or the horses that she is thinking. Has she been dreaming while in that awful dead kind of trance—Dulcie has never fainted before in her life—or did she really hear the words, "My dear! My darling!"
She ponders on this for some moments, while the tell-tale flush goes and comes in her face.
"My dear! My darling!" No! Certainly Sir Hugh, the grim and cold, could not use such words, and especially to her; if he used them at all, it would be to the meek-faced, "mousey" young lady named Lucy Fairfax, not to her—Dulcie.
And yet—and yet! And then, why did he hold her so tightly?
Before she had done with the question Sir Hugh returns, walking gingerly, as people do when they carry a glass of water and want to hurry.
"Are you all right?" he calls out.
Dulcie nods.
"Quite, thanks."
"Drink that," he says. "Stop! What an idiot I am. I quite forgot it."
And he pulls out a diminutive silver flask, and pours its contents into the water.
"What is it?" she asks. "Brandy?"
"Ugh!"
And she shudders.
"Never mind—drink it," he says, almost imperatively. "I quite forgot I had it—in fact, I lost my head most unaccountably to see you lying there—"
And he glances at the spot, and is eloquently silent.
She sips the mixture, and disposes of about half of it then hands the glass to him.
"Please finish it, if you don't mind. I—I'm very sorry but I can't bear brandy and water; it always reminds me of the Channel passage."

And she laughs.
He puts down the glass, and stands beside her, looking down at her as she sits with clasped hands. In the confusion, a coil of the raven-black hair has become unfastened, and streams down her back; her hat lies with the rest of the wreck. She makes, sitting there so quiet and still, a picture which he will carry with him to the grave, and which stirs his pulses now, while he is living, so that he can almost hear his heart beat.
There is silence between them for some minutes or so, a silence which somehow Dulcie feels an anxiety, and she breaks it without looking up.
"Hadh't we better go now? How about those poor horses—"
"D—confound the horses!" he says. "Never mind them, think of yourself. I can't get the idea out of my head that you must be hurt. Are you sure you don't feel any aching pain anywhere?"
She shakes her head.
"I feel stiff, that is all—and that will soon go off. What a good thing that Edie didn't ride with you."
"Yes," he says, but not so heartily as he might. "Yes, quite so; but I wish to Heaven I had come by myself. By the way, why didn't you do as I told you?"
She looks up inquiringly, but her eyes droop.
"Why didn't you jump down when I gave you the word? You would have been all right then?"
She laughs softly.
"I feel that that have been rather unkind?" she says—"something like taking to the boats before the others when the ship is going down? No, I couldn't do that."
"Good heavens!" he exclaims, "you don't mean to say that you were thinking of me?"
She is silent at this straight question, and plucks at the moss thoughtfully.
"What would it have mattered about me?" he says. "I should have been all right—I was, you see. I wish you had jumped. Do you never do what you are bid?"

He does not ask the question angrily, as he would have done an hour ago, but with a reproachful gentleness.
She shakes her head.
"Never!" she says. "Ask Aunt Fernor. I have never done as I have been told, and that is why I am always getting into scrapes. What will they say at the Castle?" she goes on. "I am quite sure Lady Falconer will put it all down to my account, and not altogether unjustly, seeing that it was I who persuaded you to come through the wood. How she will love me!" and she laughs ruefully.
"What does it matter?" he says, with impatience. "The great thing is that you have escaped—if you have? Will you stand up?"
She stands up.
"Let us go," she says. "I suppose we can walk. Look at that fearful wreck! and those poor horses; they don't seem to mind much."
"Never mind the horses—confound them!" he says. "Take my arm. There is a footpath through here to the Castle. We must walk slowly. You must take my arm!" for she has not obeyed him.
She puts her hand upon his arm, and they set off; but after a few steps she stops.
"I feel awfully tired," she says. "Are you all right? Sit down here and rest, while you go on and tell them there that it is all right—I mean all wrong!"
"Certainly not," he retorts. "Sit down there," and he leads her to a bank. "Do you suppose I would leave you? Shall I go and fetch some more water? Would you like to go to the cottage? You need not walk. I can carry you."
As she remembers her late experience, a flush leaps up to her face.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S FIRST SCHOONER UNDER NEW SHIPPING H. H. Blanchet insert

Mr. H. H. Blanchet, of Toronto, was in the city yesterday en route for St. John's, Newfoundland, where he will interest himself in wooden shipbuilding.

"While in Ottawa," said Mr. Blanchet, "I had an interview with Hon. J. D. Hazen, minister of marine and fisheries, during which I secured a promise from that gentleman to bonus that steel company in Canada which would build a mill to make steel ship-plates, after which I went to Montreal and interviewed Mark Workman, President of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company.

"My statement so impressed Mr. Workman that he told me he would go to Ottawa and have Hon. Mr. Hazen confirm this, and have this bonus go into effect.

"I have just spent a week in Montreal," said Mr. Blanchet, "with the Board of Trade, Mr. Ross, harbor commissioner; J. W. Norcross, Canada Steamship Lines; Mr. Wolvin, Dominion Transportation Co.; Thomas Robb, manager Shipping Federation of Canada; Fred Yorston, editor Montreal Standard; Mr. Gordon-Smith, editor-in-chief Montreal Herald; Mr. Archibald, editor of Montreal Star, and the majority of them say that the Dominion government must bonus wooden shipbuilding $20 for fifteen years, as Newfoundland has done for several years. I saw Colonel Gear, of the British Munition Board, Ottawa. He was to act on instructions he received from England—Sydney Daily Post, September 25, 1917.

Small Hope for Russia.

The Times: In the West there has been far too much expectation of a miraculous restoration of Russia's fighting capacity. We have been told that Russia is unlike other countries, that her powers of rapid recuperation are exceptional, that she is capable of the most marvellous changes, that she has a resilience under adversity we Western nations do not possess. No experienced soldier has lately shared these rosy hopes, for armies which have sunk to the depths of slothful degradation now reached by the Russian troops take a long time and an iron discipline to recover their manhood. The comparisons made with the Revolutionary armies of France at the end of the eighteenth century are extremely misleading. The old Royalist troops were the nucleus of the armies of Revolutionary France and won the early victories. The French artillerymen from whom Napoleon sprang, were the finest in Europe, and they stuck firmly to their batteries through the most troubled period.

Public Morals Committees.

The outburst of Judge Morris, on Saturday, at the Court House, was one well merited and showed the necessity for some stand to be taken to give the fallen a chance to buck up against their own weakness, instead of being forced to go out with the tide eventually becoming the flotsam and jetsam of life.

What is needed most in this country is a Public Morals Committee! There is no doubt that this formation would be a step in the right direction. At any rate it would help to eradicate the evil and so pave the way for many an unfortunate to step back before the current has proved too strong. This committee would form a valuable adjunct in all social problems particularly as these have been affected by war conditions. The war with its loss of such large numbers of adult manhood of the Empire, has raised the decline of birth rate coupled with infantile mortality to one of the greatest importance. Some of our best medical aid can vouch for the appearance of disease in our midst. Some will say it is up to the church to be up and doing. The church may do a part but if one and all are not prepared to do their bit we cannot blame the church. Wise counsel may be given by ministers and elders on the delicate questions of marriage and parenthood. Everyone ought to make up his mind as to the attitude to the conscious limitations of the family. There is a tendency for families to be banned. Restrictions are often put in the way of applicants for situations who have families. This is thoroughly unchristian and ought to be reprobated.

Dealing with the housing problem, there are many homes to-day in our midst which can show some three, four and five people living and sleeping in one room. Now if a Public Morals Committee were formed, no doubt the housing would not be in that condition. With private life so public. Alcohol is the deadly barge which was being dropped by the enemy's artillery, which was exterminating our young forces as they went forward into the battle of life. Now that that has been silenced where are the fighters for prohibition? Has their love of humanity ceased? Was that all the evil to be contended with? Look around friends, you are still needed.

Commenting on the disease subject, it may be likened to nothing short of a bomb dropped into our public life. The curtain has been torn down and the skeleton in our national and public cupboard stands there for any one to see. The report ought to be printed in red on paper of black. It is certainly appalling. It has certainly killed one of the most pernicious falsehoods that had ever walked this earth. "Let a man sow his wild oats." We are to have a visit shortly from some reformers of social life. More is the pity that we could not have had in this country of ours a Public Morals Committee, to show that we are in a small way in love with our fellow-beings.—Com.

"K" in the War.

(From the London Chronicle.)
Have you noticed how the letter "K" prevails in events that mark the great war? At present interest is centred on the conflict between Russia's K's—Kerensky and Korniloff. The was hatched by a Prussian K—Kaiser—to spread Kultur by means of Kruppism, and our reliance stem the tide of barbarism was on K, of K and —khaki.

Annual Meeting of Truckmen's Union.

Last night the annual meeting of the Truckmen's Union took place. President Barter presiding over a large attendance of members. The Secretary and Treasurer submitted their reports, which showed the organization to be in healthy financial standing. Twelve members, who had lost their horses during the past year, were paid the usual amount of $40 each from the Union. It was decided, after much discussion to discontinue this sort of benefit and substitute therefore the paying of $60 to a family in case of a member's death and $40 in the event of the death of his wife. This scheme was approved of and adopted.

Election of officers for the ensuing year was conducted by Mr. N. Murphy and resulted as follows:—
President—Jonas Barter.
Vice-President—George Summers.
Asst. V. P.—Ralph Murrin.
Treasurer—M. O'Neil.
Asst. Treasurer—P. Malone.
Secretary—Thomas Rice.
Asst. Secretary—Harvey Thomas.
Committee—Charles Lester, James Dunn, Sr., and D. Fitzgerald.

Lengthy debate occurred on the hauling of freights to the coastal wharves and the unnecessary delay in connection therewith, especially at this time of the year. Votes of thanks were extended to the press. Ten new members were initiated at the meeting.

"Cascarets" for a Cold, Bad Breath or Sick Headache

Best for liver and bowels, for biliousness, sour stomach and constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now.
Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret at night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Leonard H Sully.

Leonard H. Sully, aged 48 years, passed away at his home, 280 Harvard street, Sunday afternoon, September 16, after a lingering illness of 10 weeks.

He was a native of New Harbour, Newfoundland, and a resident of Medford the past 10 years.

As a builder and contractor he had a successful business career, being identified with the building of many houses on Harvard and Marion streets, also in the Winter Hill section and the Powder House Boulevard Somerville.

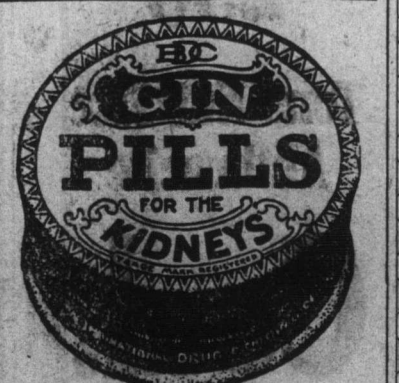

He was held in high esteem by business associates in Boston and Medford, also by a large circle of friends.

He married Miss Emma Pretty, of Dildo, Newfoundland, who survives him, also a son, Raymond C., a daughter, Miss Ethel Sully, and a mother, Mrs. Ollerhead, living in the home; a brother in New York and a sister, Mrs. C. Kelley, of Concord.

He was a member of the East Boston Lodge of Odd Fellows, Manchester Unity.

Funeral services were held at his late home, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Dwight W. Hadley, of Grace Episcopal Church. Two selections, "Abide With Me" and "On Christ the Solid Rock I stand," were sung by a quartette from the Marion street church: Mrs. Wallace Campbell, Miss Esther Anderson, Ralph Richardson and John Anderson.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Burial was at Glenwood Cemetery, Everett.—Ex.

GERMANY AFRAID OF U. S.

LONDON, To-day.
In discussing the entry of the United States into the war Viscount Grey, Former Foreign Secretary, in a preface to a collection of statements by President Wilson in a pamphlet here, declares it is now clear that the military and naval success of German arms in Europe could not secure a German peace. Viscount Grey's remarks are printed by the Daily News. Germany, he says, cannot get peace except on conditions that the United States might consider essential to its own interests and to the further peace and freedom of the world. It is impossible to get around this fact and it is not surprising that Germany dare not face it and turns her back upon it: that she may not face it, for that is what the organized silence and contempt in Germany of the action in the United States really means.

JAP. WRITER SAYS BRITAIN STIFF-TOWARDS JAPAN.

WASHINGTON, To-day.
The plain intimation that with the entrance of the United States in the world war the British Government, which has an offensive and defensive alliance with Japan, completely changed her attitude to one of greater stiffness toward Japan is conveyed in a remarkable article which has just appeared in the Laive, a magazine of high repute in Japan. A translation of this article received in Washington does not mention Great Britain by name but the inference is plain that this is the nation that is meant in connection with the matter. The unnamed nation mentioned in the article is declared to have sent an outspoken communication to Japan last spring, conveying the intimation that Japan was one of the Entente Allies and should not be reaping great benefits from the war without sharing to a greater extent in the burdens of war, and that following the delivery of this communication, whether caused by it or not, the despatch of Japanese destroyers to the Mediterranean became an accomplished fact.

GERMAN WARFARE.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, To-day.—A German airman has dropped bombs on two hospitals behind the British lines. Three British nurses and some wounded soldiers were killed.

SENTENCED TO LONG TERMS.
The Grand Jury having brought in a true Bill against Walter and Alexander Morgan for larceny and against Jonathan Raynes for carnally knowing a young girl under sixteen years of age, the prisoners were brought up for trial at this morning's session of the Supreme Court. The two former pleaded guilty and were sentenced to 2½ and 2 years, respectively, with hard labour, dating from the time of their committal.

Serious Charge.

A nineteen year old female, belonging to a northern outpost, was arraigned before Judge Morris to-day, charged with concealment of birth. She pleaded guilty, but owing to her physical condition, as she just left the Rescue Home, sentence was reserved.

Inspection of Troops

And Presentation of Medals.

At 11 a.m. to-day His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by the Hon. J. R. Bennett, Minister of Militia, visited the Regimental Headquarters and inspected the soldiers and Foresters now in training. On arrival at the Armoury His Excellency shook hands with the officers, the following being present: Major Montgomerie, Sergt. Major Paterson, Major Carty, Capt. Clayton, Capt. O'Grady, Lieuts. Ellis, Herder and Peckham. After the inspection His Excellency, in addressing the men, spoke of the valor of the Regiment which had gained for itself undying fame and urged on those who will shortly take their place in the firing line to uphold the honor and record so nobly established by the brave boys who had gone before. He warned them against the temptations that they would be up against and to conduct themselves as gentlemen, always bearing in mind that we at home had their interest at heart and looked to them to maintain the honor of the land of their birth. His Excellency concluded by wishing the gallant lads every success.

Hon. J. R. Bennett, who a few days ago returned from Ottawa, Canada, spoke encouraging words to the men and in brief described his trip to the Great Dominion. Everywhere you go, down, speak very highly of the wonderful work performed by our Regiment. While at Ottawa's chief hotel one of our officers, who was standing on the landing, was approached by no less a person than General Sir Sam Hughes, who on learning that the officer belonged to the 10th Regiment, expressed himself as being proud to meet a representative of so gallant a regiment. Mr. Bennett felt content that the recruiting campaign now being started would bring forth good results, and he would regret having to use influence that we do not want to use.

His Excellency the Governor in a very pleasing manner then presented medals to the parents of the following heroes:

- Capt. Bert Butler, Military Cross with Bar; presented to his father, Mr. John J. Butler, of Topsail.
- Pte. Wilfred Curran, No. 122, Military Medal; presented to his father, Mr. Thomas Curran, City.
- Sergt. Archibald Gooby, Military Medal; presented to his mother, Mrs. S. Gooby, City.
- Corpl. John Hillier, 1878, Military Medal; presented to his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hillier.

Two Men Killed by Premature Explosion.

From people who arrived by the S.S. Prospero yesterday we learn particulars, though very meagre, how two men named Vigners and Collins lost their lives in the Tilt Cove Copper Mines on Saturday morning last. Both men who had been working together put in a blast. A premature explosion occurred with the result that they were completely buried in by the falling earth and killed instantly.

The Washington Revelations.
The United States Government is pursuing at present a remarkable policy—a campaign we might call it. There are thousands of worthy American citizens, not ordinarily subject to brain fog, who still refuse to believe what is said about Germany and are convinced that she is not half as black as she is painted, an attitude of mind not over-helpful to the vigorous prosecution of the war that is desirable. For the enlightenment and possible conversion of these good folks, Washington is permitting Mr. Lansing to dip here and there into a considerable store of documents and other evidence, patiently amassed during the past three years by the secret service, which serve to show to some extent the doubts with which the Germans daub themselves, relieving the rest of the world of any necessity to do the painting. It is as if he selected for publication a little disclosure from one pigeon-hole after another, leaving the impression that the whole accumulation is only lightly touched. The record already revealed is sufficient to convict anyone retaining a shred of sympathy with that cultured country of a state of mind of which German birth and associations or German gold provides the only explanation.
Even the known barbarities of the Hun, forced upon a world reluctant to believe them, receive an additional emphasis and variety from the disclosures thus made during the past few weeks alone. There was first the Argentine episode, no surprise but discovering a new form, a species or classification, of German intrigue and underhandedness and establishing beyond doubt the general truth that all German emissaries to neutral countries are simply spies sent to act against the states to which they are accredited in the interests of the dear old fatherland. The Mexican exposure on the same line was merely corroboration and confirmation. Similar in principle but naively fresh in application is the Bernstein plot to bribe and corrupt American senators and

6 Months for Burglary

Edward Crossman, a 16-year-old boy, corrigible, who was released from prison only a few days ago, was arrested last evening charged with burglarizing the confectionery store of Mr. A. S. He appeared before Judge Morris to-day, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

Nerves of the Stomach

Were Weak and Inactive as Result of Nervous Prostration—Lost Twenty Pounds—Had to Take Sleeping Powders to Get Any Rest.
St. Catharines, Ont., October 2nd, 1917.—Many people never realize that the movement and action of every organ of the human body is dependent on the energy supplied by the nervous system.
When the nervous system gets run down there is weakness throughout the entire body. You feel tired and languid and your stomach and other digestive organs are similarly affected. Appetite fails, digestion is poor, you do not get the good of what you eat and gradually grow weaker and weaker.
This process can only be stopped by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which goes directly to create new nerve force and thereby to invigorate the whole human body.
Mrs. Geo. S. Ellis, 445 Davidson street, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "My husband had an attack of nervous prostration, and, although he recovered for some time, he tried different other medicines, he could get no relief. He had to resort to sleeping powders given him by the doctor to make him sleep. The greater part of the trouble seemed to be with the nerves of his stomach. He began to lose weight, and kept on going down until he had lost twenty pounds. He had read advertisements in the newspaper for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and noticed that it seemed to be doing a lot of good for people troubled with nervousness, so my husband decided to try it. He found benefit almost from the start, and continued the treatment until he had taken about twelve or thirteen boxes. The results were most satisfactory. He is now enjoying good health, sleeps well, has gained back nearly all the weight he had lost. He also uses Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills occasionally, and thinks them an excellent remedy. He has also used this latter medicine for dizzy spells and liver trouble, and is completely cured of these complaints. We think a great deal of Dr. Chase's medicines, and cannot speak too highly of them."
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes, $2.75, at all dealers, or Edman's, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. It will not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

She will be taken to a mooring place and always be kept as she is for use as a yacht. While she was advertised for sale, in order to retain her here the purchasers had more money for her than she had. She has been brought to be used as a merchant vessel.

War Foretold Thirty Years Ago.

The fact that the Kaiser was destined to play the role of the modern Attila and become the scourge of Europe was prophesied nearly thirty years ago in a remarkable article published in the New York Times in April 1888, by Harold Frederic, the famous novelist and correspondent.

At that date, of course, the Kaiser was still Crown Prince of Prussia, and Mr. Frederic who was in Berlin on behalf his Newspaper, had many opportunities of coming into contact with him.

"One shudders," Mr. Harold Frederic wrote, "as one pats the mild, contemplative head of the blood-couraged solely because of the stories that have been told of the terrible ferocity which lurks under the sleek and gentle exterior. In the same way you look into the face of this young heir of the Hohenzollerns and remember with wondering reservations the malignant tales which have been told of his inner nature by those who knew it best."

"Their dislike for him is based on a general conception of his character. This view is that he is utterly cold, entirely selfish, wantonly cruel, a young man without conscience or compassion, or any softening virtues whatever. He is saturated with all the instincts and ideas which have raised this parvenu Prussia to its present eminence, and his character is the crown and flower of two centuries of might with ruthlessness and spoliation exalted into a creed."

"On the other hand, his mother is the best royal product of a totally and fundamentally different civilization. Prince William habitually speaks of his mother to his associates and familiars as 'the English Woman. He ostentatiously addressed her in German, although he knew English perfectly, and she has always made a point of having her children speak English in the family circle."

"We all know that it is a mere matter of months before he will be the autocratic master of 2,000,000 armed men. The question is, What will he do? The most common answer is that he will overrun Europe. It seems very probable that some future Taine, a century hence, perhaps, will write to show that William II of Prussia and the German Empire was a mysterious belated survival of the antediluvian Goths and Vandals—an Attila born a thousand and more years after his time."

"Nobody with eyes in his head could have passed the week just ended in Berlin without recognising that if a fire-brand comes to the throne the materials are close-crowded upon him for a terrible conflagration."

"Even now, when I go downstairs in this hotel to eat my dinner, one half the men at the tables are officers in uniform. The elevator boy touches his cap to me with a military salute. The waiters when they received my order turn on their heels like fusilliers under the eye of a drill sergeant. The military spirit pervades everything and everybody."

"What this means is that the army here in Germany will utterly swamp what organized pacific instincts there are in the empire the moment a young fighting Kaiser draws his sword and cries out: 'Who will follow me?'"

"The military is all powerful in all the upper middle and higher grades of society. Little of provocation, of the popular appeals to national feeling would make it master of nine-tenths of the German people. Kaiser Wilhelm II in the gleam of his youthful distinction of face and figure, of his deep Teutonic prejudices, of his all-controlling belief in himself and his race and his destiny, could hurl a practical united Germany East, West or South a month after he had ascended the Hohenzollern throne."

"This is not a pleasant or human conclusion, but it is a necessary one."

"Soda Mint and Pepsin Tablets are excellent for heartburn, sour stomach, and slight cases of indigestion. One or two taken occasionally after food will aid digestion. Price 15c. a bottle."

"Our Ice Cream Counter is still running. We intend this year to have Ice Cream served till the 15th of October, anyway. Price 10c. Sundaes and College Ices, 15c."

Household Notes.

Rice can be made into a delicious savory dish with left-over sausage. Cranberries may be canned in cold water and kept for some time. Cold water will soothe the pain of any sudden inflammation of the eye. Red currants, chopped raisins and orange peel make a good preserve. The canary fancier should know that the birds love nasturtium blossoms. Save even a quarter cupful of left-over food—something can be done with it. If there is no food, garbage or uncleanness about, flies will not be attracted. Don't use fresh fruits when the coarser vegetables are included in the meal. Hulled corn is one of the old-time New England dishes which is coming into favor. To make a dish of rice a well-balanced meal, fat and flavour should be added. Salt codfish with egg sauce, baked potato and a green salad makes an excellent lunch.

Building Boom at Curling.

Quite a building boom is on here just now. In addition to the construction of the Davis Hotel which has been going on throughout the season, considerable alterations have been made at the Deaneary to put it in readiness for the occupancy of the nuns, and repairs effected to St. Patrick's Hall. Jas. Barry has taken over the bungalow formerly occupied by J. T. Thorne, has raised the roof and is making a two-story cottage of it. Mr. Thorne has started the erection of a new bungalow, on LeMoine's property. Last week two carloads of lumber were landed at the C. E. school grounds, and work on the erection of a new school building to replace the Curling Memorial School destroyed by fire a little over a year ago, is expected to start within a few days. Alex. Read is having a wing added to the building occupied by Dr. Bullard. Several other dwelling houses are under course of erection, and the remainder of the present season promises to be a busy one for our carpenters.—Western Star, Sept. 28.

PLAIN SPEAKING.

LONDON, To-day. Joseph Havelock Wilson, General Secretary of the National Seamen's Union, in a speech at Middlesborough last night declared that all want peace but were not going to have a German peace. "It has been said that it is impossible to have a military victory. Well, if we cannot win the war with such a great weight as that of the United States, we do not deserve to win it at all." The speaker declared that some pacifists who lost every country but their own would make believe that Great Britain was as guilty in this war as the Germans. I can only describe them, he said, "as story foolish men."

LONDON, To-day. General Louis Botha in addressing the opening of the Convention of the South African Party, according to a despatch from Pretoria, says the war was forced upon the Allies and the only thing to do now was to fight to a finish. The Premier added, "Let a peace come which will benefit the whole world and enable every country to shape its future on a sound basis."

Take a Chance.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Hardening of the Arteries in His Courage.

"I used to," said the Authorman, "but when this thing came up I found myself dreading it because it was taking a chance, and then I looked myself over and found I'd been getting into the habit of dreading to take chances, and I can tell you it made me sick. Here I am, not yet forty and beginning to play it safe. I just said, 'My son, you've got to limber up. You're getting hardening of the arteries in your courage. What's the use of living if you get to playing safe all the time? Stop it.'"

"I don't know as playing safe is such a bad thing," said the Authorman's Critic. "You get more that way."

"I Wouldn't Try Any Experiments"

"More What?" said the Authorman, "surely not more out of life. Why I knew a man whose first thought every minute was to play safe. He never did anything or went anywhere without thinking first if there was anything unsafe in it. When his wife wanted to do anything new he'd always say 'Now I wouldn't try any experiments, Emma.' That was his watchword. And I never knew anyone get less out of life than he did."

"Don't you think you're taking more of a chance than the thing is worth?" some one asked the Authorman in regard to a little venture he was planning. "I certainly do," said the Authorman, "and that's one of my biggest reasons for doing it."

The Things One Could Say.

The Authorman smiled, a fleeting little smile, that means there are many things he could say but that he realizes the futility of saying them.

But after the objector had gone he opened the little wallet in which he keeps some of his favorite scraps of wisdom and read aloud from a tattered bit of paper:

"Not the laurel but the race
Not the quarry but the chase
Not the hazard but the play
Make me, Lord, enjoy alway."

THE INSTALLMENT PLAN.

The installment plan is a beneficent device which enables people to buy in hope and pay in despair. Hardly a day passes by without some citizen who is seven-eighths insolvent investing $6.45 in a three-piece bedroom suite, only to be greeted every thirty days by an urbane, thick-necked collector in whose breast the milk of human kindness has entirely evaporated.

The encyclopedia can be used for holding down the corner of a rug or making a high chair for baby.

There are a great many good things to be said about the installment plan, but they are not appreciated until the last payment has been made and memory has ceased to rankle in serviced ranks. If it were not for the installment plan thousands of American homes would be a stranger that that masterpiece of fiction, the encyclopedia, which can be used for so many useful purposes, from holding down the corner of a rug to making a high chair for the baby. How many of us would be able to tell whether Shakespeare was a poet or a new brand of hand collar if we had not been able to buy him in long, agonizing leaps, each one crowded full of remorse and gloomy forebodings? Some of the best private libraries in this country have been collected in a slow, perspiring manner by impecunious bookworms who live on cracked wheat and fresh air during the life of the contract.

One of the most philanthropic acts ever performed by the installment plan was when it decided to furnish the needy with stout, shiny automobiles which could be paid for in monthly spasms. As a result of this beneficence, vast numbers of trim touring cars are running up and down our streets with a musical differential and timing gears that are thirty minutes late. No man whose wife has $100 in the bank need be without an automobile these days, thanks to the prompt and energetic workings of the installment plan, which visits the humblest home every four weeks with outstretched paw and an adamant look.

While the installment plan has brought happiness and scrub oak chiffoniers into many a home, it should not be indulged in to excess. It is considerably wiser to go without something you don't need than to buy it because the payments won't begin until the insurance and taxes and rent fall due. The wise guy of the present generation is the man who does without until his money can reach around both ends of the contract, and then takes the cash discount.

ALWAYS SOMETHING.

There's always something calls for brine, if one's inclined to mope and whine. The weather man provides a day that ought to please the carping jay; the breeze is smooth, the elm and beech. It is a day when normal men throw up their lids and grow and thrive, and thank their gods that they're alive. But you will see the mournful hick who says such weather makes him sick. He says the sweet and balmy breeze is spreading microbes and disease. "Unless we soon have snow and frost," he mutters, "we shall all be lost." It is easy to discover good in any earthly neighborhood, it is a marvel there are gents who still are sulking in their tents. I go forth in the Autumn dawn, and loaf around upon my lawn, and see a world so bright and fair, I can't believe it's stocked with care. And then my neighbour yells across, "This country is a total loss! They're jacking up the income tax until it's backing to break our backs."

Accepting Their Own Terms.

With altogether unaffected joy Germany and Austria accept the proposal put forward by the Pope as opening the way to a peace "lasting and honorable for all parties." The wise fathers of the Berlin and Vienna Chancelleries know their own child and give it whole-hearted welcome. Their unqualified acceptance of the Vatican's suggestions was expected, was certain, and gives the last full confirmation to the new universal theory of the origin of the Pope's note. It was put forth on the initiative of the Teutonic Powers, embodied their peace terms, its acceptance by the Allies would have committed them to the negotiation of a German peace.

Pope Benedict, under the persuasions of Vatican advisers far more subtle and sophisticated than himself, addressed the belligerents in terms that made a deeply painful impression upon the civilized world. He, the guide and mentor in all matters of faith and morals of a large part of the people of the earth, spoke to England, France, America, and Italy in quite the same tones he used with Germany; all had given way to passion, if there were fault, all were apparently blamable in equal measure, therefore let them come together and be friends. There was not a thought, not a word, in the document that showed any perception of a moral difference in the conduct of the two belligerent groups or in the causes for which they contend. This, from the seat of infallible moral judgment, was so distressing that the world acquitted his Holiness of responsibility on the ground that in his preoccupation with spiritual matters he must of necessity leave these worldly concerns to his political advisers.

The Central Powers accept the note, and here at last they are sincere. These are peace terms they can embrace, abide by, will discuss at the council table; they would be more glad than they dare avow if the Allies would also approve them. But the Allies long since rejected these German terms. President Wilson's letter of reply disposed of them as wholly unsatisfactory, not for a moment to be considered as a basis for conference. The notes in which Germany and Austria reply to the Pope are as indefinite as his own note, inasmuch that it may be said that no terms of peace at all are presented for consideration. There was no promise either of a lasting peace or of a durable peace in the Vatican proposal, and it is the unalterable determination of the Allies to prosecute the war with all vigor until a peace can be made that will be honorable and secure. But it is natural that Germany and Austria should catch at this straw—they are drowning.—N. Y. Times.

Everyday Etiquette.

"Should I be particular to see the mother of my girl friend when I call before leaving?" inquired Jessie.
"Having been entertained in the home of a girl or young man friend, whether the company be large or small, she does not leave the home without seeking the mother of her host or hostess and expressing appreciation of the hospitality," answered sister Marion.

ENEMY RENEWS ATTACKS BUT IS COMPLETELY REPULSED.

ROME, Oct. 1 (Official). On the Bainsizza plateau the enemy renewed his attack on the positions recently occupied by us; he was completely repulsed. The number of prisoners taken in the offensive action of the last three days is 2,019, including 61 officers.

ARTILLERY FIGHTING IN FLANDERS.

BERLIN, Oct. 1. Intense artillery activity in Flanders is reported in to-day's official report of the army headquarters staff. Reconnoitering operations along the French front resulted in the capture of prisoners by the Germans. There was only moderate activity in Verdun sector, says the statement.

ENEMY ARTILLERY ACTIVE.

LONDON, Oct. 1. The enemy's artillery fire has been pronounced in the night time in the Neuport sector and east and north of Ypres, says to-day's official statement, otherwise there is nothing to report.

THE FLANDERS SITUATION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. Shaken but still powerful is the estimate of Germany's defensive strength on the west front given in this week's official issued by the war department. The statement follows: The battle of Menin Road and Ypres salient which promises to be one of the great battles of the war is following its normal course. Last week we recorded gains of the British in this sector and this week we must note the desperate attempts of the Germans to retake the lost ground. It is evident the efforts of the enemy in this sector are not actuated merely by a desire to regain the lost terrain of little more than tactical value, nor must their persistent attacks be considered merely the normal reaction of modern field engagement in which counter attack invariably follows attacks, but rather it is to be noted the enemy realizes fully the immense strategic importance of the British thrust along the Menin Road. This new British advance in the Ypres salient now definitely threatens the enemy's communication to the Belgium coast. The Ostend-Lille railroad which in a large measure feeds the German naval bases at Ostend and Zeebrugge, the latter the home port of the German high seas submarine fleet, now comes within range or fire of the British guns. The superiority of the British over the enemy was conclusively proven during the engagements of the past week. The battle of Menin Road furthermore shows that the fighting stamina of the Germans is deteriorating, not that the enemy didn't display great skill and dogged determination in his repeated counter attacks. Of the fighting on the French front the statement says, the outstanding feature of recent engagements is the wastage of man power of the enemy. If we compare the combat in front of Verdun in 1916, held by 12 German divisions, both practically the same length, it is found that during the same period of the time from May to September 1916 and in 1917, the enemy engaged along the Verdun front 25 new divisions last year, and along the Aisne 35 new divisions. This year so great has the wastage of enemy forces become owing to improved mechanical means of the Allies and the perfection of their methods of combat, that the enemy are obliged to maintain in reserve as a minimum guarantee for the safety of their battle line in the west at least 40 divisions. The west front thus remains the principal battlefield of the war. It is still strongly held by the Germans and their defensive strength while shaken remains powerful.

ANOTHER AIR RAID; THE STRONGEST YET.

LONDON, Oct. 1. The strongest air attack yet attempted on London and the coast towns was carried out to-night by four groups of hostile airplanes. Some machines got through to London and bombed the southwestern district. A terrific barrage was sent up from the defense guns, and the roar of battle lasted intermittently for two and a half hours. The Germans bombed the coast towns as they passed over and proceeded towards London. Two of the groups succeeded in getting a number of the machines through the sky barrage. Numerous bombs were dropped in the southwestern district, which is thickly populated with the homes of the upper and middle classes. Fire from defense guns was longer and louder than ever before. A rain of shrapnel fell in sections of the town, and the streets were deserted for a few policemen. The weather was perfect for air operations, a bright full moon shining, with no clouds or wind. People of London who expected the raid were watching for signals soon after seven o'clock. Motors of volunteer corps sped through the streets, blowing sirens and displaying the illuminated notice "Take cover." The telephone exchanges notified subscribers, and other measures were put into execution to inform the people of the impending raid.

U. S. BATTLESHIP REFOLOATED. AN ATLANTIC PORT, Oct. 1.

The battleship of the U. S. Navy, which went aground in home waters Sept. 28th, was floated to-day.

BULGARIA AND PEACE.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 1. A semi-official despatch received from Sofia to-day says: Regarding the unconfirmed Washington despatch saying that the Bulgarian Minister declared that Bulgaria desires peace as a termination of the war, is an imperative necessity. For the Central Powers, the Minister at Washington has been instructed to declare that Bulgaria does in fact desire peace, but only in unity with her allies as indicated in the reply to the Pope.

140 MILES AN HOUR.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. In a flight from Turin to Rome, according to a despatch received here from Rome to-day, Sergt. Stoppany, of the Royal Italian Flying Corps maintained an average speed of 140 miles an hour. The flight was without incident throughout the four hundred miles in the journey, in spite of heavy winds which blew all day.

WILLIAM AND CHARLES MEET.

BERLIN, Oct. 1. An official statement made here to-night says that Emperor William on returning from Roumania, met Emperor Charles of Austria, at Dzsiditz, Austria. The rulers expressed great satisfaction at this meeting, which, the statement says, gave a new opportunity to manifest their agreement in regard to the political and military aims.

AFTER THEM YET.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. Petitions from New York organizations asking for the expulsion from the Senate of Senators La Follette of Wisconsin, Greppa, of North Dakota, and Stone, of Missouri, were presented to the Senate to-day by Senator Wadsworth, of New York, and referred without action to the Senate Privileges and Election Committee. Vice-President Marshall to-day presented another lot of petitions, letters and telegrams from various organizations and individuals on the same subject. The first step towards official consideration of the petitions was taken to-

MISS PANKHURST MARRIED. LONDON, Oct. 1. The marriage yesterday of Adele Pankhurst, daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, English suffragette leader, to seaman Watts, is reported in a Reuter despatch from Melbourne. Miss Pankhurst has been in Australia for some months, and has taken a prominent part in the agitation against conscription, having figured in a number of riots. In August she was reported to have been sentenced to imprisonment for a month on account of a demonstration started by her outside the Parliament building at Melbourne.

A WASHINGTON DESPATCH. NEW YORK, Oct. 1. Papers here to-day published the following despatch from Washington: Agents of the German Government, posing as neutrals, have been placed aboard American merchant ships for the purpose of betraying them in the submarine zone, according to unofficial reports here. These agents are said to use small wireless telegraph sets, which flash signals from port holes to warn submarines of the approach of vessels. Those who are employed as stokers, stoke fires in such a manner that a long trail of heavy smoke hangs behind the ship for some distance and makes it easily seen by the crew of the submarine. Naval officials claim that the danger from these men is due to a system of hiring crews for merchant ships, which is the same to-day as in times of peace. They declare themselves in favor of a plan which would provide for the manning of such ships by men of the naval reserve force who are necessarily loyal Americans.

ANOTHER LOAN TO BRITAIN. WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. A further credit of fifty million dollars to Great Britain, was extended to-day by the U. S. Government. This brings the total advanced to Great Britain thus far up to $1,240,000,000, and the total advanced to all the allies up to $2,516,400,000.

PRO-GERMANS. HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 1. Judge Walter R. Burns, of the U. S. District Court, in charging a Harris County Grand Jury at the beginning of the October term to-day, after calling by name Senators Stone of Missouri, Hardwick of Georgia, Vardaman of Mississippi, Cronka of North Dakota, Gore of Oklahoma, and La Follette of Wisconsin, said: "If I had my wish I would that you men had the jurisdiction to return bills of indictment against those men. They ought to be tried promptly and fairly, and I believe this Court could administer the law fairly, but I have a conviction as strong as life that this country should stand them up against the wall to-morrow and give them what they deserve."

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy. You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

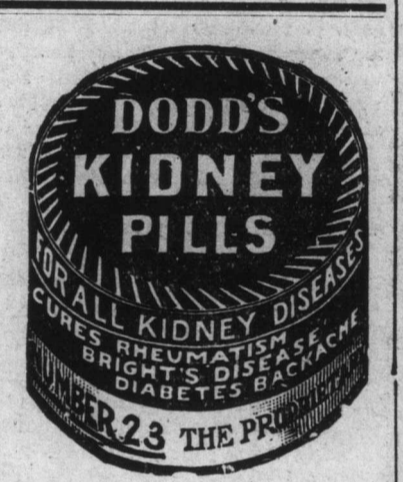

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (30 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 55 cents and gives you 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, it is splendid.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Girls! Draw A Moist Cloth Through Hair Double Its Beauty

Try this! Hair gets thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful at once.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—poison a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair. But what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

Foreign Fish Market Active.

A late communication to the Board of Trade from Messrs. Lind and Couto, of Oporto, says that the fish market there is active and that the demand is good notwithstanding the extreme prices now ruling, but we fear any further increase in prices will restrict consumption. The rate of exchange there is 31 1/2d.

Presentation and Address

TO REV. JAMES NURSE ON LEAVING TOPSAIL.

The Rev. James Nurse, Methodist Minister at Topsail, who is about to leave, was the recipient of a gift and address from his parishioners recently, and Mrs. Nurse of a similar mark of esteem from the Girls' Guild. Following are the addresses and replies.

Rev. James L. and Mrs. Nurse,
Topsail Methodist Parsonage.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Nurse.—We, the members of your congregation, beg that you will accept, the accompanying small gift as a token of our sincere appreciation of your long and faithful service amongst us. While we deeply regret your leaving, we wish to assure you that our good wishes will follow you even in a distant land, and we pray that the eventide may be a happy and peaceful one, and that you may be spared for many years to enjoy a well-earned rest amongst your loved ones.

Wishing you both a safe and pleasant journey, we remain
Your sincere well-wishers,
THE CONGREGATION OF TOPSAIL METHODIST CHURCH.

REPLY.

To the Members of the Methodist Congregation at Topsail.

Dear Friends—Your kind words of appreciation and goodwill addressed to Mrs. Nurse and myself as we terminate our nine years of service amongst you will be cherished by us as a pleasant memory when we are far away from you. We also heartily thank you for the substantial gift which your generosity has prompted as an expression of your esteem.

Our many failings, of which we are conscious, will serve as a background by which your many acts of kindness will be brought into prominent relief. Your wishes for our future happiness and welfare are sincerely reciprocated. Our new surroundings will not cause us to forget your highest and best interests.

To leave the dear Old Colony where we have laboured for so many years is not easy, but we believe it to be in the order of God's good providence.

We ask your prayers until we meet at home where we hope to be together for ever with the Lord.

Yours in the Master's work,
JAMES NURSE.

Topsail, Sept. 24th, 1917.

Dear Mrs. Nurse,—On this the eve of your departure, we wish to show our appreciation of your work in connection with our Guild. We shall often think of the pleasant afternoons spent at your home and of your interest in our work. While we regret that circumstances make it necessary for you to leave us, we hope that in your new home God's blessing will be with you; and we ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a small token of our affection and appreciation.

You will take with you our best wishes for your happiness,
Wishing you God speed,
We remain, sincerely yours,
THE GIRLS' GUILD.

REPLY.

To the Members of the Girls' Guild, Methodist Church Topsail.

Dear Girls.—It is difficult for me to find words that will fully express the feelings of my heart on this occasion of my departure from you as a Guild worker. But be assured that your encouraging address to me, and the nice gift accompanying the same will be long remembered when I cannot be with you in your cheerful and social meetings when working in the interests of the Church of Christ.

My share of the work in the past I am afraid you have overestimated, but I can say that along that line my duty has been my delight.

I feel sure that your new President will find you in the future to be the same earnest helpers in all matters pertaining to the prosperity of the Guild.

That it may be an increasing prosperity is the prayer of
Your sincere friend,
ELIZABETH J. NURSE.

Cartage Rates

TO COASTAL WHARVES GO UP.

At a meeting of the Truckmen's Union held last night a discussion took place in connection with the carting of freight to the various coastal steamship companies' wharves. It was pointed out that from one to four hours had been lost by carters while waiting to deliver their loads, and to compensate them for their delay they would in future demand $1.00 an hour. The rates paid under the old schedule were not at all satisfactory.

Laid to Rest.

The remains of the late Captain Thomas Fitzpatrick were laid to rest at Placentia yesterday afternoon. Quite a number of friends from the city were present.

The funeral of the late John Doyle took place yesterday afternoon. At the Cathedral the prayers for the dead were recited by Rev. Dr. Carter. Interment being at Bevilidre.

SMALL CASUALTIES FROM RAID.

LONDON, To-Day. Regarding last night's raid, given out to-day, the text of the official statement reads: Latest reports state that the casualties in all districts were: killed, 9; injured, 42. Only two were killed in London. The material damage was not great. One enemy machine is reported to have been destroyed.

GERMAN PAPER SUPPRESSED.

AMSTERDAM, To-Day. The Berlin Deutsche Zeitung, which recently was suppressed for a day, has again been suppressed, according to the Vossische Zeitung, for drawing percentage of the supreme command into current political discussions.

THE MAD PAN-GERMANS.

COPENHAGEN, To-Day. The Catholic Germania of Berlin points new evidence of the official support of Pan-German agitation against the Reichstag party and peace without annexations. It reproduces a circular with the approval of the head of the state railways in the Breslau district to all railway officials and employees calling upon them to sign a monster petition circulated by a Conservative newspaper in Breslau and headed by an appeal against the Reichstag majority. The Deutsche Tages Zeitung can see no reason for excitement over the part of the moderates in the agitation. Government employees, it says, are not ordered but merely recommended by their superiors to sign the petition and are not subject to any improper official pressure.

SCHOONER REFLOATED.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, To-Day. A British schooner which went on the rocks on Sept. 28th, was floated to-day, leaking badly. Divers will make an examination of her bottom to determine the extent of the injuries.

SILENCE STILL REIGNS OVER OPERATIONS.

LONDON, To-Day. The almost complete silence that for four days has surrounded the operations of the British armies in France and Belgium continues, aside from announcements in the official reports. These are meagre to a degree. Nothing has been permitted to pass the censorship which would indicate what Field Marshal Haig has in view. Along the coast in Belgium and in the Ypres sector heavy bombardments are taking place. Nothing is contained in either the British or German statements to show that the troops on either side have left their trenches even for forays. Along both sides of the Meuse River in the Verdun sector the French and Germans are engaging in another terrific duel. Twice the Germans launched infantry attacks in an effort to capture positions, but on both occasions were stopped short by the French fire. While in England the demands of the people for reprisals against the Germans for air raids on open towns continue to grow in volume, French fliers revented themselves for a raid on Bar le Duc by heavily bombing the German town of Stuttgart from the air. In all half a ton of explosives were dropped. Both the French and British fliers are keeping up their excursions over the German positions in Belgium and Northern France, blowing up railway stations and military works. The German submarine base at Zebrugge and the airdromes at St. Denis and Westrom again have come in for bombings and daily numerous fights in the air are taking place in which the casualties on all sides are heavy. In the Austro-Italian theatre Austria has delivered several heavy counter attacks against the newly won positions of the Italians on the Bainsizza Plateau, but everywhere have met with repulse. In the past three days in this region General Cadorna's forces have taken the Asiatic prisoners. Again the Russians through an attack in the Niza district, forced the Germans to give ground, this time for a depth of from 800 to 1,000 yards. Russian airmen to the south dropped quantities of explosives on enemy camps situated near Kovel. On other fronts there is little activity except in the nature of artillery duels. These con-

DETAILS OF THE AIR RAID.

LONDON, To-Day. Field Marshal French, Chief Commander of the home forces, issued the following report of last night's raid: A group of hostile airplanes crossed the Essex coast at 7 o'clock this evening and proceeded across Essex to London. This group of machines was followed at about a quarter of an hour interval by a second group which pursued the same course. The first attack on London was delivered from the northeast at 7.45 p.m. Most of the raiders were turned back but one or more machines penetrated the defences and dropped bombs in the southwestern district. About 8.15 p.m. the second group of raiders attempted to cross the defence at various points in the northeast and north of London but without success, until shortly after 9 o'clock when a few of the machines passed across London. Bombs were again dropped in the southwestern district. Meanwhile a third group crossed the Kentish coast and dropped bombs at various places. This group did not penetrate very far west. The fourth group of enemy machines crossed the Essex coast about 8.50 o'clock and proceeded towards London, which was approached shortly before 10 o'clock. They did not penetrate further than the north-east outskirts of London, where some bombs are reported to have been dropped. Bombs are reported to have been dropped again yet been received.

AERIAL ACTIVITY.

LONDON, To-Day. The following official dealing with the aerial work of the British army was issued last night: Visibility improved on Sunday and a great deal of artillery and photo work was accomplished by our airplanes. Bombing continued without respite day and night. Over 11 tons of bombs were dropped on an enemy airdrome at Controde and hostile billets and communications in the battle area and on tinued somewhat violent on certain sectors of the Macedonian front. Subscriptions to the new liberty loan opened on Monday throughout the States, and reports from all districts show large purchases are being made.

DIVERTS COAL TO SHORT DISTRICTS.

WASHINGTON, To-Day. All shipments of coal into Canada from American Lake ports were ordered stopped last night by Fuel Administrator Gasfield, to divert coal from these ports to meet the fuel shortage in the Northwest.

HEAVY FIGHTING.

PARIS, To-Day. Heavy artillery fighting is reported by the war office last night on the Aisne front. There has been infantry fighting of a stubborn character on the right bank of the Meuse, where the Germans attacked the French lines but were eventually repulsed.

PRO-GERMAN EGYPTIAN SPIES.

WASHINGTON, To-Day. A member of the Diplomatic Corps here of long experience in the Levant and particularly in Egypt said to-day that a powerful clique of Egyptians was continuing an active campaign on behalf of Germany in Switzerland, and that Bolo Pasha was one of the leaders. This diplomat is convinced that Bolo is a pseudonym, and that the man was formerly of the household of the former Khedive of Egypt, Abbas Hilmi Pasha. It is said here that Achmet Bey Sadiq, formerly private secretary to Abbas Hilmi Pasha, when he was Khedive, and Osman Pasha Mortana, one time first master of ceremonies at the Khedival Court, are in Geneva, which is the headquarters of their propaganda, and at Zurich, another centre for spies. When the former Khedive was driven from Egypt, he took a great sum of money and treasures, which were soon dissipated, and his further operations against the Egyptian Government were financed by Germany. The band of spies, as the story is told here, is said to be composed of Egyptians with a sprinkling of Turks. Their past work was done in the Levant, but they soon worked in Paris through Switzerland. The first efforts were devoted to work against the English in Egypt and Turkey, but when the Egyptian case became hopeless for them they devoted all their energies to Turkey. After Turkey entered the war they moved their field to France and to a lesser degree to Italy. Part of their plan was an information bureau, conducted with the Geneva headquarters as the clearing house and Zurich as the distributing point for Germany.

GERMAN ATTACKS REPULSED.

LONDON, To-Day. At 5.30 o'clock this a.m. the enemy launched a powerful attack on a front of more than a mile against our new positions north of the Menin-Ypres Road and east of Polygon Wood. The German infantry, advancing in three waves, suffered heavy losses from our rifle and artillery barrage and was driven back in disorder. We followed up the enemy and captured a few prisoners. In the course of the next three hours the enemy twice renewed the attack with strong forces on the same front and again was repulsed at all points except opposite the south corner of Polygon Wood, where he succeeded in occupying two of our advanced posts. Hostile artillery has shown some activity to-day in the neighborhood of Bullecourt south and north of Lens. During the month of September we captured a total of 5,296 prisoners, also three heavy pieces of artillery, 57 trench mortars and 377 machine guns.

STRENUOUS GERMAN COUNTER ATTACKS.

LONDON, To-Day. Several heavy attacks were delivered by the Germans to-day against the British positions north of Ypres and east of the Polygon Wood, according to an official statement from British headquarters last night. All the attacks were repulsed with heavy losses, except near the southeast corner of Polygon Wood, where the enemy entered two of our advanced posts.

COSTLY GERMAN COUNTER ATTACKS.

LONDON, To-Day. Reuters Correspondent at British Headquarters in France telegraphed to-day as follows:—At dawn this morning the Germans developed a heavy counter attack on our positions in the neighborhood of Tower Hamlet on a stretch of the front for which the enemy has already fought his hardest. A bombardment of great intensity preceded the attack and the guns responded in considerably greater violence. The weather was most misty, making it difficult for our airmen to carry out reconnaissance to any appreciable degree. The first infantry attack was launched at 6.15 a.m. astride the Menin Road on wide front. The first and second waves were so badly battered by artillery that they never reached our positions. The Third wave got into actual contact with our infantry but met with such a devastating volume of rifle and machine gun fire that it broke and fell back. Simultaneously a body of our men, cheering, broke forward in pursuit and established themselves one hundred yards in advance of their previous line. The second attack was delivered at 8.30 and although repulsed nearly everywhere, at one point the enemy succeeded in pressing back our posts slightly. The fighting continues. The operations have been terribly costly to the Germans.

CRUSHING THE TRAITOROUS I. W. W.

WASHINGTON, To-Day. The great harvest of indictments returned at Chicago, it is authoritative-ly stated, is but a fraction of what the Government will reap as a result of its nation wide raid on the Industrial Workers' offices on September 5th. Only those regarded by the Government as the chief figures in the alleged conspiracy to thwart the Government in its war plans have been indicated. The tons of documents seized have yet to be studied and their disclosures catalogued and arranged for use in the further proceedings. This work is now going on in approximately fifty towns and cities from coast to coast.

a dump and headquarters near Cambrai. The enemy also carried out many bombing raids during the night but did little damage of military importance. A photo taken of the results of our bombing at the Controde airdrome shows that on Saturday night one shed of the airdrome was hit. The same photograph shows three large German machines which landed in a field five miles south of Controde airdrome; two of these machines clearly were damaged. A reconnaissance to-day showed all three machines still lying in the field. A large airship shed which is used for the accommodation of Gotha airplanes is reported to have been set on fire last night. Enemy aircraft were not very active but a few large formations were encountered. Four German machines were downed and eight driven down out of control. Five of ours are missing.

BOARD TAKES OVER CHARTERING OF ALL MERCHANTMEN.

WASHINGTON, To-Day. Organization of the Shipping Board's Chartering Commission was completed to-day with the appointment of J. Demull, of New York, as Chairman. The members of the Commission are Welding Run and Daniel Baron, both of New York. The Commission will have charge of chartering all merchant vessels in the United States either for the Government or on private account. On Oct. 15 the Shipping Board will commandeer the charters of all American ships, placing them in the hands of the Commission. In future foreign as well as American ships chartered here must be chartered through this Commission.

In Milady's Boudoir.

SMILE AND WIN THE WORLD.

What is more infectious than a woman's smile which emanates directly from the heart and shines from the eyes? The whole soured kind of a smile not made to order variety. Smiles, dimples, and blushes go a long way to enhance a face, whether fair or plain. The old saying is that dimples and blushes go together, but old sayings are not always true. Blushing and smiles are not always true. Blushing is largely a matter of practice, and the result of a good healthy skin. The woman who lets her skin grow dull and thick with hardened muscles and the corners of her mouth sagging, will never find herself blushing; while the girl who looks well to her complexion and her general health will find the rosy flushes come easily.

Cultivate smiles, for these keep the lines softened and help to hide old age. Habitual pouting enlarges and coarsens the under lip, and all the unconscious tricks of facial expression increases and deepens the lines. In positive malformation of course, a surgeon should be consulted, but the slight defect can be largely relieved at home. Stand before a mirror and "try on" pleasant expressions just as you would a new hat. Try and try again, always looking in the glass. Strive to attain a smile that shows your teeth, for the whiteness of them will lend brightness to an otherwise dull face.

Laugh as much as you can, better have a few tiny wrinkles about the eyes that massage will eliminate, than to go about with a pouting face and sagging mouth. And when you smile, don't do it in an absent-minded manner. It is one of woman's greatest and strongest attractions—that of a pleasant smile. Look at the person you smile at. Stand in front of the glass and practice it until you get two the right smile that will show two rows of glistening teeth, and you will have gone far toward helping your personal appearance.

A Faithful Servant.

READY TO WORK NIGHT OR DAY. Gas is your ever ready helper right in your home—no begging for delivery, no delays in getting it. One gets so used to it that one is apt to forget how helpful it is. Take a little trouble. Study its uses: get to understand how to obtain every particle of help you can from it. Remember that for Light, Heat or Cooking it has no equal. If you have any little difficulties with it, bring them to the Gas Office. Our advice and help will be most readily given.

Sept 6. Dried celery leaves can be prepared for use in winter. Always choose one dish to be the keynote of the meal. There is nothing that will give vegetable soup that delicious richness so much as ocher. Odd pieces of velvet, if put over the broom, are excellent for cleaning the walls.

Your Boys and Girls.

Most mothers find that it pays to wash the baby's expensive little woollens themselves, instead of letting them go into the regular wash. It takes little strength or time to wash out a tiny shirt after the baby has donned a clean one, and it pays because they do not shrink so much if washed carefully. A baby can do with three shirts if one is washed out each morning. This allows a clean shirt after the daily bath, one used the day before to be put on night and one to be washed with time to dry thoroughly before being put on the next day. With only three shirts the mother can afford to buy a good quality, which pays always in baby things, and as they are in constant use, there is not much danger of their being out-grown.

It does not cost you any more to buy ELLIS' ROASTS, STEAKS, CUTLETS, CHOPS—because the Market is CLEAN and SANITARY.
