Ruled Destiny!

CHAPTER VI
BEWITCHED.

"So awfully glad to see you, Bruce! It seems ages since we met! And how well you are looking! I am awfully lucky! Do you know I hesitated outside for a moment before I came in! Never expected to see you, you may be sure, or I should not have paused a moment!" and he wrung Lord Norman's hand again.

Then his joyous blue eyes turned to Floris, questioning. She had her face toward the stage, and Lord Norman made no offer of introduction, but Lady Betty leaned forward and tapped Floris on the arm.

"My dear, let me make you acquainted with an old friend—I beg your pardon, Bertie! A young friend—"

"Now, Lady Pendleton!" murmured Lord Clifford, with meek reproach.

"Lord Clifford, Miss Carlisle." Floris turned her head and bowed, and Bertie, as Viscount Clifford was usually called, started slightly, flushed, and then bowed. Lady Betty laughed with pleasant maliciousness. She saw the effect Floris' beauty had made upon the boy.

"And so you have just come from Canada, Bertie?" said Lord Norman.

Bertie responded with a smile and a laugh, and began to tell them some of his adventures. Floris scarcely listened, but the clear, fresh voice reached her ears and chimed in not inharmoniously with the music. All the while he was talking, the young viscount's eyes were wandering toward her, and in a pause of the conversation he drew near Lady Betty and leaned down to whisper:

"Who is she, Lady Pendleton?"

"My companion, Bertie. Isn't she beautiful?"

"Hush!" he whispered, with a bright blush that many a woman in the theatre would have given her suite of diamonds to possess. "Hush, she will hear you! She is lovely!"

He drew nearer to Floris, and seeing her opera cloak had slipped to the floor of the box, stooped and, picking it up, put it on the back of her chair.

"Thank you," said Floris, looking around at him, and reading in his eyes the direct obvious desire to speak to her, she slowly moved her chair so that he might draw his near.

But when he had seated himself close to her, he did not seem to know what to say.

"Have you been long in London?" he asked, almost timidly, but his eyes showed the interest he took in her.

"Only a day or two," said Floris. "This is the first opera I have ever seen."

"Really!" his blue eyes expanding. "How jolly! I wish I had come earlier!" then he blushed. "Has Bruce—Lord Norman—been here all the time?"

"Yes," said Floris.

"Dear old Bruce!" he said, glancing slightly to the back of the box where Lord Norman leaned, looking at the door. "I am so glad to see him again."

"You are old friends?" said Floris, very quietly.

"Oh, yes; we were at Eton together, that is; I was there a couple of terms before he left, and we have seen a great deal of each other since. He has been awfully kind to me, taken me about, and put me up at his clubs. I am very proud of being his friend; there are so few fellows he is really intimate with. It is just good luck my meeting him here to-night. I heard at the club that he had sailed in his yacht."

"Lord Norman is staying in London to help Lady Pendleton at a fancy fair," said Floris.

"Really! A fancy fair! How jolly! I wonder whether she would let me help. I'll ask her!" he said, resolutely, and he got up and went to Lady Betty.

Lord Norman came forward, as if he had been waiting.

"How do you like my friend, Bertie, Miss Carlisle?" he asked.

"Very much," replied Floris. "He has gone to ask Lady Betty to allow him to help her at the fancy fair."

"She will be delighted. Bertie is what is called in theatrical circles, 'a safe draw.' He is the pet of society; it is a wonder he is not spoiled."

"I don't think I should say that he is not spoiled," said Floris, with a smile.

Bertie came back to her chair, as she spoke, flushed and radiant.

"I am accepted, Miss—" he stopped.

"Carlisle," put in Lord Norman.

"Miss Carlisle! I shall work awfully hard! There are lots of things I can do. You will see! We'll make a big success of it."

The curtain fell amid a thunder of applause, and Lady Betty, with a little yawn, shut up her fan and looked around.

"Don't you wait, Bruce," she said, with a significant glance at the opposite box. "Bertie will take charge of us."

A frown gathered for a moment on Lord Norman's brow.

"What have I done to be summarily dismissed?" he said.

"I was thinking for your own good, Bruce," she whispered.

"Pray, let me think for myself," he said.

Then he went to put on Floris' cloak, but Bertie, with hands that almost trembled in his eagerness and delight, had got the cloak in his hand, and was reverently arranging it on her shoulders; then he offered her his arm, and Lord Bruce was left to escort Lady Betty. The two men conducted the ladies from the box into the crowded foyer, and Bertie dashed off to find the carriage, which he managed, by dint of hard work and the bribe of a sovereign, to bring to the door just five minutes before its time. Then he went back to the saloon, looking superbly handsome, with his fair face flushed with his exertions. As he entered he saw Lord Norman, as he thought, standing by the door.

"Why! Where are the ladies, Bruce?" he exclaimed.

"I have never felt like this. There, don't let us talk of it, Bruce."

"But we will," said Lord Norman, almost sternly. "Listen to me, Bertie; I know about as much of you as you do yourself. You are Viscount Clifford, with an old title and an empty purse. You are good-looking, confound you, as a picture, and you have got to take your good looks into the open market, and do your duty in that state of life, etc. And that duty is, to marry an heiress as soon as you conveniently can."

The boy flushed, turned pale and then sighed.

"Now, Miss Carlisle is not an heiress; she is penniless, or next door to it, and Lady Betty's companion; and the sooner you get over your infatuation the better!"

Bertie stood silent for a moment—they had reached the door of Lord Norman's chambers—then he looked up.

"It is all very well for you to talk like this, Bruce. You do not know what I feel. I don't think you were

The man he addressed looked at him for a moment, then turned, and was instantly swallowed up in the brilliant crowd thronging the corridor.

Bertie looked after him with astonishment, then mechanically made his way to where he had left the three, and found them standing in the same spot, waiting for him. He stared at Bruce with amazement, and in silence for a moment.

"What's the matter, Bertie? Has the carriage gone away?"

"Why!—how did you get in here so soon, and without your overcoat?" asked Bertie, open-eyed.

"I have not left the saloon since you went, of course," returned Lord Norman.

"But I saw you outside here a minute—a second—ago!" retorted Bertie, Lady Betty laughed.

"What nonsense you talk, Bertie!" she exclaimed. "Bruce has not left us; how could he?"

"I have made a stupid mistake," he said, penitently. "I have got the carriage."

They went down without another word, but as they descended the stairs he looked from right to left, searchingly.

Lord Norman and he put them into the carriage, and Lord Norman stood by the window a moment after he had shut the door.

"Good-night," he said, in his low, musical voice, and speaking to Floris. "I hope you will not be tired in the morning."

"Thanks," she said, calmly.

The carriage moved on very slowly, and Bertie seized the opportunity to press forward.

"I may come and talk about the fair, to-morrow," he said, eagerly.

"Yes, yes; do," said Lady Betty, putting out her hand. "And make haste back! You have no hat on, and will catch cold!"

He laughed his frank, boyish laugh, and, as if in echo, Floris laughed, too, and held out her hand.

He flushed with grateful pleasure and seized it, getting nearly run over for his pains, and stood looking after the carriage until it was lost to sight.

Lord Norman watched him with a smile on his face.

"Don't they wear hats in Canada, Bertie?" he asked.

The young viscount started, and laughed apologetically; then sent a man to the saloon for his hat.

"Oh, Bruce, what a lovely creature!" he exclaimed, in a low voice, as he locked his arm in Lord Norman's. Lady Betty's companion! Do you know her well, Bruce? How glad I am that I came back, and that I dropped in to-night!"

Lord Norman stopped again and looked at him, with something like a frown and a smile commingled.

"Now, Bertie, don't play the fool. I know what this rhapsody means. You are in love for the five hundred and ninety-ninth time!"

The young viscount raised his head and looked at him. His face went pale, and his blue eyes were almost solemn in their earnestness.

"No; for the first time, Bruce. Don't chaff me. I—I don't think I should like it. Yes, I am in love," he went on, almost defiantly; "and I am not ashamed to own it. I feel as if I had been bewitched."

He put his hand to his brow again, and his face went pale.

"Don't chaff me. I am serious this time, Bruce."

"So you have assured me quite a dozen times before," retorted Lord Norman.

"But I have never felt like this. There, don't let us talk of it, Bruce."

"But we will," said Lord Norman, almost sternly. "Listen to me, Bertie; I know about as much of you as you do yourself. You are Viscount Clifford, with an old title and an empty purse. You are good-looking, confound you, as a picture, and you have got to take your good looks into the open market, and do your duty in that state of life, etc. And that duty is, to marry an heiress as soon as you conveniently can."

The boy flushed, turned pale and then sighed.

"Now, Miss Carlisle is not an heiress; she is penniless, or next door to it, and Lady Betty's companion; and the sooner you get over your infatuation the better!"

Bertie stood silent for a moment—they had reached the door of Lord Norman's chambers—then he looked up.

"It is all very well for you to talk like this, Bruce. You do not know what I feel. I don't think you were Rheumatism Entirely Gone.

After Twenty-seven Years of Suffering—Swelling and Puffiness Has Disappeared—Not a Pain or an Ache Left.

A most astonishing cure of rheumatism and eczema has been reported, and Mrs. Ray is enthusiastic in telling her many friends how cure was effected.

Rheumatism and eczema frequently go together, and in this case caused the most keen distress imaginable. All the swelling and puffiness resulting from many years of rheumatism have disappeared, and there is not a pain or an ache left.

Mr. G. H. Ray, R. R. No. 1, Kincaid, Ont., writes: "Mrs. Ray has been using your Kidney-Liver Pills. She was very bad with rheumatism and eczema, and had had that fearful itch for twenty-seven years. It was simply terrible what she suffered. I was persuaded her to try $1.00 worth of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. She is now on the last box, and let me tell you she scarcely knows herself, she is so free from both these diseases. All the swelling and puffiness caused by the rheumatism has gone away, and she has gone down in weight 15½ pounds. She never has an ache nor pain, biliousness nor sick headache all these months. She often says herself 'How glad I am that I know that to do instead of paying doctors so much to make me worse.'"

There is only one way that the poisons in the blood can be cleaned away and the cause of pains and aches removed, and that is by the healthful action of the kidneys, liver and bowels. Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills act directly and specifically on these organs and insure their activity they remove the cause of rheumatism and other dreadfully painful and fatal diseases. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co. Limited, Toronto.

Look for the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, on the box you buy.

ever downright in love."

"No," said Lord Norman, with a strange smile.

"But you mean well," as they say, and perhaps you are right. I'll call on Lady Betty to-morrow, and start off for—oh, anywhere!"

"Do," said Lord Norman.

"Lord Clifford!" said Lady Betty, as Josine opened the door of the boudoir, and made the announcement.

The room was in the wildest confusion, littered with the contents of a huge box, which had just arrived from Paris, containing a selection of Swiss costumes, slightly altered and beautified by the great master. Floris was kneeling before the glass trying on white linen caps and kerchiefs.

"Bertie, my dear! How attentive of him. Show Lord Clifford up," she said, and presently they heard him coming up two stairs at a time.

He stopped at the door, agast and blushing at the sight of the finery and the occupation of the two ladies.

"Oh, I beg pardon! I thought the girl said 'upstairs.'"

"Oh, it is all right! Come in, Bertie. You are the very man we want," said Lady Betty, holding out her little paw. "We are too busy to receive visits of ceremony this morning, but if you like to take us as we are you are quite welcome."

"What an awful litter! How do you do, Miss Carlisle?"

Floris held out her hand, without getting up from her knees, and he bent over it.

"What a fine lot of dresses! Rather gorgeous, aren't they?"

"Color is everything at a fancy fair," said Lady Betty, with an air of conviction.

"Color and cheek!" said Bertie. "Sir!" exclaimed Lady Betty, with mock severity. "We did not admit you into our boudoir to receive your impertinence."

"Beg pardon, Lady Betty!" he retorted. "I meant color and confidence."

"Then we had better give you a stall all to yourself, Bertie," said Lady Betty. "Now tell me how I look. Isn't this quite a Swiss girl's get-up?"

They tried on several other caps and kerchiefs, and Bertie was asked his opinion on each and all, till he must have become rather confused; then he said suddenly, as if he had been tracing himself up for the announcement:

"It was very kind of you to show me these things, Lady Pendleton, because—because, you see, I shan't be able to see them at the fair."

"Why not?" demanded Lady Betty. He glanced at Floris as she knelt at the box replacing the costumes.

"I—I find I have to go down to my uncle's place; I'm overdue there now, and he gets rather rough if I don't show up pretty often."

LEAGUE NOTES.

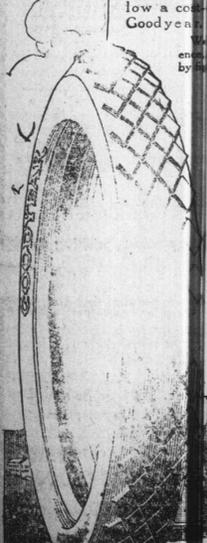

Miss Harris has kindly consented to start the ball rolling by pitching over the first one at the opening game next Wednesday, between the Wanderers and Cubs. The proceeds will be devoted to the W. P. A. Brit will likely pitch for the Wanderers in Hall for the Cubs. Both teams are in fine form having been hard at work practising the past week. Tickets will be on sale shortly and the fans are advised to get theirs early. Should the weather-man see fit to favour us with a fine day all attendance records ought to be broken.

PLAY BALL.

This world's a diamond, with the bases laid, And on it Life's great game of noll is played. The teams are Human Beings versus Fate, And Time's the Umpire watching by the plate. We're at the bat. Our purpose is to throw, To wield Ambition's club and try to score. To try and solve the curve the pitcher throws, And lam the sphere where not a feather goes. Some of 'em to bat with skill and sense, Knocking long homers o'er the deep field fence. Others bunt infield hits, but wifely race, And beat the ball down to the primal base. Still others, though they strive their best, No doubt, Fan wildly at the air, and then—strike out! Then seek the bench, downcast, with visage drawn, Crestfallen, shamefaced, blue, and in a gone! Or rag the Umpire, growling like a bear—"You robber! That decision wasn't fair!"

PLAY BALL.

This world's a diamond, with the bases laid. And on it Life's great game of ball is played. The teams are Human Beings versus Fate. And Time's the Umpire watching by the plate. We're at the bat. Our purpose o'er and o'er To wield Ambition's club and try to score. To try and solve the curve the pitcher throws. And lam the sphere where not a fielder goes. Some seem to bat with skill immense. Knocking long homers o'er the deep field fence. Others hunt infield hits, but wildly race. And beat the ball down to the primal base. Still others, though they strive their best, no doubt. Fan wildly at the air, and then—strike out! Then seek the bench, downcast, with visage drawn. Crestfallen, shamefaced, blue, ambition gone! Or rag the Umpire, growling like a bear. "You robber! That decision wasn't fair!"

That's not the game! Be not a grouch or quitter! What though you're not a straight 300-hitter? You've got another chance. Stand to the plate. Grab tight your bat, get braced and calmly wait. Wait for a good one. Let the others rip. And when it comes—now! Lam it hard! and zip! Hike for the base. Keep going—yes, you can! Steal second! Good! Now, easy—not too gay! There! Get a lead! A hit! Now you're away! Keep on! Don't stop! Don't lose that dandy stride! You've got to beat the throw-in! Slide, now! Slide! Hurrah! You did! Score! Of course you scored! See there's your tally marked up on the board! And now you'll win the game—no doubt at all! You just can't lose, old man, if you'll PLAY BALL.

THE FABLE OF THE SPEED.

One of the best assets you can have in the game, unless you are a Member of the Battery Forces, is a pair of speedy shins, and, in very recent days there was a young athlete who possessed the fastest couplings seen for some time. As this lumber kid could go from the plate to first before the infield realized that the ball was tapped, he beat them out and got a batting record of .500; as he could depart from first and claw the middle cushion while the skate on the slab was winding up, he stole 119 bases on the season, (at Buckmaster's field), and great was the competition between the Managers of the regular league, (it is to laugh—News Editor). The manager of last year's champs finally secured him. He wasn't handed much to do in the early days, as the manager wanted to break him in by degrees, and maintained that a perch on the bench would teach him all the angles. Now and then he went in as a pinch-hitter; and quite often, he was inserted as a substitute base runner. And so things drifted along, till the games that would settle the pennant.

In the final game, the one that would decide the honour and glory, a grand old fossil came through with a nifty smash when it was needed, and another relic of the Mesozoic strata drew a pass. Then there was a fumble, the sacks were populated, and the crafty manager, wishing to make the most of the situation, sent the young speed wonder down to second as sub-runner. A hit, of course, would score the venerable guest on third, but it would take some lively hoofing to insure another run from second on the selfsame hit, wherefore the substitution of the juvenile.

As soon as he had reached second, the young marvel got his crafty brain to working. He had the speed; no catcher lived that could head him off, and surely here was the time when every ounce of fire and energy must be used to help the club. And so, gathering all his limbs and supple limbs for action, he watched his chance, and stole third with the bases full.

MORAL—The Law won't let you kill them, So lots of them survive.

WHICH.

The slugger steps up to the plate in the pinch With the bases all loaded for bear The count's three and two and we wish that we knew Whether batter or pitcher is "here" Ah! The moment is nigh and the mob heaves a sigh, Is the batter a hero or lout? Will the star crack the ball to the centerfield wall, Or will the poor rummy strike out?

CLARKE-PARSONS.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Cochrane Street Centennial Church yesterday afternoon, when Mr. F. Ronald Clarke, cashier with the Sun Life Insurance Co., led to the altar Miss Marguerite W. Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Parsons. The bride wore a dress of cream taffeta silk and Georgette crepe, and was attended by her sister, Miss Violet Parsons and Miss Ada Clarke, sister of the groom. The flower girls were little Misses Dorothy Rees and Norma Burt, whilst the groom was ably supported by Mr. Ern. Maund, who performed the duties of best man. The bridesmaids were costumed in rose silk with gold slippers, and wore picture hats of Tuscan straw. The groom's present to the bride was a set of white fox furs, to the bridesmaids and flower girls, birthstone rings and brooches, respectively, while the best man received a gold Masonic emblem. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Bond, and was witnessed by a large congregation, and the organ was ably presided over by Arthur Mews, Esq., C.M.G. After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the parents' home, Devon Row. The happy couple joined the train at Waterford Bridge for Brigus, where the honeymoon will be spent. The large number of presents received, including several cheques, evinced the esteem in which the young couple are held.

Opera "Pandora" Brilliant Success.

There was a crowded audience at the Casino Theatre last night when the curtain rose on the opening scene of the opera "Pandora," which was produced by the pupils and ex-pupils of the city schools under the direction of Mesdames Hutton and Cooper. Included in those present were His Lordship Bishop White, Miss Harris, Capt. Campbell, A.D.C., several clergymen and Christian Brothers. The opera while of a highly classical nature, is light and abounds in humor. The solos and choruses were rendered by the performers in a manner unequalled by the professional. In the chorus singing the blending of rich young voices accompanied by an orchestra, the best heard in the city for many years, with all that one could desire. There was an entire absence of that indistinct enunciation which is so annoying and which is all too prevalent with our local singers. The principal characters were taken by Misses Kavanagh, Vincent, Ellis, Heeder and little Miss Collins all of whom performed in a manner most pleasing. The dancing by Miss Jean Herder and the Junior girls was an exhibition of art-movement rarely seen in the city. Solos were nicely rendered by Misses R. Duder and A. McGrath, while Master Bradshaw's recitation "Censor" simply brought down the house. While we would delight in giving a full description of this most excellent opera we are mindful of the fact that such an account would remove the joy of anticipation from the minds of those who will attend to-night's performance. The proceeds are in aid of the W.P.A. and Jensen Camp funds. To the promoters and performers we extend our congratulations.

FRENCH CAPTURE PRISONERS.

PARIS, June 12.

The French troops have made further advances around Belloy and St. Maur, and have captured four hundred additional prisoners, some cannon and machine guns, according to the official statement to-night. They have also recaptured Montcourt and part of Busieres, north of the Marne. The French troops were withdrawn east of the Oise along the lines of Bailly, Tracy, Le-Vai and Nampcel, under the protection of covering detachments without the enemy being aware of the movement. While most of the German attacks were repulsed, the enemy succeeded in getting a foothold on the southern bank of the Matz River, occupying the village of Melcoq and adjoining heights.

BRITISH TRANSPORT SUNK.

NEW YORK, June 12.

The British transport Ausonia, owned by the Cunard Steamship Co., has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine, several hundred miles from the British coast, while on her way westward. Ninety members of her crew were picked up by another steamer eastward bound and landed on the English coast. Search is being made for forty more of her crew, who are reported missing. The Ausonia was a steel four-masted steamship of 8,153 gross tons, built at Newcastle, England, in 1907, for the cabin and immigrant trade between London and Canada.

Goodyear Quality Lowers the Cost-per-Mile

Goodyear Value does not stop at fair prices—or rather, it does not begin at any price.

Long mileage is the first aim of the Goodyear factories and excess mileage is the aim of Goodyear Service Stations and Dealers everywhere. We believe that there is not another tyre manufactured today that will give so low a cost-per-mile as the new type Goodyear.

We believe it from our own experience, and because we have seen it proven by figures gathered from many sources.

You can make your decreased tyre-cost-per-mile, through fitting Goodyears to your car, offset your increased petrol-cost-per-mile.

THE VICTORY LOAN

Supplementing the editorial remarks of the Daily News, which we publish in full, we have every hope that Newfoundland's Victory Loan will be a success. The Empire is in this struggle to win. To lose would be disastrous to that freedom of which Anglo-Saxons are the exponent, and therefore we must not lose. If money will help the Empire in the hour of crisis, we must give it, and the man who hangs back and refuses to purchase Newfoundland Victory Bonds, is a greater traitor to the Empire than he who openly countenances the enemy. We are in this war to win, and for the subsequent freedom of the world, every sacrifice must be made. Money is needed to win the war. Therefore Buy Newfoundland Victory Bonds.

OPENING THE CAMPAIGN.

(Daily News.)
For the purpose of fully outlining his loan campaign, and introducing Mr. Stevens, of the Bank of Montreal Head Office staff, who is here to conduct it, the Hon. M. P. Cashin, Minister of Finance and Customs and Acting Premier, met and entertained the editorial and business heads of all the city newspapers at Brennecks' last evening. Including two or three other guests, the party numbered fifteen. After dinner had been discussed, Mr. Cashin reviewed at length the history of the loan, relating his experiences abroad and his determination to recommend to the Government that the people of the country should be given an opportunity of taking up at least a portion of it. Referring to the three millions that had been taken up by Canadian investors, the Minister stated that it had been so quickly exhausted that the brokers had asked for another million, and had been granted that amount. Advice received a day or two ago intimated that this was practically all sold. This means that only two millions are now left to float locally, which should be easily accomplished, seeing that it represents but eight dollars per head of the population. In discussing the coming campaign, which begins with the issuing of the prospectus early next week, the Finance Minister expressed the hope that it would have the unanimous support of the newspapers. He acknowledged the value and power of the press, and the very great assistance it could give in making the loan a great success, and asked a free expression from the gentlemen present regarding the best methods of making it most effective. First, however, he invited Mr. Stevens to supplement his remarks and explain more in detail the work to be undertaken. After referring to the great object of the loan, and the desirability of Newfoundland financing her own war expenditures, as the other Dominions were now doing, Mr. Stevens pointed out the value that would accrue therefrom both to the country and the investors. He referred to the success that Canada had achieved in connection with her loans, and outlined the campaign which had been conducted there, and the efforts which had been made to interest the people in the loans. Conditions he found were somewhat different in this country, and some of the methods followed in Canada were not workable here. He believed that the surest and best way of reaching the people was through the newspapers, and he felt like the Minister of Finance that their co-operations could be counted upon.

Mr. Cashin had asked for a frank expression by the newspaper men, and in the discussion which followed, in which all present participated, his desire was fully gratified. From the beginning the newspapers had stood four-square for the loan, and were anxious to boost it, but he was told, they wanted a free hand, wanted to be in a position to deal with it without any absurd restrictions. This note was struck by the veteran of the party, Mr. Herder, and it was echoed and endorsed by every subsequent speaker. The loan was recognized as a national issue, and the Minister was guaranteed that the newspapers, assured of liberty of action, would cooperate to the fullest to make it a success. In expressing his appreciation of this pledge, Mr. Cashin's assurances were such as to win the applause of his guests. After a brief while spent in social intercourse and entertainment, return to town was made at 9.30. With last night's gathering the Victory Loan campaign may be said to have been initiated.

Frightfulness.

Nothing has been heard of the German submarines which raided shipping off the New Jersey, United States coast, on Sunday, June 2nd, since the final list of losses was reported, and it is not known whether they have returned to Hun land or whether they have taken shelter in hidden bases to await a fresh opportunity of harrying ocean commerce. Investigation by United States officials have shown that there are no concealed enemy bases or supply stations on the American coast. This should give confidence that the raiding will not continue to the serious detriment of marine trade and the transportation of American troops to the battle front. On the other hand it may be argued that with German thoroughness, the enemy has taken advantage of the laxity which prevailed in America before the entry of that country into the war, and being well supplied with information of a specific nature, made preparations accordingly and established submarine bases at points along the desolate and little frequented southern coast. There are many bays which could quite easily be used as stations for storing supplies, and these supplies need not necessarily be above the surface, or placed in caches on land. It is quite possible to submerge considerable quantities of oil fuel in tanks at the uninhabited and unfrequented coves, which abound amid the islands of the Antilles archipelago, and other stores as well could be placed in a similar way. There is not a shadow of doubt but that the enemy has in his possession perfect charts of all these islands. It was a point with him in pre-war days to abuse the hospitality extended to him when in a foreign port, by taking soundings, observations and bearings and from the figures so obtained to make charts for his own subsequent use. While this was done by the officers of a German warship visiting St. John's some years ago is well known.

The Squires-Coaker Libel Case.

$250 DAMAGES TO PLAINTIFF.

In the Supreme Court yesterday before His Lordship the Chief Justice, and the following special jury Mr. R. A. Squires was awarded damages for libel against the Union Publishing Co. and Hon. W. F. Coaker, amounting to $250 and costs. The jurors were: F. Parsons, John Ryan, Michael Walsh, A. Tooton, T. Kennedy, W. Bugden, J. Canning, S. Faour and W. S. Donnelly.

Mr. L. E. Emerson appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. F. A. Mews for the defendants.

The plaintiff claimed that in an article published in the Evening Advocate Jan. 31st last, it was made appear that he had acted dishonestly while holding the office of Col. Secretary, as regards payment of certain officials by cheque, and also in subsequent issues, which statements were absolutely false and defamatory. Mr. Emerson in opening the case addressed the jury in the matter and read the articles complained of and the innuendoes placed on them by the plaintiff. The article in question set forth that Hon. R. A. Squires while Colonial Secretary, had drawn a cheque for $180.00 in favor of Miss Emma Dawe, one of the clerks in the department, which she refused to endorse because the amount due her was only $60.00. Plaintiff claimed that the intention of the article is to convey the impression that he manipulated the funds of the Dominion for his own benefit, and had profited thereby, and that the balance of $70.00 was to pay his private Secretary, who was not attached to the Colonial Secretary's Office. He also read the pleadings of the defendants, which were (1) that the words did not bear the meaning placed on them by the plaintiff, and (2) that they were substantially correct in substance and fact and fair criticism.

Mr. Arthur Mews, C.M.G., Deputy Colonial Secretary, was the first witness called, and proved the publication of the Advocate on Jan. 31st and subsequent dates and also minutes of council in relation to the appointment of Miss Emma Dawe as 3rd clerk in the Colonial Secretary's Office.

Miss Mildred Coen, also of the Colonial Secretary's Office, stated that at no time did she do personal work for Hon. Mr. Squires, nor for the law firm of Squires and Winter. Mr. Phillip Rendell said the office was so busy at the time that he thought it was necessary to have the work done at Squires and Winter's office.

Hon. Mr. Squires stated that while bringing around a new order of things from July 20 to Aug. 21, one of his law clerks was at the Colonial Secretary's Office continuously. On Aug. 16th or 18th Miss Emma Dawe was appointed private secretary at $50.00 per month, with a promise of an increase on an understanding he had with the Prime Minister. Hon. Mr. Squires outlined the whole incident relative to the cheque business and the subsequent trouble with Miss Dawe.

The evidence of Miss Miller, cashier, and Miss Saunders, second clerk of Squires and Winter, concluded the case for the plaintiff.

The evidence of Mr. Geo. Bursell, accountant of the Finance Department, and Mr. T. Butt, of the Colonial Secretary's Office, was taken to prove the issuing of cheques to Miss Dawe and Miss Saunders, respectively, as was also the evidence of Mr. F. Brocklehurst, of the Colonial Secretary's Office, who brought the cheque from the Treasury Office to Miss Dawe.

The Clerk of the Court then read the evidence of Miss Dawe, as taken by commission in Toronto.

At 5.30 Mr. Mews began his address to the jury continuing till 6 o'clock when adjournment was taken for recess.

At 7.30 Mr. Emerson addressed the jury, and at 8.05 His Lordship the Chief Justice delivered his charge. The jury retired at 8.30 and at 11.05 sided back into the Court, bringing a unanimous verdict, awarding the plaintiff $250 damages, which also covers cost in the case.

Supreme Court.

Peter Roche vs. Peter Malone.—W. R. Howley, K.C., and R. T. McGrath appear for the defendant; Hon. M. P. Gibbs, K.C., appear for plaintiff. It is ordered that the hearing of this case be postponed; cost of the application to be borne by the plaintiff.

John O'Keefe vs. Thomas Pope, Wm. Pope, Henry Pope and Sarah Pope.—This is an action for injunction and damages claimed to have been caused by the operation of certain machinery in Pope's Furniture Factory, George Street. Mr. W. E. Wood appeared for complainant, and Mr. W. J. Higgins, for defendants. The case is being heard before the Hon. Justice Johnson and the following special jury, viz.: Robert H. Simms, James Kelly, John Lindberg, Henry Cook, John Flood, Robert G. Belbin, Edward Furlong, John V. O'Dea and Geo. McGuire. Two witnesses were examined and at 1 o'clock adjournment was taken till 2.30 this afternoon.

Quidi Vidi Sale and Entertainment.

The sale and entertainment held by the Women's Guild of Quidi Vidi yesterday afternoon and evening was a great success. At 3.30 His Lordship Bishop White arrived, accompanied by Mrs. White, Mrs. F. Rendell and Rev. Mr. Moulton. In a brief speech His Lordship declared the sale open, a brisk business beginning immediately, and at 7.30 every article was practically disposed of. At 8 o'clock the entertainment began. It consisted principally of choruses, dialogues and recitations by the children of the village, assisted with a song by Mr. Chas. Hammond. It was thoroughly enjoyed and at the conclusion all, both ladies of the guild and the performers, were highly complimented and thanked by the chairman of the concert, Rev. Mr. O'Keefe, for the splendid manner in which everything was carried out. A large number visited from the city, which helped greatly towards the success which attended the efforts of the church people of Quidi Vidi. The sum realized was about $170.

WAR SUMMARY.
 The French forces operating on the east bank of the Oise River south of Noyon have evacuated the Carlehou Wood and the Germans are closing pressing them southward, according to the German official statement Wednesday. The statement asserts that the territory on the opposite side of the river near where the Marz enters the stream, has been cleared of Allied troops. Nowhere else along the battle front running from Mont Didier to the region around Noyon is any claim made to further advances by the Germans. On the contrary the latest statement shows that the enemy everywhere has been busily engaged in attempts to hold back the French and other allied troops, among them some Americans. No mention is made in the communication of the Allies as having advanced their front east of Mery and the Genlis Wood, or of the repulse of violent German attacks along the Aronde River and at the Loges farm and Anteuil. Neither is there any mention of the fact that the enemy notwithstanding his numerous attempts has been enabled to debouch south of the Matz River. The communication asserts that all the counter attacks of the Allied forces have been repulsed, and that they suffered heavy casualties. It declared that the number of prisoners taken by General von Huert's army has now risen to more than 12,000. It had been admitted that the position of the defending line on the west bank of the Oise River was a delicate one, owing to the capture by the Germans of the outflanking hills to the west and a successful drive through the Carlehou Wood on the opposite side of the stream seemingly would have necessitated a strategic retreat if the troops were not to be entirely cut off southwest of Mont Didier, where the Allied forces on Tuesday in violent counter attacks, made notable gains against the enemy. American troops have been thrown into the fray, but how many or to what branch of the service they belong has not yet been indicated. To the north of Mont Didier the Germans many times have tried to drive out the Americans from the village of Cantigny, but each time they have been repulsed. One party of forty Germans was routed by revolver fire of the defenders of the village. Northwest of Chateau Thierry the enemy has thrown five divisions against the Americans fighting side by side with the French, but without avail. Attempts by the enemy to recapture the Village of Buresches went for naught. South of the Aisne River there has been fierce fighting down to the region of Villers Cottreteris where the Germans are attempting to break through and bring their line west of Soissons towards Compeigne. Except that the combats were particularly severe on the front of Dommlers Cutry and south of Ambley, no further details are available. In the other war theatres there have been no noteworthy activities.

THE ALLIES' DAY.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 11.—The Allied troops to-day showed the Germans they could not have it all their own way, by executing a number of counter attacks, which were invariably successful. Some important territory was won back, and inroads were even made into the German position; it was in fact a thoroughly good day for the Allies, who in addition to regaining ground, captured more than 1,000 prisoners. The principal counter attack occurred between Demfront, near Rubescourt, and Jacquemoulin, south of Belloy, a front of about 12 kilometres. Allied infantry supported by tanks achieved an advance averaging 1,500 metres. They retook Belloy, reached the edge of St. Maur, arrived north of Parte and Leges farm and obtained a footing at Antheuil. The French troops displayed remarkable courage and willingness to get at the foe, who appeared completely disconcerted by their dash. Horse teams could be seen galloping forward to save their guns, and some of the Germans lost their heads completely. The battleground is literally covered with German dead. The counter attack on the French left wing, which was the first carried out to-day, took the French close to the original lines as they stood Sunday. The Allies also got beyond Mery in another assault, while a further fierce turn blow enabled them to reach the vicinity of St. Maur.

SLAUGHTERING GERMANS.
WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 12. (By the Associated Press.)—French cannons and machine guns have reached a heavy toll since Sunday. An entire division of the famous Jaegers was cut to pieces at Rezonans-Sur-Matz, while a Guards' division lost a great proportion of its effectives. Other divisions, it is learned, suffered equally during the preparation for the attack and the advance to the narrow valleys, all the passes of which were dominated by the Allied guns. Every prisoner taken seems horror-stricken at the slaughter of his comrades.

The "Peace of Mind" Margin

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Some friends of mine who have been coming up in the world so far as income goes were considering the step which folks who come up in the world nowadays are pretty sure to take. "Think how much more we should enjoy the bridge club if we didn't have that long trolley ride in front of us," urged the husband. "I know that," admitted the wife. "And think how much oftener we could get out to see your folks if we had one," went on the artful tempter. "I know that, too," said his wife. "Surely if the Aldrichs can afford an auto, we can," he persisted. She Wants To Enjoy Breaking Her Glasses.

"We could," said his wife. "If we were willing to do as they do. But that's just what I don't want to do. I want to be able to enjoy breaking my glasses." Her husband laughed. "Yes," he said, "I suppose there is something in that." And then they explained. Breaking her glasses was a symbol of the innumerable unexpected little expenses that make life a misery for you if you are living on an income that just covers your normal routine running expenses.

Any Unexpected Demand Was a Tragedy. In the days when their income was divided up so much for rent, so much for food, so much for clothes, so much for spending money, etc.,—if she broke her glasses (or any similar unexpected demand came up) it was a tragedy. "Now," she said, "if I break my glasses, of course I'm sorry, and yet in another way I enjoy it. I can send them to be fixed without wondering where the money is coming from to pay that bill. And it's such a perfectly blessed relief that I'm positively happy. Now if we should get a very machine at just this stage it would be swallowed up. And I couldn't break my glasses any more."

Can you afford to break your glasses, reader friend? And Such People Have My Deepest Sympathy. Of course there are thousands of homes where the income is so small and the family so large that a comfortable margin for incidentals is impossible. But there are equally many homes where a margin could perfectly well have been maintained and yet where there never is one because expenses have been allowed to keep right up with income. Another friend of mine who has the same point of view as the wife who wants to keep on being able to enjoy breaking her glasses, calls the margin between her routine expenses and her income her "peace of mind margin."

Is it not an excellent name? And isn't a "peace of mind margin" worth too much to barter for a few more material comforts or luxuries? At the Yarmouth, Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp held at Tackett Falls in August, I found MINARD'S LINIMENT most beneficial for sun burn, an immediate relief for colic and tooth-ache. ALFRED STOKES, General Sec'y. Milady's Boudoir. CARE OF THE HAIR. It is in the power of almost every woman to have a good head of hair. But by many such a gift can only be derived with dandruff, is always a repulsive sight. At all times the hair should be kept clean. By doing so one not only prolongs its life of beauty, but the hair may be controlled more easily when the coiffure is being arranged. Should one prefer to shampoo, one's hair at home I would advise a very careful selection of a soap that is suitable and to always insist on its use.

Some prefer using soft soap instead of rubbing a cake of soap directly on the hair. Dull, lifeless hair may be made to glow by treating it as follows: The hair should be combed straight. Then divided into small partings. The hands are then heated and a drop of oil is poured on the palms, and the hands rubbed together until they are shiny and rubbed over the various partings, using a long and swift stroke. The hair is again combed and the scalp massaged until it shines along the new parting. Two drops of oil is sufficient to impart life and gloss to the hair, still not enough to leave any trace of grease. Dull hair is often nursed back to life by the rolling process. Each night and morning, when the hair is straightened with the comb, if parted from centre front to back, making two divisions. After the hands have been heated and oiled as directed, each parting is rolled, beginning at the head and travelling the length of the head.

WRITE A LETTER. Write a letter to a soldier when you haven't much to do; it will brace some homesick fellow who is feeling pretty blue. Oh, our boys are lion-hearted, and they'll whip their weight in snakes, but they have their lonesome moments when their hearts are full of aches; there are hours when they are longing for the homes so far away, and the girls they left behind them, and the parents old and gray; and a letter full of sunshine makes their melancholy shrink—therefore get your pen in action, with a demijohn of ink. Write a letter to a soldier, full of cheerfulness and joy; let the seb stuff go to thunder—it won't help a lonesome boy. Tell the soldier you are betting he will make the Teuton fly, tell him all is hunky-dory, and the goose is hanging high. Tell him all his friends are banking on the big things he'll achieve, let him know he's not forgotten since he took his final leave. Write

THE TITLE OF THE DEAD. Rich earth is that which holds our dead! Once foreign soil, but home-land now. Our country by the blood they shed, Ours by the sacrifices made, Ours by each fallen lance and blade. Ours by the common grief we share, Ours by their blood for honor shed; 'Tis shall not end our title there Nor vandals dispossess our dead, Nor different tongues, nor different creeds Blot out the memory of their deeds. Henceforth no men shall ever say This stretch of soil is wholly France; All border lines are swept away As freedom's gallant troops advance. That ground shall evermore be free Where men have died for liberty. Where sleep her brave and youthful dead, That soil America shall be. Where once is blood for freedom shed, Forever shall that earth be free. Rich ground is that their souls enclose, Once foreign France, but homeland now!

Special Notice.

At the end of this year we will give 5 cts. for every 12 Outside Green Wrappers obtained from "STAFFORD'S LINIMENT." We will also give $10.00 to the person forwarding us the largest number and $5.00 to the 2nd largest. We will keep a record of every person forwarding us these wrappers from time to time and at the end of the year we will publish the names of the Winners. "STAFFORD'S LINIMENT" is the strongest and most penetrating Liniment for sale in Newfoundland and is sold in over 500 stores. It is the best Liniment you can use for RHEUMATISM, LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA and all ACHES and PAINS. Owing to the cost of Bottles and Ingredients used in the manufacturing of this Liniment, we have had to advance the price a little, "but the bottle still remains the same size."

NOTHING DOING.
LONDON, To-day.
Arthur J. Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, declared in the House of Commons that there was no truth in the report that America and the Allies had entered into an agreement
not to intervene in Russian affairs.

STILL GOING STRONG.
WASHINGTON, To-day.
Gen. Pershing's Communique tonight said there was nothing to report, aside from continued artillery activity in the Woerve and the taking of prisoners by American patrols in Picardy.

IMPORTANT SALVAGE OPERATION.
WASHINGTON, To-day.
Unofficial estimates, by naval experts, show that an excess of 500,000 tons of shipping, sunk by submarines,
may be refloated as a result of salvage operations conducted by Great Britain and the other Allied Governments.

MORE GERMAN LIES.
AMSTERDAM, To-day.
An apparently inspired official statement is published in Wednesday's Edition of the Cologne Gazette, a copy of which has been received here,
which seeks to make Great Britain responsible for the sinking of the hospital ship Konigen Regentes. It cites a report that British naval forces including a monitor with a captive balloon, cruised around the hospital ships in the neighborhood of the district. The statement concludes as follows: "The only one who can have any interest in troubling the relations between Holland and Germany is Great Britain."

BRITISH ADMIRALTY DENIES STATEMENT.
LONDON, To-day.
With reference to the statement in the Cologne Gazette concerning the Konigen Regentes, the Secretary of the British Admiralty states that no British naval forces of any description were in the neighborhood of the Konigen Regentes when she was sunk or at any time during the passage of the hospital ship.

PROFIT AND LOSS.
PARIS, To-day.
On our right the enemy renewed his attacks on the Matz River, and after several attempts, which cost him heavy losses, he succeeded in gaining a footing on the south of the village of Gralk Ricard, East of the Oise, our troops on Monday, carried out a withdrawal on the line of Bailly Tracy Le Val and west of Nampcel, under the protection of covering detachments, which masked our movement to the enemy. In the region of the Haute Braye we repulsed an enemy attack and took prisoners. South of the Aisne, desperate engagements, in which the fighting was hand to hand, took place between the River and Forest of Villers and Cottarets. Our troops offered spirited resistance to the attack of the enemy who made slight progress on the Plateau west of the villages of Domieres and Cutry.
All his efforts against Ambley and St.
Pierre Aigle failed. North of the Marne our troops occupied Montcourt, the small woods of Ebloup, and the southern part of Busisieres. Our bombing machines continued their operations yesterday, participating with their usual audacity in a counter attack launched by us on the Mont-St.
Maur front, when they attacked with bombs, enemy divisions which had come up to sustain the shock of our troops against the right wing. Before this attack, the enemy units were obliged to disperse, leaving many dead on the ground. Convoys were bottled up and heavy artillery batteries
under severe punishment were abandoned by the gunners who ceased to fire. A great fire broke out in Res-sons Sur Matz, where there was a large concentration of enemy troops.
A total of 28 tons of projectiles were dropped, with excellent results, and during the night our bombing squadrons dropped thirteen tons of explosives on railway stations in the enemy zone, notably in the region of Neslele Roye and Ressons Sur Matz.
Additional fires were started by these bombardments. One June 11th our

Thoughts Upon the Times

(By PATRIOT.)
If five or six years ago we were told that in 1918 Newfoundland would be building vessels of from two to five hundred tons we would have laughed
the prophet out of court, and wisdom would have pronounced it impossible. But to-day we find there are no less than twelve such fine vessels on the stocks in different parts of Newfoundland, and several of them are ready for launching. They will measure in the aggregate about five thousand tons and represents an outlay of nearly a million dollars. It shows what can be done in this country if people will only have faith themselves and the resources of their country. These vessels are the equal of any built anywhere else in the world. Only a small proportion of the capital invested in them is owned by the Water Street Merchants.
We have an abundance of timber suitable for shipbuilding, consisting of pine, spruce, juniper, witch-hazel and birch. Every possible precaution should be taken to protect our timber areas from forest fires and timber sharks. One of the results of the war, affecting Newfoundland, is the revival of shipbuilding. It should never be allowed to die out again.
But what about farming? Are we ever going to wake up to the fact that we have hundreds of thousands of acres of land lying idle in this country as good as any in Canada? Do we realize now that a shortage of food threatens us, that we can raise wheat, barley and oats in this country as well as in the Northwest of Canada? There are doubting Thomases I know,
but get rid of them, or let them visit the farms on the West Coast and become convinced. Let them see the A.
N. D. Co.'s farm at Rushy Pond, Grand Falls. Let them read a correspondent's letter from Milton, T.B., in the Daily News of Tuesday last. Here is what he says in part:—
"In the spring of 1917 a friend in Alberta sent to Mr. S. Adams, at his request, a pint of wheat. He sowed it the first week in June, and in September he reaped it and stored it for the winter. This spring with a crude instrument of his own making, he threshed it and found that his pint of seed had yielded an increase of seven gallons. On comparing it with seed that his brother had received from Alberta, Mr. Adams found that the Newfoundland seed was larger and more superior looking than that which was grown in Western Canada. Encouraged by last year's result, he has sown six gallons of wheat and it is already above ground." The News correspondent very properly asks why we cannot produce food and win the war?
Recently the writer had the pleasure of inspecting the by-products manufactured by the A. N. D. Co., Ltd. at their mills at Grand Falls. It is astounding what a variety of articles are made from the waste of pulp and wood. So little is known by the public that I will enumerate them here.
They are—Woolen papers, sheeting paper, felt, cardboard boxes, suit cases of various colours, dustbins, wood stains
of various colours, cartons, and muclage.
The felt manufactured is superior to the imported article. The Department is under the management of Mr. Morrissey who is well known in St. John's. At the present time the mills are seriously hampered by the shortage of tonnage. The Company has over four million dollars worth of paper in the country awaiting shipment. Only one of five machines at the mills is working, and it is thought even that will have to be shut down.
The Company's pay roll must run into millions of dollars. It is not difficult therefore to imagine the effect
when the closing down of Grand Falls paper mills would have upon our economic conditions at the present time. In order to measure up to anything like the prosperity of last year we want everything running at high pressure—the fisheries, paper making, farming, shipbuilding, lumbering and mining must flourish. We have come to the critical period in our history.
Are we going to survive? Do our present rulers and those who find themselves in authority realize it?
It is doubtful if many of those who are at present shaping our country's destinies can themselves survive a period of suspense, which usually precedes a poor fishery, to say nothing of putting over them a bad fishery season itself.
In the event of an economic emergency in this country to whom can we look with confidence among our present legislators? Governmental feebleness and incompetence seem to increase as the days go by. Public money is being squandered like water, and not a thought is given to the tremendous political and economic problems which loom up before us, waiting for adjustment. Our public men seem to have succumbed to the temptations of a life of ease and pleasure. Whom have we among them to inspire us with confidence in the future of our country? We cannot go back to the days of our fathers if we would. "The moving finger writes, and having writ, moves on."

THE WISDOM OF HAVING GENERAL FOCH AS GENERALISSIMO.

PARIS, To-day.
Gustave Herve, in his newspaper La Victoire, undertakes to answer the question which he says reaches him from many readers: why should the remainder of the western front be inactive, while the Germans are making the greatest efforts and why should not the British make a strong attack which would relieve the pressure on the French. The editor points out that General Foch as generalissimo disposes of all the Allied armies, British, American, French, Italian and Portuguese. If he does not move the British forces it may be because there are still heavy concentrations of German reserves before the British front and that the front must be held solidly. General Foch may also feel able with the French reserves to defeat the menace toward Paris.

FIGHTING FAVORABLE TO FRENCH
PARIS, To-day.
There was plenty of fighting yesterday but it did not affect the general situation. As the Germans are fighting against time this result is a distinct gain to the defensive. The Germans it is true made slight progress on their left towards Com-peigne, from which at Melicocq they are only five miles away, but so did the French on the other wing in the region of Mery. As the nature of the ground around Mery provides the French with excellent gun positions behind the hills from which they can pound, at short range, the road by which all supplies must pass to the German centre in the thrust towards Compeigne, the French can claim an advantage on the day's operations for they also stopped the German efforts
south of the Aisne against the forest east of Villers Cottarets.

ANOTHER PEACE TREATY.
AMSTERDAM, To-day.
A peace treaty has been signed between Turkey and the Trans-Caucasian Governments, says a telegram from Constantinople.

AMERICANS HOLD ALL GAINS.
PARIS, To-day.
(Bulletin)—French troops last night
struck a heavy blow against the German forces which have been advancing on the eastern wing of the new front of attack; the war office announced to-day that the French had hurled back the enemy to the north bank of the Matz River. Violent combats continue between the Aisne River and the Villers Cottarets Forest. The Germans have progressed as far as the Favié east of La Bersine north of Cutry. The Germans last night made an attack on the American sector between Bouresches and Belle-Wood in the Marne front. The Americans broke up the attacks and inflicted serious losses on the enemy holding all the gains which they had made. Later this morning the German forces fighting the enemy obtained a foothold in Couevres and St. Pierre Haigle.

Mt. Allison Quartette.
The music loving people of this been given a great ovation in Canadian cities, where they have appeared and have won high praise from the press. They have also given freely of their time and talents to the raising of various patriotic funds in their home communities.

Hun Torture of Prisoners.

A SOLDIER'S NARRATIVE.

(Special Correspondent at the Hague in "Daily Mail.")

Germany coming along the trench in which I was taken prisoner shot our wounded. They took deliberate aim and fired on anybody lying down. As the men got into the train for Schneidemuhl Camp (in Posen) the Germans hauled back any who had overcoats and took them from them. It was freezing hard, and we had to make the journey with only our shirts, trousers and boots.

At Schneidemuhl, where there was an epidemic of typhus, the British prisoners were sent in batches of about 50 down to a receiving room, where they lay about on the floor among the Russians like rotten sheep. One man was lying down when a Russian fell over him dead. About 20 or 30 British prisoners died of typhus and 7,000 Russians were counted as having died of it.

We were taken to one barracks and stripped and had our hair shaved off, and then were given a blanket, each, and marched, otherwise, naked, through water about a foot deep to another barracks. If men got up through being delirious, wishing to go to the latrines or attempting to leave the hut, they were knocked back by the orderlies with knotted towels. When I went out I had to put on the clothes of a Russian who was being admitted to the hospital suffering from typhus.

The general treatment of prisoners at Schneidemuhl Camp for the first six months that I was there was terrible. The Germans were constantly shooting somebody or putting the bayonet into them.

I was present at a flogging in one of the dugouts. A barrel was brought in by command of the captain, and the man was laid over it with his shirt off. Four or five Germans got hold of thick sticks and the officers told the men to thrash him. They hit him over the head and over the back and knocked him unconscious. I should think that they gave him 30 or 40 strokes each. He was taken up and tied to the wires for two hours. All the Englishmen were formed up under a strong guard and a battery of guns was turned on us to witness it.

After a prisoner had been shot in the camp his body was put in a coffin without a lid and was taken round the camp for exhibition.

Prisoners from the reprisal gangs returned to camp in a very bad state. One had been injured when working down a coal mine. He was descending a ladder about 43 yards long into the mine when a German civilian working there came down after him. The prisoner was a little man and could only go down one rung at a time. He said the German followed him down after he had gone three or four rungs and purposely trod on his head and hands, with the result that he fell to the bottom of the shaft unconscious and he almost broke his back. He is suffering from curvature of the spine in consequence of the fall, but is still working in the lager at Friedrichsfeld.

Reprisal prisoners complain that no parcels reached them. Until recently the parcels of the other prisoners were opened, and the contents put into one basin. Tooth powder, dubbin, cotton, tooth tablets, pepper, and cigarettes were removed from the parcels and confiscated. English newspapers were not allowed.

CABLE NEWS.

TWO NORWEGIANS SUNK.
NEW YORK, June 13.
The Norwegian steamers Vindeggon and Hevirik Lunk were sunk by a German submarine when about 200 miles east of Cape Charles, Va., last Saturday and Monday. This brings the total of ships sunk by U-boats since they began their campaign in these waters to 18. Their crews totaling 68 men were brought here today by a Danish steamer which picked them up at sea after they had been set adrift in their small boats. Eighty tons of copper ingots part of the cargo of the Vindeggon were taken aboard the U-boat before the steamer was sunk by bombs.

A BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE.
VENICE, June 12.
One Austrian dreadnought was destroyed and a second one damaged in the torpedo attack made by Italian torpedo boats upon an Austrian naval division near the Dalmatian Islands on Monday. It was officially stated tonight in a communication by the Chief of Staff of the Italian Navy. The attack, made by Commander Rizzo and Luigi De Malazzo with two small Italian torpedo boats, was delivered at dawn on Monday. All Italy was thrilled by the news of the feat which is considered probably the most remarkable performance by any navy during the war inasmuch as it was effected by such small means.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.
PARIS, June 12. (Official).
The battle between Mont Didier and the Oise continued without great change during the night. On our left all attempted attacks by the enemy against positions we had reconquered were broken. The French troops have realized new progress east of Mery and the Genil Wood. Violent German attacks have likewise been repelled by the French on the Aronde front, at St. Maur, the Lege farm and Anthouil. The French troops have inflicted heavy losses on their assailants while guarding their positions. On the right the Germans, despite repeated efforts have not been able to debouch south of the Amtz. The French are holding that part of the field south of Chevincourt and Marest-sur-Meuse. According to new information from the battle front, the French counter attack yesterday occurred while a powerful German attack was in progress on the same front. French troops came in contact with heavy forces of the enemy and threw them into disorder. Prisoners taken by one French division are found to belong to four different German divisions. South of the Alame the Germans attacked this morning between Doover and the Villers-Coteret forest. Violent combats are going on, on the front of Demmiers Cury and south of Ambleny.

PROBABLY A DECISIVE DAY.
PARIS, June 12.
To-day's fighting probably will decide on which side victory will rest in the present battle, says Henry Bitou, the military critic, in summing up the situation. He says the fighting is taking the classical form in which each side has won on one wing, and the scales are now even. By their counter attack the French stopped the enemy from carrying out his plan and at the same time assured themselves of a better line of defence. The Germans now are obliged, M. Bitou believes, to keep their effectiveness on the line to dip into their stock of reserves for fresh divisions.

The German plans for the present battle, says Marcel Hustin, of the Echo de Paris, in reporting the statements of prisoners, included the attacking and storming of Compeigne by the cavalry of the Guards under General Von Schoeler, on Sunday evening. Now the Germans not only are not at Compeigne, but they show a great deal less vigor in their efforts except on their left.

A NAVAL SCRAP.
LONDON, June 12.
Field Marshal Haig's report from British Headquarters in France tonight, says: The French troops carried out a successful raid last night in the neighborhood of Loere. Nothing of special interest occurred during the day on the British front.

A NAVAL SCRAP.
ROME, June 12.
An official statement issued by the Italian admiralty says: "At dawn on Monday, near the Dalmatian Islands, two small Italian torpedo boats, under command of Commander Elise Luigi de Milazzo, attacked an Austrian naval division consisting of two large battleships of the Viribus unit class, escorted by ten destroyers. Our units having boldly broken through the line of destroyers, hit the leading battleship with two torpedoes and the other with one, and returned to their base unscathed. One of the destroyers which pursued them was damaged seriously. The battleships of the Viribus unit type are four in number and are the largest in the Austrian navy. They displaced 20,000 tons and carry a thousand men each."

Hams and Bacon!

Recent activities of the Public Meat Inspector have resulted in the destruction of a quantity of unsound Hams held here by a dealer in Smoked Meats, and as we handle large quantities of this commodity we feel that in justice to our business we are obliged to state that the Hams referred to as being destroyed DID NOT BELONG TO US.

The impregnability of our position, as far as the Quality of our celebrated "Berkshire" brand of Smoked Meats is concerned, we felt would make our denial of this charge unnecessary, but on account of other dealers in Hams and Bacon claiming exemption from the accusation we find that we are reluctantly forced to announce that we are not the unlucky concern referred to in this unfortunate matter.

"BERKSHIRE" HAMS AND BACON ARE ALWAYS SATISFACTORY.
