Here's the Secret of Health

Do you know why you catch cold, why you have chronic dyspepsia, why you have headaches, why you can't sleep, why you are weak, nervous or depressed? It's because your system is run down. When the system is run down every organ becomes more or less affected. If any one organ is weaker than another, it is the first to succumb. For instance, if you have a weak stomach dyspepsia results—if you are subject to headaches they become more frequent and so on. No matter what your trouble, the first thing to do is to build up and nourish your system by feeding your nerves and enriching your blood. When you do this every organ in the body is strengthened. Carnol accomplishes this. Carnol is a blood-builder, a nerve invigorator, a stimulating and nourishing food, a flesh builder. Dr. Hill, the prescription specialist of New Westminster, B.C., has such faith in Carnol that he is pushing the sale of it at every opportunity. He knows from experience its value as a tonic and this is what he writes:

"It indeed gives me pleasure to say a good word for Carnol. With the sales talk and general boost which it has had from this store, the sale of Carnol has grown from nothing to something worth while."—Frederic T. Hill, Prescription Specialist, 607 Columbia Street, New Westminster, B.C.

Carnol is sold by all good druggists everywhere.

The Countess of Landon.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"But how white it is! Let me see." She knit her brows, and intently studied the lines in the palm.

"Well," said Irene, smiling, "what do you say? It is very bad or very good?"

Madge gazed studiously at the small palm.

"It is bad at first," she said. "This line"—she traced it with her forefinger—"is broken and runs askant. That means that your happiness receives a check. But it joins again presently higher up, and that means that after a time you will be happy again."

Irene laughed softly.

"Show me these lines," she said.

Madge traced them.

"And do you mean to say that they are different to the lines in other people's hands?"

"Yes," said Madge; "no two hands are alike. Look at these lines," and she pointed them out. This means that you are rich. Are you?"

"I—think so. Yes, I suppose I am rich," said Irene.

"Well, that is right, anyway," said Madge. "And this long one means that you will live to be old."

"Oh, come!" said Irene, laughing. "You can't tell that, Madge."

"I only judge by the lines," said Madge, meekly. "There it is, you see—a long, straight thread."

"Well, I see," said Irene; "but I don't know whether to be glad or sorry," and she stifled a sigh.

"You should be glad," said Madge. "You see, the line of happiness, though it is broken just here, joins higher up, and that means that you will be happy presently, if you are not now, and will remain happy."

Irene laughed.

"It seems very easy," she said. "I think I should make a decent gypsy if I had a lesson or two. Let me see your hand, Madge."

Madge held it out, smiling.

"I see, as I said, it isn't so white as yours."

"No," said Irene; "but it is not red, but the most delicious brown. And if I were a man I should be tired of white hands. We women are all alike. We dress alike, talk alike, smile alike. No wonder the men weary of us, and have to be forced to stop in a ball or drawing-room—rushing off to their own 'dens,' as they call them. Yes, we are all cast in one mold, and have grown to be wearisomely monotonous."

"You mean ladies," said Madge, simply.

Irene colored.

"My dear," she said, with a soft gravity, "try and forget that you have not always been what you are; and if you do, no one else will remember it."

Madge sighed.

"Oh, if I could forget!" she said. "Not that I am ashamed;" and the blood rushed to her face. "But go on with my fortune, Irene."

Irene pored over the soft brown hand.

"Let me see. Here is the first line you pointed out. How straight it is, and how broad at the commencement! That means that you have been happy, Madge?"

"Yes," said Madge, dreamily. "I have been very happy. But go on. What do you see now?"

Irene looked up at her face.

"The line breaks. That means—But what nonsense it is!"

"Yes," murmured Madge, with half assent. "But what does it mean according to the rules I explained to you?"

Irene paused.

"Why, according to them it indicates that your happiness will have a break. How absurd! Besides, I don't think any one could tell your fortune by hand, Madge—these lines, like mountain rills, running over it."

"But the larger ones? This—the line of life—for instance?" said Madge.

"Come, you are shirking your lesson, you lazy girl!"

"The line of life?" said Irene. "Hem!—let me see." She looked at it, and the color fluctuated in her face, and she shut the hand up and playfully fung it away from her. "It is all nonsense and humbug!" she said, with a levity which was rather forced. "I don't believe in a scrap of it—not one iota! You are a wicked little impostor!"

Madge laughed.

"That is what they all say when one tells them a bad fortune."

"Well, I won't have any more to do with it!" exclaimed Irene, lightly. "And now what do you say if we two—we two all alone, mind—go round the house on a kind of voyage of discovery? And we'll go into the stables and into the gardens and—Oh, I want to show you everything!"

"I'll run and get my hat," said Madge, eagerly.

Irene touched an electric bell.

"There is no occasion, dear," she said; and to her maid: "Bring Mrs. Landon's hat, please."

Madge noted the little incident. It seemed that in this grand place the great folk—and she was one of them!—were not expected to do anything for themselves.

"We did the state rooms last night—all excepting the ball-room," said Irene, "so that we needn't go downstairs. Come along."

They went into the corridor, and Irene pointed out the old oak carvings and ancient tapestry.

"One of the maids of honor to Mary Queen of Scots worked nearly all of it, poor thing!" she said. "Here is the picture-gallery."

Irene pointed in guide fashion to some of the pictures.

"A Reubens, a Vanduyke, Carlo de Vinci, a Potticelli—all fine examples. That one is worth—how much do you think, Madge?"

Madge looked at it.

"It looks very old, and—I can't see what it is very plainly."

"No, and few other people. That's why it is so valuable, I think. It is worth twenty thousand pounds, and the nation would buy it at that if it could; but it can't. It goes with the title, you see. Family portraits."

Madge's interest increased, and she looked at them eagerly.

"Why, there is Jack—I mean Royce himself!" she exclaimed, standing before the portrait of a young man in armor of the fourteenth century.

"Yes," said Irene, gently, "it is very like him. There are several others whom he resembles, and some of the women have got just his eyes, with that frank, fearless look in them. There, see! That is the last Lord Landon—Seymour, I mean, of course. It was painted when he came into the title."

Madge looked at the pale face and colorless eyes, with their expression of sharp, cunning cleverness, in silence for a moment or two; then she said:

"It is quite unlike the other faces."

"Yes," said Irene, as she moved on. "I don't think Seymour resembles any of his great ancestors. You know the Landons were great even before they got the title."

"I don't know anything about it," murmured Madge, simply.

"There is the general, the first earl," said Irene, and her tone softened with love and respect. "Ah, if you had known him! He was the greatest, the best of them all. See how like Royce he is!"

"Yes," assented Madge.

MANKIND AND THE MIRROR.

How mankind does love a mirror! Now do not tell me that I should have said woman-kind. In the first place, that word is supposed to include woman-kind. And in the second place, even if it didn't, it would still be perfectly true. For I think men like to look in mirrors just as much as women though perhaps they are a little more self-conscious about it.

At one time we had in our home a mirror so placed in the dining room that the person who sat opposite could see a very fine presentation of himself by glancing that way. And how often all the people who occupied that seat did glance in that direction. I am sure they hadn't the least idea how much they were doing it. People are ostriches that way. They think that what they don't want to have seen won't be seen.

Junior is abashed. I should have liked to try the ex-over the mirror. Junior came back to his seat and had hardly been in it a minute before he glanced toward the mirror to see just how he looked drinking a glass of milk. I shall never forget the sheepish grin that spread over his features when that blank whiteness confronted him instead of his own countenance.

I don't suppose there is a human being anywhere who doesn't like to get a good look at himself in a full-length mirror well placed. Of course when the mirror is in a very public place, most people disguise or even completely disavow their interest. But if one could lurk unseen near a full-length mirror in a less conspicuous spot, at the end of some quiet hotel corridor for instance, I think one would get a good chance to study human nature.

The Mirror Face.

For one thing, one would see people abruptly change their expressions from the natural expression to the mirror face. The authorism claims that no one knows how he or she really looks because everyone always puts on this mirror expression and it changes the face entirely, sometimes for the worse, always for the less natural.

I suppose behind our interest in mirrors is our intense human interest in ourselves. There is no subject in the world that Everyman is so vitally interested in as himself, not himself as he is, but as he imagines himself to be, and especially himself as others see him. And there's no use blaming Everyman and saying he should be different because that's part of the way he is made for his own self-preservation.

The First Man Vs. the Kitten.

Imagine the first man's emotions when for the first time he saw himself in the mirror of that day—the quiet pool! I wonder if he thought at first that it was another man, and like the kitten whom you introduce to a mirror for the first time tried to get at that replica of himself. The kitten, when he finds that he cannot get hold of that other kitten by reaching his paw behind the mirror, instantly loses interest in the whole business. Not so, the first man. He has been getting more interested ever since.

Two Hundred Korean Students lose their lives when vessels collide.—J. P. Morgan's arrival in Paris causes a flutter in Financial Quarters. — Drastic Action taken in Ontario Provincial Secretary's Case. — Passenger Carriages from Wembley telescope with fatal results.

PROVINCIAL SECRETARY'S DEPOSIT BOXES OPENED.

TORONTO, April 28. Action on a search warrant issued by the Government, the safety deposit boxes, standing in the name of Hon. Peter Smith, in the Bank of Toronto, has been opened, and it is alleged, that of the bonds by way of coupons, and the securities themselves to the extent of $120,000 has been found, the telegram said on Saturday it was learned on reliable authority. The paper announces "from another source, it was learned that the aggregate amount of $120,000 had been fairly traced to the former Provincial Treasurer. Spoken to about this, Hon. Peter Smith refused to make any comment. Included in the $120,000 is said to be an investment made by Peter Smith in Stratford Glass Works which he bought out the controlling interest in that concern."

his position regarding an international loan for Germany has been clearly explained to M. Barthou, Sir John Bradbury, M. Robineau and others. He is understood to have said, in effect, that the details of such a loan could not be discussed at present and that only general principals could be considered.

TWO HUNDRED STUDENTS DROWNED.

TOKIO, April 27. Two hundred Korean students were drowned off the west coast of Korea near Chinnampo when the steamship taking them on a visit to the Japanese destroyers, anchored off the shore collided with one of the destroyers and capsized, according to despatches on Saturday from Seoul. The steamer sank quickly, and owing to rough seas only a small number of the students could be rescued.

ADELAIDE, Australia, April 27. The British freight steamer City of Singapore, with a cargo of oil and motor cars from New York, caught fire midnight on Saturday at her dock here after a terrific explosion. One fireman was killed and several firemen were injured while fighting flames which enveloped the vessel.

FATAL COLLISION NEAR EUSTON.

LONDON, April 27. An early commuters' train crashed into a special train from Northern England yesterday, near Euston Station, and four persons were killed and between thirty and forty injured. The casualties were among those riding in the rear coach of the special which was bringing spectators from the football match at Wembley stadium, and those in the forward coach of the commuters' train, as these cars telescoped. The smash up took place at the mouth of the tunnel and rescue parties had considerable difficulty in carrying on their work.

HEBRIDEANS FOR CANADA.

LONDON, April 27. There were affecting scenes last evening at Stornaway, when nearly three hundred young Lewis men and women boarded the steamer Marlov for Canada. Nearly two hundred of the party are going under the auspices of the Ontario Government. About 1,000 Islanders crowded the little pier head to witness the departure, many walking dozens of miles. All the emigrating Hebrideans are single, except two mothers with children, and all will take up farming and domestic work. Many are leaving the Island for the first time and have never seen a railway train. Even the big steamer was a novelty to the Islanders.

All Aboard "The Westbound Limited"

If you want to experience a genuine railroad thrill, you must see the exciting film "The Westbound Limited" which is to be shown at the Nickel Theatre to-night. Critic say it's the greatest motion picture sensation ever filmed.

What is it that meets the gaze of engineer Bill Buckley as he looks out of the window engine? What was he to do? With just a few seconds to make up his mind, well, I guess it's best to let the remainder to be seen. Engineer Buckley is impersonated by the great character artist Ralph Lewis, who it will be remembered took such a remarkable role in "In the Name of the Law," which was shown at this theatre last year. The Archie Harrod Jubilee Party have arranged a super-program of numbers for the week opening. It contains a mixture of plantation, jubilee and popular vocal selections together with musical readings.

Wedding Bells
SNOW-RUSSELL

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Thomas's Church on Wednesday, April 23rd, when John Calver Russell, war veteran, led to the Altar Miss Annie Snow, of St. John's East. The ceremony was performed by the Rector, Rev. J. B. Elliott. The bride was handsomely attired in grey crepe de chene, with hat to match and carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations and lilies, with maiden hair fern. Miss Louise Russell, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and looked charming in a lemon coloured dress. The duties of best man were ably performed by Mr. Alfred Marrs, while Mr. John Snow, brother of the bride, acted as father-in-law. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the groom's sister, where a bountiful repast was partaken of. After justice had been done to the good things provided, the toast of the bride and groom was proposed and responded to. The presents received were numerous and valuable, testifying to the popularity of the happy couple. The honeymoon is being spent at Torbay. To Mr. and Mrs. Russell the Telegram extends its felicitations.

Russia's Robbers

London Daily Mail: The Soviet Government has no credit. Its political position is precarious. The only eminent Bolsheviks are dead or ill, and the certainty is absolute that sooner or later the Russians will grow tired of being starved and shot down like dogs by a handful of alien tyrants. The financial record of the Soviets could not be worse. They repudiated £561,000,000 lent to Russia by this country during the war, with some £260,000,000 interest on it; and they have stolen British investments, goods, and bank balances to the value of about another £200,000,000.

JEWETT
Special Two Seater—A Tenstrike

MICROMETERS and calipers are merely tools in the hands of an engineer building a motor car.

It is not a happenstance that makes a motor car better than all others of its class. It is the experience and the knowledge, together with correct judgment, at the command of the engineer that make the finished motor car all that he intended.

Only after many years of experience in building fine motor cars, making rapid strides year by year toward a definite goal, did the Paige Motor Car Company produce the Jewett, a motor car of six cylinders with the petrol consumption of a good four.

The Jewett, a motor car with ample power to compass the hardest going up hills or on the straightaway.

The Jewett, a motor car with a gear shift simple enough for a child to operate.

The Jewett, a motor car with a nonstallable clutch that instantly releases with only a three inch throw.

The Jewett, a motor car with dozens of other exclusive engineering features, all produced at a price lower than any other car of even comparative quality.

These statements on paper may sound like sheer boasting, but the Jewett must be examined inside and out to be appreciated and understood.

JEWETT SPECIFICATIONS:
Engine—6 cylinder, 3 1/2 x 5; lubricated by high pressure oiling to main and connecting rod bearings; two unit electrical starting and lighting, thermally controlled automatic spark advance; Paige-Tunkers valves; extra heavy 6 inch "T" beam steel frame; improved type four speed transmission; dry plate clutch; special alloy steel springs, 36" in front, 54" in rear; alloy steel universal joints; force-feed chassis lubrication.

Special models furnished at slight extra cost with additional equipment:
Special Robin-egg blue finish with upholstery to match; spare cover, tube and protector; bumpers front and rear; nickel radiator and motorometer; trunk and trunk rack; (except on two seater); automatic windshield wiper and rear view mirror; rear stop signal; sun visor; parking light on cow; Disc steel or wire wheels optional on all models at slight extra cost.

NEW YORK, April 28. cent. stock interest, purchased about 20,000,000 barrels of crude oil which half was sold and the balance held in storage. Sinclair Consolidated investment in the crude oil chasing company totals about $30,000,000 of which over 13,000,000 was invested in 1923. At end of 1923 Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing had over 41,000,000 barrels of crude in storage, value of which has appreciated about $30,000,000 since first of 1924 by reason of crude oil advances. In addition to its 50 per cent. stock interest in Crude Oil Purchasing Co. Sinclair Consolidated held 3,400,000 barrels of crude in storage at end of 1923 for its own account. Advancing crude prices this year added about $2,500,000 to market value of this crude. Programme for refinery expansion consumed a large part of additional property investment in 1923 and new facilities at Sinclair, Chicago, Kansas City, Coffeyville and Houston plants were completed, which resulted in gasoline making capacity being doubled.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

THREE CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH.

PENETANGUISHEN, Ont., April 27. Three young children, two girls and a boy, of Mr. and Mrs. Dunsome were burned to death here at 8.30 this morning when their home, which is across the bay from this town, took fire from a gasoline explosion. The dwelling was a two storey frame structure and caught fire when Mr. Dunsome was lighting the fire for breakfast. Dunsome suffered burns about the hands and legs while endeavoring to save the sleeping children who lost their lives. The remains were recovered.

RUSSIAN COMMUNISTS PROPHET CANADA'S DEFECTION.

MOSCOW, April 27. In an article in the Labor Gazette, Israel Amster, a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party in the United States, describes Canada as sliding slowly and peacefully into the hands of the United States. He asserts the day is not far distant when Canada will be entirely separated from Great Britain. A proclamation issued by the Communist Internationale urges workers through out the world to celebrate May Day fittingly, and to determine upon the support of the revolutionary programme against capitalistic governments.

PARDONS PROMISED WILL BE CARRIED OUT.

PRETORIA, South Africa, April 27. It was the intention of the South African Government to pardon certain prisoners on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales, and despite the postponement of the visit the Government will fulfil the promise. The decision will affect nine Europeans who were sentenced in connection with the revolution on the Rand in the spring of 1923. Five of these are undergoing imprisonment after the death sentence passed on them had been commuted. Two natives will also be pardoned as a result of the Government's decision.

MONTREAL POLICE MAKE A BIG COUP.

MONTREAL, April 27. Seven men charged with murder were arrested over the week-end by local detectives in connection with the slaying of Henri Cleroux, the chauffeur of the Hochelaga Bank on April 1. The arrests followed on information supplied the police after the arrest of Adam Perillo at Bridgeport, Conn., Friday night. Warrants were sworn out for nine men and the remaining two had not been located so far. To-night the prisoners were placed in various police stations of the city, where they were each listed under a charge of murder. The police stated to-night it would not be long before the rest of the stolen money, nearly $30,000 of which has been recovered, would be found. Reports that bandits are doctoring stolen bills are stated on good authority to be incorrect, and it is added the stolen money does not contain in one instance a Hochelaga Bank bill. The prisoners, among whom are several men well known in the underworld of Montreal together with a former policeman, will be arraigned in court to-morrow, and it is probable the cases will be remanded until the following Monday.

SIX RUM RUNNERS AT ANCHOR IN HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, April 27. Six rum running craft are in port to-day, four of which are anchored in the stream in accordance with recent orders from Ottawa, prohibiting ships with liquors from docking. Interested parties state that business has been slackening off the American coast owing to the storms of recent weeks but they predict improved business with the advance of spring.

SIX LIVES LOST ON LAKE ERIE.

BUFFALO, April 27. Six lives were lost on Lake Erie Friday night when the fishing tug Peerless of Erie burned and sank off the south east shoals. The bodies of two were both brought here to-day by the steamer Otta M. Relas were identified.

A SCOTTISH PARLIAMENT URGED.

LONDON, April 28. Four Glasgow Labor members of the House of Commons, and several prominent Liberals, supported a resolution last night calling for the establishment of a Scottish Parliament. Nearly one hundred fishermen from villages on the west of the Main Island of Japan, are missing as a result of severe storms in Sea of Japan yesterday.

EX-KAISER EXCUSES HIMSELF.

BERLIN, April 28. Former Emperor William, in a book published by his personal friend, Lieutenant-Col. Niemann, is quoted as rapping Prussianism in the World War. Niemann was attached to General Headquarters during the war, and accompanied the Kaiser into Holland. William, the book says, always said it was clear to him that Wilson wished to see Germany crushed, and entered the war only when he saw that the weight of the United States thrown in the balance with the Allies, would accomplish this. Regarding the flight William is quoted as saying "I am ready to fight the internal revolution, but I find myself deserted by the army leaders themselves. Many persons contended that I ought to have sought death on the battlefield. But I think that tempting God or committing suicide would have been morally wrong. I did not desert my country thoughtlessly, but only after careful deliberation."

ANOTHER MINING DISASTER IS FOREBODING.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 28. A few minutes after two hundred miners went to work in the Benwood mine of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, near here, this morning, a terrific explosion occurred in the workings. The fate of the men is unknown. The blast, according to reports from Benwood, took place about three miles back in the mine.

PREMIER MACDONALD HAS SUGGESTED SOME OF HIS ENEMIES IN WALES.

LONDON, April 28. Premier MacDonald has suggested some of his enemies in Wales in order to preside at a meeting of the Budget. Differences have arisen in the relation to the proposed abolition of the McKenna Budget and it is predicted that a crisis may arise over the question.

Mercer of "The Yard"

RESIGNATION THROUGH ILLNESS—FAMOUS CASES RECALLED.

Chief Inspector Mercer, of Scotland Yard, who has been seriously ill since last December, has tendered his resignation. His acceptance rests with the Home Office, to which a report will be submitted by Sir William Horwood, Chief Commissioner of Police. On December 11 last there was a big response from his colleagues, who volunteered to be asked to undergo blood transfusion for Mr. Mercer's benefit. The operation, however, did not take place. Mr. Mercer's career never lacked variety. He was a trooper in the Horse Guards before joining the police, and in time became principal detective at Vine-street Police Station. From this position he rose to that of one of the four chief detective inspectors at Scotland Yard.

Star-witnesses and a silent worker, he was not given to laughter. His interests seemed to be centred in hard work. He believed in his own judgment and his theories were seldom discussed with others.

His knowledge of the night life of London was very extensive. He was an ideal police officer in one respect—he kept his ears open and his mouth shut, and the reformed "crook" had in him a good friend. His duty came first, but he was always fair.

The Eastbourne Murder.

The two outstanding cases handled by Mr. Mercer were the Horatio Bottomley case and the murder at Eastbourne of Irene Munro. No one knew what was in his mind when the murder suspects, Field and Gray, who were later hanged for the crime, were released after a short detention. But the release was only part of Mr. Mercer's plan for fixing the guilt on them.

A young woman arrived at Eastbourne from London on the day the men walked into apparent freedom. Her job was to make friends with the suspects, and the information she gained had a great bearing on the arrest and conviction of the murderers.

Mr. Mercer began and completed the inquiry that ended in Bottomley's conviction. The chain of evidence was forged too thoroughly to be broken. When Bottomley arrived at court on the day of his conviction he still believed in his star. But Mr. Mercer, who throughout the trial, was a silent watcher, knew that Bottomley would not use the two tickets for the Derby he had previously purchased.

Unolved Crimes.

Mr. Mercer had his failures as well as his successes. His long-drawn-out inquiries at Cambridge and Portsmouth failed to solve the mystery of the murders of two lonely women.

Hundreds of people were examined regarding the death of Miss Law, an elderly shopkeeper, who was murdered in her shop at Cambridge, but the inquiry ended in a fruitless trial. No one was convicted for murdering Mrs. Mary Philbin, known as Brighton Mary, in her house in Blenheim-alley.

Don't Say— "Just a Sore Throat"

IN a few days, you know, "just a sore throat" may be something much more serious. For science has proved that throat is not only the first spot reached by infectious germs, but also forms the ideal soil for them to multiply on.

Throat protection, therefore, means germ destruction and is a duty that you owe your health. It is easily achieved by the regular use of Formamint—the germ-killing throat tablet.

Formamint (which is endorsed by over 5,000 American physicians) is the scientific way of disinfecting the mouth and the throat. Handy to have with you—pleasing in taste—it frees an efficient germicide that mixes with the saliva and so reaches where gargles cannot go.

And a tablet taken occasionally during the day not only brings grateful and immediate relief from "sore throat"—but affords protection against even more distressing ailments that so often follow infection of the throat linings. At all drugists.

General Gestures and the Way of the World

The Navy Estimates as submitted to the House of Commons by the Government were marred by one reliable feature. The Singapore scheme which had been adopted by Bonar Law and Baldwin administrations has been thrown overboard by MacDonald and his colleagues. The decision is of high importance and merits very careful study by the Singapore guards the gate to the Pacific Ocean on the dilemma from these shores. Its importance, therefore, has been long recognized as a key-position in relation to our trade routes. It is topped with great docks, and the question was as to whether the docks were to be brought up to date. The Government has decided that they are to be left as they are. The effect of this decision is to curtail the mobility of the Fleet so operations in the vast waters of the Pacific are concerned. If it is while to maintain a Fleet at that point ought to be an efficient argument for its purpose. But if there is a Fleet for all practical purposes paralyzed. This is the position in regard to the Pacific, in so far as post-war battleships are concerned. The Prime Minister's explanation of his action put in a nutshell that Britain is making an Act of Faith in her ideals before the world. The nations which she ally hopes other nations will follow her lead. Mr. Amery, referred as First Lord in the late Parliament, and therefore possessed knowledge of the subject, related the House of Commons of what had happened in pre-war days when we indulged in a moral gesture for Germany's benefit. The Prime Minister and his friends laughed in their sleeves and went on with their preparations for the day which dawned in 1914. Had we concentrated on our own interests, the first shot of the guns would have been fired by us. We prospered on our exports. We prospered on our exports. We prospered on our exports. We prospered on our exports.

overtaken by economic ruin and starvation. In all directions we have given proof of our pacific intentions. The splendid Air Force which we possessed at the close of the war was practically destroyed. It was a magnificent moral gesture. But we search in vain for the response. Our Army has been cut down to the lowest possible dimensions. Nowhere do we see that act of faith being echoed. Our Navy is at the lowest point compatible with the most elementary notions of readiness for a grave emergency, and now the Government has decided to withhold from it accommodation which is vital to its efficiency in the Pacific. In a little while the House of Commons will be called upon to register a formal verdict on the Singapore scheme. When that day comes let it be remembered that we are a great Asiatic Empire and that we must enjoy the freedom of Far Eastern waters or perish.—News of the World.

London Letter

(By PANTON HOUSE, For The Canadian Press.)
LONDON, April 17.—Had the Canadian Pavilion at Wembley possessed three times its actual 150,000 square feet of floor space it could not have given all the would-be exhibitors as much space as they desired. Director of Industrial Exhibits in the Canadian Section of the British Empire Exhibition, had the help of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association (whose representatives he met in conference at Ottawa) in his difficult task of allotting the space at his disposal. In the first place, one-half the available area was reserved for a display of Canada's natural resources. The other half was first divided among Canadian industries in proportion to their national importance, and then subdivided among some 300 manufacturers and corporations who wished to be represented at Wembley.

"ORANGES AND LEMONS" DAY.
Eight hundred children attended a special service at St. Clement Danes, one of the two "Island" churches in the Strand, in celebration of "Oranges and Lemons" Day, March 31. This is the church associated with the old nursery rhyme about the bells of old London. Built by Wren in 1681, it stands on the site of a very ancient building where, according to tradition, Harold Harefoot (one of our Danish Kings) was buried in the year 1040. The Danish connection is still maintained, for the Danish colony in London had sent the oranges and lemons which decorated the altar and were distributed to the youthful congregation. Ten small children, five boys and five girls played the old nursery rhyme tune and several hymn tunes on hand-bells. The whole service, and the performance after it of the famous peal of bells, were broadcast by wireless.

BOAT RACE DAY.
The Oxford and Cambridge Boat Race, which was won by Cambridge on Saturday, stands alone as a sporting event. It is simply a friendly contest between our two ancient universities; yet in the whole of the British athletic year nothing, except perhaps the Derby, approaches it in its power of awakening popular interest. People who are quite indifferent to all other horse races like to know what has won the Derby; people who disapprove of betting take tickets in the Derby sweepstake which is run by nearly every firm and club. In the same way, people who know nothing whatever of rowing, and have not the faintest personal connection with either of the universities, are keenly interested in the boat race, follow the newspaper reports of the crews' training, and endeavor to catch a passing glimpse of the contest from some point on the river bank. The course is 4 1/4 miles from Putney to Mortlake and the race has always taken place on a Saturday, when more people are free than on any other day of the week. A ludicrous feature of early spring, not only in London and the Thames-side towns, but all over England, is the outbreak of boating fever among the youth of the nation. For weeks before the great event, dark and light blue favors were sold in the shops and sported by small boys and girls, who thus announce themselves as "Oxford" or "Cambridge," and are red-hot partisans (even to fisticuffs) of their chosen crew. It does not matter in the least that few of those youngsters know one end of an oar from the other.

ALL FOOLS' DAY IN LONDON.
All Fools' Day nowadays is kept for the most part as a domestic festival, though this year several London hotels and dance clubs provided special entertainment on the day or its eve. Inoffensive "sells" were worked upon the guests, as, for instance, when in one ballroom a curtain was drawn aside to reveal an orchestra supplying the music which the dancers supposed to be arriving from the other side of the Atlantic by wireless. One does not hear nowadays of such large-scale jokes as that which amused all London (except the victims) in 1860. In that spring numerous people received through the post what had every appearance of being an official card, dated from the Tower of London, and bearing the words "Admit bearer and friend to view the annual ceremony of Washing the White Lions on Sunday, April 1st, 1860. Entrance only by the White Gate." Cards rattled up and down Tower Hill all that Sunday morning, trying to find the non-existent White Gate. It is not very remarkable that so many people were taken in, for at one time the Tower was London's menagerie, and the last beasts and birds were not removed to the Zoo in Regent's Park, until 1834. Indeed, the ancient fortress still possesses four pot ravens, who are usually to be found near the site of the scaffold on Tower Green. It is told of Edgar, the youngest, that he has a weakness for feminine ankles, which he loves to nip with his powerful beak. "Well, it's a compliment he's paying you, Miss," says the Yeoman Warder (Beefeater), as he comes to the rescue. "Edgar won't have anything to do with my ankles—he likes 'em dainty!"

COBRAS FOR WEMBLEY.
Four valuable cobras are now boarding at the London Zoo until the time comes for them to appear at the British Empire Exhibition. Their owner, a Hindu snake-charmer, visits and feeds them every Friday afternoon. Later on he will demonstrate, in the Indian theatre at Wembley, how he can make them go through curious "dancing" movements to the sound of his pipe.

HOLY LAND IN LONDON.
Palestine, as a "Mandated Territory," administered by Great Britain, is to find a place at Wembley. Palestine wines and Jaffa oranges will be on sale in the Pavilion. Native arts and crafts as they existed for centuries, will be seen side by side with examples of more recent industrial developments.

CANNING INDUSTRY THRIVES LARGELY AS A RESULT OF WAR.
SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 15.—(A.P.)—The canning industry gained its greatest growth during the world war, and because of it, according to Irving Engler, Secretary of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce. In 1914 the value of all canned food products in the United States was $245,000,000, and the value to-day is $625,000,000. Of fruits in cans, peaches are the most popular.

Food first was hermetically sealed by Nicholas Appert, a Frenchman, in 1809. His idea was to use the plan for sailors at sea. The French Government purchased the process and Appert was given 1,200 francs by Napoleon, who in turn allowed manufacturing plants in England and France to use it. The process was guarded with great care, but in 1815 Ezra Daggett, an American, put it into effect in this country, marking the beginning of the industry here. Daggett also invented the tin can. At that time salmon, lobster and other sea products were the principal foods canned.

At first cans were made by hand, and one man by a big day's work could turn out sixty. In 1847 Allen Taylor invented the stamp can, made by machinery. Since then the progress of the industry has been rapid.

ALL IS LOST.
If one who holds a public place becomes acquainted with a little grace, we hear a wail of woe; men cry, "Far well to honest worth, there is no merit on this earth, no virtue here below!" Pete Peppermint, a county clerk, got in some underhanded work, and pinched a goodly wad; then all the pessimists arose, and sadly murmured, "Heaven knows, our government's a fraud. We thought Pete Peppermint a gent who would not cop a single cent, and now he is in jail; our faith is lying flat, supine; we might as well take in our sign, let anarchy prevail." But I with dignity upreared, and shot some language through my beard; "All is not lost," I cried; "the sheriff's record is most square, his ballist is no snide. Most office holders straightly move, and all good people will approve our register of deeds; our coroner looms up sublime, he sits on dead men all the time, and for no-off pleads. There is no truer man on deck than James Adolphus Beeswax Hook, our justice of the peace; so I proceed all down the line, and find our public servants' fine, so let your wallings cease. Because one man lets go his hold, and falls for gawds like oil or gold, it's idle to despair; it's vain your hokum to repeat—the government's as good as wheat, and right side up with care."

Germany Enraged
New York Herald: (Stresemann adheres to the People's Party's demand "for one people, one land and one Kaiser.")—It is hard to say whether Stresemann is merely making a strategic gesture to influence France and bring about a modification of the expert committee's terms, or is really committing himself to a scrapping of the Republic and a monarchical restoration. To go back to Kaiserism would be practically to re-open the war. The monarchist parties are pledged first to a domestic revolution, then to a fight to a finish with Communism, then to a repudiation of the Versailles Treaty. For a country as isolated as Germany is and as utterly deprived of the world respect and sympathy as she would be if she reverted to Hohenzollernism this restoration programme is madness.

A Woman in the Firing Line
WINNIPEG, Man., April 24.—(Canadian Press)—With several months on the fighting line as a cavalry officer in the Russian army is the remarkable war record of Madame Bruzovna, Warsaw, which she described in a shy little talk to the members of the Women's Press Club, who entertained several members of the caste of "Blossomtime." "Through my husband's help I obtained a uniform and a passport. I acted as a member of his staff, and he kept me so close to him my disguise was never discovered. I had my hair cut, and as there were many young boys in the army I passed for one of them. Many people jeered at me for my riding, though, I was not accustomed to horses, and I was told I was extremely awkward." Madame Bruzovna's husband was killed in action, and she went back to her theatrical work.

The One and Only Issue.

Within a few weeks an opportunity will be given to the people of Newfoundland to decide for themselves how the country is to be governed during the next four years and by whom. The appeal is direct; the issue is clear, and evasion of responsibility in the matter can only be described as rank cowardice or the utter failure on the part of the individual to realize his duty as a citizen and his power and privilege as a voter.

Condemnation of those who administer the country's affairs comes readily to our lips. Expressions such as "dirty politics," "graft," and "corruption" are commonly used in referring to a Government with an utter disregard of the fact that such indictments are a direct reflection upon ourselves. In the haste to denounce all and sundry, we overlook the fact that those who abuse their position in public life have been chosen by ourselves. If politics are dirty, it is because we are indifferent to dirt; if bribery is practised, it is because we allow ourselves to be bought; if political crimes are committed, we are partners in the crime even though we manage to elude the clutches of the law.

In the issue before the electorate, each individual has the right to think for himself and to act for himself. In casting his ballot he must see to it that neither fear of his employer, nor threats of political bosses, nor undue influences brought to bear from outside sources shall cause him to deviate from the true course indicated by his own judgment and by his conscience.

The cry which is most commonly sounded at election times is, "We want a change." More often than not it is merely a lip phrase, a shallow appeal to those who find in variety the spice of life. On this occasion, however, there is nothing superficial in the Call, and without a doubt it will be re-echoed by all and sundry who heard with surprise and indignation the unsavory tale of our public affairs which was recently unfolded. We want a change in the moral tone and character of our political life.

This men of Newfoundland, is the ISSUE in the forthcoming election, this and nothing else. There are persons who have tried to blind you to the real situation by denouncing the extravagance of the Government in holding such a costly investigation. Who made the investigation necessary, and in view of the result, was it not money wisely expended? In comparison with the millions of dollars lavishly scattered broadcast, was the cost of the enquiry more than a drop in a bucket?

If your vessel is leaking, money must be spent to make it watertight and thus avoid a catastrophe, and what applies to your vessel applies but with even greater force to the Ship of State to which are entrusted the lives and fortunes of us all.

Fortunately at this juncture the field is clear of any question of a controversial nature upon which leaders of the different parties may hold diversely opposite views, and which would be made the bone of contention in the campaign. The issue is a moral one—The Cleansing of Public Life in the Colony and the rebuilding of the Political Fabric on the firm foundation of Honesty, Integrity and Fidelity.

And what of those who must be chosen to occupy seats in the Legislature? Unless they are men of vision, possessed of ability and high principles, and whose reputations are above reproach and untarnished by the breath of suspicion, the efforts taken to cleanse our public life will have been in vain, and the last state of this country will be worse than it was formerly. Do you hesitate, men of Newfoundland, in deciding between right and wrong?

Fatal Accident Yesterday

YOUNG LAD DIES AS RESULT OF INJURIES.

An accident which brought fatal results, occurred yesterday morning at Ayre & Sons wharf, when Willie, the twelve year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pierce, Lime Street, was hit in the temple by a falling fish stand, on which he had been playing. Mr. Pierce is a truckman at Messrs Ayre & Sons, and yesterday morning he proceeded as usual to feed his horse at the stable on the wharf. He was accompanied by his son who, whilst his father was engaged at work in the stable, went on the wharf where there were two fish stands used for attaching the scales for weighing fish. To these a rope was attached, and the young lad began to use it for a seesaw. Whilst he was enjoying himself in this manner, one of the stands suddenly toppled over and, falling, hit the boy a crushing blow on the temple, knocking him unconscious. His father, hearing the noise of the falling stand, rushed out, and seizing the boy in his arms, rushed him to Dr. Carnell's surgery, where all possible was done. But it was seen from the first that hope for recovery was vain, as the brain had been crushed in by the force of the blow. The unconscious lad was conveyed with all speed to the hospital, where he breathed his last at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. Young Pierce was an intelligent lad and full of life and vigor, and was beloved by his companions. He leaves to mourn a heartbroken father and mother and two brothers, to whom the sympathy of the community will go out in their bereavement.

Preliminary Enquiry Begins

The preliminary hearing into the charges of larceny preferred against Sir Richard Squires began at 10.30 a.m. in the Magistrate's Court before Judge Morris. Sir Richard with his counsel W. R. Howley, K.C., and Mr. Gordon Bradley were present. Mr. L. E. Emerson appeared for the Crown. Mr. H. A. Winter who is conducting the Crown case with him was absent through indisposition. One witness, Mrs. Harsant, was called, but her evidence had not concluded when adjournment was taken at 11.50. The enquiry into this matter will be continued on Saturday next. The preliminary hearing into the charges against Mr. Campbell begins to-morrow morning.

Boys Playing In Calver's Field

MAKE GRUESOME FIND.

Boys playing in Calver's Field, off Merrymeeting Road, on Saturday afternoon, began to dig around a brick bag which was thought to contain dead kittens. The bottom fell out of the bag, however, and they discovered to their horror that contained the body of a baby. The attention of a man named Butler was called and he reported the matter to the police. The body was placed in a box and taken to the Morgue where a post mortem examination was held during the night by Dr. Anderson. The body, which was partly decomposed, was that of a male child. It evidently had been lying in the field for some time as it is about three weeks ago since the bag was first seen by residents of the neighbourhood.

SEALING NEWS

STELLA MARIS RETURNING FROM GULF.

The message from S.S. Viking in the Gulf received yesterday is of a very encouraging nature, and shows ice conditions improved there and good prospects of that ship securing a saving trip. The steamer Ranger is reported at Pool's Island, awaiting favourable weather conditions before continuing the run to port. The following are the messages:— Viking (Saturday)—Position 60 miles north west Deadman's Island. Struck good patch old seals. Will report later. Wireless working badly. (Sunday)—70 miles N.W. by half W. Deadman's Island. Killed and banded 800 bedlamer harge and old harge Saturday. Bill in pairs. Ice in bad condition. Presents fair.

According to a message received from Port aux Basques yesterday, the Stella Maris has abandoned the voyage, and is now at that port on route here. She hauls for 1,500 seals.

S.S. Terra Nova Arrives

SHIP HAULS FOR 38,000 SEALS.

S.S. Terra Nova, Capt. Abraham Keen, the commander of the fleet arrived from the Northern sealery at 11 o'clock this morning hauling for 15,000 young and old seals. The Terra Nova, the first ice leave port on the morning of March 10th, took the course northward through a barrier of ice on the outside, and had on the morning of March 10th, about one quarter of a mile when a marine disaster followed about 11 a.m. which cost the lives of six men and the whole ship's crew. With the ship wedged fast in the ice, it was found necessary to put out lines from the vessel to help her ahead as in the custom under such conditions. Upwards of 100 men were engaged pulling on the lines, when ten or twelve men fell through a weak pan of ice, and before they could be rescued and notwithstanding help that was close at hand three of them were drowned. The unfortunate victims were Hubert Hiscock of Champany's; David Whelan of St. John's and Maurice'Brien of the Southern Shore. Under the conditions it was found impossible to effect a rescue, because once the ice closed in the drowning men were lost from view and beyond aid. The ship remained at the scene of the accident for several hours and realizing that all hope of recovering the bodies was in vain, continued the voyage. The ship was not liberated from the jam of ice off the Narrows until two days later, and once getting into open water made a good run down the shore. An easterly course was taken north until the ship got opposite Goose Cove Head when they got inside water to get up into White Bay. The ship did not succeed in getting around Canada Head before the 27th of March. The ice was found open in White Bay from Mr. Deep across to Partridge Point, and the ship pursued this course until retiring about 12 miles of Partridge Point, the first seals were struck. At 2 p.m. the men were put on the ice and killed and banded 5,600 young seals. The Terra Nova was then hauled in side of ice, but a easterly wind sprang up bringing the two edges of ice together with the result that the ship was crushed in a raft, taking away 30 feet of bulwarks, stanchions and rail. About 40 tons of ice fell on the deck, and the ship suddenly toppled over on its rail at an angle of about 30 degrees. The crew commenced chopping and shovelling ice immediately, and by 11 a.m. that morning the decks had been cleared, temporary repairs effected, and the crew went on the ice again. On that evening 6,800 seals were accounted for, but the next day the wind was westerly, when a rent of water separated the ship from the seals. It was then found necessary for the men to cross the ice in parties, and despite the hardships endured an extra 5,500 were killed and banded. During the whole voyage only twenty-two hours were expended in waiting. With the ship jammed up in heavy rafted ice for eight days she drifted a distance of 15 miles from her starting point, and the chances of picking up the pans looked very hopeless. However, the ship managed to get free of the raft, and after steaming for 24 hours to the regular position 18,400 seals were located and hauled on board.

Capt. Keen then made an attempt to get out of White Bay but in the meantime he received a message from the owners stating that they were advising the men to haul the seals at Jackson's Arm. Thinking that a patch of seals were in the vicinity, the captain decided to retreat, and soon got back to the regular position at Jackson's Arm. Thinking that a patch of seals were in the vicinity, the captain decided to retreat, and soon got back to the regular position at Jackson's Arm. Thinking that a patch of seals were in the vicinity, the captain decided to retreat, and soon got back to the regular position at Jackson's Arm.

Current Rumors

In political circles all sorts of rumors are afloat but very little credence can be given to much that is heard. It is stated that Sir Wm. Coaker and Sir Michael Cashin have declared their intention of retiring from political life. It is reported also that there will be other retirements and under the leadership of Mr. Warren the pick of both Government and Opposition parties will appeal to the country. It is also suggested that a new party having some of Sir Richard Squires' followers will take the field but under what leadership is not known. It is expected that in a day or two Mr. Warren will be in a position to announce his slate.

Body of Engineer Joliffe Recovered

FROM WATERS NEAR DOCK PREMISES.

On Saturday afternoon the police recovered the body of Ashton Joliffe, second engineer of the S.S. Canadian Sapper, from the waters near the dock premises. The deceased engineer was last seen alive on Tuesday night, the 22nd inst., when his ship berthed at the dock pier to land some machinery for the Humber Canal, since then friends and the police have been seeking him and on Friday morning Constables Tricott and Strange began digging operations near the side of the pier, it being presumed that he had fallen between the ship and the pier. At 5.30 p.m. Saturday the search of the Constables proved successful. After recovery the body was conveyed to Steer's wharf where Undertaker Collier was in waiting with a temporary coffin and the remains accompanied by the man's father, Rev. Mr. Fairbairn and many friends was brought to the morgue. At night a post mortem was held by Drs. Anderson and Fox. Death was ascribed to accidental drowning, there being no marks of violence on the body. The deceased was in his stocking feet when he fell overboard. The funeral took place this afternoon from his late residence, Patrick Street. The late Ashton Joliffe is the only son of Capt. Joliffe, ship's husband at Balne Johnson & Co's. He was educated at the Methodist College and took up marine engineering as a profession serving an apprenticeship at the Reid Co. Marine Shops, from 1914 to 1917 when he was given a position as 3rd engineer on one of the Bay boats. After a short while he secured his second engineers ticket and continued on the local steamers until he joined the Canadian Merchant Marine Service two years ago. He has been on the Sapper over 12 months and was to sit for his Chief's ticket this year. He was a prominent member of the M.C.A. Two years ago he played with the Methodist Guards team whilst his ship was in port. Left to mourn are father and mother, three sisters, Mrs. Alex Campbell, Mrs. J. St. John and Nurse Joliffe, to whom the Telegram extends sympathy.

Mr. John C. Russell, Torbay Road, will be "At Home," Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoon of this week.

Canadian Pronunciation

Toronto, Ont., April. (C.P.)—"Lorraine" in Saturday Night refers to the way Canadians "clip" their vowels. "Quite recently I listened to the talk—it was not conversation of a number of girls who are graduates of one of the best private schools in Toronto. Their synecopized speech was comically noticeable. The lovely Irish name 'Norah,' in their mouths became 'Norb,' and the delightful name 'Dorothy' was distorted into 'Dorthe' with a hideous lengthening of the single 'o' pronounced. One of these girls, a Canadian by three generations, spoke with such a nasal twang that she might have been a recent importation. One day at luncheon a lady remarked that she loved to eat 'Carrots.' That she loved to eat 'Orange'—again with the detestable 'long o'—is heard everywhere for 'orange.' In the report of a recent play in London, the actors had done the 'Canadian accent' admirably. What did she mean by that? We may well ask ourselves. One can only hope that the day will come when the beauty of our vowel sounds and their importance in the life of words may be recalled by both private and public school teachers in Canada.

Cage Plunges Down Shaft

Duquoin, Ill., April 10.—Eighteen coal miners were injured, some perhaps fatally, when the cage in which they were being lowered into the Kathleen mine of the Union Colliery Company, of St. Louis, five miles from here, dropped fifty feet to the bottom of the shaft to-day. The accident is attributed to the blowing out of the safety fuse on an electric hoist, and the failure of "safety dogs" to hold the hoisting drum.

Missionary Sunday at Gower Street Church

(I. C. M.)
 Good weather and good congregations had much to do with the success of the Missionary services, held at Gower Street Church yesterday; and there is room for congratulations on all sides. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. Hammond Johnson, conducted the service, and delivered a very definite message upon the importance of missions, and made a strong appeal for generous support. Gower Street Church has always done its share towards the financial side of this great question, and we think that the appeal made yesterday morning by the pastor should certainly prove effectual in reaching the goal aimed at. The evening service was of course the service of the day, because it was really the annual missionary meeting, and we are pleased to report that it was helpful and inspired. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. Fenwick, Superintendent of Missions for Newfoundland. Dr. Fenwick did not arrogate to himself any unnecessary time; but showed himself a judicious chairman. Hence he did not intrude upon the time of the speakers proper. Perhaps, before referring to the addresses it may be in order to say a word about the music and song. Music has much to do with the success and inspiration of religious gatherings; hence the importance of it in public worship. The entire congregational singing was hearty and whole souled, and the choruses at both the services were excellently rendered, and the solo rendered at the evening service by Miss Withers was indeed worthy the occasion; as was also the singing of the soloist of the morning service, Miss Moore.

The first address was delivered by Mrs. Eugene Lindsay, lady President of the Women's Missionary Society. Mrs. Lindsay has been long known for her zeal and ability in Missionary efforts, and she, as well as members of her family, have always displayed enthusiasm in this great work. Thus it was fitting last night that at the annual anniversary of Gower Street Church, where her fathers had worshipped so long before, she should deliver the Missionary address. Over fifty years ago we heard her grandfather speak there upon the same question, and last night it was as a fulfillment of the prophecy in scripture where it says, "That instead of the fathers shall come up the children." Mrs. Lindsay's address was largely in the nature of a review of missionary work, and it revealed a great grasp of the question upon the part of the speaker, and the ease with which she delivered her address, and her entire deportment, were such as tended to dignify her efforts, and also to hold the close attention of the entire congregation. It is not often that ladies speak in the Churches in St. John's at such gatherings. Therefore it is gratifying to know that Mrs. Lindsay made a good impression in all she said.

It is but natural to expect that the principal address, if any discrimination can be made, would be given by the more clerical speaker of the evening. This speaker was the Rev. R. J. Power, the esteemed pastor of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Mr. Power had much in his favor in starting. There was the large congregation, there was the effect of the hearty singing, and of Miss Withers' solo, and there was the influence created by the beautiful spirit of Mrs. Lindsay's address. These elements are all helpful. Hence, when Mr. Power began his address, there was a warmth and an interest in the congregation which always helps and reacts upon a speaker; and this was manifested throughout all that Mr. Power said. The speaker came well prepared, and brought a message to the people, and delivered it, and left much for reflection. He began by referring to Isaiah's vision as recorded in the sixth chapter of that book, and in his address he showed the importance of having a vision in the accomplishment of any good work, and especially so in the carrying out of the great missionary work. Many of the men who have accomplished things worth while, both in the Church and in the State, were men of vision. Men who saw beyond the commonplace, men who beheld possibilities, men who shirked not at obstacles, men of strong convictions, men with a purpose, and men who carried out their purpose. So with the young prophet Isaiah—he had seen a vision of the Infinite. He had seen the Lord upon His Throne; and, seeing such glory, and hearing such wonderful words as were uttered, in the reflection of the vision, he saw himself; and, seeing himself, he further saw his own unworthiness, and cried out "I am undone". The result of the vision upon Isaiah was his offer for service; hence we further hear him say "there am I, send me". This service was voluntary, and the prophet was willing to be used as a messenger to his people. This vision which Isaiah saw appeared in the Old Testament times, but the spirit of the vision has been often repeated in the history of the Jewish Church, and especially so in the history of the Christian Church. Men at different ages of the world, and of different Christian denominations, have heard the high call of God; have seen, as it were, a vision, and in following it they have found their life's work. True it is, that Church organization is necessary to carry on Missions, and that numbers and finances are essential factors in the cause; but the Church should not rest at these things. People sometimes ask what all the Church, and why is not she better? and why such carelessness manifested towards her interests. Amongst different answers which may be given this question, both by friends and by foes of the Church, one answer is, the Church has lost much of its vision, and she needs to take a step forward and upwards, and see her high calling, and remember it is divine. Both the services were worth more extended publication than we can give them in such notes as these. We are, however, thankful to say that the Missionary Anniversary of Gower St. Church was successful and helpful to pastor and to the people.

A PLEA FOR MIRTH.
Sorrow there are plenty,
For ever the old hearts bleed,
So laugh when you're brave and twenty,
And give us the joys we need,
Sing of the joys you're reaping
And dance all our cares away;
For we who have come to weeping
Have need of your mirth to-day.

Sorrows and griefs are many,
As even the young shall find,
And still are the old if any Shall whittle them out of mind.
So give us the merriest laughter
And sing to us while you may,
New heartaches may come soon after,
But give us your mirth to-day.

Don't add to our hours of grieving,
Or open our wounds of old;
Come around with your merry thieving
And steal every care we hold.
We have wept and may weep to-morrow,
But now we may share your play,
For we who have bowed to sorrow
Have need of your mirth to-day.

Fascinating Girl Has Remarkable Career of Crime

Adventures of "Una the Untruthful" Exciting and Novel—Twice Divorced—Practised as Doctor Illegally and Signed Death Certificates.

Of all the women criminals who have passed through their hands, the police say that Margaret Williams—
"Una the Untruthful," they call her —is one of the most fascinating and dangerous.

She has just been sentenced to four months' imprisonment at Bournemouth for fraud, and her career of crime is astonishing.

She has swindled men out of thousands of pounds; illegally practised as a doctor and signed death certificates; served a term of imprisonment for bigamy with a brigadier-general; been divorced twice on the same day.

Margaret Williams has lived a life of lies. She once told the police, who were inquiring into her history, that she was born at Quetta, that her father was a well-known surgeon in the army, that she came to London at an early age, was educated at Brighton, Clifton and Leeds University, and that she then went to the Continent to study medicine.

Rich Father.

Except for the fact that she did attend a boarding school at Brighton, there was not a word of truth in the whole story. She is, in fact, the child of an unmarried woman named Ed Bowan, who died at the time of her birth.

Her father, a wealthy man, placed her in charge of a foster mother at Brighton, and she remained with her until she was 12 years of age. In 1911, when she was 19, she met and married an agricultural chemist, and lived in Leeds. There were two children of the marriage.

In 1919, she left her husband and came to London, working as a housekeeper at a student's club. Her extravagance had ruined her husband, and from influential people and well-known army men she obtained thousands of pounds by fraud.

In 1920 she got into St. Mary's Hospital and attended a class for students. She was found out and expelled, but, nothing daunted, gained admission to Queen Charlotte's Hospital. Here again she was unmasked.

Posed as a Doctor.

Her next step was to call on a medical man in Southampton avenue, Maida Vale, and, describing herself as a doctor, became his assistant.
She gave her name as "Margaret Crawford," and acted as the doctor's locum tenens, attended his panel patients, and even signed death certificates.

Afterwards she secured a temporary vacancy at Neasden Hospital at 10 guineas a week, still in the name of Dr. Crawford. She was prosecuted at the instance of the Medical Defence Union, and failing to pay the fine inflicted, served six months' imprisonment.

It was at Cardiff that this astonishing woman committed bigamy. At a registry office there she went through a form of marriage with General de Lancey Williams. She gave the name of Margaret Patricia Williams, and described herself as a widow, M.D., B.Sc., London. Her father's name was stated to be Charles William Keough, major-general.

Two Divorces.

For this offence she received six months in the second division. General Williams obtained a decree of nullity, and on the same day the woman's legal husband obtained a divorce.

After serving sentences at Cardiff and Exeter, she came to Bournemouth, where she engaged rooms at a private hotel for "Sir Berkeley Monyihan, the King's physician, and Lady Monyihan."

It was at first believed that she was a doctor, and a local chemist actually supplied her with goods on that assumption. Then inquiries were made, and the falsity of her story was demonstrated. She was arrested and convicted of obtaining food by false pretences. Her total worldly wealth was 9d.

Claim to Title.

Margaret Williams once claimed to be "Lady Hanley," a title she explained, that had been bestowed upon her by the King. She pretended to be the daughter of a Fleet Surgeon in the Navy, who was killed while attending the wounded at Gallipoli and posthumously honored.

It is difficult to describe the secret of the fascination which "Una the Untruthful" was able to exercise over those with whom she came into contact. By no means can she be described as beautiful; she has prominent upper teeth and a drooping mouth, which gives her a sullen and discontented expression.

But in some way she has been able to cast a spell over men—and women —and the prison gates have once more closed upon a woman adven-tress who, although only in her early thirties, has already a long record of crime behind her.

STAFFORD'S Sarsaparilla Blood Purifier

FOR THE CURE OF

all Diseases, Anemia, Lack of Blood, Paleness, Pure Blood, Lack of Ambition and Vigor,
Fidelity, Weakness, Tired Feeling, Boils, Pimples, etc.

There is no Remedy of more universal application than a genuine true-and-tried Blood Purifier and Blood Builder, which restores hope and pleasure, ambition and vigor and vitality. It is of inestimable value not only as a restorer of the system, fortifying it against invasion of disease, but also as a cure for Chronic Diseases which depend upon an impoverished condition of the blood. Diseases of nature are usually caused by impurities in the blood derived through the inactivity of the Liver and Kidneys.

These secretions if not removed from the circulation, gradually form poisons which deteriorate the condition of the blood and other diseases to obtain a more ready entrance to the system. In the effort of nature to throw off these impurities, pimples, boils, carbuncles, etc., appear, and it is to respond promptly to the Warning of Nature.

THIS SARSAPARILLA
is a scientific preparation prepared from the best purest remedies for the purifying and rebuilding of the blood. It should be taken every spring, as at this season the blood is apt to become impure and impoverished. Keep your blood in perfect condition and you will be prepared to meet all the battles with greater success.

One Bottle of this Blood Purifier is all that will need to take to produce results.

British Empire Exhibition

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT PAVILION.

This is the building that was forgotten, the building, when remembered that was built in record time, the time of construction being only seven months. It is one of the most important Pavilions of the Exhibition, too. In it, Their Majesties will have their state rooms, and round the court of Honour the various Government departments will illustrate their functions. The Pavilion will house the world's largest stage which will fake the form of a tank of water on which the Admiralty will represent the famous sea battles of the Navy from the Spanish Armada to the Zeebrugge raid.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF THE GROUNDS.

Here spread over before the eye is the most eloquent map of the British Empire that has ever been produced. Every Dominion, every colony, every dependency, is represented. Australia and Canada are there with their huge buildings, each representative and suggestive of the great open spaces of the two countries. India is there, her lofty minarets rising to a height of thirty feet. In characteristic Pavilions, the British areas of the African Continent stand out distinctly in this miniature Empire. Home industries are displayed under the roofs of two of the largest concrete buildings in the world, the Palace of Industry and the Palace of Engineering. East and West, every corner of this huge Empire has its model in this Exhibition. Produce and crafts, minerals and peoples, soil and living plants, animals and treasures—all have been brought from the four corners of the world to make this great Empire Exhibition, the most comprehensive the world has ever beheld.

THE STADIUM.

The Stadium is the largest sports arena in the world. One and a half times bigger than the Roman Colosseum, it can accommodate 120,000 spectators. On this field, the winners of the famous English Football Association Cup will be decided during the next 20 years. Here, too, the English International football matches will be played. From the green award, His Majesty the King will declare the great Exhibition open and from here his voice will be broadcasted, on April 23rd, not only over the Exhibition grounds, but over the whole world. Among other events which will be staged in the Stadium are the Pageant of the Empire, the Empire Sunday Service, the massed band concerts, fireworks displays, and the much discussed Rodeo competitions, when the famous stock riders of the world will compete.

GENERAL MEETING Nfld. JUNIOR FOOTBALL LEAGUE.

The Newfoundland Junior Football League held a meeting on Saturday night, when matters in connection with the coming season were discussed. Applications were read from two teams asking for admission to the League, whilst two other teams are also seeking admission. It is possible that at least two of last year's teams will not enter this year, although it is not definitely known whether or not this is true and until this is made certain, nothing was done about the teams that wish to enter. As the Senior League has not yet held a meeting the terms on which the Juniors will obtain St. George's Field is not known but it is hoped that better playing nights will be possible. It was decided to hold the annual meeting on Saturday, May 10th, when all reports will be submitted and election of officers held. At this meeting all teams of last year must enter.

INTER-CLUB BILLIARDS.

Masonic Players Take Both Ends of Double Header.

In the Masonic-B.I.S. Billiard Tournament two games were played on Saturday night, at the Masonic Club Rooms, resulting in victory for the Masonic players in both games. The first game for the night should have been Mosker vs. Angel, but owing to illness in the family of Mr. Angel this game was postponed and instead Dickinson and Merner strung off. This game was not what it was expected to be, both players seemed out of form and many apparently easy opportunities were lost.

The second game Wallace (B.I.S.) vs. Harnum (Masonic) was the most closely contested of the series and ended in a win for Harnum by only two points. From beginning to end it was a neck-and-neck fight and great interest in the outcome was shown by the many spectators present. The scores were:

Dickinson, (Masonic)—350—10, 11, 26, 18, 13, 15, 23, 12, 14, 23, 15—un-finished—170.

Merner, (B.I.S.)—320—10, 18, 17, 13, 12, 16, 12, 15—141.

Whilst Mr. W. Newbury of the M.G.C.A. was playing a friendly game of billiards in the M.G.C.A. rooms on Saturday night he made a splendid break of 93. The balls were running nicely throughout, and had he not missed an easy cannon at the top of the table the century mark would very easily have been accomplished. For a half hour play during the same game Mr. Newbury scored 267 points. He received the congratulations of his many friends at the close.

GETTING EVEN.
Frederick O'Brien, the famous writer of South Sea Island adventures, lives in Glendale, which isn't so remote from Los Angeles but what the woman folks have been able to seek him out and bore him to death.
One day, when they insisted that he tell them an adventure, O'Brien said: "Once I was shipwrecked on the coast of a cannibal island and came across a tribe of wild women who had no tongues."
"Mercy," cried one of his fair auditors, "but they couldn't talk!"
"That," snapped O'Brien, "was what made them wild!"

THE MAYOR'S FAMILY.
The mayor of a small town in Ohio had six stout sons, with whom he loved to parade Main Street. They furnished him with the basis of a mathematical joke. "A fine family you have," strangers would often say. "Is this the whole of it?"
"No," the mayor would reply. "Each and every son has two sisters at home."
"What!" the visitor would exclaim, rapidly counting the sons. "Twelve daughters!"
"No, indeed! Just two."—Kansas City Star.

A Sudden Bereavement
Much sympathy will be felt for Mr. and Mrs. Vavasour, Prince of Wales Street, on the death of their darling child, Lillian Marie, which occurred yesterday morning, almost suddenly. The father, intending to visit some friends at the Hospital, was taking his little girl along with him for the walk, when she was seized with a fit of coughing. Medical aid was summoned and Dr. Fraser responded, but when he arrived the fatal spark had flown. Lillian was a bright, little child of two and a half years, and the idol of her parents.
