London, Sept. 2.—Four German mine-sweepers were destroyed today off the coast of Jutland by British light forces, according to an announcement issued tonight by the admiralty. The official statement reads: "Our light forces operating off the coast of Jutland (Denmark) this morning destroyed four enemy mine-sweeping vessels."

By Stewart Lyon. Canadian Headquarters in France, via London, Sept. 2.—This is the story of two letters that will reach Canada on the next mail steamer. They have each two bullet holes in them, unspoken evidence of one of the war's tragedies, and they contain the last messages of a soldier of an Ontario battalion to two women, believed to be his mother and his sweetheart. This soldier, with others, was sent out a few days ago to make a sortie from our trenches in the St. Laurent sector of the line. It may have been because of a premonition, that strange clairvoyance so often encountered here at the front, or it may have been a matter of simple good fortune, that this soldier wrote two letters. Leaving them unsealed for submission later to the censor, he carried them with him into action. He never returned. He has a soldier's grave out somewhere behind the German front line.

London, Sept. 2.—A German air raid on the coast of England tonight was announced by the official bureau. Bombs were dropped as the text of the statement reads: "Hostile airplanes crossed the east Kent coast at 11:15 o'clock tonight. They flew seawards a few minutes later. A few bombs were dropped. The casualties are believed to be small."

Haig Reports Taking Over Seven Thousand Prisoners in August. THIRTY-EIGHT GUNS Including Last Day of July, They Took Ten Thousand Germans.

Worked in Bold Fashion. The German armed trawler fleet, confident in its protection by zeppelins and submarines, has worked in the boldest fashion in sweeping the seas clear on the route for submarines, and has been extending its sphere of operations northward. Frequent reports from the British coast towns mentioned the sighting of warships and the daily zeppelin patrol was one of the sights of the big Dutch resort of Fance. Yesterday's excitement seems likely to make the Germans more cautious, and to have them interfere with the submarine campaign.

Two Letters Found. The enemy sustained casualties remarkably high, even in bombing warfare. The official record shows that the bodies of 30 dead Germans were removed from that part of the trench retained by us, while many others were seen in a portion of the trench bombed, but not occupied. In the captured trench were found also severely wounded Germans, an officer and two men. When the officer's clothing was searched, as is the custom, two letters written by the soldier of the New Ontario battalion the night before he was killed, were found among the prisoner's papers. A bullet had gone thru the envelopes, near the centre. Another had clipped off a bit at the end, but the addresses were still legible. The letters were sealed, and have been forwarded to the persons to whom they were addressed, with a statement telling of how they passed into the hands of the enemy and how they were recovered, after the writer had been laid in an unknown grave. That he survived two bullet wounds in the breast is not considered possible. The letters will be sent, reading to the soldier's home-folk along the Atlantic.

Paris, Sept. 2.—The official communication issued tonight reads: "There was great artillery activity in the region of Hurtebise near Maisons de Champagne and on the Verdun front in the sectors of Hill 304, Sannoigneux and Beaumont."

London, Sept. 2.—The British official communication issued tonight says: "Attempted enemy raids last night at two points northwest of Lens and also southwest of La Bassee all were repulsed with losses. Both artillery were active east of Ypres. "Little flying was possible yesterday owing to rain and a high wind, but during the previous night our airplanes carried out bombing operations actively against the hostile airbases and railway stations. "In air fighting, one German machine was downed. Two of our machines are missing. "The official report from British headquarters in France reads: "Early this morning we carried out a successful raid east of Wytschaete and bombed the enemy's dugouts. We inflicted casualties with machine gun fire on his garrison as they endeavored to escape across the open southwest of Havincourt. A hostile raiding party was driven off without loss to our troops. "Yesterday evening the weather cleared for two hours for the first time in four days, and normal serial activity was resumed. In the air taken 88 guns, including six Heavy guns; six 200 machine guns and 78 trench mortars. These figures are exclusive of the guns which were captured in Flanders by our allies. "The following statement on military operations along the Franco-Belgian front was given officially today: "Yesterday evening the enemy made a heavy bombing attack against the advanced posts southwest of Havincourt, which he failed to reach the previous night. After a sharp fight our troops at first were compelled to withdraw, but later they recaptured the posts with slight loss. The artillery has been active during the night east of Ypres."

German Seamen Landed. About one hundred German seamen were landed, many of whom were severely wounded. Medical assistance was sent from Rinkloping, the nearest large town. One rumor has it that one hundred German soldiers came ashore, but apparently this is a distorted version of the fact that about one hundred men reached shore. The German crew were presumably engaged in patrolling and mine-sweeping to clear the route for an anti-submarine campaign.

London, Sept. 2.—The Germans are virtually knocking at the gates of Riga. The great port and arsenal on the Baltic is beset on three sides by the enemy—on the west in the Lake Uxkull region; on the southwest along the Mitau, and on the southeast along the eastern bank of the Dwina River, a scant fifteen miles distant from the city. In the latter region, the Germans, after a heavy bombardment, won the Uxkull bridgehead, famed as the scene of many sanguinary encounters, and crossed the Dwina River. Thence they shaped their course northward along the waterway to Riga, with the Russians counter-attacking but unable to hold them. Some twenty miles southwest of Riga, along the railway line running from Mitau to the seaport, the Germans have begun a new offensive. Here a big battle is in progress. Preparations evidently were made last week in raids by airplanes on warships and military works in the Gulf of Riga, and by the manoeuvres of German torpedo boat destroyers, submarines and mine-sweeping trawlers in adjacent waters, for the new offensive against Riga, but whether the attack is being carried out synchronously by sea has not become apparent. While the capture of Riga would be a name in controlling the entrance to the Gulf of Finland, at the head of which stands Petrograd, it would not necessarily place the Koyal in jeopardy, for it lies overland 300 miles as the crow flies from Riga and 360 miles by rail. Today's Russian official communication says: "In the direction of 'Vladimir-Volynski, after the bombardment of our position by chemical shells, the enemy assumed the offensive in the region of Zubino-Freshem and succeeded in the sector south of the village in breaking into the trenches of one of our companies, but was driven out by a counter-attack. "Rumanian front: In the direction of Pokohani last night the enemy attacked several sectors of the Rumanian positions, north and northeast of the line. All were repulsed. Yesterday the enemy, after strong artillery preparation, attacked again with considerable forces the Rumanian positions in the region north of Ireshbi, but were repulsed with heavy losses. We captured a number of prisoners. In the direction of Kopel, the enemy's artillery preparation, attacked our positions in the sector northwest of the Duzeu River, but was repulsed.

Dunn's flock entertained Richmond on Sunday and put over a win. This boosted Baltimore over our heads into first place by a margin slightly over a point.

The Leafs played Baltimore down in Buffalo today and must again lead the league by tonight.

Eddie Durnan Successfully Defends His Sculling Title

DURNAN RETAINS SCULLING TITLE Toronto Oarsman Wins Match by Quarter of a Mile.

HACKETT'S STEERING Beaudette Man Went Long Way Off the Course.

Eddie Durnan of Toronto, the champion sculler of America, was an easy winner over the American, John L. Hackett of Beaudette Minnesota.

The course was between Hanlan's Point and Ward's Island. The race began at 6:40 p.m. and Durnan immediately took the lead, increasing it at every stroke throughout the course.

A large crowd of spectators were on hand and many motor boats accompanied the scullers over the course.

On the return stretch he again lost his direction. He was forced to cease sculling in order to get his bearings.

As he has already a long way behind, this action made spectators believe that he had given up the race.

He immediately started in again and headed for the inland side.
