 At that instant a savory smell wafted to him. He was passing a small restaurant, where sausages and onions sizzled gratefully in large tin trays, and pork chops lay in inviting prodigality amid rich, brown gravy. The proprietor, a portly and greasy man, with bald head and side whiskers, was standing at the door exchanging views as to business with his next-door neighbor, a green grocer. Philip, bold in the knowledge of his wealth, resolved to try what he could achieve on credit.
 "I have not got any money just now," he said to the restaurant keeper, "but if you will let me have something to eat, I will gladly come back this afternoon and pay you double."
 Neither man spoke at first. Philip was always unconscious of the quaint dialect and nancy between his style of speech and his attire. He used to resent bitterly the attention extended by strangers, but today he was far removed above those considerations, and he backed up the request by a pleasant smile.
 "The fat man grew apoplectic and turned his eyes to the sky."
 "Well, I'm—" he spluttered, and Philip blushed.
 "Do you refuse?" he said, with his downy moustache and direct stare.
 "Well, of all the cool cheek—" The stout person's feelings were too much for him. He could find no other words.
 "You don't think I mean to swindle you, surely?"
 "Well, there, I never did!"
 "But the greengrocer intervened."
 "You're a sharp lad," he guffawed. "Dye was a job!"
 "No," was the short reply. "I want something to eat."
 "Dash my buttons, an' you're a libel! sort of a kid to get it, too. In a jolly good way, I'll pay the bill. Lord lumme, it'll do me good to see you."
 "Mr. Judd, you mad?" demanded his neighbor, whose breath had returned to him.
 "Not a bit of it. The bloomin' kid can't get through a bob's worth if he bursts himself. Ere, I'll bet you two bob's pays up."
 "Don't walk in, sir. Wo'll you be pleased to 'ave, sir?"
 Philip's indignation at the restaurant keeper's sarcasm yielded to his wish to see him annihilated later in the day. Moreover, the sausages really smelt excellent, and he was now ravenous. He entered the shop, and gave his orders with a dignity that astounded the proprietor and hugely delighted the greengrocer, who, in the intervals of business, kept peeping at him through the window. Philip ate steadily, and the bill amounted to ninepence, which his ally paid cheerfully. He held out his hand.
 "Thank you, Mr. Judd," he said, frankly. "I will return without fail. I will not insult you by offering more than the amount you have advanced for me, but some day I may be able to render you good service in repayment."
 Then he walked off toward the viaduct steps, and Mr. Judd looked after him.
 "Talks like a little gentleman, 'e does. If my little Jimmie 'ad lived 'e would 'a' bin just about his age. Lord lumme, I 'ope 'e lad turns up again, an' not for the sake of the bloomin' ninepence, neither. Tomatoes, mum? Yes! Fresh in this morn'."
 After crossing Holborn Viaduct, Philip stood for a little while gazing into the showroom of a motor agency. It was not that he was interested in Panhard or De Dion cars—then but little known to the general public in England—but rather that he wished to rehearse carefully the program to be followed with Mr. Isaacstein. With a sagacity unlooked for

PRINCE OF WALES SAILED FROM QUEBEC EARLY THIS MORNING

He Boarded the Indomitable Last Night—Cheers of Thousands of Citizens and Thunder of Salutes Marked His Departure—How His Royal Highness Spent Yesterday.

Quebec, July 28.—All the warships in the harbor again thundered forth a royal salute of twenty-one guns this evening, when the Prince of Wales left Canadian soil and boarded the Indomitable not to touch land again until he reaches England.
 The departure of the prince is really the beginning of the end of the series of festivals of the past ten days, though the course of events would permit him to touch land again until he reaches England.
 An interesting announcement made from the citadel this evening is that the Prince of Wales, on the eve of his departure, has presented to the people of Canada a chair which belonged to General Wolfe.
 The prince's last day in Canada was a very busy one, and he was kept on the go all the time. Fortunately, however, there were no state functions until he attended the various functions in the ordinary attire of a gentleman, which he did in the morning, when he planted a tree in Victoria Park, the ceremony being witnessed by a big crowd, many being surprised at its dignified brevity.
 In the afternoon, however, the prince's time was very fully occupied. He first attended a gymkhana at the Q. A. A. A. grounds, where he stayed for some time, and then left for the plains, where a garden party was given in his honor, and at which he spent an hour walking in the grounds, chatting with various friends in the most informal style, in fact the prince had possibly planned to make his visit as free as possible from fuss and feathers, and he managed it so well that his arrival was almost unnoticed, as also was his departure, the only formalities attending either ceremony being the attendance of a guard of honor and the hauling up and pulling down of the royal standard.
 The prince was so pleased with the show that he will return before he left the grounds. After giving the younger generation a chance to cheer their future king, the prince drove to Spencerwood, the beautiful residence of the lieutenant governor, Sir Louis Jette, where a delightful garden party was given in his honor, and at which he spent an hour walking in the grounds, chatting with various friends in the most informal style, in fact the prince had possibly planned to make his visit as free as possible from fuss and feathers, and he managed it so well that his arrival was almost unnoticed, as also was his departure, the only formalities attending either ceremony being the attendance of a guard of honor and the hauling up and pulling down of the royal standard.

SUMMER COMPLAINT.

One of the Commonest and Most Dangerous of Diseases.
 Everyone Should be Prepared for it with a Bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.
 Very few people escape an attack of Summer Complaint. It may be slight, or it may be severe, but nearly everyone is liable to it.
 You cannot tell when it seizes on you, how it may end.
 Let it go for a day or two only, and see how weak and prostrated it will leave you.
 There is only one safe way to cure it, and that is by Dr. Fowler's EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. It has been on the market for sixty-three years and has been proved and tried so often as not to experiment when you buy it.
 Do not accept a substitute or imitation, as many of these are positively dangerous to life and health. Insist on having Dr. Fowler's.
 Mrs. Norman H. Eissu, Ship Harbor, N.S., writes: "Last summer my baby was very bad with Summer Complaint. I tried most everything for him, but nothing seemed to help. One day a neighbor called in and told me to try Dr. Fowler's EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY, so I got a bottle and after a few doses my baby was cured. I shall always keep it in the house."

 An odd incident occurred during the return of the prince and his party from the garden party at Spencerwood. Lord Roberts, field marshal and idol of the British army, had attended the reception, of course in full uniform, and he looked very different from the "Bobs" of the chromo lithograph, and he drove back to the citadel in an ordinary carriage.
 "Bobs" lost no time in accepting their invitation, and was delighted with the incident, shaking hands with the detectives, and chatting with the police as they covered the route to the citadel.
 "Bobs" finally had to get out, and started to walk up the hill to the citadel, when Chief Detective Dunton of Toronto and Detective Carrington of Montreal in an automobile passed the lines with their "No Hindrance" pass. They immediately recognized Lord Roberts toiling up the steep ascent, and hailed him to join them.
 "Bobs" lost no time in accepting their invitation, and was delighted with the incident, shaking hands with the detectives, and chatting with the police as they covered the route to the citadel.

BOARD OF WORKS IN A BREEZY SESSION

Lively Passages Between the Aldermen Marked Last Night's Meetings—Committee Talks Street Signs Matter.

At a meeting of the board of works last evening, a somewhat lively discussion took place over the question of private pulls on the part of the aldermen from the different wards. The matter was precipitated by a motion of Ald. Pickett for a sidewalk in Seely street. Ald. Baskin took the position that the chairman and director ought to consult with the aldermen of the wards as to the places in which it was most necessary to spend money in the wards. Ald. Kelley vigorously denounced this as a pernicious doctrine and put himself on record as opposed to private pulls enjoyed by aldermen.
 Ald. Sprout on one stage of the discussion said that the wards represented by the royal cortege appeared, preceded by officials in automobiles, the prince's carriage, guarded by two detachments of the North West Mounted Police, was greeted with cheers, the prince having to rise and salute during the entire distance.
 A picturesque feature was afforded when the royal procession swung into eight, from above in the narrow streets of the lower town, as soon as his carriage came into view the immense crowd on the terrace, as though by a preconcerted arrangement, broke into a tremendous cheer, and the prince yawned in the carriage, waving in fleeting fragments from all directions by the wind in picturesque and imposing confusion.
 The prince inspected the guard, and bade farewell to the officer in charge, and boarded the pinnace from the Indomitable, which ran out to the big cruiser followed by half a dozen other boats from the fleet. As soon as the prince reached the deck of the Indomitable the Royal Standard was hoisted from the foremast, and once again the war-scarred heights of Quebec resounded with the thunderous greetings of three nations to Great Britain's future king. Every warship was fully manned, the masts being lined with bluejackets and marines, waiting motionless as the sharp flashes and noisy smoke marked the band of the Leon Gambetta was heard in the distance playing God Save the King, the Admiral Aubrey took up the refrain, the American warship, the New Hampshire, followed, and then in rhythmic succession the six British battleships, until the music died away up the river. A solitary trumpet then rang out from the deck of the Exmouth, and a second later three tremendous cheers were given by the 10,000 sailors and marines with a volume of sound that reverberated from shore to shore and was echoed by the crowds that lined the terrace. It was practically the farewell of Canada to the prince, as well as that of the fleet, and the ceremony was well worthy of the occasion, the stately ceremonial and warlike salute harmonizing perfectly with the natural amphitheatre, which is so picturesque.

tended that it was necessary that there should be some head to the department who should be independent of the aldermen. He was almost equal to saying that he ran the department.
 Ald. Baskin got to his feet at this stage to say that in his opinion the appropriations were not spent to the best advantage. He argued that as the aldermen best knew the needs of their respective wards the director and chairman ought to appoint their own officials.
 The meeting then adjourned till next Friday night at 8 o'clock, when the claim of the White Candy Company for $410, for damages to their wagon and goods, and the recorder's opinion thereon, will be taken up. At this adjournment the contract with the street railway company will be discussed.
 On motion of Ald. Baxter the matter of the Seely street sidewalk was then considered and allowed to lie on the table till the information asked for by Ald. Baskin should be forthcoming.
 It was then decided, on motion of Ald. Baxter, that the sub-committee on harbor facilities be empowered to call for tenders for the erection of a warehouse on the wharf recently finished by Clark & Adams as soon as the plans and specifications are complete.
 The first communication taken up was from Maud Staines, offering to sell her property at the east end of Mecklenburg street to the city for $1,200, and asking for a retaining wall in the event of the city not purchasing it. This matter was left in the hands of the director, chairman and Ald. VANWINKLE.

At the regular meeting of Court Lancaster I. O. F., at Fairville last evening, addresses were given by D. G. Lingley, P. M. C. R., and E. J. Todd, of the Royal Foresters. Alfred Taylor, C. Mr. Lingley in his address discussed the question of raising the rates and spoke at some length, giving figures to show the necessity for a readjustment. It was better, he said, to increase the payments slightly than to have nothing in ten years' time. Mr. Todd also spoke along the same lines. The members appeared satisfied with the explanations.

AWFUL STORM ON THE LABRADOR COAST

Seventeen Fishing Vessels Smashed to Pieces in One Hour.

Other Parts of the Coast Not Yet Heard From But There is Great Fear For Safety of Governor MacGregor.

St. John, N. F., July 28.—The Labrador coast was today swept by a hurricane wind from the northeast which wrecked seventeen vessels in one harbor. Other parts of the coast are as yet unheard from, but grave fears are entertained for the safety of Governor MacGregor, of Newfoundland, who is on an official visit to the Labrador coast. The message received here states that the crews of the seventeen fishing vessels which were smashed to pieces in one harbor, reached shore but should any craft have been caught outside on the bleak coast where there would be no succor to the shipwrecked, the loss of life must have been heavy. The large majority of the good-sized fishing fleet on the Labrador coast was north of Indian harbor, out of reach of any cable station and it will be at least three days before the full extent of the disaster can be learned. It is not known just what part of the coast Governor MacGregor was, no news of him having been received from Indian Harbor or any cable point in that territory. The government immediately upon receipt of the news of the heavy damage caused by the northeast despatched the steamer Victoria Lake to the relief of the shipwrecked crews.

THE INDEPENDENT LEAGUES ADOPT A RADICAL PLATFORM

They are Opposed to Issue of Injunctions in Labor Disputes—Out for Strong Navy, Tariff and Eight Hour Day—Hisgen Chosen for President.

Chicago, July 28.—At tonight's session of the convention of the Independent party, Thomas Hisgen, of Massachusetts, was nominated for president on the ticket and the following platform adopted: We, Independent American citizens, representing the Independence Party in forty-four states and two territories, have met in national convention to nominate, absolutely independent of all other political parties, candidates for president and vice-president of the United States. Our action is based upon a determination to wrest the conduct of public affairs from the hands of selfish interests, political tricksters and corrupt bosses, and make the government, as the founders intended, an agency for the common good. At a period of unexampled national prosperity and promise, a staggering blow has been dealt to the nation by the unexampled practice of stock-watering and dishonest financing. Multitudes of jobless investors, thousands of honest business men and an army of idle workmen are paying the penalty. Year by year, fostered by wasteful and reckless governmental extravagance by the manipulation of trusts and by a privileged higher and higher. Day by day, the control of the government drifts further away from the people and more firmly into the grip of machine politicians and party bosses. Our object is not to introduce violent innovations or startling new theories. We, of the Independence party, look back, as Lincoln did, to the declaration of Independence as the fountainhead of all political inspiration. It is not our purpose to revolutionize the American system of government, but to restore the action of the government to the principles of Washington and Jefferson and Lincoln. It is not our purpose to restore the old government, but to restore the American system of government, but to conserve for the citizens of the United States their privileges and liberties won for them by the founders of this government and to perpetuate the principles and policies upon which the nation's greatness has been built. As of first importance in order to restore the power of government to the people, to make their will supreme in the primaries, in the elections and in the control of public officials after they have been elected, we declare for direct nominations, the initiative and referendum and the right of recall. Representative government is made a mockery by the system of modern party conventions dominated by bosses and controlled by cliques. We demand the natural remedy of direct nominations by which the people not only elect, but which is far more important, select their representatives. Of next importance in destroying the power of selfish special interests and the corrupt political bosses whom they control is to wrest from their hands their main weapon, the corruption fund. We demand severe and effective legislation against all forms of corrupt practices at elections and advocate prohibiting the use of money at elections except for meetings, literature and the necessary traveling expenses of candidates. We condemn the evil of over-capitalization. Modern industrial conditions make the corporation and stock company a necessity, but over-capitalization in corporations is as harmful and criminal as is personal dishonesty in an individual. We denounce the so-called labor plank of the Democratic and Republican platforms as political buncombe and contemptible claptrap unworthy of national parties claiming to be serious and sincere. The independence party condemns the

WILL CARRY OUT ROOSEVELT'S POLICES

So Says Taft in Accepting Republican Nomination

He Will Try to Effect Reforms Without Undue Disturbance of Business Conditions—Success of Bryan Means Industrial Destruction.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 28.—Officially notified today of his nomination for the presidency by the Republican party, William H. Taft, standing on the porch of his brother's home in this city, formally accepted the nomination and swore his allegiance to the policies of President Roosevelt and declared that the chief function of the next presidential administration will be to clinch what already has been accomplished by the present occupant of the White House. In doing this, however, Mr. Taft pointed out in what is regarded as a conservative note in his address, that there will be serious and difficult work to do, principally "to devise ways and means by which the high level of business integrity and obedience to law which the President Roosevelt has established, may be maintained and departures from it restrained without undue interferences with legitimate business." Mr. Taft attacked the Democratic platform, asserting that most of its declarations "are inconsistent or downright wrong." Mr. Bryan's principles were held up as destructive. The vast audience that heard the candidate, filling porches, lawns and streets surrounding the Taft residence and streaming to the city hall, was in a state of intense heat which the direct rays of a midsummer sun sent down upon it, was responsive to Mr. Taft's every word, and there were loud cries of "no, no," when he said: "I submit to those most interested, to wage earners, farmers and business men whether the introduction into power of the Democratic party with Mr. Bryan at its head and with the business destruction that it openly advocates as a remedy for present evils, will bring about the general confidence for the restoration of prosperity." Mr. Taft spoke for one hour and eleven minutes.

DIED SUDDENLY ON THE STEAMER ELAINE

Wealthy Lowell Man Expired During the Trip Down River.

F. C. Beharrell Burst a Blood Vessel in the Region of his Heart—Body Will be Taken Home Today.

While coming down the river on the steamer Elaine yesterday morning, Frank C. Beharrell, a retired contractor and wealthy landowner of Lowell, (Mass.), met almost instant death by the bursting of a blood vessel in the region of the heart. The body was brought to the city and will be taken to Lowell on the Boston train this morning. Accompanied by his brother, J. R. Beharrell, also a prominent contractor, Mr. Beharrell arrived in the city on Thursday last and stayed at the Royal. On Friday the two tourists took passage on the steamer Elaine for Fredericton and spent the week and then returned. Yesterday morning they again embarked on the Elaine for their return journey. The elder of the two brothers had been a sufferer from shortness of breath and a slight attack of asthma, but he thought little of the inconvenience and was in fine spirits, eating a hearty breakfast on Tuesday morning. Soon after getting on the boat he complained of a heavy feeling in the chest, and suggested to his brother that a steamer should be engaged. The steamer was all taken, but Capt. Peatman gave up his room to the ailing traveler. Mr. Beharrell said the room was too warm, however, and that he preferred to be in the open air. "I submitted to those most interested, to wage earners, farmers and business men whether the introduction into power of the Democratic party with Mr. Bryan at its head and with the business destruction that it openly advocates as a remedy for present evils, will bring about the general confidence for the restoration of prosperity." Mr. Taft spoke for one hour and eleven minutes.

Likes and Dislikes Apply to Coal

A few years ago almost everybody who bought Hard Coal thought they wanted a Hard Burning Coal. The majority of people, however, have changed their views in this respect. A Free Burning American Hard Coal gives the best general satisfaction. It kindles easily, burns freely, lasts well and there is no trouble with lack of dust. We are now in a position to offer you best Free Burning American Hard Coal in lots of three tons or more delivered. Chestnut, $5.65; Stove, $5.75; Egg, $5.65; and Furnace, $5.65. We will deliver it in canvas bags and put it in the bin on the ground floor at 50c per ton extra, which is one-half our usual charge for bag delivery. You can burn the Furnace Coal in any kind of a round stove except the self-feeder. The reason we are making these prices so low is that we want to move the coal now, and you can make a large saving by giving us your order this week. J. S. Preventives are the best protection in time of war, and the best preventative of war. We therefore favor the speedy building of a navy sufficiently strong to protect at the same time both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of the United States. We rejoice in the adoption by both the Democratic and Republican parties of the demand of the Independence party for improved national waterways, and the extension of this system to the tributaries of the Mississippi by means of which thirty states shall be served and 20,000 miles added to the coast line of the United States. We advocate the popular election of United States senators and judges, both state and federal, and favor a graduated income tax and any constitutional amendments necessary to these ends.

THE HUMAN ANATOMY.

Dear Sir:—It is said that anatomy is a great study—I believe it. I've been trying since goodness knows when to locate certain of my bodily organs, which until recent years, I did not know that I possessed. Occasionally I hear said:—"He was hit in the collar." "He was kicked in the scapula." "She was run over just below the post-office." "He shot a man in the back yard." "He was shot in the corridor." "He kissed her upon the piazza." The engineer struck the fireman in the cab and the fireman kicked the engineer in the coal tender." Now, these anatomical parts ever been tagged or labelled?

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Elections in Canada are generally followed by a large number of protests in the courts. It is worthy of note that the province of Ontario has set a new standard. Only one protest followed the recent provincial elections, and that was not a party but a personal affair. Commenting on the fact the Ottawa Journal (Independent) says:

THROUGH THE AIR

People are disposed to read with interest whatever bears the stamp of any authority on the subject of aerial navigation. On Monday the despatches from New York gave an interview with Mr. Henri Farman, the noted French aeronaut, who has come to America to give exhibitions in his aeroplane. The report of that interview may now be supplemented by the following article from the pen of Mr. Farman, written for the New York American of Tuesday:

"Flying will be as common as automobiling within ten years. It will take another decade to perfect the flying machine for practical and safe use. It took several years to bring the bicycle, and the automobile to that state, and now the energies of the mechanic and the aeronaut are turned to the perfecting of the flying machine. Some people will always remain too timid to go up into the air, just as some are even now too timid to courage or the ability to ride a bicycle either. It will become quite a fad, I believe, for a man to take his wife and friends a hundred or two hundred miles in his flying machine to call on some friend in the country. The flight of the imagination that conceives such a plan will be bridged within ten years, I believe. The novelty of such trips will wear off just as does the novelty of an auto jaunt.

"Air sailing will remain in its experimental stages only a few years longer. The time for experimentation is passing rapidly. "Half the solution of the air-sailing problem rests on the perfection of the motor. My motor weighs over 200 pounds, one-fifth the entire weight of the machine with me in it. It is fifty-five horsepower, but only three-fifths of that can be used. Half of the available power is applied to the propeller, which leaves me only nineteen horsepower for driving purposes. That is the defect of the present motor, on the remedying of which progress in air navigation depends. When I can increase the horsepower without increasing the weight, the problem will be solved. For instance, my present one weighs 220 kilos, or over 1,100 pounds. The available horsepower of the motor is thirty-eight. When I can reduce the whole outfit to twenty kilos in weight to one horsepower in use, half the difficulty of flying will be overcome.

"The other half lies in the problem of aerial balance. The machine must balance itself automatically, like a bird, before absolute safety in flight can be guaranteed. The only way such mastery of winds and air can be obtained is by the successful imitation of the bird. A machine of the monoplane type—a winged flying machine—will be the practical airship of the future. I have been studying the monoplane machine, and will begin the construction of one as soon as I return to France. My aeroplane is too big and clumsy for practical use. I am also experimenting with a "flying fish" type of machine, with three planes, one partly over the other, like a staircase; but I pin my faith in the practicability of air-sailing on the monoplane machine. "I had a splendid opportunity to study the models for this type during my trip across the ocean on the Touraine. I watched the sea gulls from the deck all day long. They can remain absolutely motionless overhead as if pinned to the atmosphere. In five years that secret will be solved. I say five years, because aeronauts are all earnestly trying to solve the problem of balance now. Judging by past events it ought to be completely mastered in five years.

"My faith in the solution of both the motor and the balance problems is best illustrated by the promise I made my wife the other day. I told her she would enjoy the novel sensation some day of breakfasting with me in Paris, lunching in Marseilles and dining on the African coast all in the same day. "I have been trying a new kind of equilibration on the plan of the bird, but the experiment is incomplete. I do not know how successful it will be. I believe I have the right principle and will pursue the experiments when I return to France. I will give close attention to the balancing problem during any of the exhibitions here. The Brighton Beach experiment will not be as satisfactory as I would like to have it. The track is not long enough. It takes 100 yards to start and 100 yards to stop the machine, and the intervening space left is only about half a mile. That will suffice, however, for a reasonably straight flight, if the wind is not too strong or gusty.

"Balancing is not a practical thing. It will always remain an adventure to go up in a balloon. The only commercial value of a balloon will be as an engine of war from which to drop projectiles. The element of danger with the gasbag is too great. Another obstacle to its general use is its ponderous size when the bag is inflated. "The successful flying machine will never rival the railroad for commercial utility. It may succeed the automobile as an instrument of recreation and I dare say the usual quota of brave lives will be sacrificed to make it an available means of travel, but it can never supplant the railroad.

"I do not prophesy that flying machines will be used by every one in ten years, but I venture the prediction that excursion trips in them will be no novelty before another decade has passed.

On the subject of imperial unity the Montreal Star says: "This is no time for the joints of the British Empire to grow loose. Where divisions are visible, they must be cemented. Where gaps appear, they must be bridged. We must get near enough together to feel the shoulder touch and so be ready for immediate and united action at the restless command of necessity. In this regard, every one of us can do some building over against his own house. Let us see that our influence is always for harmony and good will. Canada even today is one of the mainstays of the Empire, and in the future must become one of its greatest hopes. It is our duty to see that the stay is kept steady and that the hope is not disappointed."

Determined to have the biggest attraction for the Chatham exhibition management sent for Governor Fraser of Nova Scotia. Now let the St. John management get a line on Mr. Taft. In Hot Springs, Virginia, the other day, Mr. Taft got wedged in a telephone booth, and the hotel carpenters had to saw him out. If Chatham gets Fraser, it's Taft for St. John.

The hot war has swept from Venezuela to Honduras, and that funny little country has handed back their papers to the foreign consular representatives. However, three robbers in a Boston street can do more damage in a day than the Honduran army could do in a week.

At least the city is to be provided with street corner signs, so that persons unfamiliar with a locality may learn their whereabouts. The estimated cost is so small that the citizens will wonder the work was not done years ago.

A STRANGE WILL

A law case with strangely dramatic adjuncts was lately before the superior court of St. Petersburg. The odd circumstances leading to the legal proceedings were as follows: One of the wealthiest landowners near Smolenak died not long ago, and after the funeral the heirs looked vainly for the will, but without success. A few days later a young man, seeing a graphophone on a table in the dead man's library, put into it a record which he supposed was that of a popular Russian song. To his amazement and terror, instead of a song, he heard the voice of the dead man recite the words of the missing will. The heirs were notified of the discovery, lawyers were summoned, and they lost no time in examining the record containing the will. It was found to be flawless, and the question then arose whether a song, he heard the voice of the dead man recite the words of the missing will. The heirs were notified of the discovery, lawyers were summoned, and they lost no time in examining the record containing the will. It was found to be flawless, and the question then arose whether a

PRAYER OF CYRUS BROWN

"The proper way for a man to pray," said Deacon Lemuel Keyes. "And the only proper attitude is down upon his knees." "No, I should say the way to pray," said Rev. Dr. Wise. "It stands straight with outstretched arms and rapt and upturned eyes." "Oh, no, no," said Elder Snow. "Such posture is too proud. A man should pray with eyes cast closed and head contritely bowed." "It seems to me his hands should be clasped in prayer," said Rev. Dr. Blunt. "Last year I fell in Hodgkin's well 'Head first,'" said Cyrus Brown. "With both my hands outstretched, My head a-plating down." "Ah! I made a prayer right then an' there— Best prayer ever I ever prayed. A-standing on my head."

THE INGLENOOK PHILOSOOPHER OF KENNEBACASSIS BAY

I think it was Lady Dufferin who in "The Irish Emigrant's Lament" said with honest directness, "The poor make no new friends." Substitute "old" for "poor" and the line will still be accepted as true by the majority of men and women past middle age. Some sixty years ago I taught a school of some forty pupils, and most of those children and their parents were my friends. Only the other day I received a letter from one of those old pupils of mine, in which she wrote that not one of the parents of those boys and girls of mine was alive, those boys and girls of mine were now the only survivors, so far as she could ascertain, of all the children that came to me for instruction. Here were more than half a hundred friends that have never been replaced, and half a hundred old friends are a goodly number. Politicians talk of their "friends and supporters," but there is no friendship in trade—and therefore there can be none in politics. The old, if they are well-to-do, are never in want of so-called "friends" any more than the politician who has the farming out. But such friendship is as insulating as it is grotesque; it shows what a low estimate is placed on the discretion of the person to whom it is offered.

I was visited the other day by a lady that I regard as one of my early friends, though she is many years my junior. Her other lady, eight years old, accompanied her. She and I have been particular little assistants, to climb on my knee when I met her at her mother's. Then, there were two gentlemen in the party, brought with them the squirrel chattering and the wood-pecker drumming all about us. My older lady friend and I discussed the various incidents in our lives during the last few years. My younger lady friend clambered on my knee, and pressing her arms against my knee, smiled up at me like the young gentlemen amused themselves with various athletic exercises. I spoke somewhat mournfully to my elder lady friend of the swift flight of the years.

"Let them go," she answered brightly; "they are piloting us home to the faithful friends of our childhood and youth; they will not delay their welcome on our arrival. I rather envy the old," she continued with animation, "they are like the ships that come into the harbor after a long and tempestuous voyage: "The sailor is home from the sea, And the huntsman is home from the hill." "The years should not bring despondency, for aside from the hope of another life, they afford us but little heart-ache and heart-break."

After my friends had set out on their return to the city I mused long on the problem of their future. But at last I said to myself, "This young lady who speaks so kindly of the years will never be cast down by their spite; she looks forward to something over which they have no power; their haste is something she will welcome rather than regret. And my little Fred! If she should come to my years how many times will she shake and sob as her castles fall down—as her dreams are dispelled! May she realize though sorely afflicted that blessed are the pure in heart, and be comforted as one wanders through the wilderness of the world!" "These young gentlemen! Well, 'men must work and women must weep,'" I concluded, and straightway fell asleep. Whitehead, Kings Co., July 24.

FRANK WHITE GOT A DUCKING IN LILY LAKE

His Canoe Capsized Yesterday Afternoon and he Was Thrown Out--In Water Ten Minutes Before Rescued.

By the capsizing of a canoe in which he was paddling, Frank White, president of the White Catering Company, was thrown into the water in Lily Lake, Rockwood Park yesterday afternoon and was obliged to cling to the upturned canoe about ten minutes before he was rescued. The accident caused a lot of excitement among the large number in the park and about the lake.

The Catholic orphans were having an outing yesterday afternoon, and Mr. White started across the lake from the boat house to the shore the chutes to arrange for the children to have a ride. He took a canoe for the purpose. The wind was blowing hard at the time, and while in about the middle of the lake, the canoe overturned and Mr. White was seen struggling in the water.

As soon as it was seen from the shore what had occurred there was much excitement, and all kinds of advice was shouted to Mr. White as he clung to the upturned canoe.

He, however, was in the water about ten minutes before a boat reached him. Mr. White's splendid physique stood him in good stead, and he was consequently not exhausted when picked up.

The accident was probably the result of not having any ballast in the bow of the canoe, which, being high out of water, caused the wind and made the craft unmanageable.

BOY STOLE A WATCH.

A case of theft of a silver watch valued at twenty dollars from a city employe was disposed of in the police court this morning.

While John Rutledge who is employed in repairing the streets was working on Adelaide Road yesterday he hung his vest in a pocket of which the timepiece was kept, on a nearby fence and moved some distance from the vest to continue his labor. At five o'clock when he returned to the spot he discovered that the watch was missing. He informed Officer Finley of his predicament, who soon located the stolen property on the person of Harold Lyons, a nine year old youngster residing with his parents on Adelaide Road. The boy appeared this morning accompanied by his mother.

He admitted purloining the watch and said he did not intend to offend again. As Mr. Rutledge did not desire to prosecute and in consideration of his youth the lad was allowed his liberty on suspended sentence.

PERFECTLY TRUTHFUL.

Said He—If I were to ask you your age would you give me a truthful answer?
Said She—Indeed I would.
Said He—Well, how old are you?
Said She—None of your business.
